Digitized by Google

BIBLIOTHECA

REGIA MONACHENSIS.

Digitized by Google

Digitized by Google

AN ATTEMPT

TOWARDS

Recovering an ACCOUNT of the

NUMBERS and SUFFERINGS

OF THE

CLERGY

OF THE

CHURCH of ENGLAND,

Heads of Colleges, Fellows, Scholars, &c. who were Sequester'd, Harrass'd, &c. in the late Times

OF THE

Grand Rebellion:

Occasion'd by the Ninth Chapter (now the Second Volume) of Dr. Calamy's Abridgment of the LIFE of Mr. Baxter. Together with an Examination of That Chapter.

By JOHN WALKER, M. A. Rector of St. Mary's the More in Exeter, and some time Fellow of Exeter-College in Oxford.

Thou Hypocrite, first cast out the Beam out of thine own Eye, and then shalt thou see clearly to cast out the Mote out of thy Brother's Eye. Matt. vii. 5.

' Let Mr. Baxter sum up into one Catalogue all the Nonconformists throughout the Kingdom of Eng' land, ever since the Beginning of the Reformation, who have been Cast aside, or Driven away ---- I ' dare abate him all the rest of the Kingdom, and only exhibit the Martyrologies of London and the ' Two Universities; or a List of those, who in these Late Intestine Wars have been Haled away to ' Prisons, or Chased away into Banishment by his own Party, in these Three Places alone, or left to
' the Mercilesse World to Beg their Bread, for no other Crime than Loyalty, and because they stood
' affected to the Ancient Rites and Ceremonies of the Church of England, and they shall Double ' them for Number; and for Learning, Piety, Industry, and the Love of Peace, Exceed them in-
' comparably, so as his PARTY, which he glorieth so much in, will scarcely deserve to be named
' in the same Day. And if he compare their Persecutions, the Sufferings of his supposed Confessors
' will appear to be but Flea-bitings, in comparison of theirs. But after all this, the Greatest Dis-
' parity remaineth yet untouch'd; that is, in the CAUSE of their Sufferings, the One suffer'd for
' FAITH, and the Other for FACTION. Bp. Bramhall against Baxt. Grot. Relig. 8vo. p. 166, 167.

LONDON,

Printed by W. S. for J. Nicholson, R. Knaplock, R. Wilkin, B. Tooke, D. Midwinter, and B. Cowse. M DCC XIV.

Digitized by Google

Digitized by Google

To the Moſt Reverend the

ARCH-BISHOPS;

To the Right Reverend the BISHOPS;

And to the Reverend the

CLERGY,

OF THE

Provinces of Canterbury and York, now Aſſembled in CONVOCATION;

THIS

ATTEMPT.

To Recover the Numbers and Sufferings of the LOYAL CLERGY,

Is moſt Humbly DEDICATED by,

MY LORDS,

Your Lordſhips moſt Dutiful and Obedient Son,

And, Gentlemen,

Your moſt Affectionate Brother and Humble Servant,

JOHN WALKER.

Digitized by Google

Digitized by Google

THE PREFACE.

THE Following Sheets being encreas'd so much beyond what I both wish'd and hop'd; I should gladly be excus'd my self, and be more glad to excuse the Reader as well the Charge, as the Trouble of a PREFACE: But the Nature of this Undertaking is such, that those who do the least affect Prefaces, must acknowledge the Necessity of one in the present Case.

The Occasion and Reasons of the Ensuing Attempt; the Means I us'd to get Informations; the Materials wherewith I was furnish'd, and the Persons by whose kind Assistance I obtained them; as likwise, the Method and Conduct of the Work; the many Imperfections under which it Laboureth; and what is Worse, the many Mistakes, which, 'tis not Improbable, may have been committed in it; the Answers I expect, together with the Replies I am determin'd to make to them; the Reasons why the Performance hath been so long depending on one hand, and on the other, (whatever Inconsistency there may seem to be betwixt these two things) the Reasons why it is, after all, Publish'd so soon; and in the last place, the Account of what is yet further necessary to compleat it; and when an Appendix, and the remaining Parts, may, by God's Providence, follow, and see the Light: All these, I say, being such Particulars, as, it is probable, the Reader expects to be inform'd of, will therefore, I presume, not only excuse some Preface, but Apologize for a very Long One.

As to the First of these, I need only repeat what I have already said in the Introduction to the Work it self, that it was wholly occasioned by the Ninth Chapter of Dr. Calamy's ABRIDGMENT of Mr. Baxter's LIFE; before the Sight of which, I never had the least Thoughts, much less, any Design of setting about an ATTEMPT of this nature. On the contrary, I was not provided with any one of the few Printed Pieces (much less, with any Manuscripts or Collections) on the Subject. And, I believe, few of the Clergy were so little acquainted, even with the common Histories of those Times, as my self. The First Edit.

And as the Abridgment Occasion'd, so will it Afford the main and principal Reasons for the Undertaking. In producing of which, the many Clamours and Outcries of the Party against the Work, the Threats they have given out in Print, and the Answers they have either Publish'd, or (as they say) Provided, oblige me to deal First with themselves; and to satisfie them, if possible, that the Undertaking is neither Monstrous nor Unprecedented; and that it is supported with such Reasons as they have long since Approv'd and Commended. And all this will, I promise my self, appear undeniable, when I have only mention'd again the Ninth Chapter (now the Second Vol. me) of the Abridgment, and on the Foot of that Memorandum, put them one or two Questions, namely, Why should not the Church be as much at liberty to preserve the History of Her Sufferings, as the Separation, to set forth an Account of Theirs? And how Dr. Calamy can be Acquitted for Publishing the History of the Bartholomew Sufferers, if I am Condemn'd for Writing that of the Sequester'd Loyalists? I must profess for my own part, I never yet saw, or heard of one Motive for Dr. Calamy's Performance, which did not by a just Parity of Reason hold as good for Mine. I take it for granted, Dr. Calamy himself knew as many Reasons for his Work, as any body else; and that he was not wanting to produce the Best of them: And since it may reasonably be presum'd, the Party will not Refuse to be concluded by Him, there can be no Fairer Method of determining this Matter, than by shewing that every one of the Reasons alledged by him, are directly Applicable to my Purpose. See the Preface to the Abridgment, Vol. II. (Ed. 2.) p. 13.

But before I proceed to this, I must premise a few things: As

First, That I have now under Consideration such Parts of the Work only as will be Publish'd at this time.

Secondly, (to remove the Wrong Notions, that, it is probable, the guilty Consciences of some People may have inclin'd them to entertain of the ATTEMPT) let it be known, that the Design of it, is not to Rake together all the Scandal that can be charg'd upon the Faction (the moving so much Nastiness, like cleansing Augeas's Stables, would be a Task for Hercules;) but barely to set forth an Account of the Numbers and

Digitized by Google

Sufferings of the Loyal Clergy under the Tyranny of the Rebellion. And if some Peoples Shame is inseparably joyn'd with these Facts, the Exposing it ought not to be look'd on as the direct Intent, much less the Fault of him that relates them: Tho' it may very well be deem'd his Misfortune, that he is forc'd to beat his Way through so much Dirt and Filthiness. It must be noted Thirdly, That the Merits of the Cause betwixt the Church and the Separation, are not to come into the present Question: But I am to suppose Dr. Calamy fully convinc'd of the Soundness and Goodness of the Dissenting Cause, and to claim the like Supposition from himself and his Friends in my Favour, with regard to that of the Establish'd Church: And with these Mutual Allowances, we are to enquire, whether the Reasons that Dr. Calamy hath assign'd for his Undertaking, pursuant to his Perswasion, may not as well be Alledg'd by me for what I have Undertaken in pursuit of Mine; and whether the self-same Reasons (with the necessary Variation of Circumstances only) that justifie a Dissenter in Writing the ABRIDGMENT, will not in like manner justifie a Churchman in Drawing up the ATTEMPT.

Fourthly, let it be observ'd, that I here take it for granted, the Numbers, Characters and Sufferings of the Sequester'd Clergy, were Equal to those of the Ejected Nonconformists. Nor will I hold my self oblig'd to them for allowing me thus much, or a great deal more (for it will not be long before I shall rise in my Demands) since the thing will so plainly shew it self in the ensuing History.

Fifthly, I must observe, that it matters not at present, whether Dr. Calamy's Reasons are Good or Bad; only if any of them prove Good, it is the better for Me, as well as Himself; because then, whilst I have a Title to every one of them, I am sure to have some Good ones; or should they all be otherwise, I am still on the Level with him; which is all I desire at present. And because I very much doubt, whether the greater part of these Reasons will not by all considering Persons be look'd on as very slender ones, I must beg leave to premise

Sixthly, That I do not, by running the Parallel, adopt all these Reasons for my own; but intend only to shew, that was I minded to lay claim to them, I have an indisputable Title, and that no one who approves of Dr. Calamy's Undertaking, and the Reasons he hath assign'd for it, can object to mine; although it will be necessary to observe in the Last place, that as Valid as these Reasons are look'd on by some other People, I am well perswaded, most of them would have been rejected, had I opposed the Weight of them, as Dr. Calamy doth, to the Objection of its being 'Unseasonable to Revive the Memory of these Good Men:' For who among that Party, would have thought me sufficiently justify'd in Reviving the Memory of the Sequester'd Clergy, (which on the other hand, they are pleased to term Rubbing up Old Sores, and Raising Animosities) to gratifie the 'Curiosity of the Age we live in,' and to 'Vindicate' the Reputation of those who have affirmed; the Numbers that Suffered, were very Great; whilst others have 'strangely' Lessen'd them; and yet these are some of Dr. Calamy's Reasons, as will now appear.

See the Preface to the Abridgm. (First Edit.) p. 2. Preface to V. Ed. (Edit. 2.) p. 14.

For if I judge aright of the Preface, he assigns the following ones as the Chief, if not the Only Motives for his Undertaking; namely, in the first place (as I just now said) the 'Curiosity' of the Age we live in, than which, nothing can be more direct to the Purpose of the ATTEMPT: For I am perswaded, no part of the History of the Rebellion can be assigned, that hath been so long and so earnestly desir'd, as an Account of the Sufferings of the LOYAL CLERGY. The Author of Persecutio Undecima assured us many years since, that a Work of this nature was 'much desir'd.' And I am sure, I am for my own part, at least, more sensible of it than I care to be: For next the Trouble of the Undertaking it self, that of Satisfying People why it was so long in hand, and when it would be Publish'd, was one of the Greatest that I had to struggle with.

P. 3.

But Dr. Calamy speaks of the Curiosity of those of 'a different Stamp' from the Persons whose History their Curiosity prompts them to see: And therefore unless the Dissenters themselves are so inquisitive after my HISTORY, the Parallel is not like to hold. In return to which, I shall not stay to enquire who, or how many those Persons were, that so much desir'd to see the List of the Nonconformists, or for what Reasons their Curiosity led them to desire it: Nor shall I observe, that about the time when the Abridgment first saw the Light, there were a great many Curious Persons in the Communion of the Church (not to say at her Altars) who were very Prodigal of her own Interest, and Tender only of that of Her Enemies; and they were then increasing so Fast, that had the Times continu'd, they would have been no longer a Ra-

Digitized by Google

Rarity; but shall desire it may be Remark'd, that admitting some Real Friends to the Establishment, did desire such a Performance as that of Dr. Calamy, in the Ninth Chapter of the Abridgment; and that none of our Adversaries ever wish'd for such an one as I have here undertaken; it is to be consider'd, That the Dissenters ought, at least, to desire a Sight of the CLERGY's Sufferings, since, according to Dr. Calamy himself, if they are 'Men of Sense and Thought', they will be 'inquisitive into the Notions, Conduct and Fate of' the Sequester'd Clergy (altho' they were of a different Stamp from them) as well as into the Fate and Conduct of the Ejected Nonconformists, who 'stand upon the Square with them:' Or, if they 'are Strangers to such 'a sort of Curiosity, 'tis not in my power to help it.' But to dispatch this matter in a Word. The Friends to the Establishment might well enough desire to see an History of the Bartholomew-Sufferers; because when once made publick, and (with due Correction) set in a due Light, it would have less Weight than those Tragical Exclamations had, which pass'd from one to another in the way of Oral Tradition. Besides that, the Church had no reason to be asham'd of such an History, when it should appear; whilst, on the other hand, the Alarm the Party are in at the Thoughts of having the Church's Sufferings made publick, is a loud Declaration of their Guilty Consciences, that the Clergy's Miseries were never to be told, (hardly to be Recorded in many Volumes,) and that as soon as such an History appear'd, they must either throw off all Shame, or hold down their Heads for ever after.

See the Preface, ibid.

Another Reason alledg'd by Dr. Calamy, for his Undertaking, is that of Vindicating Those (and particularly, those Dissenting Ministers) who have asserted, 'That 'the Number of the * Ejected amounted to Two Thousand;' and who are therefore liable to be charged with 'Falsifying in their own Favour;' since 'Dr. Parker and 'some others have taken a Liberty strangely to diminish their Number:' And the Title of the List printed in 1663, gave but even too much Countenance to that Diminution. And this Reason also nearly concerns the ATTEMPT: For the Reputation of the Episcopal Divines and others, is as much in danger, on account of what they have affirm'd concerning the Numbers of the Sequester'd Clergy, as that of the Dissenting Ministers could be, with regard to those Ejected in 1662: Since several of them (as I shall shew in the Close of the First Part) have declar'd, that there were no less than Seven or Eight Thousand of the Episcopal Clergy (including, as likewise Dr. Calamy doth, the Fellows of Houses, &c.) Turn'd out of their Livelihoods. And Dr. Bramhall in particular, asserts, That the Persons either Imprison'd, or Banish'd, or Sent a-starving from the Two Universities, or the City of London (abating all the rest of the Kingdom) were double the Number of all the Nonconformists who had been † Cast aside, or Driven away, ever since the Reformation.

Preface to the First Edit. p. 2. Pref. to Vol. II. Edit. 2 p. 4.

* In the former Paragraph, Silenc'd.

Against Revis. Grot. Reing. p. 166, &c.

† Which understood of those Nonconformists who had ever such Regular Titles and Admissions to their Livings, &c. as the Ejected Loyalists had, is much more than a Truth: But taking in those who succeeded by Sequestration and Usurpation (many of which were by an Act, pursuant to the Necessity of an Unsettled, and as yet Infirm Government, restored to those Places, until the Opportunity for a Better Law presented it self.) And adding to these again Curates, Persons not fixed and settled on any Parishes, and such others as can only be said to have been Silenced (for all which, I am to reckon with Dr. Calamy, God willing, in another Place!) After this manner of Reckonings I say, the Computation must be most plainly Wrong.

And on the other Hand, Dr. Calamy himself stands instead of Dr. Parker and all others, having 'Strangely diminished their Number,' and * affirm'd, (now a Second Time) that the Church had 'out-done' the Dissenters in this Point; and that the Number of the 'Ejected' Nonconformists was 'very far superior' to those of the Sequester'd Loyalists: I must therefore beg leave to use his own † Words, as well as his Reasoning on this Occasion; Is not this, 'in effect, charging those who have reported them to 'have been [Seven or Eight] Thousand, with falsifying in their own Favour; which can-'not but blacken their Memory hereafter if they should not be cleared by a just Repre-'sentation? —— What must the next Age think of the [Episcopal] Ministers to find 'them asserting with so much Assurance, that the Number of the [Sequester'd] amount-'ed to [Seven or Eight] Thousand, when an exact Historian will not allow them to be two Thousand? 'I could not but think the future Reputation of many concern'd in 'the clearing of this Matter, by publishing a List that might better deserve the Name Exact,' than an Historian, who will not allow of 'a Quarter Part of them.'

Abridgment, Edit. 1. p. 488. and Edit. 2. V. 1. p. 19.

† Pref. to the Abridgm. Edit. 1. p. 2. Pref. to Vol. II. Edit. 2. p. 4.

But Dr. Calamy in the Preface to his Second Edition, suggests another Reason for his Undertaking; which is indeed much preferable to any of those yet mentioned; was it but as applicable to his Purpose; namely, God's plainly owning, and 'appearing for the Persecuted Nonconformists: And that Providence yielding a plain Confirmation to' the Reality of Religion, must therefore well deserve 'to be considered with Observation;' and (by an easie consequence) must as well deserve to become the Subject of an History. Now it might reasonably be observed on this Occasion, that it is well known, others have been of a different Opinion, and thought that the finished Hypocrisie of the Age, wherein Dr. Calamy's Sufferers were the most distinguished Persons, made way for that Deluge of Atheism, which we now sadly lament in the succeeding One. And the Lord Clarendon, in Particular, hath declared, that the Transactions of one of the most

Vol. II. p. 4.

Hist Vol III. p. 221.

Digitized by Google

most busie Years of that Age, ought to be erazed out of all Records, left by the Succeſs of it, 'Atheiſm, &c. ſhould be Propagated in the World.' It might be reaſonably ſuggeſted alſo to Dr. Calamy, that this ſame Argument of Providence and Succeſs was made uſe of betwixt 40 and 60, by the very Men which are the Subject of this Hiſtory, to ſome Purpoſes, that it is to be hop'd, He himſelf at this time of Day, would hardly allow of; and yet that it is much to be doubted, whether the Reaſoning will hold any better in the Caſe, for which He hath now produced it; ſince perhaps, the Diſſenters having 'ſome Footing, and ſome Credit ſtill left,' may better be Accounted for by the Parable of the * Tares, and the Support they have mutually received from, and then yielded back again to Factious and Diſcontented Politicians, than by any ſpecial and diſtinguiſhed Favour of Heaven? And laſtly, that if the Argument holds good for thoſe of the Preſbyterian Perſuaſion, it will hold as good for the Anabaptiſts, Quakers, and ſuch a Rout of other Opinions, as I believe, Dr. Calamy would not willingly have Recourſe to 'ſomething more than Humane' in order to ſupport: Un-der by '† ſome-'thing more than Humane,' be underſtood, the Aſſiſtance of him, who is well known to Sow the Tares juſt now mentioned.

See Pref. to V. II. Edit. 2. p. 3.

* Matth. 13. 30. Let both grow together until the Harveſt, &c. To which may be added, that of St. Paul, 1 Cor. 11. 19. There muſt be alſo Hereſies among you, &c.

† Pref. ibid.

But to ſpeak more directly to this Reaſon, I muſt obſerve of it, as of the Reſt, that it is every whit as applicable to my purpoſe, as to Dr. Calamy's; and this a very few Words will ſerve to Evince, ſince the Diſplay of God's Providence was in nothing more viſible, than in the Reſtitution of the Church, after thoſe Ruines and Deſolations which are the Subject of my Papers. The Church of England, was at that time ſo clean ſwept with the Beſom of Deſtruction, that there was ſcarce any thing left to ſhew that the Goſpel it ſelf had been once planted in our Iſland. The numberleſs Errors and Hereſies which ſwarmed in the Nation, and were a plain Corruption of the Faith once delivered to the Saints, did indeed hold forth ſuch Tokens of Chriſtianity, as Heaps and Ruines do of a Magnificent Building. And it is true, that the Fabrick of the Churches were yet left ſtanding (I mean moſt of them, for ſome of theſe were attempted alſo, and it was a peculiar Act of Providence that preſerved many of the reſt from being Remember'd, only by thoſe Heaps and Ruines juſt now mentioned.) Theſe Tokens of Chriſtianity were, I ſay, as yet left: But the Apoſtol cal Government of the Church, its primitive Liturgy, one of the Sacraments in moſt of the Churches, the other in very many, the Epiſcopal Miniſters in almoſt all, and the Miniſtry it ſelf in not a few, were utterly Aboliſhed, and put down.

And yet God Almighty was pleas'd of his Infinite and Unſpeakable Mercy, to make theſe Dry Bones Live; to reſtore the Church again (with the Regal Family and Government) and lift her up out of theſe and all her other Miſeries: And ſurely it is needleſs to add, that this was ſuch a Bright and Illuſtrious Diſplay of Providence, as had never been Equall'd, much leſs Exceeded, by any other Act of God's Favour to theſe Kingdoms. The Reſtoration (which when we name, the Church hath always the firſt Place in our Thoughts) ſeems by General Conſent, to be look't on as the moſt diſtinguiſh'd Work of God's Hand: We deſervedly celebrate it in a Yearly Solemnity, and are allowed on the 29*th* of May to ſay, that our Deliverance was Miraculous (or in Dr. Calamy's Words, 'ſomething more than Humane') without being charged with Blaſphemy, as we are for what is ſometimes delivered on the preceding Solemnity in January. I might fill Volumes with the Celebrations of this Act of God's Providence; and among them, I believe, with a little Enquiry, might be able to produce ſome Teſtimonies of this Kind, from thoſe very Perſons whom the Abridgment it ſelf hath recommended to the World: For we are often told, they had no ſmall Hand in the Reſtoration; and if ſo, it is to be preſumed, that tho' they were not wanting to make free enough with God Almighty on other Occaſions, yet they did not fail to let him have ſome ſhare of this Honour. It is certain at leaſt, that in many Caſes wherein they were concerned, they were forward enough to Father ſuch things upon him, as it is ſhrewdly to be ſuſpected, had very frequently a much worſe Original.

If then the noting of God's Providences, and thence Collecting a Reality in Religion, ſhall be thought a ſufficient Reaſon for Dr. Calamy's Undertaking, it is much rather ſo for mine; ſince ſuch a Providence is much better aſſured in the Reſtoration of an excellent Church, than by the Continuance of thoſe Hereſies and Schiſms which are the Ruine and Deſtruction of it.

Pref. to Vol. II. Edit. 2. p. 4.

To this Reaſon Dr. Calamy immediately ſubjoyns another in theſe Words, 'To let 'the Memory of theſe Men die, is injurious to Poſterity, by depriving them of what 'might contribute to promote their Steadineſs to their Principles under Hardſhips and 'Severities.' The Diſtinction betwixt a Good Reaſon and a True One, hath been long ſince obſerved. Whether this Reaſon be of the former Sort, is not the Matter in Queſtion, as I have before premiſed: But I am fully ſatisfied, it is of the other Sort. The

See Ibid. p. 32.

Principles here mentioned, are the Principles of Nonconformity. Theſe therefore Dr. Calamy profeſſes his Intentions of Maintaining and Promoting, by this part of his Undertaking in the Abridgment. Now by the Agreement before made, we are neither of us at preſent to diſpute the Soundneſs of the other's Principles; but on ſuppoſition of being reſpectively convinc'd of them on each ſide, are both of us mutually left at our

Liberty

Digitized by Google

Liberty to promote them on this Foot. Then let us proceed to see whether Dr. Calamy's own Words on this Occasion likewise, will not suit me as well as himself; and whether I have not the same Reason to say, that 'to let the Memory of these [Royal-lists] die, is Injurious to Posterity, by depriving them of what might contribute to 'promote their Steadiness to their Principles:' And this Reason I mention, not only to shew that it holds as good for me as for Dr. Calamy, but beg the Reader to look on it as one that I make my own (which is more than I should care to do with any of the Rest) and which I should have assign'd, altho' I had not been led to it by the Parallel I am now drawing: For I readily acknowledge, that the setting before the Clergy of these Nations the glorious Examples of so many Thousands of their Predecessors, who quitted all they had in the World, endured a great Fight of Afflictions, took joyfully the Spoyling of their Goods, had tryal of cruel Mockings, yea, moreover, of Bonds and Imprisonments, and wander'd about, being destitute, to preserve inviolable their Fidelity to the King, and the Church; I say, that the doing this was one principal Motive to the Undertaking.

The whole that Dr. Calamy further offers for the Purpose I am speaking of, is laid together in one Paragraph towards the latter End of the Preface. I shall not offer at separating the Particulars there mention'd, or speaking to each of them severally and apart; only before I come directly to produce the Paragraph it self, I must first observe, that as there are divers Reasons couched in that Period; so we have among them, beyond Question, another True one, namely, that of shewing the Church her ugly Face in a Glass (a magnifying one) that she may be ashamed of it, and no doubt with some Prospect that others might despise it likewise, when it should be thus exposed to publick View. It must be also observed in the next place, that this Reason compared with that last mentioned, doth in effect, plainly amount to thus much; namely, that Dr. Calamy's Design in the Ninth Chapter of the Abridgment, was, (by recommending those Nonconformists to the World, and raising an Odium on the Church, for Persecuting them) as much as in him lay, to perpetuate the Separation, which I am not displeased to find; because in the Introduction to this Work, I had guess'd at those very Reasons long before I saw the Preface to his Second Edition. And indeed I believe, long before that Preface it self was written. It must be yet further noted, that the bare supposition of this very Reason (tho it passes for so good an one in favour of the opposite Performance) is by those Persons themselves that think it so, made the Ground of the principal Objections and Cavils against my Undertaking, and represented as no other than Rubbing up old Sores, raising Fewds and Animosities, and making Peoples Minds Ill Affected towards the Brethren. But since Dr. Calamy hath so openly avowed this for a Reason, I may in the first Place, reasonably Hope, it will be no longer turn'd into an Objection against me; and know not why, in the next Place, I should now scruple to say this much at least, that if the exposing the Deformity of the Dissenters, and their being ashamed of themselves, or others being ashamed of them, shall prove to be some of the Effects of the ensuing History, I do not see why I should be Sorry for it.

To Vol. II. Edit. 2. p. 26, 27.

I cannot forbear to remark likewise on this Occasion, that was I minded to pass over with great Scorn and Contempt, the Objections made by the Party to my Undertaking, and to tell them, that if they Kick when they are Touch'd, it is but a Token of their old Rottenness, and that there is Rancour still at the Bottom; I have both Authority and Example for it in this Period.

But to come to the Paragraph it self. I will make no doubt to Affirm the principal and distinguished Expressions of it are so Peculiar, and adapted to my Purpose, that they will not serve any other, no, not Dr. Calamy's own, without plain Wresting and Distortion.

In order to evince this, let the Reader suppose me objected to by some of Dr. Calamy's Friends, and thus answering in the Doctor's own Words: 'Should any ask, to what 'purpose is so particular an Account of these Persons and their Sufferings Published 'Now? I should beg leave to ask them another Question, IS THERE NOT A 'CAUSE? For are not their Sufferings (THO' NOT TO BE †EQUALL'D 'IN ANY PROTESTANT COUNTRY) frequently Lessen'd? Omitting 'many others, doth not a late Celebrated ‡ Author positively Assert, that' [the Church hath 'out-done' the Dissenters in her Severities and Persecutions?] 'Now let it be 'JUDGED FROM THE ACCOUNT HERE GIVEN, whether their Sufferings 'were so LIGHT and TRIVIAL as this Gentleman and ‖ Others, represent 'them. And doth not the SAME SPIRIT as Raged against them, YET CON-'TINUE AMONG US? May it not reasonably be supposed, that they, who after 'such Hardships endured, represent them as Suffering LITTLE or NOTHING, 'would TREAT them and their SUCCESSORS in the SAME MANNER 'as FORMERLY, WHEN an OPPORTUNITY OFFER'D? This is 'so agreeable to the common Workings of Human Nature, THAT IT IS HARD

Preface to V. II. Edit. 2. p. 26, 27.

† Not at present to mention the much Greater Cruelty of Dr. Calamy's Writing this very History of their own Sufferings, &c.

‡ Which is strictly true, as applyd to the Sufferings of the Separation's Clergy, &c., but utterly false, with regard to those of the Nonconformists; as will unanswerably appear in the following History.

‖ Dr. Calamy himself in this very Abridgment, Edit 1. p. 488. Edit 2. Vol. I. p. 186. The Author, Dr. Calamy alledges, in this Preface which I am now Translating, as the Writer of Tares on Bregantz's: And the Citation he alledges, is, "Never in any Place of "the World was so bitter Complaints for as under Oppression, as the Dissenters have utter'd, &c.

Paragraph of the Nonconformists, as will unanswerably appear in the † Some that have sift'd, they will give us Ten Tun of Blood (if I mistake not the Number) and compare with us afterwards, &c.

Digitized by Google

'TRUSTING SUCH A TEMPER. 'Tis but FIT that the MEMORY OF THESE 'SUFFERINGS should be *REVIVED, that they may NOT BE REPEATED. 'The [† Church is] very ‖ FREE TO FORGIVE ALL THAT IS PAST; but 'would be GLAD TO SEE MORE GROUND OF HOPE, That SOME MEN 'would NOT GREEDILY EMBRACE THE FIRST OPPORTUNITY of *ACTING FORMER EXCESSES OVER AGAIN. If any are HEREBY EXASPERATED, tho' they SHEW that † THEY DO NOT MUCH LIKE THEIR 'OWN FACE, WHEN ANOTHER SHEWS THEM ITS DEFORMITY; yet they 'GIVE TOO MUCH GROUND TO SUSPECT, they have a REMAINING 'FONDNESS FOR THAT THAT IS THE CAUSE OF THEIR DEFORMITY; 'and would not UNWILLINGLY HAVE IT CONTINUED. But I should 'think, that they that are ‡ REALLY against all RIGOUR AND SEVERITY IN 'MATTERS OF RELIGION, should be FREE TO HAVE ANY INSTANCES 'OF IT EXPOSED in all Parties for the greater Future Caution. *'THEY 'THAT WOULD HAVE PAST FAULTS ON THEIR SIDE FORGOTTEN, AND 'CANNOT FORBEAR BEING ANGRY WHEN THEY ARE TOLD OF THEM, 'ARE LIKELY TO CONTINUE IN THEM: While they that are as † Free their own Faults should be told, as they are to tell others their former Failures, on purpose 'that the Abhorrence of the Fault it self may on all sides be the more heighten'd, are 'the moſt likely to ‡ mend, and be the beſt Proof againſt any future Temptations.'

* I would beg thoſe who object to the preſent Undertaking, to note particularly this Sentence.

† Diſſenters are in the Preface.

‖ Which is demonſtrable, foraſmuch as the never till now, wrote the Hiſtory of her Sufferings.

* The Caſe of Dr. S——ll being a Preſager, not altogether unlike to that which preceded the Tragedy acted on the Clergy from 40, to 60.

† A Second Sentence which I would recommend to the particular Conſideration of ſuch as object to this Work.

‡ Which none pretend to more than the Party that rail ſo much at this Hiſtory.

* A Third part of this conſiderable Paragraph, which I would willingly point out to them, eſpecially ſince they have ſo much Reaſon at this Undertaking, have employ'd their timely Services to vilifie it; and reprinted ſuch Parts of the Inſolents Treatiſe, as might not carry their own Confutation with them, in oppoſition to it: A Treatment that I never heard Dr. Calamy's Book had before it was publiſh'd, and I hope could ſee what it was.

† Which the Church is, provided only, the Relator confines himſelf only to Truth. But it is plain, Some what is juſt now ſaid, the Diſſenters are not.

‡ And therefore Dr. Calamy's Party are not likely to mend at all, being far from Free, as is juſt now ſaid, that theſe Faults be told at all.

After this Memorable Paragraph, it may ſeem needleſs to add any thing more; but as I did not alarm them with the utmoſt of my Demands at firſt; ſo I perſuade my ſelf, what I have already ſaid, hath ſufficiently prepared the way for what muſt now be further offer'd, to ſilence utterly the Outcries of the Party againſt this Work; namely, that every one of the foremention'd Reaſons conclude much ſtronger for my Performance, than for Dr. Calamy's. Let it ſuffice to ſay in general, of the Three Firſt, That the Impatience wherewith this Hiſtory hath been expected, and the continual Enquiry after it, do evidence a much greater Curioſity than any Dr. Calamy could alledge for his Work: That * thoſe who have Reported the Sequeſter'd Clergy to be ſo very many, are Perſons of much greater Characters (and therefore much more deſerving of a Vindication) than any Nonconforming Miniſters that can be nam'd: And that even † Dr. Calamy himſelf hath leſſen'd their Numbers much more than Dr. Parker, or any other body ever did thoſe of the Bartholomew Sufferers: And in the laſt place, That the Hand of God was ſo plainly viſible in the Reſtoration, that no other Act of his Providence to theſe Nations ever ſtood in competition with it.

* A Bp. Bramhall, Bp. Patrick, (ſtiled as he was the Author of the Eccleſiaſtes Eccleſiæ Dr. Goodden, Sir Henry Tellerton, the Excellent Mr. Jer. Stephens, in his Mis. &c.

† In the Advertiſement, as before cited: Where he affirms, the Church Ejected a Number, 'very far ſuperior, &c.' Now this very far ſuperior cannot be underſtood of leſs than ſeveral (ſay Five or Six) Hundreds, in proportion to the Two Thouſand, which is his Number of Suffering Nonconformiſts: And I have ſhewn in the Caſe of the Firſt Part, that the Sequeſter'd Clergy, &c. were above 1000, not inconſiderably more. And taking ſuch as Dr. Calamy hath, into the Liſt, in all Likelihood, not leſs than 1000. So that by the loweſt Computation, Dr. Calamy hath leſſen'd them about 6000 (and by the other Computation, almoſt 9000) which is three times as many as the whole Number of the Suffering Nonconformiſts amounts to by his own Account. And when that Account ſhall be hereafter more nearly examin'd, will appear to be almoſt as many Thouſands as there were Hundreds of the Nonconformiſts Ejected.

But it is requiſite to be more particular in ſhewing this of the Two remaining Reaſons; becauſe the Former of them was (as I have ſaid) one of the principal Motives that inclin'd me (as well as Dr. Calamy) to the Undertaking. And the other ſtands ſo much diſtinguiſh'd among thoſe of the Paragraph juſt now produc'd.

For this purpoſe then, let it be obſerv'd, that I have greater Cauſe to Revive the Memory of the Sequeſter'd Clergy, and to promote Steadineſs to their Principles, than any Dr. Calamy can plead for himſelf. Inaſmuch as the Numbers, the Sufferings, and the Excellent Characters of thoſe Loyaliſts do far exceed thoſe of the Ejected Nonconformiſts: And the Neceſſity of recommending Steadineſs to their Principles, or, if occaſion ſhould require, Suffering for them, hath at leaſt, of late been ſo much Greater than any the Diſſenters can pretend to on their Part; none of them being at preſent poſſeſs'd of any Preferments in the Church; and therefore not ſo much as in a Poſſibility of Suffering the Loſs of them; or to uſe Dr. Calamy's own Words, of having 'Former Exceſſes [of that kind] acted over again' upon them. Nor have they any thing beſides to fear, that I know of, if they will content themſelves with their Religious Liberty, and not make it a Cloak of Malicioſneſs: Whereas the Church is once more in the Poſſeſſion of her Rights and Emoluments; and if what hath been, may be, it thus far liable at leaſt, to have 'Former Exceſſes acted over again' upon her; and, I preſume, I may now with Safety add, was within the compaſs of a very few Years, in imminent Danger of it. Nor can it be ſaid why that might not happen under the Reign of the beſt of Queens, which was formerly effected under that of the beſt of Kings. The Party have indeed made many and repeated Declarations, That if they had been in the Days of their Fathers, they would not have been Partakers with them in the Blood of the Prophets. But ſurely their bare Word is a very ſlender Security; eſpecially ſince thoſe Fathers themſelves came nothing ſhort of their Succeſſors, in theſe very Pretences to Peace and Moderation; and their own Conduct ever ſince the Nation Emerg'd from thoſe very Miſeries, hath been one continu'd Attempt upon the Conſtitution. So certain is it, that all they ever ſaid in this kind, was no other than Good Words, whilſt they wanted Opportunity; and that the Purity of Religion is nothing elſe but the Power of the State. Let the Truth of this be judg'd of by the Practices of the Party for the Thirty Years laſt paſt; becauſe there is no Occaſion (nor indeed any End) of going beyond the Reach of our own Memories.

CAN

Digitized by Google

And firſt, it is known to every Body, that in the Reign of the late King James, they Lovingly ſhook Hands (nor in Token of Farewell, but of Friendſhip) with theſe very Papiſts: they had ever before been declaiming againſt; and that they fell in with the Meaſures of that unfortunate Prince for the Ruine of the Church, and came into all the Corporations as faſt as he could make way for them, was Notorious, even to the Amazement of ſuch Ignorant People, as are fooliſhly inclined to think the greateſt Reality is always to be found under the Loudeſt Noiſe. Nor is it leſs Notorious, that after they had addreſſed that Popiſh Prince even to Blaſphemy, they Unanimoſly forſook him for the more promiſing Hopes, of effecting their Black Deſigns under the Umbrage of a Proteſtant One, whom they ſoon perſuaded into an Indifferent Opinion of the Church, and by the Help of that, and of a Lewd Occaſional Conformity, poſſeſs'd themſelves of all the great Places of Profit and Truſt in the Kingdom.

This Power yielded them a fair Proſpect of compaſſing their Ends: And the Means they uſed in order to it, were to Impoveriſh and Diſpirit the Nation, and thereby render it leſs prepared, and leſs able to withſtand the further Revolution. They intended to Enrich, and thereby to Strengthen themſelves with the Common Spoil, and to encreaſe the Number of their Votaries, by permitting all that would, to partake with them in the Plunder, and to debauch both the Civil and Religious Principles of the Nobility and Gentry, that they might at once become Regardleſs of the Publick, and be ready to put in for a Share of the Nation's Treaſure; and prepared for any Change that fell in with their Vices or their Private Intereſt. All this, (as Hardned Thieves Plunder under the Miſeries of a Fire) they had an Opportunity of doing in the Circumſtance of a long and dangerous War; the Horrors and Diſtractions of which, they laid hold of as the proper Seaſon for perfecting of their Deſigns. In purſuit therefore of the Purpoſes now mention'd, it is well known, more Millions were raiſed by Taxes, &c. in the Compaſs of One or Two Reigns, than the whole Succeſſion of Princes ſince the Conqueror, had ever expended in all their Wars; and yet the Nation left at laſt more Indebted than the whole Treaſure of it Formerly amounted to. Nor is this to be wonder'd at, ſince in the Proſecution of the other Parts of their Scheme, it is no leſs known what Prodigious Sums they put into their own Pockets; and that they ſuffer'd every one employ'd under them, or that would come over to them, to rifle likewiſe without Controul, among thoſe vaſt Heaps of the Nation's Wealth: And ſo well did the Project ſucceed, that in a very ſhort time their Converts were increaſed beyond Belief; and not a few of thoſe whom the Year 1688, found in Garrets, or on Bulks, were able to ſhew themſelves in thoſe Gilded Coaches which they had formerly waited on at leaſt, if not begg'd after, for a Six-pence; and to afford ſome Thouſands to throw a Gentleman out of a Burrough, whoſe very Shoes they had before either Wiped, or Mended: Nor could the old Engliſh Gentry, who had nothing in view but the good of their Country, offer at ſerving it in Parliament at ſuch an Expence; eſpecially conſidering that the Lands were always Loaded with a diſproportion'd Burthen of Taxes; and that they were thus Bought out of their Places with the Spoil and Pillage of their own Eſtates; whilſt thoſe who got in by ſuch Methods, continued to laviſh away the Treaſure of the Nation in Gifts and Subſidies; well knowing it not only contributed to the Grand Deſign in View, but that the better part of it would ſoon return again into their own Pockets, either in the way of Penſion or Plunder. Nor was their Attempt upon the Principles of the young Nobility and Gentry leſs ſucceſsful. The Revolution which had deliver'd us from the worſt Enterpriſes of our Romiſh Adverſaries, gave them a fair Opportunity of declaiming on the Numberleſs Advantages (whence they would needs infer the Lawfulneſs) of Reſiſtance: And it is not to be wonder'd at, that thoſe who got ſo much by the Change, ſhould ſpeak warmly, becauſe feelingly of that Matter: Theſe Arguments, ſupported with the more convincing ones of making what Fortunes they Pleaſed, ſoon wore out that Regard for the Publick, which is the Support as well as the Glory of any Government; Infected almoſt the whole Nation to a Degree hardly to be imagined, with the baſe and moſt pernicious Principles of private Intereſt; and render'd the old Engliſh Principles of Monarchy and and Loyalty, their Contempt and Deriſion. After this, there was nothing left but to perfect the Ruine of their Morals, which fell an eaſie Prey to them, when ſome of their Principles were firſt Corrupted; when the Plunder they had gotten, Adminiſter'd an abundant Opportunity for the indulging every Vice they were inclined to; and when thoſe who had gotten moſt of it, were Employed on purpoſe to excite and adminiſter to the Luſts of thoſe who had not as yet ſhared any of their Booty: Theſe Practices neceſſarily drew after them the Ruine of all their Religious Principles (for Corruption of Manners is by turns both the Parent and the Offspring of Infidelity) after which, Conſcience, Chriſtianity and every thing that was Sacred, but more eſpecially the Clergy, became the Objects of Contempt and Ridicule.

Digitized by Google

And now the Nation ſeem'd ſo well diſpos'd and prepar'd for the blackeſt Attempts on the Conſtitution, that the Faction began to Threaten with Legion and Millions, and ſome of them ſtuck not openly to ſay, 'Twas paſt Twelve of the Clock with the Church. It is well known likewiſe, that not only the Infamous Ludlow returned from a Forty Year's Baniſhment, to Act a Part again in ſuch a Tragedy; but even Richard Cromwel himſelf did (as it is ſaid) appear openly, and that too, without HORROR in the ſupreme Place of JUSTICE; as tho' each of theſe Offenders had forgotten the Charge David gave his Son Solomon concerning Shimei; or as if they thought there was then no Solomon on the Throne.

Nor were their beſt Friends wanting to acknowledge, they were now become dangerous to the Conſtitution, by alledging the Hazard and Unſeaſonableneſs, forſooth, of meddling with them under the Circumſtances of an Uncertain and Perilous War; thereby plainly confeſſing, that as their known Principles were Rebellion, ſo their Power was grown Great and Formidable.

And if it can be yet doubted, whether they had not in view the Ruine, both of Eccleſiaſtical and Civil Government, let their Deſigns be Interpreted by the Shameleſs and Inceſtant Reproaches caſt on the Clergy in their Weekly Papers; by their Endeavours to render the Convocation firſt Uſeleſs, and then (as well as thereby) Contemptible, by the Horrid Inſtitution of Calves Head Clubbs, and their yet more Impious (as well as Contradictory) Celebration of the 30th of January, by recommending (from the Pulpit) the Aboliſhing of it, to one of the Houſes of Parliament: For if according to Dr. Calamy's own Reaſoning, it is 'Fit that the Memory of' ſome things 'ſhould be revived, that they may not be repeated,' a Parity of Reaſon will fairly allow us to infer, that thoſe who are for Suppreſſing the Memory of them, have in View ſuch a Repetition.

However, it pleaſed him who giveth a King in his Anger, and taketh him away in his Wrath, to fruſtrate theſe fair Hopes for a Time, by ſetting a Princeſs on the Throne, who is both the Ornament and Defence of the Eſtabliſhment; and whoſe firſt Aſſurances to her People, that her Heart was Entirely Engliſh; that the Church ſhould have her diſtinguiſh'd Favours, and that ſhe was determin'd to promote none but thoſe of known Zeal and Affection for it; were a loud Declaration what had been tranſacting in the Preceding Reign: But they had no ſooner recover'd this Thunder-Stroke, than they ſet themſelves to Spirit up a Rebellion, by an Inſatuated Attempt to perſuade their Party that the experienc'd Mildneſs of the beſt of Stuarts, and Chriſtians, would take that Shorteſt Way with the Diſſenters, which they could not but be Conſcious they deſerved; and by ſpreading a Thouſand other Treaſonable Speeches and Surmiſes. But failing in thoſe Attempts, their unwearied Diligence found a more Succeſsful Method of carrying on their old Deſigns, by the Inſatiable Covetouſneſs and Ambition of ſome near the Sacred Perſon of her Majeſty: With the Countenance and Aſſiſtance of thoſe Perſons therefore, they ſoon got themſelves again poſſeſs'd of all the Profitable and Important Poſts in the Kingdom, and Reſumed their Attempts of compleating the Ruine of it, under the ſame unfortunate Circumſtances of an Expenſive and Bloody War, and with the ſame Methods of Plunder and Rapine. Inſomuch, that there was a Courſe of Years, when, I am well ſatiſfied, it might with great Truth have been ſaid, Her Majeſty was the only (as She was always the Firſt and Beſt) Friend the Church had in the Adminiſtration: Nor can it be thought Strange, that under theſe Circumſtances the Intereſt of the Church was utterly Diſcouraged; that of the Separatiſts in all caſes Countenanced, and Upheld; and in a Word, the Toleration Advanced in the Place of the Eſtabliſhment, and the Diſſenters in all Caſes behaving themſelves as tho' they had been the Conſtitution, and Treating thoſe of the Conſtitution (under the pretended Characters of Jacobites and High flyers) as tho' they had ſcarce been Supported with ſo much as the Countenance of an Indulgence. And how Promiſing things look'd about this Time, I appeal to Dr. Calamy himſelf; who well knows, that ſome Diſſenting Preachers (a Precedent till that time wanting in our Hiſtories) were by the Advice of Perſons in the Higheſt Poſts of the Kingdom, Recommended to a certain Univerſity for the Degrees of Doctors in Divinity. Add to this, that the Charitable 'WARNING' Dr. Calamy ſaith he intended to have given 'againſt Rigour and Severity upon occaſion of any Religious Differences in all times to come, becauſe, 'all a Preface to the 2d. Edit. p. 22.

Digitized by Google

'all things here are GIVEN TO CHANGE;' and 'as TIMES MAY 'TURN, the Meaſure, with which, they meted to others,' may 'be uſed towards 'them, if not exceeded, plainly ſuppoſes (not to ſay, is Built upon a Proſpect) that the Church may once more Lye at the Mercy of the Diſſenters. And this is Undeniable, whether the 'Others,' to whom he would have Directed himſelf, be thoſe of the Eſtabliſhment, or thoſe of his own Party: For if they be the Former, the Matter is out of all Queſtion; and if they be the Latter, his Advice muſt be loſt, and prove utterly unintelligible on any other Suppoſition than this, that the Time may probably come, when they ſhall once more have the Power in their Hands, and then he would have them Merciful.

However, the Commonalty were not yet throughly Debauched (as appear'd in Fact not long after;) nor would their impatient Zeal wait the tedious Methods of ſuch a Project: And therefore to ſupply this Want, Ten Thouſand Foreign Beggars (and among them great Numbers of Papiſts) were ſent for in a Seaſon of Scarcity, which render'd them doubly uſeful; firſt to take the Bread out of the Mouths of the Native Poor, and then as Occaſion ſhould require, to cut the Throats of thoſe who had not Periſhed by Want and Famine. I muſt own, I could not but Pity the Miſerable Creatures who had been thus deluded out of their own Country; and therefore heartily Wiſhed that they might have been Subſiſted during their Stay, and at laſt Re-tranſported at the Expence of the Perſon who firſt ſent for them over; and the rather, becauſe this Piece of Publick Juſtice would have render'd him as very a Beggar as themſelves. After which, it was to be hoped he would have been forced to Herd with, and bear them Company in their Return: And becauſe this was not yet thought Sufficient to increaſe the Diſaffected Mobb, the Dregs and Scum of every Nation under Heaven, Blacks and Heathens not excepted, were invited to joyn their Brethren in England; and the Boaſted Liberties and Birth rights of Engliſhmen, with which we have been made Deaf (and Blind too) theſe Twenty Years, were by a General Naturalization, expoſed to publick Sale, at the Scandalous Price of a ſingle Shilling: And if theſe Vagabonds could not otherwiſe Beg, or Steal that Shilling, they well knew where to Borrow it on their Arrival. Nor was any thing now wanting, but a General for Life to Muſter theſe Forces, whoſe Truncheon might then over-balance the Crown, and whoſe Power ſhould not only be Independent on (and even Greater too, than) her Majeſty's, but his Title much better; ſince he could not have been accountable to any one, nor removed on Miſdemeanour; as it is known, the Faction affirm, her Majeſty, and every Soveraign Prince in Europe, may, and ought to be, that of Mindelheim then only excepted.

After this ſecond Onſet, it was not to be wonder'd, that the Nation was alarm'd with the Danger of the Church; eſpecially when her known and profeſs'd Enemies had procured, and Triumphed in a Vote, that ſhe was in no Danger.

Matters being now Ripe for Execution, it was therefore thought the proper Seaſon to Strike the Blow; and to begin it with an Experiment on that Doctrine of the Church, which is the beſt Security to the preſent Eſtabliſhment of the State; and in the Perſon of a Clergyman, who had been particularly Earneſt to Recommend it from the Pulpit; during the Dependence of which, an Oath alſo either to Damn, or Starve the Clergy, was perhaps, more than Talkt of. But He who taketh the Wiſe in their own Craftineſs, was pleaſed to take the Faction down from theſe Hopes alſo, and to Entrap theſe Wicked Men in the Works of their own Hands: Inſomuch that all who ſaw them, Laughed them to Scorn. Since which Time, partly in Frenzy for their Diſappointment; but chiefly to bring an Odium on her Majeſty's Adminiſtration; their Rumours, Jealouſies, Factions, Surmiſes, Libels, and other Attempts, have been without Number: Nor have they been Aſhamed, even to Spurn at the Invaluable Bleſſing of Peace; and that too, ſuch an one, as their own Impoveriſhing of the Nation by the Plunder of ſo many Millions, and the Threatning Danger of their now powerful Faction, would have render'd abſolutely neceſſary, ſhould not the Conditions of it have been otherwiſe Honourable and Advantageous: And not yet ſtopping here, have proceeded to unravel as it were, Nature it ſelf; and contrary to the firſt Maxim of it, That Intereſt will not Lie, to endeavour the Ruine of the Nation's Commerce, tho' they have ſo long, and ſo often declared themſelves to be the only Trading Part of it: And if any thing can add to thoſe Inſolencies, it muſt be, Firing the Houſes of ſuch Ambaſſadors as her Majeſty Receives, Murthering thoſe ſhe prepares to ſend Abroad, and openly Curſing her own yet more Sacred and Inviolable Perſon. And it is much to be wiſh'd, that the Perverſneſs of the Party may not Interpret the Moderate Fine of Forty Marks Impoſed on one of thoſe Black Offenders in the laſt Kind, and Thirty on another of them, as a publick Encouragement to enterpriſe any the worſt of Deſigns againſt her Perſon and Government with Impunity.

Digitized by Google

But this is the leſs to be wonder'd at, becauſe of the near Affinity betwixt Blaſphe-ming God and the King: For it is well known, that the Sacred Majeſty of Heaven hath not eſcap'd them, and that they have taken into their Aſſiſtance the moſt Ex-ploded Hereticks, the Lewdeſt, and moſt Profligate Libertines, and the Vileſt, and moſt Open Atheiſts and Blaſphemers; not only making uſe of their Attempts on the Eſtabliſh'd Hierarchy, the Clergy of it, and even Chriſtianity it ſelf, in order to ſhake the Pillars of the Church; but licking up their Venomous Froth, and ſpitting it out at ſecond-hand againſt her, and defending the Purity of Religion, forſooth, with Principles bor-row'd from Libertines and Infidels: In a Word, applauding, encouraging, hiring and patronizing them to tear up the very Foundations, not of Chriſtianity only, but of all Religion and Government, that the Eſtabliſh'd Church and Monarchy may fall with them; and for many Years laſt paſt entruſting the Conduct of their Affairs with ſuch Leaders, as are the Avowed, and Profeſs'd Enemies of the Bleſſed Jeſus.

Nor would they leave us, if it were in their Power, the Spes altera, our only remain-ing Hopes, the Illuſtrious Houſe of Hanover (which God long preſerve, and render a laſt-ing Bleſſing to theſe Nations) having inceſſantly endeavour'd to make a Property of them, by infuſing the worſt Suggeſtions into them, againſt the Members of the Church of England; and attempted, as we have been aſſur'd from the Throne, to cre-ate Jealouſies betwixt them and Her Majeſty. But theſe are ſome of their loweſt Steps: For they do with an impious Triumph rejoyce in thoſe Thoughts, which no True Engliſhman can entertain without Horror, (and therefore hardly ought to be mention'd) I mean, the Demiſe of Her Majeſty: And to compleat their Inſolence, THREATEN the Church with the Acceſſion of that Illuſtrious Family; than which, nothing can be more Miſchievous and Prejudicial to their Intereſts; becauſe thoſe Threats do ſo manifeſtly ſuppoſe That Houſe diſaffected to the Church of Eng-land, and the Members of it, and Friends only to the Separatiſts. Nor is the Folly leſs than the Arrogance of theſe Suggeſtions: For is it poſſible to conceive, that any Prince of That Houſe will ſhew his diſtinguiſh'd Favours to a Party, who are both by Nature and Principle, Enemies to that Crown he muſt wear, and that Religion he is oblig'd to profeſs; and can be Friends to his Perſon, no farther than as they ſhall impudently imagine himſelf is likewiſe an Enemy to Both of them?

It muſt be further obſerv'd, That all theſe Attempts have been made under the old Outcries and Noiſe of Popery; which, when Loudeſt, and moſt Clamorous, is as ſure a Sign of ſome violent Aſſault from Presbytery, as a Ruffian's endeavouring to divert your Eyes from himſelf, betokens his Intention of Stabbing you in the Back.

In ſo much Danger then, hath the Conſtitution, as well Eccleſiaſtical as Civil, (for their mutual Dependence in theſe Nations is well known) continually been from the Attempts and Practices of the Faction: Nor can it be ever wholly free from it, as long as they ſhall continue to ſhare any conſiderable Branch of Power; which muſt always render them capable of diſturbing the Government; more eſpecially conſider-ing, That every Diſcarded or Diſcontented Miniſter will be ſure to make his Advan-tage of them, and throw himſelf on a Faction who are Entruſted with ſo great a Share of Power, and never ſtick at any Wickedneſs to improve it. In a Word, a Faction, who were ever Inſatiable in their Demands, Implacable under Diſappoint-ments; always Tyrants in Power, and Rebels out.

The Party them-ſelves made a very memorable Precedent in the Ordinance of Oct. 4, 1647. in-titled, 'An 'Ordinance, &c. 'diſabling De-'linquents to 'bear Office, or 'to have any 'Place, or Vote in the Election of any Mayor, Recorder, Sheriff, Aldermen, Aſſiſtants, Bayliffs, Town Clerk, Common-Council-Man, STEWARD 'of any Court, CONSTABLE, or any OTHER Office in City, Borough, or Town-Corporate, or UNIVERSITIES, or other Place in the King-'dom of England, or Dominion of Wales.' See the Ordinance, printed in 4to, Oct. 5, 1647.

But the Steadineſs of the Old Clergy under Sufferings, is not the only thing that renders it neceſſary (in thoſe conſtant Returns of Danger) to revive their Memories and Ex-amples; the Principles for which they Suffer'd, deſerve no leſs to be conſider'd: And therefore, I muſt ſubjoyn a Word or Two of theſe likewiſe, before I cloſe this Head. I ſhall mention but two of them at Preſent; namely, Affection to the Church, and Loyalty to their Prince: And ſurely at this Seaſon, the Reaſons for Recommend-ing them will appear much ſtronger than any Dr. Calamy can produce for ſetting his Party ſo many Examples of Obſtinate Nonconformity; ſince the firſt of theſe Principles hath been ſo long and ſo vigorouſly Attack'd under the Diſguiſe of a Falſe and Perſo-nated Moderation; by which, they mean, a Cool, and Languid Indifferency for the Eſtabliſhment; but a quick, warm and vigorous Concern for the Intereſts of the Separa-tion: Of which there needs no other Proof than this ſingle Conſideration, that if any one diſcovers a due Value and Eſteem for the Orders and Appointments of the Church, a Concern for her True Intereſts, a Jealouſie (and yet that is an Inſeparable Attendant of Love) of the Deſigns of her Adverſaries, and a juſt Zeal and Reſent-ment againſt them, he is preſently Branded with the Imputation of an High-Flyer; which, as themſelves have a Thouſand Times Interpreted it, ſignifies a Debauchee, a Perſecuter, a Papiſt, and every thing that is Odious and Deteſtable. And as to what con-concerns the Principle of Loyalty, the Attempts that have been made upon that, are without Number; Every the meaneſt Perſon in the Kingdom hath been taught to believe, that her Majeſty is Accountable to Them, and Removeable whenever they (for They are the Sole, and if it be not a Contradiction, the Supream Judges) ſhall think fit. They have had their Weekly Scriblers (I wiſh I was not obliged to add, ſome Pulpits) to ſpread this Poyſon, and ſo far had the Infatuation prevailed, that a few Years ſince by a prepoſterous Inverſion of every Principle of Nature, Rebellion was eſteemed the moſt neceſſary Requiſite to Qualify any one for being Intruſted in the Government; and Diſobedience, the principal Recommendation for her Majeſty's Service. He was thought unfit to have the Queen for his Miſtreſs, who was not ready at the ſame time to declare ſhe was his Servant; and thoſe the moſt proper Perſons to Guard the Throne, who on the firſt Diſlike, were every whit as ready prepared to Guard the Scaffold; yea, her Majeſty was, in Effect, told all this to her Face, (for which, Hiſtory is yet without a Parallel) in the greateſt Aſſembly of the Nation, to the Aſtoniſhment of all that ever did, or ſhall hear of it; and by the Providence of God, to their own Ruine and Confuſion. To ſay, every thing that can be ſaid of this Matter, all the Principles of 1641, (and even thoſe of 1648,) have been plainly and openly Reviv'd; Milton, Harrington, Ludlow, and Sidney, have been either afreſh Recommended, or now firſt handed to the World; and I have often Queſtioned with my ſelf, whether the Reaſonings of the moſt Celebrated Author on this Subject, might not with little Trouble (would any one undertake it) be Parallel'd Paragraph by Paragraph, and ſhewn out of the Books and Pamphlets of thoſe Times, to be the very ſame on which the Grand Rebellion and the Murther of the King had been defended; and then let any one Judge, whether the ſame Principles will not produce the ſame Practices; that is, in other Words, whether Cauſes will not have their Effects. This I am ſure of, at leaſt, that to uſe Dr. Calamy's own Words, it is very 'Agreeable 'to the Common Workings of Humane Nature.'

Digitized by Google

And ſo ſubtle was the Poyſon, ſo many the Arts uſed to infuſe it, and ſo long Time had they to practiſe them, that it might be fear'd, had a ſecond Courſe of Sequeſtrations been ſet on Foot, thoſe Principles of Loyalty and Affection to the Church would ſcarce have been atteſted by ſuch a Cloud of Witneſſes as in the Late Times of the Grand Rebellion; when not a ſingle Biſhop, nor any one Dean, or Dignitary (if I am throughly informed, and remember aright) or above ſix or ſeven Prebendaries, refuſed to maintain them with the Loſs of all they had in the World. But, as Almighty God (to whom all things are known from the Beginning) was not pleaſed in the Late Times of PERIL to let the Enemies of the Church proceed any farther, and call her to Sufferings; ſo was there not the ſame Occaſion for his Enduing the Clergy with that extraordinary Spirit of Confeſſion, which was ſo manifeſtly Poured out in the Time of thoſe Former Tryals; and which it is the Duty of every good Man to pray he will once more Pour out, if ever he ſhall again permit the Adverſary and the Enemy to enter into the Gates of Jeruſalem.

It is now high time to Sum up what hath been ſaid on this Head. The Diſſenters then not being poſſeſs'd of the Livings (unleſs as is before ſaid, it might be hoped they ſhortly would) are not capable of having the ſame 'Exceſſes acted over again,' upon them: Nor hath any thing been attempted againſt them (within the Compaſs of time I have now been ſpeaking of) beſides keeping them out of a Capacity to Betray the Conſtitution; whilſt on the other Hand, the Church hath once more her All at Stake; hath been practiſed upon theſe 30 Years; (not to mention the Times preceding) hath been by the Confeſſion of her Enemies themſelves, on the Brink of Ruine; the Principles of Affection to her, and of Loyalty to the Prince (for which the Sequeſter'd Clergy were ſo Conſpicuous) have been attackt with more Vigour perhaps than they were in the Years preceding 1641. Nor have ſome of the Pulpits themſelves been free from the Infection; and after all this, let any one judge, whether Dr. Calamy, or my ſelf, have greater Reaſon to fear, that 'former Exceſſes may be acted over again,' and which of us have more need to preſerve the Memory of our reſpective Sufferers, to 'promote Steadineſs to their Principles.'

It only remains that I now likewiſe ſhew a better Title than any Dr. Calamy hath, to the main Reaſon of the laſt Paragraph cited from his Preface; and if Faces muſt be ſhewn, as Monſters are, for their Uglineſs, it will follow by an eaſie Conſequence, that the Reaſons for expoſing them, will Increaſe in proportion to that Uglineſs; and that the moſt Deformed will therefore make the Better Shew, becauſe the worſt Figure: As much then, as Ignorance and Hypocriſie are more Deformed than the moſt Excellent Learning and True Piety; a Sacrilegious Invaſion of the Miniſtry, than a Regular Entry by the Door; Blaſphemies and Hereſies, than Primitive, ſound and wholſome Doctrine; Coblers and Mechanicks, than Perſons of the firſt Rank for Eſteem and Eminence; Law and Regularity, than Uſurpation and Confuſion; unheard of Oppreſſions, than Juſtice and Equity; Lyes, Slanders, and the moſt Deteſtable Calumnies, than the plaineſt and moſt unconteſtable Truths; Robbery and Plunder, than than Undoubted Right and Title; the Loſs of both Temporals and Spirituals, Reals and Perſonals, than the bare Reſtitution of what was never a Man's own; Dungeons, Stifling-Ships, and (intended) Slavery in Turkey, than Freedom, and an open Air; Treaſons and Rebellions, than Loyalty and Obedience; Tumults and Diviſions, than Peace and Uniformity; Blood and Murthers, than Calm and Security: In a Word, as much as the Deſolations of Jeruſalem are more Deformed, than the Beauties of Holineſs; and as much as Ten Thouſand exceeded Two Thouſand, ſo much more Monſtrous is the Face of things which the ATTEMPT muſt produce, than that Face of the Church which is expoſed in the Abridgment: And for the Truth of this, I appeal to thoſe reſpective Glaſſes wherein Dr. Calamy and my ſelf are to ſhew them.

Digitized by Google

I have now done with Dr. Calamy's Reaſons: And if I can add to them, his Example and Authority likewiſe, I don't ſee how the Party can once more open their Mouths; and yet both theſe are plainly in my Favour.

The Pattern he hath ſet for Writing the Sufferings of the Sequeſter'd Loyaliſts, by drawing up himſelf Thoſe of the Ejected Nonconformiſts, is ſo obvious, that it may ſeem Superfluous to mention it: And his Authority for the Reaſonableneſs (and I think, I may add, Uſefulneſs and Expedience) of the Undertaking, will fully appear in the following Words: 'I muſt own my ſelf well pleaſed, inſtead of being at all diſturbed, or grieved at the ATTEMPT to Tranſmit to Poſterity Former Suffrings on 'the other Side. I deſire, inſtead of Fearing the Publiſhing That Hiſtory, that hath 'been ſo long talked of, of the Hardſhips endur'd by the Epiſcopal Party, between '1640, and 1660. I am glad if I have been the Occaſion of its Publication.' In return for the Favour of which Teſtimony, I think my ſelf oblig'd to gratifie Dr. Calamy, with Repeating it again in this Place, That the Ninth Chapter of his Abridgment was the Sole, and Single Occaſion of my ATTEMPT: And I do, with great Sincerity, aſſure him, That I am altogether as 'well pleaſed' with the Publication of That Chapter; only, I muſt own, it is for a Reaſon very different from That aſſign'd by Himſelf. I muſt add likewiſe, That I would gladly ſuffer the Reaſonableneſs of my Deſign to take its Fate among its greateſt Oppoſers, with this ſingle Teſtimony of Dr. Calamy, could I be ſure, ſome of them would not look on this Frank Declaration in his Preface, to be a Virtue produc'd by Neceſſity, and a Seeming, rather than any Real Approbation of what it was not in his Power to prevent.

Pref. to Vol. II. Edit. 2 p. 4. p. 27, 28.

The Reaſon the Doctor alledges, is, that the Memory of Sovereties on both ſides may poſſibly produce an Abhorrence of all Conſtraint in Matters of Religion

To this, was it of any Weight, I could ſubjoyn the Authority and Example, even of Thoſe who have publickly objected to the Undertaking; namely, the Author of the † New Tiſt of the Church of England's Honeſty, the * Obſervator revivi'd, and the Diſtributer of the ‡ New-Years Gift to the High Church Clergy; who unanimouſly declare, That there lieth ready for the Preſs, an Account of the Abominable Vices and Practices of thoſe Sequeſter'd Clergymen; and that if my Undertaking go'eth on, theſe Black and Horrid Crimes ſhall in return to it, be all made Publick. To which, the laſt mention'd Author adds, That they are 'Ready (likewiſe) to furniſh out a 'a Freſh Collection of Living Nuiſances, that are not only a Reproach to the Chri-'ſtian Religion, but a Scandal to Morality.' And the Author of the New Tiſt, &c. ſaith moreover, That ſince we are ſo willing to examine the Article of Perſecution, there is 'Ready BY WAY OF ANSWER' to my Collection, an Exact Liſt of many Thouſand Families of the Diſſenters Ruin'd and Undone by the Mercileſs Perſecution of the High-Church Party. It is not my Buſineſs at preſent to conſider the Cavils theſe Writers have raiſed againſt the Work; (they will be fully conſider'd in other Places, before I come to the End of this Preface) but on the Foot of theſe Declarations, I beg leave to Expoſtulate with them about the Reaſonableneſs of my Undertaking. And firſt then, if it be highly Reaſonable for Them 'BY WAY OF ANSWER' to my Book (wherein I have taken the Article of Perſecution under Examination) to Publiſh an Exact Liſt of the many Thouſands, that they ſay, were Ruin'd by the High-Church; why is it not as highly Reaſonable for Me, 'BY WAY OF 'ANSWER' to Dr. Calamy's Book (wherein he hath profeſſedly taken the Article of Perſecution under Examination) to Publiſh as Exact a Liſt as I can, of the many more Thouſands, I am ſure, were Ruin'd by Dr. Calamy's Party; and even in good part, by the Means, and at the Inſtances and Inſtigations of thoſe very Perſons, whoſe Perſecutions are ſo loudly complained of in the Abridgment? How comes it to paſs, that it ſhould be ſo very Reaſonable, yea, and highly Expedient for Them to Retort and Reply upon Me, with the oppoſite Hiſtory of the many Thouſands ruin'd by the Church; and yet at the ſame time it ſhould not be Equally Reaſonable and Expedient for Me, under the ſame Circumſtances, to Reply in the like manner upon Dr. Calamy? By Threatening therefore to Anſwer the ATTEMPT in this way, they have either Fully and Effectually Juſtify'd what they intended to Condemn; or elſe Thoroughly Condemn'd themſelves by their Juſtification; whilſt they are going to do that very thing in oppoſition to Me, which they ſo plentifully Rail at me for Undertaking in oppoſition to Dr. Calamy. Thou who judgeſt, doeſt the ſame things; and therefore out of thy own Mouth will I judge thee, O thou wicked Servant.

‡ And Advertiſement at the End of it.

* Numb 11.

† In the Preface.

Ibid.

Nor

Digitized by Google

Nor might I yet quit them, was I minded to expoſtulate this Matter any farther; becauſe the Reaſons they have aſſigned (like thoſe produced by Dr. Calamy,) are much more Mine, than their Own: For tho' it be ſure that Dr. Calamy had neither Pattern Nor Provocation (in the Kind I am now ſpeaking of) from the Church to begin this Quarrel; yet it is Notorious, the Church had, in Dr. Calamy's Undertaking, the very Provocation which theſe Gentlemen declare to be ſuch a juſt and Reaſonable one. Beſides, what I have Undertaken, is only to advance the Oppoſite Hiſtory of the Church's Sufferings; but the main thing they Threaten'd, is to produce the Scandalous Vices and Immoralities of the Clergy of the Eſtabliſhment; and even a Collection of Living Naiſances. Now tho' this be a juſt conſequence, if the Diſſenters publiſh their Sufferings, it is but reaſonable, that the Church ſhould publiſh Hers; yet it is by no means good Reaſoning, to ſay, if the Church (tho' on juſt provocation) make publick her Sufferings, therefore we are fully juſtified to heap upon her Clergy (whether Dead or Living) all the Odious Filth and Scandal that Malice or Falſhood could invent. Nor is this all: For beſides the Authority of the Objectors, I ſaid, I might produce their Example likewiſe; and that too, much more of it than I ſhall make uſe of; even ſo much as the wild Conſequence laſt mentioned doth ſuggeſt: For the New-Years-Gift hath in Fact proceeded to put theſe Threats in Practice, by Culling out, and Re-printing the worſt and vileſt Parts of that Infamous Century, which hath long ſince render'd its Author the Reproach and Abhorrence of every Sober Perſon.

But I have hereby taken too much Notice of theſe Scribblers; and therefore ſhall conclude what I have to offer to ſuch as allow of the Abridgment, with this Recapitulation; I have the ſelf ſame Reaſons for my Undertaking, as Dr. Calamy hath for his; each of thoſe Reaſons hold much ſtronger for me, than for himſelf: I have moreover the Example and Atteſtation of Dr. Calamy for what I have Done; and even thoſe who have as yet appear'd publickly againſt the ATTEMPT, have fully juſtified and confirmed the Reaſonableneſs of it. After all which, I might well hope to hear of no more Objections to the Deſign, from any that approve of Dr. Calamy's Performance; and therefore I muſt own, it was a Matter of ſome Surpriſe to me, that a certain Right Reverend Prelate ſhould, with Angry Looks, and Rough Words, drive me from his Preſence, and tell me in plain Terms, He did not like my Undertaking; becauſe I had heard it confidently reported, That his Lordſhip entertained Dr. Calamy at his Palace; and not only Applauded the † Good Work he came about, but in particular, Thank'd him for his Performance in the Abridgment.

† Namely, to make up a Breach betwixt Two Differing Teachers in the City where his Lordſhip's Cathedral ſtood; which was like to have been of ill Conſequence to the Intereſt of the Diſſenters.

I perceive, it is now more than time that I come to my own Reaſons, which, as hath been already ſaid, are to be fetch'd from the Publication of the Ninth Chapter (now the Second Volume) of the Abridgment. And had I begun the Controverſie, by Publiſhing firſt the Sufferings of the Church, I leave any one to judge, how very reaſonable the Diſſenters would have thought it for Dr. Calamy to Reply on me, with an Hiſtory of the Ejected Nonconformiſts; eſpecially, if their Numbers had been Five times, and their Sufferings a Thouſand times greater than Thoſe of the Sequeſter'd Loyaliſts. What I have juſt now alledg'd from ſome of the Writers of the Party, is a Demonſtration of this. Let them therefore lay their Hands on their Hearts, by making my Caſe their own, and they will ſoon remove them to their Mouths, if they have any Remains of Shame or Reaſon.

What I have now ſuggeſted, being one of the Main and Principal Motives to engage me in the Undertaking, it will be requiſite to be particular in ſhewing, That the Occaſion was really Given, and not Taken. And in order to this, we muſt take a Short View of the reſpective Facts on which the Two Oppoſite Hiſtories are advanc'd: For which end it muſt be known, That on the Return of the King in 1660, ſuch of the Sequeſter'd Clergy as had not been Starved (and of theſe, by the good Providence of God, there was a conſiderable Number) were, agreeable to the higheſt Reaſon and Equity, Reinſtated in their Livings; and by conſequence, very many, who for Fourteen, Eighteen, and ſome near Twenty Years, had been Feeding on the Plunder of them, were forced, tho' with much Reluctance, to give them up to the Right Owners. In the mean time, ſuch as had ſucceeded (whether by Sequeſtration, Plunder, Uſurpation, or other Methods of a Succeſsful Rebellion) in any Livings, the Incumbents of which were now dead, or did not think fit to claim them again, were, by an Act of the ſame Year, allow'd to continue on them, with ſuch Exceptions, and under ſuch eaſie Reſtrictions only, as the Neceſſities of an unſettled, and as yet feeble Government, directed. But ſoon after, when the Hands of the Church began to be ſtrengthen'd, and ſhe was better able to provide for her Future Security, the Common-Prayer-Book was Reviſed, the Uſe of it was by a moſt Reaſonable and Neceſſary Law (namely, the laſt Act of Uniformity) enforc'd, and commanded; and every Perſon that did then hold, or ſhould for the future be preſented, &c. to any Eccleſiaſtical Benefice or Promotion, was oblig'd to declare his 'Aſſent and Conſent to the Uſe of all things in the ſaid Book,

But not without ſome publick Oppoſition, as appears by a Pamphlet I have ſeen ſhut now from the Title of it) which pleads for the Reaſonableneſs and Juſtice of Reſtoring thoſe who had ſuffer'd for his Majeſty and the Church, and anſwers the Objections againſt it.

'Book,' &c. on pain of being depriv'd of his Promotion. The Act moreover provided, That all Deans, Canons, &c. Maſters, Fellows, &c. of Colleges, Parſons, Vicars, Curates, Lecturers, Schoolmaſters, &c. ſhould Subſcribe a Declaration, 'That it was 'not lawful to take Arms againſt the King,' &c. and ſhould Renounce, and Declare the Unlawfulneſs of the Covenant, on pain of being Diſabled and Deprived of their Reſpective Places and Offices. The Former of theſe, on a ſad Review of the Miſeries the Nation groaned under by a Rebellion promoted chiefly from the Pulpit; and the Latter, becauſe whoever had taken the Covenant, and thought himſelf yet under the Obligations of it, was bound in Conſcience to endeavour the Extirpation of Epiſcopacy, which was the Government now Reſtored, and under which Thoſe were to Officiate, who intended to continue in the Church; which ſure none could reaſonably expect to do, who had been, and ſtill declared themſelves Sworn Enemies to it. There were other things alſo in the Act of the like kind, but of leſs Note than thoſe now mention'd, and ſo not neceſſary to be particulariz'd at preſent.

By this Act therefore, a ſecond Reform was made among the Miniſters of the Times; and the Perſons affected by it were of two Sorts: Firſt, the haſty and imperfect Act of 1660, having for the Preſent, as I juſt now ſaid, left all thoſe in * Poſſeſſion who by Sequeſtration, or other Methods of Uſurpation, had gotten Livings that were Unclaimed. Theſe Men if they were not Epiſcopally Ordained, would not make the Declarations mention'd in the Act, and Renounce the Covenant, were now Removed; as were all others in like manner, that would not ſubmit to the ſame Conditions. And in the next Place, all Curates, or others, which had taken the Miniſtry upon themſelves, or intended ſhortly ſo to do, were on the like Refuſal, render'd Uncapable of receiving any Eccleſiaſtical Promotion, or Officiating (for the moſt part,) in any Congregations. The whole of theſe Perſons, together with thoſe firſt mention'd, amounted to about 2000. What Proportion each Sort took up, I cannot exactly tell; but think I can be pretty ſure, that the Firſt and Laſt (namely, thoſe that gave up again to the Right Owners, or thoſe Curates, &c. who were only Silenc'd, and prevented from having any Preferment for the future) made conſiderably more than the one Half of the Number; and that not ſo of the Remainder. (I do not at preſent remember to have met with an Inſtance of more than one ſingle Perſon) had any other Title (Antecedent to the urgent Neceſſity of the Act of 1660) to the Places from which they were Removed, than what † Sequeſtration, Plunder, Uſurpation and Rebellion, had given them.

* With ſome few other Reſtrictions, as it before noted.

† Some few likewiſe probably excepted, who might get Regular Admiſſion betwixt May 1660, when the King Returned, and Bartholomew-Day 1662.

Add to this, that there were among them not a few Mechanicks, and Fellows bred to the meaneſt Occupations; many more who had never ſeen either of the Univerſities, ſeveral Troopers, and others who had ſerved in the Rebel-Armies; and of thoſe who had been at one or other of the Univerſities, very few (comparatively ſpeaking) had the Degrees of A. M. much leſs of D. D. and ſome of them not ſo much as that of A. B. And fewer ſtill were Thoſe, who had been Perſons of Note and Eminence, whilſt they Tarry'd there. Beſides which, ſome of them had run in with, and vented many of the diſtinguiſh'd Enthuſiaſms, Errors, Hereſies, and other monſtrous Opinions (not to ſay Blaſphemies) of the Times; many had no Orders at all: Nor were there wanting among theſe, ſuch as had been ſo far even from pretending to any, that they exclaim'd againſt them; whilſt on the other hand, ſeveral of the better ſort of thoſe who did not look on Orders as Antichriſtian, had them only from Preſbyterian Hands. In a Word, ſome of them were Independents, others Anabaptiſts, other ſome Millenaries, tho' far the greater Number of any one ſort were Preſbyterians; and even thoſe of the Firſt Rank among them, had, as is before ſaid, Plunder'd away, and eaten the Bread of the Starving Royaliſts, and their miſerable Families, for Fourteen, Eighteen, and ſome near Twenty Years together, (not to ſay, That ſome of them had been concern'd in Plundering away their Goods, as well as their Livings, when they barbarouſly, and with inhuman Circumſtances, turned them by Force and Violence out of their Houſes) and had a thouſand times forfeited their very Lives to the Laws, by having ſome their Tongues, others their Hands, and others both of them, deeply ſtained with the Treaſons and Blood, as well of their Prince himſelf, as of their Fellow Subjects; the very chiefeſt of them having been either Army Chaplains, Preachers before the Long Parliament, Factious Lecturers, &c. and had in theſe Capacities, as it is known to every body, been principally inſtrumental, in firſt exciting, and then carrying on that unnatural War. To this muſt be added, That the Horrid Oath and Combination whereby they had chiefly promoted it, was yet on their Conſciences, and as themſelves declared, ſtill in its full Force and Vigour; and that they were the very Perſons who compaſſed the Ruine of the Eſtabliſh'd Church, (and by adhering to the Oath now mention'd, did in effect declare, They were bound in Conſcience to do it again) and Severe ſure in it, however ſtrange it may ſeem to Dr. Calamy, that ſuch a Write of the Nonconformiſts Enemies, and Deſtroyers, Wolves of Aſſes, Cruelty and Rebels. See Proof of the Ch. Hiſt. of Nonconf. Vol. II. Addit. to p. 3.

Digitized by Google

and not only help'd forward the Deſtruction of the Regular Clergy; but were particularly diligent in firſt Calumniating, and then Sequeſtring, Diſpoſſeſſing and Starving them for their firm Adherence to the King and the Hierarchy.

I have only further to ſuggeſt, That when they were reſpectively either Ejected or Silenced, it was done by the Courſe of a Regular and Unqueſtion'd Law; That none ſuffer'd under That Law, but ſuch as were plainly and confeſſedly guilty of what they Suffer'd for; that thoſe Sufferings (as far as that Act was concerned in them) were no other than bare Deprivation or Incapacity, whilſt neither their Goods, their Perſons, nor their Temporal Eſtates, were Touch'd; and that their Friends were then in the full Enjoyment of their Rights and Poſſeſſions, and as Able as Willing to Support them. And laſtly, could the Opinions and Circumſtances of each of them be now particularly known, it would moſt probably appear, there were very few among them, but ſuch as the Canons (part of thoſe very Laws then Reſtor'd, and in full Force) had directed to be Excommunicated; and ſuch, as on the Reaſons Dr. Calamy himſelf hath aſſign'd for their Nonconformity (in the Chapter immediately following That with which I am concern'd) muſt have quitted their Places, or been Silenc'd by the other † Act of Uniformity in Q. Elizabeth's Reign, without the Intervention of the New one in 1662, on which the whole Load and Odium of this Proſcription hath been thrown.

There were indeed, in the Act other Penalties for Schoolmaſters, who acted as ſuch, without Subſcribing the Declaration, &c. and for any Perſon not Epiſcopally Ordained, who ſhould preſume to Conſecrate the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper, or ſhould preſume to preach after Diſabled by this Act. But the Penalty for not making the Declarations, &c. was only Deprivation, &c. if they refuſed there, and went no further.

† Then likewiſe Reſtored with the Government, to its Full Force.

This great Variety of Perſons then (as well thoſe Ejected, as thoſe * greater Numbers only Silenced; as well Independents and Anabapiſts, &c. as Presbyterians; as well Perſons who never pretended to, yea, who Diſclaimed all Orders, as thoſe who had any) hath Dr. Calamy to make the Number appear Formidable, Liſted, and Muſter'd in one Body: And to render them yet more Conſiderable, hath Adorned the Characters of many Hundreds of them, with the moſt deſirable Qualifications of Meekneſs, Peaceableneſs, (as tho' they had been always SUFFERERS and never DOERS) Humility, Godlineſs, Painfulneſs in Preaching, and ſo many other Gifts and Graces, as cannot readily be thought of: And in fine 'defy'd their greateſt Enemies to produce in any Age or Country, Two Thouſand Men better Qualified for 'publick Miniſterial Work.' And that their Sufferings might not want Aggravations, he ſpeaks of theſe Men (Indefinitely) as 'driven from their Freeholds,' (tho' more than the one Half of them, as is juſt now Intimated, had no Freeholds to be driven from;) he raiſes alſo the moſt Tragical Exclamations, as if their Treatment had exceeded the Arian, Vandal, and ſeveral Popiſh Perſecutions. He affirms, that the Church had thereby 'out-done' the Cruelties of the Grand-Rebellion, had Ejected a Number very far 'Superior' to that of the Sequeſter'd Clergy; and, in a Word, That 'this was an Action without a Precedent; the like to which, the Reform'd Church, nay, the 'Chriſtian World never ſaw before.'

* If I miſtake not: For as yet I can ſpeak only from a Rough Conjecture, and not from any particular Computations, &c.

Edit. 1. p. 490. Edit. 2. p. 188.

Edit. 1. p. 496. Edit. 2. p. 193.

Edit. 1. p. 497. Edit. 2. 194.

Edit. 1. p. 498. Edit. 2. p. 196.

Edit. 1. p. 497. Edit. 2. p. 194.

I muſt not yet proceed to ſtate the Fact on the other Side, until I have firſt obſerved to the Reader, that one of the principal Arts always made uſe of to ſupport the Party, even from its very Riſe, hath been to give out their Miniſters for Perſons of the firſt Rank in Gifts and Godlineſs; and to repreſent their Adverſaries under the Oppoſite Characters of Scandal, Ignorance and Lazineſs. With Regard to the Former of theſe, I believe, it would appear upon Enquiry, that (allowing for the Diſproportion of the Total Number, and for thoſe Biſhops, &c. who have been Eminent in the Affairs of State, as well as thoſe of the Church) Four Puritan Miniſters to one Regular Clergyman, have been recommended to the World in Printed Lives, Funeral Sermons, Precious Sayings, and other Arts and Methods of Commendation: Nor are there wanting, if I do not Miſtake, other Inſtances beſides that of Mr. Baxter, by which it appears, that theſe Meek Men in the Depth of their Humility, have thought their Examples of Importance enough to inſtruct the World; and for that End have either wrote their own Lives, or left Materials behind them for that Purpoſe: And by theſe Means, many who would have been loſt in the common Herd of their Betters, had they Lived in the Communion of the Church, are now ſet Apart and Stand by themſelves, as Perſons of Diſtinguiſh'd Sanctity and Holineſs; eſpecially conſidering, that thoſe who Undertake to Hand down their Memories to Poſterity, have always pick'd out the beſt Eulogies of Scripture wherewithal to Adorn them, and ſeldom fail to amplifie their Characters in ſuch a Manner, as to make them cover many Pages. Add to this, that they hardly ever ſpeak of the moſt common and ordinary Actions of their Lives; but with a Parallel of ſome Scripture Example, and in Scripture Language; and are prepared with a Set of Terms and Phraſes of that Kind, which are ready on all Occaſions. Inſomuch that I have often thought the Furniture of thoſe who have Characteriz'd them, was not unlike that of an Undertaker's Equipage; which ſerves indifferently for all Fu-

Digitized by Google

Funerals; or, that like a Saleſman's Shop, they were ready ſorted beforehand, for Perſons of all Sizes and Statures; if the ſute was too long, it being eaſily Dock'd; or, if a little too ſhort, that would make no great Odds; if too cloſe on the Ribbs, it is ſoon Let out; or, if too wide at the Shoulders, it is as ſoon Taken in; tho' after all, it often Sets ſo Aukwardly, that 'tis plain it hath been on the Back of more than one Perſon before; and that he who hath it, was never Meaſured for it. Nor is it ſometimes difficult, on a little Recollection, to call to Mind who firſt wore it.

But be this as it will, the Method I am now Speaking of, never fails to move the Affections, and to Delude the Ignorant Readers, who never ſuſpect a Falſhood, much leſs a Miſrepreſentation, under a Scripture-Phraſe; and without once calling in Queſtion the Truth and Juſtice of the Application, are generally inclined to imagine, that a Perſon Parallel'd with, and call'd by a Name of one of the Apoſtles, or Characteriz'd in a Bold and Confident Affirmation, with the Eulogies of the Holy Men and Women of Old Times, hath the ſame Title to, and was as really poſſeſs'd of, thoſe Graces, as the Perſons themſelves to whom the unerring Spirit of God firſt aſcribed them.

It is needleſs to add any thing in this Place of the other Branch of their Practice; namely, that of Blackening both the Cauſe and Perſons of their Adverſaries; ſince ſo much of their Nauſeous Railing, and ſuch numberleſs Inſtances of their Traducing the Clergy, will appear in the following Hiſtory; and more eſpecially, ſince the whole Epilogue to that Chapter of the Abridgment, I have taken under Conſideration, is ſpent in Throwing the moſt Odious Imputations on the Church, and heightening them with the utmoſt Aggravations. I ſhall only therefore obſerve further, That as by theſe Arts their People are taught to have Mens Perſons in Admiration; ſo are none more addicted to their Leaders, the Romaniſts themſelves not excepted; and that being for the moſt part, Perſons of an inferiour Rank and Condition, they ſeldom read any thing but ſuch Pieces as the Vogue of the Party recommends to them, and will hardly endure to look on what is written on the other Side. Upon all which Accounts, they are thoroughly prepar'd for any Deluſions, and may be ſafely Truſted with with ſuch Miſrepreſentations, as the Perſons who make them, would never venture to offer to Thoſe who knew better, or to ſuch as were willing and able to make farther Enquiries.

What hath been hitherto done in this kind (with Succeſs enough) to ſupport the Separation, lay for the moſt part, ſcatter'd up and down in Single Lives, &c. until the Abridgment, by collecting and putting together the Names and Sufferings of ſo many of them, compleated the Calendar, and furniſh'd it (beyond that of the Roman Church) with more than five times as many Saints as there are Days in the Year. Nor doth Dr. Calamy (as hath been already noted) ſtick to own in effect, theſe Purpoſes, which he terms Preſerving the 'Memory' of theſe Men 'to promote ſteadineſs to their Principles,' and ſhewing the 'Deformity of the Church's 'Face,' which every one will eaſily believe, is to Expoſe her.

I come now briefly to ſtate that Oppoſite Fact, which is the Subject of the ATTEMPT: For which purpoſe it muſt be known, That at the Breaking out of the Rebellion, the Clergy of the Eſtabliſhment did in a manner Unanimouſly adhere to the Cauſe of the King and the Church. On this account therefore the Faction ſoon perceiv'd it impracticable, to carry on their joint Deſigns againſt both the one and the other of them, whilſt thoſe Malignant Miniſters continued poſſeſs'd of the Pulpits; and therefore determin'd, by all poſſible Methods of Violence and Oppreſſion, to Ruin and Deſtroy them. Purſuant to which Reſolutions, thoſe Factious and Puritanical Miniſters who had revolted to the Parliament (and were by them Thruſt into as many Pulpits as they could fill) had it in their Inſtructions to Traduce the Epiſcopal Miniſters as Papiſts, or Popiſhly Affected; and to repreſent them to the People as Lazy, Idle, Ignorant Curates, Enemies to Godlineſs, and over-run with the Fouleſt and Groſſeſt Immoralities. As this Poyſon work'd throughout the Kingdom, Committees were appointed in Parliament, for Impriſoning and Sequeſtring thoſe Ignorant and Scandalous (that is, Loyal and Epiſcopal) Miniſters. Theſe made a conſiderable Progreſs with the beſt of the Clergy. But for the greater Eaſe and Encouragement of Informers, and thereby to compleat the Reformation, it was judged farther neceſſary, to Erect Committees in all the Counties, Cities and greater Towns of the Kingdom; and to furniſh them with a Power of Sequeſtring, as well the Temporals (whether Real or Perſonal) as the Spirituals, of the Malignant Clergy; which was accordingly done: And this Work proſper'd ſo well in their Hands, that ſoon after, they proceeded to Abolish the Church Government it ſelf, to put down all the Cathedrals, and to Seize the Whole Revenues of thoſe Ancient and Learned Bodies. Nor did they ſtop here; but divers other ſorts of Committees and Commiſſioners were from time to time appointed, as well to perfect the Ruine of the Clergy, as to purge the Univerſities of all Perſons who had any

Digitized by Google

any Pretence, either to Learning or Loyalty. Both which Purpoſes they ſo far effected, by a continu'd courſe of well near Twenty Years Perſecution, that Errors, Hereſies and Blaſphemies without Number, filled many of the Pulpits; and the Miniſtry it ſelf was at laſt deem'd Antichriſtian.

It will be neceſſary in this Caſe, as in the foregoing one, to conſider more particularly, ſome of the Circumſtances: And firſt then, the Perſons thus Ruin'd and Undone, had been all of them, (one perhaps here and there excepted, who might be only a Reading Miniſter, or Officiated the Daily Service in ſome of the Cathedrals) bred in the Univerſities, great Numbers of them were Doctors in Divinity, far the greater Part of the Remainder were, in all Probability, Maſters in Art, and but very few who were without the Degree of Batchelour in that Faculty. Add to this, That they had been Regularly ſet apart for the † Miniſtry, by the Hands of that Venerable Order of Men, to whom alone the Chriſtian Church hath ever committed That Office. Beſides which, there were among them Perſons of the higheſt Eminence and Diſtinction; ſuch as the Laws advance to the Peerage of the Realm; and others, whoſe Dignities are attended with particular Reverence and Eſteem; as likewiſe ſuch, who had otherwiſe render'd themſelves conſpicuous both for Piety and Learning, over the whole Chriſtian World.

The Prof. to the Liſt of the Clergy ſequeſter'd in Hampſhire, hath this obſervable Paſſage, to the Purpoſe I am now conſidering. 'People 'who have been 'ſo long miſled, may judge 'which Side 'have moſt reaſon to cry out 'of Perſecution, whether the 'Former (i. e. the Loyaliſts) 'who were all 'Ejected and 'Plunder'd, moſt 'all this done 'by the Former; who ' Sequeſter'd, and many Impriſon'd and Murther'd; ſome by the pretended Sword of Juſtice, others Starv'd and Poyſon'd; and ' come not to Law, by Rebels and Traytors: Or the Latter, (i. e. the Nonconformiſts) who are not a quarter of the Number of the ' firſt, for not conforming to the Government of the ſame Church which gave moſt of them their Orders, and is Eſtabliſhed by the Ancient Fun- ' damental Laws of the Land; and ſecondly, becauſe they may not be permitted to live in a perpetual Freedom to alter the Government of Church ' and State whenſoever they have Opportunity, are only Ejected out of thoſe Livings which moſt of them Enjoy'd by Rapine, and permitted to ' keep thoſe Great Riches which they got by preaching Rebellion.'

† Except ſome of the Fellows, &c. of Houſes.

It muſt be further conſider'd alſo, that they had been Regularly, and according to Law, admitted to thoſe Places, of which they were Diſpoſſeſs'd, and had as good and undoubted a Title to them, as any Gentleman in the Kingdom had to his Eſtate; that they not only Suffered in their Spirituals, but in their Temporals likewiſe; being, as well by the Ordinances and Committees of the Times (as by the Soldiers of the Rebel Army) ſtripp'd of every Penny that could be Diſcover'd (whether Real or Perſonal, Goods or Eſtate) and ſent with their Miſerable Families, to Beg, or Starve; whilſt ſuch of their Friends among the Laity, as were alone willing to aſſiſt them, had been likewiſe involved in the ſame Common Ruine; that they not only Suffer'd in their Eſtates, but in their Perſons; ſome Thouſands of them in all probability, being at one time or other, either in Cuſtody, or Impriſoned, and that too, by a new and Barbarous Invention, in the Ships, under Decks: Nor were they Treated in thoſe Priſons with the common Methods of Oppreſſion, but thruſt into Dungeons, and otherwiſe ill uſed, or forc'd to redeem themſelves from thoſe extraordinary Arts of Cruelty, with ſuch Sums as did effectually Ruine them; yea, there was once a Project on Foot to Sell ſome of the moſt Eminent of them (ſeveral Doctors in Divinity and Maſters of Colleges) to the Turks for Slaves; and a conſiderable Progreſs was made in that Horrid Purpoſe: Nor are there wanting ſeveral Inſtances of ſuch as were Murther'd; ſome by a pretended Sword of Juſtice, and others by the more common and ordinary Barbarities of the Times. It muſt be yet ſubjoyn'd, That they were not diſpoſſeſs'd by the Regular and orderly Proceedings of any known Law of the Land, but by the ſole Authority of the Blackeſt Rebellion and Uſurpation that ever Infeſted any Nation; That the True Cauſes of their Sufferings were Matters of Unqueſtionable Duty; namely, their Fidelity to that Prince and that Church, to each of which their Conſciences were bound by many Sacred and moſt Solemn Obligations; and that therefore (ſome few Inſtances excepted) they were altogether Innocent of thoſe things for which they Suffered; unleſs when the Duties now mentioned, were laid to their Charge, and were more particularly injured by thoſe Horrid Immoralities alledged againſt Them; which for that Reaſon, were no Inconſiderable Aggravations of their Miſeries; That allowing the Uſurped Authority of thoſe Times to have been Valid; yet they were Condemn'd and Puniſh'd, not only beſide, but even contrary to the Ordinances of the Rebellion it ſelf; ſometimes without Tryal, or ſo much as a Summons; at other Times, by Witneſſes (if they may be ſo call'd) without Oaths; and theſe, known Enemies to their Miniſter, and frequently made ſo by Reproof, or by Demanding his Due; and yet again, Fellows of the meaneſt Conditions, and the moſt Proſtitute and Proſligate Lives. By Laws alſo ex poſt Facto, and for Things done at the Diſtance of Ten and Twenty Years paſt, ſome of which were never made Penal before; and the worſt of them not till that Time, ever puniſh'd with the Loſs of a Freehold; and with Ten Thouſand other Arts and Methods of Oppreſſion, which I forbear to think of, leſt, if I gave my ſelf that Liberty, I ſhould not be able to forbear filling Pages with Them; not to ſay, that many of them were Diſpoſſeſs'd at the Arbitrary Will of a General, or Neighbouring Governour, or of any ſingle Perſon in Vogue or Power, in thoſe Times. The Flunders, Rapines and other Treatment they met with from the Soldiery, is inexpreſſible: But it muſt not be omitted, that the very Men whoſe Hiſtory is given in the Abridgment, and of whoſe Sufferings ſuch loud Complaint is there made, were ſome of them, the chief Promoters of theſe Sufferings of the Loyal Clergy; That many of them were the immediate Actors in them, and that perhaps the one half of them had ſucceeded (either mediately or immediately) in the Livings of the Sequeſter'd Clergy, and Eaten for many Years together, the Bread of theſe Starving Families, to which they had no more Right, than the moſt open Thief or Robber, to what he Takes on the High way; Notwithſtanding ſo many Hundreds of them have no other Title to the Perſecution of the Ejectments mention'd in the Abridgment, than their giving up thoſe Livings again to the Right Owners on the Return of the King. I have only to add more, that the very Period of their Sufferings had its Iſſue but Two Years before this very Time of Perſecution, which the Abridgment complains of; and that as the Degrees of their Sufferings did on all Accounts exceed thoſe of the Ejected, and Silenc'd Nonconformiſts; ſo did their Numbers likewiſe, which Reckoning thoſe only that were Sequeſter'd, and Turn'd out of their Freeholds, amounted to about 7000; and taking into the Account ſuch Perſons as the Abridgment doth, could not in all probability, fall much ſhort of Ten thouſand.

Digitized by Google

With this View then of the Two Facts on which the Ninth Chapter (now the Second Volume) of the Abridgment, and the Preſent ATTEMPT, are reſpectively founded, let us proceed to enquire, whether the Former did not give a juſt Occaſion to the Latter: And who doth not at the firſt Sight perceive, that the Ninth Chapter of the Abridgment, under the Circumſtances now mention'd, was a Provocation not eaſily to be Reſiſted? Add to this, that it could not well be look'd on as other than a Challenge; and there is no doubt, we ſhould have been Poſted, had we not Accepted it: Beſides, Silence in this Caſe might have been taken for Conſent; and therefore not to have pleaded to the Indictment, muſt have Condemn'd us for Mutes, and been Conſtrued, our chuſing rather to Suffer under the heavy Load of the manifold Imputations laid on us, than to run the Riſque of the Hatchet, or the Halter; eſpecially ſince the Party were ſo ſet on making good their Allegations, that the Bill firſt drawn againſt us in a ſingle Chapter, is now become a ſeparate Volume. However, theſe Conſiderations, tho' they concurr'd to encourage me in the Undertaking, would never of themſelves have determined me to it; but the main and principal Motive that prevailed with me to Engage in ſo Troubleſome and Hazardous an Enterpriſe, was the Wiping off the Foul Scandal of Perſecution, ſo plentifully Heap'd on the Church; and more particularly, on the laſt Act of Uniformity, (the main Boſs of it in the Capacity of a Legal Eſtabliſhment) which is by the Abridgment, on this Occaſion, charged with ſo many Heavy Imputations, and ſo many Black and Odious Conſequences, as ſurely well deſerve to be Refuted.

Had Dr. Calamy indeed wrote that Chapter only to ſhew, that tho' the Diſſenters when in Power, Exerciſed the utmoſt Barbarities upon the Church; yet the Church, in his Opinion, was not altogether to be acquitted of ſome Severity. I ſay, had this been his Purpoſe, he might have continued Unanſwer'd for me: But ſince he hath paſs'd the wholeſom Proviſions of a neceſſary Law, into a moſt Cruel and Outragious Perſecution; and hath repreſented them as far Exceeding the Unheard of Inhumanities of a Real Perſecution, not Exerciſed upon, but by, his own Party; ſuch an Allegation, ſurely, Merited a Thorough Examination; eſpecially if it be conſidered, that there never was a more ſtanding and Popular Clamour rais'd on the Church, than this of the Bartholomew-Sufferers, now at laſt Finiſhed, and Compleated in the Abridgment. The Author of Perſ. Undec. (P. 3, 4, 5.) hath ſome very obſervable Paſſages to the Purpoſe at preſent under Conſideration, ſuggeſting, that the Miſeries of the Clergy would fill Volumes. He adds, that his own Undertaking was only a 'Short Copy for others to 'follow, and to ſhew the Puritans, that all Men do not Sleep; but ſome ſtand 'Watching ſtill to give the World Warning of ſuch Hypocrites:' And then Regretting the Want of a more Full and Compleat Hiſtory of thoſe Barbarities, he adds, eſpecially 'conſidering the Multitude of Scandalous Pamphlets, Parliament-Speeches, Centuries, Declarations,' (abundantly ſupply'd by the ſingle Performance I am concern'd with) 'Publiſhed all, and Faced with Authority of 'Parliament ——. Title enough to charm the World, eſpecially Poſterity, in'to a Belief of ſuch Authentick Records, ſhould no particular COUNTER-WORK 'of Truth be left, to oppoſe ſuch Slanders; for as yet there is none; and 'probably, if either an Act of Oblivion ſhould happen, or Time waſte away 'the Preſent Clergy (who by Reaſon of the Fury of this Age, dare not write 'their own Sufferings; nor by Reaſon of their being ſo ſcatter'd, can bring 'them

Digitized by Google

'them to a General Collection) never any may come forth, whereby the Puritans Lies, and shameful Slanders of the Clergy of this Generation, would 'pass for current Truths: Whereas the Faction themselves know, and cannot 'but acknowledge, (as I have heard some of them say) that they could never 'have taken a Worse Time against the Bishops of England, whose Personal Ho-'nest Lives were so Eminent ——. And for the Persecuted Clergy of the 'Church of England, I am Confident, it is their Hearty Desire (and I dare in 'their Names, make this solemn Appeal to Posterity) —— that they might ob-'tain a Legal Tryal, to know what Evil they have done; that it may appear, 'whether Scandalous Accusers, and Scandalous Judges, have not made a Scandalous 'Clergy, and not found them such.

I well know (and have observed as much in the Entrance of the Work) that Recrimination is no Purgation; and that his most Excellent Majesty King Charles the First made this Reply to some about him, when they proposed to him a Project of Retorting on the Party in the Beginning of the Rebellion. But then, I desire, it may be particularly consider'd, that the Sufferings of the Loyal Clergy now publish'd, make but one Part of that Answer which is intended (as every Body that will be pleased to look into the Second and Third Pages of the Book, will readily perceive.) And it is, and must be allowed by every one, that Recrimination, tho' no thorough Vindication, is however a Just, and in some Cases, a Necessary Part of a Reply: Not to observe, that it may frequently serve to many other Good and very Allowable Purposes. If there be any need of proving this, I beg, it may be farther consider'd, whether an Answer to those Charges of the Abridgment, would not have been thought Strangely Defective, had it not taken notice of those much greater Numbers and Sufferings of the Loyalists in the Times of the Rebellion; and if such a Return in General, ought to be made, why it becomes Criminal to draw it out into the several Particulars, it would, I believe, be very Difficult to shew. Our Blessed Lord himself hath in some Measure Countenanc'd this Way of Proceeding, by that known Saying, Thou Hypocrite, first cast out the Beam out of thine own Eye, and then shalt thou see clearly to cast out the Mote out of thy Brother's Eye. And let it be Determin'd, how very Natural and Obvious such a Practice is, from what these Men themselves have Threaten'd to Return in Opposition to this Undertaking: And if they can so readily think of this, when their Sufferings fall on all Accounts so much short of what the Church hath Endured from themselves, I Appeal to any Reasonable Man, whether they would not much sooner have Undertaken it, had their Case been the Reverse: For had I begun the Controversie, and Furnished out a Pompous Relation of the Sufferings of a few Church men, let every Body Judge, whether they would not have Thought Dr. Calamy fully Justify'd to set forth an Account of the much greater Numbers and Sufferings on their Part; provided only, the Unquestionable Truth and Certainty of the Fact would have Enabled him to do it. In a Word, if a Roman-Catholick should charge a Protestant with Cruelty, would he not presently retort upon him with the Irish and Paris-Massacres? and surely, when the Party open their Mouths so Wide with the Clamours of Persecution, it must be Deem'd the most Reasonable Method in the World, to stop them, by saying, that themselves when in Power, Ejected five Times greater Numbers of the Episcopal Clergy, and Oppress'd them in a Thousand Times greater Degrees, than ever their own Friends Suffer'd from the Establishment.

See Full. C. Hist. L. 11. Cent. 17. p. 208. and Heyl. Hist. Laud. p. 471.

Matt. 7. 5.

It is plain then, by what is here last Observed, that the Recrimination I have undertaken, is both Necessary and Allowable, in order to silence those loud and many Outcries of Persecution, wherewith the Party have continually clamour'd against the Church. Nor is it without a peculiar Influence in the present Case: For since, as I have before observ'd, Personal Gifts and Qualifications have been always made the chief Support of the Separation; particularly, those of Charity, Meekness and Peaceableness, as the Ornaments of themselves; and the contrary ones, of Violence and Persecution, as the Characteristicks of their Adversaries: And since, as I must now further say, their Leaders have agreed to claim to themselves, and mutually to distribute to one another, the distinguish'd Graces here mention'd, in such a manner, that these bare Claims and Affirmations have not only pass'd upon their Deluded Followers, for the greatest Realities; but some among them, I am perswaded, have verily thought themselves those Meek and Humble Persons, on no better Grounds, than because it was a Mode and Fashion in their Party to pretend to them.

For these Reasons, I say, there can be no more ready way to undeceive the People, and dispose them to entertain favourable Sentiments of the Establish'd Church, than to let them see, that their Leaders have raised those Tragical Exclamations on others, only to divert Peoples Eyes from themselves; That those heavy Accusations have been brought against the Church, only to possess their People with an Opinion that that it is impoſſible they ſhould Themſelves be guilty of what they ſo much condemn, and pretend to abhor in others: And that under all theſe many and continual Pretences to Meekneſs and Peace, they cover over a very Bitter and implacable, a very Turbulent and Reſtleſs Spirit; of which, their Dealings with the Clergy under the Times of the Rebellion, is an Inſtance that can neither be Equall'd nor Gainſaid.

Digitized by Google

See Fuller and Heyl. ubi ſupra.

As to what concerns his Majeſty's Anſwer, it need only be ſaid, that the thing propoſed to him, was to Retort the Deteſtable Scandals and Falſhoods of the Infamous Century (juſt then publiſh'd) by ſhewing, they were, for the moſt part, true only of ſome of thoſe who had adher'd to the Parliament; a thing very different from That of advancing the Hiſtory of the Clergy's Sufferings, in oppoſition to one of the Nonconformiſts.

But tho' the Reaſon now aſſigned, was the Main and Principal Motive to the preſent Undertaking, there were not wanting others, which, as I before intimated, concurr'd to move and incline me to it. The foul and monſtrous Wickedneſs of Traducing ſo many Excellent Perſons with the Odious Names of Papiſts, Drunkards, Ignorant Lazy Curates, &c. (eſpecially, ſince all that Scandal doth in the laſt Reſult, reſt on the Church it ſelf) was, I thought, highly neceſſary to be obviated; and the rather, becauſe the Tincture of thoſe Calumnies is not yet quite worn out; or, had it been ſo, they are again Reviv'd in the Abridgment, and from thence Transferr'd into other Books and Papers, as well as into the Minds of no inconſiderable Number of the People. But the Falſhood of ſuch Charges will, I hope, be fully made out, before I have ended this Hiſtory: And on the other hand (which was another Motive) the Church of England will, I promiſe my ſelf, in this View, appear more Glorious, than perhaps under any Period of Time ſince the Reformation: The many Men of Excellent Piety, and even of the Celebrated Moderation, which will be found then waiting at her Altars, muſt of neceſſity enable her to yield a very advantageous Proſpect to every conſiderate Beholder; and that diſtinguiſh'd Luſtre with which the Chriſtian Church hath always ſhone under Perſecution, will be very conſpicuous in this truly Apoſtolical Branch of it; whilſt the Clergy, to preſerve their Fidelity to the Church and his moſt Sacred Majeſty, did in † ſuch Numbers, and with ſuch an obſervable Unanimity, leave, not only their Livings, but their Goods and Temporal Eſtates, to (the Mercy, I was going to ſay, but I mean) the Inhumane Cruelty of thoſe Plunderers; and what is much more, their Wives, and tender helpleſs Children (ſome of them Ten, and others ſeveral more) to the almoſt as mercileſs Hands of Want and Famine; and were content, in purſuit of the ſame righteous Purpoſes, to be Starved Themſelves, or to Rot and be Stifled in thoſe many Dungeons which the Nation had before; and when theſe were filled, in the new-invented ones of the Ships; where they were more ready for an intended Tranſportation (worſe than Death) to Turkiſh Slavery. That theſe Examples well deſerve, and are in this Juncture highly neceſſary to be laid before the Clergy, I have at large obſerv'd in another Place; and therefore now proceed to add, That the Perſecutions of the Church (and ſurely no one will diſpute that Title to this Uſage) have been always written and preſerved with a particular Veneration. Nor have any ſort of People diſcovered more Satisfaction in Reading them, than Thoſe who have ſo much objected to that Hiſtory of the Church's Sufferings I have now undertaken. There can be no greater Inſtance of this, than the known, and particular Regard they pay to Mr. Foxs Acts and Monuments, and a later Hiſtory of the Reformation: And it cannot be queſtion'd, they would with the ſame Delight, read the Perſecutions ſet forth in the Enſuing Hiſtory, had not Themſelves been the Chief Actors in them. I have only farther to ſay, That as the Ruine of the Church and the Sufferings of the Clergy were Two of the greateſt Incidents of the Black Tragedy begun in 1640, and have not yet been purpoſedly handled by any Writer: ſo I would hope, This may prove no improper Attempt towards compleating even the Civil Hiſtory of the Rebellion.

† Which Dr. Lamy thinks an irrefragable Argument in favour of the Perſons in his Uſe. See Prof. to V. II. Edit. 4. p. 5.

But I am not yet to Diſmiſs the Reaſons of this Undertaking, until I have particularly conſider'd an Objection or Two that have not yet fallen in my Way; and therefore are not ſo directly Obviated by any thing that hath been hitherto ſaid: And theſe are, the Charge of Raiſing Fewds and Animoſities, and the Danger of putting the Oppoſite Party on Raking into, and Publiſhing the Scandals of the Clergy.

And for this Purpoſe, I muſt firſt acquaint the Reader, that the Former of theſe is, the Joynt Clamour made by the Author of the Teſt of the Church of England's Honeſty, The Obſervator, The Writer of the New Years Gift (all before mention'd,) and by ſuch others of the Party, as are Senſible the Tranſactions of their Predeceſſors will never be able to bear the Light. And therefore, in Return to it, I deſire it may be noted in the firſt Place, that the Objection carries Guilt in its very Countenance, and is little better than a Plain Confeſſion of the Fact: For what doth the Charge of raiſing Animoſities ſuppoſe, but this, that the Thing indeed is in it ſelf both very True, and very Shameleſs; and therefore ought not to be made Publick, becauſe it will bring an Odium on thoſe that were concern'd in it? I muſt add, Secondly, that as I have before ſhewn, all Dr. Calamy's Reaſons hold good for me; ſo this principal Objection likewiſe againſt me, falls firſt, and moſt directly upon himſelf; and Glancing only towards me, is therefore quite ſpent before it can come Home: For if there be any thing in this Reaſoning, it proves a Flat Condemnation of the Abridgment; becauſe it muſt of Neceſſity light with its Greateſt (if not its Only) Force, on the Perſon that Began, which, every body knows, was Dr. Calamy; and if I am not Wholly Innocent, it is one Point gain'd, to be leſs Guilty. But to this Purpoſe, it muſt be further obſerved in the Third Place, (tho' one would think there ſhould be no need of obſerving it) that I am wholly on the Defenſive. I have before ſaid, and now repeat it, that I had never the leaſt Thoughts of an Undertaking of this kind, until I ſaw the Abridgment: Nor did I at laſt Engage in it, but with a Proſpect of Diſcharging the Church from thoſe many and Grievous Imputations laid on Her in that Work. Whatever I have therefore Attempted, was wholly occaſion'd by, and only in Anſwer to it; and that there was abundant Occaſion for ſuch an Anſwer, that the Performance itſelf aloud call'd for it, and did in a manner Extort it, hath been, I hope, fully ſhewn in the Former Parts of this Preface. Whether a Man therefore can be juſtly Charged with railing Animoſities, whilſt he only plays the Neceſſary, and moſt Allowable Part of Self Defence, is left to any Reaſonable Perſon to Determine. I am ſure, theſe were the Sentiments of the very Perſons themſelves who firſt made this Objection Publick: For they do not appear to be Conſcious to themſelves of any Imputation of this kind on thoſe Undertakings, wherewith they Threaten to Confront this Hiſtory; but think themſelves juſtified both before God and Man, to write Hiſtories more oppoſite in their Nature than in their Deſign, to this Attempt of mine; and do not Diſcover the leaſt Suſpicion of being Charged with raiſing Animoſities, becauſe they Imagine I have given them a juſt Occaſion, altho' that Occaſion comes ſo very ſhort, as I have before ſhewn, of what the Abridgment hath given me: And there is yet further Evidence, how little they think this Objection will have in it, as ſoon as the True Reaſons of my Undertaking come to be known: For tho' they cite thoſe very Papers (for the Notice of my Deſign) wherein I acquaint every Body, that it was attempted in oppoſition to Dr. Calamy's Liſt of the Nonconformiſts; yet all of them are Silent in this Matter, and proceed to deal with me as tho' I had been the Aggreſſor, and had of my ſelf and of my own meer Motion, begun the Controverſie: A plain Token, that they well knew, ſhould thoſe to whom they Wrote, be Inform'd, I had only Attempted an Anſwer to what had been advanc'd againſt the Church, their Clamorous Out-cries of Feuds and Animoſities, would have loſt all their Weight, and paſs'd only for Noiſe and Nonſence. And the ſame Methods have been uſed, when this Objection hath been Moved (as I have been told it often hath) in ſeveral Converſations: For tho' it be ſo very Notorious, that my whole Undertaking is only, as is now ſaid, an Anſwer to Dr. Calamy, and occaſion'd wholly by his Book; yet, to my great Aſtoniſhment, I find, that not One of them takes the leaſt Notice of that Matter; but all agree to Condemn it with the Hardeſt Cenſures of the kind now mention'd; and ſome of them, even whilſt they Extol in the ſelf ſame Breath that very Performance of Dr. Calamy, which rais'd the Conteſt, as tho' they had not been Informed, that the One was occaſion'd by the Other; or if they did know it, were poſſeſs'd with that common Miſtake, that it is he who gives the Second Blow, and not he who Strikes the Firſt, that Breaks the Peace.

All ubi ſupra.

an

If what hath been hitherto ſaid, may not yet be thought ſufficient to Silence this Objection; let it be further conſider'd, that the Author of Perſec. Undec. as before Cited, Expreſſes his Wiſhes of ſuch an Undertaking (and that too, for the very Reaſons I have Aſſign'd) without being aware of any Animoſities, or other Ill Conſequences, that might Attend a Performance ſo very Neceſſary for the Service of the Church; nay, the Preface to the Liſt of the Clergy Sequeſter'd in Hampſhire, is ſo far from Apprehending the objected Effect of Feuds and Animoſities, that he Imagines, it would tend to the quite contrary One, of Creating 'a right Underſtanding '—— in the good People of this Land;' and that 'if every one who loves their 'own Poſterity, and the Peace of Sion, would' contribute towards it, 'by God's 'Bleſſing, the Happineſs of the Nation' might thro' that Means, 'be Settled 'upon a Sure and Laſting Foundation.' Add to this, that David Lloyd, who was a Moderate Man, thought it no Inconſiſtency with that Character, to Undertake, and Publiſh a Work in Folio, of a Nature not altogether different from what I have here Attempted; the whole of it being an Account of thoſe worthy Perſons who Suffer'd for his Majeſty's Cauſe; and the Clergy make no Inconſiderable Part of his Number. See him in Wood, ubi ſupra. His Memoirs

But to Diſpatch this Difficulty in one Word; whilſt the Undertaking is Directed to ſo many Great and Needful Purpoſes for the Service of the Eſtabliſh'd Church, the Fears that it may be Abuſed, can never Superſede the Plain and Neceſſary Uſes of it: The Argument would hold with Equal Force againſt the Noble Lord Clarendon's Hiſtory of this ſame Rebellion; and indeed againſt the Hiſtory of any Rebellion or Perſecution whatſoever, whilſt there are any remaining of the ſame Principles with thoſe who were the chiefeſt Actors in them; and is ſo far from being concluſive to the purpoſe for which it is now alledg'd, that it doth indeed ſtrongly conclude on the oppoſite Side of the Queſtion; becauſe the principal Uſe of ſuch Hiſtories, is, not to ſet forth a bare Dead Narrative of a thing which once happen'd, and is never like to come to paſs again; but to warn againſt Misfortunes, as very well may, and moſt probably will return, without due Heed and Circumſpection. In ſhort, it would be thought a very ſlender Reaſon againſt a juſt and neceſſary War, to ſay, that an Army when raiſed, may poſſibly commit many Diſorders; eſpecially, if that War be a Defenſive one; and this pretended Difficulty is ſtarted by the Invaders themſelves, or by thoſe, who on the firſt Opportunity, are ready to join them.

Digitized by Google

The remaining Objection, That the Party may poſſibly be hereby provok'd to Enquire into, and Publiſh the Scandals of the Clergy, will receive a much ſhorter Anſwer. It might indeed, with good reaſon, be reply'd, That the Party are little oblig'd to Thoſe who put this Objection, ſince it ſuppoſes them ſo ready for the Practice of a Wickedneſs which the preſent Undertaking (as is already obſerv'd in another Place) doth by no means direct them to. However, they have themſelves taken care to cut off this Anſwer, and ſhewn, That there was but too much Reaſon for the Suppoſition on which the Objection is grounded, having expreſsly threaten'd to do the ſhameful thing mention'd in it; and, to their laſting Infamy, proceeded in Fact to put it in Practice, by Reprinting as much of the Scandalous Century, as they thought to their purpoſe, under the Title of a New-Years Gift, &c. And, not content with That, have the Confidence to ſuggeſt ſomething of † Living Naiſances likewiſe: Altho' this Century hath been ſo much the Abhorrence of every ſober Perſon, the Calumnies and Falſhoods of it are ſo manifeſt, and their Reviving of them, and Threatening to Improve them, is ſo nauſeous and deteſtable, that I am fully convinc'd, had they not already put it out of their power to deny the Fact, they would plentifully have railed at me, for barely ſuggeſting, They intended to follow ſuch an Odious and Hateful Method of Replying.

See the Teſt of the Ch. of Engl Honeſty, and the Obſervator Reviv'd, as before cited.

† Preſ to the New-Years Gift.

I am forced therefore, not only to ſuppoſe they will, but to ſay, they actually have taken this Courſe already; and yet I can find no Weight in the Objection:

For when it ſhall be conſider'd, That in the Two Centuries of Years ſince the Reformation, the Clergy of the Eſtabliſhment have not probably been leſs than near an Hundred Thouſand Perſons; it will not be wonder'd, if there have been many found among them, who were a real Scandal to their Profeſſion; and yet that theſe otherwiſe many, are, however, comparatively few, I make no queſtion; and that Great Numbers, who have been by the Lyes and Calumnies of this very Faction, loaded with thoſe Imputations, did in no wiſe deſerve them, is certain and undoubted: Let them proceed therefore if they pleaſe, with the reſt of Mr. White's Infamous Paper (tho' there is but little need of it, becauſe I have my ſelf extracted all the Charges there, and added many Scores more to them;) let them rake together all that immenſe Heap of other Lyes and Slanders, whereby their Predeceſſors continually endeavour'd to render the Church Odious; and more particularly, Thoſe whereby they prepared the way for the Sequeſtrations: To theſe, let them add, if they will venture being Detected, their Recruits of Living Inſtances; and I will not ſcruple to affirm, that when they come to be examined, and when a proportionable Allowance ſhall be made for that Vaſt Number before-mentioned; when Conſideration ſhall be likewiſe had of Thoſe Crimes, which nothing but their own Pretences to Superlative Holineſs, have made ſuch, and of thoſe Real (but comparatively Speaking, Trivial) ones, which the ſame Hypocriſie, attended with their known Talent of Falſhood and Slander, had paſs'd into Outrages and Enormities: I ſay, when theſe Diſcounts ſhall be made, I will undertake, it ſhall appear, that the Reproaches and Allegations of this kind have been one great Part of the Church's Sufferings; and that her Altars have been attended with more and greater Perſons for all Excellent Learning and Piety, than any Church of the ſame Extent, and for the like Number of Years, throughout the whole Compaſs of the Chriſtian World. The Objection therefore implies, That the Church cannot ſtand the Teſt of ſuch an Examination: And I do not wonder, that Thoſe who think ſo bad of her, raiſe this Difficulty: But I am perſuaded better things of her, and have already diſcover'd ſo many of the moſt Shameful Lyes and Calumnies of this ſort, that I am not in the leaſt mov'd with this Suggeſtion.

If there yet wants any thing to compleat the Reply to the Objections now mentioned; or if there be any Objections themſelves yet unmentioned, they will all receive a Full Anſwer, in the Authority of thoſe many Great and Venerable Names that have lent their Countenance or Aſſiſtance to the ATTEMPT; and thereby given in an abundant Atteſtation to the Juſtice and Reaſonableneſs of the Deſign:

I

I ſay, of the Deſign; for I would not in the leaſt Intereſt, and concern them in the many Weakneſſes and Imperfections of the Performance. I ſhall not be particular in mentioning thoſe Names, until I come to ſpeak of That Aſſiſtance: But I muſt in this Place ſay, That there are among them Thoſe of the Two Moſt Reverend Metropolitans; Thoſe likewiſe of many Right Reverend Prelates of each Province; as alſo of many other Reverend Perſons of diſtinguiſh'd Eminence and Learning; and the general Concurrence of the Reverend the Parochial Clergy, is ſo well known, that it would be altogether needleſs to mention it; only it is further neceſſary to obſerve, That ſeveral who will be found in this Liſt, being Perſons for whom the Party themſelves have expreſs'd a great Eſteem and Veneration, and particularly celebrated for that Moderation which is ſo directly oppoſite to Feuds and Animoſities, they can by no means except to their Teſtimony in the preſent Caſe.

Determin'd then by the Reaſons before mention'd, and therefore I hope, with very good ones, I ſet my ſelf to the Undertaking: And becauſe the Path was in a manner wholly untrodden, I found my ſelf oblig'd, firſt, to Encounter the Difficulty of Beating out my Road, as well as that of Travelling it afterwards: For at my ſetting out, I was in good meaſure uninformed whether any things of this kind had been already Publiſh'd; much leſs did I know if any ſuch there were, what they might be; and I was even yet more at a loſs for the Knowledge of ſuch Records or Manuſcripts, as might yield me any Aſſiſtance. In order therefore to diſcover ſuch Pieces as had been made publick, I ran over the Printed Catalogue of the Bodleian Library, together with Anth. Wood's Account of the Works of the Oxford Writers, in the Two Volumes of his Athenæ, and Turned over ſeveral Large Collections of the Pamphlets of thoſe Times. What the Event of theſe Enquiries was, I ſhall ſay by and by: But I muſt obſerve in this place, That the Bodleian Library being augmented near the one half, as I gueſs, ſince That Catalogue was firſt Printed; and the Titles of Books not always directly, and but ſeldom fully ſuggeſting the Contents and Subject-matter of them, it is not improbable but I muſt have over-look'd ſeveral that might be in ſome kind or other, to the purpoſe of my Undertaking: And there is yet leſs Queſtion to be made, but that a Thouſand things of this nature are occaſionally mentioned in ſome or other of them, which could never be gather'd from a Calendar of the Title-Pages.

In purſuit of ſuch Informations as I hoped, might be gather'd from Records and Manuſcripts, I ran over likewiſe the Oxford Catalogue of Manuſcripts in England, went in Perſon to all the more publick * Offices in London, ſuch as the Parliament-Office, the Houſe of Commons-Office, the Rolls, the Paper-Office, his Grace the Arch-biſhop of Canterbury's, and the Biſhop of London's Regiſters, the Firſt-Fruits-Office, and ſeveral others; I was permitted likewiſe to Turn over the Papers and Manuſcripts at Lambeth; and becauſe I was diſappointed in my Expectations at moſt of theſe Places, I Endeavour'd from thoſe Acts, Ordinances and Orders which Erected the ſeveral Committees, Commiſſioners, &c. and from ſuch other Hints as I could get of them, to Trace their Papers and Proceedings, tho' as the Event Proved, with very little Effect: But the greateſt Hopes I had Conceiv'd in this kind, were from the Informations of ſuch Learned Perſons as had a more than common Reputation for Antiquities, and from ſome other Reverend Perſons whom the Convocation-Diſputes then on Foot, had led to moſt of the publick Offices in the Kingdom, where any Matters of Eccleſiaſtical Concern were likely to be Found: On this Proſpect therefore, I preſum'd to write, or wait on their Lordſhips, the Preſent Right Reverend Biſhops of Lincoln, Carliſle, and Rocheſter, the Reverend Dr. Humphrey Prideaux, Dr. Todd, Dr. Hutton of Aynhoe, Dr. Kennet, the very Learned Mr. Baker of St. John's College in Cambridge, Mr. Chancellor Tanner of Norwich, and the Honourable Sir Philip Sydenham of Brympton in Somerſetſhire, whoſe Knowledge in Biography is ſurely Equal, if not Superior to that of moſt Perſons in the Kingdom.

* The Tower only excepted, where the Right Reverend the Lord Biſhop of Lincoln's Searches having carried him juſt before that time, he was pleaſed to aſſure me, no Papers of the kind I enquir'd after, were to be found.

It was not poſſible that all theſe Enquiries ſhould be wholly Fruitleſs; however, the Reſult of them was by no means ſuch as might have been expected; becauſe the Proceedings of the Committees, Commiſſioners, &c. which I chiefly had in View, were (as is ſaid in another Place) either not taken at all, or for the moſt part Loſt, Conceal'd, or which ſeems not Improbable, Purpoſedly Deſtroy'd. The Catalogue of the Manuſcripts, &c. did indeed Direct to ſeveral Papers, out of which it is probable I might have Supply'd the Chriſtian Names, the Dates of Admiſſions, and ſome other Circumſtances relating to ſeveral of the Sufferers, more particularly, thoſe in the Cathedrals, as likewiſe, ſome Things relating to the Viſitation of the Univerſity of Oxford, and ſome other Particulars of leſs Concern. But becauſe my Aim was rather to Diſcover the Sufferers themſelves, than to Adjuſt theſe Circumſtantials, and chiefly becauſe it was ſo Difficult to Obtain Extracts of thoſe Papers (for they lay very Diſtant, and it was Impoſſible to Inſpect them my ſelf) and becauſe this would have Retarded the Publication ſo much longer, I was forced to lay aſide all Thoughts of making that Uſe of them; for I found but few Things that were otherwiſe directly to the main Purpoſe of my Enquiries. Be-

Digitized by Google

Besides the Methods now mention'd, Dr. Goodall of the Charter House, (who was fallen upon this Design much about the same time with my self) had by an Advertisement in the Gazette, desir'd the Informations of the Reverend the Clergy, and Others, who were capable of Assisting in the Undertaking. This prevented my own Application to them in that way; but his Papers coming afterwards into my Hands, the Benefit of that Advertisement became mine likewise.

However, not being content with that General Request, I waited in Person on many of my Lords the Bishops, and wrote likewise in particular, to those Learned Persons, who were most versed in the Disputing Controversies; and to such others, whose Age, and Personal Knowledge of those Times, might, as I Hoped, enable them to give me some Directions and Information; as also to the Friends and Descendants of the Sequester'd Clergy, as far as I could hear of them. Besides which, I Wrote, in like manner, to each Cathedral; and because I had heard, and had otherwise reason to think, that several of their Old Books were lost in the Confusions, I Suggested, and desir'd that the Admissions of those who immediately Succeeded on the Restoration, might be Examined, which if Full and Compleat, would not fail to mention the Predecessor, and consequently the Successor in each Dignity and Prebend: Nor was this Suggestion without some Success. As for what concerns the Universities, The Reverend Dr. Renuell, then Fellow of Exeter College, was pleas'd to make an Extract of the Visitors Register for each College in the University of Oxford, and to Lodge it in the Hands of one Learned Person of every Society, for his Correction; tho' I can't say with the same Success in all of them. I had Assistances of the like Nature from some Learned Gentlemen (particularly Mr. Baker, just now mention'd) in the other University. And to Obtain an Account of the Parochial Sufferers, I Apply'd by a Printed Letter, to all the Arch-deacons, and by Printed Papers of Queries, which Accompany'd those Letters, to every Clergyman in the Kingdom, as far as these Packets Reach'd the Hands of Those to whom they were Directed; and were by them Distributed, pursuant to my Request. I prepared likewise, and Dispers'd a particular Paper of this kind for the County of Devon; and was once in Person at all the Visitations within that County.

See Part 1 p. 200, 201, 202.

I have already in good Measure prevented my self from saying in this Place, what the Event of these Searches and Enquiries was, and what Materials of each kind, Printed and Manuscripts, they brought me in, and have more particularly given an Account of the Principal Manuscripts in those Places where I had the chief Occasion to make Use of them; for which Reason I need say the less in this Place. Those Printed Pieces then, which more directly Concern'd the Sequestrations, were, as is aforesaid, the General Bill of Mortality, containing a List of the Clergy Ejected in London, and the Places Adjacent; the Oxoni Lachrymæ; the Querela Cantabrigienses; the List of the Clergy Sequester'd in Hampshire, (of which however, I had only a Manuscript Copy.) Mr. White's Century; Mercurius Rusticus; Mr. Lloyd's Memoirs; Anth. Wood's Athenæ Oxonienses; Mr. Rushworth's Narrative; Dr. Sadler's Inquisitio Anglicana; The Articles against Dr. Piers, Bishop of Bath and Wells, Dr. Wren, Bishop of Ely, Dr Heath, Mr. Squire, and Mr. Finch; together with the Answers to some of them, the Lives of some particular Persons, and a few other Pieces of less Note, which may be seen in the Margins of the several Pages where they are Alledg'd.

See Part 1 p. 19, 40, 41, 88, 94, 101, 111 (in the Margin) 151. Part 2. p. 46, 88 (in the Margin) 117, 138.

It seems needless to mention the General Histories of the Times; such as the Noble Lord Clarendon's, Dr. Nalson's, Mr. Whitlock's, &c. and the Collections of the Acts, Ordinances, &c. by Mr. Husband and Mr. Scobell; since these could never be over look'd: Nor could the First Enquiries fail of suggesting to me, That particular Lives, Funeral Sermons, Prefaces, and other Accounts of the Works of the several Sufferers, would be of considerable use; as also their Writings themselves, especially their Controversial ones, and other Papers and Pamphlets of the like nature; but more particularly, the Diurnals, Mercuries, and many such Papers of the Times. But it will be requisite to take notice, that as it cannot be doubted, many Papers of this sort never came to my Knowledge; so my Distance from the great Repositories of Learning, the Publick Libraries of the Universities, and from that best Supply of them, the City of London, prevented me from the Use of several of those, which I had gotten notice of. However, since most of them would, as I judge, rather tend to the Perfecting those Accounts that I have already, than add to the Number of the Sufferers which I chiefly had in View; I was the more Easie under the Want of them, especially considering, that the Perusal of them would probably have very much Retarded the Publication of this Work, which hath been Defer'd but even too long already. Add to this, that as I have before Complain'd, the small Compass of my Reading hath probably left me Ignorant of many Particulars which are Occasionally mention'd in Books of another Nature, (and some of those too, it may be, very common Ones) and that of a considerable Number of Pamphlets which I have gotten together, for the greater Part concern the other Subjects of which I am, God Willing, to speak hereafter.

I

Digitized by Google

I muſt not omit to ſay, that I conſulted likewiſe the Hiſtories and Antiquities of the ſeveral Cathedrals and Counties, as far as they are yet Publiſh'd (tho' I found very little Help from Thoſe of the latter ſort;) and that Mr. Newcourt's Firſt Volume of the Repertorium Eccleſiaſticum (the Second not being come forth when my Firſt Papers went to the Preſs) was of Uſe to me in ſettling the Dates of the Admiſſions, &c. of the Clergy Sequeſter'd in, and about the City of London.

The Manuſcript Papers now remain to be accounted for: And, tho' the Principal of them have been already mention'd on other Occaſions, I ſhall here lay them all before the Reader in one View. Such therefore as I have made uſe of, were, the Journal of the Rebel-Parliament for the Three or Four firſt Years; and ſome interrupted Extracts for Two or Three other Years; a Copy, or Extract of the Proceedings of the Sequeſtrators under the Earl of Manchester, in Five of the Seven Aſſociated Counties, for the Year 1644; together with ſome things relating to the Regulation of the Univerſity of Cambridge, by that Earl; an Extract of the Proceedings of the Committees in Herefordſhire for the Year 1646, made, and tranſmitted to me by the Reverend Mr. Chamberlain of Litton in that County; the Original Account of the Treaſurer to the Sequeſtrators in Cornwall, for the Years 1646, 1647, 1648, and Part of the Year 1649, communicated to me by the Reverend Mr. Ruddle of that County; an Extract of the Regiſter of the Viſitors at Oxford, taken, as is juſt now ſaid, by the Reverend Dr. Rennell, then Fellow of Exeter-College, from the Original yet preſerv'd in the Bodleian Library; the Manuſcript Papers of the Learned Mr. Jeremy Stephens, one of the Suffering Prebendaries of Lincoln, communicated to me by the Reverend Mr. Philip Stubbs; a Copy of the Proceedings of the Second Cloſs in Lancaſhire, ſent me by the late Reverend Mr. Gipps, Rector of Bury near Manchester; ſeveral Papers at Lambeth, which concern the Propagation of the Goſpel in Wales; the Original Accompts of the Sequeſtrators there Tranſmitted to me by the Honourable Mr. Baron Price; the Admiſſion-Books from 1654. to Part of 1659 incluſive, and the Books of the Commiſſioners for the Approbation of Publick Preachers for the ſame Years (that of 1656, excepted;) each of theſe Sets of Books are likewiſe at † Lambeth (and are, if I miſtake not, it being now near Eight Years ſince I examin'd them) for the moſt part, coincident; the one containing the Approbation, the other the Admiſſion of the ſame Perſon: But this is ſure, That the Entries do many times (if the Livings they mention, had been formerly, or then lately Sequeſter'd) occaſionally take notice of thoſe Sequeſtrations; but not always, as I find in ſeveral Inſtances. To theſe I muſt add, the Original Petitions of the Widows of ſeveral Sequeſter'd Miniſters, to the Corporation of Miniſters Widows, preſerved by the Old Mr. Tyllot, juſt now mention'd (late Regiſter to that Corporation) in his Office at the Commons, to which I was directed by the Reverend Dr. Kennet, now Dean of Peterborough; ſeveral looſe Papers which concerned particular Perſons; as, Dr. Peterſon, Dean of Exeter, Mr. Newte of Treverton, and Mr. Blake of Barnſtaple, both in Devon, and Mr. Harriſon of Sandwich in Kent: The Former of Theſe put into my Hands by the Reverend Mr. Egerton of Limpſton in Devon; the Second, by the Reverend Mr. John Newte (Son to that Learned and Worthy Perſon) who ſucceeded in Two of the Rich Portions of that Place, and lately ſerved the Clergy of that County in Convocation; the other procur'd for me by the Reverend Mr. Berry (Grandſon to Mr. Blake) and the Reverend Mr. Lidgold of Rew near Exeter; and the Laſt, by the Reverend Mr. Tho. Byrdall, junior, of Dunchideock near the ſame City; whoſe ſingular Modeſty conceals ſuch a profound Knowledge in the Mathematicks, as very few Perſons of this, or any other Nation, are perhaps, Maſters of: Nor will he be perſuaded to be better known, unleſs his Friends have at laſt prevailed with him to publiſh the Demonſtrations of Sir Iſaac Newton's Principia; all which he hath long ſince drawn out (but on looſe and ſcatter'd Papers for his own Satisfaction only) and in going over them, diſcover'd ſome Miſtakes of that truly Great and Wonderful Perſon, which he was with Difficulty perſuaded to communicate to Dr. Halley; and they having been alſo obſerved by ſome others of thoſe few Great Men that are capable of underſtanding that Work, were accordingly corrected in the Second Edition, not long ſince publiſh'd. I had likewiſe ſome other Odd Papers of leſs Note, relating to the Sequeſtrations of the Clergy; and particularly, ſeveral Looſe Orders of the Committees; and the Applications to the Clergy and others before-mention'd, brought me in about a Thouſand ſeveral Letters and Accounts (but many of them coincident) relating, for the moſt part, to the Sufferings and Sequeſtrations of Particular Perſons.

† Save that one of the Volumes lay in Mr. Tyllot's Office at the Commons, in 1704.

It will be requiſite, before I leave this Head of the Materials, to obſerve, That Dr. Calamy hath in his Preface, made ſeveral Exceptions to the Teſtimony of the Athenæ Oxonienſes, which I have frequently made uſe of in the Second Part: But as Thoſe Exceptions do, for the moſt part, concern the Characters Mr. Wood gives of the ſeveral Nonconformiſts, with which I have little to do in what is now publiſh'd; ſo will it be altogether needleſs to ſpeak to the Credit of That Writer, until I ſhall have occaſion to produce Thoſe Teſtimonies, againſt which Dr. Calamy doth principally Remonſtrate.

Digitized by Google

The mention I have juſt now made of thoſe Gentlemen who ſupply'd me with ſome of the Principal Materials, Naturally leads me to ſpeak in this Place of the other Aſſiſtances I have Receiv'd; and to make my Acknowledgments to thoſe who have been pleas'd to lend them. That theſe Aſſiſtances were not all of the ſame kind, and that they are too many to be Particulariz'd, will be eaſily thought; and it will, I hope, be as eaſily Forgiven me, if in ſo great a Multitude, and in the Courſe of ſo many Years, ſome even among the more Conſiderable of them, may perhaps have eſcap'd my Memory. Add to this, that many Gentlemen having purſuant to the Advertiſement in the Gazette, and the Directions of the Queries, ſent their Informations to the Bookſellers, I could not be always Appriz'd to whom I was Obliged for them.

Under ſuch Circumſtances therefore, the beſt Acknowledgments I am able to make (and theſe, I Humbly Beg them to Accept) will be, to acquaint the Reader, that beſides Thoſe juſt now mention'd (who have each of them likewiſe contributed ſome other Aſſiſtance in one or other of the kinds I am now going to mention) the following Reverend and Learned Perſons were alſo ſeverally pleas'd, either to Countenance or Direct me in the Undertaking, or to ſend me in ſome Materials and Informations, or otherwiſe Contribute towards the Communicating or Celebrating of them; namely, His Grace, the moſt Reverend Father in God, the Lord Arch-biſhop of Canterbury; His Grace, the moſt Reverend Father in God, the Late Lord Arch-biſhop of York; The Late Right Reverend Fathers in God, the Lords Biſhops of London, Ely, Cheſter, Hereford, and Chichester; The Preſent Right Reverend Fathers in God, their Lordſhips the Biſhops of London, Winchester, Worceſter, Glocester, Carliſle, Bath and Wells, Lincoln, Exeter, St. David's, Rocheſter and Briſtol; The very Learned Sir Philip Sydnham, Baronet; The Reverend Dr. Prideaux, Dean of Norwich, and Dr. George Hickes; The Late Reverend Dr. Nicholas, Warden of St. Mary's-College near Winchester; The very Learned and Excellent, Dr. Cave of Windſor; The Reverend Mr. Davies, Arch-deacon of Coventry; and the Reverend Mr. Francis Drake, one of the Prebendaries of York; The Learned Dr. John Potter, Her Majeſty's Profeſſor of Divinity in the Univerſity of Oxford; The Reverend Dr. Baron, Maſter of Baliol-College in the ſame Univerſity; The Reverend Dr. Tanner, Chancellor of Norwich; The Reverend Dr. Woolley, Arch-deacon of Northampton; Dr. Edmond Archer, Arch-deacon of Taunton; Mr. Samuel Hill, Arch-deacon of Wells; and Mr. William Hunt, Arch-deacon of Bath; Dr. Clagett, Arch-deacon of Sudbury; Dr. Warby, Arch-deacon of Colcheſter; Dr. Hugh Todd, of Carliſle; Dr. John Finch of Durham; Dr. Gibſon of Lambeth; Dr. Grandorge, Prebendary of Canterbury; The Reverend Mr. Towgood, one of the Prebendaries of Briſtol; The Reverend Mr. Bennet of Colcheſter; Mr. Samuel Weſley, Mr. Bedford, Mr. Spinkes, Mr. Henry Gandy, Mr. Stuart, Mr. John Bear, Rector of Shermanbury in Suſſex; Mr. John Agate of Exeter; Mr. Lewis Southcombe of Roſe Alh in Devon; Mr. Devereaux, Fellow of Oriel-College; Mr. Anthony Reed, Student of Chriſt-Church; Mr. Strong, and Mr. John Wills, Fellows of Baliol-College; Mr. Joſhua Reynolds, Fellow of C. C. C.; Mr. Smith, Fellow of Univerſity-College in Oxon; Mr. Dod, Fellow of Clare-Hall in Cambridge; Gilbert Parker, Eſq; Regiſter of the Arch deaconry of Canterbury; and Mr. Sewell, Chapter-Clerk to the Venerable the Dean and Canons of Windſor. Nor muſt I forget to ſay in this place, that the Ingenious Mrs. Aſtell likewiſe, was pleas'd to procure for me ſome Conſiderable Papers and Informations.

But the Perſon from whom I received the moſt Aſſiſtance, was the Late Dr. Goodall of the Charter-Houſe, who (as is juſt now ſaid) had undertaken this Subject much about the ſame time with my ſelf, and was afterward pleas'd to give up into my Hands all his Papers; among which, were a Tranſcript of the Proceedings of the Sequeſtrators, in the Aſſociated Counties; a Manuſcript Copy of the Liſt of the Clergy Sequeſter'd in Hampſhire (both before mention'd) and about Sixty Five Letters, Obtained partly by his Advertiſement in the Gazette, and partly, by the other Methods I had my ſelf taken for Informations; ſome of the Returns to which, as I ſince find, were by miſtake ſent to his Bookſellers. The Right Reverend Father in God, the Late Biſhop of Ely, did indeed ſoon after give me Notice of, and Offer to procure for me thoſe Papers of Dr. Nalſon, from which Dr. Goodall's Antimanuſcript had Tranſcribed the Proceedings, &c. and they have ſince been Offer'd me by the Reverend Perſon who hath the Property of them; altho' for Reaſons mention'd in another Place, I was forc'd to Content my ſelf with returning my Acknowledgments for the Tender of theſe Favours, without my Acceptance of them. But I muſt have been wholly without the Liſt of the Hampſhire Clergy, and of the Letters now mention'd, had not Dr. Goodall been pleas'd to Communicate them unto me; for which I deſire to pay a Grateful

Digitized by Google

Grateful Reſpect to his Memory. Nor is it poſſible for me to mention it without being mindful of his, and my own Learned Friend Dr. James Yonge of Plymouth; who not only Diſpos'd Dr. Goodall to do me that great Favour, but Furniſh'd me himſelf likewiſe with many Uſeful Notices and Informations; particularly, with a Liſt of many of the Clergy ſequeſter'd in Cornwall; without which, the Account of that County would have been Miſerably Imperfect.

Moſt of the other Notices came in Single Papers and Letters, and are chiefly owing to the Parochial Clergy, or to ſuch of the Clergy as are in the Matter of thoſe Informations to be Conſider'd in that Capacity, tho' otherwiſe they ſtand related to the Cathedrals; and thoſe Reverend Perſons, will, I promiſe my ſelf, accept of my Thanks in a General Acknowledgment of their Readineſs to promote the Undertaking; ſince the Producing of all their Names would Furniſh out a Liſt of many Hundreds, and be Unneceſſary, becauſe I preſume, it is Unexpected.

Only I muſt not omit to acknowledge in a very particular manner, the great Favour done by my Learn'd, and very worthy Friend, Mr. James Knight of Ninehead in Somerſetſhire; who was content, with great Patience, as well as Exactneſs, to make ſeveral of thoſe many Collations of the different parts of the Liſt that will be aftermention'd; as likewiſe to reduce the Indexes from an Alphabet of the firſt Letter of each Word only, to thoſe of the following ones; and to tranſcribe (from a wretched hand) a large Portion of the Sheets of the Firſt Part, for the Preſs: Nor can I mention this, without adding, as a token of my Gratitude, that the Reſt of that part was either Tranſcrib'd, or Compar'd with the ſoul Copy, by the Reverend Mr. John Collins, Mr. Charles Bayercroft, Mr. Richard Foot, and Mr. Gay of Exeter; the Reverend Mr. Richard Jenkinſon of Ottery-St. Mary in the County of Devon, and Mr. Benjamin Reed, formerly Educated in a private Academy near London, but now a Commoner of Baliol-College in Oxford.

I have only to add, That ſeveral Gentlemen, not yet nam'd, (particularly, the Reverend Mr. Walton, one of the Reſidentiaries of Sarum, and the Reverend Mr. Luke Milbourn) have either ſent me, or procur'd for me many Conſiderable Informations; But theſe relating chiefly to ſuch parts of the Undertaking as will not yet ſee the Light, I forbear to ſay any thing more of them in this place.

Theſe then were my Materials, and Theſe the Perſons to whom I was oblig'd for them. Whether I have been ſo happy, as to make the due and proper Uſe of them, will be ſeen in ſome meaſure, from what I am next to ſay of the Conduct and Diſpoſition of the Work: The General Parts of which being laid down in the Introduction, I ſhall beg leave to refer the Reader thither for them; and only ſuggeſt to him farther, that what is now publiſh'd, will of it ſelf diſcover the Reaſons why the whole Deſign could not be brought within the Compaſs of one Volume. I am indeed but too ſenſible, Time and Leiſure might have retrench'd a great deal of it; but Theſe were what I wanted: And whilſt it was with ſo much difficulty that I got up the Neceſſary Parts of the Building, it could not be imagin'd, that I ſhould entertain any Thought of Finery and Ornament, much leſs was I able to pull down any of the leſs regular Parts again, and erect them a new with more, and better Conformity to the whole. Add to this, That there are a great many parts of it, which may at firſt ſight appear needleſs Exceſcencies and Irregularities, and yet were purpoſely intended, and will, I promiſe my ſelf, prove of the higheſt Uſe and Conveniency; I mean, chiefly, the frequent Exemplifications of the ſelf-ſame Oppreſſions and Accuſations before the ſeveral Committees, Commiſſioners, &c. as well in their General Hiſtory in the Firſt Part, as in the Particular Inſtances of the Second. Theſe take up a very great part of the Work (altho' moſt of them are in a great meaſure Abbreviated and Contracted;) Notwithſtanding which, I was determin'd not to omit them whenever they occurr'd; partly, becauſe a general Word or Two never gives the Reader ſuch a lively Sence of what is related, as the Alledging of Particulars; but principally, becauſe it might fully appear, thoſe Foul Calumnies, and Barefac'd Oppreſſions were not the Lot of ſome few of the Clergy only, but the plain Tenour of the whole Proceedings againſt them thoughout every Period of the Rebellion and Uſurpation. And after all, I am fully perſuaded, ſcarce the one half of the Sufferings of any one Man is related, and not the Thouſandth Part of far the greateſt Number of the Reſt: For which Reaſon, to obſerve that by the Way, ſince a Full and Juſt Account of all the Barbarities and Oppreſſions exercis'd upon them, would fill more than Forty (I am convinc'd, I might ſafely ſay an Hundred) ſuch Volumes as This is, I hope, I ſhall not be arraign'd for a Miſnomer, tho' I have ventur'd to call this Work an ATTEMPT only; which being plainly no other than an Eſſay, this Volume therefore is perhaps the Firſt Folio of more than 160 Sheets, that was ever publiſh'd under ſuch a Title.

It is impoſſible I ſhould mention this number of Sheets, and not remember with Concern, that the Subſcription Paper conjectur'd (but did not promiſe or aſcertain) Them at about 130. I muſt therefore take this opportunity of requeſting the Gentlemen that were pleas'd to Encourage the Undertaking by their Subſcriptions, to be aſſur'd, That this was not the Effect of any Deſign, or Concealment, but was wholly occaſi-on'd

Digitized by Google

on'd by a miſtake of the Printer, in caſting off the firſt Parcel of the Copy that was ſent him; on which the whole Surpluſage of Sheets happens to fall.

But to ſpeak to the Particulars of the Heads diſpatch'd in this Volume: In accounting for the Methods taken (and more particularly, for the Commottees and Commiſſioners) to ruine the Clergy, I have follow'd the more Obvious and Natural Order of Time; purſuing the Hiſtory (as is ſuggeſted likewiſe in another Place) of each Committee, &c. Separately, and Diſtinctly from its Riſe to its Period, tho' at the Diſtance of many Years, before I took notice of any other that was ſet on foot in the intermediate Time, and therefore in good part concurrent with it. I have exemplify'd likewiſe the Proceedings of each of theſe Committees, with one, or more, of the Fulleſt, and moſt Authentick Inſtances (where my Notices enabled me) of their Dealings with ſome particular Clergymen: And Theſe, I hop'd, would contribute to give the Reader a better Notion of their inhumane Oppreſſions, than any General Relation could poſſibly do. This is all I judge neceſſary to be ſaid at preſent of the Firſt Part.

As to what concerns the Second, the Reader will be pleaſed to know, That when I firſt ſet my ſelf to the Undertaking, I had intended only a Liſt of the Cathedrals, the Two Univerſities, the London Clergy, and the Clergy of the County of Devon; which laſt, I meant to have exhibited as a Specimen and Foundation for a Computation of the Numbers of the Parochial Clergy, in other Parts of the Kingdom. Nor had I Thoughts of more than a Bare Liſt, together with a ſeparate Account of ſome of the more diſtinguiſh'd Sufferings. But ſoon after, finding Encouragement in the Receipt of many other Notices, beſides Thoſe relating to the County of Devon, I was determin'd to Attempt an Account of all the Parochial, as well as the Cathedral Clergy; and conſidering, that ſuch a Liſt as I had firſt thought of (tho' it might effectually anſwer the main purpoſe) would however, be in other reſpects, only a Dry and Sapleſs Alphabet; that there were among the Suffering Clergy, many Perſons of Excellent Characters and Learning, whoſe Eminence would in that way of proceeding have been wholly Unknown; or if ſuggeſted, would excite the Reader's Curioſity to know the reſt of their Lives: And laſtly, That the Abridgement hath preſerved, as well the other Notices of the Nonconformiſts, as their ſuppoſed Hardſhips and ill Uſage. On theſe Conſiderations, I ſay, I was reſolved to purſue the ſame Method; and, as far as my Informations enabled me, to give a Short Account of each Sufferer himſelf, as well as of his Sufferings.

The moſt natural Method of purſuing theſe Deſigns, ſeem'd to be that juſt now mention'd, of giving the Preference to the Cathedrals, ſubjoyning to them the Collegiate-Churches, Chapels, &c. Then proceeding to the Two Univerſities of Oxford and Cambridge; after that, to the London-Clergy, (whoſe Singular Eminence, joyn'd with almoſt an Unanimous Confeſſion to his Majeſty's and the Church's Cauſe, well deſerv'd a ſeparate Conſideration;) and to ſpeak in the Laſt place, of the Reſt of the Parochial Clergy; ſuch of them, I mean, as were Incumbents; for I deem'd it neceſſary to mention the Suffering Curates, &c. together with the Schoolmaſters, in an Appendix, on Conſiderations which will be after ſpoken of.

In producing the Liſts of the Clergy, and the Fellows, &c. Ejected in the Two Univerſities, I judged it better, to give the Whole of the Sufferers in each reſpective Church and College, in one View, than to throw all of them into Three General Alphabets. Nor have I obſerved the Order of the Alphabet; but what I thought more proper, the Precedency of their ſeveral Dignities, &c. (as far as I was informed) under each of the Cathedrals, as I ſhould that of Seniority likewiſe in the ſeveral Colleges, had my Notices enabled me to do it: In defect of which, I am ſenſible, I ought to have ranged the Suffering Fellows, &c. according to their Degrees; which, however, I have omitted to do in ſo exact a manner as I might; and therefore must prevent my ſelf, by acknowledging in this place, that it is one of the many Imperfections of the Work.

The Perplexity of ranging three ſeveral ſorts of Perſons under each College, (See the Note at Mr. Middleton in All-Souls-College in Oxford) and the Writing over the Liſt but once, were the chief Occaſions why this happens ſo often in the Account of the Univerſity of Oxford.

But tho' the Sufferers in theſe Bodies are not to be found in the Liſt, in the Form of an Alphabet, the ſeveral Cathedrals and Colleges themſelves, are ranged in that Order: And to prevent ſome Inconveniencies that might be occaſioned by not obſerving that Method with the Perſons that ſuffer'd in them, a Compleat Index of all of them is ſubjoyn'd at the End of the Work.

It muſt moreover be obſerv'd in this Place, That as the Cathedrals and the Collegiate Churches were Utterly Diſſolved,; ſo to compleat the Account of each Church, I have mention'd every one of the Clergy, Members of what Kind or Character ſoever; for this Reaſon (as well as for † others) the Clergy Vicars, Conducts, &c. have a Place in thoſe Liſts; as have likewiſe thoſe very few of the Prebendaries, &c. who ſell in with the Rebellion, or Revolted to the Church of † Which ſee Part. II. p. 2.

Digitized by Google

of Rome: 'For I could not apprehend, it would look ſo well for me to pretend to 'pick and chuſe;' ſince theſe, as well as others, were in the Number of the Sequeſter'd Clergy; and that too, for their Loyalty; 'and had the Honour conferr'd 'upon them, to be Sufferers in a Good Cauſe.' However, I did not purſue this Method, without giving expreſs notice, as far as I was inform'd, of each of theſe ſorts of Perſons, as often as they occurr'd; and readily diſcounting thoſe of the Former ſort (notwithſtanding their Names were inſerted to prevent a Blank;) becauſe I knew it was reaſonable and expected, that I ſhould do it. Nor ſhould I be leſs ready to diſcount the Latter alſo, might I have the Leave of our Adverſaries; ſince they are ſuch Blemiſhes to the Liſt, as nothing but Truth and Honeſty ſhould have perſuaded me to produce: But, God be praiſed, the Number of them is very † inconſiderable. To this muſt be added, That if any of the Clergy in the Cathedrals dy'd after they had been Diſpoſſeſſed, Driven from, or Deprived of their Incomes, and another was Nominated, or Collated to the Dignity, or Prebend, &c. before the Utter Diſſolution of Theſe Bodies, I have in ſuch Caſes mentioned both of them as Sufferers; and have alſo given Thoſe a Place in the Liſt of the Univerſities (particularly, that of Cambridge) who were Turned out on the Independent Teſt of the Engagement; provided only, they had never taken the Covenant, and had otherwiſe perſever'd in their Fidelity to his Majeſty and the Church: But theſe laſt mention'd Caſes likewiſe occur very ſeldom, and are expreſly pointed out as often as they happen. Nor have I omitted to take notice in the Work it ſelf, as well as in this Place, of this Method of proceeding. I have only further to add, with relation to the Cathedrals and Univerſities, That where any Dignitary, Maſter of a College, or other Perſon, was poſſeſs'd of more than one Place, or Benefice, whether in the ſame, or other Churches and Counties, I have accounted for him at his Principal Preferment (as Deanery, Maſterſhip, &c.) and have ſet down there likewiſe in one View, all his other Preferments; mentioning, however, each again in their reſpective Churches or Counties, when I come to them; but always, by an expreſs Note, referring the Reader to the Church, College, &c. where ſuch a Perſon was firſt named, that he may not be impoſed upon, and led to believe, they were different, and ſeveral Perſons. And the ſame Method I have obſerved with thoſe Pluraliſts among the Parochial Clergy, who had Livings in different Counties.

See Preface to the Abridgment, Vol. II. Edit. 2. p. 13.

† See a Note at Dr. Godfrey Goodman, Part II. p. 33.

As to what concerns the Parochial Clergy, the Separate Liſt of Thoſe in London, and the General One of all the reſt throughout the Kingdom, are drawn up in an Alphabetical Order; and all the ſeveral Counties have their Places under each Letter, according to the ſame Order. And I rather choſe the Sequeſter'd Perſons, than the Places, to conſtitute this Alphabet ‡. However, to help the Reader's Memory, and to direct him on his Enquiries, I have drawn up, and added to the Work, an Alphabetical Liſt of all the Sequeſter'd Pariſhes likewiſe; which will not, I hope, be without its Uſe and Advantage.

‡ Which, by reaſon of the interpoſition of the ſucceeding Counties, could not be contin'd according to the Order of all the Letters of each Word, through the Whole of the Sufferers under each Letter; but only through that Part of them in each particular County.

I cannot forbear to ſay, That if Dr. Calamy had purſu'd the ſame Method, it would have ſaved the Readers (tho' I am very ſenſible, it would have created to himſelf) a great deal of Trouble, and been particularly helpful to me in the Examination of his Liſt; which I muſt therefore my ſelf throw into that Method, when I come with more Exactneſs to conſider, and make my Exceptions to it. But on the other hand, in his Firſt Edition, the very Counties themſelves were not ranged in that Order; and although the Second Edition remedieth that Omiſſion, yet it affords no Index of the Pariſhes that are mentioned, nor any of the Perſons themſelves, thoſe only excepted, of whom ſomething beſides their bare Names, is to be found in the Liſt; and indeed with an Index of that kind, the Firſt Edition was furniſh'd.

That the Counties of Wales are not intermixed with Thoſe of England, but placed (in an Alphabetical Order likewiſe) at the End of them; and that the Perſons and Pariſhes, of which I could not aſcertain the Counties, are reſpectively ſubjoined at the End of their Initial Letters, is ſo obvious, that I need only juſt mention it: But it will be neceſſary to add, concerning the Appendix of Curates, Schoolmaſters, &c. and ſuch of the Clergy as were Harraſs'd only, but not Diſpoſſeſs'd (with which the Liſt is cloſed) that as I was on one hand unwilling wholly to omit the ſcatter'd Notices of them which I met with; ſo, on the other, I did not inſert them in the Body of the Liſt, becauſe I had reſerv'd that for ſuch only as were Diſpoſſeſs'd of Freeholds, or Places uſually look'd on Equivalent to them; in which Number, it is ſure, no Cu-racies can be reckon'd: And tho' it be no leſs ſure, that many Schools are of that kind, yet not having made any direct Enquiries after them (as neither indeed did I of the Curates) my Notices have not furniſh'd me with any conſiderable Number of them, nor enabl'd me to determine, which among thoſe few, come under that Denomination, and which not. On theſe Accounts then, and not on any Diſregard to their Station and Character, (moſt of them, as I am well ſatisfy'd, being not only Equal, but Superiour to others who are mention'd in the Liſt it ſelf) the Ejected Curates and Schoolmaſters are ranked in an Appendix with thoſe Clergymen who ſuffer'd in ſome meaſure, but were not wholly deprived of their Livings.

Digitized by Google

To the Appendix now mention'd, I was adviſed when I firſt ſet out in the Undertaking, to Subjoyn another of the Clergy, Ruin'd by the ſame Rebellion, in Scotland and Ireland; and thoſe likewiſe, Barbarouſly Rabbl'd out of their Livings in the Former of thoſe Kingdoms, at the Revolution: For which Purpoſe, I had procur'd all the Printed Papers Relating to this laſt mention'd Affair, and had alſo Noted down ſome few of the Sufferers in Ireland, as they now and then Occurr'd to me in my other Searches; but I ſoon found, that the Account of thoſe in England was more than I ſhould be able to Compaſs in ſeveral Years; and was therefore Obliged to leave the Subject of the Scots and Iriſh Clergy, to ſome other Perſon; which, it is to be Wiſh'd, at leaſt, if not Hoped, may be one time or other found, to do them Juſtice.

I leave the other Parts of the Work (ſo far, I mean, as the Method and Diſpoſition of it is Concern'd in them) to ſpeak for themſelves, and proceed now to add ſomething concerning the Different Sorts of Perſons I have receiv'd into the Parochial Liſt. Dr. Calamy obſerves to a like Purpoſe of his own Liſt, that 'ſeveral things 'concurr'd to make Exactneſs' in it 'Difficult;' and among theſe, he Specifies the Two Differing Ejectments of Miniſters after the Return of his Majeſty; the One from the Sequeſter'd Livings, and the Other by the Act of Uniformity; Both, however, within the Compaſs of Two Years; and by the Rules and Orders of Two Known Laws: And therefore if theſe Created ſo much Difficulty to him, the Numberleſs Methods of Harraſſing and Diſpoſſeſſing the Loyal Clergy, as well without, as contrary to Law, as by the many pretended Acts, Orders, and Ordinances of thoſe Times, muſt be Deem'd to Create many more Difficulties and Perplexities in the Liſt of the Sequeſter'd Loyaliſts; eſpecially, conſidering that many other Incidents and Circumſtances, more particularly, the Different Claims and Titles of the Sufferers, could not but happen in ſuch a Courſe of Time, and under ſuch Confuſions, all of which contribute to Increaſe thoſe Difficulties.

Pref. to Vol. II. Ed. 2. p. 3, 6.

For theſe Reaſons therefore, it cannot be Expected that the Circumſtances of the particular Sufferers ſhould be all of one Kind; or that all the Clergy ſhould Stand on an Equal Bottom; But that I may not be thought to have Impos'd any on the Reader, who have not a juſt Title to a Place in the Liſt, I ſhall here Lay their ſeveral Claims before him.

Pref. to the Abridgment, V. II. Edit. 2. p. 6.

That thoſe who had been Regularly Admitted to their ſeveral Preferments, were Formally Sequeſter'd and Ejected from them, and did not afterward obtain any other, whereby to Support themſelves; that ſuch as theſe, I ſay, have an Indiſputable Title to a Place in the Liſt, will be readily allowed: Nor will there, as I Judge, be any Objection made to thoſe who were reſpectively, either Harraſs'd or Plunder'd out of their Livings; or to ſuch as betaking themſelves to Flight for the Safety of their Lives or Liberties, or hoping to render ſome Service to his Majeſty, attended his Perſon or his Armies, and were in (and moſt frequently for) their Abſence, put under Sequeſtration, or otherwiſe kept out of their Pariſhes for the Future. I make no Scruple likewiſe to Inſert thoſe who were Murther'd, or Dy'd of their Ill Uſage in the ſeveral Priſons (of which there are ſome Inſtances) altho' a Formal Sentence of Sequeſtration had not paſs'd upon them. The Caſe of Forc'd and Compulſory Refignations; and, in a Word, all thoſe other Methods of what kind ſoever, whereby any Perſon was for his Loyalty and Affection to the Church, Diſpoſſeſs'd, or Kept out of any Preferment to which he had an Indiſputable Right, did likewiſe give thoſe who Suffer'd under them, an Undoubted Claim to a Place among the Sequeſter'd Royaliſts: Nor have I Omitted (as is before ſaid of the Sufferers in the Univerſities) to take into the Parochial Liſt, thoſe Clergymen who Loſt their Livings on the Score of the Engagement, if they had until that time preſerved their Affection for his Majeſty and the Church.

Where any Perſon was Turn'd out of Two ſeveral Preferments, (tho' Succeſſively, and at the Diſtance of ſome Time) they are both of them Reckoned to his Account: Or if, on the other Hand, Two Perſons were Succeſſively Diſpoſſeſs'd of the ſame Living, or other Preferment, they are both mentioned as Sufferers; provided, however, that the firſt of them was Dead, or had Voluntarily Quitted before the other was Turn'd out of it; nor am I Apprehenſive that any Difficulty will be made of allowing theſe Perſons; and as little can be Reaſonably Objected, to thoſe who having

Loſt

Loſt One or more Preferments of Conſiderable Value, were ſome time after Suffer'd, at leaſt, if not Allow'd, to have a ſmall Living or Chapelry, from which they Drew a Miſerable Subſiſtence. But as for thoſe Pluraliſts, who were Diſpoſſeſs'd of One of their Livings Only, and permitted to hold the Other (if it was any way Conſiderable, or in any Sort Equal to that which they Loſt) I could not on one Hand, wholly Omit them; neither can I on the Other, look upon them my ſelf as more than Half Suffrers.

There are yet another Sort of Suffrers that will be mention'd; namely, ſuch as had indeed a Rightful Nomination or Preſentation, but no other Admiſſion to the Places they Loſt, but ſuch as thoſe Times of Confuſion could give them; which tho' in no wiſe Equal to that Appointed by, and Received under the Regular Adminiſtration of the Laws, cannot however, be Diſputed by thoſe who admit of the Calculation in the Abridgment; becauſe ſuch an Admiſſion (and that too without a Preſentation from the Lawful Patron, or any other Nomination, beſides one founded in Uſurpation and Rebellion) was the only Title that could be pleaded, by almoſt * all thoſe who came under the Firſt of the Ejectments mentioned by Dr. Calamy ‡; nor had Nine Parts in Ten of the Remainder any † other Nomination, Preſentation, or Title Antecedent to the Miniſters Act, before mentioned on another Occaſion. And becauſe I look'd on the Right of Preſentation (after a Poſſibility of a Regular Admiſſion, was taken away by the Confuſions) as that which gave an Equitable Title, I have not doubted to inſert ſome, who on ſuch a Nomination, got poſſeſſion of the Livings, not only beſides, but in Oppoſition to the Ordinances, &c. of the Uſurpation; and others, who had nothing but a bare Nomination, and were never ſo Fortunate, as to obtain any Poſſeſſion at all.

* Altho' they make ſo great a part of his Liſt.

‡ Preface to V. II. Edit. 2. p. 5.

† Some few alſo excepted (as is likewiſe ſaid in that Place) who might poſſibly get Poſſeſſion of their Places between May 1660, and Aug. 1662.

There are yet to be mentioned, thoſe who lay ſome time under Sequeſtration, and after found a means of Poſſeſſing their Livings again; as likewiſe thoſe, of whoſe Sequeſtrations I have no poſitive and direct Evidence; and therefore am left to Conclude them by the Help of Inferences and Conſequences.

That I have in the Parochial Liſt mentioned Rectories and Vicaridges only, or ſuch Places as I apprehend to be in ſome Senſe Equal to Freeholds, hath been already ſaid in another Place; and therefore I now proceed to obſerve, that under theſe various Circumſtances of the Suffrers, and the many different Methods by which they Suffered, no Compleat Account could be given of the Ruine of the Clergy, without taking Notice of each ſort of Perſons now mentioned: That, however, thoſe which may ſeem moſt Liable to Exception, are comparatively very Few; and therefore (which is yet more) that it may well ſeem an exceſs of Caution, to have ſaid any thing at all of them in this Place, ſince I have taken * Expreſs Notice of them (as they ſeverally occurr'd, and I was my ſelf informed of the Caſe) in the Liſt it ſelf: And, in the Laſt Place, that altho' I have my ſelf been ſo careful to Diſtinguiſh, and give Notice of theſe Different Sorts of Perſons; yet Dr. Calamy cannot Except to any one of them, eſpecially, on the Score of their Titles; becauſe ſo great a Part of the Perſons mention'd in his Liſt, never had any Places at all, a yet greater Part of them were no other than bare Curates, and ſcarce any among all the Reſt, had a Nomination from a Rightful Patron, or any other † Title than Poſſeſſion; and that too, given by open Rebellion and Uſurpation; which, tho' Eleven Points in the Law, is not a ſingle One in Equity and Conſcience; whilſt on the other Hand, the Eleven Points of that Kind lay in thoſe who had their Preſentations from the Undoubted Patrons, tho' the Iniquity of the Times permitted them not to compleat that Right by an actual Poſſeſſion. And if it be farther conſider'd, that Dr. Calamy hath taken into the ‡ Abridgment ſome who dy'd before the Act of Uniformity took place (but would, as he ſays, have ſuffer'd, had they liv'd) and ſheweth ſo good an Inclination to augment his * Liſt with others who have been bred, at leaſt, to the Miniſtry (if not born) ſince the Ejectments of Bartholomew-Day, it will be plain, That he hath ſtill leſs Pretences to demand any Diſcount; foraſmuch as, according to theſe Rules of his own, I might have enlarged my Liſt much farther, and claimed a Place in it for St. Peter and St. Paul, for Ignatius and Polycarp; and, in a Word, for all the Ancient Fathers of the Primitive Church, and all thoſe Excellent Perſons who have adorn'd the Church of England ſince the Grand Rebellion; every one of whom, were, I make no queſtion, ready to have ſuffered in the Cauſe of Obedience to Magiſtrates; and, I am ſatisfy'd, would have been, to a Man, diſpatched by the Committees.

* And the Care to diſtinguiſh theſe ſeveral Caſes, and to give the Reader notice when I inſerted any Perſon on a Conjecture only, and not on certain and poſitive Information, is what hath contributed to fill the Margins with ſo many Notes, and often to ſwell the Pages themſelves.

† Under the Exceptions before-mention'd.

‡ Pref. to V. II. Edit. 2. p. 19, 21

* Ibid. p. 31, 32.

It will be proper to take notice to the Reader in this place, That as Thoſe who ruin'd the Clergy, did at firſt uſurp the ſofter Word of Sequeſtration (which implies little more than a Temporary Suſpenſion à Beneficio) to colour over their Pretenſions; but uſed it to the Purpoſes of a Total Deprivation; and as this Abuſe of the Word, and more particularly, the plain and open Oppreſſions practis'd under that Name, did at length render it a Term of Infamy, and appropriate it in common Speech, to denote all thoſe Various and Oppreſſive Methods, whereby the the Clergy were Diſpoſſeſs'd of their Livelihoods; ſo have I generally uſed it in That Latitude of Signification, and apply'd it to every one of the Various Cafes now ſpoken of, without Diſtinction.

Digitized by Google

Having now ſaid, what Perſons I take into the Liſt, I muſt add a Word or Two of the Manner in which I have accounted for them: And firſt, I have never omitted to acquaint the Reader with the Accuſations laid to their Charge, whenever I had any Notices of them my ſelf. This, I was called upon to do by the Author of the New Teſt, &c. and the Obſervator; but would their haſty Zeal have allow'd them to wait until the Undertaking had been Publiſh'd, they might have ſaved themſelves that Trouble, as their Brother Scribler likewiſe might his New-Year's Handſel: For I have not only produced the † Accuſations of their great Magazine the Century (of which it was natural for them to be fond, becauſe theſe Calumnies were their own Invention) but have added more than a Century of others to them; and Thoſe, ſuch as would never have been known, had I not my ſelf made them publick: Inſomuch that I have not omitted faithfully to give the Reader notice of every individual ‡ Sodomite, inceſtuous Perſon, Blaſphemer, Drunkard or Adulterer that came to my Knowledge; and found it a much eaſier Matter to do that, than to ſpeak with Patience, of thoſe Deteſtable Suggeſtions. Nor was there any need for them to fear this; had they known as much as my ſelf did; becauſe the Wickedneſs of theſe Calumnies (as hath been often obſerved already) was one chief Circumſtance of the inhuman Oppreſſions under which the Clergy labour'd, as will in good meaſure appear by what I have already ſaid in the Liſt; but more fully hereafter, if God gives me Life and Strength to proſecute the other Parts of this Undertaking.

Both as before cited.

† Abridged indeed; but I have been more punctual in repreſenting the Enormities there charged upon them, than the other Allegations; not knowing that I have omitted any one Crime laid upon them; tho' not always in the Particulars. However, where there were more than ordinarily bad, I have faithfully ſet forth them likewiſe.

‡ See the New Teſt and Obſervator paſſim.

But that neither this, nor the Compleating of the ſeveral Accounts, were the Sole and Single Motives, on which I Acted in that matter, will appear from what muſt be next ſaid; namely, That I have not purſued this Method in thoſe Caſes only, where I had a Vindication of the Injur'd Clergyman at Hand; but in thoſe others likewiſe, where I knew the Clergyman was without Excuſe; and have on thoſe Occaſions openly and freely own'd as much, and readily given up the Offender: Nor have I to the beſt of my Knowledge conceal'd the * Ill Character of any Sufferer, of which I had the leaſt Notice, either Private or Publick; tho', I have ſome Reaſon to doubt, whether the ſame Method be Obſerv'd in the Abridgment: And I muſt own I have my ſelf done it, contrary to the Opinion of ſome of my Friends, and therefore I do not expect it ſhall meet with a General Approbation.

* Two only excepted; one of which being mentioned with a Sneer, it was not worth while to be particular in the account of him, as I have the ſame expreſſly ſaid: And the other is Mr. Sutterly of Ireland Exon. To rectifie which Omiſſion, I muſt now in this place inform the Reader, that I have heard, he would often drink to Excels, or more, at leaſt, than became a Clergyman, and that in other Parts of his Behaviour, he us'd many Liberties altogether unbecoming his Function.

And, as I have Omitted the Bad Characters of the Clergy; ſo neither, if I Remember aright, have I of my ſelf Attempted the Good * Character of more than One of them; The Intimate Acquaintance with, and the Exact Judgment that ought to be made of their Works and Writings; The Perfect Knowledge of their Lives and Actions (not excepting their more Private and Retir'd Parts of them) as alſo of their Learning, Tempers, Diſpoſitions, Principles, and other Springs of Action, together with many other Requiſites, that it will be needleſs to mention: All theſe, I ſay, being ſo Neceſſary to Enable any one to form a juſt Notion, and from thence to Draw a True and Exact Character, do therefore render it, in my Apprehenſion, the moſt Difficult Part of an Hiſtorian; and on that Account, did altogether Deter me from Attempting it, in a Work where ſo many Thouſand Characters are Requir'd; a few of which, if Drawn with Exactneſs, would have taken up the whole Buſineſs of my own Life. Dr. Calamy indeed, hath, as himſelf Informs us, Drawn up ſeveral, with how much Exactneſs and Impartiality, I cannot ſay; becauſe they are not Diſtinguiſhed from thoſe Tranſmitted to him by other Hands. That there are in the Abridgment, a great Number of Partial Characters, may hereafter be ſhewn: In the mean time, my Buſineſs at Preſent is only to ſay, that for my own part, I rather chuſe to take what Characters I found in Epitaphs, Lives, &c. or were ſent me by private Hands, and to ſet them down Verbatim †; and where I had none of that Kind, to Content my ſelf without any at all: Nor will I ſtick to own, that I am not very fond of Characters, when I do not know the Perſon that gives them; becauſe it is ſuch an uſual Practice with Perſons of all Opinions, to turn the bright Side of the Proſpect only, and to Conceal many Infirmities, and Sometimes Vices, which if ſhew'd, would very much Detract from the Beauty of the Repreſentation: A Fault therefore, as 'tis probable, not ſeldom to be found in thoſe of the ATTEMPT, but much more ſeldom there (as I am ſatisfy'd, for Reaſons already produc'd on another Occaſion) than among thoſe in the Abridgment.

* And that too, a very Short one.

Preface to Vol. II. Edit. 2. p. 7. and it is obvious enough to every Reader, how great a part of his Work is made up of them: for what reaſons, hath been already ſuggeſted in a former Place.

† Only abridg'd ſometimes where they were too long.

Be-

Digitized by Google

Before I yet quit this Head of the Method and Conduct of the Work, I must further take notice to the Reader, that in the Account of those Sufferers, whose Lives have been otherwise Written, he will often find such things inserted, as are of much less Moment than many others that are Omitted; the Reasons of which are, that those Lesser Matters were Particulars never yet made Publick; and therefore I was willing to preserve them, whilst the others having been already Publish'd to the World, are thereby sufficiently prevented from being Lost. I have likewise Omitted to Recite the Particulars of their Works, and only Referr'd the Reader to Anth. Wood, &c. for them; partly, because I had very little of that kind to add, either to the Author now mention'd, or to those others who have Publish'd the Catalogues of them; but chiefly, because such a Recital would have prov'd so large an Addition to a Volume otherwise Swoln much beyond my Wishes and Desires: However, I have not Omitted to mention some few Particulars of this Nature, that I met with, relating to those Persons of whom no Account was ever yet made Publick.

The Catalogue of the Bodleian Library (especially, as now compleased by the Learned Dr. Hudson) would indeed have furnish'd me with many things of this kind; but I had neither Time nor Opportunity to consult it for that end; and I was the more easie under the Want of them in this Case, because the Account of their Works was not so directly to the Purpose of my main Design.

It must be yet farther Observ'd, that I set it for a Rule to my self, to Affix those Degrees only to the Sufferers which they had at the Time of their Sequestrations; and not such as they afterward obtain'd, whether during the Remainder of the Rebellion, or at the Restoration of his Majesty; but that however, in some few Cases where the higher Degree was Conferr'd soon upon the Suffering, I have taken the Liberty to Vary from that Rule; more particularly, in the Case of those Gentlemen who fled to his Majesty at Oxford, about the Years 1644, and 1645, and had then the Favour of that University shewn to them for their Loyalty.

To this must be added, that I was of my self Inclin'd to have pointed out those that Acted the Unhappy Parts of this History (and more especially, the Intruding Successors) by the Initial and Final Letters of their Names only; but I was Dissuaded from that, by several of my Friends, and was Induc'd to give into their Opinions in this Matter, partly, by the Example of the Lord Clarendon, in his History of this same Rebellion; but principally, on this Consideration, that such a Proceeding might have given Occasion to those (who would not have fail'd to take it) of saying, that I pursu'd such a Method, to avoid being Trac'd and Discover'd in my Falsities: To which this farther Consideration likewise Contributed not a little, (viz.) that if there are any yet Remaining, who approve those Deeds of their Fathers, they cannot look on the Publication of them as any Disadvantage to their Characters; or if they do, they are Self-condemn'd and surely deserve little Tenderness: But as for those who do seriously lament the Share their Ancestors bore in these Transactions, I should have been glad to be Informed of them, and was ready to have spar'd their Names as far as it would have comported with any tolerable Regard to Truth and Honesty.

I am Obliged (if I guess aright at the Expectations of some People) to take Notice, that it was altogether Useless to Cite the Manuscript Papers and Letters for such Particulars as I have taken out of them; as well because neither Dr. Calamy, nor any other Writer that I know of, did ever Practise such a Method, as because those Papers are yet in my own Custody only, and therefore cannot be on all Occasions Examined by such as might Desire it: Besides, that such a Practice would have been almost Endless, and have Stuff'd the Margins with many Thousands of Notes and References; as indeed the bare Citing of the Printed Books themselves, would have done, had I Repeated the Citation of them opposite to every Date, Degree, Sirname or Sentence taken out of them; and therefore I must here let the Reader know, that the several Accounts being often Collected from Hints, Insinuations, and other Scatter'd and very Imperfect Notices, I found it necessary for Avoiding the Inconveniencies now mention'd (together with an Incessant Trouble and Perplexity) to Quote the Authors once for all, at the Entrance of each Account, altho' the Beginning of the Account is not taken out of any of these Authors; or, if it be, their Relations are often in the Course of the Narration, Interrupted for other Incidents, which by the Order of Time, ought to Intervene; So that all the Reader must Understand by those Citations, is, that many things in those Accounts are taken out of one or other of Those Authors, and that the rest is supply'd from the Manuscript Notices and Informations. I have done, when I have said this one thing more; That as I have been frequently oblig'd to supply the Want of more particular Intelligences, by the Help of Guesses and Computations; so I meant to content my self, on those Occasions, with less than my Due, rather than to ask what did not belong to me.

Digitized by Google

I come now to speak of those Subjects, in which I am sure to have the Concurrence of my Adversaries; I mean, the many Faults and Imperfections of the Work, altho' the Defect of it in point of Numbers, is what they may on second Thoughts, be perhaps unwilling enough to allow. That these are Misfortunes, which in some measure, necessarily attend an Undertaking of this nature; and that it is in some Sence impossible, a First Attempt of this kind should be perfect, is obvious to every one that considers the infinite Variety of Circumstances requisite to compleat an Account of so many Thousand different Persons; especially, when those are for the most part, to be learnt and collected from the Memories and Notices of almost as great a Number of Informants: And if this yet wants an Illustration, the Opposite Performance of Dr. Calamy will afford it; his First Attempt being now, from a Single Chapter in another Volume, become a Book it self, of almost 200 Pages more than the Whole Volume in which it was first placed, did consist. Dr. Calamy himself not only takes express notice of this, but moreover complains of 'many and great Defects' still remaining in the Second, and so much augmented Edition; and suggests the great Difficulty of compiling his List of Sufferers 'Fifty Years after their Ejectment:' But tho' I would not lessen the Pains Dr. Calamy hath taken (being made sensible by dear Experience, how much a Work of such a nature must of necessity create,) yet I must observe, That his Work, tho' publish'd indeed † Fifty Years after the Ejections, was however begun, and continued on, immediately from them; and tho' not by Dr. Calamy himself, yet by Those, whose Enquiries he had the Benefit of, in Four several Lists, as * himself informs us: Whereas the Scene of my History of the like nature, was open'd near Seventy Years before I set about the Undertaking; and the latest Period of it concluded Two Years before the Times of Dr. Calamy's History; and yet my Work wholly began some Years after his was Finish'd and Publish'd. Nor were the Memorials of mine ever Collected or Preserved until this present time; which, for those Reasons, must of necessity labour under a Thousand times greater Difficulties, and by consequence, be subject to as many more Imperfections.

Perfect to Vol. III. Edit. 2. p. 7, 8d.

Ibid. p. 23. See also p. 31.

† I. e. the Second Edition: For the First was publish'd more than Ten Years sooner.

* P. 5.

The Difficulties now mention'd, attended the Work it self; and therefore the Defects occasioned by them, may reasonably expect an easie Pardon: But there are yet many other Imperfections; and tho' some of them are occasioned by Those of the Author, I am to hope, they will not be deemed Unpardonable, if Freely and Openly confess'd. In the Front of them must stand That, which I have once already acknowledg'd; namely, my not having read or remember'd several things scatter'd up and down in some of the more common and ordinary Books, out of which, it is not improbable, many Hints, Notices, and Informations might have been taken into the History, which are notwithstanding wholly wanting: And I must farther yet own, That I omitted to consult even some of the Historians of the Times; and that therefore I was not so well acquainted as I ought to have been, with some of those Parts of History which bear a Relation to several things occasionally mentioned, or hinted at in the Work. And as all the General Histories were not taken into my Enquiries; so more of the Particular ones have yet escaped them, especially the Lives of some of the Sufferers, several of which I could never get a Sight of, and others perhaps, I never yet heard of. That the Labour of consulting the Works of the several Sufferers was endless, and therefore wholly omitted, is suggested in another Place.

The List of the Convocation in 1640, given us by Dr. Nalson in his Collections, and of That of 1662, prefixed by Dr. Nichols to his Comment on the Common-Prayer, would probably, have clear'd up several Queries, and rectify'd some Mistakes, and, it is sure, would have furnish'd me with many other Notices relating to several of the Sufferers; but the Papers were too far advanced, before I had noted either of those Lists to the Purposes now mention'd: And there are in the First of those Authors, several Dates, and other Scatter'd Notices, which, tho' of less Moment, and therefore unregarded by me at first. I could now wish I had not pass'd over with so much Neglect: Which minds me also of this further Occasion of several other Omissions; namely, that at first having my Eye chiefly on the Significations themselves, (intending little more than a bare List of the Sufferers:) and when I had determin'd with my self to enlarge the Accounts, not being always apprized (as it is impossible any one should) what might after come in use, and more especially, what light and seemingly trivial Circumstances might contribute to clear up several Doubts and Enquiries; on these Accounts, I say, I omitted to note several Dates of Birth, Death, † Admission, Resignation, &c. and (what I most re-

† Especially such as related to the Ejectments they had before or after Those from which they were Sequestred. The Epistle of the Author to the Reader, for the Publication of [illegible] extremely curious, and not fairly [illegible] on the Sequestrations, and did not [illegible] the Ejectments [illegible] the Counties of Devon and Cornwall, the Number of the immediate Predecessors, the Time of their being so, &c. These Values are [illegible] mentioned the Names, Value, Preferments, &c. of the Sequestrators, Persons, Houses, and Estates [illegible] Lands, Tithes, and Profits [illegible] Sequestrations, and [illegible] Sequestrators, &c. And gret)

Digitized by Google

gret) very often the Places of their Interment; as likewise several ‡ Successors; because they were not the immediate ones; altho' the Knowledge of these other would have been of some use, as contributing towards Accounting for the Succession in the respective Parishes in those broken and interrupted Times of Confusion, when no Registers were kept; and therefore I have since lamented That Omission: Nor have I been so careful as I ought, in setting down the Christian Names of several of those Successors that I did mention. In a Word, I have not been always so Uniform in Accounting, either for Those who were Sequester'd, or Those who Succeeded them, as I might have been; nor so particular some times, as at others; having, as is now said, alter'd and enlarg'd my Scheme some time after I was enter'd on the Work: And on this, and on the other Accounts, here mention'd, had it been practicable for me to go over the same Books and Papers a Second time, many things would have been added, as well as alter'd and rectify'd, in the History.

‡ For the same reason likewise I omitted to extract and insert from the Records, the Names of those, who appear to have been on the Sequester'd Livings during some part of the Confusion; it being so very seldom to be learn from thence, whether they Succeeded immediately or not. Besides which, there are among them a vast Number of Curates, and even Persons occasionally resident only, within the Parishes or Places mentioned: So that attempting to account for the Successions from thence, must of necessity have led me into many Uncertainties and Mistakes.

It is not Improbable, that many Intelligences might * Miscarry; and it is certain, that many came too late to be Inserted; which is another Reason of the Imperfections of the Work. There are haply several Others also not here taken Notice of; and it will, in all likelihood, be often said, when the Accounts come to be looke into, How comes this or that to be Omitted? Why is not my Father, or Unkle? or, Why is not Old Dr. such an One mention'd? I could have told the Author such or such a Thing ——. But if these Particulars were so Familiar, and well Known to those that ask the Questions, I must in my turn beg leave to propose one Question to them, and ask, Why they were not so kind as to give me Notice of them? For be they never so well Known to Others, it is impossible they should come to my Knowledge without such an Information. I have also made several Queries, and at other times declared my Ignorance of many things, each of which I might have Inform'd my self of, by procuring a particular Book, or writing a Letter; but when it is consider'd, that I had for other Particulars Consulted such a Number of Books, wrote so many Hundred (I believe, I might say Thousand) Letters; that tho' each Particular might be set at rights by a Single Letter, yet all of them could not but by some Hundreds; and what is yet more, that these Particulars do not Affect the main Scope and Design of the Work. When these things, I say, are consider'd, I hope the Defects of this kind also will meet with a favourable Allowance; altho' when I farther say, that there are besides these, many other Marks of Haste in the Work, that Excuse will hardly (on the first Hearing at least) be so Easily Admitted; since to talk of being Hurry'd in an Undertaking that hath been no less than Ten Years in Hand, may seem just such another Paradox, as that of an Essay in Folio: especially when I must, before I End this Preface, Excuse my self to the Reader for having been so long about the Work; and yet this Reason and Occasion of many Imperfections, is no more Strange than True, as will more fully appear, even in that very Apology I am to make for my not being Able to Dispatch it sooner to the Press. I was Sensible of many things of this kind, whilst I was Drawing up the Papers; and perceive many more since they have been Printed Off: Nor can there be a plainer Evidence of my being at last Hurry'd in the Publication, than what I must now Acquaint the Reader with; namely, that a very considerable part of the Sheets were sent away, neither Capitall'd, nor Scor'd, nor so much as Pointed, for the Press.

* And if any Gentlemen who were pleased to send Information's before the Beginning of 1714. do not find them inserted, they may conclude, that was the occasion of it.

But to pass from the Reasons and Occasions, to the Imperfections themselves; The Rise, Progress, and some other Circumstances, of the Ordinances under which the Clergy Suffer'd, are not Trac'd so Particularly and so Exactly as they might have been; some Previous and Corresponding Orders, &c. and some Dates and other Particulars, which are Omitted, might have been Observ'd out of several Books, and some of my Letters, and Manuscript Papers, had not the Work Increas'd, and the Time Shorten'd upon my Hands. The Account of the Proceedings of the Committees themselves, which fate by Virtue of these several Orders, Ordinances, &c. is, as I am Sensible, very Imperfect for want of their Original Papers, or some other Authentick Notices; altho' that Defect with Regard to their Open, and more Shameful Oppressions, is in some measure supply'd by a pretty Full and Particular Account of the Sufferings of one Clergyman at least, before each of the more considerable Sets of those Plunderers; which may Enable the Reader in some tolerable Measure to guess at the Insupportable Burthen that lay on the Rest of them.

The great and plain Defect of the List in point of Numbers, hath been spoken of in another Place; only I must observe, that the Numbers preserv'd in the List bear a greater Proportion to the whole Clergy of the Kingdom, than may at first be Imagin'ed; because many of them being Pluralists, the Livings from which they were Sequester'd, must be many more than the Sequester'd Persons themselves: And as to the Proportion portion they hold to the Sufferers of Dr. Calamy's Liſt, that Conſideration, as alſo the Compariſon of their Reſpective Characters, and the Degrees of their Sufferings, will be the Subject of a Particular Head, after I have Examin'd that Liſt in a Third Part.

See Part. p. 202. 221, 222, 230, 234.

That ſometimes the Sequeſter'd Preferment is without the Name of the Sufferer, and oftentimes the Sufferer without the Name of the Pariſh; That the Chriſtian Name and * Degrees of the Sufferers are frequently Wanting; That where all theſe are to be found, there are not the leaſt Notices beſides of them; That when ſome few of their Notices do Occur, the Time and Place of their Birth and Education, their Preceding, or Subſequent Preferments, the Committees before whom they Suffer'd, the Year of their Ejectments, the other Particulars of their Lives, the Times of their Deaths, and their Characters, together with moſt of the other Particulars of which any One would Deſire to be Inform'd; I ſay, that Generally Speaking, moſt, if not all of theſe are Wanting; and that thoſe Perſons of whom ſo Little is laid, were altogether as Conſiderable in themſelves, as thoſe Others of whom I had Fuller Notices, is ſo very Obvious, that it may ſeem Needleſs to mention it: But it is yet more to be Regretted, that very often the Particulars of their Horrid Oppreſſions and Sufferings, do not appear; and therefore I cannot Omit to Suggeſt to the Reader on this Occaſion, that by conſidering the Caſe of Thoſe whoſe Sufferings are more Fully Related, he is uſually to Believe an Iliad of Falſe Accuſations, Oppreſſions and other Miſeries, is always Crowded into, and Imply'd in the General Words Sequeſter'd, Plunder'd, Impriſon'd, &c. To this muſt be Added, that even thoſe Accounts which ſeem to be ſomewhat more Perfect, are however, ſo very Defective in theſe, and many other Particulars, that ſhould a Perſon ſet about Writing the Life of any one of Thoſe, and Apply to the ATTEMPT for Aſſiſtance, he would ſoon perceive it to be Miſerably Jejune and Imperfect, and to contain a few Scraps only, and Straggling Notices: Nor did my Informations furniſh me Better; or if they had, it is eaſily ſeen, how much Time and Paper would have been Requir'd to preſerve any Tolerable Memoirs of Three or Four Thouſand Perſons.

* Which Pierce's Catalogue of the Graduates in the University of Oxford, would indeed have in ſome meaſure enabled me to ſupply, but the Reſult would hardly anſwer the Trouble of ſuch a Search: Beſides that, I could not be always certain they were the ſame Perſons.

I have already mention'd ſomething Relating to thoſe who Succeeded the Sequeſter'd Loyaliſts; and muſt now farther obſerve of that Matter with Regard to the Univerſity of Oxford, that tho' great Numbers of thoſe who were put in by the Viſitors, appear on their Regiſter, yet it is not thence certain, that all thoſe Places were vacated by Ejectment; much leſs is it ſaid, who in particular, each Perſon Succeeded; and therefore no diſtinct Account of the Succeſſions could be had from that Regiſter. However, I have ſince wiſh'd, that I had at the End of each College ſubjoyn'd in the Groſs, a Liſt of ſuch as appear to have been thruſt on it by Thoſe Reformers. I am ſatisfy'd likewiſe, that an Alphabet of the Succeſſors mention'd, might have been of ſome Uſe; but having omitted, as is before ſaid, to take Notice of ſome of them, and (as I am forc'd often to complain) wanting Time, I was compell'd to lay aſide all Thoughts of that kind.

The other Imperfections of this part of the Liſt have been already mention'd on another Occaſion. See a Note at Mr. Middleton of All-Souls Coll. Part II. p. 69. 137, 138, 139, 140.

It may ſeem hardly worth noting, that ſometimes perhaps the Dignities in ſome of the Cathedrals may not ſtand in that Order which they hold in thoſe Churches; That, ſome † Colleges and Halls in the Univerſities are not Rank'd in ſuch an exact Alphabet, as they ought; and that ſome of the Counties which had no Sufferers in them, are probably, omitted under ſome of the Letters.

† St. John's in Oxon, before Jeſus; Corpus Chriſti in Cambridge, before Clare-Hall; New-Inn, before Katherine Hall; and Peter-Houſe, before Pembroke-Hall.

I am ſenſible, that the having Recourſe to the Firſt Authors themſelves, and not citing, (as I have ſometimes done) at Second-hand; and that Referring the Reader from ſome things touch'd upon, or hinted at to Hiſtorians, Controverſies, or Works of the Sufferers, which Treat of them at Large, would have prov'd an Advantage to the Work; but the Want of ſome of thoſe Books, and the Delays which the Procuring, and turning them over, would have created, oblig'd me not to think of doing it.

The Stile of the Work, tho' perhaps one of its greateſt Imperfections, is yet unmention'd; and I am ſenſible, is in many places ſo very flat and mean, and ſo perplex'd throughout with Parentheſes and tedious Periods, that I am quite aſham'd of it. However, the Nature of the Undertaking it ſelf, and ſome particular Diſadvantages that I lay under, will, I hope, in ſome meaſure Apologize for it. The Neceſſity of repeating the ſelf-ſame things (as, the Birth, Education, Conſecration, &c. of each particular Sufferer) ſo often in the compaſs of the ſame Page; and the compiling thoſe Accounts out of ſo many broken and ſcatter'd Notices, and from ſuch different Books and Papers, render'd it very difficult not to miſcheate the Reader, and requir'd a more Maſterly Hand than that which undertook it, to range theſe Imperfect Scraps in any tolerable Order, and put them together in ſuch a manner, as that the Seams and Patches ſhould not openly appear. Add to this, That being deſirous, as far as I might might, to give the more material parts of the Relations in the very Words of the Informants themſelves, I was continually oblig'd to conform my ſelf, as it were, to their Notions, and to confine my ſelf to ſuch particular Modes of Expreſſion, as would beſt introduce and connect them. Nor is this all; but the great Variety of Stile that appears in thoſe different Informations, which come ſo often, and ſo frequently to be produc'd verbatim, creates a ſtrange and unaccountable Medly, and gives a very odd Turn to many of the Paragraphs; eſpecially conſidering the Printer, for the moſt part, omitted to diſtinguiſh the expreſs Words of thoſe Informations by the Italick Letter, (tho' he was ſufficiently directed for that purpoſe in the Copy) which therefore makes the whole appear like a continu'd Narration of my own. The Reader will be pleas'd yet farther to conſider to the ſame purpoſe, That I had inceſſantly purſu'd this ſingle Deſign thro' the Courſe of Ten continu'd Years, than which nothing could more contribute to Dull and Pall the Appetite, to Jade and Diſſpirit every Faculty of the Underſtanding, and, in ſhort, to render any one Sick of the Undertaking; eſpecially, after the Firſt Papers were diſpatch'd to the Preſs, and I had in ſome part, a conſtant Task to do, that I might keep the Printer employ'd: For ſurely no Infelicity can equal the Condition of that unhappy Man that MUST write, and that too by the Day and the Week, and, as we uſe to ſay, all Weathers; for which reaſon I have often thought that the Weekly Writers (and therefore much more the Diurnal, or Quotidian Hirelings) do Earn their Penſions on the hardeſt Conditions of any Men alive, ſetting aſide the Proſtitution of their Conſciences.

Digitized by Google

I am indeed well Appriz'd that I was not at all Capable of doing Juſtice to the Subject, by an Handſomneſs of Stile and Expreſſion; and therefore could yet leſs expect to acquit my ſelf in any Tolerable Manner under the Difficulties now mention'd, had theſe been all; but there were ſtill others Attended me, which Compleated my Misfortunes in this kind: For to ſave Time, and to avoid the Trouble of twice Tranſcribing ſo large a Portion of the Sheets, I was forc'd to Dictate Extempore to an Amanuenſis, and that too, from the many Scatter'd and Imperfect Scraps juſt now mention'd. Nor was I over ſollicitous of the Expreſſion, becauſe I had ſome Hopes of getting the Sheets Revis'd and Corrected by a very Learned Hand; and on that Account can hardly ſay, I look'd them over a Second Time my ſelf, before I parted with them: But I was Diſappointed in that likewiſe; and tho' the Learned Perſon who Corrected them from the Preſs, was pleas'd alſo to caſt his Eye upon them before they went Thither, yet his Friendly Tenderneſs for me, did, as I find, render him more willing to Correct the Printer than the Author; and by that means, the Papers do now at laſt appear in Publick, with all thoſe Marks of Hurry and Negligence, that I ſo much wiſh'd, and had ſo good Reaſon to think, would have been Stops and Prevented.

What I have before ſaid of the Want of Italick in the Copy, doth (as is yet to be Noted) appear, not only in the Citations, &c. but in the Articles and Accuſations, againſt the Clergy; as likewiſe in their Characters; and that too, with the ſame Inconveniencies. And I muſt take this Occaſion alſo of Adverting the Reader, that among the many Marginal Notes (already Accounted for) ſeveral of them have, by the ſame Negligence, been much Diſturbed and Miſplac'd.

I have only to add more, that I Entertain the like Hopes with Dr. Calamy, and promiſe my ſelf, the Work, however Imperfect at preſent, will notwithſtanding prove ſuch a Foundation for the Hiſtory of the Sequeſter'd Clergy, as may Encourage the Friends of the Church to Empower my ſelf, or ſome other Perſon who is better Able, and hath more Opportunities, to Perfect and Compleat it. Preface to Vol. II. Edit. 2. p. 1.

I could be very Eaſie under the many Weakneſſes and Defects now mention'd, and Probably the many more hitherto Unobſerv'd, was I not Apprehenſive of a Worſe Sort of Imperfections; Namely, Errors and Miſtakes; and yet I cannot but look upon theſe alſo as Unavoidable in a Work of ſuch a Nature. Dr. Calamy Expreſs'd his Senſe of this ſame Matter with Regard to ſome Particulars, as well of his Second, as Firſt Edition; and the many † Alterations and Amendments of that Second Edition it ſelf, abundantly Confirmed the Truth of his Firſt Conjecture. To theſe I could yet add great Numbers of other Miſtakes, of which he doth not ſeem very Apprehenſive; and which, as far as I can gueſs, from the Haſty View I took of ſome Pages of that Second Edition, he hath not yet Amended. However, he maketh a very Juſt Excuſe, both for me and himſelf, in this Obſervation on the Caſe of Anth. Wood; 'A great many Groſs Miſtakes in Matters of Fact' are 'Hardly Cenſu-'rable in one that Touches on ſo great a Variety of Particulars,' provided he be 'Ready to Correct upon better Informations,' as I ſhall by and by aſſure Dr. Calamy, I am. In the mean time, I cannot but Subjoyn, that this Obſervation of Dr. Calamy, doth more eſpecially hold good in the Caſe of a Perſon, who firſt beats out a very Long, Dark, Intricate, and Untrodden Path: For if ſuch an One often Tumbles, or Falls into a Pit, it is no other than what might be expected; and if he Gets Off with ma-

See Preface to Edit. 1. p. 4. and Ed. 2. V. II. p. 22, 23, 29, 30.

† See Preface to Vol. II. Edit. 1. paſſim.

Pref. to Ed. 1. p. 9. Ed. 2. V II. p. 12.

many Rents and Tatters in his Cloaths, and not a few in his Skin which bring the Blood after them, he may be Thankful it is no Worſe. I ſhall not be Particular in drawing out the Parallel: That I had nothing but Broken and Imperfect Materials; and neither Guide, nor Pattern, in the Undertaking; That the Circumſtances of it are Various and Numberleſs; and that the Length of it Entitles me to the Benefit of that Good-natur'd Saying is Obvious to every Body: Only I muſt expreſly take Notice, That I have a better Claim to theſe Allowances, than any Dr. Calamy can put in; as well becauſe the Conditions and Circumſtances of the Suffering Loyaliſts, together with the Acts, Ordinances, Orders, &c. under which they Suffer'd, were ſo Various, and of ſuch Different Kinds; as becauſe the Account of them was firſt Undertaken at ſo great a Diſtance of Time; of both which I have ſpoken already on another Occaſion, and therefore might Reaſonably Promiſe my ſelf the Compaſſion, rather than the Cenſure, of every conſidering Perſon in this Matter; or, if I appear Inexcuſable in the Eyes of other People, I perſuade my ſelf, Dr. Calamy will be the Leſs Inclined to Turn Quick upon me for my Miſtakes; ſince his own Work did, and could not but Render him ſo very Senſible how Impoſſible it is wholly to Avoid them.

——— Opere in longo fas eſt obrepere Somnum,

That thoſe in the ATTEMPT are, as I fear, very many, muſt be freely owned: But I am, methinks, willing on the other Hand, to hope, that they are for the moſt part Circumſtantial only, and ſuch as do not Affect the Subſtance of the Undertaking; and I am the more Inclined to Hope it, becauſe ſo conſiderable a Part of my Informations were ſent me by the Clergy; who, tho' by no means exempt from Error and Miſtakes, muſt however be Allow'd on many Accounts better Qualify'd to Collect and Report ſuch Notices, than any other Body of Men whatſoever. Their Sacred Function is a very prevalent Motive to Veracity; their Educations in Learning, and their Acquaintance with thoſe Ancient Pariſhioners from whence themſelves in great Meaſure, had their Relations, do Enable them to Judge, as well of the Abilities and other Qualifications, as of the Faithfulneſs of the Relators; The Opportunities of the Pariſh Regiſters, and their Reſidence on the ſeveral Pariſhes, which were the Scenes of thoſe Actions, give them the beſt Advantages of making theſe Enquiries among ſuch as had a Perſonal Knowledge of the things they Undertake to Affirm. And it will Certainly be Admitted as a good Plea in my own Behalf, that if any of the Clergy came themſelves ſhort of the Qualifications now mention'd, my not being Acquainted either with their Perſons or Characters (and therefore much leſs with thoſe of their Informers) Depriv'd me of the very Poſſibility of Judging what Degrees of Credit ought to be given to the ſeveral Relations they Tranſmitted to me; and that by Conſequence, Neceſſity, as well as Charity, obliged me not to think Them Falſe, until I had ſome Special and Particular Reaſon to do ſo.

However, that among the various Perſons thus Concern'd, either to give or ſend Informations, the Miſtakes of ſome, and the Haſty and Precipitate Belief of others, cannot but have occaſioned ſeveral Errors in the Work, is Obvious to every Body: But then it is no leſs Obvious (for the Reaſons juſt now mention'd) that the Miſtakes of this Kind muſt be Diſcharged from my Account; as muſt thoſe likewiſe that ariſe from the want of Sufficient Notices, to clear up ſeveral Difficulties, and ſeeming Inconſiſtencies: And I promiſe my ſelf alſo the ſame Favour, for ſuch (if any ſuch there are) as may happen by my being Impoſ'd on out of Malice and Deſign. This hath been the Lot of Men much better than my ſelf; and if it ſhould happen to be my own Fate, the Party will not be able to take any Advantage of it; becauſe every one muſt be Convinc'd, ſuch a Deſign could not be Formed by any but themſelves. However, I cannot expect a like Degree of Favour to ſuch Miſtakes as ariſe from my own Haſt and Inadverteney, from my not being Thoroughly Acquainted with all the leſſer Circumſtances and Incidents of the Hiſtories of thoſe Times; from my not Re-examining all my Papers and Citations; and perhaps from my Miſtaking now and then ſome of the ſhorter Notes and Minutes that I had taken ſo many Years before: Only when it is conſider'd, that theſe were in great Meaſure the Effects of Stiff and Inflexible Neceſſity, I hope the Miſtakes Occaſion'd by them, will not appear altogether Unpardonable.

I have only farther to ſay, before I come to the Miſtakes themſelves, the Liſt being the Main and Principal Part of the Deſign, was therefore † firſt Drawn up; and when Ready, was, to ſave Time, Diſpatch'd to the Preſs, whilſt the other Part was preparing; in conſulting my Papers for which, I Diſcover'd ſome Miſtakes, and ſome other things that I was before Ignorant of; particularly, the time when the ‡Cathedral of St. Paul, and the Collegiate Church of Weſtminſter were Diſſolved; and whether the Collegiate Churches were all put down or not, &c. And being † Tho', as the Reader will perceive, it makes the Second Part of the Volume.

‡ See Part I. p. 13. 14. and Part II. where thoſe Churches are accounted for: As alſo for the Collegiate Churches, Part I. p. 11. Part II. p. 16.

Uninformed

Uninformed of theſe things when I went through with the Account of thoſe Churches, there are ſome Inconſiſtencies in the Pages, to which the Margin refers the Reader, with Relation to theſe Matters. And it is probable, there are ſome others of the like Nature (and Occaſion'd in the ſame Manner) that I have not yet Obſerved.

But to come to the Miſtakes themſelves, I am under ſome Apprehenſions, that as I may not have Uſed the Words Preſented, Collated, Admitted, &c. with ſo much Exactneſs as I ought; ſo I may have Miſtaken the Dates of One of theſe for the Other of them; and I doubt there are other Dates miſtaken likewiſe: For it was Cuſtomary with the Parliament at firſt to Sequeſter the Clergy by a † Short Ordinance, wherein they alſo appointed the Succeſſor; but it not being Improbable, that they might ſometimes vary from this Form, and Appoint the Succeſſor in a Separate and Diſtinct Ordinance, I know not whether that may not have led me to Miſtake the Time of ſuch a Nomination, for that of the Sequeſtration. It muſt be further Known, that at firſt theſe Ordinances were ſent up to the Lords for their Concurrence; that afterwards the Commons took them wholly into their own Hands, and at laſt, the Committees were Furniſh'd, if I miſtake not, with a Power of Finally Determining, and Concluding upon them. Now in Strictneſs of Speaking, theſe Sequeſtrations ought to be Reckon'd (as long as the Houſes Employed themſelves in them) from the Concurrence of the Lords, or the Agreement of the Commons, to the Reports of their Committees; whereas I doubt, they are ſometimes Dated from the Time that the Committees came to a Reſolution, or from ſome other Noted Period of the Proſecution: Nor muſt I Omit to ſuggeſt on this Occaſion, that when it is ſaid (as it will Frequently be) ſuch or ſuch a Perſon was Sequeſter'd by the Houſe, the Reader is for the moſt Part, to Underſtand, that it was, however, done on Report from ſome of their Committees. To this muſt be added in the laſt Place, that in the Aſſociated Counties, I Fear, the Time of Preferring the Articles againſt the Clergy, is not ſeldom miſtaken, for that of Concluding upon, and Pronouncing the Sentence.

These cited out of Mr. Newcourt, I take it for granted, are thoſe of the Admiſſion, tho' I am ſenſible, I have in the Preſbenda, &c. often called them Collations, &c.

† An Exemplification of which is given Part I. p.

I have always follow'd the Informations I receiv'd, in repreſenting the Cauſes of the Sequeſtrations: But if I judge aright my ſelf, they are not all to be deemed of the ſame kind: Sometimes the Real Cauſes are aſſigned (tho' perhaps quite different ones were alledg'd before the Committees;) ſometimes only the Main and Bearing Cauſe is repreſented, tho' many others concurr'd at the time of Trial; ſometimes the more Obſervable, the more Trifling, or more Ridiculous Allegation only, is mention'd to me; and that too, it may be, out of a Heap of many others; ſometimes the Articles are not mention'd as they were preferred, but what was Interpretatively and in effect the Senſe of them, is repreſented in my Information, and ſometimes perhaps, what was only moved by ſome of their Adverſaries before the Committee, or what was the common Objection againſt the Miniſter in the Pariſh, (tho' neither of them ever laid in the Articles) is tranſmitted to me, and theſe I have inſerted accordingly. However, I could not omit to ſuggeſt thus much to Reader, that he may not be led into any miſtake in this matter; but may uſe his own diſcretion in Judging and Determining, when theſe ſeveral Caſes occur. And on the other hand, it will be ſo plain when the Copies or Extracts of the Articles themſelves are produc'd, that he cannot fail of perceiving it.

It was ſome time before I obſerv'd the preciſe and punctual difference betwixt Sequeſtration and Ejectment; the one of which, was Lodging the Power of Receiving the Incomes, in the hands of ſome other Perſons; and the other, totally Stripping the Miniſter of all Right and Title to the Living, and Diſpoſſeſſing of him. The Orders for theſe were ſometimes different, and iſſued at different times; I doubt therefore, that I have not been exact enough in diſtinguiſhing theſe (particularly, in the Aſſociated Counties) and that I have often miſtaken the Date of the one, for that of the other; as alſo the time of the Order it ſelf, for that of the Execution; and I fear the ſame in many other Caſes of the like nature. I have ſet down many Sequeſtrations which I find Reſolved by the† Houſe of Commons; tho' perhaps ſometimes the Lords might diſagree to them; ſometimes a Means might be found to procure an Arreſt of Judgment; and at other times, it may be, the Sentence was Revok'd, and the Perſon Reſtor'd; and this, perhaps, hath occaſioned ſome Miſtakes, tho', I believe, very few: For if I well remember, I have not yet ‡ diſcover'd more than a ſingle Inſtance (beſides thoſe expreſly noted) in either of thoſe kinds; which is the Caſe of Mr. William Keeble of Ringſhall in Suffolk, who got his Sequeſtration revok'd; but whether That Revocation it ſelf might not be after Re-call'd, I cannot tell.

† And the ſame is to be ſaid of the Committees, &c.

‡ And that too late to amend it in any other way than I now do, by thus giving notice of it in this Place.

I queſtion likewiſe, whether ſome who were only Harraſs'd and ill uſed in thoſe Times, might not be ſent me as Sequeſter'd; and whether ſome who were Incumbents ſoon after the Reſtoration, on Livings that had been Sequeſter'd, might not by ſuch as had no perfect Knowledge of thoſe Matters, be miſtaken for the Perſons that had been Sequeſter'd from them, and repreſented to me accordingly; and whether ſome who were yet more ignorant, might not miſtake my Enquiries, or confound the ſeveral

* Part II. p. 289.

Digitized by Google

veral Ejectments, and return to me ſome of thoſe who quitted on the Reſtoration, or at St. Bartholomew's Day, inſtead of Thoſe who Suffered under the Uſurpation: Which I the rather mention, becauſe I diſcover'd ſuch a Miſtake in a Perſon from whom I was my ſelf making ſome Enquiries. The Examining my own Liſt by that of the Abridgment, would indeed have prevented any ſuch Error; but the long Time and Pains of Collating ſo many Thouſand Names, had been but badly recompenced, by finding out Two or Three ſuch Miſtakes, if haply there may be ſo many, or indeed any at all.

The Method I was forc'd to purſue, in obtaining the Names of Thoſe Ejected from ſome of the Cathedrals, was, to procure a Liſt of the Incumbents on the Reſpective Dignities, &c. in one of the neareſt Years to the Time of the Diſſolution of Thoſe Bodies; ſome of Thoſe were of 42, or 43, &c. Now it is poſſible, that ſome few of the then Members might die before the Cathedrals were put down, and might not be Sufferers, and this perhaps may have cauſed ſome Miſtakes; but then, if it be conſider'd, that many were driven from theſe Churches before they were utterly Diſſolved; and that as ſome died, ſo others might ſucceed before the Total Diſſolution; and that, as I have ſaid in another place, it is likely I want the Names of ſeveral of thoſe Duplicate Sufferers: I ſay, if this be conſider'd, the Miſtakes of this kind will not be found to make any Addition to the Numbers of the Liſt. Beſides, it is poſſible that ſome of Thoſe mentioned from Oxonii Lacrymæ, might after Submit, and make their Peace, and ſome of the Parochial Clergy ſaid to be Turned out for the Engagement, might be otherwiſe Men of the Times, and have taken the Covenant, &c. and if ſo, I ſhall be ready to diſcount them on the Firſt Notice.

See Part I. p. 203.

The Trouble I was at to compare the ſeveral Parts of my Liſt, and to inſert ſo many Queries, to prevent Duplicates, is more than will be readily thought; and yet I have reaſon after all, to think, there are ſome eſcap'd me: Nor was it in any ways to be prevented: For poſſibly, ſome of the Blank Prebends (and Theſe ſtand in the room of Sufferers) were held by ſome of the Dignitaries otherwiſe mentioned, or the Incumbents of them may have been coincident with ſome of the Sequeſter'd Parochial Clergy: Some of the Livings which have not the Names of the Sufferers affixed, might be held by ſome of the Cathedral Clergy, or Fellows of Colleges; or ſome of the Parochial Clergy, who have no Livings ſubjoyned to their Names, might happen to be the Incumbents on them; the Want of many Chriſtian Names, may likewiſe have prevented the Diſcovery of ſeveral other Duplicates; and different Spelling of ſeveral Names, as well of Perſons as Places, may probably have produced the ſame Effect: An Inſtance of which I have very lately found in the Caſe of Abberton in Suſſex. To a Note at this obſervable Place, I had referr'd all the other Sequeſter'd Places mention'd on the Authority of a Clauſe in the Entries of the Admiſſion-Books of thoſe Times, and Thoſe of the Commiſſioners for the Approbation of Publick Preachers; but I ſince find, That it was written in thoſe Books according to the common Pronunciation of the Name in That County; and that it is the ſame Place with Edburton, the Sequeſter'd Rectory of Dr. Jermin, who is mention'd among the London Clergy, and This Place there reckon'd to his Account.

Preſ to the Abridgment, V. II. Edit. 2. p. 22.

See Part II. p. 187.

Ibid. p. 171.

I have before ſaid, that I Intended to have Inſerted in the Liſt it ſelf, ſuch Places only as are Freeholds, or uſually Deemed Equivalent to them; but I Doubt, for want of Due Information, I have ſeveral Times Tranſgreſſed this Rule (eſpecially, in Accounting for the Sequeſtrations in the Welch Counties;) and ſometimes it may be, not only Chapelries and Daughter-Churches, but even Notes of Diſtinction are Crept in for Pariſhes and Separate Places: Nor is it impoſſible (tho' I do not ſee any Grounds to think it) that ſome of thoſe at the End of the Counties, might be ſome of the Sufferers of Scotland or Ireland.

I have already ſaid ſomething of this matter in the Account of the Propagation in Wales. See Part I. p. 116, 117.

I am more Apprehenſive of many of the Miſtakes now mentioned, in that Part of the Liſt, which concerns Wales, than in any other; the frequent Returns of the ſame Sir-names (eſpecially when I was not Informed of the Chriſtian Names) the Little Variation of many of thoſe Names one from another; the Different † Spelling of the ſame Name in Different (and ſometimes the ſame) Papers; the Ignorance, as well as the bad Hands of ſome of the Perſons whoſe * Papers I made Uſe of; the Accidental Placing a Living in a wrong County; the great Number of Pariſhes of the ſame Names, and the very ſmall Difference of others; the many Places joyned; the many Daughter-Churches, Chapels, Donatives, Sine-Cures, &c. the Notes of Diſtinction added to the Names of many Livings; the frequent Pluralities in theſe Counties; the Little Time I had with the Papers that Concerned theſe Matters; my Utter Ignorance of the Places as well as the Language of that Country; the Little Intercourſe I had with any one There, and many other Circumſtances, all Concurred to render Miſtakes in that Part of the Liſt Unavoidable.

† As Lloyd and Floyd, Davies, Davys, Davys, Davies, &c.

* Viz. the Conſtables Returns ſpoken of in another Place.

To

Digitized by Google

To this I muſt add, That in the Note at Abergwyley in Caermarthenſhire, I have omitted the Two Caſes of Pluralities and Curacies, or Donatives; which muſt therefore be taken into That Account: And if any of the Pariſhes fall under them, they muſt be Reſpectively placed at the proper Incumbent, if otherwiſe already in the Liſt, or be Transferr'd into the Appendix. And to this I muſt yet further add, That ſince the Propagation was carried on under the Independent Tyranny, it is not improbable, that beſides the Old Loyaliſts, ſome of the Presbyterians, who had until then run in with the Rebellion, were Ejected likewiſe; and if any ſuch are gotten into the Liſt, I ſhall be very ready to diſcount them. See Part II. p. 189

There is yet another Source of Miſtakes unmention'd; I doubt whether ſome who ſuffered in a Parochial Capacity only, and were ſoon on the Return of the King, promoted in the Cathedrals, and others, who ſuffer'd in one Pariſh, and were then likewiſe remov'd to a better, being well known to have been Sequeſter'd Perſons, may not be repreſented to me as Ejected from Thoſe latter Places, and not from the former; and whether ſome, who were only A. M. or B. D. at the time of their Sufferings, may not be accounted for to me by the Higher Degrees (and more particularly, that of D. D.) which they obtained in, or after the Reſtoration; as alſo whether ſome who were only Doctors of Law (for in common ſpeaking, the Faculties are never ſpecify'd, but the ſingle Word Dr. indifferently Uſed for all of them) may not, by thoſe who have Informed me, and ſometimes by my ſelf, have been miſtaken for Doctors in Divinity.

I have ſome Reaſon to think, that thoſe People from whom the Clergy had ſometimes their Informations, not being Appriz'd of the Difference betwixt Committees and Commiſſioners, have often Confounded theſe Words; and that I have not my ſelf been always Mindful to Diſtinguiſh them as Carefully as I ought; as neither the Words, Acts, Ordinances, and Orders, tho' for the moſt Part, I believe, the Difference is punctually Obſerved; The Value of the Livings is perhaps often Miſreckon'd; and being probably, for the moſt Part, given according to the common Vogue, the Pariſhes may be therefore more frequently Over, than Under Rated; tho' it muſt be Obſerved, that as ſome Livings Riſe, ſo others Fall, in ſuch a Courſe of Years: And 'tis not unlikely, that the being deny'd the Fifths, is ſometimes complain'd of, when the Perſons were either by their Temporal Eſtates, or by ſome other Exceptions in the Ordinances of thoſe Times, Diſqualify'd for Claiming them. I know not whether the Affinity of ſome Names in the Index Villaris (for that Work I made uſe of to this Purpoſe) may not have ſometimes Miſ-led me in Affixing the R. for V. as Tokens of Rectory or Vicaridge, to ſeveral of the Pariſhes, and whether there may not be ſome other Miſtakes in thoſe Matters; and I expect the Miſtakes in Point of Orthography (as well in the Names of Perſons as Places) ſhould be without Number. I ſcarce ever ſaw any Work of this Nature, that did not Labour under ſuch Misfortunes: The Abridgment, the Valor Beneficiorum, and the Index Villaris now mention'd, abound with them. The Rule I ſet my ſelf, was punctually to obſerve the Spelling of the Papers, &c. from which I Copy'd; but thoſe Papers were not always conſonant to themſelves, much leſs to one another, in theſe Matters; and therefore neither is, nor could that which I Copy'd from them; nor was it poſſible for me always to Remember the Preciſe Spelling, when I Repeated any Name; and it would have been Endleſs (as well as in good Meaſure Uſeleſs) to run over the Work, and re-examine it throughout on Occaſion of every Name that might poſſibly be more than Once mention'd in it. Preface to the Abridgm. Vol. II. Edit. 2. p. 22.

And there are ſtill ſome others, tho' Occaſioned in a Different Manner: For the Sufferers under Each County being Alphabeted no farther than the firſt Letter of Each Name, when the Papers were ſent to the Preſs, a Learned Perſon was pleas'd to Mark them out by Figures, and thereby to Direct the Printer how they ought to be Plac'd, in order to Reduce them to a yet more Perfect Alphabet, with Regard to the Second and Following Letters of each Name; but not obſerving the Dependance, the Accounts had ſometimes one upon another, and the References peculiar to the Order they ſtood in, as they were drawn up in the Copy, the Diſſolving of that Order made ſeveral of thoſe References altogether * Unintelligible. To which muſt be added, that the † Learned Perſon who Corrected the Preſs, and was (as is before ſaid, deſired to Correct the Work it ſelf) may perhaps have now and then added, or altered ſome things which did not Comport with ſome other Parts, or which ought to have been Examined, Compared with, and Referr'd to them, although it was in ſome ſort impoſſible he ſhould be Appriz'd of it.

* See particularly the Caſe of Mr. Burton of Fenſtanton in Hunt. Part II. p. 205.

† Particularly, in the Caſe of one or two Sufferers, of which he had been informed, and was ſo kind to inſert them.

It is not unlikely, that among the great Variety of Particulars in the Work, ſome Things may be mention'd or Hinted at, that are Spoken of, and Anſwer'd to, in ſome of the Writings of the other Side; but I muſt beg leave to aſſure the Reader, that altho' this may ſufficiently Diſcover my Ignorance, yet it proceeds from no Worſe Quality: For I have Faithfully mentioned thoſe Anſwers, as far as they came to my Knowledge, and Repreſented ſuch of them as I could get a Sight of: Nor is it improbable, that I may have mention'd ſome Things which Dr. Calamy hath Amended in the New Edition of his Abridgment; but my Papers were ſo far Printed off, and the Remainder ſo far Advanc'd when that Work had its Second Publication, that it was too late to conſult it for that End: Nor indeed have I been able to find more Time than what was ſufficient to give ſome few Pages of it a Curſory Reading, and to go over with his Preface, of which (to obſerve that by the Way) I ſhould have taken more Notice, but that the greater Part of it concerns thoſe Subjects, which I am, God willing, to ſpeak of hereafter.

Digitized by Google

As to the Errors of the Preſs, no one certainly, had ever a Better Title to the common Plea, of a great Diſtance from it, and Conſequently to the Courteſie of the Gentle Reader in that Point; who cannot fail to Obſerve likewiſe, that the Order and Form of the Second Part, render it much more Liable to Miſtakes of the Kind I am now Speaking, than any plain and common Pages can be; nor could any one but the Perſon that Drew them up, ſet thoſe Miſtakes at rights in ſeveral Caſes. The more Noted Miſcarriages will however, be in ſome meaſure Remedy'd by a Liſt of Errata; only it will be neceſſary to take Notice in this Place, becauſe it cannot be ſo conveniently done there, that the Spaces and Diſtances intended for Inſerting ſuch Degrees as are Wanting, as likewiſe the Rectories and Vicarages are not always obſerved; that ſometimes in the Liſt of the Univerſity of Oxford, thoſe Spaces are left when they were never intended, becauſe the Sufferers were Under-Graduates; that the Points are not always continued to the Braces, from the Shorter Preferments; and that the Preferments are not always Ranked and Diſpoſed in the Order that the Copy plainly enough Exemplify'd.

There are Probably, many other Occaſions and Heads of Miſtakes, which I have not obſerved; but the only One obſerved, and not yet mention'd, is ſuch an One as I muſt be a little more particular in Speaking to; I mean, the Miſrepreſentations, in the Traditionary Stories of the Hardſhips and Ill Uſage of ſeveral of the Parochial-Clergy. I am not ſo Apprehenſive of Errors and Miſtakes in any one Part of the Work, as in this; and am the more inclined to Suſpect them, becauſe I find ſo many of this Kind in the Abridgment: Nor do I ſee how they could be Prevented, eſpecially in an Undertaking wholly begun (as mine was) at ſo great a Diſtance of Time from the Tranſactions themſelves, and not capable of being altogether carried on without ſome Aſſiſtances from theſe Traditions; which paſſing through ſo many, and thoſe very often Mean and Ignorant Hands, cannot, as I ſhould think, fail of being often Miſrepreſented in many Circumſtances; and the rather becauſe the Variation of a Word, and ſometimes of any the leaſt Particle, and more particularly, the Omiſſion or Concealment of any part of the Facts, may make ſo conſiderable an Alteration, and give ſuch a wrong Turn to any Relation. I was made very Senſible of This (and the Inſtance will alſo ſerve to Illuſtrate the Matter to the Reader) by the Different Relations of the Uſage of Dr. Cox at Exeter; the one of which, (and that the Trueſt) Repreſenting him as ply'd with a Vomit, (to the Hazard of his Life) by the Order of the Earl of Stamford, to bring up ſome Papers of Intelligence, which, it was Apprehended, he had Chew'd and Swallow'd down, to prevent their being ſeen by the Earl; the other, Alledging, that he had been Poyſon'd, and thereby brought in Hazard of his Life, but providentially Preſerved by Exceſſive Vomiting: And, I muſt confeſs, that for Theſe, and ſuch like Reaſons, it was with great Diffidence, I Related the Story of Mr. Powell; one Part of which, ſeems to me little leſs than Impoſſible; and yet the Perſon who ſent me the Account, being himſelf a Clergyman, and Affirming he had it from the Mouth of one of thoſe very Clergymen who were Fellow-Sufferers with Mr. Powell (and therefore more than an Eye-Witneſs of what he Affirmed) I knew not on one Hand, how I could wholly Omit the Relation; nor on the Other, would I venture to give it but in thoſe Words wherein I had my ſelf Receiv'd it; tho' the Printer by what Accident, I know not, omitted to Signifie ſo much to the Reader by the uſual Token of Comma's in the Margin.

See Part II. p. 27. 28.

See Part II. p. 333. 334.

To this it muſt be yet added, that there are not Wanting ſome Zealous People of the one Side, as well as of the Other, who are ready enough to Aggravate and Inflame a Story beyond the Bounds of Truth and Honeſty. I much Miſtake if the Abridgment doth not Abound with ſuch Miſrepreſentations; and I wiſh I could be ſure the ATTEMPT was wholly free from them; But as it was Impoſſible for me to Diſcover Theſe and the other Miſtakes now mention'd; So neither could I forbear to Inſert ſuch Relations as are thus Handed down in the ſeveral Pariſhes, becauſe they have a Foundation of Truth: And tho' the particular Circumſtances may be often Miſtaken, yet it is probable, that the True Ones when Diſcover'd, will often prove as Bad, if not ſometimes Worſe, and by Conſequence, the Barbarous Oppreſſions of the Rebellion will appear much the ſame either way. However, I am

Digitized by Google

am particularly Desirous, and therefore Ready to Correct the Miſtakes of this Kind on the firſt Information; and was I not ſo on the other Accounts, this Reaſon is Sufficient to Determine me to it; Namely, that the Inhumanities of the ſeveral Ordinances themſelves, and of the other Unqueſtionable Relations, as well of the Proceedings of the Committees, as of the other Sufferings of particular Clergymen, are ſo many, that theſe alone would abundantly Diſplay the Cruelties of the Times, were all the other Diſcounted from the Hiſtory.

Beſides theſe general Heads now mention'd, I muſt alſo take notice of ſome particular Miſtakes diſcovered ſince the Papers were printed off. In a Note at Mr. Aſhton in Cambridgeſhire. I had ſaid, the Earl of Manchester acted by Commiſſioners in the Aſſociated Counties, but in Perſon at Cambridge; which is not ſo carefully expreſſed as it ought: for he acted in both Affairs by Commiſſioners (only he was at Cambridge in Perſon ſome part of the time) who prepared the matters for him, to which he afterwards put his Fiat. In theſe Counties will likewiſe often occur a Query, whether the Suffering Clergyman did not loſe a Temporal Eſtate of ſuch or ſuch a Value, or ſuch and ſuch a Sum of Money; but, I ſince find, that the Paper which led me to make thoſe Queſtions, was only a Computation made, and given in, of the Real and Perſonal Eſtates of the ſeveral Sufferers, in Order to determine, purſuant to the Ordinance, whether they were entitul'd to the Fifths, or not. † Dr. Car of Durham, was not Sequeſter'd from the Vicaridge of Aycliff, but dy'd poſſeſs'd of it; and therefore it may be, he did not ſuffer in the Prebend neither. The * Account of Dr. William Huchenſon of Exeter, is in great meaſure confounded with That of his Father of the ſame Degree, and both the ſame Names, which led me into the Miſtake. The Cauſes of the Sequeſtration of Mr. ‡ Large from Rotherfield in Suſſex, are very much miſrepreſented: Nor was the Lodge (in which Mr. || Seſton of Burton cum Coates, in the ſame County, abſconded) uninhabited, as is there repreſented, but poſſeſs'd at that time by a poor Family. Mr. Tomlinſon of High-Ongar in Eſſex, was indeed Sequeſter'd; but the Poverty of his Family afterwards was not ſo much owing to his own Sufferings under the Rebellion, as to their being defrauded of an Eſtate which he had left them. Catworth Magna in Huntingtonſhire, as inſerted Part II. p. 219, makes a Duplicate, being before mentioned at Mr. Aycrodd, p. 183; as is likewiſe St. Mary's in St. Edmondsbury, p. 311, it being the Living of Mr. Jewell before mentioned, p. 285; and there are probably, ſome other things of the like nature over look'd.

But whether thoſe Eſtates, &c. might be after Sequeſter'd for Delinquency, I know not.

† See Part. I. p 5. Part II. p. 20.

* Ibid. p. 27.

‡ Ibid. p 299.

|| Ibid. p. 372.

Ibid. p. 378.

I have now found, and honeſtly confeſs'd as many Faults, as I could, in the Undertaking, and among them, ſeveral, which I am ſatisfy'd, would have coſt my Adverſaries no ſmall Pains and Trouble to have diſcovered: That there are however, many more, I make no queſtion; and theſe my Friends are deſired, and mine Enemies are very welcome to tell me of; the Former of which, will receive my utmoſt Thanks; and the Other, tho' they do not Smite me friendly, ſhall be ſure to ſee the good effect of Reformation and Amendment: But I am more particularly deſirous of being inform'd of thoſe Miſtakes by means of which the Reputation of any Perſon, whether Dead or Living, may be injur'd: That the Credit and Reputation of ſeveral Perſons muſt be concern'd in ſome of the unavoidable Miſtakes now mention'd, is plain to every body: Nor can I ſufficiently lament my own Misfortune (or rather indeed that of the Work) on thoſe Accounts. I have no Method left therefore, to remedy them, but that which I now take, of being particularly deſirous to be ſet at Rights in the Miſtakes of that kind; and of giving all poſſible aſſurance, that on the firſt Notice of them, I will do Juſtice, and give all due Satisfaction to the injured Perſons; and this will, I hope, abundantly convince the Reader, that none of them are wilful: Beſides which, the Multitude of Queries wherewith I have fill'd the Margins (and that perhaps, as ſome will think, unneceſſarily) do concur to ſhew, how unwilling I was to affirm by Wholeſale: Nor ſhould I have the Confidence to ask, or expect the Favour of the Reader, was I conſcious to my ſelf of any known Miſ-repreſentations, Falſhoods, or even Concealements: But whilſt on the other Hand, I have done my utmoſt to prevent them, I may reaſonably Hope for the Allowances (and I ask no other) that are uſually made to ſuch Undertakings; and particularly, thoſe which Dr. Calamy claims for the * Abridgment; thoſe which the preſent Right Reverend Biſhop of Sarum hath lately demanded (and I am ſatisfy'd the Party are ready to give him) for his † Hiſtory of the Reformation, and thoſe which it is well known, they are ſo forward to make to Mr. ‡ Fox's Book of Martyrs; notwithſtanding ſome of thoſe ſuppoſed Sufferers did, as I have heard, live to read their own Martyrdom; which if true, is alone ſufficient to convince any one engaged in ſuch a Work, that he ought rather to offer his firſt Edition to the Publick for Correction than Information; and that he will be oblig'd, as I now am, to beg every Reader to be very Courteous indeed; and rather to conſider himſelf as a Friend to whom the Work is communicated for his Amendment, than to look on himſelf in any other View and Capacity. I cannot forbear to add, before I quit this Head, that the Faults of the Abridgment are never the leſs, for that

See Preface to Abridg. Vol II. Edit. 2. p. 22.

* See Preface to Vol. II. Edit. 2. p. 23.

† See his Introduction to his remaining Volume of that Hiſtory.

‡ See alſo Preface to the Abridg. Vol. II. Edit. 2. p. 23.

the

the probable Heads and Occasions of Them are not more particularly Pointed at by the Author himself; nor those of the ATTEMPT ever the more, for being thus fairly and openly confess'd; save that it hath not a little contributed to lengthen out a Preface which the answering those Clamours already rais'd, and obviating these more numerous ones I foresee will be made, have otherwise render'd but even too tedious and particular.

And was I to deal with Persons of common Candor and Ingenuity, this long Detail of the Imperfections and Mistakes of the Work, and the Readiness I have profess'd of amending them as soon as more and better Informations shall enable me to do it, might well be expected to produce the good Effect of saving both my self and my Adversaries a great deal of trouble in Answers, and Replies, until the History is settled and adjusted; but this is what I am satisfy'd, I must by no means look for. It is impossible that an ATTEMPT towards the Recovering an Account of the Numbers and Sufferings of the Loyal Clergy, should fail of stirring up the Resentments of the Party; more especially, considering, that there must be some among them whose Ancestors or other Relations acted so great a part in the Iniquities of those Times, and are perhaps, mention'd in the Work. The great Freedom wherewith I have in this Preface delivered my Thoughts of the Faction at present (who succeed in the same Principles of Disaffection to the Church, and Disloyalty to their Prince) will, I am sensible, yet more inflame them against me. The Nature of such a Work, which as I have shewn, is of it self liable to so many Mistakes, yields them so fair an Opportunity of insulting me; and that very Plainness and Openness, wherewith I have honestly pointed out so many probable Occasions of those Mistakes, which they could not have discover'd themselves, without some considerable Trouble, must prove such an Help and Encouragement to them, that their impatient Zeal can never leave me without many sudden and precipitated Answers: Nor can they fail on this occasion above all others, of employing in a very distinguish'd manner, their known Talents of Falshood, Calumny and the most bitter Railings and Invectives. Insomuch that if the Diligence of the Weekly Writers doth not out-strip That of the Booksellers, and make the Answers in several Parts of the Country prevent the Work it self; if the Book be not Torn in pieces, the Preface (or perhaps some Parts of it) taken in hand by One, a few Incidents by Another, and these very Mistakes I have given warning of, by a Third; if every Week doth not for some time produce a Pamphlet against me, or if any Pamphlet from the Party is without a Fling at me; if I am not Traduc'd for a Roufeau, an High-Flier (perhaps a Jacobite, or a Papist) a Persecutor, or a Railer, and the most notorious Lier that ever wrote; if the unavoidable Mistakes of a Work of this nature, are not pass'd into known and wilful Falshoods, and the lesser and circumstantial Slips magnify'd into gross Errors, and produc'd to destroy the Credit of the whole Work; if the most odious and detestable Calumnies, and the most exploded Falshoods, are not afresh publish'd against the Church and Clergy, by way of Retortion; In a word, if I do not meet with all the ill Usage that industrious and indefatigable Malice can lay any Man under, I will contentedly be thought to have misrepresented the Party, as well in the Work it self, as in this Preface: But if I am dealt with in those Methods of Calumny and Reproach, I hope, the Reader will think their Practices and Behaviour do abundantly confirm every Word I have said of them.

Nor is this the Result of Conjecture only, and Probabilities, grounded on the known Character of the Party, and their usual Proceedings in Cases of the like nature; but what they have Themselves openly and professedly declar'd, and given me Warning of, in their Observator reviv'd, and in an Advertisement at the End of the New Test of the Church of England's Honesty; and not only so, but what their hasty and impatient Zeal did actually, and in Fact put in practice (about Two Years since, when they expected the Work should have been Publish'd) in the Scandalous Paper, entitul'd A New-Years Gift for the High-Church Clergy, of which I have already spoken more than Once; but must now add, on occasion of mentioning it in this place, That if they continue to pursue those detestable Methods of Heaping so much Filth upon the Church, and Publishing afresh those notorious Lies and Scandals, by which the Regular Clergy were, in the Times of the Rebellion, calumniated out of their Livings, I cannot promise for my self, but such a Provocation may hereafter prevail with me to alter the Determination I had in a manner made with my self, of avoiding as far as possible, to meddle with the Morals of Those mention'd in the Abridgment: And if the Party should compel me to break through that Resolution, they may perhaps find Cause enough to repent of it.

But to Treat more particularly with Those I expect shall appear against the ATTEMPT: That Author would doubtless, be a very happy Man at Controversie, who could prescribe to his Adversaries, especially such as Those I am to deal with at present; and yet, as Extravagant as such a Project may seem, I must

Digitized by Google

I muſt take upon me to preſcribe to them; and what is more, to offer them ſuch a Preſcription as they will be leaſt willing to make uſe of; I mean, the very bitter and diſtaſteful one of Patience. I am ſenſible, I ſhall want a great Stock of this my ſelf, as ſoon as their ſeveral Anſwers ſhall come forth: But they will find it as neceſſary for Themſelves, as it is for Me, if they expect any Returns to what they ſay: For, be their Writers never ſo haſty, I ſhall not conſider any of them, until the ATTEMPT hath paſs'd the Cenſure of its Friends as well as its Enemies: And be they never ſo many, I am determin'd to make but one Labour of it, and ſpeak to them all at the ſame time And this Reſolution no Provocations, nor any Opportunities of Expoſing their Scribbles, tho' they lay themſelves never ſo open, ſhall prevail upon me to break through. That my Adverſaries will be more forward to Correct me than my Friends, is eaſie to conceive, and will be out of all Doubt, when it is known, that the Former of them have Anſwer'd the Work before they have yet ſeen it: Nor is it the bare Talk of the Party (although that Talk is perhaps occaſion'd by what I am next to ſay) That ſuch an Anſwer lies Prepar'd; but the Writers too often taken notice of already, have publickly declar'd as much; and the New-Year's Gift, as is juſt now ſaid, proceeded in Fact to anſwer it no leſs than Two Years ſince: The firſt Inſtance, I believe, of any Anſwer that was ever Publiſh'd ſo long before the Work it ſelf; and is not unlike That of Murthering a Child (which can have done neither Good nor Evil) before it is born; tho' I muſt own, I cannot but approve of the Conduct of theſe Harbingers, on this account, that perhaps they were appriz'd, had they tarried till the Book it ſelf appear'd, they ſhould never have been able to anſwer it. Beſides that, come the worſt, they have this reaſonable Excuſe for any Blunders they can commit, that they were forc'd to make Gueſs-Work of it, and knew not one Word of what they wrote againſt. Tryal of the Ch. of England's Honour, &c. and Obſervator.

I always thought the main Part of the Pretended Manuſcripts that lay ready, were nothing but a Tranſcript from the Scandalous Century, and the Publication of the New-Year's-Gift (which I ſuppoſe is the Piece wherewith we were thus Threatned) Confirms me in that Opinion. However, I will not Pretend to ſay what other Preparations the known Induſtry of the Party may have made: They have had full Ten Years Time, and Warning, (nor would the Nature of the Undertaking allow the Preventing of either) and were not Wanting by Repeated Letters (ſome of which were taken up, and preſerved) and by ſeveral Meſſages, to Attempt the Corrupting of a Servant, that they might have the Sheets as they were Printed off; and the long Continuance of the Work in the Preſs, together with my great Diſtance from it, hath Adminiſter'd abundant Opportunities for ſuch a Deſign. On theſe Accounts then, I may well expect to hear ſooner from thoſe that Diſlike, than thoſe who Favour the Undertaking; but certainly it will be thought Reaſonable to hear all Sides before I come to a Determination, and more particularly, to take the Advice of my Friends with me, when I am to meet ſo many Enemies: For which Reaſon, if Dr. Calamy himſelf (provided he may think himſelf obliged to Anſwer, as I cannot expect he ſhould, before the other Parts, in which he is more immediately Concerned, are alſo Publiſhed) appears againſt it ſooner than the Book can be otherwiſe thoroughly Canvaſs'd and Examined, I muſt be forc'd to intreat His Patience, as well as that of the other Writers; and if the Forward Ignorance, the Bold Impertinence, the Perſonal Hatred, or the Woiſe Qualities of any other Perſon, ſhall put him upon Haſtening ſome empty Cavils and Reproaches to the Preſs; that Author ſhall be ſure to be Anſwered with a moſt Profound and Diſtinguiſh'd Silence. See Part II. P. 466.

And this Firſt Part of my Reſolution plainly Determines me to the Other, of conſidering all the Anſwers and Objections in one and the ſame Reply: For if it be Requiſite to tarry until the Work hath paſs'd the Cenſure of every Body, that will again Naturally Direct me to ſpeak to all of them together; ſuch, I mean, as ſhall deſerve to be Conſider'd and are not in Effect Anſwer'd already in this Preface: For otherwiſe ſhould a Man Stoop for a Stone to Fling at ever Cur that Barks, he might be long enough before he came to his Journey's End. I am well Satisfy'd, this Declaration may ſeem to Tempt and Invite the Inſults, and to Encourage the Enterprizes of all the Little Proſtituted Scribblers of the Party, whilſt they are ſure to Triumph for a Time with Impunity. But he who is not prepared to hear the Worſt Calumnies and Reproaches that Malice can Invent, is altogether unfit to Deal with thoſe People; only, I would beg leave to ſuggeſt to the Reader, that whilſt Railing and Falſhood are the known Properties of the Faction, he will Suſpend his Judgment until I have Time and Leiſure to Anſwer for my ſelf, although they aſſert with never ſo much Confidence, and put on never ſo great an Air of Truth and Honeſty.

Digitized by Google

But to be yet a little more Particular with the ſeveral Sorts of Adverſaries; I expect thoſe who intend to Deal with me in the way of Railing and ill Language, will be pleas'd to know, that as I have juſt now ſuggeſted, I am Forewarn'd, and therefore I hope, by God's Aſſiſtance, Forearm'd, to Return them as a Full Anſwer, the Late Arch-biſhop's Inſcription on a great Heap of Papers; Theſe are Libels; God forgive the Authors. As to the Weekly Scribblers, I have before ſaid, they will have no Anſwer at all, unleſs they will be ſo well pleas'd, as to take This for One, ſince they will be ſure to get no Other.

I ſaid when I ſpoke of the Miſtakes of the Work, that I was not more Apprehenſive of them in any one Inſtance, than that of Miſrepreſenting many of the Circumſtances and Incidents (and ſome, it may be, very Groſly) of the ſeveral Relations, and more Particularly, thoſe that are Handed down from one to another in ſeveral Pariſhes. Theſe, I expect, as is alſo before Hinted, ſhall, when Diſcover'd be Amplify'd, and paſs'd into the Groſſeſt, if not moſt Wilful Falſifications; and directed to the Purpoſes of Deſtroying utterly the Credit and Reputation of the whole Work. But I muſt deſire thoſe who have ſo little Generoſity, as to Attack, with moſt Fury, that weak Part of the Work, which I have my ſelf ſo Generouſly pointed out to them, that before they Triumph in the Victory, they will conſider, whether ſuch Miſtakes are not Unavoidable in a Work of this Nature; whether Mr. Fox (of whom I muſt again put them in Mind) did not commit ſeveral of them, and yet never Forfeited his Credit or Veracity with thoſe I am now ſpeaking to; whether Dr. Calamy doth not on this ſame Occaſion, obſerve, that thoſe who were 'GALLED' with His (Fox's) Performance, cry'd out, 'So many Lives, ſo many Lyes;' whether he doth not himſelf likewiſe in the ſame Place, ſeem to ſuggeſt the like Fears I have openly declared; or if he doth not, whether he might not, and ought not to have done it; and whether I cannot ſhew great Numbers of ſuch Miſtakes and Miſrepreſentations in the Abridgment, which muſt therefore Fall with this Work, if ſuch Miſtakes are ſufficient to Deſtroy the Credit of an Author; whether the particular Difficulties of my Undertaking before ſpoken of, do not render it much more Liable to ſuch Failures than the Abridgment could be; whether I have not taken the Utmoſt Care to Avoid them, and have not by that means prevented great Numbers that would otherwiſe have crept in; whether for thoſe Ends, I have not affirm'd with the utmoſt Caution, and made many Notes and Queries in thoſe Caſes where others would have made no Scruple to Aſſert Roundly, and without any Heſitation; whether any one of thoſe Miſtakes is wilful; whether on the other Hand, I have not given fair Warning of them, and, as far as lay in my Power, Caution'd the Reader againſt them; whether if all theſe Doubtful and Suſpected Stories were Diſcover'd, they would bear any Proportion to the more Certain and Undeniable Ones, or any ways Affect the Main Subſtance and Principal Parts of the Work; and Laſtly, whether there be any Force in this Conſequence, an Author hath been Miſ inform'd of ſome Things, and been Guilty of ſome Miſtakes, which the utmoſt Care and Diligence could never have Prevented, and therefore he is not to be Credited in any one Thing that he Says.

Preſ to Vol. II. Ed. 2 p. 23.

There are many other Anſwers, which the Threats of their Writers (if at leaſt, they are any thing more than bare Threats) give me reaſon to expect, and with Regard to thoſe, I muſt take upon me to Preſcribe yet further, and Acquaint thoſe, who intend to make them, in the firſt Place, that if they take hold of ſome Incidental Things only, and ſuch as are not Directly to the Main Purpoſe of the Hiſtory, with Intent to Expatiate and Run out upon them at Large, they will loſe their Labour: For I am fully Reſolv'd not to be Tow'd away by theſe, or any other Arts, from the Subſtance of the Argument; nor will I ever follow them in ſuch Sallies and Excurſions. I muſt let them know in the next Place alſo, that if they intend, in Oppoſition to this Hiſtory, to Collect the Out-cries of Perſecution that were made before the Times of the Grand Rebellion, or thoſe Clamours that were Rais'd on the ſame Subject for what hath been done ſince the Time of the Bartholomew Act, eſpecially, if any of their Lay-Friends are taken into the Account, I am Determin'd not to Meddle with theſe Matters neither: For (not to Obſerve that in both theſe Caſes, they Suffer'd as the moſt Obſtinate Offenders againſt the Known, as well as Wholeſome Laws and Conſtitutions of the Land) the Truth of theſe Facts, if their own perverſe Interpretation of them ſhould be Allow'd, would never Warrant this Inference, viz. That they have been Perſecuted themſelves, and therefore they never Perſecuted others. Add to this, that my great Diſtance from the Papers and Records neceſſary to Reply to ſuch a Charge; my Want both of Strength and Fortunes to go through with ſuch another Undertaking; my having ſpent ſo great a Part of an Infirm Life already in an Affair that is not the direct Buſineſs of my Function, and the Employment I ſhall probably find in the Defending the more direct Attacks upon the Body of the Work itſelf, do all concur to Excuſe and Diſcharge me from Attempting ſuch an Anſwer. I promiſe my ſelf however, that the Church will not

New Teſt. &c. and Conſtantine Revolt. Abr. ſa pra.

Digitized by Google

not be without some Friend or other, who, if the Party shall Entertain any Thoughts of Assisting her in that Way, will Generously stand in the Breach, and soon Repel them from that Quarter. If it be Objected, that by this Rule Dr. Calamy is not Obliged to take any Notice of those Parts of the Present Work which will be now Published, since they are rather Occasion'd by, than of themselves a Direct and Immediate Answer to his Undertaking, I readily Grant it; and therefore shall never call upon him for any Answer, until the remaining Parts, in which he will be wholly Concerned, may by God's Assistance, see the Light. The same Writers give me Occasion to add in the Third Place, that if they Rake together the Filth that was thrown upon the Church and Clergy, by their Predecessors, from the Times of Queen Elizabeth, to those of 1640; or those Horrible Calumnies and Reproaches whereby they made way for the Sequestrations under the Rebellion (tho' the late New-Year's Gift hath well near Exhausted their Stores on this Subject;) or yet again, if they Collect the known Lies and Ribaldry of their Weekly Scriblers since 1688, I must still Declare my self Unconcerned to Answer them, any further than some of those mention'd in the List may be Named among them; Nor shall I directly be obliged to take Notice of those, unless they are by the List Recommended for Persons of Character and Reputation: And this Determination I have made with my self, not because I am afraid to Enter into the Debate of that Matter, (for I have shewn in another Part of this Preface that it will stand the Test of the most Malicious Examination) but because the Characters of the other Clergy will not in the least Affect those that Suffer'd under the Rebellion, and because of the other Reasons just now Alledg'd.

And these will come under consideration if God gives me Life and Strength to go on to that Part of the Work which is Particularly Allotted, for Vindicating the Clergy from the Calumnies of the Century, and the other Reproaches cast upon them in those Times.

In a Word, I am resolved not to concern my self with any thing that is not a Direct Answer to the Work; and therefore if Those, who undertake to examine it, will shew, that the Main Facts I have advanc'd, are not true; or, that I have given a wrong Turn to them, or made wrong Inferences, and been guilty of wrong Reasonings upon them (and This only is, or can be to the purpose) they shall not fail, as they respectively convince me of my own Errors, or commit any Themselves, to meet with a Ready Acknowledgment, or a Resolute Defence.

It might perhaps be expected, That whilst I am speaking of my Replies, I should in this place make some Return to Those Forward Persons that have already attack'd the Work before they saw it; and I once purpos'd to do so; but having been before oblig'd to mention them on several Occasions, I find they are sufficiently Answer'd by what I then said; and more particularly, the Last of those Pieces, when I acquainted the Reader, that it was no other than Part of White's Nauseous Century Mangl'd and Curtail'd (to conceal the true Causes of the Clergy's Sequestrations) by omitting both the General Charge, and every particular Instance of Malignity, which could not have fail'd of interpreting all the other Charges and Allegations: And therefore I have nothing more to add on the present Head, but that long before I 'Tasted' the 'Kindness and Candour of some 'People' (as I have, and that too, much deeper than ever Dr. Calamy did) I took care to preserve 'my Vouchers,' and what is more, to provide that they may be lodg'd in some Publick Repository, whenever it pleases God to call me off; partly, in hopes that some Learned Persons will one time or other give themselves the Trouble to run them over, and rectifie the Mistakes that I may, thro' Haste or Inadvertency, have committed; but chiefly as a Testimony to every one that will peruse them, of my Faithfulness and Integrity in drawing up this History. In the mean time, whilst the Papers yet continue in my own Hands, if any Gentleman be pleased to come himself, or will employ a Friend, to examine the Authority I have for any thing that is asserted, he shall have the same Freedom of Access to my Collections, as tho' they were already placed in any common Library or Register.

New Test, &c. Observator, and New Year's Gift.

Pref. to Vol. II. Edit. 2. p. 25.

But as every one that had his Choice, would prefer the Chastisements of his Friends to That of his Enemies; so as far as that Choice is left me, I now request, that Those who favour the Undertaking, would yet contribute what further Assistance lieth in their power, towards supplying the Defects, and correcting the Omissions and Mistakes before complained of, as likewise Those which they shall themselves Discover. The Method of the Work it self, and more Particularly, the large Complaints I have made of Imperfections and Mistakes, will in good Measure Suggest to them what is Necessary for that Purpose: The great Number of Suffering Loyalists, that I was Uninform'd of (and are therefore yet Wanting in the List); the Incumbents on the Prebends and the Parishes which are without them, and the Parishes, on the other Hand, of such of the Sufferers as have none Subjoyn'd to their Names; The * Christian Names, Degrees, Characters, and parti-

* Which a very Learned Person, and parts Acutely Versed in Matters of this Nature, offer'd me to Supply out of a Book he is Shaping to the First-Fruits-Office, could my Copy have been then Spar'd from the Press. He will now have a fair Opportunity of doing me that great Favour, when the ATTEMPT is Published, tho' this Edition will indeed be without the Advantage of it.

cular

Digitized by Google

cular Sufferings of very many, and divers others Things of the like Kind, are such as every Reader will see necessary to be Sup ly'd; and, in a Word, nothing whatsoever that Relates either to their Lives, their Sufferings, or their Intruding Successors, can be Foreign to the Design of Perfecting the History of the Sequester'd Clergy.

It may seem needless to add, that the Notice of any Books, Pamphlets, Lives, Funeral Sermons, or Manuscripts, which Concern these Matters; The Suggesting any other Methods besides those already pursued for the Obtaining further Informations, and the Directing me to such Persons as are Able and Willing to Lend me any Assistance, would be Highly Acceptable: But because, I am very Sensible how Difficult it is at this Distance of Time, to Obtain a compleat Account of the Sufferings, &c. of any one Person, it will be Requisite to add, (least that Difficulty should Discourage any one) that the bare NAME or PARISH of a Sequester'd Person, or Successor to any Such, and an Account of any other the least Particular, would be very Acceptable; and more especially, if it Concerns the False Accusations, Oppressions, Sufferings, or other Miseries of the Sequester'd Clergy, and their Families.

Such Learned Persons as have any Manuscripts, or but Loose Papers Relating to those Matters, or have Opportunities of Looking into any Libraries or Registers, might be very Helpful to me in this Affair; more particularly, the Learned Members of the Particular Cathedrals, and Colleges of the Two Universities; from some or other of which, I might Reasonably Hope for such Corrections and Additions as would Perfect the Respective Lists of those Bodies: And would the Arch-deacons be pleas'd to Recommend it to the Parochial Clergy, the Ancient People of the Parishes, the Relations and Descendants of the Sufferers Dispers'd up and down in some or other of them, their Parish-Registers, and several other Opportunities, too many to be particularly mention'd, would in all Probability, Enable them to Satisfie most of the Enquiries that need be made. And it would be no small Addition to the Favour, if, together with the Notices, they would send an Account of the Conditions and Qualities of Those from whom they have the Relations, that the Credibility of their Testimonies might the better appear.

I must yet prefer this further Request to such as have Read the Abridgment, that if any of the Persons there Named, gave up again to the right Owners or were otherwise Dispossess'd before August 1662 (when the Act of Uniformity took Place) or if any of the Places affixed to their Names, were Curacies only, or little Hamlets, or Parishes, in which they were Occasionally Resident, and to which they never bore the Relation of Ministers; or, Lastly, if the Chorellers there given them, do by no means of Right belong to them, they will be Pleas'd to Inform me of it, that I may be the better Enabled to go through with the Examination of that List.

But tho' I should gladly Receive such further Informations as may Contribute towards Compleating of the Work, I am still more particularly Desirous of having the Errors and Mistakes of it Corrected; and therefore do more earnestly Request, that such Gentlemen as Discover them, would not fail to give me Notice of them, more especially of those wherein the Credit and Reputation of any Person may be Concern'd; and those other, which may be Convey'd in the Stories which pass from Hand to Hand in the several Parishes, which I have before taken Particular Notice of: For which End, I beg leave to Repeat on this Occasion, as I have more than once already on others, that I would most Thankfully Receive the Correction of any the least Mistake, Misrepresentation, or Circumstance whatever, even tho' it should not concern any more Important Matter, than that of a single Date or the right Spelling of the Name of any Place or Person.

See Preface to the Abridgment, Vol. II. Edit. 2. p. 32.

I have only this further Petition to prefer to 'such as are Lovers of Conformity,' Namely, 'That if upon the Publication of [those many Answers I expect] they 'find in it any Reflections on any of the [Sequester'd Clergy, or any other Fathhoods 'and Misrepresentations] which they can prove to be Unjust and Undeserved, 'they would Favour me with an Account of their Remarks, together with the Evi- 'dence with which they Support them, that I may add them in my design'd Appen- 'dix; in which, after I have had a little Breathing-Time (which is no more than 'is needful in my present Circumstances) I Propose (without in the least bearing 'hard on those of Different Sentiments) as far as I am able to do Justice, to a 'Number of Men who firmly Adhered to, and bravely Suffer'd for that which I am 'fully persuaded, was a GOOD CAUSE, and a Cause that, GOD WILL 'YET OWN AND APPEAR FOR.' And I persuade my self that this, and all the other Requests I have now made, will be more readily granted me by such as have an Esteem for the Constitution, when they Consider, that the Friends of the Separation have so plentifully Contributed their Assistance towards Compleating the Account of the Suffering Nonconformists; that from an Incident in the Folio Life of Mr. Baxter, it first became a Distinct Chapter in the Abridgment, and now a Separate Volume of near 200 Pages more than the Abridgment it self did Consist of in the first Edition.

Before

Digitized by Google

Before I yet close this Preface, I must let the Reader know, why the Work hath been so long in Hand; and come now to satisfie that Enquiry. As previous to which, I must first assure him, that the Delay of it hath not been Occasioned by any Negligence, Weariness, or Discouragement; but that it hath been Incessantly, and without Interruption, Prosecuted from the first Hour it was Undertaken, to this very Day; not excepting the Gloomy Times which seem'd to Threaten me with a Place in my own List of Sufferers for the Publication. It is Dr. Calamy's own Rule, that 'The 'Memory of some Things ought to be Reviv'd, that they may not be Repeated;' and upon that Account the threatening Aspect of those Times was so far from Retarding, that it very much Quicken'd me in the Pursuit, to Prevent, if it was Possible, a new Scene of Sufferings, or at least to Finish the History of the Old, before the Others were Begun.

But the particular Difficulties of the Work, the several Misfortunes which Attended my self, and many other Circumstances, Concurr'd to Prevent the Publication of it as soon as I Desir'd: That all the Ejectments, mention'd by Dr. Calamy, lay within the Compass of two Years, and were Effected by the means of one or two known Acts of Parliament, hath been already said in another Place; and it hath been also observed, that Dr. Calamy's Work, tho' not Publish'd till within these late Years, was, however in Truth, begun soon upon 1662: So that the Account of the Suffering Nonconformists, tho' first Undertaken whilst they were themselves Living to Relate their own History, was notwithstanding Forty Years in Preparing; and therefore, when it is consider'd, that the ATTEMPT was wholly New, the Materials to be first Collected with much Trouble, and Difficulty, before they could be laid together; that it takes in the Compass of Twenty Years; that it Accounts for the Ruine of the Church, as well as of the Clergy; that the Acts, Ordinances, Orders, Committees, Commissioners, and other Methods of Rapine and Oppression, were so very many, and so Difficult to be Trac'd; that the Work was Undertaken at the Distance of 70 Years from the first Sequestrations; that the Numbers of the Sequester'd Clergy so much exceeded those of the Bartholomew-Sufferers; that so few Memorials of them being preserved, they were in good Measure to be Collected singly from the Memories of so many Different and Distant Persons; that I am obliged to take Notice of the Successors, as well as the Sufferers, which Dr. Calamy's Undertaking very seldom led him to; that the whole Burthen of this Work lay on the Shoulders (and those, as I must by and by say, very weak ones) of a single Person, who was at a great Distance from any Number of Learned Persons, or any of the Publick Repositories of Learning which might assist him, and was therefore Obliged to take several long and tedious Journeys to Consult them all: These things I say, Consider'd, I hope the Time that I have taken in getting the Work Ready for the Press, will not appear so over-long as most People seem Inclin'd to think it; or if they shall yet continue in those Sentiments, let them guess at the Difficulties and Perplexities of it, from this one Consideration, that the bare Register of Memorandums of what Things I was to Enquire after, whom I was to Write, or Apply my self to, who had Answer'd me, &c. Amounted to a Volume: Not to add this great Truth (because the Reader will be perhaps with as much Difficulty induced to Believe, as I am to Declare it) that during the whole Course of the Work, the Letters I Wrote, the Collections, Transcripts, &c. that I made, and the Copy for the Press, Amounted to near 20 Reams of Paper.

I must once more desire the Reader to Observe, that the Cathedral Clergy (as likewise some of the Fellows of Colleges) being, for the most Part, Possess'd of some Parochial Preferments; the Parochial Clergy themselves, being Pluralists; some Persons also Successively Obtaining, and being then again Dispossess'd of Two or Three Parishes, and Two or more Loyalists being at other Times Driven from one and the same Living; I was therefore Obliged, that I might not Impose on the Reader with Duplicate Sufferers or Parishes, (as likewise on several other Accounts) to compare every one of those many Thousand Persons and Places in the whole List, with all the others of the same Initial Letter; the Trouble of which was so great, that these several Collations (which on one Occasion or other were little less than Twenty) took up almost the Compass of a whole Year; Besides, that several New Informations coming in after the Papers were drawn up for the Press, I was forced for Each to run over my List in the Manner now mention'd, before I could securely Insert any of them; and some of them Relating to such as had been mention'd before, and clearing up several Doubts and Queries, they not only Occasion'd Considerable Additions, but many Alterations likewise. This was a Perplexity to which the Abridgement was not in some Respects Liable, and which in those Cases that did Concern it, Dr. Calamy neither did, nor could Undertake in his List; because (as I must now observe to another Purpose also) both his Sufferers and Parishes were Thrown in Heaps together, without any Regard to Alphabet or Order, any further than that the Counties were kept Separate and Distinct: Nor hath the Second Edition Remedy'd that Confusion, only the Counties are now Placed Alphabetically. Add to this, that neither Edition hath an Alphabet of the Livings, nor of any other of the Persons themselves (tho' so Blended together in the Body of the Work) than those that had something mention'd of them besides their bare Names; whereas, the Cathedrals, and Colleges in the Universities are Alphabetted in the ATTEMPT; a Compleat Index of the Persons mention'd in them is Subjoyn'd at the End of it; the Parochial List is it self an Alphabet, and all the Sequester'd Parishes are thrown into an Index, and added to that of the Cathedral Clergy, &c just now spoken of. It will be easily Believ'd, that this took up no small Portion of Time, and I hope the Reader will not think his Patience ill Bestow'd, as far as that Occasion'd the Tryal of it.

Digitized by Google

Nor were the Misfortunes that Attended my self, less than the Difficulties that Accompany'd the Undertaking; I was indeed, on very many Accounts, the most Unfit Person that could have made such an ATTEMPT; The Subject would very fitly have Employed the Parts and Learning of any great Man; the Eminence, the Character, and general Acquaintance of such an one, would have procured him the ready Assistance of every Body; the Expence of the Work Demanded the Help of a Considerable Purse; the Residence of the Person that should Undertake it, in One or Other of the Universities, or in the City of London, was one very Necessary Requisite; the Laboriousness of the Undertaking would have Requir'd the Leisure of some Learned Man, whose Preferment in the Church did not Engage him in the Cure of Souls; and the Authority of a Person, thus Qualify'd and Prepared, might have Protected him from the Insults of the Party: Whilst, on the other Hand, my Abilities were altogether Unequal to the Undertaking, my Fortunes Mean, my very Name Unknown, my Parochial Charge Large and Troublesome, and my Character such, as may serve to Invite, (rather than to Defend, either my self, or the Work, from) the Attempts of its Adversaries: Insomuch that the Ten Years of Labour already past'd, will perhaps prove the Easiest and least Troublesome Part of all my Life.

But the Misfortunes I chiefly intend, were a Weakness of Sight, Contracted by too Close an Application to the Undertaking at my first Setting out, and a very Infirm Constitution; the Former of These, would not Permit me for some Time to Employ one Hour of the Four and Twenty, either in Reading or Writing, (nor will it yet Suffer me to Retrieve the Accidental Interruptions of the Day, by doing either of Them after it is Night) and Three or Four Hours have for these many Years, been the utmost that the Other will Allow me for Business; or if I offer at any more, it proves a real Hindrance in the Loss of Two or Three, at least, of the following Day. Besides that, it pleas'd God to Visit me with several severe Fits of Sickness, some of which Threaten'd my Life, and the most Favourable of them wholly prevented me from doing any Thing to forward the Undertaking for a Considerable Time.

It will be Needless to mention those Common and Unavoidable Occasions of the Ordinary Affairs of Life which must Necessarily Happen in the Course of so many Years; but I cannot Omit to Observe to the Reader in this Place, that some other Things have likewise Happen'd, which Contributed not a Little to make the Delay of the Work seem much longer, and more Tedious than it Really was; amongst which must be Reckon'd, in the first Place, the Expectations that were Rais'd by the Notice the Publick had of the Work in those Applications that were made for Informations, without which it had been Impossible to carry it on; and in the next Place, the Raising of these Expectations yet Higher by Dr. Goodall's Advertisement in the Gazette, that he was almost Ready for the Press; whereas, if I guess aright from his Papers, he had intended only some loose Strictures on the Barbarities and Oppressions of the Times, and an Indistinct List of such Sufferers as he had at Hand: For, if I well Remember, there was not among his Papers the List of any one Cathedral, (nor can I Learn, that he had made Particular Application to any one Church for it) nor had he Receiv'd any Transcript of the Visitors Register from Oxon, or search'd the Journal of the House of Commons, or the Papers of any one Office in London; much less had he Attempted an Account of the Acts, Ordinances, &c. or the History of any of the Committees, Commissioners, &c. and, in a Word, had no other Manuscript Accounts of particular Sufferers than the Proceedings in the Associated Counties, and the 65 Letters formerly mention'd to be since Increas'd to more than a Thousand in my Hands: Nor did I perceive, that out of these Materials he had then Compos'd so much as one Single Page: The Delay of the Work therefore so many Years, after such Hopes had been given of a Speedy Publication, could not but Render it doubly Tedious to Those who were not inform'd (as most People were not) of the True State of the Matter; and that the Advertisement came not from the Person who was now going on with the Design, but from another Hand that had dropt it long since. To this must be added in the Third Place, that the Sight of the Subscription-Paper Occasion'd fresh Hopes that the Work would suddenly be Publish'd; but had it been Consider'd, there was no Time prefix'd for it, and that one Reason alledg'd for the Subscription by the Paper it self, was the great Expence I had been at, which my Circumstances would very hardly allow me to bear any longer, the Hopes of a very Speedy sight of it must have been Abated: Nor, to Say the Truth, did my Weakness neſs, and the other Interruptions juſt now mention'd, permit me to keep the Preſs ſo conſtantly Employ'd as I Flatter'd my ſelf I ſhould, when I Diſpatch'd the Firſt Parcel of the Copy to the Bookſellers: And to Compleat theſe Misfortunes, Mr. Nicholſon, one of thoſe Bookſellers, without conſulting my ſelf, or his Partners, and with leſs Knowledge, perhaps, than any of Them, how far the Work was Printed off, and in what State the Remainder of it in my Hands was at that Time, Subjoyn'd an Advertiſment about a Year and Half ſince to a ſmall Piece which was Printed for him, aſſuring the Publick, that the Work would then be Publiſh'd in a very ſhort Time: All which Things have, I am very Senſible, concurr'd to Render thoſe Thoughts and Expectations of it very Irkſome and Burthenſome, which had before been Entertain'd with Pleaſure and Delight; tho' it is Impoſſible the Delay of it ſhould be ſo Tedious to any other Perſon whatſoever, as it hath continually been to my ſelf.

Digitized by Google

It may ſeem ſtrange, that after theſe many Excuſes for Detaining the Work ſo long in my Hands, I ſhould offer at making any for Publiſhing of it ſo ſoon; and yet This, as I have ſuggeſted in another Place, will be perhaps look'd on as the more neceſſary Apology of the Two. An Undertaking of ſo Intricate and Perplext a Nature, concern'd with ſuch a great Variety of Matter, and ſo many Thouſand Different Circumſtances Unattempted before, Labouring under ſuch Manifeſt Imperfections, and Lyable to ſo many Errors and Miſtakes, ought to have lain by ſome Years after it was Drawn up, and to have been Communicated to every Friend, that would give himſelf the Trouble to Peruſe it, before it had Ventur'd to appear in Publick; and had my own Circumſtances, or thoſe of the Times, permitted me, I would gladly have made another Search in all the Publick Offices, have Run over a Second Time, and Re-examin'd all the Books and Papers I made Uſe of; as well to prevent any Miſtakes, as to Note thoſe Things which ſeem'd leſs worth Obſervation, before I was better Appriz'd of what Particulars would be of Uſe, and might alſo ſerve to clear up ſeveral Doubts and Enquiries; beſides which, I could willingly have gone in Perſon to both Univerſities, and to the Cathedrals, or have Drawn out and Tranſmitted the Liſts of every one of thoſe Churches and Colleges, to ſome Learned Perſon in each of them for their Corrections; but the Expectations and Importunities of People were ſo great, the Service of the Church (to which the Work is Directed) ſo Manifeſtly Requir'd me to take the firſt Opportunity of getting it Out; and the moſt Effectual Way of Correcting and Perfecting it, being to deſire that Friendly Office of the Publick, and to Communicate it to them for that Purpoſe in the firſt Edition; I Readily Determined with my ſelf to let it go Abroad with all its Faults and Imperfections; and therefore to the Tender of all my paſt Labour, and Future Quiet, do now cheerfully Throw in that of my Credit and Reputation likewiſe, the Laſt Offering I am Capable of making to the Beſt of Churches.

The Order of theſe Papers requires me in the Laſt Place to let the Reader know, when he may expect an Appendix, and the Remaining Parts of the Work; but I find, I have prevented my ſelf on that Subject by what I had Occaſion to ſay in other Places; Namely, that I have Purpos'd to let the Book Lye under the Examination of the Publick (and to Return with a Cloſer Application to the more Immediate Buſineſs of my Function) for ſome Time; That no new Edition (if the Reception of it may Require any) with Additions or Alterations, ſhall be Publiſh'd whilſt God is pleas'd to continue my Life: But that ſuch Additions and Corrections as are ſent me, ſhall be Publiſh'd in an Appendix, and that I am Unwilling to take Dr. Calamy's Laſt under Conſideration, until the Errors of my Own are thus Corrected and Amended; and therefore I have done, when I have acknowledg'd, in the Deepeſt and moſt Humble Manner, the great Goodneſs of Almighty God, that hath at laſt Enabl'd me, under ſo much Weakneſs, to Finiſh ſuch a Conſiderable Part, as will now be Publiſh'd, of this Perplex'd and Troubleſome Undertaking.

ERRATA in the PREFACE.

PAGE 5. Line 1. read them. On this Foot then. p. 7. l. 28, 29. r. Revolution they intended; to enrich. p. 32. l. 1. in the laſt Paragraph, r. And as I have not Omitted. p. 36. l. 8, 9. for of their, r. other. p. 43. l. 10. dele the Full Point after Cambridgſhire.

THE

A

CATALOGUE

OF THE

NAMES

OF

Such SUBSCRIBERS to this BOOK as came to our Hands.

A.

SIR Hewyt Aucher, Baronet.
Sir John Armitage of Kirkleſs, Bar.
The Reverend Dr. Aitham, Rector of St. Botolph Biſhopſgate.
Thomas Aſh, Eſq;
Joſ. Abell, M.A. Fellow of Merton-College in Oxford.
The Reverend Mr. Atwood, R. of South Aſh in Kent.
—— Dr. Archer, Arch-deacon of Taunton.
—— Mr. Aſhe, Vicar of Saleberſt in Suſſex.
—— Mr. Aldridge, R. of Henly in Oxfordſhire.
—— Mr. Aſhworth, R. of Lokeng in Oxfordſhire.
—— Mr. Aubrey, V. of Fore in Herefordſhire.
—— Mr. Aris, V. of Cheddar, and Prebendary of Wells.
Oſwell Andrews, M. A.
Edmond Arſcot, Eſq; of Tetcote in Devon.
Dennis Arſcot, Eſq; of Eſly in Cornwall.
Samuel Aubrey, M. A. Fellow of Jeſus-College in Cambridge.
John Alcock, Eſq;
The Reverend Mr. Alcock, R. of Trotton.
Robert Aylmer, Eſq; of Treaford.
Richard Atwood, M. A. Fellow of Pembroke-Hall in Cambridge.
The Reverend Tho. Aſhburner, M. A. Fellow of Pembroke-Hall in Cambridge.
—— Chriſtopher Anſley, B. D. Fellow of St. John's College in Cambridge.
—— Robert Allot, M. A. Fellow of St. John's College in Cambridge.
—— William Aſheton, B. D.
—— Mr. Henry Aſheton.
—— Mr. Abbot, V. of Lengney in Glouceſterſhire.
Andrew Allen, of Glouceſter, Gent.
Edward Abbot, of Colcheſter, Merchant.
Henry Abbot, of Colcheſter, Bzymaker.
The Reverend Tho. Alleyn, B. D. Maſter of the Free School in Colcheſter.
—— Edward Aſton, B. D. R. of Brantham in Suffolk.
Tho. Angier, of Colcheſter, Merchant.
The Reverend Mr. Angier, R. of Stanaway neat Colcheſter.
—— Mr. Ackland, R. of Souton in Devon.
—— John Agate, of Exon. M. A.
—— Mr. Aſhford, R. of Up Lyme in Devon.
—— Mr. Amey, R. of Throwley in Devon.
—— Mr. Atwell, R. of Moreton in Devon.
Richard Alkey, of Exon, Gent.
Mr. Arundell, of Exon, Dyer.
Mr. Ph. Atherton, of Totneſs in Devon.
The Reverend R. Aplin, M. A. Curate of Wilton.
—— Mr. Alger, R. of Withersfield in Suffolk.
—— Mr. Aſh, R. of Seaborough.
—— Mr. Arnets, R. of Holbeach in Lincolnſhire.
—— Mr. Aſtley, Prebendary of Wolverhampton.
John Atkinſon, Eſq; Mayor of Leeds.
Mr. Henry Atkinſon, of Newcaſtle upon Tine.
The Reverend and Worſhipful Mr. Amy, R. of Thornhill.
The Reverend Dr. Fitz-Herbert Adams, R. of Lincoln-College in Oxford.
Edward Aſhlaſter, Eſq; of Longdon in Staffordſhire.
The Reverend Mr. Arrowſmith, R. of Starſon in Norfolk.

B.

HER Grace, Mary, Dutcheſs Dowager of Beaufort.
The Right Reverend George, Lord Biſhop of Bath and Wells.
The Right Reverend George, Lord Biſhop of Briſtol, and Dean of Chriſt-Church.
The Right Honourable Charles, Lord Bruce, (Two Books.)
The Honourable Sir Copleſtone-Warwick Bampfyld, of Poltymore in Devon, Baronet.
Sir Thomas Bury, of Exon, Knight.

Digitized by Google

The Reverend John Baron, D. D. Maſter of Baliol-College in Oxford.
—— Mr. Barnſley, R. of Sedleſcomb in Suſſex, and Prebendary of Chicheſter.
—— Mr. Byrd.
Edward Baldwin, Stationer near Ratcliff-Croſs.
John Bradford of Stenterton in Devon, Gent.
Sam. Burton, L L B.
The Reverend Mr. Bowyer, V. of Martock in Somerſetſhire.
Jonas Bowyer, Bookſeller.
Mr. Phil. Ball of Holbeach in Lincolnſhire.
James Boulton, Gent. of Mouton in Lincolnſhire.
James Bonwick, Bookſeller.
---- Blithe, Bookſeller in Colcheſter.
The Reverend Mr. Bear, R. of Shermanbury in Suſſex.
—— Edmond Barrell, M. A. Preb. of Rocheſter.
Mr. Hugh Browne of Wells.
Captain Blakeway of Stepney.
Mr. Bernard, Apothecary in Ratcliffe.
Mr. Brittain, of Ratcliffe High-way.
The Reverend James Brabourne, B.D. Fellow of Trinity-College in Cambridge.
Mr. Breckock, Apothecary of Holbeach in Lincolnſ.
The Reverend Mr. Beadell, R. of Melbury Bubb in Dorſet.
—— Mr. Barnes, R. of Market-Weſton in Berks.
—— Mr. Ball, R. of Goodmanſton in Dorſet.
—— Barnard, B. D. R. of Brightwell in Berks.
—— Mr. Brampton, R. of Marſh-Baldon in Oxfordſ.
—— Richard Berry, L L D. Fellow of St. John's College in Cambridge.
Brazen-Noſe-College in Oxford, (Six.)
Dr. Brookbank, Fellow of Trinity-Hall in Cambridge, and Chancellor of Durham.
The Reverend Mr. Broude, R. of Stoke-Lacy, and Prebendary of Hereford.
Mr. William Broom, of Withington in Herefordſ.
The Reverend Mr. Buckler, V. of Chew Magna in Somerſetſ.
—— Mr. Barker, R. of Pill in Somerſetſ.
—— Mr. Baker, R. of Chizelborow in Somerſetſ.
Mr. Syd. Burge, of Stafford in Somerſetſ.
The Reverend Mr. Biſs, V. of Portbury in Somerſetſ.
Henry Bull, Gent. of Froom-Zelwood in Somerſetſ.
Mr. Bayley, Apothecary of Froom-Zelwood in Somerſetſ.
Mr. Job Beardſley, of London.
The Reverend Mr. Bence, R. of Kelſale in Suffolk.
—— Mr. Bartholomew, R. of Ower in Dorſetſ.
Robert Brown, Eſq;
William Bickford, Eſq; of Dunſtand in Devon.
The Reverend Mr. Batteiſtril, V. of Shebbear in Devon.
—— Mr. Bradden, R. of St. Giles in the Heath in Devon.
Maurice Berkeley, Eſq; of Pill in Somerſetſ.
William Bragge, Eſq; of Wadham College.
The Reverend Mr. Bradford, V. of Newton-St.-Cyret.
—— Edmond Brome, B. D. Fellow of St. John's College in Cambridge.
—— John Bowtell, B. D. Fellow of St. John's College in Cambridge.
—— Charles Bowtell, B. D. Fellow of St. John's College in Cambridge.
—— Tho. Baker, B. D. Fellow of St. John's College in Cambridge.
—— Mr. Betham, R. of Silcheſter in Hantſ.
Mr. John Baker of Warfield in Berks.
Mr. Thomas Breareclife.
Mr. Samuel Brooke of Manchester.
Mr. Adam Bland.
Mr. Richard Butler.
The Reverend —— Bolton, M. A. Fellow of Chriſt's College in Manchester.
Mr. John Buerdſell.
Mr. Per. Booth, Fellow of Magdalen-College in Cambridge.
The Reverend Mr. Browne, R. of Walesby in Lincolnſ.
Cuper Brooke, Gent.
The Reverend Mr. Burrough, of Braiſfield St. George in Suffolk.
Mr. John Barker.
Mr. Benjamin Bowyer.
The Reverend Mr. Banks, R. of Bury in Lancaſ. (Six.)
John Baynton, Eſq; of Spy Park in Wiltſ.
The Reverend John Bird, M. A.
Mr. Bouchier, Bookſeller in Peterborough.
Robert Braickock Eſq;
Samuel Burrough of Glouceſter, Gent.
The Reverend Mr. Bridges, R. of South Weald in Eſſex.
Thomas Crawley Bovey of Glouceſter, Eſq;
Thomas Bayles of Colcheſter, Gent.
Mr. Bayly of Colcheſter, Vintner.
The Reverend Mr. Benson of Holland Magna in Eſſex.
—— Mr. Bennet, R. of St. James's in Colcheſter.
William Biſs of Colcheſter, Esq;
The Reverend Mr. Biſse, R. of Weſt Bergholt near Colcheſter.
—— Mr. Broadbridge, V. of Stratford in Suffolk.
Mr. John Brand of Colcheſter, Attorney at Law.
The Reverend Mr. Beſter, R. of Eaſt Thorp near Colcheſter.
Captain Robert Brenwell, of Harwich.
Mr. Bull of Colcheſter, Brafier.
The Reverend Mr. Burroughs, Maſter of the Free School at Sudbury.
Edward Bury, of Exon, Merchant.
Matthew Barret, of Exon, Fuller.
The Reverend Mr. Barecroft, R. of St. Mary Arches in Exon.
—— Mr. Barter, R. of St. Edmond's in Exon.
James Bond of Exon, Gent.
John Bidgood of Rockbear in Devon, Eſq;
The Reverend Nicholas Burrington, B. D. V. of Erminſter in Devon.
—— Mr. Burroughs, R. of Truſham in Devon.
—— Sydenham Bolt, M. A. of Exon.
—— Mr. Birkenſhaw, R. of Cliſt St. Lawrence in Devon.
—— Mr. Bellenger, V. of Topſham in Devon.
—— Mr. Blake, R. of Alvington in Devon.
—— Mr. Bryan, R. of Cliſt St. Mary in Devon.
Richard Baker, of Exon, Currier.
William Baddiford, of Exon, M. D.
John Burlaſe, of Pendeen in Cornwall, Eſq;
Philip Biſhop, Bookſeller in Exon.
The Reverend John Bradford, M. A. in Devon.
Daniel Brown, Bookſeller.
Jonah Brown, Bookſeller.
The Reverend Mr. Edward Bradford, R. of Huxham in Devon.
—— Mr. Beard, V. of Tavistock in Devon.
—— Mr. Bagwell, V. of St. Eva in Cornwall.
Dr. Beauford, of St. Columbe in Cornwall.
Edward Brickley, ſenior, of Nunchead in Somerſetſ. Eſq;
The Reverend Mr. Burton, V. of Wiveliſcomb in Somerſetſ.
Richard Brickdale of Briſtol, Grocer.
Chriſtopher Baker, of Devon, Gent.
The Reverend Mr. Boyſe, R. of Sherwill in Dev.
Natth. Barnardiſton, of Brightwell in Suffolk, Eſq;
Samuel Barnardiſton, of Kedington in Suffolk, Eſq;
The Reverend Mr. Phil. Bowden, of Barum, Clerk.
Mr. Thomas Brack of Leather-ſellers Hall in London.

The

Digitized by Google

The Reverend Mr. Bingham, R. of Havant in Hantſ.
—— Mr. Bull, R. of Gotterill in Somerſetſ.
Edward Burger, Bookſeller in Canterbury.
The Reverend Amos Berry, B. D. R. of Trent in Somerſetſ.
The Reverend The. Belk, D. D. Canon of Canterbury, deceaſ'd.
—— Mr. Burroughs, R. of Bedford in Suffolk.
John Bronwning, M. A.
The Reverend Dr. Barrow, Maſter of Baliol-College in Oxford. (Six Books.)
Baliol-College-Library.
—— Mr. Bridges, R. of Caſtliford in Yorkſ.
Godfrey Beſſevile of Gunſit, Eſq;
The Reverend Mr. Burton, R. of Thornton in Yorkſ.
—— Mr. Blewert, Prebendary of York.
—— Mr. The. Burton, V. of Halifax in Yorkſ.
—— Mr. Back, R. of Marſton in Yorkſ.
—— The. Bate, B. D. Fellow of Jeſus-College in Cambridge.
—— Mr. Baden, V. of Hanbury in Staffordſ.
Jonathan Birch, M. A.
The Reverend Mr. Bradſhaw.
—— Mr. Boothouſe, V. of Aſhburn in Derbyſ.
William Benge, Eſq;
The Reverend Mr. R. Bate of Aſtford in Kent, (Two.)
Alexander Baxter, Eſq; of Lavington in Wilts.
The Reverend Mr. Brownhill, R. of Perrivale in Middleſex.
Barrington Bromfield, Gent.
The Reverend Mr. Beaumont, R. of Picomb in Suſſex.
—— Mr. John Bennet, V. of Penne in Bucks.

C.

THE Right Honourable the Lady Anne, Counteſs of Coventry.
The Right Reverend William, Lord Biſhop of Clonfert in Ireland.
John Coates, Eſq; Member of Parliament for Lichfield.
Sir Ralph Creſſield of Colcheſter, Kt.
Chriſtopher Caitbrop, Eſq;
The Reverend Mr. Callow, R. of Warbleton in Suſſex.
Mr. Matthew Caldicote, Attorney at Law.
George Courthop, junior, Eſq; of Whiligh in Suſſex.
The Reverend Jeſ. Craven, B. D. Fellow of Sidny Suſſex-College in Cambridge.
John Crauford of Cheſea, Eſq;
The Reverend Mr. George Clave.
Mr. Clement, of Long-Suſton in Lincolnſ.
The Reverend John Cooke, M. A. Prebendary of Exon.
Gerrald Cuff, Eſq;
Samuel Cook, Eſq; of Kenbury in Devon.
Nath. Cliffe, Bookſeller.
The Reverend John Cooper, B. D. Senior Fellow of Trinity-College in Cambridge.
—— Mr. Clavering, R. of Stricland in Derſetſ.
—— Dr. Curtis, V. of Weſt Hendred in Berks.
—— Robert Cook, M. A. Prebendary of Glouceſter.
—— Dr. Colbatch, Fellow of Trinity College, and Caſuiſt-Profeſſor, in Cambridge.
The Coſtos and Vicars of the College of Hereford.
The Reverend Mr. Chamberlain, V. of Letton in Herefordſ.
Mr. Thomas Cranly, Deputy Regiſter of the Biſhop's Court in Wincheſter.
The Reverend Mr. Cranly, R. of Michelmarſh in Hantſ.
—— Mr. Cellier, R. of Saxmundham in Suffolk.
—— Mr. Carew, V. of Wickham-Market in Suffolk.
Henry Cremer, M. A. Student of Chriſt-Church in Oxford.
The Reverend Mr. Churchill, R. of Hammoon in Dorſetſ.
—— Mr. Colwell, Miniſter of Clanton in Devon.
—— Mr. Compys, R. of Doddiſcombeleigh in Devon.
—— Mr. Cornish, V. of Okehampton in Devon.
—— Robert Creyghton, D. D. Precentor, and Canon of Wells.
The. Car, of Chicheſter, Eſq;
The Reverend Richard Creſſing, B. D. Fellow of Pembroke-Hall in Cambridge.
—— Peter Chyſter, B. D. Fellow of St. John's College in Cambridge.
—— Peter Clarke, B. D. Fellow of St. John's College in Cambridge.
—— John Creyke, M. A. of St. John's College in Cambridge.
Mr. Samuel Calbrck.
The Reverend Mr. Cook, V. of Warfield in Berks.
Mr. Humphry Cornwall, of Lawrence-Waltham in Berks.
Clemence Corrance, of Bougham, Eſq;
Mr. Clayton, Bookſeller in Manchester.
Mr. William Clayton, of Macclesfield in Cheſhire.
The Reverend John Copley, M. A. Fellow of Chriſt's-College in Manchester.
—— Mr. Carlton, R. of Dodington in Lincolnſ.
—— Mr. Clark, R. of Longbarton in the Biſhoprick of Durham.
Thomas Carew, of Colcheſter, Apothecary.
The Reverend Mr. Chalmers, V. of Fingringho near Colcheſter.
—— Mr. Chantril, V. of Great Clackton in Eſſex.
—— Mr. Chaplin, V. of Higham in Suffolk.
George Clark, of Colcheſter, Eſq;
The Reverend Mr. Clarke, R. of Royden in Suſſolk.
Benjamin Cock, ſenior, of Colcheſter, Gent.
Benjamin Cock, junior, of Colcheſter, Gent.
The Reverend Mr. Coe, R. of Elmſes in Suffolk.
Mr. Sim. Cooke, Poſt-maſter of Colcheſter.
Nicholas Corſellis, of Wivenhoe, Eſq;
The Reverend Mr. Curtis, V. of Dovercourt and Harwich in Eſſex.
William Cutliffe, of Exon, Fuller.
Robert Corker of Falmouth, Eſq; (Two Books.)
The Reverend Mr. Collins R. of St. Petrock's in Exon.
Peter Cook, of Exon, Gent.
The Reverend James Calamy, M. A. Prebendary of St. Peter's in Exon.
The Reverend Mr. Copleſtone R. of Tydburn-St. Mary in Devon.
John Collins, of Trewergan in Cornwall, Gent.
The Reverend Mr. Croker, R. of Woolfardiſworthy, Devon.
Francis Cook, of Exon, Gent.
The Reverend Mr. The. Cook, V. of Thorncomb in Devon.
—— Mr. Chilcot, V. of Upottery in Devon.
Tr. Collyn of Exon, Apothecary.
The Reverend Mr. J. Champernown, of Dartington in Devon.
—— Mr. W. Churchward, of Totneſs in Devon.
—— Mr. Curtis, V. of Brixham in Devon.
—— Mr. Collins, R. of Chilock in Cornwall.
Henry Courteney, in Devon, Eſq;
The Reverend Mr. J. Coming, of Kingsbridge in Devon.
The. Clyld, of Exon, Fuller.
The Reverend Mr. Curtail, Miniſter of the French Church in Exon.
John Covey of Lisbon, L L B.

The

The Reverend Mr. Carwithen, R. of Manaton in Devon.
R. Cocke, of Exon, Merchant.
The Reverend Mr. Collier, V. of Pemyn in Cornwall.
Mr. Edward Crews, of St. Columbe in Cornwall.
John Carthew, of Cornwall, Gent.
Thomas Carlyon, junior, of Cornwall, Gent.
The Reverend Mr. Phil. Collier, R. of St. Columbe in Cornwall.
Samuel Crawy, of Crawys-Moxhard in Devon, Eſq;
The Reverend Dr. Cockburn, R. of Curry-Mallet and Beer-Crocombe in Somerſetſ.
—— Mr. Chettle, R. of Orchard and Chettle in Somerſetſ.
—— Mr. Comer, R. of Kittiford in Somerſetſ.
—— Mr. Camplin, R. of Brompton-Ralph in Somerſetſ.
—— Thomas Coney, D. D. R. of Chedzoy in Somerſetſ.
—— Mr. Carlile, R. of Spaxton in Somerſetſ.
—— Mr. Combes, R. of Wotton-Courtney.
—— Mr. Chappel, R. of Treborrow in Somerſetſ.
John Cork, Eſq;
John Cork, Bookſeller in Sherbourn.
H. Clements, ſenior, Bookſeller in Oxford.
The Reverend Mr. Creſſner, V. of Eaſtry in Kent.
Nath. Collier, M. A.
Robert Cumberland, M. A.
John Corbet, L. L. D.
The Reverend Dr. Charlett, Maſter of Univerſity-College in Oxford, (Four Books)
—— Joſeph Creſſy, M. A.
Mr. J. Cox, Steward to the Lady Elizabeth Haſtings.
The Reverend John Cookſon, M. A. Lecturer of St. Peter's in Leeds.
Mr. William Cookſon, Alderman of Leeds.
Mr. Cotterell, Haberdaſher in Newcaſtle upon Tine.
Walter Chetwind, Eſq; of Rudge in Staffordſ.
The Reverend Mr. Cokeyn, V. of Doverdge in Derbyſhire.
—— Mr. Cockſcutt, V. of Cawthorne.
—— Mr. Craddock, R. of Donington in Shropſ.
—— Mr. Caiton, V. of Flintham in Nottinghamſ.
—— Mr. Cockeyn, V. of Adonburgh in Nottinghamſ.
H. Clements, junior, Bookſeller.

D.

HIS Grace, William, Lord Archbiſhop of Dublin, (Six Books.)
The Right Reverend, Adam, Lord Biſhop of St. David's.
Richard Dyott, Eſq; Member of Parliament for Litchfield.
William Dalell, Eſq; of Folkington in Suſſex.
The Reverend Mr. Darby, R. of Brianſton in Dorſetſ.
—— Mr. Dalby, R. of Sutton-Courtney in Berks.
—— Mr. D'Anvers, R. of Hutton in Somerſetſ.
—— Mr. Dixie, R. of Market-Boſworth.
Peter Davis, Eſq; Recorder of Wells.
Edward Davenant, Eſq;
Abraham Dennis, of Inwardly, Eſq;
The Reverend Mr. Denham, R. of Regate.
—— John Drake, B. D. Fellow of St. John's College in Cambridge.
—— Samuel Drake, M. A. Fellow of St. John's College in Cambridge.
Peirce Dod, M. B. Fellow of All Souls College in Oxford.
The Reverend Mr. Dickenſon, V. of Maunesham in Buckſ.
William Drake, Eſq;
The Reverend Mr. Duckworth, M. A.
—— Mr. Dwight, V. of Fulham.
Nathanael Dixon, of Whitechapel, Merchant.
The Reverend Dr. Dane, R. of All-Saints in Colcheſter, deceaſ'd.
H. Dammant, of Colcheſter, Surgeon.
The Reverend Mr. Denſon, R. of Great Wigborough near Colcheſter.
Captain Danes, of Wivenhoe near Colcheſter.
The Reverend Mr. Drake, R. of Great Oakley in Eſſex.
—— Mr. Dunbar, V. of Kelveden in Eſſex.
Mr. Robert Deeble, of Penryn in Cornwall.
The Reverend Mr. Degge, R. of Ingeſtion in Cornwall.
—— Mr. Dicker, V. of Columbton in Devon.
—— Mr. Drake, R. of Sampford Peverel in Devon.
—— John Davis, D.D. R. of Clyſtedon in Devon.
—— Mr. Bamp. Drake, R. of Farway in Devon.
—— Mr. Danvers, V. of Tetneſs in Devon.
—— Mr. William Detham, of Somerſetſ. Clerk.
S. Devereux, M. A.
The Reverend Mr. Drake, V. of Pontefract, and Prebendary of York, (Two Books.)
The. Dinſdale, of Leeds, Merchant.
Robert Dawbin, Maſter of the Free School at Wolverhampton.
The Reverend Mr. Daubuz, V. of Brotherton in Yorkſ.
—— Mr. Dalby, of Hunmandy in Yorkſ.
—— Mr. Drake, School-maſter of Pockington.
—— Dr. Davis, of Birmingham.
—— Tho. Dawſon, M. A. V. of New Windſor.

E.

THE Right Reverend Offpring, Lord Biſhop of Exeter.
The Reverend Mr. Edwards, R. of Clungunford in Radnorſ.
—— William Edmondſon, B. D. Fellow of St. John's College in Cambridge.
—— Mr. England, Miniſter of Wenburn in Devon.
John-Kyte Erule, Eſq; of Wherham in Wilts.
The Reverend Mr. Earle, V. of Mainsbury in Wilts.
—— Layton Ethwington, M. A.
Mr. Edward Edmonds of Exeter.
The Reverend Mr. Edwards, Curate of St. Burian in Cornwall.
—— Mr. Elford, R. of Woolborough in Devon.
—— Mr. J. Egerton, R. of Lympſton in Devon.
—— Mr. J. Egerton, junior, of Queen's-College in Oxford.
Jonathan Elford, of Brixham in Devon, Eſq;
The Reverend Sampſon Eſtwick, B. D. R. of St. Michael Queen-Hith, London.
John Eaſtmond, Eſq; of Sherbourn in Dorſetſ.
The Reverend Mr. Edgly, V. of Wandſworth in Surrey.
—— Charles Elſtob, D. D. Canon of Canterbury.
—— Mr. Eſty, R. of Ryther in Yorkſ.
—— Mr. Evans, R. of Stockton in Staffſhire.
Maurice Emmet, Gent.

F.

Digitized by Google

F.

John Fuller, Eſq; Knight of the Shire for the County of Suſſex.
Colonel Fleming, Member of Parliament for Southampton.
The Reverend Mr. J. Frewen, V. of Sidbury in Devon.
Thomas Frewen, Eſq; of Brickwall in the County of Suſſex.
The Reverend Mr. Thank. Frewen, R. of Northiham in Suſſex.
—— Mr. Stephen Frewen, V. of Farlight in Suſſex.
Ch. Fowler, Apothecary.
Mr. Fieldhouſe, of Ratcliffe-High-Way.
The Reverend Mr. Fyſe, V. of Gedney in Lincolnſ.
—— Alexander Ford, E. D. R. of Remnham in Oxfordſ.
—— Mr. Farr, V. of Long Wittenham in Berkſ.
—— Mr. Fiſher, R. of Milton in Berkſ.
—— John Foulkes, B. D. Fellow of St. John's College in Cambridge.
—— Mr. Farwell, R. of South Cadbury and Prebendary of Wellſ.
—— Mr. Frampton, R. of Munſton in Dorſetſ.
William Fortescue, Eſq; of Buckſandſilley in Devon.
The Reverend Mr. Fiexman, of Great Torrington in Devon.
Francis Franklyn, M. A. of Wellſ.
The Reverend Mr. Frencham, V. of Wargrove in Berkſ.
Mr. John Forteſcue.
Mr. Thomas Falkner.
The Reverend Mr. Fairfax, R. of Waſhingborough in Lincolnſ.
William Farringden, of Werden, Eſq;
Mr. Freeman, Bookſeller in Durham.
The Reverend Mr. Fenwick, R. of Hallaton in Leiceſterſ.
—— Mr. Fettiplace, R. of Tateſbury in Wiltſ.
John Fowler, Bookſeller in Northampton.
The Reverend Mr. Flashy, R. of Groten in Suffolk.
John Foxcroft, L.L.B. of St. John's College in Cambridge.
The Reverend Tho. Fisk, M. A. of Glemsford in Suffolk.
Sam. Fisk, of South Haſlead in Eſſex, Gent.
The Reverend Mr. Franklin, Maſter of the Free School at Earle's-Colne in Eſſex.
J. Freeman, of Colcheſter, Attorney at Law.
Henry Ford, of Exon, Gent.
The Reverend Mr. French, R. of Southleigh in Devon.
—— Richard Foot, M. A. of Exon.
—— Peter Foulke, D. D. Canon-Reſidentiary of St. Peter's in Exon.
—— Mr. Farthing, R. of Crocombe in Somerſetſ.
—— John Furnivall, M. A. Curate of Monkſilver in Somerſetſ.
Mr. Rowland Freeman.
Mr. Forbes.
George Farwell, of Brenly, Eſq;
The Reverend Mr. Foden, V. of Woolſtanton in Staffordſ.
—— Mr. Fothergill, of Pontefract in Yorkſ.
—— Mr. Fenwick, R. of Long Newton in the Biſhoprick of Durham.
—— Mr. Ferne, R. of Matlack in Derbyſ.
—— Mr. Forbes, V. of Biceſter in Oxfordſ.
John Freer, Bookbinder.

G.

THE Right Honourable, John, Lord Gower, Baron of Stiffnam.
The Lady Dowager Gower.
The Reverend Lionel Gatford, D. D. Arch-deacon of St. Alban's.
—— Thomas Greene, D. D. V. of St. Olave Old Jewry in London.
—— Mr. Gregory, V. of Pelham in Hertfordſ.
—— William Goodwin, M. A.
—— Mr. Hen. Gonne.
Richard Gunne, Bookſeller in Dublin.
The Reverend John Grandorge, D. D. Prebendary of Canterbury.
Robert Gaylard, Bookſeller in Dorcheſter.
The Reverend John Gray, M. A. Curate of Shoreham in Suſſex.
Timothy Geers, of Marſh, Eſq;
The Reverend Mr. Griffith, R. of Knill in Herefordſ.
—— Mr. Greenway, V. of Walford in Herefordſ.
—— Mr. Gannet, R of Puddimore in Somerſetſ.
—— Mr. Gapper, V. of Eaſt Pennard in Somerſetſ.
Mrs. Martha Gibbons, Widow.
Mrs. Anne Giles, Widow.
Thomas Greaves, Merchant.
The Reverend Mr. Gwynn, R. of Daglingworth in Glouceſterſ.
—— Mr. Granville, R. of Kilkhampton in Cornwall.
—— Mr. Luke Glubb, of Great Torrington in Devon.
—— Gilbert Geere, B. D. R. of Ken in Devon.
Mr. Joſeph Goodman, of Oakhampton in Devon.
The Reverend John Goodwin, M. A. Fellow of Pembroke Hall in Cambridge.
—— Samuel Colty, M. A. Fellow of Pembroke Hall in Cambridge.
Robert Grove, M. A. Fellow of St. John's, and Regiſter of the Univerſity of Cambridge.
John Green, Eſq; Fellow-Commoner of St. John's College in Cambridge.
The Reverend Henry Gunning, M. A. Fellow of St. John's College in Cambridge.
Mr. John Greaves.
The Reverend Mr. Griffith, V. of White-Waltham in Berkſ.
Mr. John Gerſon.
Mr. James Garſide.
The Reverend Mr. Gurney, R. of Wadner in Northamptonſ.
Walter Grubb, Eſq; of Potterton in Wiltſ.
----- Golding, of Roughem, Gent.
The Reverend Matthew Goodwin, Prebendary of Lincoln, and R. of Buckworth in Huntingdonſ.
Stephen Gythens, of the City of Glouceſter, Gent.
The Reverend Mr. Gregory, V. of Sandhurſt in Glouceſterſ.
Thomas Grove, of Glouceſter, Gent.
The Reverend Dr. Gooch, R. of St. Clement-Eaſt-Cheap, and St. Martin-Ongar in London.
Mr. Tho. Glaſcock, Town-Clerk of Colcheſter.
Hope Gifford, of Colcheſter, Eſq;
The Reverend Mr. Goodwin, R. of Wivenhoe near Colcheſter.
T. Great, of Colcheſter, Apothecary.
The. Green, of Eaſt Thorp near Colcheſter, Eſq;
J. Grimwood, of Colcheſter, Grocer.
Henry Gandy, of Exon, Gent.
Samuel Gregory, of Exon, Gent.
Zeph. Geare, of Exon, Gent.

The

The Reverend Mr. Grubham, R. of Kentisbear in Devon.
—— Mr. James Gay, R. of Upton-Pine in Devon.
—— Mr. Richard Gay, R. of S. Leonard's in Devon.
William Gandy, of Exon, Brewer.
Abr. Goſwill, of Exon, Merchant.
The Reverend Mr. Glynn, R. of Crown in Cornwall.
—— Mr. Gurney, V. of St. Meryn in Cornwall.
Samuel Gully, of Treſtilian in Cornwall, Gent.
The Reverend William Gee, M. A. of Devon.
Mr. Gerrard, School-maſter of Sherburn in Dorſet.
The Reverend Mr. Granger, R. of Crewys-Morchard in Devon.
William Gore, Eſq;
The Reverend Mr. J. Gale, V. of Creech-St. Michael in Somerſet.
John Gore, Eſq;
The Reverend Mr. T. Gale, V. of Taunton-St. Mary Magdalen.
John Goſling, M. A.
The Reverend Mr. Gale, R. of Caundle-Biſhop.
William Glover, Eſq; of Froſtenden in Suſſolk.
J. Gregory, of London, Plaiſterer.
Robert Goſling, Bookſeller.
The Reverend John Grey, L L D. Arch-deacon of Buckingham.
Thomas Greſley, Eiq; of Netherſeall in Leiceſterſ.
The Reverend Dr. Goodwin, Arch-deacon of Derby.
Joſ. Green, of Newcaſtle upon Tine, Merchant.
The Reverend Mr. Goodwin, R. of Methley in Yorkſ.
Mr. Richard Griſtock, of Eaſt Bourn in Suſſex.
The Reverend John Greenwood, M. A. Prebendary of Lichfield.
Mr. R. Graves, of Mickleton in Glouceſterſ.
The Reverend Zechary Grey, M. A. of Lincolnſ.
—— John Graſt, R. of St. James Duke's-Place in London.

H.

THE Right Reverend. Humphry, Lord Biſhop of Hereford, deceas'd.
The Honourable, Francis, Lord Hawley, of Buckland.
Sir William Hardreſs, Bar.
Sir Francis Head, Bar.
Sir Charles Holt, of Aſton-Hall in Warwickſhire, Bar.
Mr. Hibbins, of Holbeach in Lincolnſ.
The Reverend Mr. Hinton, V. of Adington in Surrey.
—— Mr. Hooker, R. of Sandy in Bedfordſ.
—— Robert Hicks, M. A.
John Harwood, M. A. Fellow of Pembroke-Hall in Cambridge.
The Reverend Mr. Hooper, R. of Becky in Suſſex.
Mr. Hook, of Algar-Kirk in Lincolnſ.
James Heaton, of Holbeach in Lincolnſ. Attorney at Law.
The Reverend Mr. T. Holdſworth, R. of North Stoneham in Hantſ.
—— Mr. Headham, V. of North Stoke in Oxfordſ.
—— Harris, B. D. R. of Langton-Long-Blandford in Dorſetſ.
—— Mr. Harbin, V. of Poorſtock in Dorſetſ.
Richard Hyde, Eſq; of Wallingford in Berks.
The Reverend Huxly, B. D. R. of Peppard in Oxfordſ.
John Hereford, of Home-Lacy in Herefordſ. Eſq;
Richard Hopton, Eſq; of Canon-Froom in Herefordſ.
The Reverend Mr. Harry, R. of Wiſton under Penyard, and Prebendary of Hereford.
—— Mr. Hall, R. of Mitchel-Dean in Herefordſ.
—— Mr. Hathway, R. of Bodenham in Herefordſ.
—— Mr. Hill, Arch-deacon and Canon of Wells.
—— Mr. Hunt, V. of Clewton-Mendip and Prebendary of Wells.
—— Mr. Huſſey, R. of Comb-Hay in Somerſetſ.
—— Mr. Hood, R. of Hardington, in Somerſetſ.
—— Mr. Hewett, R. of Stonfield in Suffolk.
—— Mr. William Hawkins.
Mr. Heatſtborn, Bookſeller in Leiceſterſ.
The Reverend Mr. Hunt, R. of Tivingſon.
William Hughes, L B. Chancellour of Wells.
William Hell, M. A. of Wells.
Thomas Horner, Eſq; of Mells in Somerſetſ.
The Reverend Mr. Haw, R. of Sandford.
Mr. John Hutton, Fellow-Commoner of Jeſus-College in Cambridge.
The Reverend Gilbert Hooke, B. D. Fellow of Jeſus-College in Cambridge.
Edmond Haworth, Clerk.
The Reverend Reg. Hawkins, M. A. Preſident of Froſtenden-Hall in Cambridge.
James Hole, Eſq;
The Reverend Jonathan Hall, B. D. Fellow of St. John's College in Cambridge.
Mr. William Hunter.
The Reverend William Hatſon, M. A. Fellow of St. John's College in Cambridge.
Mr. William Hulme.
The Reverend Mr. Harris, R. of Duxford in Cambridgeſ.
Mr. Richard Holden.
The Reverend —— Hallowell, M. A.
William Holbrook, M. D.
Mr. Ralph Houghton.
Mr. Francis Harvy, Fellow of Magdalen-College in Cambridge.
The Reverend Mr. Hadden, (Six Books.)
Mr. Thomas Hudſon.
Samuel Hendy, of Glouceſter, Gent.
Charles Hyett, of Glouceſter, Eſq;
The Reverend Mr. Hail, V. of Eling in Middleſex.
Charles Harwell, of the Middle-Temple, Eſq;
The Reverend Mr. Hunt, R. of Alderton in Suffolk.
John Harvey, of Colcheſter, Gent.
Mr. Thomas Hoyt, of Colcheſter.
Edmund Husbands, of Little Horkeley near Colcheſter, Eſq;
R. Hutchinſon, of Colcheſter, Goldſmith.
Mrs. Rebecca Heron, of Exon.
The Reverend Mr. Hutchinſon, ſome time Fellow of Exeter-College.
—— Mr. Hickes, Prieſt-Vicar of St. Peter's in Exon.
Richard Halls, of Exon, Fuller.
The Reverend Mr. Harward, R. of Tallaton in Devon.
—— Mr. Hopping, V. of Bradninch in Devon.
—— Mr. Hawſo, R. of Cliſſiwden in Devon.
Mr. Joſhua Hockman, of Exon.
The Reverend Mr. Helwell, R. of Torbryan in Devon.
Charles Huday, of Probus in Cornwall, Gent.
The Reverend Mr. Hill, R. of St. Columb Minor in Cornwall.
James Hayſe, of Sand in Devon, Eſq;
The Reverend Mr. Hayter, R. of Cheagford in Devon.
John Harwood, of Ninehead in Somerſetſ. Eſq;
The Reverend Richard Healy, L L D. Official to the Arch-deacon of Taunton.
—— Mr. Hill, R. of Camb-Pitoris in Somerſetſ.
—— Matthew Hicks, B D. V. of Stogurſey in Somerſetſ.

The

Digitized by Google

The Reverend Mr. Hoblyn, R. of George-Ham in Devon.
—— Mr. Harwood, R. of Comb-Martin in Devon.
Hugh Hodges, Eſq; of Sherbourn in Dorſet.
William Hellyar, Eſq; of Eaſt-Coker.
Mr. Richard Hellyar, of Eaſt-Coker.
The Reverend Mr. Horn, Chaplain of St. Saviour's in Southwark.
Matthew Hawes, M. A.
James Hamſtredge, M. A.
Steven Hobday, M. A.
John Hardraſt, Eſq;
Stephen Hunt, M. B.
The Reverend Mr. Hodgſon, Fellow of Univerſity-College in Oxon, (Four Books.)
—— Mr. Hildyard, R. of Rowley in Yorkſ.
—— John Haward, M. A. of Tottenhall in Staffordſ.
—— John Hilman, M. A. Prebendary of Wolverhampton.
—— Walter Horton, M. A. Canon-Reſidentiary of Lichfield.
James Hartley, of Leeds, Mercer.
The Reverend Mr. Hail, V. of Gisbrough in Yorkſ.
W. Handy, Surgeon in Newcaſtle upon Tine.
The Reverend Moſes Hodges, D. D.
—— Mr. Hall, V. of Ruſkelby.
—— John Hinton, L L B. Prebendary of Wolverhampton.
—— Mr. Hollins, R. of Ackworth.
Francis Hildyard, Bookſeller in York.
The Reverend John Hunter, M. A. Prebendary of Lichfield.
—— Mr. Hawkins, V. of Knoſall in Nottinghamſ.
—— Mr. Hodſon, V. of Caverſfield in Bucks.
Joſhua Hinton, of London, Attorney at Law.

I.

THE Reverend Robert Jenkin, D. D. Maſter of St. John's College, and Margaret-Profeſſor of Divinity in Cambridge.
—— Mr. Idle, R. of South-Dalton in Yorkſ.
—— Richard Jekyl, M. A. Student of Chriſt-Church in Oxford.
—— Francis Janey, M. A. Prebendary of Hereford.
—— Mr. Jenkins, V. of Froom-Zelwood, and Prebendary of Wells.
—— Dr. Iliff, R. of North-Cadbury, and Prebendary of Wells.
The Reverend Mr. Jackſon, V. of Little Marlow. in Bucks.
Mr. Jackſon, Bookſeller.
Mr. Thomas Illingworth.
The Reverend Mr. Jennings, R. of Rudford in Glouceſterſ.
—— Jenkin, V. of Hitchenden in Bucks, deceas'd.
—— Mr. Jarland, R. of Grinſtead near Colcheſter.
—— Mr. Jer. Johnſon, of Colcheſter.
—— Mr. Johnſon, R. of Capell in Suffolk.
—— Richard Jenkinſon, of Exon, M. A.
William John, of Exon, Gent.
The Reverend Mr. Jones, R. of Nettlecomb and High Ham in Somerſetſ.
John Jackſon, Eſq;
Thomas Johnſon, M. A.
D. Jones, M. A.
The Reverend Mr. Johnſon, M. A. V. of Bubwith in Yorkſ.
Edward Iveſon, of Leeds, Gent.
Michael Johnſon, Bookſeller in Lichfield.
John Jackman, M. A.
The Reverend Mr. Anth. Johnſon, V. of Aſhby-de-la-Zouch in Leiceſterſ.
William Ing, Eſq; of Thorp in Staffordſ.
The Reverend Mr. R. Ing, R. of Nethorſeal in Leiceſterſ.
—— Mr. James, V. of Ubbeſton in Suffolk.
William Innys, Bookſeller.
John Jacques, M. A.

K.

THE Reverend Dr. Kimberly, Dean of Lichfield.
The Reverend Dr. Kennet, Dean of Peterborough, and Arch-deacon of Huntingdon.
—— Mr. Kendall, Arch-deacon of Totneſs in Devon.
—— Mr. Kelſall, V. of Boſton.
—— Mr. Knill, V. of Dewchurch in Herefordſ.
—— Mr. Keller, V. of Benhall in Suffolk.
—— John King, A. B. Fellow of Pembroke-Hall in Cambridge.
George Kenyon, Eſq;
Mr. Knight, Bookſeller in Lincoln.
Walter Kelland, Eſq; Mayor of Bradninch in Devon.
John Kempe, Eſq; of Mewdon in Cornwall.
The Reverend Mr. Richard King, of Exon.
—— Mr. Keate, V. of Seaton in Devon.
—— Mr. Kettilby, R. of Great Wratting in Suffolk.
Mr. John Kinn, of Belgrave-St. Martin.
Thomas Kinchingman, junior, of Leeds, Merchant.
Samuel Kirſhaw, of Leeds, Merchant.
The Reverend Mr. Kinsbury, V. of Chebſey, and Prebendary of Lichfield.
—— John Killinbeck, B. D. V. of Leeds, and Prebendary of York.
—— Mr. Keytway, R. of Trowbridge in Wilts.
James Knapton, Bookſeller.

L.

THE Right Reverend Henry, Lord Biſhop of London, deceas'd, (Two Books.)
Sir Nicholas L'Eſtrange, Bar.
The Reverend Edward Laney, D. D. Maſter of Pembroke-Hall in Cambridge.
—— Mr. Lewis, V. of Minſter in the Iſle of Thanet.
Roger Lawrence, M. A.
The Reverend T. Landon, L L D. Miniſter of Poplar.
—— Mr. Laſinby, R. of St. Antholin in London.
—— Emanuel Langford, D. D.
—— Mr. Lyon, R. of Merreworth in Kent.
—— Mr. Ledgould, R. of Waldron in Suſſex.
B. Linrot, Bookſeller.
The Reverend Mr. Lewis, V. of Weſterham in Kent.
—— Mr. Leach, R. of Overſtonden in Bedfordſ.
Mrs. Mary Lewis, of Preeſtwayne in Radnorſ.
The Reverend Mr. Ley, R. of Alresford in Eſſex.
Mr. John Langham, of Froom-Zelwood in Somerſetſ.
The Reverend Mr. Lovel, R. of Portiſhead in Somerſetſ.
Gilbert Lake, M. A. Student of Chriſt-Church in Oxford.

The

Digitized by Google

The Reverend Mr. Ley, R. of Meeth in Devon.
—— Mr. Lanſon, R. of Iſtock.
—— Mr. Ley, V. of Crediton.
—— Charles Lewer, M. A. of Chicheſter.
Dennis Lyddall, Eſq; Commiſſioner of the Navy.
The Reverend Robert Lambert, B. D. Fellow of St. John's College in Cambridge.
William Lee, Eſq; Commiſſioner of the Navy.
Mr. John Leech.
Mr. John Lees, of Manchester.
Mr. Edmond Lees, of Manchester.
Library of Manchester.
Mr. Edward Leech.
Samuel Lewer, Clerk.
The Reverend Mr. Leiceſter.
Mr. Robert Lancaſhire.
Mr. Edward Lodge.
Mr. William Latus.
Mr. Loveday, Bookſeller in Eveſham.
Mr. Gamaliel Lloyd.
The Reverend Mr. Lambert, Maſter of the Free School in Bewerly.
Charlwood Lawton, of the Middle Temple, Eſq;
Robert Langdon, of Gloucester, Gent.
The Reverend Mr. Legden, R. of Abberton near Colcheſter.
Henry Lambe, of Colcheſter, Eſq;
James Lawrence, Eſq; Mayor of Colcheſter.
J. Luffkin, of Colcheſter, Apothecary.
The Reverend Mr. Luffkin, R. of Fraling near Colcheſter.
—— Mr. John Lome.
Mr. Tobias Langden.
The Reverend Tobias Langden, M. A.
—— Mr. Lawrence, R. of St. Winnow in Cornwall.
Anthony Long, M. D. of Truro in Cornwall.
The Reverend Mr. Lydgould, R. of Rue in Devon.
Thomas Leigh, of Exon, Gent.
Robert Lawe, of Exon, Druggiſt.
The Reverend Mr. Luſcombe, R. of Belſtone in Devon.
—— Mr. Ley, R. of Redruth in Cornwall.
—— Mr. W. Langford, of Axminſter in Devon.
—— Mr. Legaſſick, R. of Little Hempſton in Devon.
Mr. John Leaves, of Crooklern.
The Reverend Mr. Lewis, R. of Chulmleigh in Devon.
Peter Le Neve, Eſq;
The Reverend Mr. Robert Luck, of Barum, Clerk.
—— Mr. Lacy, V. of Sherbourn in Dorſet.
—— Edward Lunn, M. A.
George Lawſon, Eſq; of Halſey in Yorkſ. (Four Books.)
The Reverend Mr. Lowe, V. of Pocklington in Yorkſ.
—— Mr. Lodge, Miniſter of the New Church in Leeds, and R. of Coggrave.
—— Mr. Laſſells, Lecturer of Pontefract in Yorkſ.
Nath. Lane, Eſq; of Longton in Staffordſ.
The Reverend Mr. Lunn, R. of Elſworth in Cambridgeſ.
Mr. William Lucy, V. of Stilton in Somerſetſ.
—— Mr. Leith, V. of St. Paul's in Bedford.

M.

SIR Henry Monſon, Bar.
The Reverend Mr. Milner, V. of Bexhill in Suſſex.
—— Mr. Mores, R. of Tunſtall in Kent.
John Martin, Gent.
Clavet Morris, M. D. of Wells.
John Marſh, Bookſeller in Exon.
John Moor, M. A. Fellow of Chriſt-College in Cambridge.
The Reverend Mr. Marſh, R. of Bix in Oxfordſ.
—— Mr. Marſh, V. of Milton-Abbey in Dorſetſ.
—— Mr. Mountague, V. of Stourminſter-Marſhall in Dorſetſ.
Merton-College in Oxford, (Six Books.)
The Reverend Dr. Morgen, R. of Reſs, and Canon-Reſidentiary of Hereford.
William Monington, Eſq;
The Reverend Mr. Miln, Curate of Weſt Camel in Somerſetſ.
John Morton, Eſq;
The Reverend Mr. Muxloe, R. of Congerſtone.
Mr. Elizabeth Mayowe, of Truro in Cornwall.
The Reverend John Mayplettoft, M. A. Fellow of Pembroke-Hall in Cambridge.
Legh Maſter, Eiq; Fellow-Commoner of St. John's College in Cambridge.
Daniel Mill, Gent. of the Navy-Office.
The Reverend Mr. Morris, V. of Sunninghill in Berks.
John Matthews, Printer.
Thomas Marſden, Eſq;
Charles Moreton, Gent.
The Reverend Mr. Millard, V. of Box in Wiltſ.
William Mallet, Eſq; of Grapton in Heavy in Devon.
The Reverend Mr. Meredith, R. of Coalſton and Cheverel Parva in Wiltſ. deceas'd.
Mr. Merewether, Phyſician in the Devizes in Wiltſ.
Mr. James Marſden.
Thomas More, Eſq;
Mr. John Moſs.
Henry Meriton, of Weſtminſter, Eſq;
The Reverend Mr. Mapletoft, R. of All Saints in Huntingtor.
Samuel Mee, of Glouceſter, Gent.
Thomas Matthews, of Glouceſter, Gent.
Rice Manning, of Braintree in Eſſex, Gent.
T. Marſham, of Colcheſter, Attorney at Law.
The Reverend Mr. Maddiſon, R. of St. Mary's in Colcheſter.
—— Mr. May, R. of St. Lawrence in Exon.
Abel Morſe, of Exon, Gent.
The Reverend Mr. Maunder, R. of St. Martin's in Exon.
—— Dr. Monckton, V. of St. Clare in Cornwall.
—— Mr. Mitchell, R. of Sampford-Courtenay in Devon.
—— Mr. Maſſeal, V. of Aſhprington in Devon.
—— Mr. Mitchell, Curate of Staverton in Devon.
—— Mr. Mayo, V. of Tywardreth in Cornwall.
William Metefield, Eſq; of Wilmſton in Somerſetſ.
The Reverend Mr. Moye, V. of St. Enodor in Cornwall.
—— Mr. Maurie, V. of Montacute.
Simon Marten, Bookſeller in Leiceſter.
The Reverend John Mawde, A. B. Curate of St. Peter's in Leeds.
J. Maſſo, of Walverhampton, Writing-Maſter.
The Reverend Mr. Maſon, R. of Thornton in Yorkſ. John

Digitized by Google

John Mawde, of Leeds, Clerk.
Jeremiah Milles, M. A.
Richard Mannock, M. A.
The Reverend Mr. Iſ. Milles, R. of Higheleer in Hantſ.
Thomas Moſeley, Eſq; of Moſely in Staffordſ.
Edward Manwaring, Eſq; of Whitmore in Staffordſ.
The Reverend Mr. Milward, V. of Eccleſhall in Staffordſ.
J. Montford, Bookſeller in Worceſter.

N.

THE Honourable Roger North, Eſq;
The Reverend Tho. Nixon, D. D. Canon of Canterbury, deceas'd.
—— Mr. Newte, R. of Tiverton in Devon.
—— William Needham, B. D. R. of Alresford in Hantſ.
—— Dr. Newey, Chanter of Exeter.
—— Mr. Norgrove, B. D. R. of Warborough in Oxfordſ.
—— Mr. Tho. Naſh, Sub-dean of Sarum.
—— Mr. Nelſon, R. of Winterbourn-Germin in Dorſetſ.
—— Mr. Nicholls, R. of Inwardly.
—— Mr. Needham, R. of Storrington in Suſſex.
—— John Newcome, M. A. Fellow of St. John's College in Cambridge.
—— Mr. Newcomb, M. A.
—— Mr. Neile, Miniſter of Northallerton in Yorkſh
Mr. John Nichol, of Huntington.
Benj. Newton, M. A. Maſter of the College-School in Glouceſter.
Mr. J. Naiſh, her Majeſty's Maſter-Shipwright at Harwich.
The Reverend Mr. Northcote, M. A. of St. Courtenay in Devon.
—— Mr. J. Nofworthy, of Aſhbury in Devon.
—— Mr. Phil. Neyle, M. A. of Stokeinham in Devon.
Stephen Northleigh, of Devon, Eſq;
Thomas Newman, of Biſhops-Hull in Somerſetſ. Gent.
The Reverend Mr. Norris, R. of Bruſhford in Somerſetſ.
—— Matt. Nichols, of Chulmleigh in Devon, Clerk.
—— Mr. Newline.
William Newbolt, of London, Printer.
The Reverend Mr. J. Nicholls, V. of Sheldwich.
—— Tho. Nicholls, R. of Baddelemere.
William Newſe, of Holbeck, Eſq;
The Reverend Mr. Newton, V. of Pickering in Yorkſ.
Samuel Newet, M. A.
The Reverend Mr. Neall, of Oakingham in Berkſ.
—— Mr. Newton, R. of St. Auſtin's and St. Faith's in London.
—— Mr. Nelſon, R. of Marſton in Norfolk.

O.

THE Right Honourable, Charles, Earl of Orrery.
Maſſey Owen, of Ratcliffe, Gent.
John Osborne, Bookſeller.
The Reverend Mr. Tho. Orchard, of Hartland, Dr. Orwey, of St. John's College in Cambridge.
Tho. Osburn, of Harwich, Gent.
Francis Olliver, of Exon, Gent.
The Reverend Mr. Osborne, V. of Stoke-Gabriel in Devon.
William Oxenham, of Oxenham in Devon, Eſq;
Robert Orme, of London, Clerk.
The Reverend Mr. Oake, R. of Hanſworth in Staffordſ.
John Orme, M. A.
The Reverend Mr. Overend, R. of Eaſt Bridgford in Nottinghamſ.
—— Mr. Owen, V. of Iver in Suſſex.

P.

SIR George Parker, Bar. of Willingdon in Suſſex.
Sir John Percivill, Bar. of Burton in Cork.
The Reverend Mr. Polhill, V. of Biſhop-Stortford
—— Mr. Parr, V. of Peaſmarſh in Suſſex.
—— Mr. Porter, R. of Chayleigh in Suſſex.
—— Mr. Pinton, V. of Ruffham in Norfolk.
—— John Pearſon, M. A.
Mr. William Portman, Clerk of Stepney.
Reuben Park, Eſq; of Lutton in Lincolnſ.
The Reverend Mr. Proud, V. of Woolavington in Somerſetſ.
H. Pacy, Depury-Recorder, and Alderman of Boſton.
Anth. Peiſley, Bookſeller in Oxford.
The Reverend Mr. Price, R. of Grays in Oxfordſ.
Edmond Pleydell, Eſq; of Milbourn-St. Andrew in Dorſetſ.
The Reverend Mr. Parr, R. of Melcomb-Regis in Dorſetſ.
Mr. Pledwell, School-maſter of Abingdon in Berks.
The Reverend Ralph Perkins, L. L. D. R. of Stretham in the Dioceſe of Ely.
—— Dr. Philips, V. of Marcle, and Canon-Reſidentiary of Hereford.
—— Mr. Pool, R. of Stretton-Grandham, and Prebendary of Hereford.
Stephen Philips, of Hereford, Eſq;
Mr. Aaron Pritchard.
The Reverend Mr. Priſe, R. of Felton in Herefordſ.
—— Mr. Powell, V. of Croft in Herefordſ.
—— Mr. Potter, V. of Cleford in Somerſetſ.
—— Mr. Perry, R. of Weſt Coker in Somerſetſ.
Richard Prater, Eſq; of Froom-Zelwood in Somerſetſ.
John Phelps, Gent. of Froom-Zelwood.
Samuel Phelps, Gent. of Froom-Zelwood.
Rawlings Pain, Merchant.
The Reverend Mr. Powell, V. of Pirton in Oxfordſ.
—— Mr. Prince, R. of Clovelly.
—— Mr. Pate, R. of Hether.
William Perkins, B. D. Fellow of St. John's College in Cambridge.
The Reverend Dr. Perry.
Samuel Percival, Gent. of the Navy-Office.
George Parker, Eſq; of Borrington in Devon.
—— Mr. Poulton, R. of Lufwick in Northamptonſ.
—— Mr. Price, V. of St. Mary de Lode in Glouceſterſ.
Mr. Jawes Powell.
Mr. Tho. Parrott, of Hartford in Huntingtonſ.
William Partridge, of Plymouth, Gent.
John Potter, of Colcheſter, Eſq;
R. Pupples, of Colcheſter, Linen-Draper.
Henry Potter, of Colcheſter, Gent.

Digitized by Google

The Reverend Mr. Theo. Pattoury, R. of Petemſtry in Devon.
—— John Perkins, M. A. Fellow of St. John's College in Cambridge.
Samuel Pulmar, of Wingate in Devon, Gent.
The Reverend Mr. George Pautbury, R. of N. Hill in Cornwall.
Roger Prouſe, of Exon, Merchant.
The Reverend Mr. Carolus Pole, R. of St. Breock in Cornwall.
—— Mr. William Palmer, of Cliſtwiden in Devon.
—— Mr. Penbellick, V. of Gulwall in Cornwall.
—— Mr. Payntе, V. of Guinear in Cornwall.
—— Mr. Will. Polkinborne, V. of Lanant in Cornwall.
—— Mr. Pendarves, V. of St. Paul in Cornwall.
—— Mr. Penneck, Chancellour, and Canon-Reſidentiary of St. Peter's in Exon.
—— Mr. Pocock, R. of Peter Tavy in Devon.
—— Mr. Pynſent, of Chuddeigh in Devon.
—— Mr. Peach, of Dartmouth in Devon.
—— Mr. Plowman, R. of Longbredy in Dorſetſ.
Mr. Percevill Potts, of Trinity College in Oxford.
Mr. Perdage.
The Reverend Mr. Peate, R. of Norton in Somerſ.
—— Mr. Pearce, V. of Pitmiſter in Somerſetſ.
Mr. Robert Pead.
The Reverend Mr. Pagett, R. of Peyntington in Suffolk.
Mr. John Pelwyn, of Hazellber.
The Reverend Mr. Park, V. of Hale.
Mr. Stephen Pendarves.
The Reverend Mr. Pleet, V. of Boughton.
—— Mr. Patten, V. of Sraſalcer.
—— Mr. Plumleigh, Preb. of Wolverhampton.
—— Mr. Penſon, Arch-deacon of Nottingham.
—— Mr. Plaxton, R. of Berwick in Elmet in Yorkſ.
—— Thomas Perrot, M. A.
—— Mr. Piggot, R. of Egmond in Shropſ.
Humph. Pipe, M. A. School-maſter of Apiely in Leiceſterſ.
The Reverend Mr. Pinchefs, R. of Bimhill.
—— Mr. Preudman R. of the Second Mediety of Trowell in Nottinghamſ.
—— Mr. Penle, R. of Gr. Waldingfield in Suffolk.
—— Mr. Purſe, of Jevington in Suſſex.
—— Mr. Paſſer.
Edw. Poulter, of Illington, Gent.
The Reverend Mr. Tho. Parſell, Maſter of Merchant-Taylors School.

Q.

MR. John Quick, of Whiteſtone in Devon.

R.

SIR Iſaac Rebow, of Colcheſter, Kt.
The Reverend Dr. Rieue, Fellow of Magdalen College in Oxford.
——— Dr. Rennell, R. of Drewſteington in Devon.
Mr. Thomas Render, of Holbeach in Lincolnſ.
Captain B. Raymond.
The Reverend Edward Rudd, B. D. Fellow of Trinity College in Cambridge.
——— William Roman, M. A. Curate of St. James's in Weſtminſter.
The Reverend Mr. Reynolds, V. of Tarmiſter in Dorſetſ.
John Robinſon, Gent.
Peter Richards, Eſq; of Evenjob in Radnorſ.
The Reverend Mr. Roſs, R. of Tretire in Hereſ.
—— Mr. Ray, R. of Lymington in Somerſetſ.
Antony Reade, M. A. Student of Chriſt Church in Oxford.
The Reverend Mr. Rowſe, R. of Harberteigh in Devon.
—— Mr. Roberts, R. of Jacobſtow in Devon.
Mr. Lanc. Robiſon, Fellow-Commoner of Jeſus-College in Cambridge.
The Reverend Cuyers Richardſon, M. A.
—— Ezech. Rawl., B. D. Fellow of St. John's College in Cambridge.
—— Joſeph Roper, M. A. Fellow of St. John's College in Cambridge.
Alexander Radcliff, Eſq;
The Reverend Mr. Read, V. of St. Oſwald's in Durham.
—— Mr. Richards, R. of Mouldſworth in Huntingtonſ.
Tim. Roles, Bookſeller in Hull.
John Ram, of Colcheſter, Merchant.
N. Raval, of Colcheſter, Surgeon.
J. Rich, of Colcheſter, Vintner.
The Reverend Mr. Rogers, V. of Dedham in Eſſex.
—— Mr. Ch. Rogerſon, V. of Mark-Tey in Eſſex.
—— Tho. Rogerſon, M. A. of Little Horkſley near Colcheſter.
—— Mr. Roſe, R. of Teſſham in Suffolk.
Neath. Rowland, of Exon, Merchant.
Rich. Rennell, of Weſt Ogwell in Devon, Eſq;
John Roll, of Stevenſtone in Devon, Eſq;
The Reverend Mr. Richards, R. of Cumbrinhead in Devon.
—— Mr. Rowe, V. of Axmouth in Devon.
—— Mr. Rayner, Schoolmaſter of the Free Grammar-School in Tiverton.
—— Mr. Reek, R. of Dartington in Devon.
—— Mr. Raiph, R. of St. Earth in Cornwall.
—— Mr. Richardſon, V. of Mervall in Cornwall.
—— Mr. Rowe, V. of Madden in Cornwall.
Philip Raſleigh, of Menabilly in Cornwall, Eſqs
The Reverend J. Roberts, of Somerleif. Clerk.
Ri. Rawlinſon, A. B. of St. John's College in Oxford.
Mather Rogers, of Hewiſh, Gent.
The Reverend Mr. Robinſon, Late Incumbent of the New Church in Leeds.
William Rook, of Leeds, Merchant.
John Reynolds, M. A. of Pembroke College in Oxford.
Rich. Randall, Bookſeller in Newcaſtle upon Tine.
The Reverend Mr. Reading, Library-keeper of Sion College in London.
—— Mr. Roſe, Free-Schoolmaſter of Pontefract in Yorkſ.
—— Mr. J. Richardſon, Precentor of York.
—— Mr. Rye, R. of Thornetham in Suffolk.

S.

Digitized by Google

S.

THE Right Honourable, the Lord Arthur Somerſet.
The Right Honourable, the Lord Viſcount Scudamore.
The Honourable Sir Philip Sydenham, Baronet, (Three Books.)
The Reverend Dr. Stanly, Dean of St. Aſaph.
—— Nat. Iſaac Sharp, of Stepney.
Henry Seller, of Stepney, Gent.
The Reverend Mr. James Stuart, R. of Studleigh in Devon.
Geo. Stevens, Attorney at Law, of Spalding in Lincoinſ.
Dr. Speed, of Southampton.
Thomas Shaw, M. A.
Richard Sare, Bookſeller.
The Reverend Joſeph Smith, D. D. (Six Books.)
—— Elias Sydall, D. D. Preb. of Canterbury.
Edward Score, Bookſeller in Exon.
The Reverend The. Smith, D. D. Vice-Maſter of Trinity-College in Cambridge.
Richard Skirman, M. A. Schoolmaſter of Henly in Oxfordſ.
Thomas Snow, Gent.
The Reverend Mr. St. Leo, R. of Pulham in Dorſet.
—— Mr. Selwood, R. of Cromarſh in Oxfordſ.
—— Mr. Serjeant, V. of Downampney in Glouceſt.
—— Mr. Sentauſe, R. of Lanton.
—— Mr. Stock, R. of Aſton in Herefordſ.
—— Mr. Sainſbury, R. of Buckington in Somerſ.
—— Mr. Sandys, R. of Teoveiton in Somerſetſ.
—— Mr. Seward, R. of Sutton-Bingham in Somerſ.
James Sheppard, Eſq; of Honiton in Devon.
The Reverend Mr. Sunderſon, V. Brunditch in Suffolk.
John Spry, M. A. of C. C. C. in Oxford.
The Reverend Mr. Stevenſon, R. Binſcombe and Broadway in Dorſetſ.
—— Mr. Segitary, R. of Steepleton in Dorſetſ.
—— Mr. Sherſton, R. of Witherſton in Dorſetſ.
—— Mr. Sutton, V. of Loder in Dorſetſ.
—— Mr. Steoaly, R. of Neather-Cern in Dorſetſ.
—— Mr. Spettigue, R. of Newton-St. Petrock in Devon.
—— Mr. Silk, R. of Bradford in Devon.
Mr. John Spicer, of Shopbrook.
John Shore, M. D. of Cliicheſter.
The Reverend Cha. Selby, M. A. Fellow of Pembroke Hall in Cambridge.
—— John Shaw, M. A. Fellow of St. John's College in Cambridge.
—— Rob. Smalet, M. A. Fellow of St. John's College in Cambridge.
—— Rowland Simpſon, M. A. Fellow of St. John's College in Cambridge.
Charles Sarjeſon, Eſq; Commiſſioner of the Navy.
George Stratan, Bookſeller.
The Reverend Mr. Staples, R. of Shotteſbrook in Berks.
Mr. Edward Skelton.
The Reverend Mr. Shute, R. of Lawkitton in Cornwall.
—— Mr. Sturgis, Chaplain to the Lord Biſhop of Norwich.
—— Mr. Smith, of Rougham.
—— William Stanley, M. A. Fellow of Magdalen-College in Cambridge.
Mr. Smithwiſt, Bookſeller in Plymouth.
Jacob Scholes, M. A.
Mr. William Shrigley.
Mr. Rob. Stott.
Mr. John Scholes.
The Reverend Mr. Sedwick, R. of Walkington in Yorkſ.
Mr. Robert Schofeild, (Twelve Books.)
Samuel Smith, Eſq; of Hamerton in Huntingtonſ.
John Sayer, M. A. Fellow of Queen's-College in Cambridge.
John Singleton, of Glouceſter, Gent.
Thomas Southen, of Weſtminſter, Eſq;
Mrs. Emma Smith.
The Reverend Mr. Skynner, R. of Wenham Magna in Suffolk.
J. Savil of Colcheſter, Merchant.
Jer. Snow, of Kirby in Eſſex, Eſq;
Mr. Sherman.
W. Slinger, of Colcheſter, Upholſterer.
The Reverend Mr. Smythies, R. of St. Michael Mile-End in Colcheſter.
John Sparrow, Eſq; of Sibble-Hedingham in Eſſex.
The Reverend Mr. Sponer, R. of Aldham in Suffolk.
—— Mr. Spyring, V. of Burleſcomb in Devon.
Thomas Summerton, of Exon, Barber.
The Reverend Mr. L. Southcomb, ſenior, of Roſeaſh in Devon.
—— Mr. J. Shore, R. of Hamſey, in Suſſex.
—— Mr. Ph. Shore, R. of Woodmancote in Suſſex.
—— Mr. Sandford, R. of Stokeintinhead in Devon.
John Smart, of Exon, Vintner.
Northway Smale, of Newton-Abbot in Devon; Gent.
J. Score, of Exon, Fuller.
The Reverend Robert Shortrudge, of Devon, M. A.
Ch. Stanway, of Exon, Painter.
William Stabback, of Exon, Grocer.
R. Sandford, of Exon, Dyer.
John Smyth, of Exon, Gent.
Hugh Stofford, of Paynes in Devon, Eſq;
The Reverend John Smyth, of Devon, M. A.
—— Mr. Strong, V. of Pinhoe in Devon.
—— Walter Sters, of Exon, M. A.
William Sandford, of Ninehead in Somerſetſhire Eſq;
The Reverend Mr. Strowde, R. of Oake in Somerſetſ.
John Southey, of Fitzhead in Somerſetſ. Gent.
The Reverend Mr. Spooner, R. of Eaſt-Down in Devon.
—— Mr. Shepherd, R. of Aſh-Remy in Devon.
—— Mr. Stevens, R. of Weſtleigh in Devon.
John Sandford, Eſq; of Biſhop-Stortford in Herefordſ.
The Reverend Mr. Short, V. of Eaſt-Coker.
—— Mr. Strong, V. of Tovvil.
—— Mr Shuttleworth, R. of Oburne in Dorſetſ.
—— Mr. Smith, R. of Leſſingham.
—— Mr. Seller, V. of New Steaford.
—— Mr. Sedgwick, V. of Burton.
Thomas Speed, Bookſeller.
Ralph Sneyd, Eſq; Knight of the Shire for Staffordſ.
John Skelton, of Leeds, Gent.
The Reverend Mr. Skinner, Miniſter of Sunbury in Middleſex.
—— Mr. William Skinner, junior, of Oriel-College in Oxford.
Thomas Stephenſon, Surgeon in Newcaſtle upon Tine.

The

Digitized by Google

The Reverend Mr. Spencer, R. of Eaſington in Yorkſ.
Mr. Stanton, of Birmingham in Warwickſ.
The Reverend Mr. Shaftoe, R. of Gateſhead.
—— Mr. Scott, V. of Wakefield.
—— Mr. Skrymſher, R. of Forton in Shropſ.
Samuel Swinfen, Mr. D. of the City of Lichfield.
John Swale, Bookſeller in Leeds.
The Reverend Mr. Smalwood, Curate of Mave in Staffordſ.
—— Mr. Stanhope, R. of Bingham in Nottinghamſ.
—— Mr. Sheppard, V. of Freiſingfield in Suffolk.
—— Mr. Snooke, V. of Ringmere in Suſſex.
—— Dr. Shortrudge. R. of Fetcham in Surrey.
—— Mr. Tho. Shortrudge.
—— Mr. Smythe, of Gainsborough.
Mrs. Anne Saunders, Widow.
The Reverend Dr. Henry Sacheverell, R. of St. Andrew's Holbourn.
Tho. Speed, of St. Peter's le Poor in London, Exchange Broker.
William Sayes, Printer.

T.

THE Reverend George Thorp, D. D. Canon of Canterbury.
—— Dr. Thurlin, Preſident of St. John's College in Cambridge.
—— Dr. Todd, Prebendary of Carliſle.
—— Dr. Tyler, R. of Shobdon in Herefordſ.
—— Thomas Tooke, D. D. of Biſhop-Stortford in Hertfordſ.
Tho. Tudway, Doctor of Muſick.
The Reverend Mr. Tipping, R. of Weſton-Colvile in Cambridgeſ.
—— Mr. Tipping, of Holbeach in Lincolnſ.
—— Mr. Treherne, R. of Dinder, and Maſter of the Free School in Hereford.
—— Mr. Tyrer, Curate of Hope-Manſell in Herefordſ.
Mr. Charles Taylor, of Wells.
The Reverend Mr. Tripp, R. of Hunſpill in Somerſetſ.
Thomas Terry, M. A. Student of Chriſt-Church in Oxford.
The Reverend Mr. Thornton, R. of Came in Dorſetſ.
—— Mr. Treagood, R. of Burton in Dorſetſ.
—— Titus Tweady, M. A. Fellow of Pembroke-Hall in Cambridge.
Daniel Turner, Eſq; Commiſſioner of the Navy.
Tho. Tanner, Gent. of the Navy-Office.
M. John Thomſon, Fellow of Queen's-College in Oxford.
Roger Thorp, Gent.
Mr. James Taylor.
Mr. Richard Thompſon.
Mr. Taylor, Bookſeller in Whitchurch in Salop.
The Reverend Andrew Tooke, M. A. of the Charter-Houſe.
—— Mr. Tindale, V. of Elmſtone.
—— Charles Trumbull, L. L. D.
Joſeph Thurſton, Eſq; Recorder of Colcheſter.
The Reverend Mr. Tache, V. of Churcham in Glouceſterſ.
P. Thorne, of Colcheſter, Chandler.
The Reverend Mr. Trapp, R. of Cherrington in Glouceſterſ.
—— Mr. Thaxton, R. of Little Bentley in Eſſex.
Ralph Tonſtall, of Colcheſter, Gent.
The Reverend Mr. Truſſell, R. of Pedmarſh.
—— Mr. Tailton, R. of Bickton in Devon.
—— Mr. Tuthill, V. of Ide in Devon.
Thomas Tucke, of Alphington in Devon, Gent.
The Reverend Mr. Thomſon, V. of Barnſtaple in Devon.
Thomas Tompkin of Trevaunance in Cornwall, Eſq;
The Reverend Mr. Jo. Tremnick of Exon.
—— Mr. Troyte, R. of Silverton in Devon.
—— Mr. Tripe, V. of Chudleigh in Devon.
—— Mr. Tomkins, Curate of Membury.
—— Mr. Tregenna, R. of Maugan in Cornwall.
John Trevanion, of Carhays in Cornwall, Eſq;
John Tanner, of St. Columbe in Cornwall, Eſq; James Thorne, M. A. Fellow of Exeter-College in Oxford.
The Reverend John Tiſſer, B. D. R. of Kodington in Suffolk.
Robert Taylor, M. A. of Chriſt-College in Cambridge.
The Reverend John Took, M. A. of Biſhop-Stortford.
—— Mr. Tho. Taylor, R. of Pendomer.
—— Mr. John Taylor, R. of Catlinch.
—— Edward Tenſon, Arch-deacon of Caermarthen.
—— Mr. Terrick, Canon-Reſidentiary of York.
Mr. Francis Taylor, of Crombe in Worceſterſ.
The Reverend Mr. Temiſon, R. of Wickham in Durham.
—— Mr. Trollop, R. of Norbury in Derbyſh.
—— Mr. Thompſon, V. of Sutton-Bonger in Wiltſ.
—— Mr. Turton, R. of St. Olave-Hart-ſtreet in London.
Captain Joſias Tidmarſh.
William Taylor, Bookſeller.

V.

THE Honourable Sir Richard Vyvyan, of Cornwall, Bar.
George Vernon, Eſq; Knight of the Shire for Staffordſ.
Robert Vner, Eſq; of Birchin in Herefordſ.
The Reverend Richard Veſey, B. D. R. of Baldwin-Brightwell in Oxfordſ.
Mr. Vry, Student of Chriſt-Church in Oxford.
The Reverend Mr. Walter Veale, R. of Monk-Okehampton in Devon.
Mr. George Vernam, Fellow of King's-College in Cambridge.
The Reverend Mr. Charles Veale, R. of Iddeſleigh in Devon.
Tho. Vernam, Bookſeller.
Mr. Joſeph Vigor.
John Viney, of the Middle-Temple, Eſq;
Francis Vaughan, of Glouceſter, Eſq;
The Reverend Gentile Vinecomb, M. A. of Exon.
Dr. Thomas Venner, of Hatherly in Devon.
Henry Vincent, junior, Eſq; of Trelevan in Cornwall.
The Reverend Mr. Vincent, R. of Bratton-Clovelly in Devon.
George Unite, Bookſeller in Wolverhampton.
The Reverend Mr. Vivian, R. of Little Petherick in Cornwall.
Tho. Vaughan, A. B. of Braſen-Noſe-College in Oxon.
The Reverend Mr. Upton, R. of Monkſilver in Somerſetſ.

W.

Digitized by Google

W.

THE Right Honourable Thomas, Lord Viſcount Weymouth.
The Right Honourable, and Right Reverend Jonathan Lord Biſhop of Winton.
The Right Reverend, the Lord Biſhop of Waterford, in Ireland.
Sir Francis Warre, Baronet, of Heſtercombe, in Somerſet.
The Honourable Francis Willoughby, Eſq;
The Dean and Chapter of Wells.
The Reverend Mr. Wilſon, V. of Rye, in Suſſex.
—— Mr. Wenham, R. of Rotherfield, in Suſſex.
Mr. John Wootten.
The Reverend Thomas Whincop, D. D. deceas'd.
Thomas Whitney, Gent.
Bridget Watts, Apothecary at Ratcliff-High-Way.
Ch. Walker, Sail-maker at Ratcliff Croſs.
Mr. J. Waſon, junior, of Algar-Kirk in Lincolnſ.
The Reverend Mr. Willy, V. of Moulton in Lincolnſ.
—— Moſſum Wy, D. D.
John Worth, of Worth, in the County of Devon, Eſq;
The Reverend Mr. P. Worth, R. of High-Bickington in Devonſ.
—— Mr. Wright, R. of Claxby in Lincolnſ.
—— R. Watts, L. L. B. Fellow of St. John's College in Oxon. (Six Books.)
James Wilde, Bookſeller in Hereford.
The Reverend John Woodward, D. D. R. of Weſt Grinſted, in Suſſex.
William Williams, M. D. Fellow of Exeter-College in Oxon.
The Reverend Mr. Wright, R. of Stepney.
—— Richard Warren. B. D.
—— Thomas Woods, M. A. of Drayton, in Berkſ.
Dr. Wynne, Chancellor of Hereford.
James Wallwin, Eſq; of Longworth in Herefordſ.
The Reverend Mr. Willim, R. of Peter-Church in Herefordſ.
—— Mr. Watſon, R. of Croſcombe, and Preb. of Wells.
—— Mr. Webb, R. of Stratton in Somerſetſ.
James Wickham, Gent. of Froom-Zellwood, in Somerſetſ.
William Whitchurch, of Froom-Zellwood, Gent.
Richard Webb, of Froom-Zellwood, Gent.
Mrs. Margaret Webb, Widow.
The Reverend Mr. Wychingham, ſenior, R. of Theberton. in Suffolk.
—— Mr. Wickham, Miniſter of Friſtoſtock, in Devon.
Daniel Warren, Gent. of Huiſh in Devon.
The Reverend Mr. Wilcockes, R. of Exbourne in Devon.
—— Mr. Whitehead, R. of Shepton-Mallet in Somerſ.
Durban Weſtbrook, M. A. Fellow of Jeſus-College in Cambridge.
The Reverend Richard Warren, B. D. Fellow of Jeſus-College in Cambridge.
—— John Whitehead, M. A. of Beſtham.
—— William Whitear, M. A. Preb. of Chicheſter.
Mr. Weld, Bookſeller in Chicheſter.
Thomas Wallace, M. A. Fellow of Pembroke Hall in Cambridge.
Edmond Waller, M. D. Fellow of St. John's College in Cambridge.
John Warren, Gent. of the Navy Office.
Mr. Thomas Wareham.
John Worſley, M. A.
Mr. Warn, Bookſeller in Chippenham in Wiltſ.
The Reverend Iſaac Walton, M. A. Canon-Reſidentiary of Sarum.
—— Mr. Wilkinſon, R. of Eſerick in Yorkſ.
Ralph Watſon, junior, Bookſeller in St. Edmondsbury.
Thomas Webb, of Glouceſter, Eſq;
The Reverend Mr. Webb, R. of Bredon in Worceſterſ.
Thomas Webb, Gent. of St. Lawrence-Lane in London.
Nicholas Webb, of Glouceſter, Eſq;
The Reverend Maurice Wheeler, M. A. Preb. of Lincoln.
Laurence Whitſtorn, of Glouceſter, Eſq;
T. Walker, of Colcheſter, Perriwig-maker.
A. Wareham, Maſter-Attendant in her Majeſty's Yard at Harwich.
The Reverend Dr. Warly, Arch-deacon of Colcheſter.
Mr. George Wegg, of Colcheſter.
Thomas Williams, Eſq; of Tendring-Hall in Suffolk, (Six Books.)
D. Wiſeman, Clerk of the Cheque at Harwich.
The Reverend Mr. Wooton, R. of Little Claxton in Eſſex.
—— Dr. Warren, Preb. of St. Peter's in Exon.
Nicolas Webber, of Exon, Gent.
Peter Warren, of Bradninch in Devon, Gent.
The Reverend Mr. Webber, Preb. of St. Peter's in Exon.
W. Withers, of Exon, Surgeon.
J. Wallis, of Exon, Mercer.
The Reverend Mr. Wolcombe, R. of Whiteſtone in Devon.
J. Wakefield, Steward to the Right Honourable Sir William Windham.
Mr. Benjamin Wakefield of Orchard-Windham.
The Reverend Mr. Wroughton, R. of Ludgvan in Cornwall.
—— Mr. Whaley, V. of Broadhamton in Devon.
—— Mr. Wood, R. of Withiell in Cornwal.
—— Mr. Wood, junior, R. of Ladock in Cornwall.
John Woolcombe, of Aſhbury in Devon, Eſq;
Stephen Williams, of St. Anſtele in Cornwall, Gent.
Thomas Wills, of Kilworthy in Devon, Eſq;
The Reverend Philip Woolcombe, M. A. in Devon.
—— Mr. Francis Warre, R. of Cheden in Somerſetſ.
—— Mr. James Wilkinſon, Clerk.
—— Mr. Woolet, R. of Sampford-Brett in Somerſetſ.
—— Mr. Wrothley, R. of Bratton in Devon.
—— Mr. Walter, V. of Heydon in Dorſetſ.
—— Mr. John Walker, V. of Ledbury in Herefordſ.
—— Mr. Wyche, R. of Silk-Willoughby.
Major Wendel.
Mr. Wood.
The Reverend Thomas Wiſe, D. D.
Richard Webſter, M. A. of St. Edmondsbury.
J. Wilmot, Bookſeller in Oxon.
T. Webſter, Bookſeller in Cambridge.
The Reverend Mr. Ward, R. of Blisfield in Staffordſ.
William Wintworth, of Woolie, Eſq;
John Wilkin, Eſq; of Raunſon in Derbyſ.
The Reverend Mr. Wickins, R. of Kerbythour, and Preb. of York.

Digitized by Google

Edward Walker, Merchant in Newcastle upon Tine.
The Reverend Mr. Williams, Chaplain to the Lady Dowager Gower.
The Reverend Mr. Wakefield, R. of Seasey in Surry.
—— Mr. White, V. of Mayfield in Derbyf.
—— Mr. Wood, V. of Albrighton in Staffordf.
Will. Ward, Bookseller in Nottingham.
J. Wyat, Bookseller.
The Reverend Mr. Jenkin Williams.
Mr. John Wright, of London Vintner.
Mr. Peter Wakely, of Bideford.
Mr. Wakeham, of Modbury.
Thomas Walton, Attorney at Law.
Captain Endymion Walker, of Exon.

Y.

HIS Grace William, Lord Arch-bishop of York.
The Reverend John Younger, D. D. Dean of Surum.
William Yonge, Esq; of Cauuton in Staffordf.
Dr. James Yonge, of Plymouth.
Philip Yee, Bookseller in Exon.
John Yarborough, M. B.
The Reverend Mr. Yates, Minister of Whitehaven, and R. of Moresby in Cumberland, (Two Books.)
William York, of Leffingham, Esq;
John Young M. A.

A LIST of some NAMES, sent to us after the Former were Printed.

THE Right Reverend John, Lord Bishop of Ely.
The Reverend Mr. Battie, of Modbury in Devon.
Mr. Rob. Biscoe, of Throckmorton street in London.
The Reverend Dr. Blake, V. of St. Sepulchre's in London.
Mr. Richard Crunch, of Modbury.
The Reverend Mr. Dongworth.
Mr. Tho. Elliot, of Exon.
Mr. Nath. Elfon, of West-Merchard.
Mr. Nath. Franklin, of Exon.
Mr. John Gidley, of Exon.
The Reverend Mr. Greenfields.
—— Mr. Griffith, Minister of Halberton.
—— Mr. Jenkin, R. of Herstmonceux in Suffex.
William Ilbert, Esq; of Bowrings-Leigh in Devon.
The Reverend Mr. James Knight, of Ninehead in Somersetf.
—— Montague Lloyd, B. D. Fellow of Trinity-College in Cambridge.
Richard Leyde, of Brumly, Gent.
Mr. William Maurs, of Exon.
Mr. Elias Newton, of Sandford.
Sir Henry Northcott, of Devon. Baronet.
Richard Parker, Bookseller.
Mr. James Rhodes, of Exon.
Mr. Benj. Reed, of Exon.
Giles Rydon, Esq; of Afhburton.
The Reverend Samuel Spence, M. A.
—— Mr. Stephens, R. of Hadstock in Essex.
Ralph Thoresby, of Leeds, F. R. S.
Eben Tracy, Bookseller.

ERRATA.

DELE Dr. Barrow, Master of Baliol-College, &c. and Insert (Six Books) after Dr. Baron.

BOOKS Printed for Richard Wilkin, at the King's Head in St. Paul's Church-Yard.

THE Works of Mr. William Allen, consisting of Thirteen Distinct Tracts on several Subjects: with a Sermon Preach'd at his Funeral by Bishop Kidder; a large Index of Texts of Scripture Explain'd, and an Alphabetical Table of the principal Matters contain'd in the Whole. To which is prefix'd a Preface concerning the Author and his Writings, by Dr. John Williams, late Lord Bishop of Chichester.

A Vindication of King Charles the Martyr: Proving that his Majesty was the Author of ΕΙΚΩΝ ΒΑΣΙΛΙΚΗ. Against a Memorandum, said to be written by the Earl of Anglesey, and against the Exceptions of Dr. Walker and others. To which is added, a Preface, wherein the Bold and Impudent Assertions publish'd in a Passage of Mr. Boyle's Dictionary, relating to the present Controversie, are examin'd and confuted. The Third Edition, with large Additions: Together with some Original Letters of King Charles I. under his own Hand, never before printed; and faithfully copy'd from the Lord Originals.

The

Digitized by Google

The more Considerable ERRATA of the FIRST PART.

PAGE 7. Column 1. Line 25. Read Storm, p. 23 col. 2. l. 8. from the Bottom r. though he, p. 26. Col. 1. l. 23. r. fasts, p. 37 col. 1. l. 11 r. Pity, col. 2. l. 18. from the Bottom r. restored, p. 48. col. 1. l. 6. r. Sequestration, ibid. r. comes. p. 49. col. 2. l. 19. r. of, ibid. 41. 42 r. Protestants, the Lord Clarendon, without a Break, p. 57. col. 1. l. 4. r. Woodhurst, l. 18. r. Curby, p. 80. col. 1. the last Blank should not have been made, p. 83 col. 1. l 21. r. or for, p. 89. col. 2. l. 50. r. Cotesford, p. 90. col. 1. l. 18. r. of the Proceedings against, col. 2. l. 14 r. some of, p. 93. col. 2. l. 14. r. these, p. 97. col. 1. l. 35. r. Lanesshire col. 2. l. 32. r. Mabyn, p. 102. col. 2. l. 15. of the last Marginal Note, r. that, p. 104 col. 2. l. 43. r. Assessments, l. 6. from the Bottom, r. expell p. 105. col. 1. l. 27 r. think of, Not, p. 106. col. 2. l. 9. from the Bottom, the Parenthesis ends, p. 113. col. 2. l. 40. r. was, p. 115. col. 1. l. 4. dele ; and, p. 122. col. 2. l. 18. from the Bottom, r. Resolutions, p. 133. col. 1. l. 24. from the Bottom, and col. 2. l. 14. r. Turl. p. 125 col. 2. l. 23. r. Tefted, p. 126. col. 1. l. 34. r. Chesnel, col. 2. l 40. r. Mutiny, p. 127. col 2. l 31. r. Pentaklisp'd, l. 9. from the Bottom, r. Freshmen, p. 128 col. 2. l. 21. r. Force, p. 133. col. 2. l. 40. r. Beedle, as it must be Spelt in that Place, p. 135. col. 1. l. 44. r. Solstitiales : l. 45. r. Academia, col 2. l. 2. r. Butlers, p. 142. col. 1. r Empty-Handed col. 2. l 12. r. Harbour'd, p. 141. col. 2. l. 9. from the Bottom, r. them on this Account ; p. 145. col 2. l. 27. from the Bottom, r. at least, p. 149. col. 2. l. 5. from the Bottom, Insert this : Mark, p 150. col. 1. l. 16. r. Put, col. 2. l 10. r. Author, p 164. col. 1. l. 13. from the Bottom, r. called, col. 2 l. 16 r. infested, p. 172. col 1. l. 2. of the Marginal Note, r. Examination, p. 175. col. 1. l. 45. for Misery r. Mercy, p. 200 col. 2. l. 34. r Memories, l. 2. of the last Marginal Note r. in the, p. 201. col. 1. l. 13. from the Bottom, r. Eschments.

The more Considerable Mistakes and Omissions of the Second Part.

PAGE 2, col. 2, l. 2, r. September. p. 7, col. 1, r. Jackson. p. 8, col. 2, at the End r. Preacher's Place. p. 11, col. 2, r. Sefton. p. 15, col. 1, r. Gillingham. p. 19. col. 2, r. Effington. ibid. r. Grethem. p. 20, col. 1, l. 33, r. the County p. 25, col 1, r. stokeinteignhead. p. 26, col. 1, r. Shobrook. p. 27, col. 1, l. 30, r. Room of Dionysius Fridericus deceas'd, and was Install'd Sub dato Sept. 23, 1641, in the Room of d. 31. r. deceas'd also. l. 38, r. 1674. p. 31, col. 1. r. South-Hill. ibid. r. St Ive. p. 34, col. 2, r. Eltham. p. 47, col. 1, r. Southfcarie. p. 51, col. 1, r. Lanfton. p 55, col. 2, l. 1, r. Dec. 30. and dele what follows in the 3 first Lines. p. 58. col. 2, l. 2, of the first Marginal Note dele and Mr. Latham of Staffordshire. l. 3, r. concerning whom. l. 4, r. an Exception. p. 63, col. 1, dele all between ferved in l. 4, and But in l. 6. col. 2, the Day of Mr. Buckner's Admiſſion, &c. is miſtaken. p. 64. col. 1, l. 24, r. Wiley, K. in Wilts. l. 37, r. 1667. p. 66, col. 1, r. Meere, V. p. 67, col. 1, l. 2. in the Account of Herbert Croft, dele was. p. 68, col. 1, l. 36, r. Tr. Triplet. p. 70, col. 1, l. 14. r. Predeceſſor. p. 72, col. 1, l. 14 r. Troop of Guards, p. 74 col. 1, inſert the following Note againſt * Milverton prima : * I am not aſſur'd that this was the Prebend ; but not finding who was the Poſſeſſor Incumbent on it, I have aſſign'd it to Mr. Biſh's Name, tho' 'tis very poſſible that he might belong to one of the other blank Prebends which are hereafter named. ibid. againſt † Compton-Dundon inſert this Note † That he was a Preb. of this Church I am aſſured; but that this was his Prebend I cannot ſay. I have aſſign'd this Prebend to his Name for the ſame Reaſon as I did that of Milverton prima, to Mr. Biſh. Ibid. againſt * Lamiat, and Weſton Zoyland, inſert this Note ; * I could not obtain the Chriſtian Name of Mr. Holt, the Preb. But finding the Sequeſtr'd Miniſter of thoſe Livings to be called Holt, and taking him to be the ſame Perſon with Mr Holt the Preb. of this Church, I have therefore made no Scruple to call him Thomas Holt, and to ſay the Profits Livings to the Prebend, gueſſing it to be the ſame Perſon that loſt them all. p. 75, at the End of the Account of Mr. Hen. Ankebill, add, His Temporal Eſtate to the Value of 120 l. per An. was alſo put under Sequeſtration. He died, ſaith the Author of Perſe. Widec. p. 4. in the Ciſtle of Taunton, of ſome Wounds which he had receiv'd; but as I have been otherwiſe Inform'd from one that knew him, he was carried to London, and committed Priſoner under the Black Rod, where he, with Nine more Divines, died within a ſhort Time one of another ; and, tis generally believ'd they were all Po. Iſh'd : for one of their Company who ſurviv'd, viz. Mr. Torrington a Miniſter in the ſame Diocels was taken ill at the ſame time with them, and after a tedious Fit of Sickneſs, hardly eſcaped with the Loſs of his Hair, Nails, &c. and other Symptoms of Poiſon. * See a Marginal Note at Mr. Tarlton in Somerſetſhire; and if the Conjecture there be right, Dr. Ankebill was carried up Priſoner to London on board a Ship, and miſerably Uſed as well on the Way to the Ship, as afterwards in the Voyage towards London ; as ſee in Mr. Tarlton's Caſe. Ibid. in the Account of John Coath, inſert this Note againſt * He Lived, * But if he was, as I apprehended him to have been, the ſame Perſon with the Preb. of Salisbury, he died before Nov 28, 1660. p. 73, col. 2, in the Account of Dr. Iſaacs, r. The Infamous Bloudy Decide Court of Juſtice, before which Mr. Norcannt, Sir Hen. Slingsby, and Dr. Hewet were Try'd) who. F. 79, col. 2, l. 31, dele but whether he. l. 32, after Maſterſhip, add but for what Reaſons. p. 84, col. 2, r. H. Fairfax, A. M. p. 91. col. 2, l. 11, from the bottom, r. Jan. 23. p. 92, col. 2. l. 12. r. 1643. p. 94. col. 2, l. 26, r. one. p. 113, col. 2, l. 19, r. Uncomplaiſant. p. 114 col. 2, l. 15, r. Swete. p. 115, col. 1, l. 21, r. Honour. ibid. col. 2, l. 11, from the bottom, r. than. p. 132, col. 2 l. 15, from the bottom, r. ont, as. p. 133, col. 1, l. 15, r. on the. p. 134. col. 1, r. Mauth. Scanner. p. 137, col. 1, r. John Tregonre. p. 143, col. 2, r. —— Hunſley, A. M. Fellowſhip, and Burwell V. in Cambridgſhire, l. 3, 4, from the bottom, dele and Burwell, V. in Cambridgſhire. p. 145, col. 2. l. 13, for of l. to. p. 153, col. 1, r. Helen Queniet. p. 154. col. 1. l. 18 from the bottom, r. I have taken. p. 159. col. 2, l. 25, r. 100. p. 161, col. 2, l. 11, from the bottom, r. Scrimshy. p. 164, col. 1. in the 4th marginal Note r. Biſely. p. 170, col. 1, l. 6, of the 5th marginal Note, r. Jan. 22. l. 27, of the ſame Note, r. 1642. p. 171, col. 1, l. 7, in the Account of Dr. Hilſey, r. 1642. ibid. in the 6th marginal Note r. ſomething p. 172, col. 2, in the 5th marginal Note, for former r. latter, and for latter r. former. p. 174, col. 1, r. Thorly. p. 181, l. 32, of the marginal Note r. expeſs'd it. Ibid. after the Account of Mr. Alton, add Anſcell, Tho. B. D. Gulden-Morden, V. in Cambridgſhire. p. 182, col. 2. l. 1. in the Account of Mr. Alton, r. 1664. p. 183, col. 2. r. Drefwich. p. 184, col. 1, r. Cawent. p. 187, col. 2, l. 1, of the 4th Marginal Note, r. This Place. ibid. begin a Parenthesis before and, l. 4. and end it after Preachers, l. 5. p. 189, col. 1, draw a Line between Rider and Adams, &c. p. 190, col. 1, r. Iſley. col. 2, l. 17, from the bottom, r. 1644. p. 193. col. 1, l. 2, r. Gree. col. 2, l. 6, r. in ipſo. p. 195, col. 2. begin the Ninth Marginal Note, Notwithſtanding that. p 197, col. 1. l. 35, from the bottom, r. been Preſented. col. 2, r. J. Pomſe. ibid. r. Aulefcombe. p. 199, col. 2, r. Southwield. ibid. r. Otton Belchamp.

Digitized by Google

The ERRATA.

P. 201, col. 1, r. Samson upon Wye. p. 204, col. 1, dele the 2*d* and 4*th* Marginal Notes, and infert the 2*d* in the Room of the 4*th* p. 205, col. 2, l. 1, r. Fowlesham cum Thwmithorp. ibid. before Bent, Nicholas, infert Beal, Will. . Cottingham, R. and Paul's Pury, R. p. 206, col. 1, l. 20. r. Forty Shillings. p. 208, col. 2, r. Kuetisfall. p. 212, col. 1, r. Ackworth. l. 217, col. 1, r. Shobrook; In the Margin r. Sutcomb. p. 219, col. 1, l. 23, r. Fail. l. 2, from the bottom, r. about 1644, for, p. 220, col. 1, firſt Marginal Note r. after. col. 2, after the Account of Mr. Crispe, add Culpepper, Will. . Wichling, R. He was afterwards Minister'd by the Charity of his Relations, and dying before the Reſtoration, left a poor Widow and Children. p. 222, col. 1, l. penult. r. the Propagators. p. 223, col. 1, r. Grinfield, l. ult. r. to 1657 one. col. 2, in the 3*d* Marginal Note, r. Street. p. 224, col. 2, l. 3, from the bottom, r. Scrubalous. p. 227, col. 1, l. 29, r. Deſolation. col. 2, dele Cooper, ——, Fridaythorp, &c. and inſert it after Dr. Carter in that Page. p. 228, col. 1, r. Bierthyr-donm. p. 229, col. 2, r. Aminer. p. 230, col. 1, r. Duncon. p. 231, col. 2, l. 14. from the bottom r. after. l. 11, 12, from the bottom, for ſome Commiſſioners for the ſame Crimes, r. Propagators for Inſufficiency, and Reading Common-Prayer. ibid. l. 7, 8 from the bottom, for by Propagators, &c. r. by the ſame Commiſſioners, &c. p. 234, col. 2, r. Dennis, Tho. p. 235, col. 1, r. Garebbibio. p. 237, col. 1, l. 19, from the bottom, r. 81 Years. p. 241, col. 2, l. 32, r. Bradninch, p. 243, col. 1, l. 9, r. Inhumanity. p. 249, col. 2, l. 21, r. Pembroke College. p. 252, col. 1, l. ult. r. could. p. 255, col. 2, in the laſt Marginal Note, r. Rayne. p. 260, col. 1, l. 46, r. 1643. p. 262, col. 1, l. 34, r. She. l. ult. r. Penreth. p. 263, col. 1, r. Stokaintinehead. ibid. r. Trubam. col. 2, r. Mr. Stock. p. 264, col. 1, r. Aſbury-Bubb. col. 2, l. 22, r. Little Holmhmy. p. 265, col. 2, r. Houghaw. p. 271, col. 1, r. Paling. p. 272, col. 1, l. 20, dele Mr. Holway, and r. He. l. 32, dele He, and r. Mr. Holway. p. 274, col. 1, r. Clanfield. p. 275, col. 1, after the Account of Mr. Hilliard, add, Howell, Tho. D. D. Weſt-Horſley, R. in Surrey. p. 276, col. 1, l. 15, r. Hook. col. 2, under Wellmorland, inſert Hutton, Hen. A. M. Long-Newton. R. p. 277, col. 2, in the bottom, r. Llanelwen. p. 278, col. 2, after Mr. John Hughes of Llanſanfryd, inſert, In 1654 one Edmund Hill got Llanſanfryd, and dele it from the Account of Mr. John Hughs of Hyrnant. p. 285, col. 1. under Suſſex, inſert Jermin, Mich. D. D. Elmerton, R. p. 287, col. 2, r. Holne. p. 295, col. 2, l. 7, from the bottom, r. Living with. p. 298, col. 2, r. Selbourn. l. 29, dele John. ibid. after the Account of Dr. Lewis, inſert, Lively, ——, . Crundale, V. p. 299, col. 1, l. 22, r. 1643. p. 301, col. 1, r. Llanllwny. col. 2, r. Fegons. p. 303, col. 1, l. 3, from the bottom r. which. col. 2, l. 24, r. Siſter. p. 306, col. 2, r. Exminſter, V. ibid. r. Mr. Troyte. p. 310, col. 2, l. 5, in the Margin, r. retird. p. 318, col. 2, l. 3, r. in the. p. 320, col. 2 in the Account of Dr. Nicholas, r. Dean, R. and St. Nicholas Hoſpital near Sarum. p. 321, col. 1. Rickhell. p. 326, col. 1, l. 14, r. 1643. p. 327. col. 1, r. St. Mabin. p. 328, col. 1, l. 37, dele Chiſbul. p. 330, col. 1, r. Blumm. ibid. r. Pockle-Church, V. p. 332, col. 1, r. Pickard. col. 2 begin the firſt Marginal Note thus; This Caſe, and one in Cambridgſhire, are the only ones, &c. ibid. r. Heuingham. ibid. after the Account of Mr. Philips, inſert, Peſe, Fran. . Caſtle-Aſhby, R. p. 333, col. 1, l. 1. in the Margin, r. now. p. 336, col. 1, r. Gunner. p. 338, col. 2, l. 18, r. was the ſame Perſon with him that immediately precedes. l. 19, r. and that. p. 339, col. 1, r. Diſcreh. p. 341, col. 1, l. 8, from the bottom r. to the. col. 2, l. 8, from the bottom r. by ſad. p. 346, col. 2, l. 9, r. Stacks. p. 348, after Surrey, inſert Suſſex. ibid. after the Account of Mr. Rogers, inſert Ryves, Bruno, D. D. Maſterſhip of the Hoſpital at Chicheſter. p. 351, col. 1, l. 20 21, r. by the Propagators. p. 353, col. 1, r. Borden. p. 356, for Kempſon, r. Hempſon. p. 358, col. 2, l. 3, from the bottom r. Voted. p. 370, col. 1, l. 13, r. alſo the. l. 9, from the bottom r. with it. l. 2, from the bottom r. Fourteenth. col. 2, l. 31. r. than. p. 371, col. 2, before Dr. Sydenham, inſert Stanton ——, . Ichlingham, . p. 372, col. 1, r. Thorp. V. p. 378, col. 2, r. Oxney. p. 379, col. 2, r. Liverſey. p. 380, col. 1, r. Sylehy. p. 386, col. 1, l. 3, in the Account of Mr. Taylor, r. 1645. p. 391, col. 2, l. 34, r. Deanery. p. 392, col. 2, l. 4. dele And. p. 395, col. 1, r. Minterne. ibid. r. Bordy. p. 396, col. 2, l. 16, from the bottom r. She. p. 397, col. 2, l. 12, in the Margin, r. the Mark. p. 399, col. 1, l. 13, from the bottom, r. 1645. p. 407, col. 2, l. 9, from the bottom r. Farewell. p. 411, col. 1, l. 20, r. 1645. p. 410, col. 1, l. 21, r. he was. l. 23. r. he. col. 2. r. Gillody. p. 425, l. 4, from the bottom, dele all.

The ERRATA in the INDEX of Perſons.

FOR Anſley, T. r. Anſley. after Birdal, Aaron, inſert Birkenhead, John, 98. after Bougben, Edward, inſert Boughton, Steph. 81. after Collins, Daniel, inſert Collins, Sim. 150. for Collet, Will. r. Collier, Will. for Croſſhall, r. Croſhall. after Howorth, ——, junior, inſert Howſon, Nicholas, 123. and then Howſon, Richard, 135. at the firſt Huchenſon, Will. r. 12. at Jennings, ——, r. 123. r. Kingſley, ——, 132. at Knolles, William, r. 85. r. Manbridge. r. Mantas, r. Moyock. r. Penry.

The ERRATA in the INDEX of Places.

PAGE 431, col. 4, r. Clatford. at Eton-School, r. 413. after Furle, inſert Furneux - Pelham, V. 265. at St. Marg. Patens, r. 173. at Selby, r. 367 at Shenfield, r. 166. p. 435, col. 3, r. Shebrooke. ibid. inſert Sidbury, R. 273. at Swillington, r. 339. p. 436, col. 3, r. Withecomb. at Yeoed-Minor, r. 411.

☞ THE different Spellings of many Perſons, and Places, and the frequent Pronunciation of Barb, otherwiſe than they ought to be Spelt, muſt have occaſion'd ſeveral Miſtakes in the Work, not here taken Notice of.

AN

Digitized by Google

A N
ATTEMPT

Towards Recovering an ACCOUNT of the

NUMBERS and SUFFERINGS

OF THE

CLERGY of the Church of England, Heads of Colleges, Fellows, Scholars, &c.

Who were Sequeſter'd, Harraſs'd, &c.

IN THE Late Times of the GRAND REBELLION.

PART I.

The Introduction to the Whole Work.

THE Ninth Chapter of Dr. Calamy's Abridgment of the Life of Mr. Baxter (which was the ſole and only Occaſion of this Undertaking) is wholly ſpent in Accounting for the Numbers, Sufferings and Characters of the 'Miniſters, Lecturers, Fellows of Colleges, &c. who 'were Silenc'd and Ejected (as Dr Calamy ex-'preſſes it) by the Act for Uniformity'; and in making ſuch Reflections on Theſe Sufferings and That Act, as the One and the Other of them do in his Opinion, reſpectively deſerve.

Title of that Chapter.

The Deſign of that Chapter. Abridgm. p. 581. &c p. 486.

The profeſs'd Deſign of the Former Part of that Task, is to enable Poſterity the better 'to 'paſs a Judgment' on that Act for Uniformity, as That of the Latter is, by ſome Remarks and Obſervations, to direct them in forming ſuch a Judgment; which he principally endeavours to determine in an Opinion of its being a very Cruel and Perſecuting Act.

The Uſes which may and have been made of it.

The many and ſevere Reflections which Dr. Calamy, in purſuit of this Deſign, hath paſs'd on that Chiefeſt Part of the Eccleſiaſtical Eſtabliſhment, are not only in themſelves an Open Aſſault upon the Church, but ſhould they be further trac'd out to all the eaſie Deductions and Conſequences, which might (and perhaps were intended to) be made from Them; they would load both the Conſtitution it ſelf, and all the Members of it, with ſuch an Heap of Groſs and Odious Imputations, as could want nothing but Truth, to go a great way in Deterring many People from her Communion.

Nor is this the only Advantage which the Separation may reaſonably promiſe it ſelf from the Abridgment: Other Deſigns were probably in View when it was drawn up; but whether they were ſo or no, it is ſure other Uſes have been made of that Performance, to the no ſmall Detriment and Prejudice of the Eſtabliſh'd Church: For it is well known, that far the greater Part of Mankind are rather diſpos'd to make a Judgment of the Truth of any Principles, from the ſuppos'd Holineſs of Thoſe who profeſs them, than from the Soundneſs and Reaſonableneſs of the Principles in themſelves conſider'd. Add to This, that 'tis the known Character of Thoſe, for whoſe Uſe we muſt ſuppoſe the Abridgment was chiefly intended, to have Mens Perſons in Admiration: And on theſe two Accounts the Peaceable Behaviour of theſe Nonconforming Miniſters, their Meekneſs under Sufferings, their Gifts in Prayer, their Great Abilities, and Painfulneſs in Preaching; and above all, the Holineſs of their Lives, and the many Perſecutions they underwent; notwithſtanding theſe ſingular Endowments (all which are ſet forth at large in the Chapter I am now ſpeaking of, and that too in the Terms and Phraſes wherewith thoſe People delight to expreſs themſelves) have not only been look'd on as great Advantages and Embelliſhments, but as irrefragable Arguments in Favour of the Diſſenting Cauſe; and contributed not a little towards confirming many Perſons in their good Opinion of the Separation.

In return therefore to ſuch an Undertaking, if it can be made appear, that Thoſe who now complain ſo much of Perſecution, never had the Power in their Hands but once, and that the Loyal and Episcopal Clergy did then suffer under them, in far greater Numbers, and in much greater Degrees, (and with many other grievous Circumstances of Aggravation) than Themselves did under the Act of Uniformity; and that good Part of those Sufferings was brought upon them under the Influences, and at the Instigation of some of those very Persons, whose Sufferings are so much complain'd of in the Abridgment: I say, if This can be made appear, it will be plain enough, where the Imputation of Persecution ought to rest; since the Little Finger of These Men was evidently heavier than the Loyns of the Church: and it will perhaps administer some Occasion of Wonder to a considering Person, that a Charge of that Nature should be produced against the Church of England from that Quarter, and especially under the Circumstances of such a Time, as was immediately joyned to Those very Years of Tyranny and Barbarity, which no other Period of our Histories can pretend to Equal. And I am so very confident of what I have now affirmed, that I would gladly put the whole Issue of the Cause betwixt the Church and the Dissenters upon this single Point of Persecution (however loud and clamorous they have made their Complaints of this kind) being well assur'd, that the Former would have the same bright and distinguish'd Superiority over the Latter in this Case, as she plainly hath in all the Others, on which the Controversies betwixt them have hitherto lain.

Digitized by Google

But, in truth, it must be confess'd, that neither the Merits of this Cause, nor of any other of such a Nature, can be determin'd by a Dispute of this kind. For could Dr. Calamy make good the Heavy Charge of Persecution against the Church, neither her Apostolical Government by Bishops, nor her Primitive Liturgy, nor the many other Parts of her Excellent Constitution would in the least be affected by it. Nor would the Maintenance of such a Charge any more Legitimate the Separation, than the Gun-Powder Plot would be an Argument against Transubstantiation, or the Massacre at Paris would prove the Calumnifulness of Invocating the Virgin Mary; and therefore neither on the other hand, do I direct the Account of the Protestant Barbarities, which are the Subject of the following Papers, and fall so little short of the Popish ones now mention'd, to the Support of the Charge of Schism against the Dissenters, but to quite other Purposes; and among them, to That of exposing a Confidence plainly astonishing, which could prevail on those who differ from the Establish'd Church, to accuse Her in such a publick manner, of a Wickedness in which it was notorious, Themselves had so very much Exceeded.

However, although the Imputation of Persecution will not directly affect the Merits of the Cause on either Side, it is notwithstanding a Charge of so high a Nature, as that it may well employ the Labours of either Party to wipe it off. But this, it must be own'd, cannot be done to any effect, by a bare Recrimination; which will never with equal Judges be any more esteem'd a just Defence of any Publick Cause, than it is of any private and single Person. And therefore I shall readily allow, that altho' the Accusation of Persecution could not only be retorted upon the Dissenters, but be returned likewise (as I am fully perswaded it may) even sevenfold into their Bosoms; yet it will not follow, that the Church her self is wholly free from it. Nor can She by any means be acquitted of it, unless we can advance one Step farther, and shew in the next place,

That the Act of Uniformity is neither Answerable for Those Consequences, nor charged with Those Imputations, which are so freely bestowed upon it in that Chapter of the Abridgment; and that neither the Numbers, the Sufferings, nor the Characters of the Persons mentioned in it, were such as They are there represented. And if these Things can be made good, it is to be hoped, that the Judgment which the present, as well as future Generations will make of that Act, may be of another Kind, than what Dr. Calamy hath directed Them to; and that the Separation in the Result will come short of Those Embellishments and Advantages, which it doth already claim, and seems further to have promised it self from that History.

And all this, I am perswaded, will appear in the following Papers, which the Reader cannot but perceive do naturally distribute themselves into Two as concern the Account of our own Numbers, Sufferings, &c. and such as relate to the Examination of Those.

In pursuit of the Former of these, I shall in the first Place, by way of Introduction, account for the several Steps, by which the Party proceeded to the Ruin of the Church; that being the great End to which the Destruction of the Loyal and Episcopal Ministers was but one of the Means, tho' indeed the chief and principal One. The Division of the Whole.

After which, I shall endeavour to give an Account of the several Acts, Ordinances, Commissions, Commissioners, &c. and of the other Vile Methods, which they took in pursuit of their Undertaking of destroying the Clergy of the Establishment. And the rather, because this will not only of it self discover such a Source of Oppression and Inhumanity, as is almost incredible; but will also render the particular Histories of their Sequestration more intelligible.

And because it was wholly impossible at this Distance of Time, to recover a compleat Account of all those many Thousands, who underwent the Fate of Starving and Sequestration, during the Course of the Rebellion; it will, as I judge, be necessary to make a general, but short Inquiry, into the Numbers of Those, who may be supposed to have suffer'd in that kind.

When I have done this, I shall produce a List of the Names and Sufferings of as many particular Persons, as have hitherto come to my Knowledge. That List indeed will fall much short of Those vast Numbers, that did in Fact suffer under these Times, as will appear by the General Enquiries now mention'd: Altho' on the other Hand, it is not so very deficient, but that it far exceeds my own (and, I believe, will much more the Reader's) Expectations; and contains by Name, at least, half as many Thousands, as the Act of Uniformity did really eject Hundreds: With this, and an Appendix of the Curates, &c. I find, I shall be oblig'd to conclude what can be publish'd at present.

But if God shall be pleas'd to give me Life and Opportunity, I judge it will be requisite to subjoyn a second Appendix of the horrid Sacrileges and Prophanations committed on the Cathedrals, and other Churches of the Kingdom, by these Blessed Reformers.

And because the vilest Reproaches were in These Times thrown and from thence transmitted down to ours) on the Established Clergy, as well to render them odious and obnoxious at first, as afterwards to justify their barbarous Usage and Treatment of Them: I presume, it will not be deem'd Unnecessary, to add a Vindication of Them from These wicked Calumnies; especially considering that the Good Providence of God hath not only preserv'd such Memorials of this Kind, as render the Innocence of many of Them more bright and con-conſpicuous than could eaſily be imagin'd after the Lapſe of ſo many Years; and that it is eaſie to make it appear, that no inconſiderable Numbers of Them, were Perſons of ſuch Lives and Learning, as (ſcarce any Church ſince the Firſt Times of Chriſtianity was ever bleſs'd with.

Digitized by Google

And, Laſtly, It will not, as I believe, be unacceptable to the Reader, to have that Miſerable State of Religion (Errors, Hereſies, and Blaſphemies without Number) lee before him, which was the genuine and immediate Conſequence of the Abolishing of Epiſcopacy, and of the Deſtruction of the Regular Clergy.

I thought indeed at firſt to have compriz'd all Theſe in this One Volume; but my Papers (well'd ſo faſt upon my Hands, (as is uſual in ſuch Caſes) the Materials encreas'd ſo much upon me, and the Publick bath waited ſo long already for the Work, that I ſhall be forc'd to content my ſelf with ſtopping ſhort of that Deſign: But purpoſe, by God's Aſſiſtance, to proceed with the reſt of it in ſuch Time and Manner, as his good Providence ſhall enable me.

As to the other Part of the Undertaking, I conceive, the Chapter of the Abridgment, with which I am concern'd, will be fully conſider'd, if in the Firſt Place, I enquire how, and in what Manner, theſe Two Thouſand Perſons mentioned in it, were Ejected; and how many (or rather how few) of them are juſtly Chargeable on the Act of Uniformity.

And when the * Particulars of this Matter ſhall be known, I could almoſt flatter my ſelf, that every unprejudic'd Perſon will be convinc'd, that the Act of Uniformity hath by no means deſerv'd the many ſoul Imputations, which the Abridgment hath ſo plentifully beſtow'd upon it.

* Of which Dr. Calamy was not altogether unadviſed; and therefore in the Entrance of this Chapter (Abridg. p. 121.) he mentions ſomething of this Kind imperfectly and in general, but in the Body of the Life, and the Account of particular Perſons, was fain to very rarely diſtinguiſh as from the Other; and the very Word Ejected, is ſometimes uſed for each of them promiſcuouſly.

And in the next Place, If it be enquir'd, whether the Encomiums which Dr. Calamy hath beſtow'd on that Body of Men in general, and the particular Characters wherewith he had adorn'd the Accounts of very many of them, are as conſiſtent with Truth and Juſtice, as they are with the Deſign which probably was in View; and whether great Numbers of Thoſe, who are wholly paſs'd over in Silence, (the Bare mention of their Names only excepted) were not Perſons of ſuch Characters as Partiality it ſelf could not recommend.

The thorough Examination of the Matters laſt mention'd, will unavoidably oblige him that undertakes it, to make theſe invidious Enquiries; the Thoughts of which, have cr ated me little leſs Trouble, than all the other Parts of the Undertaking put together; and I can hardly ſay, that I am yet fully determin'd in what manner to proceed with this unhappy Part of my Task; but am ſure, I ſhould be very glad, if I could be ſo Fortunate, as to find out any Expedient to evade it; becauſe if I be conſtrain'd at laſt to go through with it, I ſhall be oblig'd to produce ſome Things as ſtrameful, as I believe they are unexpected. And I have often wonder'd with my ſelf, that Dr. Calamy would venture to put any one under ſuch a Neceſſity of enquiring into theſe Matters unleſs he was in great meaſure a Stranger to the Characters of the Perſons, who are the Subject of his Hiſtory, or imagin'd that Time had obliterated the Memorials of them; or that the Abridgment was rubbiſh'd at a Seaſon, when there was no Proſpect of ſuch an Opportunity, as would either Encourage or indeed Permit, any one to make the Search, much leſs to make publick the Reſult of it.

After I have thus ſtated the Matters of Fact on both Sides, and ſet the Hiſtory of them in the cruſt Light I am able; I ſhall moſt willingly, in the Third Place, enter the Liſts with the Abridgment, in a Compariſon betwixt the Sufferings of the Loyal and Epiſcopal Clergy under the Rebellion, and conſequent Uſurpation, and Thoſe of the Diſſenting Miniſters under the Act of Uniformity. And if it appears, that the Latter bear any tolerable Proportion (whether in Number, Degrees, or Circumſtances) to the Former, I ſhall gladly be deem'd my ſelf, (as otherwiſe Dr. Calamy muſt) not only to have loſt all my Labour, but to have reviv'd a great and unanſwerable Scandal (which elſe might in great meaſure have lain aſleep) on the Cauſe, I have undertaken to Defend. After this Compariſon, I ſhall in the Laſt Place, proceed to conſider the Reflections, which Dr. Calamy hath made on that Act, as well Thoſe occaſionally intermix'd with the ſeveral Parts of the Chapter, as thoſe profeſs'd ones contained in the Obſervations at the End of it: But how long it will be before this may ſee the Light (altho' the Materials are already Collected, and God ſhould be pleaſed to continue my Life and Health) I cannot ſay; becauſe the Proſecution of this Deſign hath for ſo long a Courſe of Time (God be Merciful unto me if it be too long) given me ſo many Interruptions, in That of my Ordinary and more Immediate Vocation, that I ſhall be obliged to return to it for ſome Time, with my utmoſt Application. Beſides, that I would willingly be ſet right in ſuch Miſtakes, as I may (or rather muſt) have committed in my own Hiſtory, before I proceed to Correct that of another Perſon.

In the mean time, I now ſet my ſelf to Introduce the Account of the Numbers and Sufferings of the Loyal Clergy in the late Times of the Grand Rebellion, with mentioning the ſeveral Steps by which the Party then proceeded, to the Ruine of the Eſtabliſh'd Church. As previous to which I muſt firſt let the Reader know, that I intend wholly to confine my ſelf within the Times of the Fatal Parliament, which perfected that great Wickedneſs, and not to meddle with any of the preparatory Diſcontents and Factions in the foregoing Years.

The Introduction to the Firſt Part.

Immediately upon the Meeting of the Parliament, November 3, 1640, great Numbers of Petitions were preſented to the Houſe of Commons, (and chiefly I think, on the 9th of that Month) both from particular Perſons, and ſome from Multitudes, and brought by Troops of Horſemen from ſeveral Counties, craving Redreſs of Grievances in Church and State. But tho' ſuch of them eſpecially as related to the Former, were receiv'd by the Houſe with Encouragement; yet Matters were not then Ripe enough for Thoſe, 'who had made in their 'Hearts the moſt Deſtructive Vows, againſt the 'Church,' to 'Communicate their Bloody Wiſhes 'to their beſt Friends, whoſe Authority gave 'them their greateſt Credit.' Inſomuch that no one Leading Man openly avow'd his Intentions of that Kind; and the greater part of them were plainly of another mind. Nor were their own Clergy (whoſe Hands they thus produc'd in great Numbers, to complain againſt Innovations and Ceremonies) of one Mind as to the Matter, or Manner of what they wiſh'd ſhould be alter'd, 'as 'appear'd whenever they came before the Houſe, or Petitions againſt the Church.

Whitl. Mem. p. 36. See alſo Dugd. View, p. 66. and Comp. Hiſt. of Eng. Vol. III. p. 97.

Clar. 1st. p. 183.

Ibid. p. 184.

Digitized by Google

' a Committee, when any of them were ask'd Que' stions they did not expect. And there was a Jest
' Consent among their Lay Friends in Ecclesiasti-
' cal Affairs, than among the others.' So that all the Redeemers and Redeemed of the Party, as the Lord Clarendon expresses it, was as yet Abroad,
' with at any visible Countenance or Approbation
' from the Parliament,' (save the Receiving of the Petitions, as is now said) and ' All seem'd
' Chest within those Walls.'

Vol. I. p. 160.

First Malignity against the Church.

But this Modesty continu'd a very little while: For as the visible Countenance, which the Parliament gave to Petitions from without, encourag'd and encreas'd the Party Abroad; so that Disposition of the People manifestly emboldened and encourag'd the Faction in the House. And accordingly, the Lord Clarendon acquaints us, that the first Malignity that was apparent there, was against the Church; which discover'd it self in their Committee of Religion, in their chearful Reception of the Ministers Remonstrance, and of Alderman Pennington's Petition for the total Extirpation of Episcopacy; of each of which I shall say more by and by. But it must be observ'd, that even then all that could be obtained in Favour of the Famous Petition last mention'd, was, that it should not be Rejected. And as for the Remonstrance, that part of it only, which concerned the Exercise of Ecclesiastical Jurisdiction, was insisted on: Nor did both of Them jointly at that Time, seem to produce any other Effect than a With, ' That ' a Bill might be Framed to Remove the Bishops
' from their Votes in the Lords House, and from a' ny Office in Secular Affairs,' which was afterward accordingly done; and was, saith that Noble Author, ' The first Design that was Entertain'd
' against the Church,' and ' receiv'd in the House
' of Commons with a visible Countenance and Ap-
' probation of many, who were neither of the same
' Principles nor Purposes;' the Reasons of which will appear, when I come to speak of that Bill.

Vol. I. p. 160, 161.

Vol. I. p. 184.

Pryn, Burton, Bastwick, and others Released.

But tho' this might be the first Direct and Formal Attempt, upon the Church, as I understand that Paffage of the Lord Clarendon, yet there were other Precedent edicts of the House, previous to it, which had the Worst and most Ominous Aspect upon the Welfare of the Ecclesiastical Establishment; amongst which, that of Restoring several Stigmatiz'd and other Infamous Offenders against the Church; particularly, recalling Pryn, Burton and Bastwick, from their Banishment, revoking their Sentences; and Those of Mr. Peter Smart, Dr. Alexander Leighton, &c. censur'd severally in the High Commission-Court, Star-Chamber, and some Ecclesiastical Courts, may, I think, be reckoned as one of the Chief.

Clarend. Vol. I. Pag. 158, 159, &c. See Heylin's Ch Hift. L.12. Cent. 17. p. 252 &c.

The Three Former of These had for several Libels been first gently Reprimanded; were afterwards, for their Incorrigibleness, Imprison'd; and at last, for a joynt and ' more Pestilent and Seditious Libel than they had ever before vented,' reflecting with great Licence on the ' Honour of the ' King and Queen, Counsellors and Bishops,' were brought to the Star-Chamber; and behaving themselves with Insolence and Audacity, were given a
' Very Patient and Solemn Hearing, in an ' full
' a Court (saith the Lord Clarendon) as ever I
' saw in that Place, without any Difference in ' Opinion, or Dissenting Voice, censur'd at Seam-
' dalous, Seditious, and Infamous Persons, to lose

' their Ears in two Pillory, and to be Imprison'd in
' several Gaols, during the King's Pleasure:' All which, tho' Ex cuted with Rigour enough, (but not without the Abhorrence of several People) could not Cure their Itch of Libelling; and therefore, that they might not furnish Ink in the City, they were afterwards severally confined; the First, to a Castle in Jersey; the Second, to Guernsey; and the Last to Scilly.

But upon the Encouragement which the Faction had already met with in the House, the Wives of the Two Latter (November the 7th, 1640; if I mistake not) and some Friends of the Former, (as much about (I not at) the same Time, Petition'd the Commons, that their Sentences might be Review'd, and their Persons Remov'd from those Remote Places, to Solicit their Business with more Convenience; which was accordingly Granted, and that same Day an Order was made, to Remove Burton and Bastwick, and two Days after (as I think) another Order for the Removal of Pryn; who together with Burton, Landed at * Southampton, where they were Receiv'd with a vast Concourse of People, cares'd and treated with great Respects, and with Acclamations of the People in That, and all other Towns through which they Pass'd, and conducted into London by above Ten Thousand Persons with Boughs and Flowers in their Hands, and ev'n in the Streets were fitted with them for their Reception. In the same manner, about Five or Six Days after, Bastwick was also receiv'd on his Landing at Dover, and in his Passage to, and Entring of the City. To such an Height of Frenzy was the Fever at then arriv'd in behalf of the Three Persons; neither of whom had any ' Interest or Interest with the worthy Part,
' of their several Professions: Pryn, the Best of them, being a mere Scholar; Bastwick, an ' Half- ' Witted, Crack-Brain'd Fellow'; and Burton, formerly Keeper of the Closet to the King, taking Orders, expected forsooth, to be Clerk of it; but missing that Aim (the Office being continued in Dr. Neyl, Bishop of Durham) he turned Lecturer, and Preached against the whole Order of Bishops, although without any Learning, or Tolerable Parts.

Neal. Collect. Vol. I. p. 499

Clar. Vol. I. p. 160. But Rushworth says Burton and Bastwick were Released by Order of Parliament, Nov. 3. and Landed at Dartmouth, where they Lodged that Night, and next Day for London.

Ibid. p. 158.

Clar. Vol. I. p. 160. But Rushworth says Burton was Examined before the Lords, Nov. 4. and Released by Order of Parliament, Nov. 5.

Clar. Vol. I. p. 161.

It would take up too much Time and Paper, to Recount the several Inscriptions of these Three Libellers: But those of Bastwick were so particularly Monstrous, that I cannot forbear to Transcribe some Passages of them, as well to let the Reader see the Justice of his Sentence, as the black Designs of Those, who could afterwards Revoke it.

In his Answer to the Information exhibited against him by the Attorney-General, he saith, ' Cardinals, Patriarchs, Primats, Metropolitans, and ' Archbishops, Bishops, Deans, and innumerable
' such Vermin, a Number of which Monstrous Body,
' our Hierarchy is, —— never came from God,
' but rather from the Pope and the Devil, Diabolus cacavit illos. —— They are more Disobedient, and
' worse than the Devils, —— Enemies both by
' the Law of God and the Land, to God and the ' King. —— He clofes his Litany with these Words: ' From Plague, Pestilence and Famine,
' from Bishops, Priests, and Deacons, Good Lord
' deliver us.

Neal. Coll. Vol. I. p. 499.

Ibid. p. 501.

In his Letter to the Keeper of the Gate-House he repeats the same thing; and further calls them the little Tares of Antichrist; and desires the Keeper to speak to the Arch-bishop of Canterbury and the Bishop of London, to be Godfathers to his (Bastwick's) Child; adding, ' I ' am most Confident I shall Prevail with the
' Whore of Babylon, their Old Mistress, to
' be Godmother, with whom they have so
' long committed Fornication. And a little after, speaking of the Two Arch-bishops, he saith

Digitized by Google

doth in these Words: 'The Prior of Canterbury 'there William the Dragon, and your Abby- 'Lubber of York that O acle of the North.

P. 502. Ibid.

In another Letter of the same kind, he saith, 'If we look upon the Lives, Actions and Manners of 'the Priests and Prelates of this Age, and see 'their Pride-Fast, Impudency, Prophaneness, Un- 'mercifulness, Ungodliness, &c. one would think 'that Hell were broke loose, and that the Devils 'in Surplices, in Hoods, in Copes, in Rochetts, and 'in four-square Cow-Tuds upon their Heads, were 'come among us, and had besiow us all; Poh! P. 503. 'how they stink! —— The Priests are secundum ordinem Diaboli, 'a Generation of Vipers, proud, 'ungrateful, illiterate Asses —— As many Prelates 'as are in England, so many Vipers in the Bowels 'of the Church and State.

Ibid. And in another Paper; 'I will with a Pen of 'Iron, correspondent to the Iron Age of Prelates, so 'plague the Metropolitically of York and Can- 'terbury, and the Hyperocrisie of all the other 'Prelates, as I will never leave them, till I have 'sent them to the Place where the Two Fulmina 'Belli, Alexander the Great cures Mustard and 'Green Sauce, and where Julius Cæsar plays Plato's 'Rat-Catcher.

I suppose, Plato's.

Whitl. Mem. P. 21. Comp. Hist. of Engl. Vol. III. P. 31.

Even in his very Answer, drawn up with his own Hand to the Indictment, he had these Words; 'The Prelates are Invaders of the King's 'Prerogative Royal, Contemners and Despisers 'of the Holy Scriptures, Advancers of Popery, 'Superstition, Idolatry and Prophaneness: Also 'they abuse the King's Authority, to the Op- 'pression of his Loyalleft Subjects; and therein 'exercise great Cruelty, Tyranny and Injustice: 'And in execution of these impious Performan- 'ces, they shew neither Wit, Honesty, nor Tem- 'perance; nor are they either Servants of God, 'or of the King, but of the Devil; being Ene- 'mies of God, and of the King, and of every 'living Thing that is good. All which the said 'Dr. Bastwick is ready to maintain. Nor could 'his Friends prevail upon him to expunge this 'and other like Passages; insomuch that his Council refus'd to sign it. And to compleat the Outrages of these unparallel'd Libels, the Chief- 'eft of them is dedicated 'To the Sacred Majesty 'of the King.

Clar. Vol. I. P. 158.

From this Specimen, the Reader will easily guess at the Crimes of Bastwick and his Colleagues. But, scandalous as they were, the House (as is now said) not only recalled the Authors of them from their Banishment, but soon after re- solved, that the Proceedings, and the several Sentences relating to them, were 'against Law, 'and the Liberty of the Subject, and void: And accordingly Reversed them, discharged the Fines, Voted that they ought to have Reparation made them by Those who were concern'd in the Cen- sures, and pass'd the Resolve into an Order, on several of the Privy Council-ors, Commissioners and other Officers for that purpose. Besides which, they order'd a Charge to be drawn up against Dr. Heylin, for Promoting the Suit in the Star-Chamber against Pyn; Reftor'd * Pyn to his former Condition in Lincolns-Inn; and in 1644, Order'd an Allowance for the Maintenance of Bastwick and his Wife. In a word, they were all Three acquitted for the Mischief they had done, and set at Liberty, and encouraged to do as much more as they could; which proved after- ward not a little.

In Bastwick's Case, Feb. 22, and 25, and Mar. 2. 1640. Nalf. Coll. Vol. I. P. 779. 780, 781. In Burton's, Mar. 12, the same Year. Id. P. 787, 788; and in Pyn's, Ap. 22. 1641. Id. P. 798, 799. Vol. II. P. 351.

* May 1641. † Whitl. Mem. P. 102.

But tho' these were the principal, they were not the only Offenders in this kind, who (as is before said) about that time found the same Grace from the House.

Peter Smart.

Mr. Peter Smart, one of the Prebendaries of Durham, had for a Seditious Sermon (preached in that Cathedral and other Places, and after Printed) been Censur'd in the High-Commission Court of York, and was committed Prisoner to the Kings Bench. The Discourse was wholly level'd against the Clergy, and the Orders of the Church, and came not very much short of what I have now extracted from Bastwick's Libels: Only in this respect it was more Criminal, that it proceeded from a Clergyman, and from the Pulpit. Notwithstanding which, a Petition was received from him (Nov. 10, 1640, it I mistake not) against Dr. Cosin, as the Author of that Prosecution in the Ecclesiastical Court; and Jan. 22, 164$\frac{1}{2}$, it was Resolved, that the Pro- ceedings against Him in the High Commission Court at York, and his Fine and Deprivation were Unjust, Illegal, and ought not to stand; That he ought to be Reston'd; That Dr. Cosin and his other Prosecutors ought to make him Satisfaction; That Dr. Cosin is guilty of Superstition, &c. and Unfit to be Head or Governour in either of the Universities, or to hold any Ecclesiastical Promotions. Mar. 15, follow- ing he was Impeach'd by Mr. Rous in the House of Lords, at the Instances of this Smart; and * July 22, 1641, the Lords not only in Fact reston'd him to his Prebend of Durham (of which he had been Deprived) but ordin'd him also the Vicaridge of Aicliffe in that Bishoprick, which had then be- come Vacant by the Death of Dr. Carr.

See an Ex- tract of some part of it. Nalf. Collect. Vol. I. P. 518. Also Alle Wood, Ath. Vol. II. P. 11. and for more of this mat- ter of re- wards under the Accounts of Dr. Cosin, in the Church of Peterbo- rough. Nalf. Collect. Vol. I. P. 733, 734, 789.

Ibid. P. 789. where for the Articles at large against him, and Mr. Rous's Speech. * Ibid Vol. II. P. 406.

The like Favours were also bestowed on Dr. Alexander Leighton, a Scotch-man, who in a Book entituled Sion's Plea, Dedicated to the Parliament, had counsell'd them to 'Kill all the 'Bishops, by smiting them under the Fifth Rib; and call'd the Queen a Canaanite and Idolatress; for which he had been Stigmatiz'd by a Sen- tence in the Star-Chamber, his Ears being cut off, his Nose slit; besides which, he was also Fined, and Sentenced to perpetual Imprisonment, and Secured accordingly in the Fleet.

Dr. Leigh- ton. Whitl. Mem. P. 14.

But on his Petition to the Commons (read, if I mistake not, Nov. 9, 1640,) he was in a manner set at Liberty, in order to the Further Prosecuti- on of this his Suit to them. Apr. 21, 1641, the House Resolved, that his Sentence was Ille- gal, and ought to be Revok'd; and that he ought to have Satisfaction made him: Pursuant to which, June 23, following, he was actually Discharged from his Confinement, and afterwards, by the same Persons promoted to the suitable Employ- ment of Prison-Keeper of Lambeth, when that House was turned into a Dungeon for the Rece- ption of the Loyal Clergy and Gentry: In which Office he behaved himself with great Severity.

Nalf. Collect. Vol. I. P. 512, 513. Ibid P. 796. Ibid. Vol. III P. 309.

Besides These, Henry Wilkinson, B. D. of Magd. Hall in Oxford, George Walker, another Seditious Minister, one Smith a Taylor, one Small a Fourth, one Cooper, Rector of Alton in Huntingtonshire a Fifth, and even the Infamous John Lilburn*, had each of them been several- ly censur'd for Factious Practices against the Church, and were all restored to Favour by this Parliament.

Ibid. Vol. II P. 510, 512, 516, 514. Vol. I. P. 512, &c. & Ant. L. I. P. 148.

* See Nalf. Collect. Vol I. P. 512, 513, 514.

See Wood, Ath. Vol. III. P. 307. Nalf. Collect. Ibid P. 709, 710. Vol. II. P. 250, 251, 446, 454 Vol. I. P. 512; &c. & Ant. L. I. P. 148.

Dr. J. Williams, who was soon after made Arch-bishop of York, and Dr. Lambert Osbalde- ston, one of the Prebendaries of Westminster, had render'd themselves Obnoxious, and been Censured likewise; but were about the same time, by the Favour of the House, set at rights again in the Courts. And, in a Word, Nov. 21, 1640, Sir Edward Dering mov'd at the Grand Committee of Religion, to appoint, and impow- er a Select Committee of a Few, 'to discover 'the Numbers of Oppreft Ministers under the 'Bishops Tyranny, for these Ten Years last 'past'; But I do not remember to have met with the Event of that Propotal.

See Fuller's Church-History, and Wood, Ath. Vol. I. P. 974, 975. Clar. Vol. I. P. 274.

Comp. Hist. of Engl. Vol. III P. 99.

Digitized by Google

It is not eafie to imagine the Wound which the Church received from thefe Proceedings: For befides that the Triumphant Entry of Pryn, Burton, &c. was both a Trial and Publication of the Strength of the Fection, the Courts which were thus reproached, and indeed threatned, (as the Event afterwards manifefted) were its chiefeft Guards and Protection, in its outward Condition: The Sentences had been paft'd with the greateft Deliberation, and on the fulleft Hearings; and the Crimes were fo very Flagitious, that it was now plain to every one, nothing could be enterprized againft the Eccleftaftical Conftitution, but what would, at leaft, go Unpunifhed.

Clar. Vol. I. p. 160.

Bifhops difcharged by Factious Miniftters, and the Regular Miniſters by their Parifhioners.

It will readily be believed, that with this Encouragement every Factious and Diſaffected Minifter was prepar'd to diſobey and inſult his Bifhop, and every Schifmatical or Profligate Parifhioner, to do the fame by his Minifter; which accordingly very many of each fort did, and by that means the whole Affair of Church-Government was reduced to perfect Confufion and Diſorder: And as any one of each fort had occafion to apply to the Houſe, or any Committee (as many afterward did) they were fure to be receiv'd with all poſſible Countenance and Favour. Many Inſtances of this kind will appear in the courſe of this Hiſtory, when I come to ſpeak of the Sufferings of particular Clergymen. In the mean time, I go on with obſerving a Farther Miſchief brought upon the Church by this Proceeding;

Reviling the Hierarchy.

Which was, That it abundantly directed the Faction to, and encourag'd them in another of their Methods for the Subverſion of the Hierarchy, namely, that of Reviling it in the moſt odious and abominable manner conceivable. This indeed, had been an Old Practice with them from the Beginning, as it continues to this day; and had, beyond moſt other Methods, contributed to the bringing Matters to the paſs they were then at. It were eaſie to fill Volumes with their ſcandalous and moſt proſtitute Invectives againſt the Church, its Government, Orders, Diſcipline and Service; but there need no other Inſtances, than thoſe of Pryn, Burton, &c. now mentioned. Several Members of the Houſe had indeed taken this Liberty at the Opening of this Parliament, in a moſt unbecoming manner; but now the Mouths of the whole Cry were opened at once; and the meaneſt and moſt inconſiderable Wretches vented all the Rancour againſt the Government and Orders of the Church, that Ignorance and Malice could ſuggeſt. 'From this 'time (ſaith the Lord Clarendon) the Licence of 'Preaching and Printing increas'd to that degree, 'that all Pulpits were freely delivered to the 'Schiſmatical and Silenc'd Preachers, who till 'then had lurk'd in Corners, or liv'd in New-England; and the Preſſes at liberty for the 'Publiſhing the moſt invective, ſeditious, and 'ſcurrilous Pamphlets that their Wit and Malice 'could invent. And a little before, 'That it 'might appear, that what was done within the 'Houſes was agreeable to Thoſe who were with-'out; and that the ſame Spirit reigned in Parliament and People, all poſſible Licence was 'exerciſed in Preaching and Printing any old 'ſcandalous Pamphlets, and adding new to them 'againſt the Church.

Eve Compl. H. & of Eng. p. 97, 98. See alſo his Majeſty's moſt favorable Declaration of Aug. 12, 1642. Husb. Collect. 410 p. 355. Vol. I. p. 160.

P. 157.

Husb. Collect. 410. p. 327. See alſo p. 341.

His Majeſty likewiſe in his Declaration of Aug. 12, 1642, juſtly complains to the like effect, That 'all Licence was given to thoſe lewd 'ſeditious Pamphlets, which deſpiſed the Government both of Church and State; which laid any 'Imputations or Scorns upon our Perſon or Office, and which filled the Ears of all our good 'Subjects with Lies and monſtrous Diſcourſes, 'to make them believe all the Ill of the Govern-'ment and Governours of Church and State; 'Books againſt the Book of Common Prayer, 'and the Eſtabliſh'd Laws of the Land, ſuffered 'without Reprehenſion, to be dedicated to both 'Houſes of Parliament, what ſoever the Rancour 'and Venom of any infamous Perſon could di-'geſt.

And ſo very much did they abound in this Practice, that it is almoſt impoſſible for any one to conceive the inceſſant Reproaches which were caſt upon the Church and Clergy, by the Speeches in, and Petitions &c. the Parliament by the Faction at Elections (of whom more hereafter) violently thruſt into every ſober and honeſt Man's Pulpit, and by their printed Libels by the Preachers themſelves before the Houſe, and by the Cries of the Mobb, and the Cant of their ordinary Converſations; inſomuch that there is more of Hiſtorical Truth than Fiction in thoſe Lines of the Poet,

The Oyſter-Women lockt their Fiſh up,
And trudg'd away to cry No Biſhop.

See the Diſcourſes Sayings in the Introduct. the Clergy: and Dupl. View of the Troubles, p. 166, &c.

If the Reader be the leaſt converſant in the Hiſtory of Thoſe Times, he will be ſatisfied, that it would be as endleſs as it is needleſs, to alledge Particulars of this kind; and therefore let it ſuffice to ſay in general, that ſcarce a Speech was made in Parliament, but the Biſhops and the Church were the chief, if not the only Subject of it; That ſeldom any Petition was preferred, but Ceremonies, Innovations, Superſtition and Popery fill'd the greater part of it; That all the Pulpits ſounded the ſame Echoe; and that Popery, the Maſs in Engliſh, Porridge, (the common Term of Reproach, by which the Liturgy was then known;) that Theſe, I ſay, were in a manner the ſingle Voice of the Rabble: But I forbear launching out into this Ocean, and haſten to the next Step taken by them towards the pulling down the Government of the Church;

See many of theſe in Nall. Coll. paſſim.

Which was, Condemning the New Canons, and offering to punifh the Compilers of them (namely, the whole Convocation) in a Body. What they did in Reſtoring the Offenders before-mentioned, concerned only the Executive Power of the Church, and that too, chiefly in its Civil Rights; but the Attempt I am now to ſpeak of, was not only made upon her Legiſlative Rights, but upon ſuch of them, as were internal and inherent.

Condemning the New Canons and the Convocation.

We muſt take notice, that when the ſhort-liv'd Parliament, which preceded this unhappy one, was diſſolved, the King, by a new Writ, continu'd the Convocation; and by a ſpecial Meſſage, 'Required them 'to proceed in the making of Canons, '&c. This, the Judges, upon a mature Debate in the Preſence of the Council, declared, and gave it under their Hands, they might Legally do: Whereupon they ſet themſelves to the Execution of his Majeſty's Commands in that Matter; framed a Body of New Canons, not only with a general † Calm, but with ſuch Unanimity among the Clergy, that not a ſingle Member of either Houſe at laſt refuſed to ſubſcribe them, Dr. Godfrey Goodman, the Biſhop of Gloucester, who after died a profeſt Papiſt, only excepted; which Canons were for ſeveral Days Reviewed, and Debated at the Council-Table, and at length, with the 'Entire and Unanimous Advice of the Privy 'Council,' regularly confirmed by the King, under the Great Seal of England, the utmoſt our Laws

Clarend. Vol. I. p. 116, 162, 163. See alſo Nall. Collect. Vol. I. from p. 551. to p. 576. and Compl. Hiſt. of Engl. Vol. III. from p. 100, to p. 103. Heyl. Hiſt. of Laud, from p. 194, to p. 419.

Heyl. Hiſt. Laud. p. 415. † And they were after-wards juſtified and Vindicated from Sedition, by the Preſent State of York, without any Exception, &c. p. 419.

See Heyl. Hiſt. Laud. p. 419. Compl. Hiſt. of Eng. p. 102.

re-

Digitized by Google

require; and being Publiſhed, they met with a general Approbation in all Parts of the Kingdom, till about a Month after, ſome Murmurings againſt them (and eſpecially againſt the Oath which they enjoyn'd) began amongſt ſome of the London Miniſters, which were ſoon after followed by others in other-Parts; inſomuch that at laſt the Arch-biſhop thought fit to ſuſpend the Impoſition of that Oath, and iſſued his Circular Letters to the Suffragans of his Province for that purpoſe.

Vol. I. p. 116. It muſt be owned, that the Noble Lord Clarendon obſerves on this occaſion, that the Convocation had no power to enjoin an Oath, nor to give any Subſidy (which they had alſo done) out of Parliament: And therefore the Clamours which the Faction now raiſed, may ſeem better grounded than any of their other Proceedings againſt the Church. But if it be conſider'd, that though the Judges (with whoſe Opinions the Clergy prudently and wiſely enter'd upon this Affair) and the Lords of the Council (who had publiſhed and ex cuted the Canons) were alike involved in the Miſtake; and that notwithſtanding the whole Form fell upon the Church-Men: And if it be further conſider'd, that the Oath (enjoyned by thoſe Canons) oblig'd thoſe who took it, to approve of the Doctrine and Diſcipline of the Church of England, and never to g ve Conſent to alter the Government of it by Archbiſhops and Biſhops, &c. That there were among them ſome ſharp Canons againſt Sectaries, and ſome Additionals in point of Ceremonies; That the Regal Power was aſſerted in ſuch a manner, as was very diſtaſteful to ſome, and very oppoſite to the Deſigns which were then on foot; and that the Six Subſidies of Four Shillings in the Pound then given, were to enable his Majeſty to deal with his Rebellious Subjects of Scotland: I ſay, whoever conſiders theſe things, will eaſily be perſwaded, that their other Miſtakes might have been overlook'd, or they not thus run into thoſe unpardonable ones of providing for the Honour and Security of his Majeſty and the Church.

Heyl. Hiſt. Laud. p. 417.

See Whitl. Mem. p. 33.

But to proceed: It was very ſoon after the Opening of the Parliament, that ſeveral Leading Members of the Houſe made loud Complaints againſt theſe Canons. Dec. 9, 1640, a Committee was appointed to inſpect the Licences, Writs and Warrants of the Convocation. The 13th of the ſame Month the Buſineſs of the Canons was debated; ſeveral virulent Speeches were made againſt them on that, and the following Day; when the Houſe Reſolved, that the Clergy of England, whether in 'Convocation, Synod, or otherwiſe, have 'no power to make any Conſtitutions, Canons, or 'Acts whatſoever in matters of Doctrine, Diſci-'pline, or otherwiſe, to bind the Clergy or Laity 'of this Land, without common Conſent in Par-'liament (notwithſtanding that, as the Lord Clarendon ſubjoyns, 'It was apparent by the Law, 'and the uncontradicted Practice of the Church, 'that Canons had never been otherwiſe made) and that thoſe Canons did 'not bind the Clergy, 'or Laity of the Land, or either of them.'

Compl. Hiſt. of Eng. p. 103.

Naſh. Collect. Vol. I. p. 661.

Id. p. 678, 679. Clar. Vol. I. p. 165.

Ibid.

Decemb. 16. And the next Day re-aſſuming the Debate, they further Reſolved, that they contained Matters contrary to the King's Prerogative, the Fundamental Laws of the Realm, the Rights of Parliament, the Liberty and Property of the Subject, and were Seditious, and of dangerous Conſequence; and that the Benevolence was contrary to Law, and ought not to bind the Clergy. All which Reſolutions were alſo in the ſame Words Voted by the Houſe of Lords June 11, 1641: And the ſame Day the Commons ordered a Committee to draw up a Charge againſt the Arch-biſhop in particular, for being concerned in them; and at laſt made thoſe Canons the Fifth Article of his Impeachment.

Naſh. Collect. Vol. I. p. 806, 807. Compl. Hiſt. of Eng. Vol. III. p. 116.

Ibid. p. 108.

After this, they proceeded to a Bill for Puniſhing and Fining the Members of the Convocations of the two Provinces, purſuant to an Order of July 5, 1641, that the Houſe ſhould conſider of the Puniſhment due to the Convocation for making of the laſt New Canons, and whether they are Perſons fit longer to continue to bear any Office in the Church or Commonwealth. The Fines propoſed were (as 'tis ſaid) to the Value of 200000 l. viz. the Arch-biſhop of Canterbury 20000 l. the Arch-biſhop of York 10000 l. Biſhop Wren 10000 l. the Biſhop of Cheſter 3000 l. the Dean of Canterbury 1000 l. each Proctor 1000 l. &c. This Bill had a Second Reading, and was committed Apr. 27, 1641. When it was firſt read, I know not; but gueſs it was drope, and that another, with ſome Additions, was fram'd; becauſe June the 3*d*, that Year, I find a Bill was read the Firſt time, for making void certain Canons and Conſtitutions Eccleſiaſtical, &c. and for the Puniſhment of ſuch Prelates and others, as were the Framers and Makers of them: But neither did this Bill paſs, as far as I can learn.

Naſh. Collect. Vol. II. p. 266

And, it may be, the reaſon of it was, becauſe they had thought of another Method of puniſhing the Biſhops (who poſſibly were to attone for all the reſt) concerned in compiling thoſe Conſtitutions; and that was, by an Impeachment, which was Reported in the Houſe the Third and Fourth of Auguſt following, and the laſt of thoſe Days ſent up to the Lords. The 13th of the ſame Month, an Addition to the Impeachment was Reported in the Commons Houſe; and Oct. 26, the Impeachment was further debated; when the great Queſtion was, By what Name this New (or rather, No) Crime of the Biſhops ſhould be called? Being, it ſeems, an Offence as yet unknown to the Laws of right Reaſon, the Goſpel, or thoſe of the Land. And it prov'd a matter of ſo much Difficulty, that the Serjeant was ſent to ſummon the Lawyers and others in Weſtminſter-Hall, to attend. Mr. Hollis was for calling (or rather making) it Treaſon: But ſome of the moſt Eminent of the Long Robe anſwer'd, they might as well call it Adultery. At laſt they came to theſe Two Reſolutions, That the Debate ſhould be for that time laid aſide, and That no certain time ſhould be then appointed for Re-aſſuming it.

Ibid. p. 417, 418, 448.

Ibid. p. 496.

The Biſhops thus Impeach'd, were to the Number of Thirteen, viz. the Biſhops of Winchester, Litchfield and Coventry, Glouceſter, Exeter, St. Aſaph, Bath and Wells, Hereford, Ely, Bangor, Briſtol, Rocheſter, Peterborough, and Landaffe; Who Nov. 12, 1641, were put to their Anſwer; which they all delivered in Writing (except the Biſhop of Glouceſter, who pleaded Not Guilty, by Word of Mouth) conſiſting of a Plea and Demurrer, drawn up for them by their Council Mr. Chute, with ſuch ſtrength of Argument and Learning, that from thenceforth their Impeachment ſunk away in Silence.

Ibid. p. 642.

Full. Chur. Hiſt. Cen. 17. Lib. 11. p. 181.

I cannot forbear to add upon this Occaſion, that tho' theſe Canons, which made ſo great a Stir at that time, are now, by a general Conſent, as it were, laid aſide; yet I could never ſee any good Reaſon why they ſhould be deem'd any whit leſs Valid than the Canons of 1603. This, at leaſt, I am ſure of, that it is much to be wiſh'd, either Theſe, or Others like them, were received into our Eccleſiaſtical Conſtitution.

See Comp. Hiſt. of Eng. Vol. III. p. 109. and Heyl. Hiſt. Laud. p. 419.

As to the Convocation which attended this Rebellious Parliament of 1641, it muſt be noted, that upon theſe Proceedings againſt the foregoing Convocation, upon the impriſoning of the Preſi- dent,

Naſh. Collect. Vol. II. p. 284.

Compl. Hiſt. of Engl. Vol. III. p. 104.

Digitized by Google

dent, and ſeizing ſome Members of the Lower Houſe (notwithſtanding their Privilege of Convocation) for other pretended Crimes, the Regular Seſſions broke off. The Biſhops diſcontinu'd their Meeting, and the Lower Houſe by degrees dwindled away.

Comp. Hiſt. of Engl. Vol. III. p. 100, and Heylin's Hiſtory of Presbytery (Second Edition) p. 453.

When the Faction had thus begun to diſarm the Church, and to bind both her Hands, viz. her Ex cutive and Legiſlative Power, it was eaſie to foreſee (and was, no doubt, intended) that ſhe muſt thenceforward lie at the Mercy of every Ruffian who was minded to Aſſault her; or (to uſe the Metaphor of the Pſalmiſt) The Hedges of God's Vineyard being thus broken down, the natural Conſequence muſt be, that the wild Bear of the Foreſt ſhould root it up.

Epiſcopacy Aboliſhed. See this Petition, Nalſ. Collect. Vol. I. p. 661.

Agreeable to which, before the ſhort Remainder of this Year expir'd, a Petition was preſented to the Houſe, complaining of the Government of the Church by Arch-biſhops, Biſhops, Deans, &c. and praying, that the ſaid Government, with all its Dependencies, Roots and Branches may be Aboliſhed. Purſuant to which, a Bill was afterwards brought in; which from the Matter poſſibly, as well as this Expreſſion in the Petition, had then fore the Name of the Root and Branch Bill.

Clar. Vol. I. p. 161. Heyl. Hiſt. Laud. p. 419, 420.

This Petition was preſented Dec. 11, 1640, by Alderman Pennington (attended by ſome Hundreds of the Rabble) in the Name of the City of London; and was alledged to be ſubſcribed by 20000 Hands; but moſt of thoſe who really did ſubſcribe it, were * indigent in Eſtate, and of known Diſaffection to the preſent Government. However, the utmoſt that could be obtained after a long Debate on the Reading of it, was, That it ſhould not be Rejected; and that it ſhould be ſuffered to remain in the Hands of the Clerk of the Houſe, with Direction that no Copy of it ſhould be given.

15000, ſaith Dr. Heylin. * Which I find compla'ned of after alſo in other Places, by ſome of the Petitions preſented in favour of Epiſcopacy.

Nalſ. Collect. Vol. I. p. 79, &c. where ſee thoſe Speeches.

Jan. 12, 164$\frac{0}{1}$, I find a Power given to the Committee of Religion, to take into conſideration the Eccleſiaſtical Courts and Government of the Church, as it is now exerciſed. Whether this Order was made in purſuit of this Petition, or not, I cannot ſay; but it is certain, that Feb. 8, and 9, 164$\frac{0}{1}$, the Debate of it, and of other Church-Matters, was reſum'd; when ſeveral of the Members ſpoke long and largely, as well for, as againſt the Government of the Church. And in concluſion, the Petition was refer'd to a Committee.

Ibid. p. 773.

In the mean time, as this Addreſs to the Parliament had ſounded the Charge, ſo the Enemies of the Eſtabliſhment ſoon concurr'd to give the Onſet; and Petitions flow'd into the Houſe from ſeveral Parts of the Kingdom, jointly complaining of the Church Government, Diſcipline, &c. and requeſting they might utterly be Aboliſhed.

It would be almoſt endleſs to Account for each of thoſe Petitions, and the Virulence expreſt by them againſt the Hierarchy. Let it ſuffice to obſerve, that Feb. 16, 164$\frac{0}{1}$, the Houſe received Bundles of Petitions that had been induſtriouſly prepared againſt Innovations in the Church, and againſt Epiſcopacy it ſelf: That a Petition was publiſhed in the Name of the Apprentices of London (directed to the King) deſiring, among other things, that Prelacy might be rooted up, and that the very Porters petitioned againſt it as a Burthen (ſaith Fuller in his wonted manner) too heavy, even for their Shoulders. In a Word, ſcarce a Day paſt, ſaith the laſt-mentioned Author, without one Petition or other of this kind.

Comp. Hiſt. of Engl. Vol. III. p. 100

Clarend. Vol. I. p. 161.

Ch. Hiſt. Cent. 17. L. 11. p. 185.

Ibid.

But how, and in what manner they were obtain'd, is very well worth Remarking. Not at preſent to obſerve, that they were generally framed by Dr. Burgeſs and his Junto in London, and from thence tranſmitted to their Correſpondents; who, by Perſuaſions and Threatenings, and all the Methods imaginable, procur'd Hands to them; and that great Numbers of the Subſcribers were poor ignorant Fellows, and Perſons of the meaneſt Capacities, as well as Quality: Let us hear what the Noble Lord Clarendon ſaith to this purpoſe. 'It was a ſtrange 'Diſingenuity (ſaith that Noble Lord, ſpeaking 'of Pennington's Petition, and the Miniſters Remonſtrance) 'that was practis'd in procuring 'thoſe Petitions, which continued ever after in 'the like Addreſſes: The Courſe was, firſt to 'prepare a Petition, very modeſt and dutiful for 'the Form, and for the Matter, not very unreaſonable; and to communicate it at ſome 'Publick Meeting; where Care was taken that 'it ſhould be received with Approbation. The 'Subſcription of a ver, few Hands filled the 'Paper it ſelf where the Petition was written; 'and therefore many more Sheets were Annexed for the Reception of the Number, 'which gave all the Credit, and procur'd all 'the Countenance to the Undertaking, when a 'Multitude of Hands was procur'd, the Petition it ſelf was cut off, and a new one Framed 'ſuitable to the Deſign in hand, and Annexed 'to the Long Liſt of Names which were ſubſcribed to the Former. By this means many 'Men found their Hands ſubſcrib'd to Petitions, 'of which they before had never heard; as ſeveral Miniſters, whoſe Hands were to the Petition and Declaration of the London Miniſters before-mentioned, have profeſſed to many 'Perſons, that they never ſaw that Petition and 'Declaration, before it was Preſented to the 'Houſe; but had ſigned another, the Subſtance 'of which was, not to be compell'd to take 'the Oath enjoyn'd by the New Canons: 'And when they found, inſtead of that, their 'Names ſet to a Deſire of an Alteration of the 'Government of the Church, they with much 'Trouble, went to Mr. Marſhall, with whom 'they had entruſted the Petition and their Hands, 'who gave them no other Anſwer, but that it 'was ſtrange that by thoſe who underſtood Buſineſs better than They, that the Latter Petition 'ſhould rather be preferred than the Former. 'And when he found they inter'ded by ſome 'Publick Act to vindicate themſelves from that 'Calumny; ſuch Perſons, upon whom they had 'their greateſt Dependence, were engaged by 'Threats and Promiſes to prevail with them to 'ſit ſtill, and to paſs by that indirect Proceeding.

Vol. I. p. 161. See alſo Dug. Short View, p. 142.

To the ſame purpoſe, Dr. Heylin, ſpeaking likewiſe of Pennington's Petition, and ſome other Enterprizes againſt the Biſhops and their Order, adds, 'And all this ſeconded by many 'Petitions of the like nature, in the Name of 'many whole Counties and populous Cities, 'and in their Names preſented to the Houſes 'of Parliament; though the laid Petitions for 'the moſt part, were never either ſeen or heard 'of by the greateſt and moſt conſiderable Number of thoſe in whole Names they were Subſcribed.

Heyl. of Laud. p. 419.

But moſt obſervable to this purpoſe, are his Majeſty's own Words, in his Declaration of Aug. 12, 1642. 'Their Seditious Preachers and 'Agents are by them, and their ſpecial and parti'cular Directions, ſent into their ſeveral Coun'ties, to infuſe thoſe Fears and Jealouſies into 'the Minds of our good Subjects, with Petiti'ons ready drawn by them for the People to 'ſign, Nalſ. Collect. Vol. I. p. 799.

Hiſt. Collect. p. 536, 537.

Digitized by Google

'sign; which were yet many times by them 'chang'd Three or Four times before the 'Delivery, upon Accidents and Occurrences of either or both Houses: And when many of our poor deceiv'd People of our several Counties have come to our City of London with a Petition to Fram'd, Alter'd and Sign'd, as aforesaid, that Petition hath been suppress'd, and a New one ready drawn, hath been put into their Hands after their coming to Town, (insomuch as few of the Company have known what they petition'd for) and hath been by them presented to One or Both Houses of Parliament; as that of Bedfordshire and Buckinghamshire, which took notice of Matters Agreed on, or Dissented from, the Night before the Delivery; which was hardly time enough to get so many Thousand Hands, and to Travel to London in that Errand'.

His Majesty likewise in his Speech to Both Houses Jan. 25, took express notice of this shameful Method of Procuring and Presenting these, and such like Petitions. Add to this, that some of the Petitioners in Favour of Episcopacy, had the Courage to lay it in their Petitions (which they durst not have done, without the utmost Notoriety of the Fact) complaining of this shameful Practice to the House, as that from Cheshire in particular did; and Sir Thomas Aston, who deliver'd that Petition to the Lords, got one Walker (an early and zealous Libeller for the Cause) and some others, reprimanded by that House for Printing and Dispersing a Forg'd Petition, as in the Name of the County Palatine of Chester, against Episcopacy, and the Liturgy, as Antichristian, &c. And even the Commons Themselves, when (in their Order of Nov. 18, 1641, made to discourage the Petitioners in behalf of the Church-Government) they referr'd it to a Committee to enquire 'what Irregular Ways 'had been us'd to procure Hands to Petitions for E-'piscopacy', could not but for meer Shame, as well as Fashion-sake, add These Words, 'Or 'against it'.

I have before said, That it would be endless to account for the Matter of These Petitions. I shall only here observe, That it was familiar with them (as in truth it was with most of the Writings, Sermons, Discourses, Orders and Resolves of Parliament, and other Publick Acts of these Times) to join Popery and Prelacy together, and sometimes to rank it with every thing else that was odious or detestable; as particularly (in the more advanc'd Times of Usurpation) Jan. 1654, the then Parliament debating the Point of Liberty of Conscience, gravely Resolv'd to allow it to all who should Not maintain Atheism, Popery, PRELACY, Prophaneſs, or any damnable Heresie.

But tho' the Enemies of Episcopacy and the Church Revenues, were thus doubly wicked, as well as busie; yet there were not wanting very great Efforts in favour of the Constitution. It is complain'd indeed, that the Court Clergy were not so Active as they might have been; but some others of the Cathedral Clergy appointed one in each Church to solicit their Friends in this Matter. They drew up likewise a Petition to each House of Parliament; but it was never Formally presented; and retain'd Counsel to plead for 'em before the Parliament.

Dr. Nelson mentions a Petition in behalf of Deans and Chapters, deliver'd by some Divines, Mar. 30, 1641, desiring to be heard upon that Matter. I presume, These Divines were the same with Those here mention'd by Fuller; and that on dropping the aforesaid Petition, This, containing only their Request to be heard, was drawn up: But, be that as it will, the Petition, with much difficulty, got a Reception; and that on This condition only, That the House at the Reading, should not be Resolv'd into a Committee of the whole House; because at a Committee every one hath Liberty to speak as much, and as oft as he pleaseth, to the Matter in Debate; which is not allow'd by the Rules observ'd when they sit as an House.

In the mean time, the Cathedral-Clergy now mention'd, being inform'd, That the Orders of the Commons would not admit any one to Plead for 'em, were not heard by their Counsel; but allow'd, however, to appear, and speak for themselves; which they did May 12, 1641, by the Mouth of Dr. (after Bishop) Hackett, then Archdeacon of Bedford: With whom, as I find by the Parliament-Journals, was also joyn'd Dr. Isaac Bargrave. The * Former of these (who was heard the last of the Two) spoke with so much strength of Reason and Argument, with so much Learning and Courage, that it was not without its Effect on the House; and seem'd to put the Business to a stand for the present (Heyl. Hist. of Laud, p. 446.) and it was thought by some, who pretended to know the Sense of the House, that had the Question been then put, it would have been † carry'd in Favour of the Cathedrals by a very great Majority.

* I do not remember to have met any where with an Account of what was then said by Dr. Bargrave.

† Fuller, third. p. 179.

In the Afternoon Dr. Corn. Burgess spoke to the same Point on the Opposite Side; and after a severe Invective against Those Bodies, came to the same Conclusion with Dr. Hackett, That it was utterly Unlawful to convert these Endowments to the Uses of any private Persons. Tho', to observe that by the way, he afterwards laid out very many Thousand Pounds in the Purchase of those very Cathedral Lands (particularly, the Mannor of Wells, belonging to the Bishop of That See, and the Dean's House there) and publish'd a Treatise to shew it was no Sin or Sacrilege to alienate them.

But These Gentlemen were not the only Friends which the Church met with in this Time of Need. Great Numbers of Petitions were, some severally, some jointly, presented to his Majesty, and both Houses of Parliament, in behalf of the Church-Government, Revenues, and Service; which in several of them were pleaded for with great Learning and Strength of Argument, as well as pray'd for with great Earnestness.

Among These, there was one from each University; One from Cheshire to the Lords, subscrib'd by Four Noblemen, above Eighty Baronets, Knights and Esquires, Seventy of the Clergy, and Six Thousand Freeholders; from Nottinghamshire to the Commons, by One Nobleman, Five Knights, above an Hundred Gentlemen of Quality, all the Clergy, and above Six Thousand Commoners, all Communicants; from Somersetshire to the Lords, by Two Hundred Knights, Esquires and Gentlemen, Two Hundred Twenty one Divines, near Fourteen Thousand Freeholders and others; from Rutlandshire to the Parliament, by about Eight Hundred Knights, Justices, Gentlemen, Freeholders and others, and about Forty of the Clergy; from Cheshire to the King, by Ninety four Lords, Knights, Justices and Esquires, Four Hundred and forty Gentlemen of Quality, and Eight Thousand Nine Hundred Thirty six Freeholders and others, inclusive doubtless of Those who had before subscrib'd the Petition to the Lords; from the Diocess of Exeter, by near Eight Thousand Lords, Knights, Esquires, Gentlemen and others; from Staffordshire

Heyl. Hist. Laud, p. 440.

See also the Oxfordshire Petition, and Clar. Vol. I. p. 310.

Nalf. Collect. Vol. I. p. 795.

Full. p. 655.

Whitl. Mem. p. 592.

Full. Ch. Hist. Cent. 17. L. 11. p. 174, 177.

Collect. Vol. I. p. 794, 795.

Nalf. Collect. Vol. II. p. 80.

* See his Incomparable Speech in his Life by Dr. Plume, prefixt to his Sermons in Folio. See it also extraordinary, Nalf. Collect. Vol. II. p. 240 Full. Ch. Hist. Cent. 17. L. 11. p. 177.

Ibid. Nalf. Collect. Vol. II. p. 240.

Wood, Ath. Vol. II. p. 236. See also Full. in the Pages last mentioned.

See Collection of Petitions of this kind printed in 1642, by his Majesty's Command.

Digitized by Google

shire to the Lords and Commons, by Three Thousand of the best Quality in the County; from Kent, within the Diocess of Canterbury, to the King, Lords and Commons, by Twenty four Barons and Knights, above Three Hundred Esquires and Gentlemen of Note, One Hundred and eight Divines, and Eight Hundred Freeholders and Subsidy-men; from North-Wales to the Commons, by Thirty Thousand Hands; from Lancashire to the King, by Sixty four Knights and Esquires, Fifty five Divines, Seven Hundred and forty Gentlemen, and near Seven Thousand Freeholders; and from Herefordshire to the Lords and Commons, by Sixty eight Knights, Esquires and Gentlemen of Quality, Eight Doctors, One Hundred and fifty Ministers, and three Thousand six Hundred Freeholders and others: Besides which, there was One from Huntingdonshire; One from several Colleges and Halls joyn'd with the Gentlemen of several Counties; One from Cornwall to the King, and another to the Parliament; One from the Assizes in Kent; and One from Oxford County, in which the Number of the Subscribers doth not appear.

So that the Lords, Barons, Knights, Esqrs, Gents. and Gentlemen, amount to almost Six Thousand, and the Freeholders and others, to near Ninty Thousand; (both together to almost One hundred Thousand) and to bring in those subscribed the Petitions, in which the Numbers do not appear, the whole may well be supposed more to exceed One Hundred Thousand.

But tho' the Numbers of the Petitioners were alledged as a ſtrong Argument in favour of the London Petition, theſe vaſtly greater Numbers could carry no weight with them; for inſtead of ſhewing them any Countenance, they rejected them, ſhew'd their Diſpleaſure to all that preſum'd to make them, paſs'd the Order of November the 18*th*, before mentioned, to diſcourage any more Attempts of that Kind, and even complained to his Majeſty in their Remonſtrance of May the 19*th*, for his receiving them; alledging that they were Mutinous and Malignant. To which his moſt Sacred Majeſty, with a juſt Zeal and Reſentment, anſwer'd: 'Have ſo many Petitions '(even againſt the Form and Conſtitution of 'the Kingdom, and the Laws eſtabliſh'd) been 'joyfully receiv'd and accepted; and ſmall Petitions from ſome Grounds be call'd 'Mutinous? Hath a Multitude of Mean, Unknown, Inconſiderable, Contemptible Perſons 'about the City and Suburbs of London, had 'the Liberty to Petition againſt the Government of the Church, againſt the Book of 'Common-Prayer —— and been thank'd for it? 'and ſhall it be call'd Mutiny in the graveſt 'and beſt Citizens of London, in the Gentry and Commonality of Kent, to frame Petitions upon theſe Grounds, and to deſire to be 'governed by the known Laws of the Land, 'not by Orders or Votes of either, or both 'Houſes? —— To ſtir up Men to a Care of 'Maintaining the Diſcipline of the Church, 'upholding and continuing the Reverence 'and Solemnity of God's Service, encouraging of Learning, is Mutiny! Let Heaven and 'Earth, God and Man, judge between us and 'theſe Men.'

See his Majeſty's Declar. of Aug. 12. 1642. Rush. Collect. 4to. P. 555. Compl. Hiſt. of Engl. 120.

It will be neceſſary to obſerve in this Place, that in the Beginning of theſe Tranſactions, his Majeſty, in a Speech to both Houſes, Jan. 25, 164$\frac{2}{3}$, had, among other Things of great Concern, obſerv'd to them, that there were ſome Men, who 'More Maliciouſly than Ignorantly, 'would put no difference between Reformation 'and Alteration of Government: That he would 'willingly and chearfully concur with them for 'the Reformation of all Innovations lately in Church 'and State. And particularly, that if the Churchmen had 'intereſted too much upon the Tem- 'porality, or the Biſhops had any Temporal Au-

Rush. Collect. Vol. I. 735, 736.

'thority inconvenient to the State, and not ſo 'neceſſary for the Government of the Church, and 'upholding Epiſcopal Juriſdiction, he would de-'ſire them to lay it down.' But this was by no means the Reformation the Party intended; and was ſo far from contenting them that left it ſhould ſatisfy moſt other People, (as they had good Reaſon to fear it would) they aſſum'd the Liberty of Printing and Diſperſing a falſe Copy of this Speech, foully Miſrepreſenting his Majeſty's Senſe, and wholly omitting thoſe Paragraphs which mention'd the Reformation of Epiſcopacy, and that which concern'd Triennial Parliaments.

Beſides theſe Petitions now mention'd, the Faction had yet another Method of carrying on the Root and Branch Deſigns: For it muſt be farther remembred, that they brought Verbal as well as written Petitions, and produced great Numbers of Hands in another and leſs innocent manner than by Subſcriptions upon Paper. For after diſperſing the Apprentices Petition, (already remembred) and ſuch other factious Libels, Multitudes of mean People flock'd about Weſtminſter and the Lords Houſe, crying, No Biſhops, No Biſhops. The Train'd-Bands of Weſtminſter and Middleſex were at that Time appointed by his Majeſty as a Guard to the Houſe of Commons; and when this Rabble came down, would not ſuffer them to diſturb the Houſes; but ſome of them preſſing very inſolently to the Door of the Houſe of Lords, their Lordſhips ord'r'd the Guard to be call'd up, and the Earl of Dorſet, then Lord Lieutenant of Middleſex, commanded them to Fire: Whereupon they preſently diſperſ'd. But this was taken ſo heinouſly by the Commons, that they talk'd of accuſing that Lord of High Treaſon, or at leaſt of Impeaching him for ſome former Miſdemeanors; and ſent to the Lords to have the Train'd-Bands diſcharg'd; which was accordingly done. This was a ſufficient Intimation, how much the Commons approv'd of that Tumult; and therefore ſoon after, the Rabble got together in greater Numbers about the Houſe of Lords, crying out, No Biſhops, No Popiſh Lords; and reviled ſeveral of the Lords as they paſs'd by. Whereupon the Lords deſir'd a Conference with the Commons, about joining in a Declaration to ſuppreſs thoſe Inſolencies: The Conference was granted, and reported, but ſoon laid aſide. Hereupon both the Tumults and Inſolencies increas'd to ſuch an height, that they attempted to rifle Weſtminſter-Church. After which, the Lords found themſelves oblig'd to deſire a ſecond Conference with the Commons: But inſtead of granting it, Speeches were made in defence of the Rioters; ſome alledging, that they muſt not diſcourage their Friends; and Mr. Pym declaring himſelf in theſe Words: God forbid, the Houſe of Commons ſhould proceed in any way to diſcharten People to obtain their juſt Deſires in ſuch a Way.

Rush. Collect. Vol. I. p. 761, 764, 805, 806.

In the mean Time, by the Advice of the Judges, a Writ was iſſued under the Great Seal of England, to the Sheriff and Juſtices, to prevent thoſe illegal Aſſemblies; who accordingly appointed Conſtables with ſtrong Watches for that purpoſe. But the Commons ſent for the Conſtables; required them to diſcharge the Watches; reviled the Juſtices; Voted what they had done, a Breach of Priviledge, and ſent one of them to the Tower.

With this Encouragement, all the Factious and Schiſmatical People about the City and Suburbs, not only aſſembled themſelves together as often as they pleaſ'd, but had frequent Meetings, and publick Signs to give Notice of them.

At

Digitized by Google

At one of these Assemblies, an honest Constable appearing to observe what they did, was beaten and dragged in so barbarous a manner, that he hardly escaped with his Life. Whereupon a Writ was legally and regularly issued to the Sheriff, to impanel a Jury to enquire into the Riot; which being complain'd of to the Commons, and it being alledg'd, that they were only Godly and well-affected Men, met together to prepare a Petition against BISHOPS; the House immediately ordered, that the Under-Sheriff of Surrey should not suffer the Inquisition to go on.

See this related by an Malefactor, in his Declaration of Aug. 12. 1642. Husb. Collect. 4to p. 511, 513.

By these Proceedings, the Rabble were animated to the height of Insolence; sometimes in their passage to Westminster, they would make a stand before Whitehall, and cry, No BISHOPS, No BISHOPS, No Popish LORDS. They committed likewise several other Outrages; and their Rage and Fury against the Bishops grew so high, that they threatned to pull down the Lodgings where they lay; offer'd to force the Doors of Westminster-Abbey—assaulted the Persons of some of the Bishops in their Coaches, and laid Hands on the Arch-bishop of York, in that Manner, that if he had not been reasonably rescued, it was believ'd they would have murther'd him.'

Nor could the Lord Mayor put any stop to these Proceedings: Instead of it, his own House was insulted; two of the Rioters were rescued from the immediate Hands of the Sheriff: And, in fine, tho' a Member of the House offer'd to prove that Captain Venn (himself also a Member for London, and the Person who headed the Rabble for Justice against the Earl of Strafford) had wrote to his Wife, as she her self said, 'That in the House of Commons they were together by the Ears, and that the worser Party was like to get the better of the good Party; and therefore desir'd his Friends to come with their Army to Westminster to help the good Party': which upon her industrious sollication was accordingly done. I say, when this was offer'd to be prov'd by a Member, the Witnesses, for Fashion-sake, were order'd to attend; but after many Days waiting, and the utmost Importunity, they could never be heard.

Having thus strengthen'd themselves in their Wickedness, May 17, 1641, they plainly declar'd for Presbytery, by resolving 'That this House doth approve of the Affection of their Brethren of Scotland, in their Desire of a Conformity in the Church Government between the two Nations. And the 20th of the same Month, on the Lords throwing out the Bill to take away the Bishops Votes in Parliament, receiv'd (but did not read till the 27th) a short Bill, 'For the utter Eradication of Bishops, Deans, and Chapters, with all Chancellours, Officials, and all Officers, and other Persons belonging to either of them.'

Comp. Hist. of Eng. Vol. III p. 114.

See Nalf. Collect. Vol. II. p. 247, 248, collat. cum p. 257. Clar. Hist. Vol. I. p. 186, 187.

His Majesty's own Account of this Matter in his Declaration of August 12. 1642. is very observable. 'This was no sooner done, but the Faction (glad of the Miscarriage of the former Bill, the passing whereof they knew would have satisfy'd many of those whom they hoped now farther to seduce) produced a Bill to be tender'd in the House of Commons, for the Abolition of Bishops out of the Church of England, Root and Branch, (according to their first Resolution, as Mr. Pym told a Member of the Lords House, by way of Reproof, That it was not enough to be against the Persons of the Bishops, if he were not against the Function) and for extirpation of all Deans and Chapters, and reducing that admirable Frame of Government, and Support of Learning into a Chaos of Confusion, that out of it they might mould an Utopia; no six of them had, nor, we believe, yet hath agreed upon, farther than to destroy the Present, and cut off the goodly Revenue, which the pious Bounty and Devotion of Former Ages had been so long in raising, for the Encouragement and Advancement of Learning and Religion, and which God hath bless'd with so many Eminent Men, whose Learning and Lives have advanced the Doctrine of the Protestant Religion, and many of them given their Bodies to the Fire, as a Sacrifice to that Truth and Religion, to erect Stipends to their own Clergy, and to raise Estates to repair their own broken Fortunes.'

Husb. Collect. 4to. p. 521.

This Bill was presented by Sir Edward Deering, whose greatest Temptation to it was a pat Application, as he thought, of the two Verses of Ovid,

Cuncta prius tentanda, sed immedicabile vulnus
Ense recidendum est, ne pars sincera trahatur;

For he was otherwise very opposite to the Designs of the Faction. It so happen'd, that he presented it in an irregular manner; which being urg'd as an Argument against the Reading of it, Sir Edward confess'd his Ignorance in Parliamentary Forms; alledg'd that Sir Arthur Hesterigg had just put it into his Hand; and that he had † read no more than the Title of it. But others, and particularly Mr. St. Johns pleaded for the reading of it; because no one could say by the bare Title, what the Bill might be; and that it might confirm Episcopacy with all its Rights, for ought he (tho' in Truth he had himself drawn the Bill) or many others knew: And at length, some out of Curiosity, and others out of worse Designs, being for the Reading; it was accordingly read, but no Question was put thereupon, and so it was laid by, and not call'd for in a † long Time after.

See Nalf. Collect. Vol. II. p. 247, 248, 256.

† Scarcely, saith Nalf. ibid.

† Saith the Lord Clar. Vol. I. p. 188. But Nalf. Collect. Vol. II. p. 257. makes the Bill debated, May 27, on the first Reading; and on a Division carried by a Majority of Thirty two Voices for a second Reading, which is also had the same Day, and was thereupon committed to a Committee of the whole House; and I find the same my self in the Journal.

But one Morning when no other Business was expected to come on besides that of the Pacification, it was call'd for again, had a Second Reading, was committed to a Committee of the whole House; and Mr. Hyde (afterwards the Noble Lord Clarendon) was commanded to the Chair of that Committee, left he should obstruct the Proceedings, by his frequent speaking out of it. But that excellent Person found a Means to make them heartily repent of their Conduct in that Affair; for by his good Management of that Chair, the Committee in the compass of Twenty Days, had made such little Progress towards finishing the desir'd Work, that it ceas'd for the present, and was not again resum'd until the War was actually begun.

Clar. Hist. Vol. I. p. 215, 216.

However the House in those Twenty Days had not lost all their Labour; but were come to several Resolutions, some of which (as I suppose) were these following, namely July 10, 1641, 'That Ecclesiastical Power for the Government of the Church be exercis'd by Commissioners'; the 15th following, 'That Archiepiscopal, and Episcopal Jurisdiction should be exercis'd by themselves'; And (in pursuit of these Two, as I presume) the monstrous one of the 21st of the same Month, That the Dudg. View p. 154.

Members

Digitized by Google

Nalf. Collect. Vol II. p. 415.

Members for every County should ' bring in the ' Names of Nine Persons, who were to be Ecclesiasti- ' cal Commissioners, upon whom the Power of the ' Church-Government should be devolv'd; and ' that NO CLERGY-MAN SHOULD BE OF ' THE COMMISSION'. Sept. 1, 1642, they also Resolv'd, ' That the Government of the Church ' of England by Arch-bishops, Bishops, &c. is a ' great Impediment to Reformation, &c. and pre- ' judicial to the State, &c. of the Kingdom, &c. ' and that the same should be taken away'; having formerly Resolved June 15, that same Year, that Deans and Chapters be utterly Abolish'd.

Their Resolution to perfect which good work, they declar'd the Year following, in the Preamble to the Act profecuted to the King at Oxford, for calling an Assembly. Husb. Collect. p. 142. And in the Ordinance for the same purpose, as it past'd 1643. Scob. Collect. Part 1. p. 42.

I cannot omit taking notice in this place, that whilst this Bill, or some Matters previous to it, were debating before a Committee, it was alledg'd, that Episcopacy was an Enemy to Parliaments, and to the Laws of the Land. In support of this Allegation, a Simple Witness was produc'd, (saying, ' that he heard a Doctor in Divinity of Sussex speak some Words against the Parliament; Ergo—. And that a Bishop had said, he would ' hinder Barons's Prohibition: (Two Button himself was there present, and own'd that he did not do it.) Such miserable shifts were they put upon to compass their Designs: Perice. Und. p. 24.

Whilst these Matters were under Debate, the House usually sate so long, and late, that when the Questions were put, it was observ'd to be commonly very thin of the Church-Members, but well supply'd with those who fought her Ruine: Which occasion'd that memorable Saying of the Lord Falkland, ' That they who ' hated Bishops, hated them worse than the Devil; ' and they who lov'd them, did not love them as ' well as their Dinner'.

Clar. Vol. II. p. 89, 90, 91.

About the latter End of 1642, those who every Day (how unobserv'd soever) attempted something towards rendring Peace more impracticable (knowing no Peace could be safe for themselves, which was so to his Majesty) who likewise well understood, that they could never cope with the King, without the Assistance of their Brethren from Scotland; and as well knew, they could expect no hearty Concurrence from the Scots, without the Alteration of the Government of the Church: These Men, I say, on the Considerations now mention'd, set themselves with marvellous Art and Industry, to get either the Bill I am now speaking of, or † another to the same effect, past the Houses. And in order to it, plainly declar'd to such as were for compelling the King to a Peace, that this was the only way to secure the Scots, and carry that Point: But to others, their most common, and avowed Pretence was, that as they were thinking of making Proposals of Peace to his Majesty, so it was necessary for that end, that they should ask more than they did expect would be Granted. And that therefore (the King loving the Church so well) did they first demand, and then recede from this Project of Root and Branch, that would in all probability, engage him to grant their other Desires.

† The Lord Clarendon says, the first was a very short Bill, and little longer than the Title it self. Vol. I. p. 157. But the Bill which past'd, is a pretty long one. See Husb. Coll. Feb. p. 124.

These were the Methods they took with the Members of their own House: And as for getting it thro' the House of Lords, they obstinately resolv'd never to send any Proposals to the King for Peace, till the Bill had obtain'd their Consent; which by that means (and it could never have gotten it by any other) was at length ob-

To Jan. 1642. tain'd. And in this manner, the Bill making its way through both Houses, was at last, among others, presented to the King at Oxford (in the Treaty held there) for the Royal Assent: Which that they might gain with the more Ease, they had an accurted Stratagem of Hellish Policy, vested by the Bill all the † Bishops Lands in his Majesty's own Person. But the infinite Goodness of God enabl'd that Excellent Prince, according to the Pattern of his Blessed Master, to reject the Tempter with his Bait, wherewith they tempted him to that Horrible Wickedness. Nor did he then, or ever afterwards consent to the Passing of the Bill: Tho' his Majesty was willing to go as far as possible, to redress whatever should have been thought amiss in the Government of the Bishops. And Arch-bishop Williams had in fact brought a Bill into the House of Lords, to regulate that, and other Ecclesiastical Matters; obliging all Bishops to Preach once every Sunday; restraining them from being Justices of Peace; binding them up to Twelve Assistants, to be chosen by the King, Lords and Commons, Four each; and appointing other things, pursuant to the popular Clamours against Want of Preaching, Non-Residence, Pluralities, scandalous Curates, Ecclesiastical Commissions, &c. But this Bill could never ob tain more than One Reading; and soon after came to Nothing; the plain Design of the Faction being utterly to destroy the Whole Frame of the Ecclesiastical Government.

Full Chur. Hist. Cent. 17. Lib. 11. p. 182.

However, tho' they could never get his Majesty to consent with them in the Extirpation of Episcopacy, and of the Cathedral Churches, successful Rebellion did at last give them Power enough (but, God knows, no Authority) to destroy both without him. For, as to the First of them, Oct. 9, 1646, the Lords and Commons in Parliament Ordain'd, ' That the Name, Title, ' Stile and Dignity of Arch-bishop of Canterbury, ' Arch-bishop of York, Bishop of Winchester, ' Bishop of Durham, and of all other Bishops of ' any Bishopricks within the Kingdom of England and Dominion of Wales, be, from and after the Fifth Day of September, in the Year ' of our Lord God 1646, wholly Abolish'd, and ' taken away.' After which, they proceed to vest their Honours, Mannors, Lordships, &c. and all their Charters, Deeds, Books, Writings, &c. in Trustees, ' For the Payment of the just and ' necessary Debts of the Kingdom, into which the ' same hath been drawn, by a War mainly promo- ' ted by, and in favour of the said Arch-bishops, and ' Bishops, and other their Adherents and Depen- ' dents'; as the Preamble to that sacrilegious ' Ordinance sets forth that matter. Pursuant to which, Nov. 16, following, an Ordinance was pass'd for the Sale of their Lands, &c. and to raise 200000 l. by way of Loan, on the joint Security of them, and the Grand Excise; and the Year after, 42000 l. more was borrow'd on the same Fund. And for the Encouragement of the Loans, and of such as should become Purchasers (since few probably, would involve themselves in the Guilt of Sacrilege, without the Temptation of some considerable Advantage) those who had already furnish'd Money, Plate, Horses or Arms on the empty Sound of the Publick Faith, were, on the Advancing of a like Sum more, to be secur'd the Whole of both Sums, out of the more substantial Security of the Bishops Lands, Mannors, &c. And because a guilty Conscience could not but be doubtful and suspicious; to make it as easie as possible, all Purchasers were to have Letters-Patents under the Great Seal of England, for their Grants; and to hold of the King in Fealty only, (and yet surely by vertue of that Tenure, there was not a single Purchaser but forfeited the moment he had his Grant) according to the holding of the Manour of Est Greenwich. For which purpose, the Attorney, or Solicitor-General was Authoriz'd and Required, forthwith on producing the Deeds, &c. by those who had bought, to prepare a Bill of Grant in the usual Form, and the Lord Chancellour Authoriz'd and Required to Pass it. Nor was this all; for their Titles were likewise (if any Suits should be brought) to be defended at the Publick Charge. But the greatest Encouragement of all was, the good Bargains they afforded their Chapmen. The bare Materials

Bid. p. 102.

Bid. p. 114.

Bid. p. 111.

Bid. p. 116.

† But Stile of the Deans and Chapters, to Trustees for the Maintenance of a Preaching Ministry.

of

Digitized by Google

of the Houſes, and the Timber of the Eſtates, being oftentimes worth as much as they paid for the whole Purchafe; as Dr. Bates aſſures us in theſe Words, ſpeaking of the Sale of the Biſhops Lands: Idque vili pretio ſub laſta poſuerint, unde Scitnes innumeri confluxerunt, qui materiâ rudibuſque Palatiorum, & ſilvis exciſis, pretium emptionis ſolventes, prædia ampla & integra mansiones gratis ſere indipiſcuntur. It muſt alſo be further obſerv'd, that by the Ordinance of Nov. 16, 1646, the Aſſembly were to have their Salaries paid 'em out of the Revenues of the Arch-biſhop of Canterbury.

Pleine. Hiſt. p. 50.

Scob. Coll. Part 2. p. 136, 30.

Apr. 30, 1649, the Commons (only) of England, in Parliament aſſembled, proceeded to do the like with the Deans and Chapters, &c. and having ſeriouſly weighed the Neceſſity of raiſing a preſent Supply of Money for the preſent Safety of this Common-wealth — 'do Enact, 'Ordain and Declare, —— That from, and after 'the 29th Day of March, in the Year 1649, the 'Name, Title, Dignity, Function and Office 'of Dean, Sub-dean, Dean and Chapter, Arch-deacon, Prior, Chancellour, Chaunter, Sub-chaunter, Treaſurer, Sub-treaſurer, Succentor, Sacriſt, Prebend, Canon, Canon Reſident or Non-Reſident, Petty-Canon, Vicar, Choral, Choriſters, Old 'Vicars and New, and all other Titles and Offices of, and belonging to any Cathedral, or Collegiate Church, or Chapel in England and Wales, Town of Berwick upon Tweed, and Iſles of Guernſey and Jerſey, ſhall be, and are, 'by the Authority aforeſaid, wholly Aboliſh'd, 'and Taken away'. All their Lands, &c. were veſted in Truſtees to be ſold; and all Leaſes granted ſince the Firſt of December, 1641, (which was Ten Days before Pennington's Petition was Preſented) were made void: So that in that reſpect this Ordinance took place before ever the very Petition on which it was founded, was brought into the Houſe.

P. 18.

The ſeveral other Acts, Ordinances, Orders, &c. (fram'd and publiſh'd in purſuance of thoſe Two Grand ones now mention'd) to new-model the Truſtees and Committees, encourage Purchaſers, remove Obſtructions, regulate the Sales, apply the Money, &c. are too many to be trac'd and enumerated. Many of them were publiſh'd in a Quarto Volume by themſelves in 1649; and the Reader will find moſt of the reſt in the Collections † of Mr. Scobell: Only it will be requiſite particularly to take notice, that altho' this great Work of ſeizing the Patrimony of the Church, was not Perfected until the Rebellion and Uſurpation were ſo far advanced; yet it had been intended from the very Beginning: For beſides what has been already ſaid, it is further obſervable, that about Sept. 1642, a Committee was 'appointed for the Sequeſtration 'of the Lands of Biſhops, and of Deans and Chapters, and of the King's Revenues, to be 'employ'd for the Defence of the Common-wealth.' And the 14th of the next Month it was Reſolv'd, That the Revenues of ſuch Biſhops, Deans, Prebendaries, &c. as had taiſ'd Arms, &c. ſhould be Sequeſter'd; which Reſolution was afterwards made the firſt Part of the Ordinance of April 1, 1643, for the Sequeſtration of the Eſtates of notorious Delinquents (of which I ſhall ſay more her after); and by Virtue of it, together with the Plenitude of Power exercis'd by the Faction, whenever they got it, the Cathedrals were, as I apprehend, in Effect put down long before the Ordinance of April, 1649; namely, as faſt as the Cities where they ſtood, and the Counties in which their Eſtates lay, came under the Dominion of the Parliament: For tho' this Ordinance concern'd theſe Perſons only, who had render'd themſelves Delinquents; yet ſince there were hardly any of the Cathedral Clergy, but what had made themſelves, or were eaſily (according to the Mode of the times) made ſo; and ſince it is obvious to think, that where any of thoſe, whoſe Incomes were under Sequeſtration, happen'd to die, the Profits were not for the future quitted by the Sequeſtrators, for the Uſe of the Succeſſor (if any ſuch was collated by the Biſhops, before their own Order was Aboliſh'd) the Fall of the Cathedrals is plainly to be Dated from that time.

† Part 1. p. 113, 114, 115, 116, 117, 118, &c. 124, 125, 133, 142, 145, 164, 181, 186, Part 2. p. 44, 134, 140. See alſo Huſb. Coll. Fol. p. 941, 942, 943. and Scob. again Part 2. p. 39, 44, 45, 63, 134, 140.

Whitl. Aſtem. p. 60.

The 15*th* Coth. Comp. Hiſt. of Engl. P. III. p. 122. which ſee.

Huſb. Coll. Fol. p. 13.

Several of the more eminent Members of them, were indeed from time to time, taken into Cuſtody, and Sequeſtred by the Commons, or their Committees, as will afterwards appear. And the Sacrilegious Ranſackings, and Plunderings of thoſe Venerable Structures, of which, if God gives me Life, I ſhall Speak more in another Place; began in 1642. In that Year, was Plundered and Defaced Canterbury-Cathedral, as alſo thoſe of Rocheſter, Chicheſter, Winchester, Worceſter, Lincoln, Lichfield, and (if I miſtake not,) that of Briſtol alſo in ſome part. About the ſame time alſo the Cathedrals of Saliſbury and Glouceſter underwent the ſame Fate; and ſome Reformation, as I find, had been made at the Cathedral of Ely, before the End of the following Year. And that Year the Cathedrals of St. Paul and Peterbo ough were prophan'd alſo in a moſt ſacrilegious manner; as was likewiſe that of Exeter much about the ſame time, and the Collegiate Ch. of Weſtminſter. But the Ordinance of Apr. 1, 1643, not being grafs'd when the greateſt part of theſe Outrages were commuted, I do not find that they then ſeiz'd the Revenues and Eſtates of the Cathedrals; but contented themſelves with Plundring and Impriſoning ſome of the principal Members, and Diſperſing many of the reſt; and ſeveral of thoſe Places coming afterwards into his Majeſty's Hands, the Service did not wholly ceaſe; nor were the Doors of all thoſe ſtately Fabricks finally clos'd at that time.

Mere. Burſt. p. 206, 220, 223, 229, 236, 281. See alſo Heyl. Hiſt. of Preſbyt. Edit. 2d. p. 441, 442, 441, &c. Comp. Hiſt. of Engl. Vol. III. p. 118 Dugd. Short View, p. 256, 257, 258, 259, 260. Gunt. Hiſt. Peterb. p. 92. Heyl. Hiſt. Laud. p. 304. Newc. Rep. Eccleſ. Vol. I. p. 4. Heyl. Hiſt. Presby. p. 411. Edit.

Nor can I learn the preciſe times when, nor the Particulars of the manner in which the Committees in the ſeveral Counties (for I take it for granted, that generally ſpeaking, it was done by them) proceeded to ſeize the whole Eſtates and Revenues of theſe Bodies, and the Collegiate Churches, and to poſſeſs themſelves of the Fabricks, except in the following Caſes only; namely, in the Beginning of the War, upwards of 17000 l. which remain'd in the Chamber of London, towards the Repairs of St. Paul's, was Seiz'd by an Order of both Houſes, to carry on the War againſt the King: Moſt of the Materials likewiſe intended for Finiſhing that Work, were turn'd into Money, and apply'd to the ſame purpoſes. And Mar. 12, 1643, the Lord Mayor of London, and Court of Aldermen were, by a like Order of both Houſes, 'appointed 'and authoriz'd to Seize, and Sequeſter into 'their Hands, the Houſes, Rents, Revenues, &c. 'of that Cathedral, and to pay to Dr. Burgeſs 400 l. a Year out of it, for Preaching a Lecture there. And Apr. 17, 1644, 'the Candle-'ſticks, Crucifixes (forſooth) and other Plate, 'that ſtood heretofore upon the Altar', were order'd to be ſold by the Committee at Grocers-Hall, and the Money to be employ'd for the Publick Safety †.

Heyl. Hiſt. Laud. p. 304.

Huſb Coll. Fol. p. 641.

This Part of the Order was afterwards confirmed by an Ordinance to purpoſe, engaging and binding the whole Revenues of this Dean's Houſe to Church for that Payment, and otherwiſe ſecuring that ſo likewiſe the ſame ſhould be to item in ſuch manner, as perhaps the Reader will think, worth his while to ſee. Huſb. ibid.

† Whitl. Aſtem. p. 82. Comp. Hiſt. of Engl. P. III. p. 143.

Digitized by Google

Heyl. Hist. Presb. Ed. 2. p. 412.

Dugd View, p. 194.

Husb. Collect. Fol. p. 758.

Fifty Persons, saith Dr. Heylin (Hist. Presb. Ed. 2. p. 411.) but no more than the Number were mentioned, appear in the Ordinance. Where their more were added afterwards, I know not.

Hist. Presb. Ed. 2. p. 413.

Dr. Stuart's House adjoining to the Church, was afterwards appointed for the Serjeant at Arms. Scob. Collect. Part 2. p. 30

Heyl. Hist. Presb. Ed 2. p. 441.

When they Ravag'd the Collegiate Church of Westminster, they also Seiz'd the Goods, Utensils, &c. belonging to it; which they either Destroy'd, or Plunder'd for the Use of the State. And particularly, Jan. 4, 1644, 'Adorn'd their House 'of Commons with the whole Suit of Hangings, 'which were plac'd in the Choir of that Church, 'and some other taken out of the King's War-'drobe.' And Mar. 18, 1645, they pass'd an Ordinance for Seizing the Revenues of this Church; setting forth in the Preamble, 'that the present 'Dean and Prebends having Deserted their Charge, 'or become Delinquents to the Parliament', they did therefore Ordain, that the Earl of Northumberland, together with about Ten other Lords, and Twenty two Commoners, should be a Committee; and that any Seven, or more of them, should have Authority to 'Order, Direct 'and Dispose of the Rents, Issues and Profits 'belonging to the College or Collegiate Church: 'and to Do, and Execute all other Acts, that 'did any way concern either of them'; Ordaining also 'That the Deans, Prebends and all o-'ther Officers, &c. belonging either to the College 'or Church, who had Absented themselves, or 'were Delinquents, or had not taken the Cove-'nant, should stand, and be Suspended from 'their several Offices and Places, &c. and from 'all manner of Benefit or Profit from them, or 'from the Arrears of them, Mr. Osbaldston 'only excepted'. This Committee, saith Dr. Heylin, found in the College 'a sufficient Quan-'tity of Plate, and some other good Houshold-'stuff, to a very good Value; which was 'so husbanded amongst them, that it was either 'stolen, or sold, or otherwise embezil'd, and 'inverted to the Use of some private Persons.' In the latter End of 1645, (when the City of Hereford came into their Hands) and the Beginning of 1646 the Dignitaries of that Church were Dispossess'd, and their Houses, Revenues, &c. seiz'd by the Committee for that County; as will be said in another Place. In the last mention'd Year, the Cathedral-Church of Carlisle also was purg'd of its Members, and their Estates seiz'd. About the same time it was, as I conjecture, that the Reformation of the Church of Winchester was perfected: For then I find the Bishop's Palace, the Deanery, and Eight Prebends Houses, were pull'd down, and the Material of them sold. And some time before the Fatal Year 1648, the Revenues of Manchester-College had been seiz'd, and the Fellows Driven from it.

But to return to the Act of April 1649. Nov. 5, that Year (in pursuance of this Act, I conjecture) the Chapter-Doors, and the Chests of the College last mention'd, were broken open, and all the Writings taken out, and sent to London; where they afterwards perish'd, to the no small Detriment of the College, when it was Re-establish'd after the Restoration. In the same manner 'tis probable, they proceeded likewise with the Cathedrals, and the other Collegiate-Churches, if, at least, any thing of that kind was left undone at that time. But having no Informations relating to the Proceedings on that Act, I can only assure the Reader, that the Lands, &c. were in fact Sold, or converted by the Commissioners to their own private Uses; but can give him no Particulars relating to these Matters.

It may not be amiss, however, to take notice in this Place, of the vast Sums of Money, which, as it appears by their own Ordinances, they rais'd out of these Revenues; either to carry on, or satisfie the Debts contracted by the Rebellion. The Bishops Lands were propos'd (as is before said) in conjunction with the Excise, for the advancing of 242000 l. by way of doubling, i. e. securing a Sum already due, by advancing another which should be equal to it: And therefore supposing that these Lands bore but the one Moiety, and the Excise the other, the Sum rais'd out of them at that time will be 242000 l. After which, 300000 l. 200000 l. 5000 l. and 2000 l. were severally borrow'd on the Deans and Chapters Lands, and 120000 l. on the Mannors of Rectories, &c. of the Bishops, and Deans and Chapters jointly; each of these Sums likewise in the way of Doubling (and without any other joint Security;) which Sum amounts to 894000 l. and adding to it the 242000 l. the Whole is 1136000. And it is further observable, that when some of the last of these Sums were borrow'd (which was in 1645) it was laid, that the rest had been satisfy'd: So that this Fund had not been Deficient for these Purposes.

It is not improbable, that there were other Sums rais'd upon these same Securities, which I have not yet met with'al, or otherwise; and that some of the Lands might at last continue undisposed of. To which if we add, that the Salaries for such a great Number of Officers as were employ'd, the good Bargains they were forc'd to sell to others, and glad to give to their Friends, or to take themselves, the Arts that were us'd in Sequestrators Accounts, with a long Et cætera; I believe it will not be extravagant to double once more on this Sum, and say, that the Yearly Income of these Estates, &c. whilst they remain'd in their Hands, and the extended Value of them at last, when they were dispos'd of, was not any thing short of 2000000 l. Sterling (and perhaps did much exceed it) exclusive of Appropriations.

For it must be farther noted, that by an Act of June 8, 1649, 'All Tuithes appropriate, Ob-'lations, Obventions, Pensions, Portions of 'Tythes appropriate, Fee-Farm Rents issuing 'out of Tythes of the Bishops, Deans and 'Chapters'; as also the First Fruits and Tenths, were to the Value of 18000 l. per Annum, to be employ'd to the Maintenance of a Preaching Ministry, and to the Augmentation of Small Livings, and 2000 l. per Annum towards the better Maintenance of such Hospitals and Master-ships in the Two Universities, whose Incomes were no sufficient. And by the Additional Act of the Fifth of April 1650, to the Support of such Bishops, Deans, Singing-Men*, &c. as were Destitute of Maintenance, in such Proportion as the Trustees should think fit. In order to this Augmentation, the Commissioners of the Great Seal † for the time being, were to issue th ir Orders to such Persons as the Parliament should Nominate in the several Counties, to find out the Value of all Parsonages, Vicaridges, Benefices, Livings, &c. Pursuant to which, Commissions (if I do not very much mistake) were granted, and Returns made; and great Numbers of their Papers (as I take it) were after the Restoration lodg'd at Lambeth, and by his Grace the present Most Reverend Father in God, the Lord Arch-bishop, bound up together in several Volumes. But what Resolutions they came to about the Augmentations, and how they were paid, I cannot tell. However, if a Judgment may be made from a single Instance, the trouble of getting it, was sometimes more than the Value of the Augmentation. For I have seen several Original Papers relating to an Augmentation of the Vicaridge of Thornton in the County of Devon, out of the Revenues of the Dean and Chapter of Exeter; by which it appears, that Mr. Preston, who solliciteth it, had been turn'd from one Committee to another, and put off from time

See Scob. Collect. Part 2. p. 30, 31, 32.

See what is further said to this purpose from Dr. Bates's Elenchus.

Scob. Collect. Part 2. p. 40. &c.

Not exceeding 100 l. per Annum to each Head. Scob. Collect. Head. p. 111. &c.

* And 80 l. per Annum to the Marg. Professor in Ox. in lieu of the Prebend of Worcester † Scob. Ibid. p. 44.

Digitized by Google

time to time, for the space of some Years; nor do I find, whether he did at last get it settled to his Satisfaction. And as to what concerns the Support to be allow'd to Bishops, Deans, &c. I do not at present remember to have met with a single Instance of such an Allowance, unless the Case of Mr. Spendlow, one of the Prebendaries of Norwich, be such; who was forc'd to attend the Pleasure of one Cawthorn, a Cutler, for the miserable Pittance of Two Shillings Six Pence per Week, to keep him from starving: Nor can I say, what was done in the Augmentation of the Headships of the Two Universities.

See him in that Church.

See Dr Hacket's Speech prefixed to his Life by Dr. Plume.

Thus were the early Structures of our Ancestors (distinguish'd among all the Nations of the World for their Devotion) and the Memorable Monuments of their Piety defac'd and prophan'd; the Patrimony of the Church solemnly set apart, and Consecrated to God with such grievous Execrations on those who should alienate them; and devoted to the Honour of Christ, and his Holy Religion, sacrilegiously torn from the Church, and employ'd to the vilest Ends of a most execrable Rebellion; the daily Sacrifice of Morning and Evening-Prayers throughout the several Dioceſſes of the Kingdom, made to ceaſe; the continual Fountains, from which ſuch conſtant Supplies flow'd to ſo many Thouſands of the Poor, ſtop'd up; and thoſe very Foundations which had Encourag'd and Supported more Learned Champions for the Reform'd Religion, than all other Proteſtant Churches in Europe, dug up as it were from the very bottom, under the Pretence of deſtroying Popery and Superſtition.

I ſhall only add, before I diſmiſs this Head, that to compleat the Reformation, July 13, 1652; I find by one of their own Authors, it was reſerv'd to a Committee, to conſider 'What 'Cathedrals are fit to ſtand, or what to be 'pull'd down; and how ſuch as ſhall be pull'd 'down, may be apply'd to the Payment of the 'Publick Faith.' How they came to eſcape I know not; but have heard that ſome, who inherit their Principles, did, within theſe laſt five or ſix Years, decry the ſparing of them, as a very falſe Step, and the one great Miſtake of thoſe Times; and declar'd, when they have it in their Power again, (of which they had then no unpromiſing Proſpect) they will level them all with the Ground; alledging their Reaſons for it in this Similitude, 'Tear out the Neſts, 'and the Birds can ne'er return.'

See Whitl. Mem. p. 514.

And March 24. 1647. I find a Committee order'd by the Commons, to examine the State of Ely Cathedral, and being in an Ordinance for Selling the Materials, and providing with the Money for maim'd Soldiers, Widows and Orphans.

And October the 16th following, an Order paſſ'd for the Lead of the Cathedral of Worceſter, to be taken off and Sold, which by an Ordinance paſſed in the Houſe of Commons, and ſent up to the Lords, was to be for the Repair of ſome adjacent Churches and Hoſpitals in that City. Whitl. Mem. p. 577, 592.

The Reader will obſerve, that the Account of each of theſe Advances towards pulling down the Eſtabliſhment, is begun with the Time, in which the firſt Remarkable Circumſtance had its Riſe; and is, to avoid Interruption and Confuſion, proſecuted ſeparately to its Period. The London-Petition for the Extirpation of Biſhops, &c. was preſented Dec. 11, 1640; but the tracing it thro' thoſe Ordinances, &c. which completed the Ruin of the Hierarchy, hath led me on a great many Years farther: Through the Courſe of which, many other Projects were ſet on Foot, as well to help on this Great one, as to deſtroy the other Part of the Eccleſiaſtical Conſtitution; to the Account of which I now return from this long Chaſe.

And the moſt Remarkable Attempt upon the Church, which followed neareſt to the Root and Branch Petition, was the Care taken by the Faction, to prevent for the future the taking of ſuch Oaths, and making ſuch Subſcriptions as might engage thoſe concern'd in them, to ſuppport her Service and Doctrines. For this End, Jan. 20, 1641, the Commons (upon a Complaint againſt Subſcriptions in the Univerſity of Cambridge) Reſolv'd, 'That the Statute made 'Twenty ſeven Years ſince, in the Univerſity of 'Cambridge, impoſing upon Young Scholars a '* Subſcription according to the Thirty Sixth 'Canon of 1603, is againſt Law, and the Liber-'ty of the Subjects, and ought not to be impoſed 'upon any Students or Graduats whatſoever.'

——June the 28*th*, 1641, they ordered, That the † ſame Order made concerning Subſcription to Canons for the Univerſity of Cam bridge, ſhall be made for the Univerſity of Oxon; (the Order was likewiſe renew'd Jan. 12*th*, 164‡). They had alſo order'd, May 20*th*, of the ſame Year, 'That no ‡ Miniſter hereafter 'be forc'd to take any Oath at his Induct-'on, but ſuch as ſhall be warranted by Scripture'; a plain Suggeſtion, that the Oath then in being was not ſo.

Oath at the Inſtitutions and Subſcription of Students Vered demo. Nalſ. Collect. Vol. I. p. 732.

* Viz. Acknowledging the King's Supremacy; approving the Common-Prayer Book, and the Thirty Nine Articles.

† Namely, this Order now mentioned, (as I take it) for to doth not ſeem to be exactly Words ed. See alſo Wood. Antiq Lib I. p 351.

‡ Rushw. Collect. Part. II. Vol. I. p. 276.

By this Time the Enemies of the Church were ſo much increas'd, both in Number and Power, that however ſhameleſs it might be, it was not deem'd unſafe for ſome of the Clergy themſelves, openly and avowedly to appear againſt her in a Body; and Jan. * 23, 164‡, Ten or a Dozen Miniſters (of the Church of England, as they ſtil'd themſelves) at the Bar of the Houſe, preſented a Petition, accompany'd with a Declaration of many Sheets of Paper, 'Againſt the 'whole Government of the Church'; it was pretended to be Sign'd by ſeveral Hundreds of the Miniſters of London, and the Countries adjacent; but 'twas indeed a Contrivance of ſome few of them only, and probably of Mr. Marſhal in particular: Thoſe Miniſters had indeed ſign'd a Petition to the Parliament, 'not to be 'compell'd to take the Oath enjoyn'd by the new 'Canons'; and entruſting it in the Hands of the Gentleman now mention'd; that firſt Petition was cut off, and the Hands affixt to this Remonſtrance, of which I am now to ſpeak: It matters not much who the Subſcribers were, (had I been able, as indeed I never was, to recover an Account of them) ſince the whole Declaration was ſuch a plain Forgery: Nor do I know who in particular they were, that contriv'd, or preſented it; only that 'tis probable (as is juſt now ſaid) that Mr. Marſhal was deeply enough concern'd in both: And even as to the Matters which were the Subject of it, I can only gueſs at ſome of them, from the Debates upon this Remonſtrance, and the Reports of ſome of the Heads: And by theſe I find, it concern'd the Church Government; (as the Lord Clarendon hath alſo in General informed us) the Secular Employments of the Clergy; their ſole Power of Eccleſiaſtical Affairs, viz. Ordination and Church-Cenſures; the Greatneſs of the Revenues of Deans and Chapters, the little Uſe, and the Inconveniencies of them.

Miniſters Remonſtrance.

* By Miſtake in Nalſon, (as appears by looking to the Dates often and often) printed the 25th. Char. Vol. I. p. 161. Nalſ. Collect. Vol. I. p. 735.

See what it ſaid before of this Matter, in the Account of the boliſhing of Epiſcopacy.

The Petition of theſe Miniſters was read the Day they preſented it, (which was Saturday) and the Remonſtrance order'd to be read the Monday following. I know not whether that Order was obſerv'd, as to the Day; but when the Remonſtrance was call'd for, one part of it only was 'inſiſted on by them, and 'read in the Houſe; the other Parts were declined by many o' them, and eſpecially or-'der'd to be ſeal'd up by the Clerk, that they 'might be peruſed by no Man.'

Nalſ. Coll. Vol. I. p. 744.

Ibid. p. 748.

February

Digitized by Google

Nalf Coll Vol. I. p. 744. February the 1ſt, I find that part of it which concern'd Church-Government, under Debate; and then it was that Repartee paſs'd betwixt

Ibid. p. 771. Mr. Grimſtone and Mr. Selden, which is known to every Body. It was alſo Feb. the 9th, together with the London-Petition, referred to a Committee. March 9, it was further conſider'd, and the Heads before mention'd were

Ibid. p. 786, 787. Reported, in order to be Debated. The two following Days they Reſolved on the Firſt Head, That the Biſhops ſhou'd be deprived of their Votes in Parliament, &c. That the Clergy

P. 791. ſhou'd be put out of the Commiſſion of Peace, &c. and not many Days after, That they ſhou'd be diſabled from ſerving as Privy-Councellors, or in any Temporal Offices; of all which I ſhall have occaſion to ſpeak hereafter.

However, the Reformation not proceeding as faſt as was expected, December 20, 1641; ſeveral Miniſters intruſted to Solliciť this Petition and Remonſtrance, and Dr. Burgeſs in the Head of them, preſented ano her Petition to the Houſe; in which, after having return'd a Nalf Collect. Vol. I. p. 764, 765, 766. great many fulſom Thanks, for all the Mitchiefs which had been already done the Church, and particularly for Sequeſtring and Imprſoning ſo many of the Principal Clergy, (which they call diſcountenancing unworthy and ſcandalous Miniſters) they pray, That the Conſideration of this Remonſtrance may be re-aſſumed; and withal, that the Uſe of the Liturgy, according to the Rubricks, may be no longer enforced; and that an Aſſembly may be call'd, to conſider of theſe and ſuch-like Matters.

The Gentlemen, who firſt preſented this Remonſtrance, did, as is before taken Notice of, ſtile themſelves Miniſters of the Church of England; and it ſeems plain to me, that ſeveral of

See Nalf. Collect. Vol. I. P. 731. Vol II. p 764. them, if not all, had Preferments in it: So that the Service which the Faction had from them, was no doubt of the higheſt Uſe, in carrying on of their Deſigns againſt the Church; Such as look'd no farther than the outſide of Things, might reaſily imagine, that no Detriment could ever come to the Church, from any Undertaking, wherein ſo many of the Clergy were concern'd: And nothing cou'd be more popular, than for the Houſe to gratify the joint Requeſts of ſo many Miniſters of the Church, which muſt not only help them forward in the Work before them; but gain them alſo the Reputation of Friends to the Church and Clergy: On all which Accounts, the Blow given to the Eccleſiaſtical Eſtabliſhment by theſe Men, was more fatal, than can eaſily be imagin'd: Faithful are the Wounds of a Friend, ſai h Solomon (Pro.27, 6.) Let the Righteous ſmite me it ſhall be a Kindneſs, as the holy Pſalmiſt, (Pſal. 141. 5.) but ſurely in another Senſe than what can be apply'd to this Caſe; that of the Prophet ſuits it much better; Theſe are the Wounds with which I was wounded in the Houſe of my Friends, (Zech. 13, 6.)

I: is with Horrour that I have compar'd this part of the Hiſtory of the Church's Ruin, with the Behaviour of ſome Perſons within theſe few Years, and the wicked Uſe that hath been made of it with the Common People; as if it was impoſſible (becauſe it is indeed monſtrous) that any Clergyman ſhou'd be embarqued in Deſigns deſtructive to the Welfare of the Church: Whereas 'tis plain, we ſee from this Inſtance, that ſuch as had their Orders from her, their Conſciences bound by Oaths to her, their Maintenance in her, by their Habit acknowledging her; and in a Word, ſuch as were to all Intents and Purpoſes (but thoſe of their wicked Hearts) Miniſters of the Church, both ſet on foot, and puſh'd forward the worſt Deſigns againſt her; joined with her moſt implacable Enemies, who told them a fair Story; and proved in the Event a Tool, without which it had been altogether impoſſible to work her Ruin.

Factious Lecturers.

I am ſorry I cannot divert the Eyes of the Reader from ſo unpleaſing an Object; but what follows, diſplays only a new Scene of the ſame Act, wherein the Clergy of thoſe Times had likewiſe a principal Part to play, which very much helped forward the Cataſtrophe; I mean that of offering their Service to preach up Sedition and Rebellion, and thereby enabled the Party to fill every Pulpit (that was not ſupply'd with ſuch an one before) with a Schiſmatical and Factious Lecturer. They firſt began this Practice in and about London; but at laſt extended it to ſeveral other Parts of the Kingdom, eſpecially in the greater Cities and Market-Towns.

It is not eaſy to determine, under what Head to ſpeak of theſe Perſons. As one Deſign of the Houſe in uſing them, was to raiſe an Odium on the Loyal and Conformable Clergy, (by perſuading People they were inſufficient for their ſeveral Charges, without the help of theſe Aſſiſtants) they might be well conſider'd in what I have to ſay of their Attempts upon the Credit and Reputation of the Epiſcopal Miniſters. As they helped to raiſe Factions (for they ſerved in different Capacities) in the ſeveral Pariſhes where they were placed, and to worry the Regular Miniſters of their Livings; they do more properly belong to that Part where I ſhall account for the more immediate Outrages on the Perſons and Preferments of the Clergy; but becauſe the Principal End of their Inſtitution, was to promote Rebellion, and to render their ſeveral Hearers diſaffected to the Church Government and Ceremonies, I chuſe rather to mention them in this Place.

Indeed the whole Clergy of the Faction, were deeply engaged in this wicked Undertaking. The Account which the Lord Clarendon gives of this Matter, is very obſervable:

Hiſt. Vol. II. p. 17, 18, 19. See alſo Diſcourſes Sayings, Part I. p. 12, &c.

' I muſt not forget, (ſays he) tho' it cannot be re-
' membred without much Horrour, that this
' ſtrange Wild-fire among the People, was not ſo
' much, and ſo furiouſly kindled by the Breath of ' the Parliament, as of their Clergy, who both ad-
' miniſter'd Fuel, and blow'd the Coals in the ' Houſes too: Theſe Men having creep'd into,
' and at laſt driven all Learned and Orthodox
' Men from the Pulpits, had, as is before re-
' member'd, from the beginning of this Par' liament, under the Notion of Reformation and ' extirpating of Popery, inſuled Seditious In' clinations into the Hearts of Men, againſt the ' preſent Government of the Church, with many
' Libellous Invectives againſt the State too;
' but ſince the raiſing an Army, and rejecting
' the King's laſt Overture to a Treaty, they
' contain'd themſelves within no Bounds; and
' as freely, and without Controul, inveigh'd
' againſt the Perſon of the King, as they had
' before againſt the worſt Malignant; prophane-
' ly and blaſphemouſly applying whatſoever had ' been ſpoken and declar'd by God himſelf,
' or the Prophets, againſt the moſt wicked and
' impious Kings, to incenſe and ſtir up the ' People againſt their moſt Gracious Sovereign.

Diſcourſes Sayings, Part I. p. 106, &c.

' There are Monuments enough in the Sedition
' Sermons at that Time printed; and in the Me' mories of Men, of others not printed, of ' ſuch wreſting, and perverting of Scripture to
' the odious Purpoſes of the Preacher, that Pious
' Men will not look over without Trembling.
' One rakes his Text out of Moſes's Words,
' in the Thirty Second Chapter of Exodus, and
' the Twenty Ninth Verſe, Conſecrate your ſelves
' to the Lord, even every Man upon his Son,
' and

Digitized by Google

'and upon his Brother, that he may bestow upon you a Blessing this Day: And from thence incites his Auditory to the utmoſt Proſecution of thoſe, under what Relation ſoever of Blood, Neighbourhood or Dependance, who concurr'd not in the Reformation propos'd by the Parliament. Another makes as bold with David's Words in 1 Chron. 22, 16. Ariſe therefore, and be doing: And from thence aſſures them, it was not enough to wiſh well to the Parliament, if they brought not their Purſe, as well as their Prayers; and their Hands, as well as their Hearts, to the Aſſiſtance of it, the Duty in the Text was not perform'd. There were more than Mr. Marſhal, who from the 23d Verſe of the 5th Chapter of Judges (Curſe ye Meroz, ſaid the Angel of the Lord; curſe ye bitterly the Inhabitants thereof, becauſe they came not to the help of the Lord, to the help of the Lord againſt the mighty) preſum'd to inveigh againſt, and in plain terms to pronounce God's own Curſe againſt all thoſe who came not, with their utmoſt Power and Strength, to deſtroy, and root out all the Malignants, who in any degree oppoſed the Parliament.

'There was one, who from the 48th Chapter of Jeremiah, and the 10th Verſe (Curſed be he that keepeth back his ſword from blood) reprov'd thoſe who gave any Quarter to the King's Soldiers. And another, out of the 5th Verſe of the 25th Chapter of Proverbs (Take away the wicked from before the King, and his Throne ſhall be eſtabliſh'd in righteouſneſs) made it no leſs a Caſe of Conſcience, by force to remove the Evil Councellors from the King, (with bold Intimation, what might be done to the King himſelf, if he would not ſuffer them to be remov'd) than to perform any Chriſtian Duty that is enjoyn'd. It would fill a Volume, to inſert all the impious Madneſs of this kind: So that the Complaint of the Prophet Ezekiel might moſt truly and ſeaſonably have been applied; There is a Conſpiracy of her Prophets in the midſt thereof, like a roaring Lion ravening the prey: they have devour'd ſouls, they have taken the treaſure and precious things; they have made her many widows in the midſt thereof.

'It was the Complaint of Eraſmus, of the Clergy in his time, That when Princes were inclinable to Wars, Alius è ſacro ſuggeſto promittit omnium admiſſorum condonationem, alius premittit certam victoriam, Prophetarum voces ad rem impiam detorquent. Tam bellaces conciones audivimus, ſays he. And indeed, no good Chriſtian can, without Horror, think of theſe Miniſters of the Church, who by their Function being Meſſengers of Peace, were the only Trumpets of War, and Incendiaries towards Rebellion. How much more Chriſtian was that Athenian Nun in Plutarch? And how ſhall ſhe riſe up in Judgment againſt thoſe Men; Who, when Alcibiades was condemn'd by the Publick Juſtice of the State; and a Decree made, that all the Religious Prieſts and Women ſhould ban and curſe him; ſtoutly refuſ'd to perform that Office: Anſwering, that ſhe was a Profeſs'd Religious, to pray and to bleſs, not to curſe and to ban? And if the Perſon and the Place can improve, and aggravate the Offence (as without doubt, it doth, both before God and Man) methinks the Preaching Treaſon and Rebellion out of the Pulpits, ſhould be worſe than the Advancing it in the Market; as much as Poiſoning a Man at the Communion would be worſe than Murthering him at a Tavern. And, it may be, in that Catalogue of Sins, which the Zeal of ſome Men hath thought to be the Sin againſt the Holy Ghoſt, there may not any one be more reaſonably thought to be ſuch, than a Miniſter of Chriſt turning Rebel againſt his Prince (which is a moſt notorious Apoſtacy againſt his Order) and his Preaching Rebellion to the People as the Doctrine of Chriſt; which adding Blaſphemy and Pernicacy to his Apoſtacy, hath all the Marks by which good Men are taught to avoid that Sin againſt the Holy Ghoſt.

I might ſubjoin a great Number of Inſtances to the like purpoſe; but ſhall only produce ſome few. Mr. Caſe, in his Sermon before the Commont, 1644, tells them, God is angry; and then makes him thus expoſtulate with them 'Will you ſtrike? Will you execute Judgment, or will you not? Tell me: For if you will not, I will. I will have the Enemies Blood, and ſpoyls too'. And Mr. Marſhall to the Commons in 1641', deliver'd this horrible Paragraph; 'If that Soldier's Heart would not ſtart deliberately, to come into a ſubdued City, and take the little ones upon the Spears point, to take them by the Heels, and beat out their Brains againſt the Wall—— yet if this Work be to revenge God's Church againſt Babylon, he is a bleſſed Man, that takes, and daſhes the little ones againſt the Stones'. And Mr. Leech, another of their Preachers, in 1644, inverts that bleſſed and peaceable Prophecy of the Goſpel-times, in this manner; 'Turn your Plough-ſhares into Swords, to fight the Lord's Battels'. To which let me add that prophane Invitation to the Sacrament, pronounc'd by Mr. Caſe; 'You that have freely and liberally contributed to the Parliament' (that is, to a moſt bloody Rebellion, notwithſtanding what he further ſaith) 'for the Defence of God's Cauſe and the Goſpel, draw near, &c.'

Diſſenters Sayings. Part 2. p. 66.

Ibid. p. 67.

Ibid. p. 83.

Dodg. Short View of the Troubles in Engl. p. 168; Wood. Ath. Vol. II. p 529.

And ſome few Years after, they particularly pointed out the King for Deſtruction. —— 'Neither let your Eyes ſpare, tho' there are great ones that are guilty: The higheſt Court may reach the higheſt Perſon', ſays Mr. Hayrick to the Commons, in 1646. And before That, in 1644, another to the Commons, uſed theſe Remarkable Words, ſpeaking of Prayers: 'This Arrow will find a Joynt in Ahab's Armour: Draw this Arrow, as Jehu did againſt Jehoram, with your full ſtrength; and doubt not but it will in God's time, ſmite our Romiſh Jehoram at the Heart, and ſink him in his Chariot, and Chair of Pride'. So much reaſon was there for the Repreſentation which the Poet in his Hudibras gives of this Matter; namely, that the Alarms to theſe horrid Scenes of War and Bloodſhed, were founded from the Pulpit.

Diſſent. Sayings, Part 2. p. 67.

Ibid. p. 68.

The Inſtances indeed here given, concern only their Exciting the People to War aud Blood. I ſhall therefore add ſome others, which do more immediately regard the Church and her Conſtitutions. Dr. Holmes in his Sermon in 1641, ſaith, '* The Eccleſiaſtical Officers, Ceremonies and Diſcipline, are ſet up by the Pope; and are an Appendix, or Tail of Antichriſt.' Mr. Greenhil, in his Diſcourſe before the Commont in 1643, ſaith thus: '† If Juſtice be at a ſtand, and cannot take hold of Living Delinquents, to keep the Axe from Reſt, let Juſtice be executed on liveleſs Delinquents: Are there no Altars, no high Places, no Crucifixes?

*Tell 'tis ob-ſervable, that in 1649, when this Liberty of the Pulpit had ſufficiently ſerved their own ſeditious purpoſes, they forbad Miniſters to 'teach in their Ser-'mons any 'thing relating to State-Affairs; but only to * preach Chriſtian Sincerity, and ordain'd Penalties to thoſe who ſhould preſume to do otherwiſe.' See Compl. Hiſt. of Eng. Vol. III. p. 177. and the Note above, p. 89.

† Diſſenters Sayings, Part 1. p. 14.

‡ Diſſenters Sayings, Part 2. p. 25.

Mr. Vicars calls the Church Ceremonies 'a ſtinking Heap of Atheiſtical and Romiſh Rubbiſh. 'Throw away the Rubbiſh out with the Lord's Enemies,—— Vex the Midianites, aboliſh the Amalekites

Ib. in 1642.

Ibid.

Factious Lecturers

Rush. Coll. Vol. I. p. 744. February the 1*st*, I find that part of it which concern'd Church-Government, under Debate; and then it was that Reparees pass'd betwixt

Ibid. p. 771. Mr. Grimstone and Mr. Selden, which is known to every Body. It was also Feb. the 9*th*, together with the London-Petition, referred to a Committee. March 9, it was further consider'd, and the Heads before mention'd were

Ibid. p. 786, 787. Reported, in order to be Debated. The two following Days they Resolved on the First Head, That the Bishops shou'd be deprived of their Votes in Parliament, &c. That the Clergy

P. 795. shou'd be put out of the Commission of Peace, &c. and not many Days after, That they shou'd be disabled from serving as Privy-Councellors, or in any Temporal Offices; of all which I shall have occasion to speak hereafter.

However, the Reformation not proceeding as fast as was expected, December 20, 1641; several Ministers instituted to Solicit this Petition and Remonstrance, and Dr. Burgess in the Head of them, presented ano her Petition to the House; in which, after having return'd a Rush. Coll. Vol. II. p. 764, 765, 766. great many fulsom Thanks, for all the Mischiefs which had been already done the Church, and particularly for Sequestring and Imprisoning so many of the Principal Clergy, (which they call discountenancing unworthy and scandalous Ministers) they pray, That the Consideration of this Remonstrance may be re-assumed; and withal, that the Use of the Liturgy, according to the Rubricks, may be no longer enforced; and that an Assembly may be call'd, to consider of these and such-like Matters.

The Gentlemen, who first presented this Remonstrance, did, as is before taken Notice of, stile themselves Ministers of the Church of England; and it seems plain to me, that several of them, if not all, had Preferments in it: So

See Rush. Coll. Vol. I. P. 735. Vol. II. p. 764. that the Service which the Faction had from them, was no doubt of the highest Use, in carrying on of their Designs against the Church; Such as look'd no farther than the outside of Things, might readily imagine, that no Detriment could ever come to the Church, from any Undertaking, wherein so many of the Clergy were concern'd: And nothing cou'd be more popular, than for the House to gratify the joint Requests of so many Ministers of the Church, which must not only help them forward in the Work before them; but gain them also the Reputation of Friends to the Church and Clergy: On all which Accounts, the Blow given to the Ecclesiastical Establishment by these Men, was more fatal, than can easily be imagin'd: Faithful are the Wounds of a Friend, (as h Solomon (Prov. 27, 6.) Let the Righteous smite me it shall be a Kindness, as the holy Psalmist, (Psal. 141. 5.) but surely in another Sense than what can be apply'd to this Case; that of the Prophet suits it much better; Those are the Wounds with which I was wounded in the House of my Friends, (Zech. 13, 6.)

It is with Horrour that I have compar'd this part of the History of the Church's Ruin, with the Behaviour of some Persons within these few Years, and the wicked Use that hath been made of it with the Common People; as if it was impossible (because it is indeed monstrous) that any Clergyman shou'd be embarqued in Designs destructive to the Welfare of the Church: Whereas 'tis plain, we see from this Instance, that such as had their Orders from her, their Consciences bound by Oaths to her, their Maintenance in her, by their Habit acknowledging her; and in a Word such as were to all Intents and Purposes (but those of their wicked Hearts) Ministers of the Church, both set on foot, and push'd forward the worst Designs against her; joined with her most implacable Enemies, who told them a fair Story; and proved in the Event a Tool, without which it had been altogether impossible to work her Ruin.

I am sorry I cannot divert the Eyes of the Reader from so unpleasing an Object; but what follows, displays only a new Scene of the same Act, wherein the Clergy of those Times had likewise a principal Part to play, which very much helped forward the Catastrophe; I mean that of offering their Service to preach up Sedition and Rebellion, and thereby enabled the Party to fill every Pulpit (that was not supply'd with such an one before) with a Schismatical and Factious Lecturer. They first began this Practice in and about London; but at last extended it to several other Parts of the Kingdom, especially in the greater Cities and Market-Towns.

It is not easy to determine, under what Head to speak of these Persons. As one Design of the House in using them, was to raise an Odium on the Loyal and Conformable Clergy, (by persuading People they were insufficient for their several Charges, without the help of these Assistants) they might be well consid'r'd in what I have to say of their Attempts upon the Credit and Reputation of the Episcopal Ministers. As they helped to raise Factions (for they served in different Capacities) in the several Parishes where they were placed, and to worry the Regular Ministers of their Livings; they do more properly belong to that Part where I shall account for the more immediate Outrages on the Persons and Preferments of the Clergy; but because the Principal End of their Institution, was to promote Rebellion, and to render their several Hearers disaffected to the Church-Government and Ceremonies, I chuse rather to mention them in this Place.

Indeed the whole Clergy of the Faction, were deeply engaged in this wicked Undertaking. The Account which the Lord Clarendon gives of this Matter, is very observable:

Hist. Vol. II. p. 17, 18, 19. See also Dissertation Sayings, Part I. p. 10, &c. Part II. p. 82, &c. p. 118, &c. Digitized Short View, p. 366, &c.

'I must not forget, (says he) tho' it cannot be remembred without much Horrour, that this 'strange Wild-fire among the People, was not to 'much, and so furiously kindled by the Breath of 'the Parliament, as of their Clergy, who both ad- 'minister'd Fuel, and blow'd the Coals in the 'Houses too: These Men having creep'd into, 'and at last driven all Learned and Orthodox 'Men from the Pulpits, had, as is before re- 'member'd, from the beginning of this Parliament, under the Notion of Reformation and 'extirpating of Popery, infused Seditious In- 'clinations into the Hearts of Men, against the 'present Government of the Church, with many 'Libellous Invectives against the State too; 'but since the raising an Army, and rejecting 'the King's last Overture of a Treaty, they 'contain'd themselves within no Bounds; and 'as freely, and without Controul, inveigh'd 'against the Person of the King, as they had 'before against the worst Malignant; prophane- 'ly and blasphemously applying whatsoever had 'been spoken and declar'd by God himself, 'or the Prophets, against the most wicked and 'impious Kings, to incense and stir up the 'People against their most Gracious Sovereign.

'There are Monuments enough in the Sedition 'Sermons at that Time printed; and in the Me- 'mories of Men, of others not printed, of 'such wrestling, and perverting of Scripture to 'the odious Purposes of the Preacher, that Pious 'Men will not look over without Trembling. 'One takes his Text out of Moses's Words, 'in the Thirty Second Chapter of Exodus, and 'the Twenty Ninth Verse, Consecrate your selves 'to the Lord, even every Man upon his Son, 'and

'and upon his Brother; that he may beſtow upon you a Bleſſing this Day: And from thence incites his Auditory to the utmoſt Proſecution of thoſe, under what Relation ſoever of Blood, Neighbourhood or Dependance, who concurr'd not in the Reformation propos'd by the Parliament. Another makes as bold with Davia's Words in 1 *Chron.*22,16. Ariſe therefore, and be doing: And from thence aſſures them, it was not enough to wiſh well to the Parliament, if they brought not their Purſe, as well as their Prayers; and their Hands, as well as their Hearts, to the Aſſiſtance of it, the Duty in the Text was not perform'd. There were more than Mr. Marſhal, who from the 23d Verſe of the 5th Chapter of Judges (Curſe ye Meroz, ſaid the Angel of the Lord; curſe ye bitterly the Inhabitants thereof, becauſe they came not to the help of the Lord, to the help of the Lord againſt the mighty) preſum'd to inveigh againſt, and in plain terms to pronounce God's own Curſe againſt all thoſe who came not, with their utmoſt Power and Strength, to deſtroy, and root out all the Malignants, who in any degree oppoſed the Parliament.

'There was one, who from the 48th Chapter of Jeremiah, and the 10th Verſe (Curſed be he that keepeth back his ſword from blood) reprov'd thoſe who gave any Quarter to the King's Soldiers. And another, out of the 5th Verſe of the 25th Chapter of Proverbs (Take away the wicked from before the King, and his Throne ſhall be eſtabliſh'd in righteouſneſs) made it no leſs a Caſe of Conſcience, by force to remove the Evil Councellors from the King, (with bold Intimation, what might be done to the King himſelf, if he would not ſuffer them to be remov'd) than to perform any Chriſtian Duty that is enjoyn'd. It would fill a Volume, to inſert all the impious Madneſs of this kind: So that the Complaint of the Prophet Ezekiel might moſt truly and ſeaſonably have been applied; There is a Conſpiracy of her Prophets in the midſt thereof, like a roaring Lion ravening the prey: they have devour'd ſouls, they have taken the treaſure and precious things; they have made her many widows in the midſt thereof.

'It was the Complaint of Eraſmus, of the Clergy in his time, That when Princes were inclinable to Wars, Alius è ſacro ſuggeſto promittit omnium admiſſorum condonationem, alius promittit certam victoriam, Prophetarum voces ad rem impiam detorquent. Tam bellaces conciones audivimus, ſays he. And indeed, no good Chriſtian can, without Horror, think of theſe Miniſters of the Church, who by their Function being Meſſengers of Peace, were the only Trumpets of War, and Incendiaries towards Rebellion. How much more Chriſtian was that Athenian Nun in Plutarch? And how ſhall the rife up in Judgment againſt thoſe Men; Who, when Alcibiades was condemn'd by the Publick Juſtice of the State; and a Decree made, that all the Religious Prieſts and Women ſhould ban and curſe him; ſtoutly refus'd to perform that Office: Anſwering, that ſhe was a Profeſs'd Religious, to pray and to bleſs, not to curſe and to ban? And if the Perſon and the Place can improve, and aggravate the Offence (as without doubt, it doth, both before God and Man) methinks the Preaching Treaſon and Rebellion out of the Pulpits, ſhould be worſe than the Advancing it in the Market; as much as Poiſoning a Man at the Communion would be worſe than Murthering him at a Tavern. And, it may be, in that Catalogue of Sins, which the Zeal of ſome Men hath thought to be the Sin againſt the Holy Ghoſt, there may not any one be more reaſonably thought to be ſuch, than a Miniſter of Chriſt turning Rebel againſt his Prince (which is a moſt notorious Apoſtacy againſt his Order) and his Preaching Rebellion to the People as the Doctrine of Chriſt; which adding Blaſphemy and Perfidacy to his Apoſtacy, hath all the Marks by which good Men are taught to avoid that Sin againſt the Holy Ghoſt.

I might ſubjoin a great Number of Inſtances to the like purpoſe; but ſhall only produce ſome few. Mr. Caſe, in his Sermon before the Commons, 1644, tells them, God is angry; and then makes him thus expoſtulate with them: 'Will you ſtrike? Will you execute Judgment, or will you not? Tell me: For if you will not, I will. I will have the Enemies Blood, and yours too.' And Mr. Marſhall to the Commons in 1641, deliver'd this horrible Paragraph; 'What Soldier's Heart would not ſtare deliberately, to come into a ſubdued City, and take the little ones upon the Spears point, to take them by the Heels, and beat out their Brains againſt the Wall——yet if this Work be to revenge God's Church againſt Babylon, he is a bleſſed Man, that takes, and daſhes the little ones againſt the Stones'. And Mr. Leech, another of their Preachers, in 1644, inverts that bleſſed and peaceable Prophecy of the Goſpel-times, in this manner; 'Turn your Plough-ſhares into Swords, to fight the Lord's Battels'. To which let me add that prophane Invitation to the Sacrament, pronounc'd by Mr. Caſe; 'You that have freely and liberally contributed to the Parliament' (that is, to a moſt bloody Rebellion, notwithſtanding what he further ſaith) 'for the Defence of God's Cauſe and the Goſpel, draw near, &c.'

Diſcourſes Sayings, Part 2. p. 66.

Ibid. p. 63.

Ibid. p. 65.

Dodg. Short View of the Troubles in Engl. p. 168. Wood, Ath. Vol. II. p. 529.

And ſome few Years after, they particularly pointed out the King for Deſtruction. ——'Neither let your Eyes ſpare, tho' there are great ones that are guilty: The higheſt Court may reach the higheſt Perſons', ſays Mr. Hayrick, to the Commons, in 1646. And before That, in 1644, another to the Commons, uſed thoſe Remarkable Words, ſpeaking of Prayers: 'This Arrow will find a Joynt in Ahab's Armour: Draw this Arrow, as Jehu did againſt Jehoram, with your full ſtrength; and doubt not but it will in God's time, ſmite our Romiſh Jehoram at the Heart, and ſink him in his Chariot, and Chair of Pride'. So much reaſon was there for the Repreſentation which the Poet in his Hudibras gives of this Matter; namely, that the Alarms to theſe horrid Scenes of War and Bloodſhed, were founded from the Pulpit.

Diſſent. Soyings, Part 2. p. 67.

Ibid. p. 68.

The Inſtances indeed here given, concern only their Exciting the People to War and Blood. I ſhall therefore add ſome others, which do more immediately regard the Church and her Conſtitutions. Dr. Holmes in his Sermon in 1641, ſaith, '* The Eccleſiaſtical Officers, Ceremonies and Diſcipline, are ſet up by the Pope; and are an Appendix, or Tail of Antichriſt.' Mr. Greenhil, in his Diſcourſe before the Commons in 1643, ſaith thus: '† If Juſtice be at a ſtand, and cannot take hold of Living Delinquents, to keep the Axe from Reſt, let Juſtice be executed on liveleſs Delinquents: Are there no Altars, no high Places, no Crucifixes?

The 'tis obſervable that in 1619, when this Liberty of the Pulpit had ſufficiently ſerved their own ſeditious Purpoſes, they forbad Miniſters to teach in their Sermons any thing relating to State-Affairs, but only to preach Chriſtian Sincerity, and ordain'd Penalties to thoſe who ſhould preſume to do otherwiſe.' See Compl. Hiſt. of Eng. Vol. III. p. 177. and the Note above, p. 63.

* Diſſenters Sayings, Part 1. p. 14.
† Diſſenters Sayings, Part 2. p. 15.

Mr. Vicars calls the Church Ceremonies 'a ſtinking Heap of Atheiſtical and Roman Rubbiſh. Throw away the Rubbiſh out with the Lord's Enemies,—— Vex the Midianites, aboliſh the Amalekites

Ib. in 1624.

Ibid.

Digitized by Google

'malicious; let Popery find no favour, —— nor 'Prelacy, because it is Tyrannical', saith Mr. Coleman to the Commons in 1643. 'The Hierar- Ibid. 'chy is become a fretting Gangrene, and spreading 'Leprosie, insupportable Tyranny; up with it; up 'with it to the Bottom, Root and Branch, Hip 'and Thigh; abrogate these Amalekites, and let their 'Place be no more found', saith he in the same Sermon. 'How many dumb Devils are now casting out 'of many Parishes in the Land?' said Mr. Bond Bid. Part 2. in his Sermon before the Commons in 1644. 'Down p. 13. 'with Baal's Altars, down with Baal's Priests,' saith Mr. Salway in his Sermon before the Com- Ibid. p 42. mons in 1643. 'It is better to see People lie wel- 'lowing in their Blood, rather than Apostatizing 'from God, embracing Idolatry and Superfli- 'tion. ——Leave not a Rag that belongs to Po- 'pery, ——Away with it Root and Branch, Head 'and Tail,' saith Mr. Marshal in his Sermon to Part 2 p. 56. both Houses in 1643. 'Let us take hold of 'the Pillars of the Church of Dagon, of the Tem- 'ple of Antichrist, and say, now let me die with 'Antichrist, Rome and Babylon,' saith Mr. Bond in 1644.

As plentiful and liberal also were they in their Invectives against the Persons of the Clergy; which I shall have another Occasion of producing hereafter. It would be much easier to Add, than to Omit many more Instances of the like kind: And so strange was the Vehemence and Warmth of that Enthusiastick Spirit of Rebellion which actuated these Men; that it frequently hurry'd them into Nonsence, and sometimes Blasphemies, in recommending this wicked Cause to their Auditories; of which I shall also alledge some Particulars; when I have Pers. Undec. p. 15. first observed in general, that it was a 'frequent 'Pulpit Title for the House of Commons, to call 'them The House of Gods, and The House of mo- 'tal Gods.'

There was a Sermon licens'd, and printed in Dissat. Ser- 1645, in which is this Triumph: 'O give mons, Part 2. 'Thanks unto the Lord; for he is gracious, and p. 56. 'his mercy endureth for ever; who remembred 'us at Naseby, for his mercy endureth for ever; 'who remember'd us in Pembrokeshire, for his 'mercy, &c. who remember'd us at Leicester, for 'his mercy, &c. who remember'd us at Taunton, 'for his mercy, &c. who remember'd us at Bri- Ibid. p. 65. 'stol, for his mercy, &c. 'Honourable Patriots, 'Christ is gone out with his triumphing Army, 'conquering, and to conquer: And if you want 'Arms, or Money, or Horse for their Accomo- 'dation, God is the great Landlord of Heaven 'and Earth. Art thou then God's Tenant, and 'dost own him Knights Service, and Plough 'Service; and doth he want thine Horse, and 'shall not he have it?' saith Mr. Trefdale to the Commons. One Robinson, in his Prayer on a Dugd. Short Fast-day at Scarborough, in 1643, delivers him- View. p. 369. self thus: 'O God, O God, many are the Hands 'lifted up against us, but there is one God! He is 'thou thy self, O Father, who dost us more Ibid. 'mischief than th'y all.' And Mr. Evans, Preacher at St. Clement's without Temple-Bar, thus expostulated with God: 'O Lord, when wilt thou take 'a Chair, and sit among the House of Peers? 'And when, O God, when I say, when wilt 'thou Vote among the honourable Commons?' Ibid. p. 369. And in his Sermon of Sept. 29. 1643, before the Earl of Essex, he thus beseeches the People: 'Beloved, can you fight the Soldiers? I say, 'the Soldiers, who have spent their Blood for 'Christ, as Christ did for them; even their own 'Precious Blood, in God's Cause at Newberry?' Ibid. A Lay Preacher at Basingston near Basbing, in his Prayer utter'd this Ralphenny; 'We know, 'O Lord, that Abraham made a Covenant, and 'Jacob and David made a Covenant, and our 'Saviour made a Covenant; but thy Parlia- 'ment's Covenant is the greatest of all Co- 'venants.' In which, however, he was exceed- ded by Mr. Bond at the Savoy; who from the Pulpit exhorting the People to assist in bringing in the Scots, said, 'I say, this is God's Cause; 'and if our God had any Cause, this is it; and Ibid. 'if this be not God's Cause, then God is no God 'for me; but the Devil is got up into Hea- 'ven.'

I am perfuaded, any considerate Person who did not know the Event, would imagine, that Doctrines of Blood and Blasphemy so abhorrent from the Temper of the Gospel, must have created a great Detestation of their Men in all their Hearers: But in fact it was quite otherwise. So much was the Infatuation and Delusion of those Times, that the Influence of their Ministers and Lecturers had upon the People, was little less strange than the Doctrines themselves. It is too well known to every one, how the Women by their Harangues were perfuaded to part with their Thimbles and Bodkins in this righteous Cause, and that the Blessed Parliament, was the Term which they had instructed all People in their common Discourse to call them by. But the following Instances (which are an abundant Proof of this matter) may not be so commonly known. Colonel Ascel, who was afterwards Smith's Ser. executed, declar'd, that himself 'with many Vol. I. p 233. 'more, went to that execrable War with such a 'controuling Horror upon their Spirits, from 'those Sermons, that they verily believ'd they 'should have been accursed from God for ever, 'if they had not acted their Part in that dismal 'Tragedy; and heartily done the Devil's Work, 'being to effectually call'd and commanded to it 'in God's Name.' And the Author of Pers. Undec. observes, that the 'Religious Faith the P. 18. 'People then had, of the Reports of their New 'Gods, as Pulpits call'd the House of Commons, 'so far perfect's'd a Gentlewoman, us'd to their 'Lectures, that she durst not in Conscience 'take Physick without an Order of Parliament 'from the House of Commons.

However, tho' the Confederacy was, as is now said, general amongst their Clergy, yet the Lecturers were an Engin, which the Parliament did in a particular Manner ply upon the Church, with their own immediate Hand. Feb. 22. 1643, Nalf. Collect. on the Petition of the Inhabitants of St. Pe- Vol. I. 770. ter's in Norwich, the House Resolved, 'That 'the Bishop of Norwich, in Inhibition to him, † If Inhi- 'Cause to preach in his own Parish-Church, bition was, 'void, and that every Minister preach in his Mr Rush- 'own Parish-Church, to sifteen o'clock. June worth, Part 'the 14, 1643, then Ordered, 'That the Deans and 1. Vol. I. 'Chapters of all Cathedrals in general, be enjoin'd p. 434. adds 'and injoin'd to suffer the Inhabitants to have free from Corbet. 'Liberty to have a Sermon preach'd in their 'Cathedrals, every Sunday in the Afternoon.' July 12th following, they order'd, that in Nalf. Collect. all Parochial Churches, where there is no Part II. p 184. Preaching in the Afternoon, 'If the ‡ Parishioners ‡ Ministers, 'will Maintain a conse mable Lecturer at their it is in Nalf. 'own Charge, the Parson or Vicar shall give way but doubtless 'to it, unless he will preach himself': And Sep- has granted. tember 6, that since Year, they order'd fur- Orrick, if I ther, that it should be Lawful for the Parti- mistake not, shioners of any Parish, 'to set up a Lecturer, before I 'and to maintain an Orthodox (in the same have made 'Sense as conformable before, that is, a Solri- one of the 'ous) Minister at their own Charge, to preach Journals. 'every Lord's Day, where there is no Preaching, Nalf. Collect. 'and to preach on Days in every Week, where there Part II p 477. 'is no Weekly Lecture.' What Confusion and Disorder this must occasion, is easily to be seen at a Time when when People were by so many other Means taught to Disobey their Spiritual Guides, is eafy to guess, and will af erwards appear in many Inftances: About this Time I find a great many Petitions prefented to the Houfe for Lecturers; and this Order was, I prefume, grounded on fome of them. But notwithftanding thefe general Powers given to their well-affected Friends, the Parliament received likewife great Numbers of Petitions to this purpofe afterwards, and did themfelves nominate Lecturers to very many Places; particularly, Mr. Cafe to St. Martin's in the Fields; Mr. Marfhal to St. Margaret's Weftminfter; Mr. John Durant to Sandwich; one Vincent to St. James's in Dover; Dr. Lyndal, Dr. Chefter, Mr. Palmer, Rotherham, Denne, Symms, Afpden, King, Ecclet, Sedgwick, Cummen, Tomlin, Worsley, Tung and Bedford, (each in his turn) to Hitching in Hertfordfhire; one Gundy at Martock in Somerfetfhire; John Allen to St. Thomas in Southwark; John Bowyer to Dageftham, and afterwards to Barkin, both in Eflex; Marmaduke James, and Edmund Broom to St. Peter's-Cornhill; one Pack to St. Dunftan's in the Weft; Mr. Tombs to a Church in Briftol; Walter Bridges to St. Olave's Hart-ftreet; fome others, whofe Names I do not find, to Farnham in Surrey (on Market-Days); to Rygate in the fame County; to Alfford in Kent, and to Walden in Eflex; they alfo Recommended one Fifher to Leyton in Bedfordfhire; Henry Maffy and William Ellifon to Kirby-Lonfdale in Weftmorland; Brian Wetherall and George Fenn to Frifingfield in Suffolk; Robert Everdine to Everdine in Kent; Richard Bethury to Oundle in Northamptonfhire; George Kendall to Hemfted in Hertfordfhire; William Greenhil and Jer. Burroughs to Stepney; one Roe to Middhurft in Suffex; and order'd one Symmons to Andover; Phil. Goodwin to Pinner in Middlefex; Nathan Gyles to Pilton in Devon; one Betts to Brainford; Brocket to Befingftoke; Mr. Afh to St. Bride's; Evans to Broxbourn; Edward Bright to Goodhurft in Kent; Green to Barnftham; Bader to Cherfey in Surrey; Symfon to St. Dunftan's in the Eaft; Edwards to Iflworth in Middlefex; Batchelor to Eaftbourn; Tutchin to Bridport; and feveral others: All which occur in the Parliament-Journals about thefe Years. Nothing was more frequent in the Petitions of thofe Times, and in the Orders of the Parliament themfelves, than to call thefe Men Godly, Learned, and Orthodox Miniters, tho' the Lord Clarendon faith of them, (fpeaking of th s very Matter) 'I am confident there was not from the beginning of this Parliament, one Orthodox or Learned Man recommended by them to any Church in England'; but on the contrary, by this Means, 'all Pulpits were ftuff'd with their Seditious and Schifmatical Preachers': And this will eafily be believ'd, when it is further known, that no fmall part of thefe Lecturers were Perfons, who either came, or returned from New-England: The Author of Perfecutio Undecima, who lived thro' thofe Times, and publifhed that Piece in 1648, faith on this Occafion, 'Now New-England fo vomited up her 'Factious Spirits, that Merchants in London 'began to complain, that all Commodities in 'New-England were fallen to half their former Price, and each Dram and Sink of Religion poured into our wholfom Streams, 'thofe, who, as Witches do their Baptifm, 'had Renounc'd their former Sacred Calling 'to the Priefthood, yet now returned the only admired Church men; and were, by Orders of the Houfe of Commons, either forced into other Mens Churches, as Lecturers, 'or thruft into Sequefter'd Parfonages (their 'Fellow-Subjects Freehold) which before them-'felves had cry'd down for Antichriftian': And I remember I have found the fame Complaints againft thefe new Lights from New-England, occafionally made in fome other Writers, and Papers of thofe Times.

Digitized by Google

Hift. Vol. II. p. 233, 234

Sea-alls Vol. I. p. 852.

P. 20.

American Let-Letters, fourth Quer. Cant. p. 9.

Nor durft any Minifter refufe to admit thefe Men into his Pulpit, or oppofe their Poyfoning of his Congregation with their Peftilential Doctrine, without the hazard of being at laft taken into Cuftody, if not Sequefter'd. I have met with frequent Inftances of this in the Journals of the Houfe, about 1641; but let the Lord Clarendon fpeak once for all to this Point: 'If any grave and learned Mi-'nifter refufed to admit into his Church a 'Lecturer recommended by them —— he was 'prefently required to attend upon the Com-'mittee, and not difcharg'd till the Houfes met 'again; and then likewife if he efcaped Com-'mitment, continued to his intolerable Lofs 'and Trouble: Few Men having the Patience 'to endure that Oppreffion, againft which they 'knew not whither to appeal; and therefore in 'the End, fubmitted to what they could not re-'fift.'

Hift. Vol. II. p. 233, 234.

Speaking of what happened during the Recefs.

Befides which, if any Minifter was fo happy, as to have one of thefe in his Neighbourhood only, and not in his Pulpit, and diffuaded his Parifhioners from flocking to hear them in the Afternoon, it was thought a juft matter of Complaint againft him, and deem'd by the Committee, when brought before them, one very good Reafon for his Sequeftration. And of this, (to mention it by the way) the Reader is to underftand, thofe frequent Charges againft the Clergy, both in White's Century, and the Proceedings in the aflociated Counties; that they were Enemies to Preaching; that they Prefented their People for going to hear a Godly Minifter, when they had no Sermon at their own Church; and that they preach'd up the Neceffity of Parochial Communion: Many Inftances of which will hereafter appear.

As the Parliament made a Principal Ufe of thefe Men, both to carry on their Defigns againft the Civil Government, and more particularly to deftroy the Eccleftaftical Government; fo do the Hiftorians of thefe Times take an efpecial Notice of this Contrivance. 'Planting Schifmatical 'Lectures in moft Corporate Towns, and popu-'lous Places throughout the Realm, to poyfon 'the People with Antimonarchical Principles', is aflign'd by Mr. Dugdale, as a chief Method made ufe of by the Party in thofe Times. And again, 'to which Purpofe, under a feeming devout and 'holy Pretence to advance and promote the 'Preaching of the Gofpel, they got a Num-'ber of Lecturers into moft of the Corporate 'Towns, and populous Places of this Realm, '(according to the Pattern of Geneva) efpecially 'into the City of London; whom they maintain'd 'by Voluntary Contributions; to the End they 'might be engaged to preach fuch Doctrine, as 'fhould (upon Occafion) prepare the People for 'any difloyal Attempt, and difpofe them to Re-'bellion.' Once more; neither wanted they Pul-'pits to advance their Defigns, their Lecturers in 'feveral Parts (being Men neither of Learning, 'nor Conficence) inftinuating to the People all 'thofe Falfhoods and Scandals, which might 'work in them a diflike towards his Majefty, 'depraving the conformable Clergy,' &c. To which he adds, 'Nor were the Lecturing Preach-'ers, and others of that Strain, lefs active every 'where in this defperate (and afterwards bloody) 'Scene; the Chief of which throughout all 'England, were then got into London, Weftminfter, and the Suburbs of both: It being very 'well known, both by their publick Sermons, 'and Prof. to the View of the Troubles.

P. 36 of the View. See alfo P. 557.

P. 72.

P. 98.

Digitized by Google

'and Seditious Pamphlets, what Endeavours 'they seduloufly uſed, to ſtir up all Perſons 'able of Body, to take up Arms; and others to 'give Aid with their Purſes, towards advancing 'that Glorious Work, as they call'd it.' Nor did their Induſtry ſtop here; for beſides their publick Harrangues, they made private and particular Applications to the ſeveral Members of Parliament at their Houſes and Lodgings. 'The 'Drift and Deſign of theſe Pulpiteers therein, 'being the Alteration of the Church-Govern-ment, and enriching themſelves with the Lands 'and Poſſeſſions of the Biſhops and their Cathedrals, 'as is very well known.'

The ſame Complaints I find made in ſome of the Petitions in favour of Epiſcopacy: And Dr. Nalſon in his Collections, hath theſe obſervable Words to the ſame Purpoſe; 'The great Rub 'in their way to the gaining of the People, they 'knew, would be the Loyal and Orthodox Biſhops and Clergy; theſe therefore were to be 'Remov'd, that ſo Creatures of their own might 'be introduc'd into Corporations, and eſpecially into the City of London; who might from 'the Pulpit preach the Oracles of Sedition and 'Rebellion; delude the People; animate and encourage them to aſſiſt the Parliament in this 'Glorious Reformation, by putting the Power of 'the Sword into their Hands: That they might effect this, they did not only obtrude Lecturers by Order of the Houſe upon moſt Churches of Note in London and elſewhere; but by their Meant, and the Reſtleſs Malice of Sectaries, were perpetually Petitioning and Articling againſt the Epiſcopal Clergy.' And again, thus did they ſet up a Spiritual Militia of theſe Lecturers, who were to Muſter their Troops. —— 'Theſe Lecturers were neither Parſons, Vicars, nor 'Curates; but like the Order of the Fryars, Predicants among the Papiſts, who run about 'tickling the Ears of the People with Stories of 'Legends and Miracles, in the mean Time, 'picking their Pockets; which were the very 'Faculties of theſe Men —— they were all 'the Parliament's, or rather the Presbyterian 'Faction's Creatures, and were therefore ready in 'all Places to preach up their Votes and Orders, to extol their Actions, and applaud their 'Intentions: Theſe were the Men debauched 'the People with Principles of Diſloyalty, and 'taught them to worſhip —— the Glorious Reformation that was coming, which in their Cant 'they call'd the Pattern in the Mount, the New Jeruſalem, and Mount-Zion: And, in ſhort, 'the ſucceeding Tragedies of Murther, Rapine, 'Sacrilege and Rebellion were in great meaſure the diſmal Harveſt of theſe Seeds of Fear, 'Jealouſies, &c. which with ſo much Diligence 'they ſowed —— their Pulpit-harangues to 'the People, were the repeated Ecchoes of the 'Votes, Orders, Remonſtrances, and Declarations of Weſtminſter.'

Vol. II. p. 234. See alſo Wood, Ath. Vol. II. p. 143.

Ibid. p. 471.

And to the ſame purpoſe the Lord Clarendon complains, that juſt before the Recels, the Commons 'recommended ſome ſeditious unconformable Miniſters to be Lecturers in Churches 'about London, whom the Incumbents were 'compell'd to receive.' And again, that in order to 'poiſon the Hearts and Affections of the Subjects, —— above all, care was taken to place 'ſuch Preachers and Lecturers in the moſt populous Towns and Pariſhes, as were well 'known to abhor the preſent Government and 'Temperature of Church and State; many of 'whom were recommended, and poſitively enjoyn'd, and impoſ'd upon Pariſhes by the Houſe 'of Commons, and others by ſuch Factious Members, whoſe Reputation was moſt current.' But the moſt obſervable Account of this matter, is that of his Majeſty himſelf, in his Declaration of Aug. 12, 1642. 'They took care, ſaith his 'Majeſty, (under pretence of Encouragement of 'Preaching) to erect Lectures in ſeveral Pariſhes, and to commend ſuch Lecturers as beſt ſuited with their Deſigns; Men of no Learning, 'no Conſcience; but Furious Promoters of the 'moſt dangerous Innovations which were ever 'induc'd into any State; many of them having 'taken no Orders; yet recommended by Members of either Houſe, to Pariſhes, as to Lowſtoffe in Kent, and many other Places: And when 'mechanick Perſons have been brought before 'them for Preaching in Churches, and confeſs'd 'the ſame, the Power of theſe Grand Reformers 'hath been ſo great, that they have been diſmiſſed without Puniſhment, hardly with Repre-'henſion; all Perſons of Learning and Eminency in Preaching, of Sober and Virtuous Converſations, of great Examples in their Lives, even ſuch as amongſt theſe Men had been of greateſt Eſtimation, and ſuffer'd ſomewhat for them, were diſcoun enanced; and ſuch Men principally cheriſhed, who boldly preach'd againſt the Government of the Church; againſt the Book of Common-Prayer; againſt our Kingly Lawful Power, and againſt our Perſon; many of which were commended to (if not impos'd upon) Pariſhes; firſt by ſpecial Letters, and earneſt Solicitations from the prime Leaders of this Turbulent Faction; after by Orders, requiring ſuch Miniſters, as would not accept their Recommendation, to attend and ſhew Cauſe.' And again, 'a Licence even to Treaſon is admitted (that is, not puniſhed) in Pulpits, and Perſons ignorant in Learning and Underſtanding, turbulent and ſeditious in Diſpoſition, Scandalous in Life, and Unconformable in Opinion to the Laws of the Land, are by theſe Men, their Recommendation and Authority, impoſed upon Pariſhes to infect 'and poyſon the Minds of our People.'

Hiſtb. Collect. 4to. p. 520.

Conchiners, Fele-makers and Mercatoribus, p. 515, 516. See more alſo in the laſt of theſe Papers, and p. 518, 519.

P. 550.

It would be no difficult matter to Comment upon theſe Complaints, by alledging particular Inſtances of the Faction and Rebellion of thoſe Lecturers: I ſhall have Occaſion to mention ſome of them hereafter, in the Account of the Troubles and Sufferings, of ſeveral of the Loyal Clergy, into whoſe Pulpits they were violently thruſt, and thither I chuſe at preſent to refer the Reader; particularly, he will find one thruſt on Mr. Squire at Shoreditch, becauſe he had preached againſt the Scots Rebellion; another of the ſame Stamp on Mr Symmons at Rayne in Eſſex; the Infamous Burton on Mr. Cheſtlin in London; and ſeveral others.

But there are ſome Inſtances of them remembred by Mr. Dugdale, which I ſhall not have an occaſion to mention on thoſe Accounts; and therefore I ſhall here ſubjoyn them. Mr. Crofs, one of theſe zealous Lecturers, told his Auditory at St. Mildred's Poultry, That if God did 'not finiſh the Good Work which he had begun, 'in the Reformation of the Church, he would ſhew 'himſelf to be the God of Confuſion; and ſuch 'an one, as by cunning Stratagems had contri-'ved the Deſtruction of his own Children. Another of them at Southampton pray'd thus: 'Bleſs the 'King; O Lord, mollify his hard Heart that de-'lighteth in Blood——let thy Hand, we pray 'thee, O Lord our God, be on him, and on his 'Father's Houſe; but not on thy People that they 'ſhould be plagued. And Mr. Corbet, a Lecturer in Glouceſterſhire, told his Auditory, 'That No-'thing had ſo much deceived the World, as the 'Name of a King, which was the Ground of all 'Miſchiefs to the Church of Chriſt': To which let me add that prophane Action of one 'Iſaac Meſſy, a Lecturer at Uppingham in Rut-landſhire,

See alſo Mercr. Rut. p. 30, 37.

Short View, p. 167.

P. 558.

P. 570.

II. p. 169.

Digitized by Google

landſhire, who having conſecrated the Wine after his Faſhion, ſmote himſelf on the Breaſt, and ſaid to the People, 'As I am a faithful Sinner, Neighbours, this is my Morning's Draught'; and then turning himſelf about to them, ſaid, 'here's to you all'; and ſo drank up the whole Cup full: With which is ſtily joyn'd that of Mr. Redman, one of their Miniſters at Caſtle-Donnington in Leiceſterſhire, who, in Contradiction to the Orders of the Church, chuſe to adminiſter the Sacrament in the Afternoon, and in Ale.

Ibid.

The Revoking the Sentences of the High Commiſſion, and other Eccleſiaſtical Courts, and reſtoring the worſt and moſt daring Offenders, as is before remembred, could not but be look'd on as fore-boding the utter Deſtruction of all Church Power; and the ſad Confuſion in Church Matters, which immediately followed upon it, tho' all theſe Courts were yet in Being, and legally in as full Power as ever, plainly ſhewed, that the Faction underſtood as much thereby: But tho' the Liberty which the People took from theſe Proceedings of the Houſe, was really as great, as if all Eccleſiaſtical Authority had been in Fact aboliſh'd; yet the Party in the Houſe thought fit to give them Authority, as well as Power, for what they did; and accordingly proceeded to an Act for the taking away the Chief of thoſe Courts; namely, that of the High Commiſſion; and by a Clauſe in that Act, did in effect put down all the others Likewiſe.

High Commiſſion-Court taken away.

This Court had been erected by an Act of the * Firſt of Queen Elizabeth, enabling her Highneſs, her Heirs and Succeſſors, to Authorize ſuch Perſons, as they ſhould think meet, to 'exerciſe, uſe, occupy, and execute——all manner of Juriſdictions, Privileges, and Preheminences, in any † ways touching or concerning any 'Spiritual and Eccleſiaſtical Juriſdiction; and to 'viſit, reform, redreſs, order, correct, and amend all 'ſuch Errors, Hereſies, Schiſms, Abuſes, Offences, 'Contempts and Enormities whatſoever', belonging to Spiritual or Eccleſiaſtical Power or Juriſdiction. This Power was given to the Queen inſtead of a larger one, 'Which had been exerciſed under the Pope's Authority, then Aboliſh'd; and whil'ſt it was exerciſed with Moderation, was an excellent Means to Vindicate and Preſerve the Peace and Dignity of the Church, though from the † beginning it was murmured againſt by the Nonconformable Party of the Kingdom'; which is not to be wonder'd at, ſince it was ſo great a Curb to thoſe Reſtleſs Factions, which would be ſatisfied with nothing ſhort of a boundleſs Liberty, to rail at, and vilify the Hierarchy without controul.

* See the Cauſe of that Act, recited in the Act for taking away the High Commiſſion-Court. Scob. Coll. Part I. p. 12.

† See what Fuller ſaith of this Court, and the Oath Ex Officio uſed in it. Ch. Hiſt. Cent. XVI. L. 9. p. 181, & ſequentem.

|| Clar. Hiſt. Vol. I. p. 221.

‡ See an Inſtance of one Bramly, who brought an Action againſt ſome of the High Commiſſioners in the Year 1630. Whitl. Mem. p. 15.

It muſt be owned, that the Lord Clarendon ſaith, this Court had extended its Juriſdiction to ſome Matters, which were not ſo properly cognizable by it; that it had aſſumed a Diſputable Power of impoſing Fines; that it ſometimes exceeded in the Severity of its Sentences; had rendred its ſelf very unpopular to the Common Lawyers, by neglecting Prohibitions from the Superior Courts; and (about the Time we are now ſpeaking of) had managed its Cenſures with more Sharpneſs, and leſs Policy, than that difficult Station did perhaps allow of: Tho' the ſame Noble Author declares, he did not 'know that ever any Innocent Clergyman ſuffered by any Eccleſiaſtical Cenſure under it.'

Hiſt. Vol. I. p. 221.

Ibid. p. 222.

On theſe Accounts, and by the Influence of thoſe Reſtleſs and Factious Clergymen, who had formerly been obnoxious, and been ſuppreſs'd by the Biſhops, the Deſign of taking away this Court was ſet on Foot, and (no Diſtinction being then made betwixt the Reforming the Abuſes, and wholly taking away the Uſe of the moſt neceſſary and excellent Things) was eaſily conſented to. November 3, 1640, I find a Committee was appointed to conſider of this Court, together with that of the Star-Chamber. May 28, 1641, the Bill was Reported, and order'd to be Engroſs'd. June 9th following, it was ſent up to the Lords, and * paſs'd before the end of the next Month; as appears by the † Act it ſelf, which took place the Firſt of Auguſt that Year.

† Scob. Scob. Coll. Part 1. p. 12.

By this Act, as is before ſaid, not only the High Commiſſion-Court, but the whole External Power of Church Cenſures, was in effect deſtroy'd; for thoſe who drew it up, obſerving how many Enemies that Court had, ventured to exceed their Commiſſion; and 'inſerted Clauſes 'that not only took away the High Commiſſion-Court, which was intended; but upon 'the Matter, the whole Eccleſiaſtical Juriſdiction; and under Pretence of Reforming 'the great Abuſes by the Oath Ex Officio, 'and Excommunication, deſtroy'd and cancell'd 'all coercive Power whatſoever in thoſe 'Courts, which was never intended;'—— and inſtead of Reformation, 'opened a Door 'to the moſt ſcandalous Offences, and left Adultery and Inceſt as unpuniſhable, as any other 'Acts of Good Fellowſhip.'.

Clar. Hiſt. Vol. I. p. 222.

See alſo Heyl. Hiſt. of Laud, p. 342. Hiſt. Presbyt. p. 4. Edw. p. 411. Collect. Ch. Hiſt. Cent. 17. L. 11. p. 182.

The Clauſes were theſe: And be it alſo enacted——That no Arch-biſhop, Biſhop, —— Chancellor, &c. —— ſhall award, impoſe, or inflict any Pain, Penalty, Fine, Amercement, Impriſonment, or other Corporal Puniſhment upon any of the King's Subjects, for any Contempt, Miſdemeanour, Crime, Offence, Matter, or Thing whatſoever, belonging to Spiritual or Eccleſiaſtical Cognizance, or Juriſdiction; the glaring Conſequences of which being perceived by the Lords, they made a Proviſo (or Reſolution of their Houſe, if I rightly underſtand Fuller) 'That the general Words in 'this Bill ſhould extend only to the High Commiſſion-Court, and not reach other Eccleſiaſtical 'Juriſdiction'; but this not being inſerted in the Bill, it could have no Weight.

Scob. ubi ſupra.

Fuller. Ch. Hiſt. Cent. 17. L. 11. p. 180.

In the ſame Bill, they aboliſhed the Oath Ex Officio, and provided againſt the erecting of a like Court for the future; to all which his Majeſty was compelled to give the Royal Aſſent, after he had firſt demurred upon it about two Days (and was then forced to make an Excuſe for that Delay) becauſe a Fire was now kindled againſt the Biſhops, as the only Obſtacles to any Reformation; many Threatnings were denounced to cut them off Root and Branch; and ſome of them perſwaded the King for their Saket, to confirm the Bill. The Party in the mean Time were much pleas'd to ſee how this Logick prevail'd; 'little doubting, 'but when they had taken away their Juriſdiction in the Church by that Bill, and their 'Dignity in the State, by removing them out 'of the Houſe of Peers, they ſhould find it 'no hard Matter to aboliſh their Names and 'Titles out of the Kingdom,——and to enjoy the 'goodly Lands and Revenues, which could 'only make the Reformation Perfect and Compleat'; all which was afterwards fully accompliſhed.

Heyl. Hiſt. Laud, p. 459.

Clar. Hiſt. Vol. I. p. 222.

Ibid.

At the ſame Time alſo paſſed the Act for taking away the Star-Chamber, which ſometimes took Cognizance of Eccleſiaſtical Cauſes; Arch-biſhop Whitgift having 'turned See Scob. Coll. Part 2. p. 9. and Clar. Hiſt. L. p. 222, 224.

Digitized by Google

See Full. Ch. Hiſt. Cent 16. L. 9. p. 187.

ſeveral Things of that Kind into it, as well to wave the Diſpute about the Authority of the Iriſh Commiſſion-Court, as to avoid the more immediate Burthen of the Odium raiſed by the Party on himſelf and other Biſhops, for their Cenſures in that Commiſſion: But Church Matters not being the direct and immediate Buſineſs of this Court, I ſhall not proſecute the Account of that Bill; only I muſt obſerve, that it alſo regulated the Council-Table, and that with this Court fell a prime Branch of his Majeſty's Prerogative; to plainly did the Church and Crown go Hand in Hand to their Ruin.

See the Lord Clar. Vol. I. p. 223, and Heyl Hiſt. of Laud, p. 454.

The Knaviſh Proteſtation.

About the Time that theſe Bills were depending, another Project was let on Foot againſt the Church, which ought not to be forgotten; Mr. Pym, who was very dexterous at Inventing, and Improving of a Plot, had, by acquainting the Houſe with a Piece of one (or rather taking hold of a couple of Stories, pretending he knew one) gotten the Bill of Attainder againſt the Earl of Strafford, to paſs the Commons, † and the eaſier to get it thro' the Lords Houſe alſo, where it was like to ſtick, found it neceſſary to open a little more of this dangerous * Plot; alledging, it was not yet fit, the Reſt, which they were to believe was very monſtrous indeed, ſhou'd ſee the Light. And, purſuant to this Diſcovery, he moved, that to defeat the Deſigns of thoſe bloody Contrivers, 'ſome Proteſtation might be enter'd into by the Members of both Houſes.' The Motion was conſented to; and to poſſeſs the People with an Opinion, that this Buſineſs was of the laſt Moment and Concern to all their Lives and Liberties, the Doors of the Houſe were lock'd, and no one ſuffer'd to go out till it was compleated: Accordingly the Form of a Proteſtation was drawn up and agreed to; the beſt Friends of the Church thinking themſelves ſafe enough, whilſt the Matter of it was found and good. By this Proteſtation they did, 'in the Preſence of Almighty God, promiſe, vow and proteſt, to Maintain and Defend —— with their Lives, Power and Eſtates, the true Reformed Proteſtant Religion, expreſs'd in the Doctrine of the Church of England, againſt all Popery, and Popiſh Innovations within this Realm, contrary to the ſame Doctrine'; as alſo his Majeſty's Perſon, the Power and Privileges of Parliament, the Rights and Liberties of the Subjects; and to oppoſe to the utmoſt, all who ſhould make any Attempts upon any of them; than which nothing could be ſeemingly more honeſt and reaſonable: And accordingly it was taken immediately by the Speaker, and all the Members then preſent; thoſe who wiſhed well to the Church, imagining they had effectually defeated the New Reformers, in their Project of altering the Church Government, (the main Thing that they were concerned for;) ſince there was † 'no other Scheme of the Deſtruction of the Church of England, than the Thirty Nine Articles; of which, one is to preſerve the Government of the Church by Biſhops.'

See the Preamble and the Proteſtation at large. Nalſ. Coll. Vol. I. p. 810.

Viz. May 3. 1642. See a Liſt of all the Members which then and after took it. Nalſ. Coll. Vol. I. p. 811, 812, 813, and of the Lords, 815, 816.

† See more of this hereafter.

Dugd. View. p. 554.

* Who alſo ſuffered the ill Conſequences, which moſtly follow'd Volunteering Expreſſions.

The next Day it was ſent up to the Lords, who all but * Two of the Biſhops themſelves not excepted) took it likewiſe. Nothing could more abundantly gratify the Party, than their Succeſs in this Matter; For the Credit of having both Houſes take an Oath (which in truth it was) of their Contriving, and that too ſuch an one, as was not altogether unlike the Covenant, whereby their Brethren of Scotland had done ſuch great Things, was no ſmall Pleaſure to them; and then it being in their Power to put what Senſe they pleas'd upon it, they might fairly promote themſelves large Advantages from the Succeſs of it; and it happen'd accordingly: For the very next Day, after the Lords had taken it, the Commons being acquainted, that ſome of their Friends without Doors ſcrupled at it, apprehending that they were by it obliged to defend Biſhops; they never acquainted the Lords with it, who had notwithſtanding taken it as well as themſelves; they order'd it to be printed and publiſhed, and that the Members ſhould ſend Copies of it to their ſeveral Counties and Borroughs, ſignifying how willingly the Houſe had taken it; and how acceptable it would be to them, if all others did the like; and gave particular Directions * for the taking it by the City of London; wherein their Miniſters had peculiar Inſtructions for their Government in that Matter, and executed them with their uſual Zeal and Forwardneſs.

Clar. Vol. I. p. 197, 198. Nalſ. Coll. Vol. I. p. 809, & ſeqq.

See Clarend. Vol. I. p. 192 & ſeqq.

† And to promote the Bill for perpetuating the Parliament, aſſ. ſaith Nalſ. Collect. Vol. I. p. 809.

* Or rather two or three Plots; as Nalſon (ubi ſupra) repreſents it.

p. 466. and Heads Collect. Vol. I. p. 122. Where his Majeſty inſiſts this new Explanation of it, and the impoſing it on his Subjects.

Clar. Vol. I. p. 199. &c. Nalſ. ſeems to make it May 12. and have occaſioned the ſame Gentlemen urging this Proteſtation in favour of the Church, when the Matter of the Cathedrals was debated. Coll. Vol. II. p. 241.

The ſame Author ſeems to reprehend this Matter, as if the Publication was not ordered to be printed till May 14. See Vol. II. p. 239. compared with p. 344.

* Nalſ. Coll. Vol. II. p. 239. See alſo complaints of Nor was this all: For they alſo prepar'd, and paſs'd a Bill, to compel all the Subjects to take it; which being rejected by the Lords July 30, 1641, the Commons immediately Reſolv'd, that whoſoever ſhould not take it, was unfit to bear Office in the Church or Common-wealth; and on that, and the following Day, paſs'd ſeveral ſevere and ſharp Votes againſt the Biſhops and the Church.

Clar. Vol. I. p. 199.

Nalſ. Collect. Vol. II. p. 414, 415. Heads Collect. Vol. I. p. 122.

The Wickedneſs, as well as the Policy of this Contrivance, was very great. One can hardly without Horrour, think, that they ſhould ſolemnly make uſe of the Name of God, to a Vow, which they meant to interpret in a Senſe directly contrary to the plain Words wherein it was expreſs'd, and to the Intentions of them who took it, and would have abhor'd it in the new Senſe now put upon it; eſpecially conſidering it was ſo very oppoſite, both to the Laws of the Land, and their Oaths of Allegiance to his Majeſty: Nor to mention at preſent, the many Perplexities, wherewith they did by that means entangle the Conſciences of many, who had before taken it in ſo different a meaning. And as to the many Ends which they ſerv'd by it, let it be remark'd, that this was the Firſt Attempt towards a National Combination againſt the Eſtabliſhment (as is before obſerv'd) and was an Harbinger to the Covenant, which follow'd in due time; That it was a plain, and viſible Note of Diſtinction, by which they diſcover'd their Friends from their Foes, and the reſpective Strength of either Party; That it was a publick Suggeſtion, that the Church of England, in ſome Parts of her Conſtitution, was Popiſh; That it cogat'd thoſe who afterwards took it with the firſt Creation, in the moſt deſtructive Conſpiracy againſt her Doctrine, Diſcipline and Worſhip; which, not only this Suggeſtion, but the whole Stream of their other Clamours, had branded with the Title of Popery. And as her profeſs'd Enemies gladly took it; ſo doubtleſs many who meant no harm, were drawn into into it by its being ſo readily taken by the Members of each Houſe, before the true Intention of it was made known. Add to this, that by their manner of impoſing ſuch an Oath, which nothing but a Law could warrant, they made a ſufficient Trial, how the People would endure that Power which they afterwards Uſurp'd, of paſſing every thing by their own Authority, without the Conſent of the King, or Lords. Beſides which, divers were the Uſes they after made of this Engagement; the Obligation of which they mightily pleaded, towards carrying on the reſt of their Deſigns; particularly, in the Caſe of the Earl of Strafford.

Digitized by Google

Clar. Vol. I. p. 201.

When ſuch vile and flagitious methods were taken to draw the whole Nation into a Conſpiracy, againſt the Church; it could be no longer doubted, but that the utter Ruin of it was determin'd: And if it were not pluck'd up Root and Branch at once; it muſt be concluded, that its Ruin was defer'd for no other Reaſon, but becauſe the Nation was not yet enough Debauch'd, to endure ſuch an Undertaking; and that therefore the chief Projecters were ſtill oblig'd to proceed by Steps and Degrees, to the Accompliſhment of their Deſigns.

Ceremonies Superſtition, &c. Aboliſhed.

Accordingly, they were forc'd as yet, to content themſelves with attempting the Outworks of the Church; and therefore ſet themſelves firſt to the Aboliſhing her Ceremonies, and ſuch other Externals of her Worſhip, as they were pleaſed to call Superſtition and Idolatry; that is, every thing that was decent and comely in it. Previous to the Account of which, it will be requiſite to obſerve, that 'the Remnants of Abbot, 'and other Biſhops by his Example, had introduc'd, or at leaſt, conniv'd at, a Negligence 'that gave great Scandal to the Church, and, 'no doubt, offended very pious Men. The 'People took ſo little care of the Churches, and 'the Parſons as little of the Chancels; that inſtead of Beautifying or Adorning them in any degree, they rarely provided againſt the 'Falling of many of their Churches; and ſuffer'd them at leaſt, to be kept ſo indecently 'and ſlovenly, that they would not have endur'd 'it in the ordinary Offices of their own Houſes; 'the Rain and the Wind to inſeſt them, and the 'Sacraments themſelves to be Adminiſter'd 'where the People had moſt mind to Receive 'them.' This propbane Liberty and Uncleanneſs' Archbiſhop Laud had ſet himſelf to Reform; and for that purpoſe, had order'd the Communion-Tables to be remov'd out of the Body of the Church (where they uſed to ſtand, and to be apply'd to all Uſes) and to be fix'd at the upper End of the Chancel; to be decently Rail'd in likewiſe from the Approach of Dogs, and all ſervile Uſes; and provided, that the Communicants ſhould come up to them to Receive the Holy Communion: And in theſe things he was warranted by the Canons and Injunctions of the Church, and by the Cuſtom in the King's Chapel.

Clar. Vol. I. p. 71, 74, 71.

See alſo Full. Ch. Hiſt. Cent. 17. L. 11. p. 150.

But the bare Charge of this created Murmurings among the People, to which the Indiſcretion of ſome Miniſters contributed not a little: And at length warm Diſputes aroſe betwixt Learned Men (particularly Biſhop Williams and Dr. Heylin) concerning theſe matters. Some of the Biſhops themſelves being temſts in preſſing theſe Injunctions; whilſt the Arch-biſhop and his Dependents preſs'd them perhaps, with more Warmth than the Times would bear. By which means theſe Diſputes grew into a great Height; occaſion'd Suſpicions and Miſunderſtandings between the Clergy themſelves, and no ſmall Fewds and Animoſities among the People; which were induſtriouſly heighten'd by the watchful Enemies of the Eccleſiaſtical Eſtabliſhment, continu'd to the Times we are now ſpeaking of; and were then improv'd to the long intended Purpoſe of deſtroying the Church.

Loud and many were the Outcries of Superſtition, Popiſh Rites, &c. from the time that the Arch-biſhop began thus to preſs Conformity, to the Sitting of this Parliament. And after the Houſe had diſcover'd its Diſaffection to the Church-Government and Diſcipline, which it ſoon did, it is plainly impoſſible to trace the Numberleſs Complaints made againſt the Rites, Ceremonies and Uſages of the Church. The Factious Pulpits, the Preſſes, the Cries of the Rabble, the Petitions (particularly theſe againſt Epiſcopacy) Remonſtrances, Sermons, the Votes, Orders, Reſolves, Speeches of the Houſe, and more eſpecially, the Nineteen Propoſitions, and the Remonſtrance of the State of the Kingdom, were all fill'd with heavy Outcries; as againſt the Perſons of the Biſhops (which hath been before noted) ſo likewiſe againſt the Popiſh Orders, and idolatrous Ceremonies of the Hierarchy. Nor (to obſerve that by the way) were many of theſe Clamours droſs, till the very Days wherein we now live; and not then, until the Faction had been inſtructed, that the chief Places of Power and Profit lodg'd in their Hands, would enable them much more effectually to betray, and by that means to deſtroy the Church, than all the weak Outcries of Popery and Idolatry; wherewith they were become ſo hoarſe, that they could ſcarce be heard. However, ſince they have learnt themſelves to worſhip Mammon within theſe twenty Years, we have heard very little of the Idolatry in our Service; the ſingle Argument of Power and Profit having more weight than all the Learning of the Church of England Divines ſince the Reformation: So that now 'tis lawful to Communicate, and even Kneel at the Sacrament, provided it be but OCCASIONALLY.

But to return: No Inſtances of this kind were more obſervable, than the Accuſations brought againſt the Clergy before the Committees; where Bowing at the Name of Jeſus, or Towards the Altar, Removing, and Railing in the Communion-Table, Beautifying the Chancels, Requiring People to come up to the Rails to receive the Holy Sacrament, and the like Obſervances of the Orders of the Church, were the moſt frequent Allegations againſt them; as appears by Mr. White's Century, and the Proceedings of the Sequeſtrators under the Earl of Manchester, in the Aſſociated Counties; which are fill'd with Charges of this nature, as the Reader will hereafter find. Of all which, let it ſuffice to have obſerv'd thus much in general; and to take particular notice only of the more effective Proceedings againſt them, by the Orders and Acts of the Houſe, to which the Other were only preparatory.

Friday, Nov. 20, 1640, the Commons Voted, 'That at the Receiving of the Communion next 'Sunday, it was the Deſire of the Houſe, that 'the Communion-Table may be remov'd into the 'middle of the Church:' Which Requeſt being ſignify'd to the Dean (Dr. Williams, then alſo Biſhop of Lincoln) he return'd this ingratiating Anſwer, 'That it ſhould: And that he would 'do greater Service to the Houſe of Commons 'than this; yet he would do as much as this 'for any Pariſhioner in his Diocels.'

Nalſ. Collect. Vol. I. p. 561. but alſo Paged 537.

This was a plain Declaration of their Senſe in the matter of theſe Ceremonies and Obſervances of the Church; and an Earneſt of what was ſoon after to follow. Purſuant to which, Jan. 23, 1641,

Digitized by Google

Ibid. p. 735. 1643, they made an Order, 'To Deface, 'Demoliſh, and quite take away, all Ima-'ges, Altars or Tables turn'd Altar-ways, 'Crucifixes, Superſtitious Pictures, Monuments 'and Relicks of Idolatry, out of all Churches 'and Chapels, &c.' This Order, if I miſtake not, was committed to the care of Sir Robert Harlow for Execution: And that zealous Knight (as Mr. Whitlock himſelf with a Smile obſerves) 'Took down the Croſs in Cheapſide, Charing-croſs 'and other like Monuments impartially; tho' his Commiſſion reach'd thoſe only which were in Churches.

Whit. Mem. p. 45.

Among theſe other like Monuments, was, as I believe, the Famous one, commonly known by the Name of St. Paul's Croſs; which, 'tis ſure, was deſtroy'd in thoſe Times; and was a Pulpit of Wood cover'd with Lead, contriv'd in the Form of a Croſs, and mounted on ſeveral Steps of Stone, and plac'd about the middle of St. Paul's Church-yard; in which more Learned Men had appear'd, and out of which more ſound and good Divinity had been deliver'd, than perhaps any one Pulpit ſince the firſt Preaching of the Goſpel could ever glory in; and particularly, under that (now Idolatrous) Banner of the Croſs, more Learning againſt Popery, and all real Idolatry, had been ſhewn, than thoſe new Reformers were ever Maſters of. Nor muſt I omit to obſerve in this place, that no Order having been as yet made for 'Executing this 'Order in his Majeſty's Chapels, —— a private 'Warrant was obtain'd by Harlow —— for ma-'king the ſaid Chapels equal to all the reſt, by 'depriving them of all ſuch Ornaments of State 'and Beauty, with which they had been con-'ſtantly Adorn'd in all times ſince the Refor-'mation."

Newc. Rep. Eccleſ. Vol. I. p. 4.

Heylin, Hiſt. Presb. Ed. 2. p. 456.

Nor was it a little Countenance, which theſe Proceedings of the Commons receiv'd from the Biſhops and Divines, call'd together by the Sub-Committee to the Committee of Lords (of whom more hereafter) for ſettling Peace in the Church. For among other things under debate before thoſe Divines, That of Reforming ſome of theſe Uſages of the Church, which they call'd Innovations in Diſcipline, was one: And it is not improbable, that this Order, and theſe Debates, very much encourag'd the Tumults and Inſolencies of the Rabble, who about theſe times had begun to diſturb the Regular Clergy in Officiating the Church-Service; and committed ſeveral Outrages of that, and the like kind.

Fuller, Ch. Hiſt. Cent. 17. Lib. 1. p. 173.

Heyl. Hiſt. Laud. p. 443.

Particularly at St Olave's and St. Saviour's in Southwark; St. Thomas the Apoſtle. See Nalſ. Collect. Vol. II. p. 171, 275, 322, 369, & ſubſ.

June 28, 1641, 'They declar'd, that neither 'a Univerſity ſhall do Reverence to the Communion- 'Table; by which they underſtand Bowing and 'Cringing to it, and Offering at it.' Jan. 23, 1641, they appointed an Order to be brought in to that effect, not only for the Univerſities, but the Cathedrals likewiſe. And Feb. 17, following, order'd, that the Statute of the Univerſity of Cambridge impoſing the Uſe of the Surplice on all Graduates and Students (and re-inforc'd by the Canons of 1603,) ſhould not be preſs'd, &c. as 'at being againſt the Law, and 'the Liberty of the Subject.' And Three Days after paſs'd the ſame Order for the Scholars of Weſtminſter, Eton and Winchester.

Nalſ. Collect. Vol. II. p. 475.

Aug. 31, 1641, they came to a more particular Reſolution concerning the placing of the Communion-Tables; namely, 'That the Church-War-'dens ſhould forthwith remove the Communion-'Tables from the Eaſt End of the Church, where 'they ſtand Altar-wiſe, and take away the Rails, 'and Level the Chancels as before the late Inno-'vations.'

But the moſt effective Order of this kind, was that of Sept. 8, following; wherein for the Suppreſſing Innovations about the Worſhip of God, they not only repeat this of Aug. 31; but further enjoin, that 'All Crucifixes, Pictures of the 'Trinity and Images of the Virgin Mary, be 'taken away; that Tapers, Candleſticks and Baſ-'ſons be remov'd from the Communion-Tables; that 'all Bowing at the Name of Jeſus, or towards 'the Eaſt End of the Church, be forborn;' and that the Deans of the Cathedral-Churches, the Vice-Chancellour, the Heads of Houſes in the Univerſities, and the Church-Wardens for Parochial Churches, do execute theſe Orders, and certifie the Performance of them to the Parliament. And having digeſted theſe Godly Reſolutions into an Order, they carry'd it up to the Lords for their Concurrence; who having debated the three firſt Heads, were contented that no Rails ſhould be placed round any Communion-Table, where they were not already; that all Chancels raiſed within Fifteen Years laſt paſt, ſhould be level'd; that the Pictures of the Trinity ſhould be Aboliſhed, and all Images of the Virgin Mary erected within Twenty Years paſt; and that none ſhould be either Forbid or Enjoyned to Bow at the Name of Jeſus. Whether they proceeded the next Day (which was the Day of the Receſs) to conſider the reſt, as they had reſolved to do; or, if they did, whether they acquainted the Commons with it, I do not find. In the mean time, this is ſure, that upon the whole, the Lords refuſed to concur to this Order; and being ſcandaliz'd at theſe Factious and Preſumptuous Proceedings of the Commons, did, inſtead of it, direct the Order of their own Houſe, made Jan. 16, 1643, on complaint of the tumultuous Behaviour of the Sectaries, affronting the Clergy in the Miniſtration of the Publick and Eſtabliſhed Liturgy, to be Printed to this Effect, 'that the Divine Service ſhould be 'Performed as it is appointed by the Acts of Par-'liament of this Realm; and that all ſuch as ſhall 'diſturb that wholeſom Order, ſhall be ſeverely Pu-'niſhed according to Law'; and acquainted the Commons with it, deſiring them to join in that Order, which however they were to far from doing, that they immediately drew up and publiſhed a Declaration, reciting their Order of the foregoing Day, commanding all the Commons of England, to ſubmit to their Direction, and remonſtrating againſt the laſt mentioned Order of the Lords. 'Which Arraigning the Houſe of 'Peers, for Publiſhing an Order in Maintenance 'of the Laws Eſtabliſhed by thoſe, who had no 'Authority to declare what the Law was, nor a 'Juriſdiction over thoſe, who ſhould infringe the 'Law, was (as the Lord Clarendon obſerves) 'to 'tranſcendent a Preſumption, and Breach of Pri-'vilege, that there was great expectation what 'the Lords would do in their own Vindication".

Ibid. p. 487. Clar. Hiſt. Vol. II. p. 231.

Heyl. Hiſt. Presb. Ed. 2. p. 442. Life of Laud p. 454, 455.

Clar. Vol. I. p. 232.

Nalſ. Collect. Vol. II. p. 492.

Sept. 5, 1642.

Clar. ubi ſup. p. 1.

Nalſ. Collect. Vol. II. p. 494.

Nalſ. Collect. Vol. II. p. 515.

Sept. 9, 1642.

Clarend. ubi ſupra.

But as little Authority as they had for this Order of the 8th of September, and ſurely they could have none for the whole Legiſlative Power, which this Order plainly Aſſumed, they were reſolved to have it Executed, which was accordingly done; the Declaration reciting the Order, was paſſed as is beforeſaid, the very Day of the Receſs; and Mr. Pym having the Chair of the Committee which was to ſit during that Interval, "immediately '† with his own Hand Signed 'the Printed Declarations, —— and cauſed 'them to be ſo Read, in all Churches in London, 'and throughout the Countries. Whereupon theſe Seditious and Factious Perſons cauſed the Windows 'to be broken down in Churches; Broke down 'the Rails, and removed the Communion-Tables '(which in many Places had ſtood in that manner ever ſince the Reformation, and commit-

See his Majeſty's Inf. Complaint of this Matter in his Declaration of Auguſt 12, 1642. Nalſ. Collect. ubi ſup. p. 506. † This ſtrain was nothing of a piece with the reſt of his Behaviour in the Subordinate Station he held in the Committee which ſat Nalſ. Vol. II. p. 468, 487. Sept. 20. See Heyl. Hiſt. Laud, p. 455. Clar. Hiſt. Vol. I. p. 232.

Digitized by Google

Hiſt. Presb. Edit. 2 p. 412.

'ted many inſolent and ſcandalous Diſorders:' Or, as Dr. Heylin expreſſes this matter, 'Here-'upon follow'd ſuch an Alteration in all Church-es and Chapels, that the Church-Wardens 'pull'd down more in a Week, than all the Biſhops and Clergy had been able to raiſe in 'Two Weeks of Years: And hereupon there 'follow'd ſuch Irreverences in God's Publick 'Service, and ſuch a Diſcontinuance of it in 'too many Places, that his Majeſty was com-'pell'd to give new Life to it by his Proclama-'tion of the Tenth of December; and taking 'Order in the ſame for Puniſhing all the wilful 'Contemners and Diſturbers of it.' The Event was, that the Faction being then become very Formidable, this Proclamation only 'ſhew'd the 'King's good Meaning with his Want of Pow-'er'.

Clar. ubi ſupra. See alſo Hall' Collect. Vol. II. p. 841. 846.

And ſo effectually was this matter proſecuted, that 'when the Miniſter, and the Graver and 'more Subſtantial ſort of Inhabitants uſed any 'Oppoſition, and refuſed ſuch their Licence, 'they were immediately requir'd to attend the 'Committee; and if they could neither be per-'ſuaded nor threaten'd to Submit, their At-'tendance was continu'd from Day to Day, to 'their great Charge and Vexation.' Particu-larly, I find Dr. Heywood of St. Gyles's in the Fields, and Mr. Booth of St. Botolph's Aldersgate, and the Church-Warden of St. George's in South-wark, peremptorily and complain'd againſt, for not Submitting to theſe Prophanations. And tho' the Addreſs of any ſingle Sectary uſed to be receiv'd againſt the Church or Clergy; yet the Petition of the Church-Wardens and Pariſhioners of St. Gyles's Cripplegate, in favour of their Reels and Communion-Tables, could not be heard; tho' they alledg'd that it had continu'd ſo for Eighty Years. But in concluſion, the Commons im-prov'd, and transferr'd all their other forementi-on'd Orders, into a Bill for the Suppreſſion of di-vers Innovations in Churches, &c. To which they alſo added ſome Cauſes about Lecturers (containing in ſubſtance the chief of the Orders concerning them before remember'd) and others for the better Obſervation of the Lord's Day.

Hall. Collect. Vol. II. p. 493. 494.

Ibid. p. 91.

Hiſt. Collect. Vol. II. p. 919. where for the Bill as large.

See Clar. Hiſt. Vol. II. p. 91.

This Bill paſs'd both Houſes, and was, with ſeveral others, ſoon after preſented to his Majeſty in the Treaty at Oxford, for the Royal Aſſent: But that Treaty coming to nothing, it ne-ver paſs'd into an Act.

Dr. Nalſon, Collect. Vol. I. p. 775. mentions a Bill brought in, Read twice, and committed Feb. 12, 1640. for the Aboliſhing Superſtition and Idolatry. Evidence however paſs'd in that Form. The Title, at leaſt, is plainly different from that of this Bill.

Mr. Dugdale (Short View, p. 164*) mentions a Bill* (which by the Order of his Reverence, ſeems to have been brought in about July 1641*) for* aboliſhing the Croſs in Baptiſm, &c. and Standing up at the Goſpel. It ſeems to have been different from that of Dr. Nalſon*, as mentioned, and from this Bill preſented to his Majeſty.* 2. For neither of theſe Particulars are in that Bill, nor in any of theſe other Ordinances that I have yet ſeen relating to theſe matters.

Having on this Occaſion mention'd their Popular Pretence of the better Obſervation of the Lord's Day, I cannot forbear taking notice by the way, that afterwards (viz. May 5, 1643,) their Zeal for it was ſo very warm, that they order'd his Majeſty's Book (as it was commonly call'd, that is, the Proclamation of King James the Firſt, which had been revis'd by his Majeſty) for Tole-rating Sports on the Lord's Day, to be 'forthwith 'burnt by the Hands of the common Hang-man, in 'Cheapſide, and other uſual Places;' which was accordingly done, under the Inſpection of the Sheriffs of London and Middleſex. Than which (as Dr. Heylin obſerves,) 'an Act of greater Scorn, 'an Act of greater Inſolency and diſloyal Impudence, 'was never eſſay'd to a Sovereign and Anointed 'Prince.' To which may be added, another thing (as ridiculous, as this was impudent;) that Heyl. Hiſt. Presb. Ed. 2. p. 416. See alſo Comp. Hiſt. of Eng. p. 331. See alſo Hiſtr. Coll. Eccl. p. 156.

In 1647. Mat. Fiennes alſo Earle of Lincoln Proclamation of the Lord Keep. in the Exch. Mandate Book at Boſton. See Wood, Athen. Vol. II. p. 327.

Ibid.

in a following Ordinance of April 1644, con-cerning the Sabbath, they inſerted a Clauſe 'for the taking down of May-Poles; with a Com-'mand unto all Conſtables and Tithing-Men, to 'ſee it done, under the Penalty of Forfeiting five 'Shillings weekly, till the ſaid May Poles (which 'they look'd upon as an Heathen Vanity) ſhould be 'quite remov'd.' Nor were ſome of the Graveſt Divines aſham'd, in ſet and formal Treatiſes to attack theſe Great Idols and Monuments of Superſtition.

Ibid.

See the Abridgment, p. 119.

But to return; Since they could not gain the Royal Aſſent to the Bill before-mention'd, with-in few Months after, they ventur'd to impoſe on the Nation by their own Authority; that Part of it which concern'd the Removing the Altars, Tables, Rails, Levelling the Chancels and Demolishing of Pictures, Images, &c. almoſt verbatim: The Lords and Commons in Parliament ordaining (Aug. 28, 1643.) that in order to remove all Monuments of Superſtition and Idolatry, —— all Altars, and Tables of Stone ſhould be Demoliſhed, Communion-Tables be remov'd from the Eaſt, Rails taken away, Chancels level'd, Tapers, Candleſticks, Ba-ſons, &c. be remov'd from the Communion-Tables; and all Crucifixes, Croſſes, Images of the Trinity, or Saints, &c. be taken away, and defaced.

Scob. Collect. Part 1. p. 33.

About the latter End of the ſame Year, I find alſo mention'd in the Journals of the Houſe, an Order for ſelling the Copes, Surpli-ces, &c. in all Cathedral, Collegiate and Pariſh Churches. And by another Ordinance of May 9, 1644, 'to accompliſh the Bleſſed Reformation, ſo 'happily begun,' they enlarg'd the Clauſe about removing of Images and Pictures, which before was confin'd to Churches, Chapels, or Places belonging to them, to all Open Places whatſoe-ver; and then proceeded to forbid the Uſe of Surplices, Superſtitious Veſtments, &c. provi-ded that no Croſs, Crucifix, Picture, &c. as before, ſhould 'continue upon any Plate, or 'other thing uſed about the Worſhip of God:' Order'd the taking away of all Organs; and in the cloſe, commanded that all thoſe Copes, Surplices, Superſtitious Veſtments, Reods, Fonts and Organs, be not only taken away, but utterly defac'd.

Ibid. p. 68.

In both theſe Ordinances they had indeed pro-vided a Clauſe, to preſerve the Arms, Statues, Monuments, &c. of the Antient Nobility and Gentry, (tho' the furious Zeal of their Executio-ners miſerably defaced and ſpoiled moſt of theſe alſo) and for that purpoſe, appointed that nothing in the Ordinances ſhould extend to any Image, &c. of any King, &c, or 'other Dead Perſon, which 'hath not been commonly reputed or taken for a 'Saint'; which obſervable Clauſe was (in a manner) by ſome of themſelves, interpreted, as a Salvo to all the Rights, Properties, Privile-ges, and Immunities, &c. of the Devil and his Angels, and a making of War only upon the Saints; as appears by that 'pleaſant Paſſage 'which happened at a Place where Iveton had 'his Quarters.——In his Zeal againſt the Images 'at a Church whoſe Windows were very beauti-'ful; he made all the Twelve Apoſtles, and many 'other Saints ſuffer a ſecond Martyrdom; only 'the Picture of the Old Dragon vomiting the 'Flames of Hell out of his Mouth, was ſpa-'red, and for old Acquaintance, left entire'; which occaſion'd the Inhabitants to whiſper among themſelves, That 'twas plain enough who was Iveton's Saint.

Counter-mine, p. 17.

See in Wood Athen. Vol. I. p. 861. a like Story of Richard Culmer (one of the Non-conformiſts Miniſters, mentioned Abridgment, p. 287.) who in defacing the Windows of Chriſt-Church in Canterbury (in which, among other things, was repreſen-ted the Hiſtory of our Saviour's Temptation) 'brake down Chriſt, and 'left the Devil ſtanding: For which he afterwards gave this Reaſon, that 'he had an Order to take down Chriſt, but had no Order to take down 'the Devil.'

Digitized by Google

The Care of executing the firſt of theſe Ordinances, was committed to the ſame Perſons that had been before entruſted with the Execution of the Order of September 8; as was that of the other Ordinance likewiſe, only with the addition of the next adjoyning Juſtice of the Peace, or Deputy-Lieutenant. But where any of theſe trembled to commit this horrid Sacrilege, the Rabble, or the Soldiers of the Rebel Army, took upon them that Office; which was perform'd with ſuch Circumſtances of Outrage and Prophaneneſs, and occaſion'd to many Sacrileges, and ſuch Deſolations in moſt of the Cathedrals, and many Pariſh-Churches of the Kingdom; as no Chriſtian can remember without Horror.

See Heylin, Hiſt. Presb. Eccl. p. 411, 415, 416, & alibi paſſim. See alſo more Ruſh.

The Outrages of this Kind were indeed ſo very many, that I ſhall not attempt an Account of them at preſent; but have reſerved them for a diſtinct Conſideration (which they well deſerve) in an Appendix to the Sequeſtrations of the Clergy: Only it may not be amiſs to ſubjoyn in this Place, a General Account of them, as Repreſented by the Learned Dr. Nichols; and to give the Reader a Taſte of the Particulars in an Inſtance or two.

Defen. Eccl. Anglic. p. 340.

Dr. Nicholi's Words are theſe; 'Inſpectantibus & exhortantibus Puritanis Miniſtris Feneſtrarum Vitrum ſuumorum Artificum manibus Elegantiſſimè picturatum Confringitur; veſtes ſacerdotales ſarcinæ direptæ ſunt; & in pulvinaria & Lectorum ſtragula ſciſſæ; Calatum Altarium Agentum, Iſplique ad Sacra Synaxes uſum confectæ Calices, Impio juſſu Abbati, in prophanos Zelotarum Sympoſiis menſas obambulabant; publica Eccleſiarum ſcripta, ac memoriales Tabulæ vel igni mandantur, vel privatis Scriniis Inſeruntur, vel venduntur Sacramentum: Sancta Ipſa Lavacra (horreſco Referens) fanaticorum Malorum Urinâ, aut Sceleſtiori opprobrio conſpuentur.'

Let the two Inſtances that follow, ſerve as a Commentary to this Teſtimony: At Tockley, ſome of Captain Beaumont's Soldiers coming thither, they break open the Church Doors, piſs in a Font, and then Baptize an Horſe or Mare; uſing the Solemn Words of Baptiſm, and ſigning them with the Sign of the Croſs'; and at Litchfield they 'demoliſh'd all the Monuments, pulling down the curious Carved Work, battering it in pieces the coſtly Windows, and deſtroying the Evidences and Records belonging to that Church: Which being done, they ſtabled their Horſes in the Body of it; kept Courts of Guard in the croſs Iſles; broke up the Pavement; polluted the Quire with their Excrements; every Day hunted a Cat with Hounds throughout the Church; delighted themſelves in the Eccho from the goodly vaulted Roof; and to add to their Wickedneſs, brought a Calf into it, wrapped in Linnen, carried it to the Font, ſprinkled it with Water, and gave it a Name, in Scorn and Deriſion of that Holy Sacrament of Baptiſm: And when P. Hopers recover'd that Church by Force, Ruſſel, the Governour, carried away the Communion-Plate and Linen, with 'whatſoever elſe was of Value.' So Familiar was it with the Men of thoſe Times to commit Sacrilege, notwithſtanding they pretended ſo much to abhor Idols.

Gumt. Hiſt. Presbyt. p. 315. Vide Hiſtor. Kingdom &c. if I miſtake not.

Dugd. Short View, p. 559, 560.

But neither did theſe Ordinances as yet Perfect the Reformation: For there was a pretended Holineſs in Days and Times, as well as in Things and Places, which was likewiſe to be provided againſt: And as an Introduction to it, a Faſt was by a particular Ordinance appointed, to be obſerved on Chriſtmas Day, 1644; the Reaſon for which they aſſigned in theſe Memorable Words, namely, 'Becauſe it may cad to Remembrance our Sins, and the Sins of our Fore-Fathers, who have turned this Feaſt, pretending the Memory of Chriſt, into an extravagant Obſervance of him, by giving Liberty to Carnal and Senſual Delights.' Mr. Calamy preached before the Commons on this Unuſual Day of Faſting; and had this Expreſſion in his Sermon, fuitable to that extraordinary Occaſion: 'Tou Tear God, by a Providence, hath buried this Feſtival in a Faſt, and I hope it will never riſe again;' nor would it ever have done ſo, could the utmoſt Care of this Parliament have prevented it.

See Compl. Hiſt. of Independ. Part III. p. 14.

Acted in Dec. Sanctimon. Part 2. p. 13.

For June 5th, 1647, the Lords and Commons Ordained, that the 'Feaſt of the Nativity of Chriſt, Eaſter and Whitſuntide, and all other Feſtival Days, commonly called Holy Days, to no longer obſerved.' Inſtead of which, for the Eaſe of Scholars, Apprentices and Servants, they order'd, that the Second Tueſday in every Month ſhould be a Day of Recreation and Paſtime; but appointed no other ſtated Times or Seaſons for the celebrating the Memory of any of the Benefits of our Redemption, or any other whatſoever; which I believe no Chriſtian Church on the Face of the whole Earth was ever without before that Time: The Feaſt of Eaſter particularly, which imploy'd the Debates of the firſt and greateſt General Council that was ever held, appears to have been celebrated over all the Chriſtian World (both Eaſt and Weſt) even from the very firſt beginnings of the Goſpel: Thoſe of one ſide of the Queſtion pleading Apoſtolical Tradition; thoſe on the other, Apoſtolical Practice, for the different Times in its Celebration: Each in the mean while, atteſting and witneſſing to the Obſervance of it, in, and from the very Days of the Apoſtles themſelves.

† Or Litha, in the Order of the 25th of June 2000. See them both, Scob. Coll. Part 2. p. 118.

Liturg. Abolish'd.

When the Ornaments and other Appendages of the publick Worſhip were thus taken away; it was not to be imagined, that the Service it ſelf would be of any long Continuance; which ſoon after appeared in the Event. The Divines who met in the Jeruſalem-Chamber, about the beginning of March, 1640, by Authority of a Commitee of the Lords Houſe, to conſult of ſeveral Eccleſiaſtical Matters; had under conſideration, among other Things, the Regulation of the Common-Prayer Book; which was the firſt publick Act of Reproach that I find it underwent, and was after made effectual uſe of by the Party: For the Miniſters, entruſted to ſolliciteheRemonſtrance formerly remember'd, in their Petition to the Houſe of Commons, December 20, 1641, mention, among their other Grievances, this of the Liturgy; the Uſe of which they deſire may not be preſs'd upon them: And as an Argument for this Exemption, they alledge, 'that Sundry Biſhops, and other grave Divines, called to their Aſſiſtance by Order of the Houſe of Peers, have, as they are informed, diſcovered divers Particulars needing Alteration in the Liturgy, and the Uſe thereof.'

Fell. Ch. Hiſt. Centur. Lect. p. 476.

See Heyl. Hiſt. Laud, p. 444.

See Kenn. Coll. Vol. II. p. 765.

Much about the ſame time that theſe Divines in the Jeruſalem-Chamber, had it under Conſideration, the Rabble alſo began to take it in Hand; they violently brake into ſeveral Churches, whilſt the Miniſters were reading it; diſturbed the Service; reproached it with the odious Name of Porridge, (the common Term of Infamy, which they gave it in thoſe Times) and ſhewed the utmoſt Contempt and Scorn of it; of which the Reader will after meet with ſeveral Inſtances: But the moſt obſervable one of this Kind, was that at St. Margaret's Weſtminſter, in 1641, when the Members of the Houſe of Commons were aſſembled there: For 'at what Time, as the Prieſt began the Second Service at the Holy Table, ſome of the Puritans or Preſbyterians began a Pſalm, and were therein followed by the reſt, in ſo loud a Tune, that the Miniſter was thereby forced to deſiſt from his Duty.

See the Appendix to the Diſcourſe, touching Days and Places for Publick Worſhip, Scob. Part 1. p. 52.

Read. Hiſt. Treaſons. Edit. p. 232.

* Read arrant Cowards in Churches, and Heathens in Streets.

† Reverence and Uſe of the Liturgy in the Time of Divine Service, and the Adminiſtration of the Bleſſed Sacrament, preſs'd with Arguments, and by Motives, in two Declaration of Auguſt 24, 1641. Both printed 1660 p. 148.

Beſides

B. sides which, it must be remembred, as the Petitions against Bishops, before spoken of, were interspersed with loud Complaints against Ceremonies and Superstition; so did the Liturgy likewise frequently bear a Part in them; as appears more particularly in the Petition of the Remonstrating Ministers now mentioned: And the many Libels, Speeches, and popular Clamours of the Times, took care to complain of this Grievance also; as well as of all the others already accounted for.

Neal. Collect. Vol. II. p. 483, 484.

See also Vol. I. p. 800

There were allo Complaints on the other Side, of theſe and ſuch-like Proceedings, eſpecially this of the Rabble; which occaſion'd the Lords to make the Order of Jan. 16, 1640, (remembred already on another Occaſion) 'That the Divine 'Service be performed as it is appointed by the Acts 'of Parliament of this Realm; and that all ſuch as 'ſhall diſturb that wholſom Order, ſhall be ſeverely 'puniſhed according to the Law, &c.

Clar. Vol. I. p. 232.

But the firſt open Attempt made upon it by the Houſe of Commons, was † Sept. 7, (if I miſtake not) 1641; when 'finding their Numbers to be 'ſo thin, that they might by Art or Accident pre-'vail with the Major part to be of their Mind; 'and to gratify the more violent Party of the Re-'formers, (who with great Impatience ſuffer'd 'themſelves to be contain'd within any Bounds 'or Limits by thoſe, who knew better how to 'conduct their Buſineſs) they enter'd upon De-'bate of the Book of Common-Prayer, (which 'ſure, at that Time, was much Reverenced 'throughout the Kingdom) and propoſed, in re-'gard (they ſaid) many Things in it gave Of-'fence, at leaſt Umbrage to tender Conſcien-'ces, that there might be Liberty to diſuſe it; 'which Propoſition was ſo Ungracious, that tho' 'it was made in a thin Houſe, and preſs'd by 'thoſe, who were of the greateſt Power and Au-'thority, it was ſo far from being conſented to, 'that by the Major part (the Houſe conſiſting 'then of about Six Score) it was Voted, that it 'ſhould be duly obſerv'd; However, the next 'Day, contrary to all Rules and Orders of 'Parliament, very many being abſent, who had 'been active in that Debate, they ſuſpended that 'Order; and made the Order of September 8, 'about ſuppreſſing Innovations, before taken No-'tice of.

4 Neal. Collect. Vol. II. p. 483, and Comp. Hiſt. of Engl. P. III. p. 184, make it Sept. the 18.

Sixty for it, Fifty five againſt it. Neal. Collect. Vol. II. p. 475.

Dodg. Short View, p. 338.

It ſeems a Circumſtance not too Mean to be obſerv'd, touching theſe Matters, That by an Order, dated Aug. 3, 1642, they commanded Dr. Duck not to 'put by a Miniſter from Inſtituti-'on and Induction, tho' he had ſcandaliz'd the Li-'turgy of the Church; 'telling the Book of Com-'mon-Prayer a Great Thing,' which ſeem'd but little to accord with their Declaration of Sept. 30, wherein they profeſs'd, 'That tho' they had voted 'the utter Eradication of Epiſcopacy, yet they in-'tended not to extirpate the Liturgy and Com-'mon-Prayer; but ſo far to regulate the ſame, as 'might agree with the Truth of God's Word;' and with another to the ſame Effect, of October 6, following, (when they brought the Bill for the Aſſembly of Divines) that 'the Parlia-'ment doth not intend wholly to abrogate the 'Book of Common-Prayer and Liturgy:' For ſurely had they meant to Preſerve it, they would not have ſuffered it to be vilified and traduced.

Ibid.

Ibid.

But the Lord Clarendon hath ſufficiently accounted for theſe, and ſuch like Profeſſions and Proteſtations of the Houſe, 'to confirm and en-'courage the Factious and Schiſmatical Party of 'the Kingdom (ſaith that Noble Lord) which 'thought the Pace towards the Reformation 'was not brisk and furious enough, and was 'with great Difficulty, contain'd in ſo ſlow 'a March. They had a little before, publiſh'd a 'Declaration, that they intended a due and neceſ-'ſary Reformation of the Government and Liturgy 'of the Church; and to take away nothing in the 'One or the Other, but what ſhould be Evil, and 'juſtly Offenſive; or, at leaſt, Unneceſſary and 'Burthenſome, &c.'

Poſſibly the Declaration of Sept. 30; but it is not mentioned by Mr. Dugd. tho' the expreſs Words cited by him, are not in that Repreſentation of it, given by the Lord Clarendon, but only an Intimation of what Mr. Dugd. affirms, as in the Caſe of the Bill for the Aſſembly, juſt now taken Notice of.

Which Declaration ſerv'd to a double purpoſe: On the one hand, it 'hearten'd thoſe who were 'impatient for a Reformation;' and 'who in truth, 'had ſo implicit a Faith in their Leaders, that 'they expected another manner of Reformation, 'than was publickly promiſed:' And on t'other, it 'lull'd thoſe aſleep, who began to be awake, with 'the Apprehenſion of that Confuſion they appre-'hended from the Practice, and Licence they ſaw 'practis'd againſt the recein'd Government and 'Doctrine of the Church:' For altho' this Declaration was drawn up with Art and Cunning enough, yet there was ſufficient Evidence to wiſe Men, what was intended; and as the Lord Clarendon juſtly obſerves, it Logically comprehended an Alteration as great as was afterwards attempted, and made: However, with Lazy and Quiet Men, who either could not, or would not ſee Conſequences, it ſerved much to abate their Fears; and tho' Twelve Months before (when there was a ſingular Reverence for the Liturgy) thus much would have given great Umbrage and Scandal to the People; yet at this Time, when they had been told that the Parliament intended the utter Extirpation of it, they were very eaſy, and thought it a fair Compoſition, that it was only to be Reformed in the Manner there declared: And 'ſo by degrees they ſuffer-'ed themſelves to be ſtill prevail'd on towards Ends 'they extreamly abhorred; and what at firſt ſeem'd 'Prophane and Impious to them, in a little time 'appeared only inconvenient:' By which means the moſt excellent Service of our Church (compiled by ſome of thoſe who witneſſed againſt the Errors of Popery with their Blood) was in Concluſion taken away, as † Popiſh and Superſtitious, whilſt the Directory ſucceeded in the room of it: The Ordinance for theſe Purpoſes (after 'Advice 'and Conſultation with Reverend, Pious and 'Learned Divines,' namely thoſe of the Aſſembly) paſſed Jan. 3, 1643; by which they repealed the Statutes of the 2d and 3d of King Edward the Sixth; the Statute of the 5th and 6th of the ſame Prince; and as much of the 1ſt, 5th, and 8th of Queen Elizabeth, as concerned the Uſe of the Common Prayer: And farther provided, 'That 'the ſaid Book of Common-Prayer ſhall not re-'main, or be from hence-forth uſed in any Church, 'Chapel, or Place of Publick Worſhip within 'the Kingdom of England, or Dominion of 'Wales; and that the Directory for Publick 'Worſhip (annexed to the Ordinance) ſhall be 'henceforth uſed, &c.'

† See the Preface to the Directory. Scob. Coll. Part I. p. 275.

See Scob. Collect. Part I. p. 97, but what hath been noted above Nov. 26, foregoing. See Dugd. View, p. 193.

But not having in this Ordinance taken any Care for diſpoſing the Directory, nor by any Penalties, made ſufficient Proviſion, either for the Obſervance of that, or the Diſuſe of the Common-Prayer; they, at the Petition of the Aſſembly, did, by another Ordinance of Auguſt, 1645, ſupply that Omiſſion, and provide, that whatever Miniſter omitted the Uſe of the Directory, ſhould for every ſuch Omiſſion, forfeit Forty Shillings; and that whoever 'depraved it by 'Preaching, Writing or Printing,' (notwithſtanding the Outcrys they had ſo lately made againſt the rigorous Impoſition of the Common-Prayer, and the Execution of the Laws againſt the Deprayers of that Service) ſhould be fined at the Diſcretion of thoſe, before whom they were Convicted; provided the Fine was not under Five Pounds.

Comp. Hiſt. of Engl. P. 147.

Scob. Part I. P. 97.

But

Digitized by Google

But that which moſt deſerves Conſideration, is the Penalty impoſ'd for uſing the Common-Prayer; the Ordinance providing 'that if any 'Perſon or Perſons whatſoever, ſhall at any time 'or times hereafter, uſe, or cauſe the aforeſaid 'Book of Common-Prayer to be uſed, in any Church, 'Chapel or Publick Place of Worſhip, or in any 'private Place or Family, within the Kingdom of England, &c. every ſuch Perſon ſo offending 'therein, ſhall for the firſt Offence, forfeit, and 'pay the Sum of Five Pounds of lawful Engliſh 'Money; for the ſecond Offence, the Sum of 'Ten Pounds; and for the Third Offence, ſhall 'ſuffer one whole Year's Imprisonment, without Bail 'or Mainprize.' And withal, in the Cloſe of the Ordinance, they further provided, that all the Common-Prayer Books of the Churches ſhould be brought in to the Committees of the ſeveral Counties.

And in Oct. 1647, when the uſing of Presbytery was under Debate, and Liberty of Conſcience propoſed to Diſſenters, provided they were not Roman Catholicks, the H. of Commons added alſo, that the Indulgence ſhould not extend to the Common-Prayer. See Comp. Hiſt. of Eng. P. III. Whitl. Mem. p. 276, 404.

See it in Heath. Coll. Fol. p. 754. See alſo Heyl. Hiſt. Presb. Ed. 2 p. 437.

I cannot but ſtop to obſerve, that this Ordinance, which impoſ'd the Uſe of the Directory, and forbad that of the Common-Prayer, under ſuch Severe Penalties, paſs'd Aug. 23, the very Eve of St. Bartholomew, which after 1662, became the Subject of ſo many Complaints; chiefly on Account of the Declaration of Aſſent and Conſent, &c. to the Common-Prayer, requir'd by the laſt Act of Uniformity, to be made ſome time before that Day: Tho' it may well be thought, had the Gentlemen who are ſo loud in theſe Complaints, either known, or at leaſt, obſerved this Circumſtance of Hiſtory, they would have been leſs clamorous on that occaſion. For with what reaſon can they declaim ſo loudly againſt the Reſtitution of the Publick Service, which Themſelves had on that very Day of the ſame Month, 17 Years before, interdicted? And that too, under much greater Penalties than any, by which the Act for Uniformity provided for its Re-eſtabliſhment? For that Act concern'd the Clergy only; nor did it reach in any kind whatſoever, the Devotions of Private Houſes; and contented it ſelf with barely Incapacitating all Parſons, Vicars, Miniſters, &c. then poſſeſs'd of, or to be poſſeſs'd of any Spiritual Promotions, who ſhould not declare their Aſſent, &c. without appointing any other Penalty in Default of ſuch Declaration. And where it did provide Penalties for Offences of another nature, the Imprisonment was but for Three Months.

Queen Elizabeth's Act of Uniformity was indeed much more ſevere, but I am at preſent ſpeaking only of the laſt Act of Uniformity.

P. 30. See alſo p. 283.

In 1649. I alſo find it referr'd to the Committee for Hinder'd Miniſters, to conſider ſuch as read Com-Prayer. See Comp. Hiſt. of Eng. P. III. p. 160. & Scob. Coll. Part 2 p. 111.

Whereas this Ordinance concern'd the Laity, as well as the Clergy; it forbad the Uſe of the Common-Prayer even in Private Families: And beſides the Penalties for omitting the Directory, and the Fines for the Firſt and Second Offence of uſing the Common-Prayer, it was ſatisfi'd with nothing leſs than Twelve Months Imprisonment (Four times as much as the Act of Uniformity impoſed in that kind on the greateſt Default) of any Perſon that ſhould offend a third time, by reading the Common-Prayer, tho' but in a Private Family. Nor were theſe Penalties (to obſerve that by the way) leſs effectual to incapacitate the Offenders, and prevent their holding any Promotions, than the expreſs Proviſion for that Purpoſe, in what they invidiouſly call (from the time of its commencing) the Bartholomew (i. e. the Uniformity) Act.

I make no Obſervations on this Providential Re-eſtabliſhment of the Liturgy, the ſelf ſame Day that it had been for Seventeen Years before laid aſide, under the Penalties now mentioned: Altho' I cannot but think, that ſuch a Circumſtance in ſome other hands, would have been ſpread over many Pages, alledged on all occaſions, and been put into the Mouths of their People, as a manifeſt Judgment of God on their Adverſaries, and an irreſragable Argum ut of his owning (as they love to call it) the Juſtice and Righteouſneſs of their Cauſe.

But I return from this Digreſſion; and muſt now let the Reader know, that in oppoſition to the laſt mentioned Ordinance, his Sacred Majeſty iſſued a Proclamation of Nov. 13, that ſame Year; aſſerting the many and great Benefits which had attended the Due Performance of the Publick Service of the Church; and requiring the Continuance and Uſe of it. But alaſs, he wanted that Power to enforce theſe Commands, which ſucceſsful Wickedneſs had given his, and the Church's Adverſaries: And therefore the only Effect of them, as far as I can learn, was the Evidence they gave of the great Eſteem, and the pious Concern which that Bleſſ'd Prince had for the excellent Service of our Church. Only I find an Entry in Mr. Whitlock's Memoirs of Oct. 26, 1646, which ſeems ſufficient to ground a Conjecture, that in ſome Places where the ſmall Remains of his Majeſty's Power, and of Zeal and Courage for the Eſtabliſhment, were yet left, an Attempt was made to put in practice the Injunctions of this Proclamation. For it there appears that complaint had been made of an Indictment in Bucks, 'for not reading the Common-' Prayer.' Whereupon it was order'd, 'That 'an Ordinance be brought in to take away the 'Statute that enjoyns it, and to diſable Malignant 'Miniſters from Preaching.'

I do not remember to have met with, or obſerv'd what was done in proſecution of this Order; unleſs the Project continu'd on the Anvil till 1650: For Sept. 27, that Year, an Ordinance paſs'd, which in the Preamble mentions the 'miſeſſing divers Religious, Peaceable and 'well affected People,' on account of the Common-Prayer: And therefore repeals the whole Act of the Firſt of Queen Elizabeth (viz. her Act of Uniformity) the whole Act of the 35th of the ſame Princeſs, for puniſhing Recuſants, &c. and great Part of the Act of the 23d of the ſame Reign, enjoyning all above Sixteen Years of Age, to repair to ſome Church, Chapel, &c. and 'all, and every the Branches, Clauſes, &c.' of any 'other Act or Ordinance of Parliament, 'whereby, or wherein any Penalty or Puniſhment 'is impoſed, or mentioned to be impoſed, on any 'Perſon whatſoever, for not repairing to their re-'ſpective Pariſh-Churches; or for not keeping of 'Holidays; or for not hearing Common-Prayer; or 'for ſpeaking, or inveighing againſt the Book of 'Common-Prayer.' And makes null all Proceedings againſt any Perſon, by virtue of ſuch Acts or Clauſes.

But whether this Ordinance was drawn up purſuant to that Order in 1646, or not, 'tis ſure that it compleated all their Deſigns againſt the Liturgy; and did withal utterly Diſſolve the Church of England as an Eſtabliſhment. Such was the Fatal Event of the Exceptions againſt her, and her publick Service, how ſmall ſoever they might appear in the Beginning, and how modeſt ſoever thoſe who firſt made them, might pretend themſelves. Which is abundantly ſufficient to deter any honeſt and ſincere Perſon, who profeſſes an Eſteem for the Eſtabliſh'd Church, from countenancing that Party, even in the moſt ſeemingly light and trivial Matters; ſince they have by this, and ſo many other Inſtances, demonſtrated, that their pretended Reformation is never other than an intended Extirpation.

Tho'

Digitized by Google

The Assembly.

Tho' the Church of England was at length (as is now said) by the Proceedings against her Publick Service and Offices, brought to a Period; yet there were other Projects against her, on foot at the same time, and concurrent with these, which are not yet accounted for. Among them, was that of the Assembly; which comes next to be spoken of. It is neither my Business, nor Purpose, to give the History of this Convention at large; but only to consider it, as it was made one of the Engines to pull down the Establishment. And that End it will appear to have promoted on many accounts.

Hist. Vol. I. p. 414.

The Assembly was begun (as the Lord Clarendon observes) ' with the Invasion and Suppression ' of the Church's Rights in a Synod, as well known ' as Magna Charta; especially considering, that a Regular Convocation was at that time in being. Besides which, the very calling together those Divines, and more particularly, the manner of Electing them, was a loud Reproach on the whole Body of the Establish'd Clergy; as being either not Godly, Learned or Orthodox enough, to be entrusted with the Affairs of Religion, or with the Choice of such as should debate upon them. Add to this, that they serv'd to countenance the worst and blackest Designs against the Ecclesiastical Establishment, that the most profess'd Enemies of it could Form in the House of Commons: And in the last place, they set on foot, and promoted several things themselves, which were as plainly destructive to the Church, as any that their Masters could invent. The Resolution of the House, formerly mention'd, that the Regular and Ordinary Convocation of the Clergy had no Power to make Constitutions, &c. or meddle in Matters of Doctrine, Discipline, &c. without Consent of Parliament, did in effect seem to point towards such an Irregular and Extraordinary Junto of Divines as this Assembly was; if, at least, the Faction intended, that any Clergy-men at all should be concerned in the setling of Church-matters. And the Foundation of it was afterwards but even too plainly laid in the Committee of Religion (more than once already hinted at) which was appointed by the Lords: Of which it will be therefore requisite to give a Short Account in this Place.

Full. Ch. Hist. Cent. 17. l. 11. p. 157.

It must therefore be observ'd, that * Mar. 15, 1641, the Lords order'd, that a Committee of Ten Earls, Ten Bishops and Ten Barons, should be nominated to settle the Affairs of the Church; by whom a Sub-Committee was the same Day nam'd (of which the Bishop of Lincoln had the Chair, as he had also of the Committee it self) to prepare matters for their Consideration; and authoriz'd to call together for that purpose, divers Bishops and Divines, to consult about that matter. The Meeting was held in the Jerusalem-Chamber; and the chief of those who appear'd, were Arch-bishop Usher, the then Bishops of Durham and Exeter, Dr. Samuel Ward, Dr. Prideaux, Dr. William Twisse, Dr. Saunderson, Dr. Featley, Dr. Brownrigg, Dr. Holdsworth, Dr. Hackett, Dr Corn. Burgess, Mr. ' Stephen White, Mr. Edmund Calamy and Mr. T. Hill; who had under debate no less than the whole Constitution of the Church, viz. the Matters of Doctrine, Discipline, Worship and Government: But about the middle of May following, before they could bring their Consultations (whatever they were) to any Issue, the Meeting was dispers'd, by the bringing in of the Bill in the House of Commons, against the Deans and Chapters.

* Sanderson's Life of Dr. Heylin, Hist Laud, p. 443. but I doubt, he mistook the Time of the A. Bp's Entry in his Diary, for the Day that the Committees was appointed. See Full. Ch. Hist. (in the Margin) Cent. 17. l. 11. p. 174. compar'd with Comm. Hist of K. Will. p. 134. See in these Authors also a fuller Account of this Committee, and their Proceedings.

In the mean time, the Pious Arch-bishop, with a Concern for the Welfare of the Church, and a Sagacity that was peculiar to him; soon after the appointing of this Committee, enter'd the following Remark in his Diary: ' This ' Committee (wherein the Lay Votes will be ' double to the Clergy) will meddle with † Doctrine as well as Ceremonies, and will call some ' Divines to them to consider of the Business. ' ——Upon the whole matter, I believe this ' Committee will prove the National Synod of England, to the great Dishonour of this Church; ' and what else may follow upon it, God knoweth.'

† As they did.

The Arch-bishop was indeed so far mistaken, that this very Committee did not prove the National Synod: But a Project of much the same kind, was soon after let on foot, and at last compleated into a Synod, such an one as it was.

In the Remonstrance of the State of the Kingdom, deliver'd (Dec. 1, 1641,) to his Majesty, the Commons declare, they meant to have a General Synod of the most ' grave, pious, learned and judicious Divines: And the 20th of the same Month, the Ministers (entrusted to solicit the Remonstrance formerly spoken of) presenting a Petition (which hath been likewise mention'd) to the House of Commons, requested that the House would consult a Free † Synod of Grave, Learned and Judicious Divines (indicted by the Authority of Parliament) to perfect the Reformation of the Church. These were the first open and avowed Steps of the Party towards this Undertaking, that I remember to have met with. After which, I find it in hand again June 1642. About the same time, if I mistake not, both Houses, in a Declaration which they publish'd relating to the Liturgy, and Church-Government, gave publick Notice, that they intended ' speedily to have consultation with ' Godly and Learned Divines:' And accordingly, Oct. 6, following, a Bill was brought in for that purpose, pass'd the Houses, and was, among others, presented to his Majesty at Oxford; but rejected by him.

Clar. Vol. I. p. 252. Comp. Hist. Eng. p. 112. † When at that time there was scarce one Orthodox Divine of England, in Reputation with them, as Clarendon observes in that Place.

† Vol. I. col. 768.

Clar. Vol. I. p. 413.

Dugd. Short View p. 53.

This Bill was much the same with the Ordinance which they afterwards passed themselves for the Assembly; save that there were no Lay Assessors mentioned in it. See it, Hush. Collect. Fol. p. 141.

However, June 12, the following Year, they pass'd an Ordinance themselves, for calling this Assembly; wherein they set forth, that nothing being more dear than ' Purity of Religion;' and many things in the ' Liturgy, Government and ' Discipline of the Church,' yet remaining, which stood in need of a more ' perfect Reformation;' and that the Lords and Commons having already Declar'd and Resolv'd, that the ' Church- ' Government by Arch-bishops, Bishops, &c. is ' Evil, Offensive, Burthensome, an Impediment to ' Reformation, and prejudicial to the State,' and therefore to be ' taken away;' and that a Government be settled agreeable to ' God's Word,' apt ' to preserve the Peace of the Church at home,' and nearer ' Agreement with the Church of Scotland, and other Reformed Churches:' For ' the better effecting hereof, and for the vindicating ' and clearing of the Doctrine of the Church of ' England from all false Calumnies and Aspersions; it is thought ' Fit and Necessary to call ' an Assembly of Learned, Godly and Judicious ' Divines, to consult' of such things ' as both, or ' either of the Houses' shall ' propose to them;' and to give their ' Advice and Counsel,' when ' required.' After which, they proceed to recite the Names of those Persons who were to compose the Assembly; and provide, that they shall meet on Summons from both Houses, in H.

Scob. Collect. Part 2. p. 42. where for the Names, as well of the Lay-Assessors, as of the Divines, the 7th's Chapel, on the First of July that Year, and proceed to Business (under the Restrictions before mentioned) 'being at least, of the 'Number of Forty.' Then the Ordinance nominates Dr. Twisse Chairman, or Prolocutor; reserves a Power to the Houses of nominating his Substitute, or Successor, in case of Sickness or Death. And if these Learned and Judicious Divines should disagree in their Opinions, reserves likewise the Hearing of that matter to the Houses of Parliament for their farther Direction. And having settled a Salary of † 4 l. per diem on each Member, indomnify'd them for Non-Residences; and taken care that as any Vacancies happen'd, they should be supply'd no otherwise than by the Houses; the Ordinance cautiously provides, that they shall not 'Assume to exer- 'cise any Jurisdiction, Power or Authority Eccle- 'siastical whatsoever; or any other Power than is 'herein particularly express'd.'

 After ordered to be paid out of the Revenues of the A. Bp. of Cant. See Scob. Coll. Part 1. p. 104.*

See also Abridg. p. 82.

The manner of naming the Members to this Assembly, as well in regard to the Partiality of it, as to the Persons who took that Office upon them, was very extraordinary, and surely unknown to the Christian World before that time. For they were not to be chosen by the Clergy; but the House of Commons appointed 'the 'Knights, and Burgesses to bring in the Names 'of such Divines for the several Counties, as 'they thought fit, to constitute an Assembly for 'the Framing a New Model for the Government 'of the Church; which was done accordingly; 'Those who were true Sons of the Church, not 'so much as endeavouring the Nomination of 'Sober and Learned Men, abhorring such a Re- 'formation as began with the Invasion and Suppression of the Church's Rights in a Synod as well known as Magna Charta. And if any well affected Member, not enough considering the Scandal and the Consequence of that Violation, did name an Orthodox and well reputed Divine, to assist in that Assembly, it was Argument enough against him, that he was nominated by a Person in whom they had no confidence: And they only had Reputation enough to commend to this Consultation, who were known to desire the utter Demolishing of the whole Fabrick of the Church.'

Full. Ch. Hist. Cruc. 37. L. 11 p. 197. See also Aur. p. 82. Clar. Hist. Vol. I. p. 414. The Ld. Heyl. Hist. Presb. Ed 2. p. 455. mentions the Knights only

This Nomination was made of Two Divines for each County; and that without any manner of regard to the Ecclesiastical Settlement and Distribution of Dioceses. Nor would the Parliament entrust those Divines, tho' of their own calling, so much as to chuse their own Chairman; or the Chair-man himself, so much as to appoint a Substitute, in case of Avocation, or Sickness: But, as is before said, Nominated the One, and reserv'd to themselves the Power of Appointing the Other, by an express Clause in the Ordinance. And many of those who were named, refusing to appear (some for one reason, and others for considerations of a different nature) the Houses at several times supply'd those Vacancies also themselves, with such, as for that reason, were call'd Superadded Divines.

Heyl. Hist. Presb. Ed. 2. p. 453. Full. ubi supra; who saith, Two, or more Divines for a County, but did not keep exactly to that method. See Abridg. p. 82.

Full. Ibid. p. 260.

See also Abridg. p. 83.

The Persons thus Nominated and Appointed, consisted of about 120: For to those named by the House of Commons, the Lords added some Few: And there were no less than Thirty Lay-men joyned in * equal Authority with them, viz. Ten Lords, and † Twenty Commoners; who were intended, ‡ no doubt, both to controul, and to be Spies upon their Proceedings. As to the Divines themselves, they were not all of the same sort; those added by the Lords, and some few ‖ recommended by two or three Members, whom they were not willing to displease, ¶ were very Reverend and Worthy Men, and Episcopal in their Judgments, tho', I think, mostly Calvinists in point of Doctrine: But these, for the most part, * disdain'd to sit among them; and scarce any of them continu'd any time with them, except Dr. Daniel ‖ Featly. So that far the greater part of the Convention, either at that time, † favoured the Presbyterian Discipline, or ‡ in process of time, were brought over to embrace it.‖ Only Five, who had embrac'd the ‡ Independent Principles, were blended with them; who having some time before fled to Holland for Nonconformity, and returning in the Beginning of this Parliament, were adopted into this Assembly; and after known by the Name of the Dissenting Brethren: Of whom, more by and by. And to compleat the Medly, a certain Number of Scots Commissioners were at last added to them, consisting of some of the Scottish Nobility, and some of their Clergy.

* White. Mem. p. 69.

† All Members of the H. of Commons, of Lawyers not.

‡ See also Abridg. p. 83.

‖ Clar. Hist. Vol. I. p. 415. Heyl. Hist. Presb. Ed. 2. p. 451. Full. Ch. Hist. Centur. 17. L. 11 p. 158, 159.

* Such as Dr. Ussher, Dr. Brownrigg, Bp. of Exeter, Dr. Westfield, Bp of Bristol, Dr Morton, Dr Morley, Dr. Ward, Dr Saunderson, Dr. Hammond, Dr Hildersham, &c. See more the Abridgment, p. 82. and the Additions.

* See the Abridg. p. 82.

‖ The most Learned truly Master of Learning &c. But after Great provocation as Expostulation, &c.

Land indeed, & 'tis so true, as to appear among them for a little while: But after attending his Majesty's Person in Scotland, &c. they had that Great provocation from Hence, by Honouring him (and Scandalizing themselves) with an Expulsion from their Assembly. See Comp. Hist. of Engl. Vol. III. p. 135.

† See also Abridg. p. 82. and Baillie as supra.

Such was the Mixture of which the Assembly was compounded: The Character of whom, take in the Words of the Noble Lord Clarendon; who having accounted for their Nomination, thus proceeds: 'So that of about 120, of 'which that Assembly was to consist, they 'were not above Twenty who were not declar'd 'and avow'd Enemies to the Doctrine or Discipline 'of the Church of England; some of them infamous in their Lives and Conversations, and most of them of very mean Parts in Learning, if not of scandalous Ignorance, and of 'no other Reputation, than of Malice to the 'Church of England: So that that Convention 'hath not since † produc'd any thing that might 'not then reasonably have been expected from it.' Agreeable to which, is the Account given of them, in a Proclamation of his Maj fty, which will be mention'd by and by; namely, that they were neither Men of "Learning nor Reputation"; eminently disaffected to the Government of the 'Church of England; and such as had openly 'preach'd Rebellion, by their exciting of the People 'to take Arms against him.' Much the same Character is likewise given of them by the incomparable Arch bishop; whose first Martyrdom was his having to fee this Assembly convend. ' A great ‡ part (saith he) if not the greater part of them, were Brownists, or Independents, or New-England Ministers, if not worse; ' or at best, refractory Persons to the Doctrine, ' or Discipline, or both, of the Church of England' eſtabliſh'd by Law, and now brought together ' to Reform it. An excellent Conclave! ' This without God's infinite Mercy, will bring ' forth a Schism worse enough to rend and tear ' Religion out of this Kingdom.' And even Mr. Milton himself hath left this Teſtimony of ' them, that they were ' neither chosen by any ' Rule or Custom Ecclesiastical; ' nor eminent ' for either Piety or Knowledge, above others ' left out. —— The most part of them were ' such as had preach'd and cry'd down with ' great Shew of Zeal, the Avarice and Pluralities of Bishops and Prelates; and one ' Cure of Souls was a full Employment for one ' Spiritual Pastor, how able soever, if not a ' Charge rather above humane Strength. Yet ' these conscientious Men (e'er any part of the ' Work done for which they came together, and ' that on the publick Salary) wanted not Bold-

Hist. Vol I. p. 416. See also the Abridgment, p. 82. Note Dissenters &c. Declar. of Aug. 13, 1643. Husb. Coll. 410. p. 346.

Digitized by Google

‡ nefs

'ness, to the Ignominy and Scandal of their Pastor-
'like Profession, and especially of their boasted 'Reformation, to force into their Hands, or not 'unwillingly to accept (besides one, sometimes 'two, or more of the best Livings) Collegiate
'Masterships in the Universities, Rich Lectures
'in the City, setting Sail to all Winds that might 'blow gain into their Covetous Bosoms; by 'which means these great Rebukers of Non-Re'sidence, among so many distant Cures, were
'not ashamed to be seen so quickly Pluralists,
'and Non-Residents themselves, to a fearful
'Condemnation doubtless by their own Mouths.
'So that between Them the Teachers, and These
'the Disciples, there hath not been a more Igno-
'minious and Mortal Wound to Faith, to Piety,
'to the Work of Reformation; nor more Cause of 'Blaspheming given to the Enemies of God's 'Truth, since the first preaching of Reformation,
'——then looking on the Churchmen, whom
'they saw under subtile Hypocrisy to have 'preached their own Follies most of them, not
'the Gospel Time-Servers, Covetous, Illiterate,
'Persecuters, not Lovers of Truth, like in most 'Things whereof they accused their Predecessors;
'looking on all this, the People which had been 'kept warm a while with the Counterfeit Zeal
'of their Pulpits, after a false Heat, became more 'cold and obdurate than before; some turning to 'Lewdness; some to flat Atheism, put beside 'their old Religion, and fouly scandalized in 'what they expected should be new.'

See the Assembly-man p. 1.

Agreeable to the manner of their Nomination, and the Characters of them now produced, was their Meeting, Appearance, Continuance, and Proceedings: As they had not been convened by Royal Authority, without which (not to mention other Requisites) they could never be a Legal Assembly of the Clergy in these Nations: So on the other hand, his Majesty had, by his Proclamation of June 22, † expressly countermanded them, and 'inhibited them from meeting at the Time appointed;' Notwithstanding which, in pursuance of the Ordinance, they got together, Saturday, * July 1, 1643, to the Number of Sixty nine; appearing (saith one who was not prejudic'd against them) '‡ in Coats, and Cloaks, of several Forms and Fashions; so that Dr. Westfield, 'and some few others, ‖ seemed the only Non-conformists among them, for their Conformity; 'whole Gowns and Canonical Habits differ'd from 'all the rest.'

Dr. Twiss, their Chairman, in his Sermon at the Opening of the Assembly, could not but take Notice of this, and complained of the want of the Royal Assent. See Fuller's Ch. Hist Cent. 17. L. 11 p. 199.

† Heyl. Hist. Presbyt. (Edit. 2.) p. 451, 454.

* Comp. Hist. Vol. III p. 134.

‡ Full. Ch. Hist. Cent. 17. L. 11. p. 199.

‖ See also the Assembly-man, p. 12, 13.

But the Hopes which were conceived of this Godly Assembly, and which no doubt they had conceived of themselves, were strangely blasted, by the unexpected Obstacles and Obstructions which they met with, in the carrying on of the intended Reformation: For in the first Place, Mr. Selden (one of the Lay Assessors) who had no Affection for any Clergy-man, and less for those of the Assembly, than for any, imploy'd the vast Treasure of Learning, of which he was Master, 'rather to pose than profit, perplex than inform the 'Members;' and particularly opposed the 'Jure-Divino-ship of Presbytery' as Fuller terms it. Mr. Whitlock (who was also himself a Lay-Member) with a seeming Pleasure, takes Notice to this Purpose, That 'Mr. Selden spoke admirably, 'and Confuted divers of them in their own 'Learning; and sometimes, when they had cited 'a Text of Scripture to prove their Assertion, he 'would tell them, Perhaps on your little Pocket-Bibles, with Gilt Leaves which they would often pull out, and Read, the Translation may be 'right; but the Greek or the Hebrew signifies thus 'or thus; and so would totally silence them.

Fuller. Ch. Hist. Cent. 17. L. 11. p. 213.

See also the Assembly-Man, p. 6, 7.

Mem. p. 68.

But that which gave them much more Trouble, was, the Opposition they found from the Five Dissenting Brethren before mention'd, viz. Mr. Tho. Goodwin, Mr. Ph. Nye, Mr. Sidr. Simpson, Mr. Jeremiah Burroughs, Mr. William Bridge; of whom it must be remembred, that some time before the breaking out of the Rebellion, they remov'd themselves and their Effects to Holland, accompany'd with several wealthy Merchants, and their Families; and settling part at Rotterdam, and part at Arnheim, erected a Congregational and Independant Church Discipline of their own; that Establish'd by the Laws in England, being so corrupted, that they could not submit to it; and therefore quitted the Kingdom.

See Comp. Hist. of Eng. Vol III p. 143, 152. Full. Ch. Hist Cent. 17. L. 11. p. 208, 209, &c.

The Account of which, set in Fuller ubi supra.

Upon the Blessed Reformation, began by the Parliament, they return'd again into England, gather'd Congregations in London; and at length getting themselves Nam'd to this Convention, (as is aforesaid) 'They desir'd a Toleration to 'be indulged them, and they excus'd for being 'concluded by the Votes of the Assembly.' And Contemptible as these Five Members might seem at first, like the little Cloud like a Man's Hand, which appear'd to Elijah's Servant, they grew at last into a Blackness, which over-spread the whole Hemisphere of Presbytery. For having presented a sort of Petitionary *Remonstrance to the Parliament, on the Subject now mentioned, they found so much Favour and Countenance from some of the Leading Members, that they were 'secur'd from farther Trouble' for the present; and so far carry'd the Point they aim'd at, that the whole Body of the Assembly (as they may be justly call'd) could never carry the Opposite one with the Parliament. Nor was this all; for they otherwise obstructed the Settlement of th: Presbyterian Model, and gave the Assembly so much Trouble on that Head, that they were at last appointed a Solemn Day of Hearing against the Establishing of that Government; to which the other part of the Assembly were to answer in Writing, and the Arguments were to be laid before the House of Commons; which was accordingly done. What was the Event, when they were debated in the House, (for which a Day was appointed) I know not: But it is known to every One, that at last the Independent Opinion became the prevailing one of the Army; and by that Means, at length got into the whole Power of the Government.

1 Kings 18, 44.

* See also Abridgment, p. 86.

* See also Comp. Hist. of Eng. Vol III p. 148, 152.

See also Baxter's Elenchut, p. 51.

Comp. Hist. of Engl. Vol III p. 144.

Whitl. Mem. p. 178.

It was upon this Occasion, that the Presbyterian Divines made such loud Outcries against Toleration, as fill'd the whole Kingdom; and left no Stone unturn'd, or any thing that lay within the Verge of their Power, unattempted, to obtain from the Houses an Ordinance against the Liberty then practis'd. The Assembly in a Body Remonstrated against it to the Parliament, and made all other Applications to them: For the same Purpose, the Members of it singly, (and others of the Presbyterian Divines) fill'd the Pulpits with the loudest Declamations against it; more especially when any of them preach'd before the Houses of Parliament. The Presses were employ'd in the same Work; the Ministers of several Counties published their joint Testimonies against it. And, in a Word, as "Fuller observes, 'Those who desir'd most Ease and Liberty for 'their Sides, when bound with Episcopacy, now 'girt their own Garment the closest about the 'Consciences of others.' It must be own'd, that if ever they argued strenuously and handsomely, (setting aside the uncommon, I had almost said, unheard of Expressions of Infamy, wherewith they loaded the Toleration) it was upon this Sub-

See Toleration Disappro'd and Condemn'd, &c. Printed at Oxon, 1670.

" Ch. Hist. Cent. 17. L. 11. p. 232.

A City of Refuge in Mens Consciences for the Devil to fly into. A Toleration of Soul-Murther; for Establishing whereof, damn'd Souls in Hell will Curse Men upon Earth. A Tranquebar, Catholick, and Fundamental Evil, Maiden, &c. from; the Abomination of Desolation. All the Devils in Hell, and their Instruments are at work to promote a Toleration, &c. Jer.

Digitized by Google

yet. Large Collections have been made and publish'd out of their Writings, on this Head; and therefore I shall only add in this Place, That if their Successors at this Day, will call every Restraint of Liberty in Religious Matters, Persecution; they must wholly disclaim the Principles of the Old Presbyterians, and own Themselves the Disciples of the Independents: Nor is there much Reason, why they should scruple to do it; for by the late Principles, on which they have chosen to defend their Separation; 'tis plain enough, there are in strictness of speaking, few Presbyterian Teachers left in England; tho' there are indeed but too many, who continue under that Denomination, to delude their Ignorant Followers.

Besides the Trouble, which the Assembly met with, from the Dissenting-Brethren, there were amongst them some Erastians also, who gave them no little Disturbance; or rather, indeed, defeated the whole Intent of this hopeful Convention. The chief of These were Mr. Lightfoot, and Mr. Coleman; and their Doctrine was hearken'd to with a great deal of Pleasure by the House, and made use of as a Check upon Those, who press'd the Settlement of the Scottish Discipline, with more Vehemence than the Parliament approv'd of.

It is indeed to be wonder'd at, that the Men of that Principle should have met with any Opposition at all from such an Assembly; since it was in its very Constitution, (however the Majority might be in their private Opinions) altogether Erastian. The whole pretended Authority, by which they sat, was from the Lay-men of the Two Houses, who had usurp'd the Regal Power: By these meer Lay-men, was each Member nominated to the Assembly: Their Commission empower'd them not to conclude any Thing themselves, but only to advise of such Matters, as Those State-Councils should lay before them; and then Report their Opinons back again, in order to be made use of, and pass'd into Laws, or to be rejected, as the Parliament should think fit: So that they could in Truth assume no other Character, than that of meer Advisers to those Two Great Assemblies of Lay-men, who took upon them the whole Settlement of Religion.

See Abridg. p. 82.

The Abridgment, subjoin'd seems to excuse the manner in which they were Chosen, by representing them under this View, and not in that of a National Council, or Synod. This is indeed the only Action, under which many other Things besides that of their Nomination, can be defended, and if admitted, will take off the force, and very much alter the State of several of the Observations here advanc'd. But then a worse Thing will follow, namely, That by their own Confession, they had no Synod at all; and the most effect of Religion, and all that Power in Ecclesiastical Matters, which the Christian Church hath ever agreed to call the Right of the Clergy, were abrog'd by the Parliament, as it seems they took with them the opportunity of the Clergy (such of them, I mean, as they thought fit) into whom to put for-mal Acts to some Something of such Matters: And to this Ignominious Pass it was Those Divines, who compos'd the Assembly, willing to lend their Helping Hand. * See Full. Ch. Hist. Cent. 17. b. 11. p. 214

And in that Capacity only, did the Parliament look upon them; for it must be noted in the last Place, that the greatest Obstruction of all to the Proceedings of the Assembly, was that which they met with from their own Masters, who treated them only like Creatures of their own making, (as indeed they were) us'd them for no other Purposes, than those of Tools, to carry on such Designs of their own, as they had in View, and then * suffer'd them to sink away in Derision and Contempt.

I have before observ'd, that they were not intrusted to choose their own Chair-man, or to much as his Substitute, nor to supply the Vacancies of their Members; That they had a Set of the Members of each House of Parliament put upon them for a Curb; That their whole Business was to be chalk'd out for them, beyond which they durst not advance one Step; That in case of any Disagreement in their Debates and Opinions, the Houses were to be Umpire betwixt them. All which, either blindly in their Ignorance, or wittingly in their Zeal for the Extirpation of Episcopacy, and the Establish'd Church, they were content to submit unto: Besides which, I have also Remark'd already, that they could never get the Parliament to curb the Independents, nor to Restrain that Lawless Liberty, which, on the Suppression of the Establish'd Hierarchy, had begun to discover itself in numberless Sects and Errors; and that they were the Derision of Mr. Selden and Mr. Whitlock, Two Leading Members of the Commons, and Assessors in this Assembly. I must now add, That the Parliament indeed afforded them good Words, as well to keep them in Humour, as to give them some Reputation with the People, with whom they were to Countenance, and help on such wicked Designs as the Houses had farther in their Intentions. But they still kept a very strict Hand over them, and never permitted them to assume the Coercive Power in Matters of Church-Government; or to do any other Thing in that Kind, which was Material. 'Indeed once the 'Assembly stretch'd themselves beyond their own 'Line, (says Fuller, speaking of this Matter) in 'meddling with what was not committed by the 'Parliament to their Cognizance and Consultation; for which they were afterwards shak'd down, and ty'd up with a shorter Tedder. For tho' the wise Parliament made use of the Presbyterian Zeal and Activity for the Extirpation of Bishops, yet they discreetly resolv'd to hold a 'strict Hand over them, as not coming by their own Power to Advise, but call'd to Advise with the 'Parliament; nor were they to cut out their own Work, but to make up what was cut to their own Hands: And seeing a Presumptive is a Rod, as 'well for a Presbyter, as a Prelate —— Tho' 'they felt not this Rod, it was shew'd to them, 'and shak'd over them.' Ch. Hist. Cent. 17. b. 11. p. 214.

The Instances of this were several, in the Course of their Session; I shall mention but some few of them: And in the first Place, the House never suffer'd the beloved Jure Divino ship of Presbytery to pass thro' it. I have before observ'd, how Mr. Selden in particular, oppos'd it in the Assembly it self: And when the Question was put, on the Debate of the Ordinance for Setling Church Government, it was once diverted by a Lay-Member of the Assembly, in a long and set Speech for that purpose. However, the Majority were for it; and therefore, in their Advice and Opinion for the Settlement of Presbyterian Government, presented to the House, they had inserted an Expression, that it was Jure Divino. This they thought to have pass'd in a thin House of their own Friends, who had Notice to attend betimes; but Mr. Gee stood up, and delay'd them with a Speech of an Hour long; and was seconded by Mr. Whitlock, till the House was full: And then, upon the Question, the Jus Divinum was rejected: Tho' Gentlemen having afterwards the Thanks of divers of the Members, for preventing the Surprizal of the House.

Comp. Hist. of Engl. Vol. III. p. 151, 152. which Abridgment, p. 100.

Ibid.

Not could they ever get the Scottish Government and Discipline brought in such a Manner as they desir'd; notwithstanding the very Pretence for calling them was, to Settle a Government agreeable to God's Word, and to make a nearer approach to the Church of Scotland. For tho' they had destroy'd Episcopacy, and the Establish'd Discipline, and the Nation was in without any manner of Government or Order in Church-Affairs, (nothing being settled in the room of them yet would the House at last, as little endure the Voice of the People, as they would

Full. Ch. Hist. who for

Digitized by Google

would, what they call'd Prelatical Tyranny; nor could the Assembly ever obtain the full of their Wishes in that Kind. It would be endless to trace all that pass'd betwixt the Assembly and the Houses, on this Head, and the many Attempts and Complaints, which were made on that Account. Let it suffice to say, that they were so jealous of this Discipline, that about Sept. 1645, being inform'd of an intended 'Petition for Establishing Presbytery,' as the Discipline of Jesus Christ; they voted it SCANDALOUS, even before they receiv'd it. And Nov. 19, the same Year, the Common-Council of London having Petition'd the House of Commons to the same purpose; They order'd a sharp Answer to be penn'd in Return to it; in which, among other Things, they tell them, They 'conceiv'd the City and Common-Council were inform'd falsely of their Proceedings, or else they would not have presupposed on the Judgment of the Parliament: And when another Petition of the same Import was deliver'd from divers Ministers of London, they refer'd it to a Committee, to find out the Design of the Petition, and who were the Advancers thereof; and then sent out two of their Members to the Petitioners, to tell them, They need not attend for an Answer; but should go Home, and look to the Charges of their several Congregations.'

See Compl. Hist. of Eng. Vol III. p. 148. Whitl. Mem. p. 147. Rushw. pars 3 p. 139.

Nor did they at last consent to as much of it as was after pass'd; but for fear of disobliging their good Brethren of Scotland, whose Assistance they could not want at that Time; and therefore the Commissioners of that Nation, having labour'd it with great Industry in the Assembly; and the Parliament of that Kingdom having by a Letter solemnly desir'd a speedy Settling of Church-Government, according to the Judgment of the Assembly of Divines: The House in February 1645, were compell'd to set about the Business of Religion; and in March following, an Ordinance was pass'd, making some Advance towards the settling this long desired Model of Government, but such an one, as 'after all the Presentations and Title of Presbytery, made it rather a Scheme of Magistrate, and under the Administration of the People.'

Full. Ch. Hist. Cent. 17 L. 11. p. 214. See also Compl. Hist. of Engl. Vol. III. p. 142, 144. * See Husb. Collect. Folio, p. 809. Whitl. Mem. p. 203. Compl. Hist. of Engl. Vol. III. p. 148. † I have not seen this Ordinance; it finds Two to Scobell to August 29, this Effect, the one of Jan. 29, 1647, (Part I. p. 139.) the other of 1648. (Part 2. p. 165.) each indeed plainly enough Erastian.

For which Reasons, as this Ordinance did not at all satisfie the Assembly; so in the following Year they were often 'Petitioning the Commons for a full and perfect Settlement of Church-Government;' in Answer to which, the Commons at last sufficiently discover'd themselves, by propounding (April 30, 1645) Nine Questions to the Assembly, about the Divine Right, which they claim'd for their Presbytery; to which I cannot find they ever return'd any Answer, tho' the House call'd upon them more than once for it; and so the Matter of Jure Divino drop't, and the Assembly it self, in a manner, soon after it. However, (August 29, 1648) the much wish'd for Ordinance pass'd the House, prescribing the 'Form of Church Government,' and Ordaining, 'That all Parishes and Places whatsoever' in England and Wales, (except the 'Chapels or Places in the Houses of the King and his Children,' and the 'Peers of this Realm) 'be brought under the Government of Congregational, Classical, Provincial, and National Assemblies.' This was the great Ordinance by which Christ was to be set up in his Kingdom, within these Nations, and the Presbyterian Discipline fully Establish'd: But it fell much short of Expectation, and put the Presbytery under so many Restrictions of the Temporal Power, that I cannot find it gave any tolerable Satisfaction; besides, that it was in a manner generally neglected Of all which, I shall have occasion to say more hereafter.

Compl. Hist. of Engl. Vol. III. p. 151, 152. See Husb. Collect. Folio, p. 880. Compl. Hist. of Engl. Vol. III. p. 152, 160. Scob. Collect. Part 2. p. 165.

And as to what concerns the Two great Particulars of this Scheme; namely, that of Suspension from the Sacraments, and the other of Excommunication; the Parliament would by no means trust the Power of them in the Hands of the Presbytery. March 27, 1645, the Assembly apply'd to the House upon the former of these Heads; and that Matter (together with the other of Excommunication), being debated, Mr. Selden and Mr. Whitlock vehemently oppos'd the Exercise of that Power. August 1, following, a farther Petition was deliver'd on the same Head, seconded a Week after with another, insisting upon their Claim of Jure Divino, to suspend from the Sacrament all such, as they should judge to be Scandalous or Ignorant: But the House made little or no Progress in the Business; instead of it, on occasion of the Penalties intended to be laid on such as were suspended from the Sacrament, they Voted, Sept. 6, that the 'Presbytery should not meddle with any thing of Meum and Tuum, till it were determin'd by the Civil Magistrate;' and October 15, Resolv'd, That the 'Presbytery should not suspend from the Sacrament at their own Discretion, but for such Offences only, as should be particularly express'd in an Ordinance made for that purpose;' which was accordingly passed about Five Days after, prescribing the Rules and Directions, by which (and not otherwise) the Presbytery were to Suspend. In short, ' the Parliament (says *Fuller) kept the coercive Power in their own Hands, not trusting them to carry the Keys at their Girdle; so that the Power of Excommunication was not † entrusted with them; but ultimately Resolv'd into a Committee of eminent Persons of Parliament, whereof Thomas Earl of Arundel is the first Person nominated.' But afterwards it went a step lower; for (as a late ‡ Author observes on some farther Proceedings of those Times) 'The Care of Religion was transferr'd from a Convocation to a New Assembly of Divines; from Them to a House of Commons; and from thence to the Mobb.'

Compl. Hist. of Engl. Vol. III. p. 147. Whitl. Mem p. 163. Ibid. p. 148. See Whitl. Mem. p. 162. as there said page 1, but I think it should be p. 170. This (saith he) displeased some who were earnest to give an Arbitrary Power to the Presbytery. If I have not seen this Ordinance, but in the Grand one of Aug. 29, 1648, for Settling Presbytery, the Rules for Suspension; and the particular Crimes are (as is here said) specified and enumerated; and for such likewise, as are not enumerated, a Committee of Lords and Commons, is appointed to Judge of them, with an Appeal to the Houses of Parliament, if the Party think himself aggrieved. Scob. Collect. Part 2. p. 176, 177.

* Ch. Hist. Cent. 17. L. 11. p. 214.

† This in the Ordinance of Aug 1648. now mentioned, the Power of Excommunication seems to be more entrusted with the Presbytery, than this Expression of Fuller allows of.

‡ Compl. Hist. of Engl. Vol. III. p. 160.

But tho' the House's kept such a strait Hand upon them, in relation to that which was the avow'd and declar'd Business of their Meeting; yet they threw them a looser Rein, and gratify'd them to the full, in that which was the real Intent and Design of their Assembling; that is, the doing as much Mischief to the Church of England, as their Hearts could wish or devise; which was at least equally (if not more) acceptable to them, than the other. And accordingly their first Business of Moment was, to present a Petition to the Parliament (July 19) stuff'd (says the Author last cited) with Schism, Sedition, Cruelty and Cant; recommending to their Consideration in the first Place, the Appointing of a Solemn Fast, &c. and then, among other Things, the Ravaging and Ruining of the Loyal Clergy, and the Plundering of Churches, which they call 'a thorough and speedy Proceed-

Compl. Hist. of Engl. Vol. III. p. 154. See the Petition it self. Husb. Collect. Folio, p. 641.

Digitized by Google

'ing against blind Guides, and scandalous Mini-
'sters,' and the Abolishing of 'all Monuments of 'Idolatry and Superstition:' In both of which they were gratify'd (and particularly in the Latter) by the Ordinance of Aug. 28, 1643, before spoken of; this being the proper Business for which they were call'd together.

Nor would they at that time have stood with them for small matters, tho' they had gone a little out of the way; because there was still a greater Work for them to do; which was, to recommend the Covenant to the People, and thereby to draw the whole Nation into a solemn Oath and Confederacy, for the Extirpation of the Ecclesiastical Government; and to engage both Themselves and Others in a most exectable Rebellion against the Sacred Person of his Majesty. In order to which, after they had prepar'd the Assembly for Submission, by teaching them in the Person of Dr. Featly, 'how dangerous it was to 'dissent from the current Opinion of the House of 'Commons,' they sent the Bond of this wicked Confederacy to the 'Godly and Learned Divines' for their 'Consideration, and speedy Resolution.' Whereupon That Clergy (saith the Lord Clarendon) 'returned within Two Days,
'their full Approbation of it; there having been but Two Ministers who made
'any Pause, or Scruple of it, and They again
'soon confessing, They had received full Sa- tisfaction to their Doubts in debate; and that 'they were fully convinc'd of the Lawfulness and
'Piety of it.' And this, together with the Battle of Newberys ('which clear'd and remov'd more 'Doubts than the Assembly had done') made it stick but very few Hours with both Houses: And after it had past'd, the Lords, and Commons, and their Assembly of Divines, met at St. Margaret's Church in Westminster, with great Solemnity, to Take it; which was accordingly done; Two or Three Divines successively going up into the Pulpit to Pray, Others to make Orations upon the Work of the Day: Where they utter'd such extravagant things in commendation of the Covenant, as cannot easily be imagin'd; Mr. Henderson concluding the Solemnity with as extravagant Commendations of what They had done.

Clar. Hist. Vol. II. p. 255, 256, 257, 259.

Septem. 25, 1643.

I cannot forbear repeating on this occasion, what I have already observ'd upon another, that however monstrous it may seem, 'tis plain from, this Instance, that it is not impossible, that Clergymen, who in their Orders, Subscriptions, Preferments, Habits and Professions, do acknowledge the Church of England (as the Divines of the Assembly once did) may notwithstanding be engag'd (if not thro' Design, yet at least, thro' Ignorance) in the blackest, and most destructive Combination against her. But to proceed:

As the Extirpation of Prelacy was expressly provided for by the Covenant; and as Those who had the Interpretation of the other Parts of it, well knew how to turn each of them (as they had before done the Protestation) to the Ruin of what they pretended to Preserve; that is, in plain Words, to the Engaging all who took it, in the most wicked Conspiracy against his Majesty's Power, Person and Government: So all these great Ends being now sanctify'd by the Opinion of the Assembly; and the Sincerity of that Opinion having receiv'd the highest Attestation, by the Practice of those Godly Men Themselves (who all took it;) it is not to be wonder'd, that Thenceforward the less discerning People, who had been by so many Arts Taught to have such an high Esteem of them, should immediately look on the Covenant as little other than an Oracle from Heaven; especially considering, That from this Example of their Leaders, all the Lesser Pulpits that were fill'd with the Preachers of the Faction, recommended it with the utmost Assiduity and Diligence (and sometimes in such Expressions, as came not much short of Blasphemy;) and by that means it was generally receiv'd, and taken over all the Kingdom.

The extream Wickedness of this Combination, the great Use that it serv'd for, towards carrying on the Rebellion; and consequently, the great Mischief it did the King, are all now so well known to every body, that I shall not stay to observe them; but go on to some other Godly Acts of this Assembly.

It was at Their Motion, That a Solemn Fast was held for imploring God's Assistance on the Rebellion, when the Earl of Essex marched into the West. On notice that probably the Armies were then engag'd a Second time at Newberry, the Assembly, by a Message from the Commons, spent some time in Prayer, for the good Success of the Parliament-Forces, i. e. the Rebellion. But above all this, the Abolishing our incomparable Liturgy (as is already hinted) was, by Advice of, and Consultation with this Holy Synod. The Directory substituted in the room of it, was the Work of the same Hands; and the Re-inforcing the Disuse of the one, and the Observance of the other, under the severe Penalties formerly mentioned, was likewise at their Instance. It must be remember'd also, that they drew up a System of Calvin's Principles, which they call'd a Catechism; but it was so unlike what is usually known by that Name, that their Masters turn'd them back again to shorten it; which they did, to a Length that as much exceeds the Memories of Children, as many of the Doctrines in it do their other Capacities.

Comp. Hist. of Reg. Vol. III. p. 143.

See the Preamble to the Ordinance for it.

By the Ordinance of 23, 1644. Comp. Hist. of Reg. Vol. III. p. 147.

Ibid. p. 160.

The Assembly man, p. 10. seems to intimate, that by the Countenance or Chairmanship as head, of the Assembly (in some others of their Principles) the Aforesaid was printed in English, and that the Grand Seignior was sending an Ambassador into England with his Thanks for it. See also his Observations in some Passages in their Annotations, p. 7. 8.

They were likewise (as I find) entrusted with the Examinations of such as should be Admitted to Livings, and to Fellowships in Cambridge, during the Reformation there. Take an Account of the Remainder of their good Deeds, in the Words of Dr. * Heylin: 'They were 'preferr'd to the best Benefices of 'the Sequester'd Clergy (some of them Three or 'Four † together) —— Besides the Honour of 'assisting in so great an Action, as the Ruin 'of the Church, and the Subversion of the 'present Government; in reference whereunto 'they were to be employ'd from time to 'time, as occasion was, to * stir up the People 'of the Counties for which they serv'd, to rise, and arm themselves against the King, under 'colour of their own Defence; as appears plainly by the Order of Aug. 10. And that they 'might be look'd upon with the greater Reverence, they maintain a constant Intercourse 'of ‡ Letters with their Brethren of Scotland, 'the Churches of the Netherlands, the French 'and Switzers; but chiefly with Geneva it self; 'in which they laid such vile Reproaches on his 'Majesty and the Church of England, the one 'for having a Design to bring in Popery, the 'other for a Readiness to receive the same; that 'his Majesty was necessitated to set out a Mani-'festo in the Latin Tongue, for laying open 'the Imposture to the Churches of all Foreign 'Nations.'

See Comp. Hist. of Engl. p. 158. and Full. Ch. Hist. Cent. 17. Lib. 9. p. 15.

* Hist. Presb. Ed. 2. p. 456.

† Agreeable to what Mr. Milton saith of them in his Anat. been already cited.

* See the Order, in Husb. Col. Fol. p. 283.

‡ Where in such Terms of Contempt, &c. that a late Author says, 'The Scots 'and the 'very Language of their Letters had 'been a Reproach 'to any Divines, but Reg. and

'such as were singular Enemies to the King, and the Church Comp. Hist. of Reg. Vol. III. p. 135.

As

Digitized by Google

As to the Concluſion of this Aſſembly, They were ſo confounded at the Oppoſition in their own Houſe, from their warm Diſſenting Brethren; and at the Checks and Repulſes they frequently met with from the Houſe of Commons, that they grew very weary of their Attendance on them; and began to fall off, and retire home privately, and by degrees, without any Formalities of Proroguing and Diſſolving. Such as remain'd (having ſurviv'd their great Reſpect,) and being too Few to maintain the Dignity of an Aſſembly, contented themſelves with the Notion of a Committee, chiefly employ'd to examine their Abilities, and good Affections, who were preferred to Livings. And indeed, the Wiſeſt of them were at laſt a little ſenſible of their own Fatal Errors, in breaking off a Synodical Union with their Spiritual Governours, and ſubmitting to be made an independent Body of Preſbyters, to quarrel eternally among Themſelves; and to be made a Property to the Lay-Powers, who meant no more than to ſerve a turn by them, and then to deſpiſe them, as they always did: Until at length, they were utterly diſpers'd, and loſt, when Cromwell diſſolv'd the Parliament in the beginning of 1653.

Comp. Hiſt. of Engl. Vol. III. p. 150.

In 1646.

See Fall. Ch. Hiſt. Cent. 17. L. 11. p. 215.

Comp. Hiſt. of Eng. ubi ſupra.

See Abridg. p. 63.

Thus ended the Engliſh Aſſembly of Godly and Learned Divines; the like to which, certainly had never met in the Chriſtian World before; as will ſoon appear, if all that I have ſaid of them at large, be now collected into one ſhort View, namely, That the Aſſembly began with a manifeſt Invaſion of the Rights of the Clergy, as well known as any other Laws of the Kingdom; was ſubſtituted in the room of a Regular and Legal Synod, at that time in being; to which They were on all accounts of Life and Learning utterly inferiour: That they had neither been ſummoned by his Majeſty, nor choſen by the Clergy, nor was there one Legal Step taken in calling them together; but were conven'd both by the Rebellious, and Uſurp'd Authority of a meer Lay Power; and each of them, Man by Man, nominated to the Aſſembly by Thoſe ſame Lay Perſons: That they were generally appointed for their known Diſaffection to that Church, of which they were to be a Synod; and aſſembled at laſt, in the plaineſt Diſobedience to the expreſs Commands of his Majeſty; altho' his Authority alone could in a legal manner give Being to a Council of that nature: That they were not permitted to fill the Chair of their own Houſe (nor any other Seat in it) as it ſhould become Vacant: That they were not allow'd to undertake any Buſineſs, but what ſhould be laid before Them by the Parliament; nor to conclude upon That, but to ſend it back to their Lay-Maſters; who were moreover, to determine all their Controverſies, if they could not agree among Themſelves: That they ſubmitted (contrary to their own private Opinions in that matter) to be call'd together in ſuch a manner, and on ſuch ignominious Conditions, as deſtroy'd the very Eſſentials of a Synod (namely, a Power in Spirituals) and was at laſt their own Diſtruction, and, in effect, that of Chriſtianity it ſelf, as making Religion a pure Matter of State; and all this, in order to compleat the Ruin of that very Order of Biſcops, which had always compoſ'd the Firſt, and Greateſt Councils of the Chriſtian Church, and preſided in all the other Synods of it, for 15 Centuries of Years together: That beſides all this, they were mix'd and blended with a conſiderable Number of Laymen, who had as full and ample a Power to Debate, Vote, &c. as any Clergyman in the Meeting; were interſpers'd with Browniſts, Independents, and others of ſuch ſtrange Opinions and Principles, as, I believe, were never before brought into a Synod of the Chriſtian Church. Add to this, That the greater Part of them had not only been Refractory and Diſobedient to all the Orders of their Spiritual Governours; but had alſo their Hands ſtain'd with the Blood of a moſt wicked and execrable Rebellion; and ſome of them afterwards in That of their Prince alſo, if I miſtake not: That they were not countenance'd with the Authority, or Preſence of one ſingle Biſhop (without which, the Chriſtian World never ſaw a Synod for 1500 Years) who ſate among them in any other capacity, than That of a Private Divine: That they were never permitted to do the very Thing, for which it was pretended they were ſummon'd; but deſpiſed, Controul'd, and kept under by their Lay Aſſeſſors and Maſters, and made uſe of as meer Tools (by the moſt wicked Combination of Men, that ever met in any Nation) to ſerve the vileſt Purpoſes; ſuch as promoting an Oath, and Confederacy of the blackeſt nature, countenancing the other Proceedings of a moſt horrible Rebellion; and working the Ruin of that very Church, in which they had their Orders, to which they were engag'd by ſo many Oaths and Subſcriptions, and which, it was pretended, they were only to Reform. In a word, a Synod (if it be not an Abuſe of that Name) which never ſeem'd to have any ſenſe of what uſually was the Buſineſs of other Chriſtian Councils; or to have had any Regard to the Orders and Decrees of the Councils of the Firſt Chriſtian Ages; a Synod of Godly Men, which was more divided, than thoſe Scandalous Perſons whom they ſupplanted; who inſtead of Advancing the Purity of the Goſpel, did the greateſt Diſ-ſervice to the Chriſtian Name; having in plain Terms (if one who had gone himſelf in the ſame Paths, may be credited) promoted Atheiſm in the Nation; and who at laſt, ſunk away, the Contempt and Deriſion of their own Makers, the Scandal of that, and the Abhorrence of all future Ages. Unto their Aſſembly, O my Soul, be not thou united!

See the Aſſembly-men p. 14, 18, 21.

Comp. Hiſt. of Engl. Vol. III. p. 155.

And certainly it will hereafter be reckon'd among the greateſt Honours of the Church of England, That She had Thoſe Men for her Enemies.

By the time that the ſeveral Undertakings here accounted for, had been Accompliſh'd, there was little, or nothing wanting, to obliterate the very Memory of the Church (not to ſay, of Chriſtianity it ſelf) but to take away the Revenues of Thoſe who ſerv'd at her Altar. For Theſe, in conjunction with the Fabricks themſelves, were almoſt the only Publick Monuments of it, left remaining in the Nation. Thoſe of the Cathedrals were already diſpos'd of; and as the Layity of the Faction were glad to get them into their own Hands (tho' under various Pretences of maintaining a Godly Miniſtry, &c.) ſo poſſibly the Clergy might the more willingly ſuffer them to be imbezzel'd; becauſe they favour'd ſo much of Epiſcopacy, and could not well be retain'd without it. But the Tithes of the Parochial Clergy were yet untouch'd; which the Preſbyterians were indeed, as willing to preſerve, as the Church-men themſelves; and for this Reaſon, among others, becauſe they had gotten the Richeſt Livings of the Loyal Clergy into their own hands. Tithes.

However, as they had at firſt taken in all Parties to ſtrengthen themſelves againſt the Church; and as they had deſtroy'd the Eſtabliſh'd Diſcipline, without ſubſtituting any thing in the room of it: So by Thoſe means, were the various Sects of Independents, and other Enthuſiaſts, enencreas'd in a short Time to such an height, that they were able to make a stand against their Patrons, and at last wholly to overtop them.

Digitized by Google

Amongst the other Opinions of these Sectaries, this was one, That Tithes were Jewish and Antichristian; and therefore an Attempt must be made to Abolish them. Mr. Selden had indeed abus'd his great Learning on this Argument, before the breaking out of the Rebellion; and when the Reins of Government (both Civil and Ecclesiastical) were quite relax'd by the Distractions of the Kingdom, this Doctrine began to be listen'd unto with a great deal of Pleasure by the Laity, which occasion'd very much Trouble to those of the Regular Clergy, that had as yet the good Fortune to keep their Livings; every Factious Parishioner taking the opportunity of those Lawless Times, to withhold his Dues; and having been taught by these Opinions, to plead Conscience for his so doing: And it grew at last to be so Fashionable, that several of those Factious Ministers, who waited for the Livings of the Episcopal Clergy, found no more ready Course to get them complain'd of to the Committees (no matter on what Pretence) by their Parishioners, and to get themselves substituted in their rooms; than by declaiming vehemently against the Imposition of Tithes; tho' some of them, after they were in Possession, and found their Contributions fall short of what those Jewish Customs would have yielded them, taught their Parishioners, (the Laws for Tithes being still in full Force) by sad Experience, that they only meant Tithes were unlawful, as long as more was to be gotten by Gifts and Subscriptions: Of which some Instances will afterwards appear in the Course of this History.

See the Preambles to the Ordinance of Nov. 1, 1644. Scob. Collect. Pars 3. p. 74.

In the mean Time, these Opinions and Practices had so far prevail'd at last, that the Parliament (not being yet arriv'd to that full Measure of Wickedness, they afterwards compleated) found themselves under a Necessity of providing against them, which they did by their Ordinance of November 8, 1644. strictly enjoyning all Persons ‡ fully, truly, and effectually, to set out, yeild and pay respectively, all and singular Tithes, Offerings, Oblations, Obventions, Rates for Tithes, and all other Duties, commonly known by the Name of Tithes, &c.'

Ibid.

But Enthusiasm prevailing, this Ordinance was as little regarded by the Sectaries, as the other Laws had lately been, by the Compilers of this Ordinance; and therefore November 19, 1646, I find a Petition presented to the Commons by many of Kent, praying, 'That Ministers may not receive Tithes for their Maintenance, but be provided for some other way.' In return to which, the House order'd their 'Thanks for 'their good Affections.'

Whitl. Mem. p. 232.

After this, it would be almost endless to recite the several Petitions, Proposals, Applications, &c. to the House, relating to These Matters, especially when the Changes and New Models of Government were in Agitation. The Reader may find very many of them dispers'd up and down in Mr. Whitlock's Memoirs. I shall here produce but a few more of them. * Sept. 14, 1647, the Kentish Petition was reinforc'd with one from Bucks, against † 'Tithes and 'Free Quarter;' so happy were They in Those Times, in coupling Things together; Petitions from Oxfordshire, Hertfordshire, and other Counties to the same Effect, had been also presented to the House, and were, Sept. 15, 1647. referr'd to a Committee; which with other like Applications afterwards, had so much Effect, that April 3, 1649. the House order'd a Declaration to be drawn up, wherein they promise, that as soon as another Maintenance can be provided for Ministers, 'the Tithes should be taken off.' An Act for this purpose, was accordingly under Debate June following. August 6, the same Year, (at a farther Debate on the same Act, if I conjecture right) it was Resolv'd on the Question, That 'Tithes should not be con-'tinu'd.' But this Matter not being compleated, December 25, 1651, (the House sitting that Day) a Letter of Advice, suitable to the Prophanation of the Festival, was prepar'd, and sent to them in these Words, 'That if they would but grant 'an Act, for all the Profits of the Tithes in all 'the Counties of England and Wales, to be gathered into a Treasury, and the one half 'thereof may be pay'd to a competent Number 'of Godly Ministers (what would be done with 'the other Part, is easy to imagine) to preach 'the Gospel in each County; and all Those 'Drunken, Malignant, Scandalous, Delinquent, Ignorant, Whoring, and Prophane Ones, that 'go under the Name of Ministers, put to work 'for their Livings; That the Gospel would be 'better propagated than now it is, and the Lord 'would be more glorify'd in the Land, and 'this present Government better Established.' However, this warm Advice was not followed; and therefore, February following, a Petition was presented to the House, in the Name of divers well affected in the Northern Counties, setting forth, 'That there remains yet to be done by 'Them, the Taking away of Tithes, and Law (as 'now it stands) the most Ancient Badges of 'Ecclesiastical and Civil Tyranny. After this Perfection of Enthusiasm, I need add no more Instances of their Application to the Parliament against Tithes; but only farther take Notice, that notwithstanding all these Petitions, and the several Debates and Resolves of the House upon them, no ‡ Ordinance, nor any Clause of an Ordinance did at last pass for the Abolishing of them: But the only Reason of it, as far as I can perceive, was, because they could not find out an Expedient to 'satisfie the 'Lay Impropriators;' nor think of any other Project for Maintaining a Ministry, which they could so conveniently substitute in the room of them; since it is sure, that in 1653, Barebone's Parliament had a Quarrel (as the Noble Lord † Clarendon acquaints us) 'against all who had 'call'd themselves Ministers, and who by being 'call'd so, receiv'd Tithes, and Resprit from their 'Neighbours: They look'd upon the Function 'it self to be Antichristian, and the Persons to 'be burthensome to the People; and the requiring and payment of Tithes to be absolute Judaism; and they thought fit, that they should 'be Abolish'd all together: And that there might 'not, for the Time to come, be any Race of 'of People who might revive these Presences; 'they propos'd, That all Lands belonging to the 'Universities, and Colleges in the Universities, 'might be Sold, and the Monies that should a-'rise thereby, be dispos'd for the Publick Service, 'and to ease the People from the Payment of Taxes 'and Contributions.'

P. 392. See also Compl. Hist. of Eng. Vol. III. p. 178.

Whitl. Mem. P. 395.

P. 402.

P. 406.

P. 428.

Compl. Hist. of Engl. Vol. III. p. 378.

‡ Except that for the propagating of the Gospel in Wales, and a like one for the Four Northern Counties, which were plainly a portion of the wise Provision of Abolishing Tithes; and of which I shall speak at large hereafter.

† See Whitl. Mem. p. 511. 643. and Compl. Hist. Vol. III. p. 339. Hist. Vol. III. p. 378.

* Odd, if, that Year the Commons voted, that most should have Tithes, but such as could submit to Presbyterian Government. Whitl. Mem. p. 367; but Baxter himself much more of the Matter as it self.

Altho' my Business at present is only to give an Account for the Ruin of the Ecclesiastical Establishment in Those Times of Liberty; yet it is probable the Reader would willingly be inform'd, whether they erected any Thing in the room of that, which they were so intent upon pulling down. And therefore I shall in this Place, break a Word or two of their setting up the Presbyterian Discipline, that Golden Idol, to which they had offer'd so many Human Sacrifices; Discipline Erected.

† Whitl. Mem. p. 272. Designs which Enthusiastic Men successively improv'd, prepar'd us

Digitized by Google

crifices; of which an Imperfect Image was rais'd at laſt, and ſtood (where it ought not) in the Place of the Church.

This was call'd the Setting up Chriſt in his Kingdom, and the ſetting him on his Throne: And whoever conſiders the loud and inceſſant Clamours that were made for a farther Reformation, and pure Ordinances, the Z. al and Earneſtneſs of the Faction in that Great Work; inſomuch that neither Laws, Allegiance, Juſtice, nor Piety could be heard; whilſt they were calling aloud on every one to aſſiſt them in it: Whoever, I ſay, conſiders all this, would be apt to think, that their Model was no other than ſome Divine Pattern, ſhown to them in the Mount, or the New Jeruſalem it ſelf let down from Heaven; and that they would not have loſt the Satisfaction of one Day in deferring to Eſtabliſh it.

But as the Thing it ſelf was in Truth nothing leſs than what they pretended it; ſo was their haſte to erect it much leſs, than it is poſſible to imagine. The Houſe had, if I miſtake not, been ſeaſonably adviſ'd, by one of their own Members, when they firſt ſet about pulling down the Government of the Church, to think of ſome other, which might immediately ſtep in, and ſupply the room of it. And the many ill Conſequences of an Interregnum in the Church, were no leſs plain, than of one in the State. But either the Zeal of thoſe, who knew leſs of the Matter, was ſo warm for the Aboliſhing of what they call'd Popery; or the firſt Intentions of thoſe, who conducted their Affairs, were ſo cool for any Eccleſiaſtical Government at all; that the very Ruins of the Church were in a manner loſt, before they erected any New Structure upon them.

See alſo a Draught of a Speech by the L. Faulkland Printed at Oxon, 1644. p. 2.

Indeed they Eſtabliſh'd the Directory in the ſelf ſame Ordinance, by which they Aboliſh'd the Common-Prayer; tho' (to obſerve that by the way) they had countenanc'd a total Diſ-uſe of it ſome Years before. But as to the Government and Diſcipline of the Church, there had been no Footſteps of them left, for near Four Years before the Firſt and Imperfect Ordinances for the Preſbyterian Model had any beginning.

I have formerly obſerv'd, that the Sinews of all Church Diſcipline were quite cut in ſunder, by a Clauſe in the Act for Aboliſhing the High Commiſſion-Court, which took place in Auguſt, 1641; and it was in May before, that the Root and Branch Bill had been brought in; from which Time Epiſcopacy was in Effect put down, with all ſuch at leaſt, as would not voluntarily, and without Compulſion of Law, pay Obedience to it. But the firſt Ordinances that I have met with, for ſettling the Preſbyterian Scheme, paſs'd not till the middle of 1645, and the latter end of that, or the beginning of the following Year; and thoſe ſo Imperfect, that the Aſſembly continu'd their Petitions and Applications to the Houſes, for the more compleat Settlement of Church-Government: Nor did the Grand Ordinance for that Purpoſe paſs, till the middle of 1648, and even then fell much ſhort of their Wiſhes and Deſires: Not to add at preſent, that it was generally neglected, and omitted to be put in Practice, and in a Year or two utterly ſwallowed up by the Independents: So much eaſier did they Deſtroy than Build. And therefore, during the ſeveral Times and Changes of no Diſcipline, of one that was Imperfect, and not put in Practice; of a ſhort-liv'd one in ſome few Places, and then none again; and all this in a time of War and Civil Confuſions: It may eaſily be imagin'd, what Licentiouſneſs and Wickedneſs of all Sorts; what Errors and horrible Blaſphemies; what Sects and Opinions, unheard of in Chriſtendom before theſe Times, muſt of neceſſity, (and did in fact, for near Twenty Years together) overſpread the whole Kingdom.

See Abridg. p. 85, 86.

It muſt be own'd indeed, that the Aſſembly (i.e. far the greater part of them) us'd their utmoſt Endeavours to get their Scotiſh Project of Church-Government Eſtabliſh'd: And it might well have been expected, that when, in order to it, they had pull'd down a ſettled Hierarchy, which pleaded Apoſtolical Practice, and the Preſcription of fifteen Hundred Years, without the ſingle Exception of any one Church in the whole Chriſtian World; the Model which they had framed, would have been ſo plainly the Appointment of God himſelf, that the moſt obſtinate Perſon could not have gain-ſaid it: But inſtead of that they met with no ſmall Oppoſition from ſome of their own Members; and what was more, their Lords and Maſters, who had call'd them together, under the Pretence of Settling this Government, were not enlighten'd enough to perceive this Divine Original: But on the other Hand, plainly ſhew'd, they only intended to make uſe of the Zeal of Theſe Men, to pull down the Old Church-Government, and never to ſet on foot any other; or at moſt, ſuch an one only, as ſhould be plainly dependent upon themſelves.

It would be happy for this Kingdom, if Thoſe Diſſenters, who have any real Concern for Chriſtianity, would learn from this Inſtance of their deluded Predeceſſors, how little the Cauſe of Religion (under all the Pretences of it) may be at the Heart of Thoſe, with whom they have intruſted the Conduct of their Affairs; and would conſider whether their chief Aim may not be, under Pretence of Liberty, to make uſe of their Aſſiſtance, partly to State Purpoſes, partly to lay the Mounds and Fences of all Religion level with the Ground. I muſt own, it ſeems to me very plain, that the preſent Generation are much more inexcuſable in their Attempts upon the Eſtabliſhment, than Thoſe I am now ſpeaking of; becauſe as Hypocriſie was in Thoſe Times brought to its utmoſt Perfection, ſo were the Pretences of purer Religion always alledg'd (by the few deſigning Men that were deepeſt in the Secret) with ſuch an Air of Seriouſneſs and Concern, that I make no queſtion, but many Perſons of no inconſiderable Character and Station, thought them verily in Earneſt.

But thoſe who for many Years paſt have undertaken the Patronage of the Diſſenting Cauſe, have little leſs than openly profeſt and declar'd themſelves Atheiſts; have vented the worſt and moſt horrid Blaſphemies; have committed ſuch Prophanations, as were ſcarce ever heard of before; have liv'd in open Practice of the ſewdeſt Crimes; have imploy'd the Pens, and ſupported the Perſons of ſuch, as have advanced Principles plainly deſtructive to all Government, (more eſpecially Eccleſiaſtical), or receiv'd the Opinions of any of the moſt known and condemn'd Hereticks. In a word, have us'd the Labours of the worſt, and moſt harden'd Wretches in the Cauſe of Heroſie, Anarchy and Infidelity, directing them to attack, not the Church of England only, but Chriſtianity it ſelf, (as well in the Bulk, as in the Detail of every Fundamental Article) and even the very Being of Almighty God; inſomuch, that were it allowable to mention Particulars, and produce the Names and Characters of their Patrons, I might appeal to the Conſcience of any Religious and well Meaning Diſſenter, whether ſuch Perſons are not more likely to Eſtabliſh the Alcoran, than the Scots Preſbytery: Nor muſt it be unobſerv'd, that as the Deſigns on foot againſt Chriſtianity, cannot be accompliſh'd without a vigorous Aſſault upon that Church, which is the greateſt Ornament and Support of it; nor that Assault be carry'd on by any means, which promise more Success, than Trade of supporting the several Sects among us, and arguing for them in their joysome Papers; so have the Books and Writings of those horrid Blasphemers, been on that account greedily embrac'd by the generality of the Dissenters, their Arguments cherish'd, (and transfus'd for want of other Men among them, who could help them to any thing that looks like Learning, into such poor Pamphlets as any of them publish) with great Applauses * of those black Performances, and very cool and softening Declarations against the Blasphemies. So that the present Contests are not betwixt the Church and the Conventicle, but betwixt Christianity and Infidelity. And doubtless it must be a great Degree of Malice, which would purchase the Ruin of the Church of England at the Expence of Christianity, and had rather see Atheism flourish, than Episcopacy; which, should the Party prevail at present, would be the certain Event: Tho' I am unwilling to think it the direct Intention of any o her among them, than their few Chiefs. And, good God! will it be credit d by after-Ages, that Those who contend for the Purity and Reformation of Religion, should lend their Assistance to such Leaders? And will it not appear doubly Monstrous, if any Members of the Church, whose Ruin is in this desperate manner fought after; more especially, any that preside, or wait at her Altars, be found, by concurring with These Men in many of their Opinions, excusing others, and continually pleading for Favour to all of them, to give their Names and Countenance to such a Party?

Digitized by Google

* See Nottingham Infance of this, in the Blasphemies given by Mr. Robinson in the Preface of his Review of the Case of the Litany, P. 13. To the infamous Author of Profh. C. in Perfect. &c. and joyning with him embracing another Forgery upon the Church of England, which, like that attack'd already by the Author, is so much commends, to an evident Forgery of their own Edition.

By the Vindicator of the Church of England from the Aspersions of that Libel, has fully shown, both against Mr. Robinson (in the p. 211, &c.) and against his Author, (towards the whole Vindication) and I may add Unanswerably; these twelve of them have thought fit to make the stuff Reply were for above Three Years.

But to return: I have already observ'd on another Occasion, how the Endeavours of the Assembly to set up this Discipline, were baffl'd and defeated; and therefore I shall here only say in general, That partly thro' the Opposition of the Independents, and partly by the backwardness of the Houses, they were from Time to Time put off with Delays and Excuses, for the Course of several Years; insomuch that the Affair of Church-Government went on very heavily, and was by Piece-meal patch'd up and finish'd at last in such a manner, as by no means satisfy'd the Well-wishers to it: Nor would it have found that Favour which it did, but for the frequent and earnest Solicitation of the Brethren from Scotland, whose Assistance the Parliament could by no means be without.

Comm. Hist. of Eng. Fol. II. p. 140, 141, 142, 151, 152, 159, 160, and 174.

Ibid.

In 1644, the Commons indeed, at the pressing Instances of the Scots, gave the Assembly leave to debate the whole Matter of an Ordinance for 'Ordination of Ministers, and Settling the Government' of the Church: And the same Year, as much of it as they had finish'd, was laid before the House. The Commons also, in January that Year, voted, That 'To have a Presbytery in the Church, is according to the Word of God.' And soon after, at the Treaty of Uxbridge, it was, among other Things offer'd, That the Model of Presbyterian Government (drawn up, as I suppose, on that Vote) then annex'd to the Duresby, 'should be 'Enacted as a part of the Reformation.' But that Treaty coming to Nothing, August 19, the Year following, they pass'd an Ordinance, as I find by a Reference, relating to the Setling Church-Government, which was, I presume, the first of that Kind that had yet pass'd. The 20th of October after, They pass'd another Ordinance, touching 'Suspension' on from the Sacrament;' and in that Ordinance' as I presume, ‡, nominated the 'Committee of 'Lords and Commons for Judging of Scandal;' (referr'd to likewise in the Ordinance of January 29, 1647, now mention'd in the Margin) which I take to be the Committee, wherein Fuller saith, the Power of Excommunication was ultimately lodg'd. Feb. 20, 1645, the House pass'd several Votes, relating to the Choice of Elders in each Congregation, throughout the whole Kingdom; which they order'd to be communicated to the Lord Mayor, that he might put them in due Ex cution, within the District of London, as I understand it. And to supply the Defects of these Ordins and Ordinances, in March, 1645 (or the beginning of 1646,) They pass'd another, enjoining the Observance of that of August 19, before, and letting down some other Rules for this Government. Aug. 28, 1646, another Ordinance was made, preferring the 'Manner of Ordination of Ministers, in 'Classical Presbytery;' together with Rules for Examination, &c.' But neither have I seen the former of These Ordinances, nor any thing of the latter, favouring the bare Title. Notwithstanding all which there were still such Obstacles to the Perfecting of this Good Work, as requir'd the Consideration of the House; and April 20, 1647, these * Obstructions, together with their Remedies, were Reported, and agreed unto by the House. However, in June ‖ following, (he Independents having made much Opposition, because now Considerable) the Commons appointed a Committee, to consider of a Means of Accommodation; but this failing, Jan. † 29, 1647, they found it necessary to reinforce, by a fresh Ordinance, the Use and Observance of those aforementioned, and particularly that of August 19, 1645, ordering the Commissioners of the Sixty Thousand Pounds per Mensem, forthwith to meet, and distribute the 'setp clive Counties into distinct Classical Presbyteries, where 'they are not already divided.' May 1, 1648, the Commons voted, That all Ordinances to Committees, concerning Church-Government, should be brought in, and determin'd: And May 2, 1648, the Presbyterian Government found so much Favour, that the denying it to be Lawful was enumerated in the Ordinance for punishing Blasphemies and Heresies, among Those other Crimes, which were to undergo the Penalty of Imprisonment.

Whitl. Mem. p. 162, as there fully stated.

† For neither have I seen that.

Ch. Hist. Cent. 17. L. 11. p. 214.

Hist. Collect. Folio, p. 899.

But none of these Ordinances, whether singly or collectively, amounting to a just Settlement, the Affair of Church-Government still continu'd to imploy the Houses from Time to Time, until August 29, 1648; when they passed the Grand Ordinance for the Setling Presbytery, which therefore seems to have been a Collection and Improvement of all the other Votes, Resolves, Orders, and Ordinances, (Those particularly, now mention'd) relating to that Matter.

Scob. Collect. Part 1 p. 110.

In this Ordinance they authorize and require the effectual setting up of the Discipline forthwith; distribute the Province of London (which was to contain the Cities of London and Westminster, and the Places adjacent) into its several Classes; impower and order the Commissioners of the Tax for Sixty Thousand Pounds per Mensem, to do the like for all other Counties respectively (where they were not already so divided) and to nominate the Ministers and other Members for each Class; give Directions for the Choice of Elders; determine the Nature and Constitutions, and declare the Powers of the Congregational, Classical, Provincial and National Assemblies (which was

See Clar. Hist. Fol. II. p. 466.

‡ I have not found it so. Or, that Ordinance, but find it referr'd to in the Ordinance of Jan. 29, 1647. Scob. Collect. Part 1. p. 138.

Comp. Hist. of Eng. Fol. III. p. 417. mentions an Ordinance of Octob 1645, (of Ministers and for Excommunication.) But I have not seen it.

* Comp. Hist. of Engl. Fol. III. p. 159.

‖ Ibid. p. 218. seq. Comp. Hist. of Engl. Fol. III. p. 60, but Scobell is plain in the Date of the 29th. Coll. Eccl. p. 139.

Comp. Hist. of Eng. Fol. III. p. 274. Scob. Collect. Part 1 p. 110.

Digitized by Google

was the Model of their Government;) prescribe Rules for the Ordination of Ministers, for Suspension from the Sacrament, and for Excommunication, &c.

This Ordinance was the Extent of what they would allow Presbytery, and the utmoſt the Aſſembly could obtain, after all their Labours. But alaſs! neither the Original of the Government, nor the leſt Reſort of it (as limited by this Firſt-fruits of Conſtitution) nor the Authority allow'd to the reſpective Aſſemblies, were in any manner ſuitable to that Spiritual Power, which the Scots Presbyterie claimed for their undoubted Right; and which their Brethren in England, after their Example, ſo earneſtly contended for. The Commiſſioners of a Tax were not only to determine the Bounds of their ſeveral Claſſes, but alſo to nominate the Miniſters and Elders of each Claſs; and theſe Nominations were to be approv'd by a Committee of Lords and Commons. The Members of the Two Houſes did in the Ordinance it ſelf, nominate the Claſſes of London; in which the Number of Laymen was double to That of the Clergy; as (to note that by the way) the Ordinance provided it ſhould be in each of thoſe Aſſemblies reſpectively.

Namely, the Committee for Scandal (as it was call'd) of which more will be ſaid by and by.

The Committee of Lords and Commons now mentioned, were likewiſe to add what Number of Delegates they thought fit, to the Provincial Aſſembly. There lay an Appeal in any caſe whatſoever, as from one of theſe Aſſemblies to the ſuperiour of them; ſo from the National Aſſembly it ſelf to the Parliament. The ſeveral Crimes, for which any of theſe Aſſemblies were to ſuſpend a Perſon from the Sacrament, were particularly ſpecify'd; nor durſt they do it for any other; the Power of concluding on the Caſes omitted, not being entruſted with the Presbytery; but a Committee of about Thirty Lords, and 150 Commons, were appointed to Adjudge and Determine Scandals or Offences not enumerated. And when any one had been ſuſpended from the Sacrament, for any of the very Offences which are here enumerated and ſpecify'd, he had liberty to appeal from the Presbyters, to this ſame Committee, and from thence, to the Parliament. Nor did they at laſt, after all theſe Cautions and Reſtrictions, lodge with them the Power of Excommunication, unleſs they had 'the Conſent of the Congregation.'

Theſe were heavy Clogs on the Presbytery; but there were other Misfortunes likewiſe which attended them. This Ordinance, after all, was rather a Permiſſion only, than an Enforcement of the Presbyterian Diſcipline; or, at moſt, amounted to no more than a bare Injunction: For neither the Perſons appointed to erect it, nor ſuch as ſhould be elected to the ſeveral Aſſemblies, were obliig'd by any Penalties (either in this Ordinance, or any other, that I have ſeen) to ſet about the Performance. Beſides, no one was bound to ſubmit to This Government, when it ſhould be ſet up: Nor was there any * Clauſe inſerted againſt the Sectaries, and the Liberty (or rather Licentouſneſs) taken by them: Altho' the Point of Toleration (I mean, the Suppreſſion of it) had, next to this of the Diſcipline it ſelf, been for ſeveral Years labour'd by the Presbyterian Clergy, with the utmoſt Application. But inſtead of being gratify'd with their Requeſts in that kind; Oct. 2, 1647. it was expreſly provided by one of the very Ordinances for ſettling Presbyterian Government, That Eaſe ſhould be given 'to Tender Conſciences;' tho' I do not, indeed, find that Clauſe repeated in the Ordinance of Aug. 1648. And what was ſtill more deplorable, by the time this Ordinance had paſs'd, the Independents were arriv'd to ſuch an Height of Power, by means of the Army, that they ſoon after ſeiz'd the Government, and put an end to the whole Scheme of Presbyterian Settlement.

 Neither in this, nor any other Ordinance, that I remember to have met with.*

Com. Hiſt of Eng. Vol. III. p. 160 See alſo p. 141, 152. Whitl. Mem. p. 270, 296. See Baxter's Glench. Mar. p. 51.

For ſome, or more of theſe Reaſons (and, it may be, for ſome others) this Model of Presbytery, as I have before ſaid, never met with any Reception, which is worthy of Notice; nor was it ever erected and ſettled with any tolerable Effect. I don't remember to have met with any account of its being ſet up in above three or four Places at moſt: But on the other hand, frequent Complaints occurr, and thoſe made as well to the Parliament, as among Themſelves, of the lamentable Neglect of it, and of the miſerable State of Religion on That Account. And indeed, as much will appear, if we reflect on the Ordinances and Reſolves themſelves now mention'd. The Firſt Ordinance of Aug. 19, 1645, was no leſs than Twice reinforc'd (viz.) in March following, and Jan. 29, 1647: By which Lateſt Ordinance it is manifeſt, that the Diſciplinе had not been ſet up, as the firſt nam'd Ordinance had provided.

Abridg. ubi ſupra.

See Comp. Hiſt of Eng. Vol. III. p. 148. And Scob Collect. Part. 1. p. 139.

By the Reſolves of Feb. 20, 1645, concerning Electing of Elders throughout the Kingdom, it is alſo evident, That no ſuch Election had been then made. Oct. 2, 1646, a Return of the Claſſes for Lancaſhire was ſent in; which is recorded by Mr. Huband, and is the only one of that kind which occurrs in his Collections: Whereas if there had been more of them by that time, it ſeems probable that he would not have omitted them. And even in Aug. 1648, when the Grand Ordinance paſs'd for ſetting this Church-Government, 'tis plain, that many of the Counties had not been diſtributed into Claſſes; much leſs were the Members of thoſe Claſſes choſen; as appears by the Injunction of that Ordinance, appointing the Commiſſioners for the 60000 l. per Menſem, to undertake that Diſtribution and Nomination. And even in Lancaſhire, where the Diſtributions of the Claſſes, and the Nomination of the Members was made, return'd to London, and approv'd; I find ſeveral Complaints from the Second Claſs, That the Miniſters and Elders of ſome of the Churches nam'd, never appear'd at their Meetings. So much was this Diſcipline neglected and contemn'd, even where it was erected.

See Scob. Collect. Folio p. 919, 920.

Ibid. p. 919.

Nor can I be poſitive, that in fact it was ſet up any where, but in Lancaſhire *, and in London. The Diſtribution of the Claſſes, and the Nomination of the Miniſters and Elders for the Former, being ſent in (as is juſt now ſaid) was approv'd of by the Lords and Commons, Oct. 2, † 1646. And the Ordinance of 1648, ſo often mention'd, confirm'd the Diſtribution of the Claſſes for the Province of London; and appointed Judges, or Tryers, for the Elections of ſuch Elders as ſhould be after choſen, if I judge right of theſe matters: For I think, the Diſcipline ‡ had been ſet up there the Year before.

* See Abridg. as before, p. 85, 86: Altho' I think, I have remembred what was ſaid in ſome Intimation of it, that it was drafted in one Committment.

† Husb. Coll. Folio p. 919, 921.

‡ See an Intimation to this Purpoſe in what is ſaid of the Provincial Aſſembly at London. Comp. Hiſt. of Engl. Vol. III. p. 159.

What was done by the Claſſes at London, or of what Continuance the Diſcipline in That Diſtrict was, I cannot ſay: But the late Reverend Mr. Gipps of Bury near Manchester, communicated to me a Copy of the Proceedings of the Second Claſs (for there were Nine) in Lancaſhire; which being the only thing of that kind I ever ſaw; and nothing of a like nature having, as far as I know, been yet made publick, I ſhall from thence acquaint the Reader with ſome few of their Proceedings; by which it

Digitized by Google

it will appear, that the Nation ſuſtain'd no great Loſs in the Want of that Diſcipline.

See alſo Hiſt. Collect. Fol. p. 919. An Ordinance & Short Ordinance of Parliament, for Ministers: Ordain in this County. Ibid. p. 593. Moſt of thoſe nam'd in it, I find in theſe Claſſes.

This Claſſis conſiſted of the Six Pariſhes of Bury, Bolton, Middleton, Roachdale, Radcliffe and Dean. The Firſt Meeting was held at Bury, Mar. 25. 1647; and I find them continu'd until the Year 1650, at leaſt.

Among other things, they had under Debate theſe Queſtions:

Whether 'Ordination by a Biſhop in 1644, or '1645, be valid?'

Whether 'Malignants ſhall be admitted to the 'Lord's Supper, without Acknowledgment of their 'Faults, having had their Hands in Blood?'

Whether 'The Neglect of Duty (i. e. the Sa-'crament) under pretence of Religious Scruple, 'or in a plain way of Prophaneneſs, be more 'dangerous?'

I do not remember, in the courſe of their Proceedings, to have met with the Solution of the Two † Former of theſe Queſtions; but the Latter was (as I preſume) afterwards determin'd at an Extraordinary Meeting, in theſe following Reſolutions, which I find in their Journal, (viz.) That 'in caſe a particular Perſon, '(after juſt) care taken for his ſatisfaction, either cannot, or will not be ſatisfy'd in that 'which concerns the Quiet and Good of the 'whole Congregation; he ought not to diſturb the 'whole Church for his own private Scruple.' And 'That he that for his own private Scruple, ſhall 'continue diſobedient, contemning, and ſpeaking 'evil of his Governours (tho' they have ſatisfyed 'endeavour'd to ſatisfie him) and ſhall ſo labour 'to ſet on foot Faction and Diviſions in the 'Congregation, he ought to be proceeded againſt 'as a diſorderly Walker.'

† Save an Hint ſuggeſting their having determin'd it of their own accord by the Negatives, which is plainly and by 'em mentioned.

This, it ſeems, was the Senſe of theſe Divines, when they had the Power in their hands: But it may be preſum'd, they never conſider'd what ule both their Predeceſſors did (and their Succeſſors would) make of a Scrupulous Conſcience in Religious Matters; particularly, in this Caſe of the Sacrament: And that they not only hazarded the Quiet of the Congregation, to which they belonged; but had in fact, by the very Rebellion which gave being to that Claſſis, torn out the Bowels of the beſt and pureſt Church in the World. They came alſo to a Reſolution in Two other Points; The one (upon conſultation with another Claſſis) That 'they 'ought to look backward on Scandal, as far as the 'laying down of the former Government;' and the other, 'That Uſury is a ſcandalous Sin, deſerving 'Suſpenſion upon Obſtinacy.' It appears farther, that they refuſ'd to allow Baptiſm to baſe Children; but by what Example, or Precept of the Chriſtian Church, I confeſs, I am wholly ignorant. It muſt be noted in the next place, that they harraſs'd and oppreſs'd the Loyal Clergy within their Diſtrict, in a manner equal to that of the Committees. It is worth while to Tranſcribe ſome of the Articles which they receiv'd againſt the Clergy, and on which they ſummon'd and perplex'd them. Mr. Blackburn of Rivington, was ſummon'd before them, among other things, for 'Kneeling down, when he 'firſt came into the Desk, or Pulpit,' and for not being 'lawfully Ordain'd;' namely, having receiv'd his Orders from a Biſhop in 1644, or 1645, as afterwards appears. It was (with ſeveral other Allegations) depoſ'd on Oath, againſt Mr. Pollit of Cheriton-Chapel, 'That he had 'frequented Malignants Company;' That his 'Family work'd on the (Parliament) Firſt Days;' That he hath 'in his Practice maintained Epiſcopacy;' and ſaid, 'That he would maintain the Ceremonies, 'as Surplice, and Book of Common Prayer;' That he 'never publickly manifeſted any Sorrow for his 'Malignancy;' That he 'ſpoke againſt the Parliament, and for the King, alledging Scripture for that purpoſe;' That he 'was at an 'Ale Feaſt on the Day when the Parliament Forces 'were Fighting againſt Warrington;' That he 'ſaid, the Parliament were a Body without a 'Head;' That he 'entertained Cavaliers;' That he 'neglected ſinging of Pſalms in his Family;' That he 'ſwore by his Faith;' That he 'was at an 'Horſe-Race on Barlow-Moor;' and, That he 'came in contrary to the Minds of them that were 'reputed Godly.'

In order to ſuſpend from the Sacrament, as I preſume.

I do not find, that the Event of this Proſecution doth appear: But they had another Gentleman before them for much the ſame Crimes; whom they both Suſpended and Sequeſter'd, viz. Mr. Gilbecey of Holcombe-Chapl, who had See him in the Appendix. fate among them as a Member of their Claſſis, and been Moderator. Some of the Articles againſt him, were, That 'He did go to an Horſe-'Race,' That 'he did ſit tipling in an Ale-houſe 'where was Fiddling,' and That 'he was preſent at 'a Bowling on a Common Ale-houſe Bowling-'Green.'

The Caſe of Mr. * Symmonds of Middleton alſo, (which was before them) muſt not be omitted. He was diſapprov'd of by the Claſſis, for 'not 'bringing a Certificate according to Ordinance 'of Parliament.' Beſides which, I find he had ſlighted the Claſſis, and not aſſembled with them, being indeed a Loyaliſt. For theſe Crimes, he was inhibited to Preach at Middleton, or exerciſe any Miniſterial Office within the Precincts of the Claſſis. Whereupon the Pariſh petition, that he may officiate till another be gotten to ſupply his Cure. To this, the Claſſis anſwer, that 'They ſadly reſent the Defect of Proviſion of 'the Means of Grace in that Congregation,' but ſtill perſiſt to refuſe Mr. Symmonds the Liberty of officiating there; and chooſe rather to have none, than him. After the Pariſh had lain ſome time Vacant, they at laſt place one Filgate, an unordain'd Preach r, in it; againſt whom the Pariſhioners, to the Number of 70, Petition for Inſufficiency. This Petition they reinforce with a Second and a Third; alledging, that he was a Perſon unknown to them, even by Name, and that they could not learn what he was, or ſo much as whence he came; only that it was ſaid in general, he was an Iriſh-man. But notwithſtanding all theſe Remonſtrances, he was continu'd amongſt them as their Miniſter, for at leaſt fifteen Months, tho' all that while Unordained: Until at laſt, being ſummoned before the Claſſis for clandeſtine Marriages, he was refuſed their Approbation to the Place, and threaten'd with an Inhibition: But I don't find it ſerved upon him.

* See him in the Pariſhiall Liſt, under the Letter S. in Lancaſhire.

Then Silenc'd, Ejected, or Diſpoſſeſs'd of about Eleven, in the ſeveral Parties and Churches for ſeven years.

pels within the Claſſis, ſome for the Crimes of Loyalty, and their matters: And Tithed and Harraſſed about Ten more at ſeveral

Next to their Care of Diſpoſſeſſing the Loyaliſts, was that of Ordaining and Approving others in their Places, and ſuch as others ſe became vacant; altho' they were not over-haſty in doing either, as will appear by and by. In purſuit of the Former of theſe Offices, I find Two of the Candidates, (viz. Mr. Lievſey, and Mr. Pendlebury) had given Satisfaction to the Claſſis, of their 'Gracious Qualifications.' But it ſo happen'd between thoſe two approv'd Men, that

See the Abridgment viſ.

Digitized by Google

that the Former (being yet without Orders) had married the Latter, and that too Clandestinely. But as it was no very difficult matter for Men of such Qualifications to acquit themselves before those Judges; to the Class declared, they had received Satisfaction from them both, with respect to that Marriage.

In the mean time, whatever Qualifications of Grace, their Candidates might be possess'd of, I believe, those of Learning were very rare with them: For of all that were Ordain'd by Them (and they were many) I find but One, namely, Mr. Pendlebury now mentioned, who produced a Certificate of his having taken any Degree in the University; and that was but the Degree of a Batchelour in Arts: Altho' the Certificates of other matters, as of having taken the Covenant, &c. appear plentiful enough in the Proceedings. And I am the rather confirm'd in this Opinion, because several of Them Ordain'd by them, are also mentioned in the Abridgment; and but one of the Number, besides Mr. Pendlebury, appears to have been Educated at either of the Universities; nor does it appear, that he was a Graduate.

Mr Ol Heywood also brought a Certificate of A. B. but he was ordain'd for a Place in Yorkshire, if I mistake not. See Abridgm. p. 444. Viz. Mr. Bovine, at Trin. Coll. Dublin. Ibid. p. 406.

But, as I before intimated, they observed to a very bad purpose, the Apostolical Injunction of laying hands suddenly on no Man; nor were they more forward in their Approving of their Candidates, or others, to the several Parishes and Chapels within their Class: A short Account of which matter, will give the Reader a just Notion of the miserable State of Religion within That Precinct.

Besides Four or Five more, who preached before the Class for Approbation.

It appears therefore, That about Ten Unordain'd Ministers (if that Expression be allowable) exercised during the course of this Discipline, in the Parishes and Chapels of this Class; many of which had been there placed to try their Faculties, by the Class it self. Most of them were the only Ministers which the Places had; and some of them were at last rejected, as unfit for the Ministry. I shall alledge some Instances in particular. Mr. Pendlebury, before mentioned, continu'd upon one, or more of the Chapels, unordain'd, from Dec. 14, 1648, till May * 1650. Mr. Scolfield also, had been Four Years at Heywood-Chapel, when the Class sent to the Congregation, to know if they would close with him as their Minister; in order (if I mistake not) to Ordain him. And it is certain, that Mr. Livesey exercis'd at least Eight Months, within the Precincts of this Class, before he was Ordain'd. The Two former of these have a Place among the Sufferers of the Abridgment, and the Third was at length Ordain'd with the Latter; of which the Abridgment likewise takes notice. Mr. Hilton exercis'd some time, both at Blackrode and Horridge, unordain'd, and was at last declar'd insufficient and unworthy; and his Baptisms were declar'd Null; and an Order was made, that the First Class, and after that, the Provincial Assembly, should be consulted on that Point. I need not repeat on this occasion, what I have just now said on another, of Mr. Felton at Middleton.

* And at least, some time after.

Or else to Approve him. Quere.

P. 401, 409.

Nor did they make any more Dispatch, in Approving these Persons to the several Places, than they did in Ordaining them. I find many Complaints of the Parishioners not Closing with their Ministers; and several Ministers were not Approved for a considerable time, after they had been on their respective Places. Add to this, That in Six or Seven of the Chapels there were about Twenty one Comers and Goers, during the Course of this Discipline; and some of them lay Vacant for a considerable time, betwixt the Changes: And in most of the Chapels there were no Elders chosen; nor did the Ministers attend the Class: So that what with total Vacancies, and what with unordained Preachers, the People, for near one Half of the time, had no one among them that could properly be called a Minister, (and by necessary consequence, no Sacraments which they could offer them) even in their own sense: And then considering how many Changes, and new Faces there were; how many of them (who had been for some time on the Places) they refus'd to Approve; how many of the Parishioners did not at last close with their Ministers; and how many of them neglected to make a Choice of their Elders; it is plain, That where the Celebrated Discipline was Erected, the want of the Means of Salvation was to great, and the Distractions and Confusions were such, as I am well satisfy'd, never appear'd upon the Face of Religion, in any of the largest Dioceses (much less, within the compass of Six Parishes) during the whole Prophane and Idolatrous times of Prelatical Government.

It appears by the Proceedings of this Class also, that where there were no Elders chosen, they would not permit the Sacrament to be Celebrated.

I have but this one thing more to add; That no one was to remove out of the Precincts of the Class without Leave; and Mr. Tiffty of Dean, having a Call to Newcastle upon Tine, apply'd to the Class for a Permission; on which they consulted the First Class; who gave it under their Hands, That 'they did 'conceive, it will be most for the Glory of God, 'and good of the Church,' for Mr. Tiffty to go: But his own Class refus'd to give him leave: On which, Mr. Tiffty appeal'd to the Provincial Assembly. The Event does not appear in their Proceedings; but the Worthy Mr. Gipps, who communicated the Papers to me, inserted this Note with his own Hand: 'Mr. Tiffley 'did go to Newcastle; but finding not the Place 'so beneficial as was expected, returned back; 'it being not, it seems, to the Glory of God for 'him to stay, when it was not to his own Advan-'tage.' How this accords with the Character which the Abridgment gives of him, I leave any one to judge. P. 405.

Thus fell Episcopacy (the only Government of the Christian Church, from the Days of the Apostles) before the Lame and Imperfect Pattern of Scots Presbytery; the Ark of God (to increase our Misery beyond that of God's Church among the Jews, in one of its greatest Calamities) before an Headless and Handless Dagon: And these were the principal Steps, whe eby that Great Wickedness was accomplish'd. One only excepted; namely, the Harrassing, Plundering, Imprisoning and Sequestring that Clergy, who were the great Ornament and Support of it. Of which, I come now to speak more directly, and at large; by accounting in the first place (as I proposed) for the several Acts, Ordinances, and other vile Methods, made use of for that purpose.

As previous to which, it must be observed, That these Methods were not all of the same kind: The Credit and Reputation of the Clergy were first attempted; then their Power in Secular and Civil Matters was wholly taken away; each of which (but especially the Former) was not only in it self, an Outrage on the Clergy; but did in the last place allo, render the main Design of an Assault on their Persons and Estates, the more easie and practicable.

Attempts upon the Credit and Reputation of the Clergy.

As to the Former of these (not to remark at present, of what use it was to them in the Prosecution of their Enterprizes against the State) I shall only observe, That it was an Undertaking wholly necessary towards carrying on their further Projects against the Clergy; as well to sess some of the People with an Abhorrence of them, as to quiet and pacifie others, under the Execution of those Severities, which they intend'd to exercise upon them. But then the Undertaking was attended with such Difficulties, as nothing but the most prostituted Consciences could have surmounted. Nor was the Success of any of their Attempts more to be wonder'd at, than of this against the Reputation of the Episcopal Clergy at that time: For great Numbers of them were Persons of such excellent Lives and Learning, that the Church had scarcely enjoy'd at any one time, since the Reformation, a Body of Divines which Equall'd (much less, Excell'd) many of them. Besides, several of the Bishops, and no inconsiderable Number of the other Clergy, had been the most popular Men among the Faction. Insomuch, that the utmost Arts of Lying and Slander, were even little enough to bring them into Disrepute. Nor were those wicked Arts (tho' confessedly improv'd and possess'd by the Party in the most exquisite Degrees) on any other Occasion whatsoever made use of with more Virulence and Application, than on This of Reproaching and Vilifying the Regular Clergy. All which, notwithstanding, must have come short of their intended Purpose, had not the Spirit of Delusion, as well as Lying, been gone out into the World.

Digitized by Google

Char. Hist. Vol I. p. 319. I have heard some of them (i. e. the Faction) say, that they could never have taken a worse time against the Bishops of England, whose Personal Holiness, Learning and Piety, was so eminent, &c.' saith an Author who lived, and wrote in those Times. Pers. Undec. p. 4.

I have observed the Practice and Success of this same Method towards pulling down the Hierarchy it self; I must now add, that the Reputation of the Clergy, as well as the Government and Discipline of the Church, were not only attempted in the self-same Manner, but mostly by the same Instruments: And it was very seldom, that the Orders and Ceremonies of the Church were reviled, but that the Bishops and Clergy had their share of Ignominy too. What I have also said upon that Occasion, I likewise repeat upon this; that it is both needless and endless, to Trace back the Source of this Evil, to the Beginnings of the Puritan Faction among us; (or so much as to take notice of the later Invectives of Prynn, Burton, &c.) which would furnish abundant matter to this Argument, as well as to that against the Church-Government it self; and that the rather, because those Times within which I have confined my self, abound so much with Instances of this kind, that it is a Matter of no small Difficulty, to be short on such an Argument.

Perfec. Und. p. 16, 17, 18, 19.

The Disrespect wherewith the Bishops were Publickly Treated, and the Contempt put upon them, even in their own House, may justly be ranked in the Front of their Abuses. They were not only left out of the Committee for Examinations, in the Business of the Earl of Strafford; but by the Fraud and Artifice of the Clerk of Parliament, were not Named in other Commissions, with that Proportion which had been usual. The Clerk also at the reading of such Bills, as came into the Lords House, turned his Back towards them in Disdain, that they might not distinctly hear what he read; as if their Consent or Dissent had been unnecessary. The Temporal Lords took Exception at the Bishop of London's being Stiled Right Honourable; they likewise took place of the Bishops, on the solemn Occasion of a Fast, in such a Manner, as made the Young Lord Spencer say, 'Is this a Day of Humiliation, wherein we shew so much Pride in taking place of those, to whom our Ancestors ever allowed it?' The express mentioning of the Lords Spiritual was designedly Omitted in the Bills, which passed that Section, to shew how Insignificant they were in an Act of Parliament: And one of the Temporal Lords, in a Printed Pamphlet, accused them in respect of their Parentage, to be de Faci Populi; tho' it fo happened, that some of them had (as it is affirmed) more left them for their own single Portions, than that 'Lord's Father had, to Maintain him and all his Family.' Not to mention the Ancient Descent and Quality of others among them.

Heyl. Hist. Laud, p. 439, 440. Full. Ch. Hist. Cent. 17. L. 11. p. 183, 184.

Dr Heylin saith, all Bilson: But I find them named in Dugdale, of two while as they passed 9 and in the other, the Expression is, the Lords and Commons, &c. Scots. Coinil. pallim.

* See them fully and particularly vindicated from this Calumny, Full. Ch. Hist. Cent. 17. L. 11. p. 183, 184.

Heylin, Hist. Laud p. 410.

As for the other Invectives against them by the Lord now mentioned, together with the Lord Say, as likewise by Mr. Bagshaw, Mr. Wentw, and others in the respective Houses; together with the Promoting the Mobb Clamours of no Bishops, and their Countenancing and Receiving Accusations and Petitions against them from the Rabble of Porters, Apprentices, &c. they have been already, either in general, or in particular, remember'd on other Occasions: And that their Petitions were stuffed with the vilest Reproaches and Calumnies, as well on the Persons of those excellent Prelates, as on the Order it self, it is almost needless to observe: For much as Lordly Prelates, Proud Prelates, Papists and Prelates, were Words very rarely separated, either in the Writing or Conversations of the Times; and all the Miseries and Calamities of the Kingdom, whether Real, or Imaginary, Spiritual, or Temporal, not excepting the Decay of Trade, were ascribed to the Bishops. To all which the Houses gave a solemn Sanction, by Impeaching some of them themselves; receiving Articles against, and Imprisoning others; and by several Proceedings against most of them, as the wilful Malefactors; other than which it was impossible the People should consider them, if they thought there was any shadow of Truth or Justice, either in their Judges, or Accusers.

See also Clar. Hist. I. p. 183.

As to what chiefly concern the Inferiour Clergy, the Crimes wherewith they had agreed to load them, were, in a Word, all that they could well think of; but Those which were most commonly in their Mouths, were Popery, Idolatry, Superstition, Arminianism, Preparation of the Sabbath, Perfecution, and Enmity to Godliness, Preaching and Reformation; Idleness, Ignorance, Insufficiency, Covetousness, (evident in their Pluralities) and Non-Residence; Scandal branched out into its several kinds, of Ale-House haunting, Tipling, Drunkenness, Swearing, Incontinency, and sometimes even Blasphemy and Sodomy: And in the last Place, that which implicitly contained all these, and every thing else which was abominable (or rather that, and that alone, which for the most part, made them Guilty of all the rest) Malignancy and Disaffection to the Parliament. Whether far the greater part of them were justly Charged with these Crimes, or not, the last excepted, of which I would not have them Innocent, I shall, God willing, examine hereafter: For the Accusations being so Vile, and the Methods used to Propagate, and gain Credit to them, so many; the Effect of them so pernicious, and yet the Evidence of their Falsehood so plain and undeniable, it well deserves a particular Consideration.

As also that of Arminianism, which, however, few believe, or were of them held in all the Points of the Synod but well known, that a very great Number of the most considerable, both of the Suffering Bishops and Clergy, were at that time Calvinists in point of Doctrine, as the Bishops Hall, Prideaux, Saunderson, and the Deans Holdsworth, Sam. Ward, Warmestry, &c.

In

In the mean time, I believe, I may fafely beſpeak the Reader's Patience in that Matter, when I have only for the Preſent, laid before him, the Account which the Lord Clarendon gives of that Clergy. 'The Church (ſaith that 'Noble Author) flouriſhing with Learned and 'Extraordinary Men, the Proteſtant Religion more 'advanc'd againſt the Church of Rome by Writing, than it had been from the Reformation. '—— It cannot be deny'd, but there was 'ſometimes Preached there Matter very unfit for 'the Place, (viz at Court,) and very Scandalous for the Perſons, &c. But it is as true (as 'was once ſaid by a Man fitter to be believed 'in that Point, than I, and one not ſuſpected 'for Flattering of the Clergy) that if the Sermons of thoſe Times preached in Court, were collected together and Publiſhed, the World would receive the beſt Bulk of Orthodox Divinity, profound Learning, convincing Reaſon, Natural Powerful Eloquence, and admirable Devotion, that hath been Communicated in any Age, ſince the Apoſtles times. And I cannot but ſay, for the Honour of the King, and of thoſe who were truſted by him, in his Eccleſiaſtical Collations, (who have receiv'd but ſad Rewards for their Uprightneſs,) in thoſe Reproached Condemned Times; there was not one Church-man in any Degree of Favour or Acceptance, (and this the Iniquiſition that hath been ſince made upon them, a Stricter never was in any Age, muſt confeſs,) of a Scandalous Inſufficiency in Learning, or of a more Scandalous Condition of Life; but on the contrary moſt of them, of confeſſed Eminent Parts in Knowledge, and of Virtuous and Unblemiſhed Lives: And therefore wiſe Men knew, that That which looked like Pride in Some, and like Petulance in Others, would by experience in Affairs and Converſation amongſt Men, (both of which moſt of them wanted,) be in time wrought off, or in a new Succeſſion reformed; and ſo thought the vaſt Advantage from their Learning and Integrity, an Ample Recompence for any Inconvenience from their Paſſion; and yet by the prodigious Impiety of theſe Times, the Latter was only looked upon with Malice and Revenge, without any Regard or Gratitude to the Former.'

Hiſt. Vol. I. p. 19, 60.

Such were the Clergy againſt whom theſe Railing Accuſations were brought. The Diligence and Application wherewith the Faction apply'd themſelves to this Work, together with the various Methods in which the wicked Undertaking was purſued, come next to be conſidered: And among theſe, the Speeches and Invectives in Parliament claim the firſt Place; wherein as I have before ſaid, the Clergy, as well as the Government and Conſtitutions of the Church, ſo'dom went without a Reproach. I need not make Extracts out of any of them, ſince they were all Epitomized, in a very comprehenſive Clauſe of one of theſe Speeches to the Houſe by Mr. Wilde, in 1641, to this Effect, That Eight Thouſand of the Clergy were 'Unworthy, and Scandalous', and 'deſerved to be caſt out.' And tho' he did not ſurvive much above Three Years after, yet was that long enough to ſee this done; and if he may be believed himſelf, to have a chief hand likewiſe in doing it; for he boaſted (as it was reported) that we and his had Ejected Eight Thouſand. A Writer of theſe Times hath left a full Teſtimony to the purpoſe, for which I have now mentioned thoſe Speeches made in the Houſe of Commons: 'The firſt Scaffold '(ſaith he) to the Building, was made by 'Railing Speeches 'wi'hin the Houſe—— Reviling the Eſtabliſh'd Form of God's Service, 'blaſting the ſacred Function of the Miniſtry of 'Chriſt, and publiſhing thoſe Speeches in Print, on 'purpoſe to infect the People, and fire their 'Minds. ——And this railing againſt the Clergy, 'was the only way to be made a Chair-man of 'a Committee, &c.' And again, 'Remonſtrances and Declarations publiſh'd in the Name of 'the Houſe of Commons, which uſually ranked 'the Papiſts and the Clergy together, as Enemies to the Kingdom; and that none of the 'Clergy were preferr'd, but Thoſe who preached Wickedneſs and Prophaneneſs;' which, as he after obſerves, 'was enough to have raiſed 'Hatred to a ſecond Magnitude, conſidering 'the Religious Faith the People then had in 'the Reports of their New Gods, as the Pulpits 'then call'd the Houſe of Commons.'

Perſec. Und. p. 16, 17, 18.

Agreeable to theſe Speeches, were the Language, Senſe and Intent of many of the Votes, Orders, Reſolves, and other publick Acts of the Houſes. It is plainly impoſſible to account for all of them; and much eaſier to ſay (which I think a very great and notorious Truth) that theſe Votes, Orders, &c. wherein the Clergy were either directly or by way of Implication, revil'd and calumniated; amounted to ſeveral Thouſands. Indeed, there were few, or none, relating to Eccleſiaſtical Matters, that were without a Spice of it. But to alledge a few Inſtances: Nothing was ſo frequent and familiar with them, as to ſtile thoſe Factious Perſons, whom they thruſt into the Pulpits of the Epiſcopal Miniſters, Godly and Orthodox; ſuggeſting thereby the Scandal and Heterodoxies of the Regular Clergy; whom they alſo as often Summon'd, and Harraſs'd before them, under the more open Title of Papiſts and Scandalous Miniſters. In the Famous Remonſtrance of the State of the Kingdom, they ſet it forth, as one of the greateſt Calamities under which the Nation groan'd 'That the Biſhops and corrupt part of the Clergy,' were carrying on a malignant and pernicious Deſign of Subverting the Government, 'Suppreſſing the Purity of Religion,' and bringing them 'near to 'the Papiſts.' In the Nineteen Propoſitions, they plainly ſuggeſt, That the Vices, and other Enormities of the Clergy, were become ſo notorious, as juſtly to deſerve the Remedy of a particular Law; and therefore propoſe it to the King, to give Conſent to Laws againſt 'Pluralities, and ſcandalous Miniſters;' and carry'd on the Humour ſo far, as to prepare Bills for each of theſe Purpoſes; which were preſented for the Royal Aſſent, in the Treaty of Oxford, about the latter End of the ſame Year. In the Preamble of That 'for the Puniſhment 'of ſcandalous Clergymen,' they intimate, That by the 'Inſufficient, Scandalous and Idle Miniſters' of the Church of England, 'Religion is deſpiſed, and the Church ſcandalized, and the 'Souls of Men endanger'd.' To remedy which, the Bill nominates Commiſſioners for each County, who were to be authoriz'd under the Great Seal; and to enquire into the following Crimes (which every one was therefore to believe, were riſe among the Clergy) viz. 'Not 'Preaching the Word of God, &c. Blaſphemy, 'wilful and corrupt Perjury, and Subornation of Preſented to the King Dec. 1, 1641. Clar. Hiſt. Vol. I. p. 248.

Sent the King June 2, 1642. Clar. Hiſt. Vol. I. p. 455.

Propoſition 8.

Hiſt. Col. Vol. I. p. 118, 119, &c. but his Majeſty's anſwer paſs'd there, nor any of the others offer'd to him.

† Ibid. p. 228.

Natt. Collect. Vol. I. p. 667, 713, 767, 789. Vol. II. p. 211, 10 206, 248, 249, 264, 276, 282, 289, 330, 381, 490, 501, 885.

I remember to have ſeen this Speech, and a Clauſe to this Effect in it, tho' I cannot now recover it, but one Mr. Jer. Stephens, one of the Suffering Poets of Lincoln, &c. in ſome Manuſcript Papers of his, communicated to me by Mr. D. Scobell, takes expreſs Notice of it: And I have alſo met with it in other Printed Pieces.

Dr Pierce in his Addreſs to Bart. Gro. Polit. p. 140: And Mr Stephens, in the Papers now mentioned, reports it often and again, that ſome Eight Thouſand were Ejected. See Sir Rich. Yelverton's Eight Reaſons againſt Biſhop Morton's Book of Epiſcopacy, p. 39.

Digitized by Google

'Perjury, Fornication, Adultery, Common Ale-
'house, or Tavern-haunting, Common Drunken- 'ness, Common Prophane Swearing and Cursing, &c.'
At the same time were also presented to his Majesty some other Bills, as loudly reflecting on the Clergy, in the very Frame and Sub-Ibid. p. 119. stance of them, viz. One 'for the Suppression of 'divers Innovations in Churches and Chapels, in
'and about the Worship of God (as if the Clergy
'had been over-run with Superstition and Popery)
'and for the due observing of the Lord's Day,
'and the better Advancement of the Preaching of
'God's Holy Word;' which in the Preamble, they say, 'hath been by the undue Practices of divers
'Bishops and their Adherents, much hinder'd and
'restrain'd, Lectures suppress'd, and many Godly
'and Learned Preaching Ministers much disfou-
'rag'd and oppress'd, to the great Displeasure of
'Almighty God, and Scandal of this Church.'
Ibid. p. 124. Preamble. Another, for the 'Abolishing Arch-bishops, &c.'
because their Government had, 'by long Experi- 'ence, been found to be a great Impediment to
'the perfect Reformation and Growth of Religion,
'&c. And at the same time was offer'd also the Ibid. p. 142. Bill for calling the 'Assembly of Divines;'
which I have before observ'd, was a loud Re- proach on the whole Body of the Regular Clergy, as being either not Godly, Learned or Orthodox enough, to be entrusted with the Affair of Re-Heyl. Hist. Laud, p. 441. ligion in this Kingdom. Besides this, they had several more of the eminent Persons of the inferiour Clergy, as well as of the Bishops under Protection before them in Parliament, for the pretended Crimes of Popery, Superstition, and I know not what: Such as Dr. Pocklington,
Dr. Bray, Dr. Heylin, Dr. Cosins, Dr. Heywood
and many others, who will be after mention'd.
And tho' nothing material was, or could be prov'd against them; yet by the peculiar Management of the Faction, their bare Accusations pass'd all over the Nation, for Guilt of the most flagitious nature; and that supposed Guilt was diffus'd over all the rest of their Brethren, who had any Reverence for his Majesty, or the Constitution; 'It being found necessary (saith Ibid. 'Dr. Heylin) to question and disgrace all those,
'who had been active, &c. or industrious in his
'Majesty's Service.'

To the same Purposes, served some of the more early Committees, erected to enquire into the Lives and Practices of the Clergy; which, besides that they forwarded the main Design of Ruining the Regular Established Clergy, were also plainly built on this Supposition, that they were so very Flagitious and Enormous in their Conversations, as to stand in need of a Publick and National Reformation. One of these Committees deserves more particularly to be taken notice of to this purpose; because it carried this Suggestion more openly in its very Name, which was that of a 'Committee for Scandalous Ministers.' And after this Title stamp'd upon it by the House it self, there needed nothing more to make the generality of People believe, any Clergyman was truly Scandalous, than barely to get him Summoned before that Committee, which was the inevitable Misfortune of great Numbers of the Regular Ministers. They encourag-
With an Epistle Epist. Ded. probably, to this, or at least, some other of their Committees. 'ed (saith an Ancient Gentleman) 'some Fa-
'ctious Neighbours to charge them as being Cri-
'minals either in the way of Drinking, Idleness,
'Negligence, &c. or else for Insufficiency; and
'so they were accounted Scandalous Ministers.'
And the Excellent Mr. Symmons of Rye in Essex, complains (in the Letter Published with his Loyal Subject's Belief,) to this same purpose, that he 'was at last referred to the Committee
'for Scandalous Ministers, that to be more
'afterwards be reckoned in that Number, and 'disabled thereby from doing Christ any more 'Service. (for a Minister Marked with that
'Badge by them, they call the Parliament,
'is more Odious, than he that is made such 'an One by Sin or Satan.) So that when he returned Home, the Drunken Crew (whole vicious Lives he had oft Inveighed against) and their Children too, would point at him as he went the Streets, and say, there goes a Scandalous Minister; there goes he that was in the Geal with his fellow Rogues the other day:' And Dr. Nalson speaking of this Committee, hath these Words to the same Effect; (Coll. Vol. I, P. 794.) 'Thus did they endeavour to bring the Orthodox Episcopal and Loyal Clergy into both Contempt and Hatred; and to make them appear Scandalous, received and encouraged all sorts of Informations against them, the Foundations of which were generally laid in the Malice or Mistake of their known Enemies, who contrary to Natural Justice, were admitted to be their Accusers.'
Nor must one peculiar Act of this Commit- tee to this purpose be Omitted; which was, that of exposing the Clergy brought before them, to the Contempt and Derision of the Rabble, by vile and opprobrious Language and Treatment. These Committees, saith an Eye and Preface, Vind. p. 20, 21.
an Ear Witness of them, 'were made as fe-
'veral Stages for continual Clergy-baitings.'
(a fair Introduction to the reproachful Usage of the Clergy, as the same Author observes just before.) 'Mine Ears still tingle at the 'loud Clamours and Shoutings there made,
'—— in Derision of Grave and Reverend 'Divines, by that Rabble of Sectaries, which
'daily flock'd thither to see their new Pastime;
'Where the Committee Members, out of their 'vast Privilege to abuse any Man (tho' their
'Betters, some Members of the Convocation,
'whose Privileges are, and by Law ought 'to be, as large as those of the House of Com- mons:) without controul, have been pleased 'to call the Ministers of Christ (brought before
'them by Taylors and Pursevants, and placed
'like heinous Malefactors, without the Bar,
'(Bare-Headed forsooth!) Saucy Jacks, base Fel- lows, Brazen-faced Fellows; and in great Scorn
'hath the Cap of a known Orthodox * Doctor * Dr. Hoke,
'been call'd to be pull'd off, to see if he
'were not a thaven Popish Priest: And upon a
'Parson's Evidence for one of his Parishioners,
'that he was no Papist (whole Evidence in 'such case is and ought to be Authentical) it
'was reply'd by a Committee; have you no
'Evidence but a Base Priest? And to some 'Eminent Doctors in Divinity, of the City of 'London, viz. Dr. Baker, Dr. Brough, Dr. Wal-
'ton, giving Testimony in a Cause then before 'them, it was laid by a Citizen, Member of 'that Committee (Mauck Pennington) what 'shall we believe these Doctors for?'

By what base and wicked Methods, they Procured, Countenanced, and Encouraged Petitions, and Accusations against the Clergy, before this and the other Committees now men- Clar. Hist. Vol. I. p. 139.
tioned, in order to Promote these Scandals, I shall have another Occasion of shewing at large:
Only I must observe in this Place, that there were great Numbers of the Clergy, whom such Practices brought before these Inquisitions; and that all of them were for that only Reason thenceforward deem'd either Scandalous, or Insufficient, or some other way Unworthy of the Ministry.

See also Clar. Vol. I. p. 138, 161, 262.

Nor

Digitized by Google

The Bill, as drawn by the Lords, Votes and Orders [illegible] were ordered to be carry'd up to the Lords. Nalt. Collect. Vol. I. p. 809.

Nor muſt I omit to add in this place likewiſe, That the ſame Artifice was continu'd throughout the future courſe of their Tyranny; it being cuſtomary with them, to ſuggeſt in the Titles and Preambles of thoſe Acts and Ordinances, whereby they ruin'd the Clergy, That ſome great Enormity or other, was the Subject of their Enquiry upon them: As an Ordinance for regulating the Univerſity of Cambridge; and † for removing of ſcandalous Miniſters in the Seven Aſſociated Counties:' 'The Lords and Commons, &c. being informed, that many Miniſters in the County of York, are not only of ſcandalous Life and Converſation, &c.' An Act for 'better ‡ Propagation and Preaching the Goſpel in Wales, ejecting ſcandalous Miniſters, &c.' 'Scandalous, Ignorant and Inſufficient Miniſters ſhall be ejected.' '* Whereas by the Continuance of divers Scandalous and Inſufficient Miniſters, &c. the more effectual Propagation of the Goſpel, &c. is much obſtructed, &c.' And by this means the wicked Work they had in hand, was brought to help forward and promote it ſelf; whilſt no one could in reaſon object againſt diſplacing of Scandalous and Inſufficient Miniſters: And the more ignorant People eſteeming all thoſe to be Such, who ſuffer'd under any Act or Ordinance, that was profeſſedly made only for Such a Purpoſe; they did for the moſt part acquieſce in the Juſtice of the Sentence againſt them, tho' never ſo Wrongfully or Unjuſtly obtain'd.

Jan 22. 1643 Preamble to the Ordin. for the Lord Fairfax to appoint Godly Divines in Yorkſhire. Husb. Collect. Folio, p. 437.

‡ Scob. Coll. Part 2. p. 104.

† Ibid. p. 135.

* Preamble.

To this muſt be added in the laſt place, their Appointing Factious Lecturers in the Pulpits of many of the beſt and moſt Learned of the Clergy. For beſides that in the Orders of the Houſe (by virtue of which, they were thruſt upon the ſeveral Pariſhes) theſe were always ſtil'd Godly and Learned Divines, whereby the People were taught to think the contrary of thoſe, whoſe Pulpits they invaded; one main End of the Houſe in the Appointment it ſelf, was (as I have noted already on another Occaſion) to bring an Odium on the conformable Miniſters; as if they were altogether Inſufficient for, or Negligent of their ſeveral Charges, without the Help of ſuch Intruders.

These were ſome of the more open and avowed Attempts made by the Two Houſes upon the Credit and Reputation of the Clergy, under the Countenance and Encouragement of which, the Faction without Doors likewiſe aſſum'd a Part, which is worthy to be remember'd. It hath been already ſaid in another Place, That the Miniſters entruſted to ſollicit the Remonſtrance, in the Preamble of their Petition of Dec. 2d, 1641, thanked the Houſe for their Proceedings againſt theſe Unworthy and Scandalous Miniſters; and that the Aſſembly in their Firſt Petition to the Parliament, recommended 'a thorough, and ſpeedy Proceeding 'againſt Blind Guides, and Scandalous Miniſters.' I have alſo juſt now hinted at the many Petitions and vile Accuſations againſt particular Clergymen, preferred by the worſt of their Pariſhioners, either immediately to the Houſe, or to ſome of their Committees; by all which, the Opinion of the Great Scandal of the Clergy was notably forwarded, and help'd on. I muſt now add, that by the ſame Countenance and Encouragement, and often, moſt probably, under the Direction of ſome Leading Members, in very many Petitions preſented from whole Counties, and other great Bodies of Men (more particularly, in thoſe againſt Epiſcopacy, Ceremonies, &c.) the Clergy were Reviled as Popiſh and Scandalous, and the Houſe earneſtly pray'd to proceed againſt them as ſuch: By all which, it was to be underſtood, that the Scandal of that Body of Men, was no leſs Notorious, than it was Burthenſome and Intolerable.

Half Collect. Vol. II. p. 764.

Husb. Collect. Fol. p. 241.

But this was not the only Method taken by the Friends of the Faction without Doors, to render the Clergy Odious and Deteſtable. They were Reviled likewiſe, and traduced in the Weekly Papers, as the worſt of Men; for the Scandal of Weekly Papers is no new thing.

‡ Parliament Speeches, Centuries, Declarations, publiſh'd all, and faced with, 'Authority of Parliament,' ſaith Perſec. Under. p. 3, 4.

* Scandalous Pamphlets

I find there were ſeveral of theſe Papers then Publiſhed, namely, the Diurnal, the Mercurius Britannicus, the Continuation (which I take to be have been diſtinct from the Mercurius Britannicus; quære) and perchance ſome others. I muſt own, I have not yet ſeen either of the Papers now mentioned; but the Author of the Gentle Laſh (cited in the Margin) gives this general Account of them; That 'aiming at 'the Confuſion of the Church,' 'They ſtruck at her 'very Pillars, caſting their venomous Froth upon 'their Names:' And after Expoſtulates in this Manner; 'How many of the moſt Learned and 'Religious Divines of this Iſland, paſſively ſub'mitting to the Ordinances of Men, and Com'mitted to the Mercy of a Priſon, have your 'Printed (and Shamefully permitted) Scandals 'Defamed and Slander'd, rendering them as Odi'ous to the Ignorant, as you are to the Wiſe?' And the Particulars may be gueſs'd at, by the Inſtance of Dr. Featly, who fell into their Hands; from the Slanders of which the Writer before mentioned, undertakes to reſcue him. Whilſt the Doctor was in Favour with the Faction, and ſate unſuſpected in the Aſſembly, the Diurnals themſelves had called him a Grave, a Good Doctor; and with others of their Party, he was Entitled a Famous Doctor. Nor had they only Nominated him to the Aſſembly themſelves; but the Houſes of Parliament committed the Review of the Tranſlation of St. Paul's Epiſtles to him, and appointed him to Anſwer the Remiſſo Pamphlet, Intituled the Safe-Guard; and had, ſaith the Lord Clarendon, raiſed great Advantages to themſelves, on his Reputation in Learning. But having ſuſpected at laſt, that he was not wholly with them, and by a Contrivance diſcover'd, that he Correſponded with Dr. Uſher, then at Oxford with his Majeſty; he was thenceforward a Rotten Member, a Traytor, a Court-Spy. They Triumph in the Sequeſtration of his Living, the Plundering and Deſtroying of his Houſe and Barns, and the Confinement of his Perſon: They falſifie and and Miſ-repreſent his whole Letter; make him complain of the Sequeſtration of his Rectory of Lambeth; introduce him as ſetting forth his Merits in viſiting the King's Priſoners, and owning, that all the while he had Diſſembled with the Aſſembly. Nor were they content with this (tho' every Word of it was mere invention of their own) but proceeded to Affirm alſo, that he had voted in the Aſſembly for the Extirpation of Popry and Prelacy; the former of which he was ready indeed to have Voted down; but the Charging him with having conſented to a Vote, wh rein the Latter was joyned to it, was a further Stretch of their Invention. But they go on to introduce him lik wiſe complaining, that his Barn at Allon was Burned by the Parliament Soldiers; on which the Paper makes this Comment, That he Suffered no great Loſs by it; for there was no Corn in it. Whereas it appears by a Certificate from ſix of his Pariſhoners, that it was full of Corn; and that not only his Barn, but Gentle Laſh, Preface to the Reader.

Articles againſt Dr. Featly.

P. 1.

P. 8.

Hiſt. Vol. II. p. 286.

Ibid. p. 285.

Gentle Laſh, p. 2.

P. 3.

P. 5.

P. 5, 6.

Particularly from Nal. Whitf. Mem. p. 379.

M three

Digitized by Google

three Bays of Stabling, which he had Erected himself on the Parionage, were all Burnt down to the Ground.

Besides which, the Zealots of the Time, had also reported, that he was turned * Papist: To obviate which he was obliged to Publish a Declaration, ' Professing before God, and his Holy Angels, and the whole World, that ' what he had heretofore Preached, Written and ' Printed, against the Errors, Heresies, Idolatry and ' manifold Superstitions of the Romish Church, ' he believed to be the Truth of God, and ' and was most ready and willing, if he was cal- ' led thereunto, to Sign and Seal it with his Blood.

Spondia, or Answer to the Articles against Dr. Featly, p. 23.

* Because, forsooth! he had Popish Books in his Study.

Besides these fixed and stated Scriblers, the Faction had also their Occasional Libellers, for the same vile Ends of traducing the Clergy. It hath been already said, That nothing more was necessary to render any Minister Criminal, than barely to accuse him, and get him Summoned before the Houses, or some of their Committees: But then to spread the Slander far and wide among the People (left it should not otherwise reach the Ears of every Body) they often published the Petitions and Articles, in which they were accused, and that too sometimes (unless I mistake) before ever they had been prefented; but it is sure always, without any Regard to the Truth or Falshood of them. And for fear the Articles themselves should not raise Abhorrence enough in the People, they sometimes embellished them with Comments and Observations of their own, Replenished with as many additional Lyes, and Mis-representations, and with as much Virulence, as could well be imagined.

Or, at least, whilst they were yet depending. See Heyl. Hist. Presbyt. 2d Edit. p. 430.

Their Practices in this Kind were so Notorious, that the Lord Clarendon hath taken express notice of them: ' All possible Licence ' (saith that Noble Author) was exercised in ' Preaching and Printing any old Scandalous ' Pamphlets, and adding new to them against ' the Church; Petitions presented by many ' Parishioners against their Pastors, with Ar- ' ticles of their Misdemeanours and Behaviours; ' most whereof consisted in their Bowing at the ' Name of Jesus, and obliging their Communicants ' to come up to the Altar (as they enviously ' called it), that is, to the Rails, which en- ' closed the Communion-Table, to Receive the ' Sacrament: All which Petitions were read with ' great Delight, and presently referred to the ' Committee about Religion; where Mr. White, ' a grave Lawyer, but notoriously Disaffected ' to the Church, sate in the Chair; and then ' both Petition and Articles were suffered to ' be Printed and Published (a Licence never ' practised before) That the People might ' be inflamed against the Clergy, who were ' quickly taught to call all those against whom ' such Petitions and Articles were Exhibited ' (which were frequently done by a few of ' the Rabble, and Meanest of the People, a- ' gainst the Sense and Judgment of the Parish) ' the Scandalous Clergy; which Appellation was ' frequently apply'd to Men of great Gravity ' and Learning, and the most unblemished Lives.' And to the same Purpose, Dr. * Heylin informs us, (speaking of some of the Clergy who had been thus accused) 'That these poor Men might appear ' more Monstrous in the Eye of the World, the Arti- ' cles, &c. were ordered to be put in Print, ' without care taken whether they were true ' or not. They know full well, that when Dirt ' was once thrown upon any Man, some of ' it must needs stick upon him, or about his ' Garments, how careful soever he might be ' to wipe it off.' To which must be added, the Complaint of Mr. Squire in the Apology prefixt to his Answer to the printed Articles

Vol. I. p 557, 558.

See also Heyl. Hist. Laud, p. 44.

Those against Mr. Squire, which will be mentioned by and by, were printed and dispersed before they were offered to be presented to the Committee.

* Hist. Laud. p. 441.

against him: 'But this is the Method of ' Malice' (speaking of the Slanders cast on him in the Publication of those Articles) 'a- ' gainst that Calling; as those that are Faulty, ' to Report them Faultier; and those that are ' Faultiest, to Report them Faulty; thereby to ' make all odious.'

Articles of this Nature were, I find, published against Dr. Wren, Bishop of Ely, in 1641, and against Dr. Pierce, Bishop of Bath and Wells, the Year following; as likewise against Dr. Pocklington, Dr. Cosin, Dr. Heywood, Mr. Squire of Shoreditch, Mr. Finch of Christ-Church, and if I mistake not, against Dr. Fuller, Dr. Walton, and probably many others, whom I have not heard of. I have seen an imperfect Copy of those against Dr. Wren; to which was subjoyned, as appears by the Title-Page, the Speech of Sir Thomas Widdrington, at a Conference between both Houses, July 20, 1641, when the Impeachment was sent up to the Lords: Whether that † Speech served instead of a Comment on the Articles (as is most probable) or whether the Publisher out of the Abundance of his Zeal, added any Invectives of his own at the Close, I know not; because, as is said, the Copy which I saw, was Imperfect.

Ibid.

† Which was very Virulent. See Comp. Hist. of Sing. Vol. III. p. 144. and the Speech at fol. Edit.

Collect. Vol. II. p. 393.

But in those against the Bishop of Bath and Wells, the Additional Slanders are thrown in by way of Marginal Notes: Some of which are these; 'Impiety and Prophaneness which ' no Age can Pattern!' A pious Episcopal Reason, fitter for an Ale-wife than a Bishop; an ' Atheist than a Prelate!' O the desperate Impiety and Prophaneness of this Bishop!' O ' Monstrous Superstition, Sacrilege and Impie- ' ty!' It seems his Lordship delighted more ' in Piping than Preaching, and will have Men ' go merrily, Dancing, not Mourning, to Hea- ' ven.' I have not seen the Articles themselves (as published by the Party) against Mr. Squire; but his Answer to them (wherein they are recited) lies now before me: And it appears, both by the Apology prefixt to it, and the Close of it, that he had been abused in the like manner by the Publisher of those Articles. And as for those against Mr. Finch, I find by his own Answer to them, (p. 10, 11, & seq) that the pretended Proofs of his Crimes, were the Comment they thought fit to publish on his Accusations; and by his Preface and Epilogue, that he had therein undergone the common Fate of his Brethren. In the former of those Places, he thus complains, That they endeavoured ' to ' Murther him in his Morality, in his Reli- ' gion; and to make him People's Scorn; and ' to condemn both his Person and Function ' to a Night more horrid, than that of Egyp- ' tian Darkness, &c.'

P. 4.

P. 5.

Ibid.

P. 6.

Both now re- ted.

For neither have I seen the Articles, as published by the Party.

As to the Articles against the rest of the Gentlemen now mentioned, I have not met with any of them; tho' it may well be thought, they were interspersed and set forth with new Calumnies, as well as others now mentioned.

I mean, as then Published by the Party, to which was subjoyned the Speech in reference to the Articles against Mr. Rudyard, &c.

Dr. Nalson, were, I presume, translated from the Originals in two Copies, and are nakedly related without Aggravation.

But the most comprehensive Undertaking of this Kind, was the Publication of a Paper Intituled, '* the First Century of Scandalous Ma- ' lignant Priests made and admitted into Be-

See also Heyl. Hist. Presbyt. p. 443.

* The Title immediately prefixt to the Articles, is, A Century of Scandalous and Malignant Priests.

Digitized by Google

'nesses by the Prelates, in whose Hands the 'Ordination of Ministers, and Government of 'the Church hath been; Or, A Narration of the 'Causes, &c. for Viciousness of Life, Errors in 'Doctrine, &c. and for practising and pressing 'Superstitious and Innovations, &c. and for Ma-'lignancy against the Parliament; set forth by Authority of the Committee of the House of Commons in Parliament, concerning Printing,' in 1643. This Pamphlet is the famed one now commonly called White's Century, from Mr. John White (a Member of the House) who seems to have been by general Consent taken for the Compiler, as well as the Publisher of it. The Committee concerning Printing, made an Order for its Publication, which is exemplified in the Title-Page, and subscribed with the Name of Mr. John White likewise; and what is much worse, he wrote the Scandalous Preface (of which more by and by) and publickly owned it, by setting the same Name of Infamy at the bottom of it.

So that possibly he had the Chair of that Committee.

I have already more than once mention'd this Mr. White; and shall have frequent Occasions of doing it hereafter; he having been the most active, and implacable Enemy, that the Clergy had: For which Reasons, those few Notices I have hitherto met with concerning him, will probably be acceptable enough to the Reader.

See Whitl. Mem. p. 122.

I take it for granted, he was the same Person with that Mr. John White, who lies buried in the Temple; and therefore was Second Son of Henry White, (of what Place or County, doth not appear) and a Bencher of the Middle-Temple. In the first short Parliament of 1640, he served for Rye in Sussex; but in this Parliament, for the Burrough ‡ of Southwark; and for his known Disaffection to the Church, was put into the Chair of the * Grand Committee for Religion, as likewise into those both of its Sub-Committee of Scandalous Ministers, of one of the further Divisions of that again, for the dispatch of Business, viz. that for Plunder'd Ministers; and of the Committee, concerning Printing also, if (as is just now said) I conjecture right of that Matter. The Four first of these Committees, as will appear hereafter †, were the Principal Instruments of the Clergy's Ruin, for the first Three or Four Years of the Rebellion; and dispatched in that Time many Hundreds of them. What I have before said of his Speech, and of his Boasting, that he and his had ejected Eight Thousand of the Church of England Ministers; together with his being thus at the Head of so many Committees, shews how well affected he was to, and how active in that Hellish Employment; in which it seems, he got vast Sums of Money, taking Twelve Pence a Sheet for Orders, &c. and probably sufficient Rewards (for I shall say more of his corrupt Practices by and by) for filling up the Places of those, whom he Sequester'd; but very little, in all likelihood for sparing any Clergy-man: For I don't remember at present to have met with a single Instance of any one, who escaped after he came into his Hands. In the Manuscripts of the Learned Mr. Jer. Stephens (one of the Suffering Prebendaries of Lincoln, &c. before mentioned) this Argument is alledged, as a Proof of what the Master's Gains might be; for it is probable, that J. Phelps the Clerk to one (or more) of these Committees, got at least Two Thousand Pounds.

New Survey of London, p. 373. Nalf. Coll. Vol. II. p. 233, 245. Perf. Undec. p. 20

† And more of Mr. White's Practices in them.

Nalf. Coll. Vol. II. p. 265. Mr. White was also, as I find, one of the Committee for expediting the Charge against the Arch-bishop of Canterbury; one of the Additional Members to Dr. Leighton's Committee (which will be after mentioned) and one of the Lay Assessors in the Assembly of Divines; The Year after his Nomination to the last of which Offices, being (as I have been informed) charged home by a Clergyman, whom he had injured, with some corrupt Practices in the way of Bribery, and threatned with a Discovery, which the Clergyman by some Intimation let him know, he was very well able to make; he took his Chamber upon it, and, as is said, never after came out of it, 'dying 'Distracted (saith another Author, who wrote within few Years of that Time) 'crying out 'how many Clergymen, their Wives and Chil-'dren he had Undone—— raving and condemn-'ing himself at his Dying Hour, for his Un-'doing so many Guiltless Ministers:' Notwithstanding which, he was attended to his Grave by the Members of the House; Dr. Bruno Ryves, Author of the Mercurius Rusticus, calls him a Fornicating Brownist; and the Author of Perfec. Undec. suggests much worse; but the Lord Clarendon, as before cited, gives him the Character of a grave Lawyer, respecting possibly his outward Appearance; adding only, that he was notoriously Disaffected to the Church, which is confessed likewise by Mr. * Whitlock himself; who having said, that he was 'a Puritan from his Youth to his Death, 'and an honest, learned and faithful Servant 'to the Publick,' subjoyns, that he was 'somewhat 'Severe at the Committee of Plunder'd Mini-'sters.' He lies buried, as before said, in the Temple, under a black Marble Grave-Stone, with this Inscription:

Scob. Collect. Part I. p. 43.

Perfec. Und. p. 17, 23.

Whitl. Mem. p. 122.

p. 123.

p. 25.

Hist. Vol. I. p. 157.

* Ubi supra.

In Memory of John White, a Second Son of Henry White, a Member of the House of Commons, and Bencher of the Middle-Temple. Obiit. 1644.

New Survey of London, ubi supra.

Was buried Jan. 30. if I mistake not. Whitl. ubi supra.

Here lies a John, a burning shining Light, Whose Name, Life, Actions, were alike all White.

But certainly he deserves a worse Character; tho' Malice it self need not wish him worse Poetry.

But to return to the Pamphlet it self; the Design of which was to raise the blackest Odium on the Clergy, and thereby, no doubt, as well to prepare the Way for further Prosecutions, as to satisfie People of the Justice and Necessity of what had been already done, 'that 'there might be nothing wanting to make odious 'the Orthodox Clergy of the Realm (saith 'Mr. Dugdale) and to enrage the People against 'them, as heretofore the Enemies of the Gospel 'did those Holy Martyrs, whom they clothed 'in the Skins of Wild Beasts, to animate 'Dogs to worry them; they caused a most 'Libellous Pamphlet against diverse Divines, 'which endeavoured to oppose their wicked 'Practices, to be Printed and Published by Special Order, Intituled the First Century, &c. In pursuit of these wicked and flagitious Designs, the Crimes on which an Hundred of the Clergy had been Sequester'd, were produc'd by this Pamphlet; and the first Instance given, as if all that follow'd were equally bad at least, if not worse, is of a notorious Sodomite, &c. but in Truth, the Examples which follow, are nothing less than what this Introductory one was probably intended to suggest: For tho' it cannot be question'd, but Mr. White chose the very worst Examples (and at that Time his Committees had Sequester'd several Centuries) yet he is compelled to fill far the greater part of his Paper

Short View, p. 562. See also Heyl. Hist. Presb. p. 445, and Pag. 18, and 32 of the Pref. to the Century it self.

Digitized by Google

Paper with 'bowing at the Name of Jesus, neglecting the Parliament-Fasts,' and other Instances of what was then called Superstition and Malignancy. The Reader will after find, what Credit is to be given to the Story of his Sodomites, when the Sequestrations of that Perion come to be ſpoken of; and the vile and deteſtable Calumnies and Falſhoods of the other parts of that Pamphlet will appear, when I come to vindicate the Clergy (as I purpoſe, if God continues my Life and Strength) from the Calumnies of Thoſe Times; and to give this Libel a particular Examination.

In the mean time, the Author, like thoſe of the ſame kind before mentioned, was not content with the Slanders and Reproaches caſt upon thoſe particular Clergymen, whoſe Accuſations he thus Publiſhed; but in the Preface to this Undertaking, loads the whole Body of them with ſuch Infamy and Scandal, as can hardly be imagined. It is impoſſible to forbear Tranſcribing ſome Parts of it. Speaking of the Church - Government by Biſhops, &c. he ſaith, 'they have not only neglected their 'Perſonal Execution of this Weighty Truſt; 'but alſo have generally and mottly commit-'ted the ſame to Perſons Illiterate, and Inſuf-'ficient, Dumb Dogs, as the Scripture calls 'them, that cannot Bark; againſt whom God 'hath Proteſted for their Ignorance; and to 'Men ſwallowed up with Wine and ſtrong 'Drink, whoſe Tables are full of Vomit and 'Filthineſs; Whoremongers and Adulterers, who, 'as fed Horſes, Neigh after their Neighbours 'Wives; Buggeters, who change their Na-'tural Uſe to that which is againſt Nature, 'and to others, Scandalous —— Men unfit 'to Preach or live among Chriſtians,' —— taking 'the High-way to deſtroy the Souls com-'mitted to them, and to drown them in Per-'dition,' —— 'Whole Offices God had Curſed, '—— Vermin that Crawl upon and Devour the 'Vitals, —— Popiſh Dregs, &c. —— Such 'as cannot endure the Purity, Power and 'Strictneſs of true Religion —— given over 'to vile Affections, to Superſtition, Ambition, 'Perſecutions, Covetouſneſs, Malignity, and 'all Wickedneſs, —— and knowing the Judg-'ment of God —— not only do the ſame, 'but have Pleaſure in them that do them:—— 'that feed not the Flock, but kill them that 'are fed, and Cloath themſelves with the 'Wool, —— Prieſts of Baal, Sons of Belial, 'that know not the Lord, —— Prieſts of 'Bacchus, of Priapus, —— Unclean Beaſts,' —— &c. The Reader, I ſuppoſe, will not expect I ſhould ſay any thing on theſe Paſſages, ſince he muſt needs find himſelf ſtruck Dumb with Aſtoniſhment at them.

Preaching, &c.

As much is intim. by a Many Notes in the Preface.

The Title of this Paper, (viz.) (A firſt Century,) plainly ſhews, that there was more of the ſame kind intended; but Dr. * Heylin, Dr. * Hiſt. Presb. Pierce †, and Dr. Fuller ‡, agree, there was never a Second Publiſhed. The two Former affirming (and the Third gueſſing at that among other Reaſons) that the Undertaking was ſo Monſtrouſly Odious, and Scandalous, that the Author was thereby deterr'd from making another Attempt of that Kind. But Mr. Baxter §, in his Gret. Relig. ſpeaks of Centuries in the Plural Number; and 'tis plain from the * Abridgment, there were two of them Publiſhed; both which, it ſeems evident to me, Mr. Baxter, had ſeen; and the Reverend Mr. Lake Milleticon hath aſſured me, himſelf once ſaw the Second † Century lying on a common Stall, and had it in his Hand; but not buying it (thro' Inadvertency) at that time, he returned about an Hour after, and it was Unhappily gone. Whether that was drawn up alſo by Mr. White (whom * Death indeed might prevent from a ſecond Attempt, but I doubt ſhame never would) or by ſome other Perſon of Equal Malice and Hatred to the Clergy, I cannot learn.

† If it may be ſo call'd, it being but one Name: For as for Sense, it is altogether wanting. Pierce's Vind. of a Full Century; not unmindful of it to what an End it came at laſt.

* For he died not long after, as much to the Satisfaction of the Clergy, as any Perſon. Under.

been already ſaid. See alſo Dr. Fuller's Ch. Hiſt. lib. Cent. and Pierce.

After this, it may be thought Superfluous to obſerve, that the other Pamphlets and Writings of the Times, contributed alſo to the carrying on of the ſame Deſign; and that it was Familiar with them to Vilifie the Clergy in the moſt Odious Manner. Particulars would be infinite; and yet I cannot forbear producing that of Mr. Vicars ‖, who calls the Regular Miniſters 'a Bottomleſs Pit, 'ſtinking Heap of Atheiſtical and Roman Rubbiſh,' 'a rotten Rabbie of Slanderous Prieſts, and Spu-'rious Baſtard-Sons of Belial, who by their Aſſ-ſt-'ed Ignorance and Lazineſs, their falſe Doctrines, 'and Idolatrous and Superſtitious Practices, in Diſſuſt 'God's Wo'ſhip; by their moſt abominable Evil 'Lives and Converſations, had like Hophni, and Phineas, made the Lord's Ordinances to be even 'Abhorred by the People.' But I muſt not omit eſpecially to inform the Reader, that the Pulpits alſo were Employed, and deeply engaged in this, as well as in moſt of the other wicked and abominable Enterprizes of the Rebellion; and the People were taught to Deſpiſe, and excited to Worry them, from out of thoſe very Pulpits, to which they had been the greateſt Glory and Ornament. I ſhall produce an Inſtance or two of this Matter, after I have firſt ſaid, that the Lord Clarendon, acquaints us in General, that no Churches were Frequented, but where the Biſhops were Preached againſt, as Antichriſtian. God Old Mr. Simeon Aſh, in the abundance of his Mekneſs, uttered large Invectives againſt the Government and Governours of the Church (in his Sermon to the Commons in 1642.) and charges the Eſtabliſhed Clergy with being 'a Blind Seers, Dumb Dogs, Idle Drones, Schiſ-'matical, Heretical and Scandalous Men.' And ano her of the Miniſters of thoſe Times (ſpeaking of the Epiſcopal Clergy) hath theſe Words; 'Croaking Frogs that crept into the Kings Cham-'bers, who are known by the Gutter wherce they 'come out of the Dragon, out of the Mouth of 'the Beaſt and the falſe Prophet: They are the 'Spirits of Devils, who go forth unto the Kings 'of the Earth, to gather them to Battle. The 'Frogs Heads are like their Caps (Quadrata Ranarum Capita.) Here is work for the Parliament, that the King may have no more Croakers 'in his Chambers.' 'Our Cathedrals are in great 'part, of late, become the Neſt of Idle Drones,' ſaith another of the ſame Stamp. 'How many 'Dumb Devils are now caſting out of many Pa-'riſhes in the Land,' ſaid Mr. Bond, (as cited already on another Occaſion) to the Commons in 1641. To which let me add theſe Words of Mr. Caſe, 'Idol, Idle Shepherds, Dumb Dogs 'that cannot Bark, (unleſs it were at the Flock of Chriſt;) and ſo they learned of their Maſ-'ters both to Bark and Bite too; Greedy Dogs, 'that could never have enough, that did tear out 'the Loins and Bowels of their own People for 'Gain; Swearing, Drunken, Unclean Prieſts, that 'taught nothing but Rebellion in Iſrael, and 'cauſed People to Abhor the Sacrifice of the Lord; 'Arminians, Popiſh, Idolatrous, Vile Wretches; ſuch, 'as had Job been Alive, he would not have ſet 'with the Dogs of his Flock. —— a Sermon

The Preſbyterians find a ſtrict Union between the Clergy and the moſt violent Incendiaries againſt the Church.

‖ Jehovah Jireh, 1644. as cited in Diſſuſt Serv. Part I. P. 13.

Vol. I. p. 163.

Abridgm. p. 178. the very firſt Sermon that ſtands in that Liſt of Conſpirators.

Dumb Shew, p. 166.

Willcox to the Commons in 1642. as cited in Diſſuſt Serv. Part 2. P. 22, 23.

Coleman to the Commons in 1641. as cited ibid. p. 6.

Bond. Sermon to Milk-ſtreet in 1641. as quoted p. 13.

Digitized by Google

Speaking of the Bishops.

'tion of Men they were, that had never a Vote for Jesus Christ, —— Look into their Families 'and they were for the most Part the Vilest in the 'Diocess, a very Nest of unclean Birds. In their Courts and Consistories, you would have Thought 'you had been in Caiaphas's Hall, where no Trade 'was driven but the Crucifying Christ in his 'Members.'

I promise my self, nothing more will be expected, after this plentiful Testimony from Mr. Cafe; and therefore shall only say further, that if the chief Pulpits were prostituted to such odious Railing, and if the House of Commons themselves could both Digest and Countenance, such filthy Ribaldry, what Reproaches and Revilings must we think were utter'd from the lesser Pulpits of the Factious Ledurers and Intruders? Especially considering, they had nothing wherewithal to defend their plain Invectives, Robberies and Plunderings of the Regular Clergy; but the pretended Viciousness and Scandal of their Lives.

Such were the Methods which the Faction pursued, in Order to Blacken and Vilifie the Clergy; and so great was the Success of them, that the very Mouths of the Rabble were filled with these Calumnies and Reproaches; and were taught to belch them out on all Occasions; which was not only one main End intended by the Faction, but when in some Measure obtained, served also to forward and promote it self, and did in good Measure help to increase the Calumnies and Slanders: Insomuch, that Popish Priests; Drunken, Swearing, Scandalous Priests; Idle, Lazy, Ignorant Priests; Blind Guides, Dumb Dogs, and the like, was the common Dialect of those Times, (and from them in some Measure continu'd down even to ours) which had been so long talk'd over, that at last they began to believe themselves: And were thereby not only prevailed upon to see with Patience, the worst Outrages committed on the Clergy; but were induced likewise to contribute towards them, by Abusing and Insulting them in the Streets; by being forward to Accuse them before the Committees, and to be themselves the Instruments of many Barbarities upon them, when they were Dispossessed: And what still exceeds, to look on their Judges as Men of more than common and ordinary Zeal for the Glory of God, in awarding their Ruin and Destruction.

Neal Collect. Vol. II. p. 307.

See the 9th and 11th Particulars in the Preface to White's Century.

The Reader will himself observe, how very Enormous the Wickedness of these Men was, to traduce with the Foulest and most Groundless Slanders, so many Innocent, and indeed Excellent Persons, who stood in the nearest and highest Relation to Almighty God; and whose Functions were consecrated Sacred; especially when it is consider'd, that this was further directed to the inhuman Purpose of Ruining both them and their Families. Greater Service than this, was surely never done to Atheism and Irreligion.

How many Divines of singular Eminence and Piety, suffer'd under some or more of these Calumnies, will more particularly appear in the List of the Sequestrations. In the mean Time I proceed to

The Temporal Power, and Civil Jurisdiction of the Clergy taken away.

Clar. Hist. Vol. I. p. 188.

The other Attempt, as previous to the more immediate Future on their Persons, and Estates; Namely, divesting them of all Temporal Power and Jurisdiction. It was plain to every one that the Designs of the Faction against the Church (not to mention their State-Projects) were of Separate and hopeless in the House of Lords, whilst the Bench of Bishops continued to composse so great a Part of that House; and the Influence which they could not but have, whilst any of them were suffer'd to remain in the Privy-Council, was no less Obvious. Add to this, that the Reverence from the People, which always follows such great Degrees of Power and Eminence, must needs be proportionably great. And as for other of the Clergy, their being in the Commissions of the Peace, not only invested them with such a Power, as was a greater Guard to them, than their Enemies desired, but gave them also many Opportunities (especially, as executed with great Uprightness and Integrity) of Relieving the Oppressed, composing Differences among their Neighbours, providing for the Poor, and the like; and their Occasions of doing Good, together with the Esteem of that Office in the Country Parishes, drew no less Reverence for the Inferior Clergy, from the common People, than the Bishops themselves in their Stations had from those of the better Sort. On all which Accounts it must needs appear highly Necessary, to divest them of Jurisdiction, which gave them so many Advantages before they could make their further Attempts upon them, with any tolerable Prospect of Success.

Neal Collect. Vol. II. p. 229, 249.

Nor was it any hard Matter to find out a Pretence for doing this, when once it appeared Necessary to be undertaken, in Order to compleat their further Purposes: And therefore, 'the Inconsistency of the Clergy, intermedling in 'Temporal Affairs, with the due Discharge of 'their Spiritual Functions,' was soon blown about, and got at last into the Mouths of every Body. What was then more largly advanced in Maintenance of this Assertion, and the clear and learned Answers that were return'd to it, from the * Appointments of God Himself, from the other Instances of Scripture, from the most Antient Prophane Histories, from the Practice of the whole Christian World, and from the ‡ Laws and Usages of our own Nation, I purposely Omit, as too long to be here inserted, but to Demonstrate that what they alledged was Nothing but Pretence.

Clar. Vol. I. p. 219.

Neal Collect. Vol. II. p. 629, 643.

* Particularly in Moses, who was a Priest (Mosheh and Aaron among his Priests, &c. Psal. 99. 6.) as well as Temporal Governour, &c.

‡ To which the Great Office of Treasurer, Chancellor, &c. had never been more faithfully managed, than by some of our Bishops. And of this Dr. Juxon, then living, was an undeniable Instance, &c.

The Lord Clarendon hath observ'd to us, (and the Thing is Taken Notice of by other Writers also) that 'Their Reformation both in Scotland, 'and this Kingdom, was driven on by no Men so 'much, *as those of their Clergy, who were their In*struments: As without doubt, the Arch-bishop 'of Canterbury, *had never so great an Influ*ence upon the Councils at Court, as Dr. Burgess, 'and Mr. Marshal, had then upon the Houses; 'neither did all the Bishops of Scotland toge'ther, so much meddle in Temporal Affairs, as 'Mr. Henderson had done. The same is observed by the Author of Sober Sadness (Printed in 1643) who more particularly informs us, that Dr. Burgess, and Mr. John Sedgwick, were Members of a Sub-Committee for Advancement of Monies. And that the Former (who was called 'Colonel, 'for Riding to Encourage the Work with his Cafe 'of Pistols) was so Officious, as to assist Plunder'ing at the Globe-Tavern in Holborn; and that 'there was not a Design but these Men had a 'Finger in it.' And his Majesty himself, in his most Excellent * Declaration of August 12, 1642, took express Notice, 'that the Faction 'had their Emissaries of the Clergy, who at the 'same Time such Clamour was raised, of the 'Unlawfulness that the Clergy should meddle 'in Temporal Affairs, were their chief Agents 'to derive their Seditious Directions to the Peo'ple, and were all the Week attending the Doors 'of both Houses, to be employ'd in their 'Errands.

Hist. Vol. II. p. 249.

P. 36.

See Digbi. View, p. 455.

* Husbi. Collect. 401. & 528.

Digitized by Google

But to proceed with the Execution of this Defign, the firſt Step towards it (as far as I have yet obſerved) was made January 23, 164⅔, by the Miniſters Remonſtrance, before ſpoken of; where the Secular Power of the Clergy is complained of, as one of the Things which needed to be Reformed. February 5, following, on the Debate of, a Petition from the Inhabitants of Wood-Church in the County of Kent, againſt Mr. Edward Boughen, their Miniſter; it was Order'd, 'That 'the Lord * Keeper be deſired to leave out the 'Clergy of England and Wales, at the Renewing 'of the Commiſſion of Peace.' Some Time after, a Committee was appointed to confer with the Lords about this Matter, I do not remember I have met with, or obſerved the Event of that Conference; but ſoon after it, the Temporal Power and Authority of the Clergy (and particularly the Biſhops Votes) were made as common and popular a Grievance, as any other before had been; and as ſuch, according to the uſual Method of thoſe Times, were Rail'd at: in the Speeches of Parliament, were mention'd as an Abuſe in many of their Reſolves, Votes, and other Publick Acts (particularly in the Remonſtrance of the State of the Kingdom, and the Nineteen Propoſitions) and were complain'd of in Numberleſs Petitions to the Houſe: And on this Occaſion it was, that the City Dames apply'd themſelves to the Houſe, with an Addreſs againſt the 'Votes 'of the Popiſh Lords, and of the Biſhops.' But to return to what was done within the Houſes; March 9, the Commons on Debate of ſome Select Heads of the Remonſtrance now mention'd, had under conſideration the Judicial Power of the Clergy in the 'Star-Chamber,' and their ſerving in the Commiſſions of the Peace, and 'at the Coun-'cil Table;' the Day following, they came to this Reſolution, 'That the Legiſlative and Judi-'cial Power of the Biſhops is a great hindrance to 'their Spiritual Function, and fit to be taken a-'way; and that a Bill be drawn for that Purpoſe;' the Day after, they again Reſolved the ſame verbatim concerning the Biſhops, or any other Clergyman, as to the Commiſſion of the Peace, or any Civil Court; and the 20th, of the ſame Month, paſſed the like Reſolves on the further Debate of the Remonſtrance, with regard to any Clergymen being Employed as Privy-Counſellors, or in Temporal Offices.

Whether the Bill was drawn, and prefented according to the firſt of theſe Reſolutions, and the reſt were added in Clauſes afterwards; or whether the Bill was not Framed and Preſented, till the Houſe had finiſh'd all their Reſolves on this Head, I know not. Sure it is, that a Bill was at laſt compleated, including all the Reſolves now mention'd; which, the Lord Clarendon informs us, 'was contriv'd with great Deliberation, and Prepa-'ration, to diſpoſe them to Conſent to it;' and the Reception of it was the 'Firſt Deſign that 'was Entertain'd againſt the Church.' The Reaſons which diſpos'd many in the Houſe of Peers towards it, were, becauſe they plainly ſaw, they 'Seldom carried any thing which directly oppoſed 'the King's Intereſt, by reaſon of the Number of 'the Biſhops;' and they thought 'it could do the 'Church no Harm, by the Biſhops having fewer 'Diverſions from their Spiritual Charges;' but the Bill had more Friends in the Houſe of Commons; where the ſame Argument was uſed, and Seconded with another of much greater Moment, namely, That there was ſo great a Concurrence for the paſſing of this Bill; and withal, that there was ſo great a Combination thoroughout the whole Nation, abſolutely to Deſtroy the Church, (in which the Scots Army was deeply Engaged, and would never be Satisfy'd without it) that nothing but appeaſing ſeveral of the Members of each Houſe with this Bill, could ever enable the Friends of the Church to make Head againſt the violenter Party, and prevent them from carrying on the very worſt of their Deſigns: 'And this 'Reaſon did prevail over many Men of excel-'lent Judgments, and unqueſtionable Affections, 'who did in Truth at that Time believe, That 'the paſſing this Act, was the only expedient to 'preſerve the Church:' And particularly, Mr. Hampden, had brought the Lord Falkland into it, by 'Aſſuring him, that if this Bill might paſs, 'there would be nothing more Attempted to the 'Prejudice of the Church, which he thought, as 'the World then went, would be no ill Com-'poſition.'

By this Artifice it found an eaſie Paſſage through the Houſe of Commons; but when it came before the Lords, it was received with ſo much 'Warmth and Vigour, as they had not be-'fore expreſſed on any other Occaſion; many of 'the greateſt Men of that Houſe, who had hither-'to gone with them, obſerving they 'had worſe 'Deſigns than they own'd,' took this Occaſion of falling from them; and juſtly alledged, that if the Commons pretended to take the Bench of Biſhops out of their Houſe to Day, they might take away the Barons, or any other Degree of Nobility Tomorrow. And, in a Word, tho' they eſſay'd to have put the Biſhops and Clergy out of the Star-Chamber, and the Commiſſions of the Peace, yet they utterly refuſed to deprive them of their Votes in Parliament, and ſo threw out the Bill at the Second Reading, without ever offering to to commit it, and that too by a Majority of Threeand Peers, tho' the Votes of the Biſhops themſelves ſhould not be taken into the Reckoning: Whereupon the Commons were ſo much Enrag'd, that they immediately proceeded to all the † Angry and Choleriek Things before them; and that the Biſhops might ſee how little they had gotten by this Victory, prepared moreover, and brought in the Bill, for the 'Utter Eradication of the Biſhops, Deans 'and Chapters' as hath been formerly remember'd.

It is known to every Body, that a Bill once rejected, cannot be Regularly Offer'd again in the ſame Seſſion; but it could not be expected, that thoſe, who had broken thro' the moſt Fundamental Parts of the Conſtitution, in purſuit of their wicked Deſigns, ſhould ever be tied up to the Formalities of Uſage and Cuſtom of Parliament. And therefore about July 1641, the † Biſhops Votes were again attempted in another Bill, under the Title of an † Act for the Security of true Religion, &c. but that Deſign proving Abortive likewiſe; not long after, Invited to it chiefly by † the great Hatred they had to the Perſon and Behaviour of the then Arch-biſhop of York, Dr Williams, who upon the great Services he had done the Party, and particularly, the procuring his Majeſty's Aſſent to the Bill of Attainder againſt the Earl of Strafford, by his wicked Diſtinction of a private and a publick Conſcience, was become Intolerably Imperious and Burthenſome to them; they brought in another Bill openly and avowedly in the Title, profeſſing the Purpoſes of the firſt Bill againſt the Biſhops Votes, &c. and in Subſtance, at leaſt, if not in expreſs Words, the ſame with that which had been thus rejected. This Bill found an eaſie Paſſage again through the Commons Houſe, and was tranſmitted to the Lords. About this Time, the King had Nominated to Five Vacant Biſhopricks; which the Commons hearing of, and fearing that thoſe new Biſhops

Nalſ. Coll. Vol. I. p. 747.

* The Original Journals ſay, the 'Chancellor 'of the 'Duchy.' Nalſ. Vol. I. p. 782.

See Whitl. Mem. p. 17. and Clarend. Vol. I. p. 325.

Whitl. Ibid.

Nalſ. p. 786, 787.

See alſo Whitl. Mem. p. 36.

P. 792.

Hiſt. Vol. I. p. 184.

Ibid.

See this alſo as taken notice of by his Majeſty in his Declaration of Aug. 12. 1642. Rush. Colect. 420. p. 521.

P. 165.

P. 186.

May 1 1641. and what it ſay to the Lords, together with their Anſwer Turk. Pa-triots Nalſ. Coll. Vol. I. p. 809. Clar. Vol I. p. 286.

Or (as other Accounts ſay) 40 at leaſt) That the whole Houſe Vide Nalſ. Coll. Vol. II. p. 219, 220, 221.

Fuller's Ch. Hiſt. Cent. 17. l. 11. p. 161. Heyl. Hiſt. Laud. p. 147. See alſo Nalſ. Coll. Vol. II. p. 270.

† Clar. Hiſt. Vol. I. p. 287.

See Clarend. Hiſt. Vol. I. p. 219. and Fl. Ch. Hiſt. Cent. 17. l. 11. p. 191. See alſo the Author of Archy's re-flections. De-claration of Aug. 12. 1642. Rush. Colect. 420. p. 521.

† Nalſ. Coll. Vol II. p. 417

† Read the Act and its Title at large in the Parliament Journals of April and 1st May 6. 1641.

† Clar. Hiſt. Vol. I. p. 279.

Ibid. p. 256.

Ibid.

Digitized by Google

Bishops would be Consecrated, &c. timely enough to Vote for the Rights of their Order in the House of Peers, they Resolv'd to send to the King, to make no new Bishops; and for that End, order'd a Committee to be appointed, to draw up Reasons to induce the Lords to join with them in that Monstrous Insolence: But finding it in vain to pursue that Project, they betook themselves to another; which was, to hasten the Lords to the dispatch of the Bill, before the new Bishops should come into the House. And 'for the better doing thereof, with great Confidence they demand of the Lords, that no Recusant Lord, nor any Bishop, might have a Vote in the passing that Act. And when they could not prevail in that Attempt neither, they next press'd the Lords, that the Thirteen Bishops, whom they had before Impeached for the New Canons, might be Sequestred from the House till they should be brought to Judgment: But neither did the House of Peers think fit to gratifie them in this Demand; notwithstanding they had passed several severe Votes upon the Bishops, on account of these Canons. And thus the Bill continued to depend in the House of Lords for some Time; Nor was it 'like to make a more prosperous Progress there, than it had six Months before,' altho' the Party continued to load the Order, as is before said, with the most odious Reproaches imaginable. Until at length Twelve of the Bishops being Secured in Custody for the Protestation, and no one, in a manner, left to Solicit their Cause but the Bishop of Rochester ‡, the Lords were at last induced to * pass the Bill; and the City of London celebrated the Atchievement with † Bells and Bonefires. Immediately upon which, the King was prefled to give the Royal Assent to it; and even those in greatest Trust about his Majesty, perswaded him to do it; as for Reasons of State, which I omit, so chiefly for the Reason before mentioned; that there was no other visible Means of preserving the Church (in the Posture Matters then stood) from utter Ruin. To which the Queen (as the * Infusion of her own Priests, under Directions from the Court of France) then going for Holland, added her own Intreaties and Perswasions; which so far wrought upon his Majesty, that contrary to his most positive Resolution, Feb. 14, he sent a Commission for Enacting that, and another Bill then ready for the Royal Assent. It is needless to mention the many bad Effects, which the passing of this Bill brought upon the Church (much less those which concerned his Majesty's Temporal Interest); only I cannot forbear to take particular Notice of one of them, which, it may be, the most implacable Enemies of Episcopacy did not themselves so much as think of; namely, That after that Time very many, who cordially and constantly oppos'd that Act, as Friends rather to Monarchy than Religion, after that Bill, never consider'd or resisted any Attempt, or farther Alteration in the Church; looking on the Bishops as useless to Soon signify, and so not of Importance enough to be defended by the Sword.'

P. 240.

P. 241.

Clar. Vol. I. p. 261.

Heyl. Hist. Laud, p. 461. See also Clar. Hist. Vol. I. p. 135. See also Full. Ch. Hist. Cent. 17. L. 11. p. 84.

‡ See Full. Ib.

* Feb. 9, 1641-2.

† Clar. Vol. I. p. 333.

P. 316.

* As it was believed by some.

Heyl. Hist. Laud, p. 462.

Clar. Hist. Vol. I. p. 333.

Ibid.

The Preface, as is before said, for thus Divesting the Clergy of their Secular Power, was the Inconsistency of it, with the Discharge of their particular Functions. This was accordingly mention'd in the Preamble of the Act; as was likewise this further Reason. That it had occasion'd great Mischiefs and Scandal both to Church and State.' And under these Pretences it provides, That after the 15th of Feb. 1641, 'No Arch-bishop, Bishop, or other Person, that now is, or hereafter shall be in Holy Orders,—shall have any Seat or Place, Session or Place, or Execute any Power or Authority in the Parliaments of this Realm, nor shall be of the Privy Council of his Majesty,—— or Execute any Temporal Authority, by Virtue of any Commission, &c. And with so much Exactness was this observ'd, that Dr. Prideaux, then Vice-Chancellor of Oxon, was not permitted to Judge in his own Court, because he was a Divine; the like Example to which, saith Mr. Wood, was never seen in the University before or since.

Scob. Collect. Part 1. p. 31.

Wood, Ath. Vol. II. p. 687.

I have only to add on this Occasion, that as his Majesty had afterward abundant Reason in Point of Interest, to Repent his Consenting to this Bill; so in Point of Conscience also, did that most Pious Prince deeply lament, before God, the Injury which he thereby did to the Bishops of England; and in his Confessions, rank'd it with the suffering the Innocent Blood of the Earl of Strafford to be spilt; and permitting a wrong Way of Worship to be set up in Scotland.

Icon Basil. Soc Heyl. Hist. Laud, p. 462.

I come now to speak of the more immediate Attempts and Practices upon the Persons and Estates of the Clergy; which were indeed chiefly carry'd on by Committees of the House, and by other Committees, Commissioners, &c. in the Country, who had been respectively Authoriz'd by several Orders and Ordinances for such Purposes. But before These were well settled, and this Great Work was brought into Regular and Orderly Method, the House took several other Steps towards this Work; and particularly did, by their own more immediate Acts (at least without the Assistance of the standing Committees) Harrass and Dispossess several of the Clergy; and many of the Bishops suffer'd in a more peculiar Manner from them; of which it will be requisite to take Notice in this Place. Only I must first add this one Word, (which, tho' foreign to the present Head, is not altogether foreign to the Purpose) That the Clergy of Carlisle (distant as they were from the Ravagers at London) had begun to Suffer in a very deplorable Manner at the same Time from another Quarter. For, upon the Invasion of the Scots, as all the Unfortunate Inhabitants of the Borders were Plunder'd and Ravag'd after a most barbarous Sort; so the Learned Dr. Todd hath assur'd me from that Diocese, That the Clergy suffer'd under them more than any others.

Original and Beginning of Sequestrations, and particularly the more Immediate Acts of the House relating to that Matter.

See also something of this Kind from Durham. Nalf. Collect. Vol. I. p. 428, 439.

But to return to Those, who had Invited them over the Tweed. Mr. Wood, in his Athenæ, tells us, that the two Speeches of the Lord Say, in the House, against the Bishops, were by the Clergy Apprehended to be the 'Chief Reason of their several Fears of Persecution, that followed, and why they were Banished from their Livings, for fear Forsooth, they should Preach the People —— into Obedience to the King.' I do not remember to have seen more than the first of them; and cannot indeed perceive by it, why the ensuing Miseries of the Clergy should be Attributed to That, more than to many other preceding Speeches in the House, which were Penn'd with equal Rancour and Bitterness against the Bishops and Clergy. But let the Occasion of the Sufferings, which were Sublequent in point of time to those Speeches, have been what it will, 'tis certain the Clergy suffer'd many Things, before either of these Speeches were delivered; for one of the Principal as well as most Early Methods, which the House took to ruine the Clergy, was their Receiving and Countenancing Accusations and Informations against them, which were chiefly exhibited to them in Petitions; great Numbers of which (and some within a very little

Wood, Ath. Vol. II. p. 687.

Which is in Nalf. Coll. Vol. II. p. 566.

Digitized by Google

little time after the Meeting of the Parliament) were preſented from ſeveral Quarters, and conſtantly accepted, with all Poſſible Encouragements. Petitions (ſaith the Lord Clarendon) were preſented by many Pariſhioners againſt their Paſtors, with Articles of their Miſdemeanours and Behaviours —— all which Petitions were read with great Delight,' &c. With which agrees that of Dr. Nalſon: 'Now——Petitions came thronging into the Houſe of Commons, not only in general complaining of Real Grievances; but upon every Parith Pique and Unkindneſs (which ſeldom is wanting) between the Miniſter and any of his Pariſhioners, Petitions were exhibited againſt them, and preſſing of Conformity was now become ſo Criminal, that it certainly procured a Petition and Articles, Tittle a Summons and vexatious Attendance upon the Committee, with all the Charges of the Meſſengers Fees, and other Incidents,' &c. And in another Place the ſame Author tells us, that this Trade of Parſon-Hunting, as the Faction called it, found ſo much Encouragement from the Committee of Religion, that in a ſhort time above 2000 Petitions were exhibited againſt the Clergy. And accordingly they appear in almoſt every Page of the Parliament-Journals. I ſhall ſpeak of the Matter of them, the Manner of obtaining them, and other things of the like Nature, when I come to treat diſtinctly of the three Great Committees of the Houſe; to the one or the other of which they were uſually Referr'd: Only it may not be amiſs to mention in this Place, that the firſt Petition of this kind, which I have obſerved (and which was probably the very firſt that was at all preſented) was that of Mr. Peter Smart, againſt Dr. Coſin, which was exhibited Novemb. 12, 1640. (viz. but ſeven Days after the Parliament met,) and will be further conſidered hereafter.

Hist. Vol. I. p. 117.

Collect. Vol I. p. 666.

Vindic. p 224, 225. See also Preface, Und. p. 18.

Nalſ. Collect. Vol I. p. 518.

But the firſt Inſtance I have obſerv'd of Petitions preferr'd by any Pariſhioners againſt their Miniſters, was, in the Caſe of Mr. Alexander Huiſſe, of Breckington; Mr. (afterwards Dr.) Henry Architeſt, of Melſ; and Mr. Richard Earl, of Hemmington, all in the County of Somerſet; Each of whom was ſeverally Petition'd againſt by their Pariſhioners, Dec. 12, 1640; and the Petitions were referr'd to the Committee for the Buſineſs of the Biſhop of Bath and Wells. To this muſt be added, that March 8, following, a Complaint was likewiſe exhibited by the Inhabitants of Painſwick, in Glouceſterſhire, againſt their Miniſter, Mr. William Aſton. Tho' the Houſe at that time, out of particular Regard to Dr. Goodman (the very Popiſh Biſhop which the Party have ſo often thrown in our way) would do nothing in it; but left them to apply to their Dioceſan, which (as far as I can learn) was the only Inſtance of a Petition of this Nature, they ever rejected: Nor did they continue long in that good Humour: For the very May following, they reſum'd this Complaint againſt Mr. Aſton, and Voted him unfit to hold any Promotion.

Ibid. p. 665. See the Two Former of Mr. to the Church of Wells.

Ibid. p. 786

Ibid Vol. II. p. 139.

Beſides the Gentlemen now mention'd, many others of the Clergy, on the Complaints only of ſeveral Members of the Houſe (if I miſtake not) and others again, by ſeveral Methods, and on various other Pretences, were brought in queſtion before the Houſe, and oblig'd to a grievous, and moſt burthenſome Attendance on It; or on Thoſe Committees, to which they had referr'd theſe matters. Beſides, that great Numbers of them being alſo taken into Cuſtody of the Serjeant at Arms, were impriſon'd in the Common Jayls of the Town, or in new Jayls appointed for that purpoſe, or in Shirs; and many of them were, by the immediate Vote of the Houſe (unleſs I miſtake), Reſolv'd unfit to hold any Eccleſiaſtical Promotion, and Sequeſter'd. And greater Numbers ſtill, by the mediation and on the Reports of the ſeveral Committees, appointed to conſider of theſe matters, were likewiſe Unqualify'd, and utterly Diſpoſeſs'd of their Preferments and Benefices. Nor were Theſe Calamities peculiar to the Inferiour Clergy; but ſeveral of the Biſhops, as well in their ſingle, and private Capacities, as in the common Concern of their Proteſtation, and the New Canons, felt their ſhare of them.

Hist. Vol I. p 132.

As to the Two Firſt of theſe Oppreſſions, That of their Attendance on the Houſe, and the Committees which they had appointed, and the Imprizonment of the Clergy, the Lord Clarendon hath in general informed us, That 'all Canonical Clergymen, and Orthodox Divines were with equal Induſtry diſcountenanc'd, inprizon'd, or forc'd to a long Attendance on Committees, or the Houſe (which was worſe than Impriſonment) under the Notion and Imputation of Scandalous Miniſters: Which Charge and Reproach reach'd all Men, whoſe Inclinations they lik'd not, or whoſe Opinions they ſuſpected.' And again: 'None were Perſecuted with more Rigour, than the Clergy; whereof whoſoever either Publickly or Privately cenſur'd their Actions, or ſuſpected their Intentions, was either committed to Priſon, or compell'd to a chargeable and long Attendance, as Inconvenient as Impriſonment.' Many Particulars of which, I ſhall hereafter give the Reader; but muſt firſt take leave briefly to Account for the Sufferings of ſeveral of the Biſhops, from the Houſe.

P. 415.

December 12, 1640. On Occaſion of the aforemention'd Petition from the Inhabitants of Beckington, in Somerſetſhire, againſt Mr. Alexander Huiſſe, their Miniſter, (as I Conjecture) The Houſe appear by their Journal, to have appointed a Committee, to receive ſuch Petitions, as ſhould concern Dr. Piers, Biſhop of Bath and Wells. The 22d of the ſame Month, a Committee was appointed to draw up Articles againſt him. Two Days after Sir. H. Mildmay, was ſent with a Meſſage to the Lords, to deſire them to take Security for his forth coming, &c. to Anſwer divers Heinous Crimes, tending to the Corruption and Subverſion of Religion in his Diocels. About the 30th of that Month, the Biſhops of Glouceſter, Oxford, and Rocheſter, enter'd into Ten Thouſand Pounds Recognizance for his appearing. The particulars of the Event I do not remember to have met with. † Hearſey, December 16, 1640. In Debating the Matter of the New Canons, the Commons referr'd it to a Committee, to conſider, among other Things, 'how far in Particular, the Archbiſhop of Canterbury had been an Actor in all the Proceedings of them, and in the great Deſign of the Subverſion of the Laws of the Realm, and of Religion,' and to prepare a Charge againſt him. The ſame Day a Charge was laid againſt him in the Houſe of Lords by the Scots Commiſſioners. The Friday after Mr. Holles was ſent to the Lords, to Impeach him of High-Treaſon; whereupon he was firſt committed to the Tower of the Black Rod, (in whoſe Cuſtody he remain'd about Ten Weeks); thence to the Tower; and at length, as every one knows, to the Hill a Priſoning. The intermediate Sufferings of this great Prelate, I purpoſely Omit, as well becauſe they were ſo much Interwoven with the Hiſtories of theſe Times, as becauſe they are Separately, and See alſo Nalſ. Collect. Vol I. p. 666, and Lord Clar. Vol. I. p. 161.

Of this Committee, and their againſt the Bp. of Ely, I ſhall ſay ſomewhat more hereafter.

† Nalſ. Coll. Vol. I. p. 700, 701, 702. The Articles were exhibited July 30. 1641. See alſo ſome more Articles exhibited againſt him by ſeveral Perſons, a Member of his Diocels. Vol. II. p 113.

‡ Nicol. Hiſt. II. p. 118. Nalſ. Coll. Vol I. p 666.

Digitized by Google

alone, the just Subject of a Volume. Dec. 19, 1640, Mr. Hambden was sent to the Lords with a Message, acquainting them, that there were many Informations against Dr. Wren, Bishop of Ely, for setting up Idolatry and Superstition; and requesting them, that he might give Security for his abiding the Judgment of the Parliament, being inform'd that he design'd to make his Escape. Whereupon their Lordships immediately order'd him to put in 1000 l. Bail the Wednesday after; and in the mean time to enter for hwth into a Recognizance of 1000 l. for his appearing on that Day to do it. Dec. 22, a Committee was appointed to receive Petitions, and draw up a Charge against him. This was occasioned by a Petition exhibited from the Inhabitants of Ipswich, July 5, 1641. The Articles against him were reported, and agreed to; and at the same time they resolved, That he was 'Unworthy to hold any Spiritual 'Promotion,' (being, if I mistake not, the First of all the Bishops, on whom they pass'd that Resolve) and that the Lords be desir'd to 'joyn with them to move his Majesty to remove 'the said Bishop from his Person and Service.' The 20th of the same Month the Articles were carried to the Lords by Sir Tho. Widdrington; and deliver'd with a very long and aggravating Speech. I do not remember to have met with the Issue of this Prosecution: But this is certain, That Dr. Wren being some time after imprison'd, with the rest of the protesting Bishops, and then discharg'd with them, he was presently after, a second time Seiz'd, and clapt up in the Tower; wh re he continu'd a Prisoner until the End of the Year 1659.

Feb. 23, 164⁴, a Committee was appointed to consider of the Petitions and Complaints against Dr. Montague, Bishop of Norwich, Dr Owen, Bishop of Landaffe, and Dr. Mauwaring, Bishop of St. David's, against whom some Complaints had been made in the House the Day before (Wood, Ath. Vol. II. p. 659,) and it was order'd, That the Lords be mov'd, that the Latter of them might be forth-coming. But whether that Matter was afterwards push'd any further against the Two Former of them, I do not know: Nor do I know any more of the Latter, than what Wood informs us; namely, That this Prosecution rested for some time; but whether the Imprisonments which that Author after mentions, were in pursuit of this Enquiry, or on any other Prosecutions that might be brought on against them, I am not able to determine.

Sept. 12, 1642, Dr. Roberts, Bishop of Bangor, was order'd to be sent for as a Delinquent: And the 8th of the following Month, their own Dr. Williams (the Arch-bishop of York) who was lately so high in their Favour, had the same Order pass'd upon him; 'And grew at last (says 'Dr. Heylin) to be generally the most hated Man 'of all the Hierarchy.' Agreeable to what the Noble Lord Clarendon has observ'd to us (speaking of the Harrasings and Imprisonment of the Clergy) That 'This Measure of Pro- 'ceeding was equally, if not with more Animosity, 'apply'd to Those, who in former Times had been 'look'd upon by that Party with most Reve- 'rence:' Which might well be imagined abundantly sufficient to deter any one from countenancing the Party, in hopes of a Reward, or even of Impunity from Them, when they shall have gotten the Power into their Hands.

But the Exigencies of the Reformation (which was to be a speedy, as well a Thorough one) did with great Impatience endure the Dilatoriness of Proceedings against the Bishops, singly and apart; and therefore they readily lay hold of an Opportunity, which the Warmth and Resentment of Dr. Williams now mention'd, but too unfortunately gave them, to expedite their Projects, and undertake a more summary way of Proceeding against him: For we are to remember, that This Prelate having been assaulted by the Rabble (crying out No Bishops, No Bishops) and having his Robes torn from his Back, retir'd to his House, and sent for all the Bishops then in Town (who did not exceed Twelve or Thirteen, Five Sees being then Vacant, or rather not compleatly fill'd; and some of the Bishops being gone into the Country against Christmas) and propos'd to them the preparing a Protestation against the Force that had been us'd towards them; and against all the Acts of the House, during the time they should be kept in that manner from their Attendance on it: And having Pen and Ink ready, immediately drew up a Form, setting forth their being summon'd to Parliament by his Majesty's Writs; their undoubted Right to Vote there; the Violence that had been several times offer'd them in their going to attend the Service of the House, to the manifest Danger of their Lives; and Protesting against all he Laws, Orders, Votes, Resolutions and Determinations, that had pass'd, or should pass, whilst they should be thus debarr'd the Liberty of coming to the House.

Bishops Protestation.

Rumpers of that Junditto would not bear it, and therefore require more Delibe- ration and Caution, than the Bishops took, in Preparing and Protesting it.

This they unanimously approv'd of; and as soon as it could be got ready, subscrib'd; depending on the long and great Experience of the Arch-bishop in the Rules of the House, in which, during the time of his being Keeper, he sate as Speaker. The Protestation was directed to his Majesty, (as well as to the Lords) on whom the Arch-bishops waited with it, requesting him to Transmit it to the House, since they could not go thither themselves with it. His Majesty, upon the Receipt of it, gave it only a cursory Reading; and (fearing the Bill against the Bishops Votes Then depending in the House, would have pass'd in that Juncture of their being thus kept from the House by the Rabble) immediately deliver'd it to the Lord Keeper Littleton (who was unfortunately present at that time) with Orders to offer it to the House, as soon as they should meet, which was to be within * Two Hours after. This was accordingly done (viz. Dec. 20, 1641,) but not without having been first communicated to some of the Leading Members of the Faction in each House. The Lords, immediately on the Reading of it, desir'd a Conference with the Commons, to whom they only read and delivered the Protestation, which that House took very little time to consider of: For within half an Hour, they sent up to the Lords, and (on that short Examination) accus'd all who had subscrib'd it, of High Treason, by the Mouth of Mr Glyn; who was withal order'd to thank their Lordships for their speedy and affectionate communicating of this Petitionary Protestation to Them; and to desire, that the Bishops who had Subscrib'd it, 'may be forthwith 'Sequester'd from Parliament, and forthwith 'committed into safe Custody.' Whereupon the Usher of the Black Rod was commanded to find them out, and to bring them to the Bar of the Clar. Vol. I. p. 275, 276, 277. Neal Vol. II. p. 794. ad p. 798. Heyl. Hist. Laud. p. 419. Full. Ch Hist. Cent. 17. L. 11. p. 185. ad p. 188. See also his Mod. Judg's Decl. of Aug. 12, 1647. Husb. Collect. 419. p. 533.

Dec. 27, 1641. See Full. Ch. Hist. Cent. 17. L. 11. p. 186, 187.

Which the Ld. Clarendon, Vol. I. p. 278, calls good Law, and good Logick: The the Dissenters call Popish Cruelty.

Neal Collect. Vol. II. p. 679. See also p. 336.

Heyl. Hist. Laud. p. 419.

Which was according to Rose by the Bishops of Bangor, Peterborough and Landaff. Neal Collect. Vol. I. p. 700.

Whitl. Mem. p. 45. See also Neal. Collect. Vol. II. p. 329, 330, 390, 395, 398. Where see the Art. at large, and the Speech with which Sir Thomas Widdrington deliver'd him to the Lords. See also Heyl Hist. Laud. p. 442. and Cobbel Hist. of Engl. Vol. III. p. 114. Bish. p. 119.

Clarendon. Vol. II. p. 619.

Heyl. Hist. Laud. p. 419.

Neal. Vol. I. p. 435. See also p. 571.

The Dean Day, Faith Dr Heylin's Hist. Laud. p. 460.

Neal Collect. Vol II. p. 796.

Heyl Hist. Laud. p. 441

Digitized by Google

'the House of Peers; which, by reason of their scatter'd Lodgings, could not be Eff.ct-ed till Eight of the Clock that Night: At which time being all brought toge-ther (except the Bishop of Landaffe, who was therefore order'd to be brought the next Day) their † Offence was signify'd unto them, and an Order presently made for their Commitment to the Tower, whither they were all carry'd the next Day, except the Bishops of Durham and * Lichfield; who found the Favour (the one by reason of his Eminent Learning, and both of them in regard of their Age and Infirmities) to stand committed to the Custody of the Gentleman-Usher.' And the morrow Seniglit after was appointed for them to put in their Answer.

Nalf. Coll. Vol. II. p. 729. † Separately and finely. See Ib. p. 738.

* Hall, fore Fall Ch Hift. Cent. 17. L. 11. p. 188. but furely this is a Miſtake. Nalf. Collect. Vol. II. p. 739.

The Prelates, who had ſubſcrib'd this Proteſtation, and were thus impeach'd, and clapt into Prisons, were Dr. J. Williams, the Arch-biſhop of York (as is before-ſaid) Dr. Thomas Morton, Biſhop of Durham; Dr. Robert Wyghe, Biſhop of Lichfield and Coventy; Dr. Jof. Hall, Biſhop of Norwich; Dr. John Owen, Biſhop of St. Aſaph; Dr. William Piers, Biſhop of Bath and Wells; Dr. George Coke, Biſhop of Hereford; Dr. Robert Skinner, Biſhop of Oxford; Dr. Matt. Wren, Biſhop of Ely; Dr. Godfrey Goodman, Biſhop of Glouceſter; Dr. John Towers, Biſhop of Peterborough; and Dr. Morgan Owen, Biſhop of Landaffe.

Some Days after they had been thus put under Confinement, they Petition'd for Council, which was granted them; and the Day for putting in their Answer, was deferr'd from Time to Time, until Monday, Jan. 4. 17. When they all leverally appear'd at the Bar of the Lords House, and pleaded Not Guilty; and withal, jointly preſented a Petition, praying that 'a Speedy Proceeding may be had' againſt them, 'and that in the mean time they may be admitted to Bail.' The latter part of which Requeſt was deny'd them; and accordingly they were all remanded back to their former confinement, but in purſuit of the former part of it, the Lords order'd Tueſday January 25*th*, for the day of their Tryal. But one chief intention of their Impeachment being to keep them out of the Houſe, till the Bill for taking away their Votes, was paſs'd; and the Commons being ſenſible, that they might as well make good a Charge of Murther or Adultery, as this of Treaſon, againſt them; the Tryal did not come on, either that day, or any other. In the mean time the Lords, when they had February * 6, deſpoyl'd the whole Order of their Right to Vote in Parliament, and thereby as they thought, Anſwred the great End of their Accuſation and Confinement, did the next Day venture to diſmiſs them upon Bail. But the Commons having however ſome farther Purpoſes to ſerve upon them, 'In great Indignation' Expoſtulated' that Matter with the Lords, 'and cauſed them immediately to be committed to 'the Tower;' where they lay till May † 5, 1642. and were then a ſecond time releaſed on Bail by the Peers.

Ibid. p. 812, 816, 827, 831, 832, 835.

† 15*th*, ſays Compl. Hiſt. of Engl. Vol. III. p. 115. but I believe that is a Miſtake.

Clar. Vol. I. p. 319.

* Febr. 16, ſaith Compl. Hiſt. of Eng. Vol. III. p. 115. but that too, I doubt, is a Miſtake. Compare Heyl. Hiſt. Laud, p. 461. with Clar. Hiſt Vol. I. p. 319.

‡ Comp. Hiſt. of England, Vol. III. p. 119. Fuller's Ch. Hiſt Cent. 17. L. 11. p. 166.

But before that time, the Commons had Projected (or pretended at leaſt to deſign) ſome other Uſage for them: And purſuant to it, February 21, 164‡; order'd a Bill to be drawn up, for the Forfeiture of the Eſtates, as well 'Temporal as Spiritual, of thoſe Twelve Prelates, and for the 'Impriſonment of their Perſons during 'their Lives, and diſpoſal of all Livings that may 'fall within their Gifts.' March 24 following, this Bill was reported; when upon the Queſtion it was reſolv'd that the Archbp. of York, (tho' the very Perſon, who had drawn all the reſt into this ſuppos'd Treaſon) ſhould not forfeit his Temporals, but that all the others ſhould be ſtrip'd of them; and that both He and They ſhould loſe their Spiritual Promotions for Life; only the Archb. again (in ſome regard to former Services) ſhould be allow'd One Hundred Pounds per Annum, out of his Eccleſiaſtical Incomes. But April 6, they farther moderate this Vote, and in the Abundance of their Goodneſs, Reſolv'd, that the Biſhop of Durham, ſhould have Eight Hundred Pounds a Year; the Biſhop of Ely, One Hundred Pounds; the Biſhop of Norwich, Four Hundred Pounds; the Biſhop of Bath and Wells, One Hundred Pounds; the Biſhop of Lichfield and Coventry, Eight Hundred Pounds; the Biſhop of Glouceſter, Two Hundred Pounds; the Biſhop of Hereford, Five Hundred Pounds; the Biſhop of Peterborough, One Hundred Pounds; the Biſhop of Oxford, One Hundred Pounds; the Biſhop of St. Aſaph, Five Hundred Pounds; and the Biſhop of Landaffe Two Hundred Pounds.

How or when the Bill dropt I know not: But be that as it will, the Purpoſes of it were reviv'd in the Ordinance of April 1, 1643, by which the Eſtates, as well Real as Perſonal, of theſe Twelve Prelates by Name, together with thoſe of the Archb. of Canterbury, and the Biſhop of Worceſter, (by Name likewiſe) were Ord'r'd to be Sequeſtred into the Hands of Commiſſioners as we re alſo in general the Eſtates of all thoſe Perſons, whether Eccleſiaſtical or Temporal, who had diſcover'd any Affection to his Majeſty, or any Diſlike to the Proceedings of the Parliament; of which I ſhall ſpeak more Hereafter. And of how little Eff.ct the Order was for their Allowance, may be gueſs'd at from the Caſe of Dr. Morton, Biſhop of Durham, and Dr. Hall, Biſhop of Norwich; of which I ſhall ſpeak, when I come particularly to account for theſe two Admirable Prelates, at their Reſpective Cathedrals.

Hall. Coll. Vol. p. 11.

Previous to this Impeachment of the Archb. of York, and the Eleven other Biſhops, for the Proteſtation, was another Impeachment of the other Archb. and Thirteen of the Biſhops of his Province, for the New Canons; of which having already ſpoken on the occaſion of Condemning thoſe Canons, by the Houſe of Commons, I forbear to repeat it, and proceed now to the Uſage of the Inferiour Clergy, by the Houſe; which was for the moſt part Concurrent with what hath been now related of the Biſhops.

I have before obſerv'd, that the Petition of Mr. Peter Smart, was the firſt I have met with preferr'd againſt any ſingle Clergyman to the Houſe, and by conſequence Dr. Coſin, againſt whom he Petition'd, muſt have been the firſt of all the Clergy in this Parliament-Perſecution, by whom he was order'd into Cuſtody, as is before related. A Committee was at the ſame time order'd to draw up a Charge againſt him. November 24, and 25, his Caſe was under Conſideration; and the former of theſe Days, one Nerton, a Miniſter, brought a new Accuſation againſt him, of a Deſign to ſeduce his Son to Popery at Peter-Houſe in Cambridge.

Nalf. Coll. Vol. I. p. 314, 315. Ib. p. 316, 317, 318, 319, 320, 321, 322. Compl. Hiſt. Vol. III. p. 111. 711, 714, 715, 716, 717. Clar. Vol. II. p. 344.

Dr. Nicholas Bp. of Glouc. Vol. II. p. 792.

January 19, the Houſe however order'd, that he ſhould be Bail'd on a Recognizance of Two Thouſand Pounds, enter'd into by himſelf, and One Thouſand Pound a Piece by his Sureties, to appear upon Summons. Three Days after they reſolved, that Smart's Fine and Deprivation were Illegal, &c. and that he ought to be Reſtored; That Dr. Coſin, and the other Proſecutors of him, ought to 'to make him ſatisfaction;' and that Dr. Coſin was Guilty of Superſtition, &c. 'That he was Unworthy to be Head or Governour 'in either of the Univerſities; to hold and to See the 18th Order, and Judgment of the Houſe of Commons in this Particular, there at large. Dr. Coſin, in his Anſwer to the Charge of Superſtition, &c.

See the Articles and Speech at large, Nalf. Fol. I. p. 769.

any Ecclesiastical Promotion.' March 15, Mr. Rouse, carry'd up an Impeachment against him to the Lords, which he deliver'd with a very bitter Speech. May 14, he stood forth at the Bar of the Lords House; and after hearing his Impeachment read, Requested, that his Cause might be heard Publickly before the whole House; which was accordingly Granted him, if I mistake not. This at least is sure, that when he made his Answer, the Prosecution appear'd so very Scandalous, that Mr. Smart's own Lawyer told him, he was ashamed to plead for him any longer, And that the Lords dismiss'd Dr. Cosin, ' without any ' other losse, but of Time and Charges,' and the same Success he had even before the Commons themselves, on the other Accusation, of having endeavoured to Seduce a young Man to Popery. For on hearing of the Cause, he made it appear, that he had been so far from perverting the Lad to Popery; that on the contrary, he had expell'd him the University on that very Account.

D. T. Smith's Life of him. p. 10, 11. Heyl. Hist. Laud. p. 444.

Michael. says Dr. Nalton, but I doubt, that is a Mistake, Coll. Vol. I. p. 660, 691. Fol. II. p. 244. See him in the Parochial Lists Hampshire. See also Wood, Ath. Vol II. p. 500.

December 7, 1640, Mr. Myth Wateree, then (Rector of Compton in Surrey,) was Order'd to be sent for as a Delinquent, for 'Saying that ' Lords did not stick to say, that the Southern ' Lords were the Cause of his Coming,' and was accordingly taken up. The 19th, he was discharged from his Attendance at that time, giving Security to appear the 24th. What was done that Day, I know not; but afterwards I find his Cause before the Lords; who May 14, 1641. dismiss'd him, as having been long in Custody, whilst no Prosecution had for a long time appeared against him.

Prosecuted Dec. 17, 1640 Nalf Collect. Vol. I. p. 666.

* See the Church of Wells.

Ibid. p. 728.

On the Petition of the Inhabitants of Mells in Somersetshire, (formerly mention'd (Dr. Ankebill*, their Minister, was, as I apprehend, sent for into Custody of the Serjeant at Arms. 'Tis certain at least, that he was Actually in his Custody: For January 19, 164⅞. it was ordered, that he be admitted to Bail, on one thousand Pounds Bond of his own, and Five Hundred for his Sureties.

Rush. Coll. Part 3. Vol. I. p. 197. See also the Ch. of Wells.

The same Fate also attended Mr. Alexander Huish, of Beckington in Somersetshire; who was Petition'd against at the same time; but whether he was actually apprehended or not, I cannot say.

Nalf. Coll. Vol. I. p. 700, 705.

December 23, 1640. on the Report of the Sub-Committee for Religion, Dr. Potter, then Vice Chancellor of Oxford, was order'd to be taken into Custody, for Suspending H. Wilkinson, who in a Sermon before that University, had defam'd his Majesty, traduc'd the Government of the Church and University, and Slander'd several Persons of Learning and Piety. Purfuant to which, he was Apprehended; and January 6 *, being heard at the Bar of the House, was dismiss'd to repair to his Charge in the University; but to appear again when the House should think fit to call for him.

* Or 7th.

Ibid. p. 700. See the Ch. of Chichester

The same Day (viz, December 23,) on the Complaint of the same Henry Wilkinson, (if I mistake not) Mr. Edward Fulham, Chaplain to the Bishop of Oxford, was also sent for into Custody. I find him in the Serjeant's Hands, and order'd to be Bail'd January 19, 164⅞. in Two Hundred Pounds Bond himself, and One Hundred for each of his Securities.

Ibid. p. 726, 733. See him in that County.

About the 11th of January, the same Year, Mr. Thomas Preston, Vicar of Rothwell, in Northamptonshire, was on a Petition of some of his Parishioners, sent for up, and put into Custody of the Serjeant at Arms, and the 22d of that Month committed to the Gate House, for Scandalous Words against the Parliament.

The Day after Mr. Thomas Jones, of Offwel in Devon, and Dr. Chaffin, were severally sent for into Custody; the one, for a Sermon Preach'd at Tiverton, the last of July; the other, for a Visitation Sermon, Preach'd in the Cathedral Church of Salisbury, in May 1634. And March 1, 164⅞. Dr. Chaffin, was brought to the Bar of the House, and escaped the Tower but by one Voice: However he was sharply Reprimanded by the Speaker, and enjoyn'd to make a Publick Explanation of the Passages excepted against, in a Sermon at the same Cathedral, and to Discharg'd.

Ibid. p. 714 782. See the Former of them in Devon, and the Other, if I mistake not, in the Ch. of Sarum.

January 25, Mr. Thomas Gauler, Rector of Chisborough, and Cbinnock, in Somersetshire, was on the Petition of some of the Inhabitants, sent for into the Custody of the Serjeant at Arms, and continued in that Confinement, till February 15, following; when he was order'd to be Bail'd.

Ibid. p. 738, 776. See him in that County.

March 19, an Information was exhibited against Mr. Richard Perrot, for a Sermon by him Preach'd on New-Years-Day; Two Years before: on which he was Seiz'd, Imprison'd, and Impeach'd: But April 12, discharg'd from his Confinement, entring into Recognizance to appear the 5th of May, following, and 'abide the Judgment of Parliament, if any 'such should be against him.'

Ibid. p. 791, 797. See the Church of York.

During that short remainder of the Year 1640, which succeeded their Unhappy Meeting, They had also before them Dr. Pocklington, Dr. Bray, and Dr. Heylin. The first of these was, at the Instances and Petition of one Harvey his Parishioner, Sentenc'd by the Lords, February 12, 164⅞. never to come within the Verge of the Court; to be deprived of all his Preferments, (and also render'd incapable of ever receiving any others) and to have his two Books, the one Intituled Altare Christianum, and the other, Sunday No Sabbath, (the Writing of which, together with his Introducing Innovations, and Idolatry, &c. was the Matter of his Accusation) publickly Burnt in the City of London, and each of the Universities.

Ibid. p. 795, Heyl. Hist. Laud. p. 441. Rush. Ch. Hist. Coll. 197. L. 11. p. 1172. See Dr. Pocklington at the Church of Windsor.

Thursday, March 11, following, Dr. Bray, was also brought to the Bar of the House of Lords, for Licensing the Two Books of Dr. Pocklington, now mention'd, and Sentenc'd to ‡ Preach a Recantation, at St. Margaret's Westminster, the Sunday - Month after. In the mean time, the Bishops of Durham, Lincoln and Carlisle, were to view the Sermon, and take care that it was Sufficient. And when it was Preached, the Lords April 16, 1641. order'd him to Print it. And before Twelve Months came about, the House of Commons, Sequestred him from his Vicaridge of St. Martin's in the Fields.

Nalf. Collect. Vol. I. p. 789. Heyl. Ibid. Full. Ch. Hist. Ibid. See Dr. Bray at the Cathed. of Canterb.

‡ Heylin says, he was to recall in that Sermon 22 Articles, but Fuller seems to make it as though 24. By Wilkins's Letters he is.

Hamo had much indeed, that he might be obliged to recant so many Errors in the Two Books. However, to doth not say, whether it was Wrote.

April 20, 1641. the Day Pryn's Sentence was Revok'd &c. The Commons did farther at his Petition, order a Charge to be drawn up against Dr. Heylin, for promoting the Suit in the Star Chamber against him; tho' if I am not mistaken, the whole Concern he had in it, was only that of furnishing the Lords of the Privy-Council, (and that too at his Majesty's Command) with Matters out of the Historia Mystica. After Four Days Examination, he was, as he expresses it himself, 'dismiss'd without Shame or 'Censure.' However, not long after, at the Promotion of Pryn also, he was brought before a Committee of the House, for a Sermon Preached many Years before; but he was dismiss'd in the same Manner from this Prosecution also.

Nalf. Collect. Vol. I. p. 790. Heyl. Hist. Laud. p. 441.

May

Digitized by Google

Neal Collect. Vol. II. p. 644. See my Extract of the Journals of Parliament from June 4, 1642. See also Serjeants in the County of Lincoln.

May 13, 1641, Mr. J. Smith, Vicar of St. James's Deeping, in Lincolnshire; (who appears to have been some time in Custody of the Serjeant at Arms) was brought to the Bar of the House, and afterward fent Prifoner to the Gate-Houſe, for Words againſt the Parliament.

Neal Ibid.

The Day following one Mr. Andrew Sandland, a Clergyman, (who had been informed againſt in the Houſe of Lords, for ſome Words ſpoken by him) was diſmiſs'd; no Proſecution after a long Time having appear'd againſt him, tho' he had all that time been in the Serjeant's Cuſtody.

Neal. Collect. Vol II. p. 642. See the Names of Thoſe among the London-Clergy, and the other Archdeacons &c. Called Delinquents.

About the 20th of October, 1641, Petitions were ſeverally preſented to the Houſe of Commons againſt Mr. Heath of St. Botolph's-Aldersgate, and Dr. Fuller, then Dean of Ely, and Vicar of St. Giles Cripplegate; the one, for refuſing to permit the Rabble to pull down the Rails of the Communion-Table; and the other, for oppoſing the Order about Lecturers. I do not remember to have met with the Event of the Firſt of theſe Petitions. But Dr. Fuller, the Month following, was order'd into Cuſtody, for dangerous and ſcandalous Words, deliver'd by him in ſeveral Sermons, (and was actually Apprehended) but ſoon after admitted to Bail.

Neal Coll. Vol II. p. 672. See him in Northumberland.

In December, this ſame Year, Dr. Tho. Grey, Rector of Pentelend in Northumberland, on a Complaint exhibited againſt him, was ſent for as a Delinquent by the Serjeant at Arms.

July 7, 1642. The Commons made an Order, Prohibiting the carrying any of the Plate of the Univerſity of Oxford to the King at York; and at the ſame Time, order'd Dr. Prideaux, Dr. † Fell, Dr. Potter and Dr. Frewen to be Apprehended.

See the Cathedrals of Worceſter, Lichfield, and Chriſt-Church in Oxford, &c.

‡ Whom I ſhall remark ſoon before one of the Sub Diviſion of Committees for Scandalous Miniſters. Parliſe Under. p. 21.

* See him among the London-Clergy.

The 19th of the ſame Month, Dr. * Dukefon of S. Clement's Danes, who appears to have been for ſome Time in the Serjeant's Cuſtody, for having about him the Book, Intituled A Complaint to the Houſe of Commons, was committed Priſoner to the Gate-Houſe.

The 20th Mr. John Gwyn, Vicar of Caple in Bedfordſhire, was order'd to be taken into ſafe Cuſtody, and was afterward committed to Newgate, and fin'd one Hundred Pounds to the King, for 'throwing by the Parliament's 'Declarations, and Reading the King's ſaying, 'he muſt obey God, (being commanded by his 'Word to obey the King) and not Men; alſo 'for being of a Debauch'd, Lewd and Contentious Diſpoſition; and likewiſe for being very 'averſe to the Proceedings of the Parliament, 'ſpeaking divers Oppobrious and Scandalous Words 'of the Proceedings of the Houſe, and in particular 'of Mr. Pym.'

See that Church

In September that Year, Mr. Porter, one of the Prebendaries of Norwich, was order'd to be ſent for as a Delinquent; but the Particulars of his Offence do not appear.

See the London-Clergy.

About the latter End of this Year alſo, Mr. Cheſſilin of St. Matthew's Friday-ſtreet, was Impriſon'd in Cokhiſter Jayl; and Dr. Pink, Warden of New-College, in the Gate-Houſe.

See Scotland.

Dr. Bowen Walton was ſent for into Cuſtody as a Delinquent; as was Dr. Frome likewiſe, for Publiſhing a Book Intituled, The Reſiſting of the Conſcience; Dr. Sharp was entered Priſoner to Ely-Houſe; Dr. Gifford and Dr Wilſon alſo were Imprifoned; the Latter of them (whom I take to be the ſame Perſon with the Suffering Arch-Deacon of Exeter) in Lambeth Houſe; Dr. Matth. Griffith, of St. Mary Magd. Old Fiſh ſtreet, the Dr. Jeffry, Dr. Will. Stamp, Vicar of Stepney, were all Three ſent for as Delinquents by the Serjeant at Arms; and the Former of them was Impriſoned firſt in Newgate, then in the Lord Petre's Houſe; and the laſt of them was Impeach'd for ſome Words by the Commons. Mr. Newcomen of Colcheſter was taken into Cuſtody by the Serjeant at Arms, and committed to the Fleet, for aſſiſting the King; Mr. Lake, Curate at Greenwich, was ſent for as a Delinquent, for Reading the Kentiſh Petition, (namely, that in Favour of Epiſcopacy, as I Judge) in the Church; and the ſame Order was made for the Dean of Guernſey, and for Dr. Brankbon; the Latter of which I take to be the ſame Perſon with Dr. Edward Brankyn of Great Greſſingham in Norfolk.

See the Cathedrals of Worceſter, Lichfield, and Chriſt-Church in Oxford, &c.

See the Clerk of the Parliament, and Dr. Jeffry. See alſo in the County of Kent, and Eſſex.

See him in the County of Eſſex.

See Compl. Hiſt. of Engl. Vol. III. p. 119, 120.

July 19, 1643. the Commons Reſolv'd that Dr. Middleton (the Sequeſtred Rector of Nutfield in Surry, as I gueſs) ſhould be committed Priſoner to the Compter in Southwark

Where ſee him.

September following Dr. George Roberts, Rector of Hambleden in Bucks, was ſent for as a Delinquent; and the October following, Dr. Holdſworth was ſent for again into Cuſtody, for Printing the Book Intruled, 'Dr. † Fynnes his 'R*elves in Caſes of Conſcience*,' and continu'd a Priſoner for Four Years.

In which County he lived.

See the Ch. of Worceſter

† Probably a Miſtake for Lee Penne, juſt now mention'd.

Nor muſt it be omitted, that July 25, foregoing, the Houſe Reſolv'd, That the famous Mr. Farnaby, then School-maſter at Seven-Oak in Kent, ſhould be taken into Cuſtody of the Serjeant at Arms, for Encouraging the King's Forces; and Three Days after he was ſent cloſe Priſoner to Newgate, 'as engag'd in the late Commotion in Kent;' after which he was Impriſon'd in the Ships, and from thence removed to Ely Houſe, where he continued till within a Year of his Death. And during his Impriſonment, the Houſe had it under Conſideration, whether he ſhould not be ſent to America; and (as it is Reported) ſome that had been his Scholars, and then late in the Houſe, were on the Affirmative ſide of the Queſtion.

See alſo Wood. Athe. Vol. II. p. 34.

Theſe were either ſome of the Firſt, or ſome of the moſt conſiderable of the Clergy, who were for the moſt part (as far as yet appears to me) harraſs'd and impriſon'd by the more immediate Orders of the Houſe it ſelf, or of ſome Special Committees, appointed for particular Cafes. Tho' ſome of them did, as I find, (and the ſame is probable of many others of them as likewiſe of many among Thoſe, which follow) paſs alſo under the Hands of ſome of the Great Committees for Clergy Matters, (which will be mention'd hereafter) or were at length refer'd to them. As for the more Eminent and more Conſiderable of Thoſe, whom I find before Particular Committees (of which there were ſeveral, and ſome Perſons of great Conſideration) and who were likewiſe Impriſon'd, I ſhall take Notice of them, when I come to ſpeak of the Committees themſelves. In the mean time, great Numbers of leſs Note, were alſo Reſolv'd, Order'd, or ſent for into the Cuſtody of the Serjeant at Arms by the Houſe, or by other Methods, ordered to be Apprehended; and moſt of them, if I miſtake not, were actually ſeiz'd (many of them at leaſt appear to have been ſo) and a great Part of them were Impriſon'd, either in the Common Jayls, or in the Uncommon ones of Suns, and the Biſhops Houſes, or other great Houſes in and about London, which laſt then had been converted into Jayls for their Reception.

As

Digitized by Google

Naif. Coll. Vol I. p. 288, 380, 456, 497, 870.

As Mr. Alan Blany, Curate of Newington in Surrey; Mr. Hutton, Curate of St. Giles's Cripplegate; one Mr. Williamson, a Clergyman; Mr. Barnaby Gooch, Curate of Woodbay in Devon; Mr. John Newnam of Rodnell in Sussex; Mr. Burder, a Minister; Mr. Downhall, Vicar of St. Ives in Huntingdonshire, and Mr. Reynolds his Curate; Mr. * Edmonds of Holyhood; one Mr. Nicholson a Minister; Mr. Lewis Hughes, Rector of Shipperton in Middlesex; Mr. Hammon Claxton of Holt in Norfolk; Mr. John ‡ Cooth Rector of Shipton-Mallet in Somersetshire; Mr. Francis Withington, Rector of Bridgeforde; Mr. Edward Lawes, Vicar of St. Mary's in Nottingham; Mr. James Crooch, Curate of St. Mary's in the Borough of Wareham, in Dorsetshire; one Mr. White, a Minister; Mr. John Kirby, of Curby; Mr. Roberts, Curate of Allhallows-Barking; Mr. Jo. Baston, Minister of Aylesbury; Mr. Fredc. Gibb, Minister of Haverfs, and Boxhead in Suffolk; Mr. Curtis, Vicar of Martock, in Somersetshire; Mr. Bawel, Vicar of Maidstone, in Kent; Mr. Peter ‡ Studely, of Pentsbey in Salop; Mr. Hatch, a Minister; Mr. Edward Tiffyn, Vicar of Southmimster; Mr. Richard Powling, of Wallingford; Mr. John Taylor, Vicar of Hemel-Hempstead, in Hertfordshire; Mr. Edward Boughen, Rector of Woodchurch, in Kent; Mr. † Flick, a Clergyman; Mr. George * Preston, Vicar of Rother; Mr. †† Chase, of Endstield, in Middlesex; Mr. John ‡ Rowland, Minister of Foxesbay; Mr. Nicholas ‖ Wolley, Vicar of Tudely, in Kent; Mr. William Pyne, Mr. ↓ Reeves, and Mr. Farrow *.

* See him in Cambridgsh. Where for him.

‡ See the Ch. of Wells.

See one of both these Names in Dorsetshire, and quere.

See him in that County.

See him in that County. See him in that County.

See him there See him in that County

† See one Mr. Nath Flick in Norfolk.

* See one of both these Names in Northampt.

‖ See that Alst. Farmer

Most of those there mention'd, I extracted from some parts of the Parliament-Journals (not having time to make a full search into them) where there appear (exclusive of those, whom I find before the Committees, as is before said) a great many other Names, among which, I guess, were those of several Clergymen; but no Circumstance being added, either of Quality or Profession, I could not distinguish them. To which it must be added, that there appear likewise to have been great Numbers of Prisoners in the several Places in the Country, where the Clergy doubtless bare their usual Proportion; and that about the latter end of the Year 1642, their Numbers were so much increased, that divers Orders occur on the Journals Relating to them; in one of which the great Number and Increase of them is expretly taken notice of: And how very many they were, may in some measure be conjectur'd from hence; that after they had Fill'd all the Common Jayls and Compters with them, they were forced to Erect more New Jayls than there had been hitherto Old ones in that great City; altho' they had likewise considerable Numbers under Confinement in the Ships ‡ of which more by and by: Insomuch that I cannot Judge, there were less than several Hundreds of the Clergy (and those generally Speaking the most Considerable of them,) either taken into Custody of the Serjeant, or Imprisoned in the two first Years of this Parliament; and that their being so, might be sure to prove Burthensome enough, the Commons made an express Order, December 2, 1642. 'That all 'Malignants and Delinquents that were sent 'for, should bear their own Charges.'

The Reader, from what hath been hinted, will here Understand, that I Speak chiefly of the confinement of the Clergy for the First Year or Two of the Session; and that too for the most Part, in and about London; for the Imprisonments, Plunderings, and other Rapines, under which they suffered in the Progress of the Rebellion, were without Number; as will be easily guess'd from the Instances which will afterward be produc'd, when I come in the List, to Account for the several Persons, that were Sequestred, &c.

Nor were there wanting, both in the Circumstances, and the Manner of their Confinement, several things, which very much Increase the Miseries of the Clergy, and Inhance the Barbarity of their Persecutors. Among the Former of these may well be Reckoned, what has been just touch'd on already; namely, the appointing the Bishops Houses in London, as the Places of their Restraint. For it ought to be known, that when they had fill'd all the Common Jayls and Compters about Town, with the Principal Clergy and Gentry of the Kingdom, they afterward seized the venerable old Houses, where so many most Excellent and Prous Bishops had for a long course of Years, liv'd in Splendor and Hospitality, and Order'd them to be converted into Dungeons, for the starving of their Clergy, and many of their Gentry: Particularly, January 3, 164$\frac{2}{3}$. Lambeth, Ely, and London-Houses, were Order'd to be made Prisons; and Dr. Alexander Leighton, (formerly mentioned) was appointed Keeper to the first of them; 'Where he did to some 'purpose make Reprisals for his Damages, and 'Persecuted the Purses' of the Loyal Clergy and Gentry, 'with as much Rigour and Severity, as his Masters did their Persons.' The same was done Four Days after by the Bishop of Lincoln's House; and the Bishop of Winchester's House, in Southwark, was as I find, Sacrilegiously converted to the same Infamous Use: Nor could all these, Capacious as they were, contain their Prisoners. And therefore January 2, 164$\frac{2}{3}$. the Dean of St. Paul's House, was also Order'd to be made a Prison; as was also some time during the Heat of these Persecutions, the Lord Petre's House, Gresham College, and if I mistake not, some other Houses likewise.

Bishops Houses seized, and erected into Jayls for Confinement of the Clergy.

Naif. Coll. Vol. I. p. 512.

But this Circumstance of their Suffering was trivial, compared with the Manner in which others were Imprison'd; I mean, in the Ships; an Invention surely peculiar to the sagacious Wickedness and Cruelty of those Times. The Lord Clarendon, as he intimates what I have now said, of their converting the Bishops Houses into Prisons, so he takes more express Notice of this New Invention of the floating Prisons, in the following Words: 'Not only all 'the Prisons about London were quickly fill'd 'with Persons of Honour and great Reputation for Sobriety and Integrity to their Countries, but new Prisons were made for their 'Reception, and of which was a new 'and barbarous Invention; very many Persons of very good Quality, both of the 'Clergy and Layity, were committed to Prison on Board the Ships in the River of 'Thames, where they were kept under Decks, 'and no Friend suffered to come to them; 'by which many lost their Lives:' Others they sent to several Goals (saith Dr. Heylin, to this same purpose) 'or shut them up in Ships, whom 'they exposed to Storms and Tempests, and all 'the Miseries which a wild Sea could give to a 'languishing Stomach.' This Manner of Imprisoning the Clergy is likewise taken Notice of by Hist. Vol. II. p. 16, 17. See Heyl. Hist. Presb. Lib. I. p. 459.

Ibid. p. 467.

Digitized by Google

several other Writers of Those Times; and the Reader will frequently meet with Instances of it, when he comes to the List of the Particular Sufferers.

It is easy to imagine (or I should say rather, it cannot be very easily imagined) what Miseries these Persons must needs suffer in such a Durance. P. 116. The Author of Mercurius Rediens has given us the Particulars of some of them in these Words: 'They were put under Hatches, where the Decks 'were so low, that they could not stand upright, 'and yet were deny'd Stools to sit on, or so 'much as a Burthen of Straw to lie on. Into 'this Little-Ease, in a small Ship, they crowded 'no less than Fourscore Prisoners of Quality, 'and that they might stifle one another, having 'no more Breath than what they suck'd from one 'anothers Mouths, most maliciously, and (certainly) to a murderous Intent, they stop'd up 'all the small Auger Holes, and all other Inlets 'which might relieve them with fresh Air. An 'Act of such horrid Barbarism, that no Age, no 'Story, no Rebellion can parallel.' Much the same Account I have received from two Sons of a Clergyman, who suffered in such a Confinement; namely, That they were 'not suffered 'to have the Benefit of the Air upon the Decks, 'without paying a certain Price for it.' And no less than Fifteen Hundred Pounds a Man was demanded for their Liberty; tho' at last they reduced their Price much lower; nor were some of them dismiss'd, till after a full Years Confinement, and the worst Indignities offered to them, during that Time. To which must be added, Dr. Peter Barwick's Account of the same Matter (in a Manuscript Life of his Brother Dr. John Barwick, in the Library of St. John's College, Cambridge), whose Words are these: 'Hos 'enim omnes cum multis aliis Theologis gravis-'simis sub Navigii tabulatis in Fluvio Tamesi 'captivos detinebant; squalore, fame, & Vigi-'liis preprmodum enectos, & per insuetos nautas 'indignis habitos, quam quavis vilissima man-'cipia, imo quam si infames alicujus latrocinii 'aut etiam parricidii rei tenerentur.' The Reader will find more of the Barbarities of this Sort of Imprisonment in the Account of the excellent Dr. Steene at Tenterden in Somersetshire, from a Letter written with his own Hand, and from his own Experience: For I find that admirable Person; as also Dr. † Martin, Master of Queen's, and Dr. Beal, Master of St. John's in Cambridge; Dr. * Layfield, Dr. ‡ Heywood, and Dr. Boisfax of St. Peter's Cornhill, to have have been some of the unhappy Clergy who were Confin'd in these miserable Places. Great Numbers besides of their Brethren were also thrust into these Holes; some of whom will be after taken Notice of in the List, but far the greatest part of them have escaped my Knowledge, as to that particular of their Sufferings.

See also Dr. Walton and Dr. Gee in the Councils of Barrow, and Mr. Tailor's in the Country of Somerset.

† See More, Hist. p. 113.

* Seeds Epist.

‡ See Westminster.

But Barbarous and Inhumane as this Treatment of the Clergy was, it fell much short of what the consummate Wickedness of some in Those Times had further intended them (in conjunction with their Fellow-Sufferers of the Laity) which was the sending them to the Plantations, or to 'Algiers, there to be Sold 'for Slaves to the Turks.' This monstrous and exquisite piece of Cruelty (equal surely to any that Hell it self could suggest), and much beyond the Capacity of a common Fiend) one would think indeed could never have entered into the Heart of Man; or if it could, it might well be thought impossible, that it should ever find any Reception here. It is almost as hard to believe, that such a Design should be at all set on Foot, as surely it must have been, at first to Invent, and afterwards entertain Thoughts of executing it. That an Order of Men, who stood in such an immediate Relation to the Blessed Jesus, and was confessedly Sacred; whose Learning, Piety, and Hoary Heads would moreover have commanded Reverence from any other Age, but that barbarous one, in which it was their great Unhappiness to live: That such, I say, as these, should not only be deem'd unworthy to Breathe in their Native Air, but even to enjoy the common Liberty of Mankind; and farther to render this their Slavery grievous (as well as ignominious) beyond the ordinary Degrees of that otherwise most deplorable of all Conditions, that they should be put into the Hands of the avowed and implacable Enemies of their Blessed Master, and his most Holy Religion: And lastly, that all this should be transacted by Those, who not only profess'd Christianity, but had involv'd the Nation in Blood and Ruin, because they were (forsooth) too pure to live among common Christians: All these Things, I say, laid together, are such a Reproach, not only to the Christian Name, but even to Humane Nature it self, that for the Honour of it, any one would be both unwilling and afraid to credit the Relation, as I must confess my self to have been at the first hearing of it. But a little farther Enquiry soon obliged me to believe the Fact as indisputable as it was indeed barbarous and inhumane.

That a Motion was made in the House, to send Mr. Farnaby the School-master to America, I have said before; and the Design of disposing (in the more inhumane Manner now mentioned) of very many of the more Eminent Clergymen, who had before been imprisoned in the Ships, as related by Dr. Peter Barwick (in the Manuscript Life of his Brother, before mentioned) in these Words: 'Sive quod 'Academicis, ut ipse credi volebat, à deporta-'tione vel relegatione ad Insulas Americanas, 'aut etiam ad barbares Tuicas meturbat, hoc 'enim tunc tempora Gulielmo Belo, Edvardo 'Martino, & Richardo Sternio; heu, heu, 'quibus viris & quantis! Academiæ Cantab. 'consultissimis Rectoribus perduelles minitabant.' And then going on to speak of their Usage on Board the Ships, in Company with several others of the most Eminent of the Clergy, he adds: 'Hos omnes tunc temporis Rig-'bius quidam, à Senatoribus in rebellium Fœ-'dus venia venum mercatoribus exposuerat, pro-'diderat que proculdubio, si emptorem reperis-'set.'

‡ Vic. Chancellor.

Querel. Cant. p. 6, seems to refer to a Declaration of the Parliament at Oxon, Mar. 19, 1643. for a further Account of this Matter, but I have not yet seen that Declaration.

To the same purpose, Dr. † Bates speaking of the Covenant, 'Curiosos præfertim Ecclesia-'rum, qui optimis fiuebantur beneficiis, aditus, 'bonis & reditibus, sequestris nonnisi, spoliantur, 'ergastulis, subterraneis carceribus inclusis, per 'annos plures, imo & navibus in Fluvio Tha-'mesi, isque effœtescente jam æstate, (deportati-'one intentata) nec audita causa, neque accusa-'tione aliata, squalore mercenatus.'

† Elench. P. 34.

Mr. Dugdale likewise relates this same Matter; and adds, That Rigby not only exposed them to Sale, but found Purchasers also; and what is more, had actually contracted with Two Merchants for them, and for that Reason moved it twice (in the House, as I understand him) that they might be dispers'd of.

Short View, p. 270. where he seems to make it the Interest of the Parliament to take in all the Presbyterians, as well as they do Baptists and Quakers, that they may be in a better Prison, as well as they are in Ships.

The

Digitized by Google

One of whom is the worthy Dr. Layfield, now, a zealous Living, and Prebendary of Winchester.

The fame is confirmed by Two Sons of Dr. Layfield (the Suffering Arch-deacon of Eſſex) who was a Priſoner on Board one of thoſe Ships at that Time: And there is a Report current among Perſons of good Credit in Suſſex, that part of the Barbarities now mentioned, was in Fact executed upon about one Hundred of the Clergy, who being brought to one of the Sea-Ports on that Coaſt, were thence ſhip'd off, and never heard of afterwards, (or at leaſt the greateſt part of them) for which Reaſon it was conjectured, that they had been either Sold for Slaves, or murthered. But perhaps this Report had no other Foundation, than that ſuch a Deſign was on Foot, or that ſome of the † Country Clergy were ſent up Priſoners from that Coaſt to London, on Board the Ships; or it may be both of theſe together.

See alſo Part 3. p. 267. in the Caſe of Dr. Hotchmanden.

† Of which I find ſome two Planters, and it is further obſervable to this purpoſe, that many of theſe unhappy Gentlemen never liv'd to return Home again, but died of their ill Uſage under their Confinement.

But to return to thoſe, who were confined in the vulgar way of Cruelty on Shoar, many of whom, beſides the Loſs of their Liberty, were likewiſe puniſhed in all other Methods of Cruelty and Oppreſſion, that could readily be thought of; as will in ſome meaſure appear, when I come to account for ſeveral of the Sufferers in their proper Places. Long Confinements, Exceſſive Fees, Noiſome Rooms, and ſuch-like Uſage, were the common and ordinary Miſeries which they underwent; and thoſe more uncommon may in ſome meaſure be gueſs'd at, from the Malice of their Perſecutors. In the mean Time, I ſhall only add the General Accounts of them.

See particularly the Caſe of the Square and Dr. Stradling, among the Lyme-Regis Clergy.

P. 4.

The Author of Perſec. Undec. ſpeaking of this Matter, has theſe Words: 'Cruel and Barbarous Sufferings, by Baniſhments, and manifold Impriſonments; ſome in Noiſome and Foreign Jayls, among Thieves and Felons; ſome in Ships under Decks, near ſmother'd; ſome ſtarv'd and dead in Priſon; others Murther'd in Priſon, &c.'

Biſh. Preſb. Ed. p. 430.

Dr. Heylin, likewiſe affirms, that the Clergy were vex'd into 'their Graves, by many 'Miſeries inflicted on them, in the Ships or 'their ſeveral Priſons.' And the Manuſcript of the Excellent Mr. Jeremy Stephens, ſo often Alledged already, thus relates the Matter I am now ſpeaking of; 'Many have ſuffer'd ſo great Wrongs by Impriſonment, and 'ſharp Uſage, that they are dead ſince their 'Sequeſtrations; and others have Suffered 'Grievouſly by Rigorous Uſage; as Dr. 'Featly, Impriſoned in Lord Petre's Houſe, 'till almoſt Dead; and ſo Dr. Holdſworth, 'in Priſon, till almoſt he Di'd.' And ſo very Artful were they in Miſchief, that to crown the Miſeries of the Clergy, their very Diminſions from theſe Dungeons, were contrived in ſuch a Manner, as to be no ſmall Aggravation of their Sufferings. The Manner in which no Small Number of them was diſcharged being very Grievous, and as Tamar, complain'd of Amnon, The Evil in ſending them away, was (in ſome Manner) greater than the other that they did unto them. For tho' they had been thrown into ſeveral Priſons, repreſented to the People, as well as treated there like the worſt of Malefactors; yet after a long Confinement, could ſome of them obtain no Tryal, (tho' often Petition'd for) to vindicate their Innocency, and others of them not ſo much as a formal Accuſation; a Circumſtance of Oppreſſion, which ſurely of any other whatſoever, would very much contribute to make a wiſe Man mad. But they well knew, they could bring no other Proof of their Guilt, but that of their Impriſonment, (and ſo had it in their Power to make whom they pleaſed Guilty) and that, they had taught the Common People to believe, was an irrefragable Argument; whereas ſtould they have attempted any other way of Proof, nothing would have appeared but their own Shame and Confuſion, and what they moſt of all dreaded, the Innocence, and even Excellency of the Clergy. Altho' it muſt be own'd, that oppreſſive as this Uſage was, it fell much ſhort of what others endured, who were not only impriſon'd, but try'd, (if it may be ſo called) condemned, and even executed i. e. diſpoſſeſſed of all themſelves and their Families had, to keep them from Starving) without ſo much as being ever heard, or ſuffered to ſpeak one Word for themſelves; of which I ſhall have occaſion to ſpeak more hereafter.

See Dr. Griff. Williams Antichriſt Reveal'd, p. 3, 4.

Sere particularly the Caſe of Mr. Walker and Mr. Sutcliffe in the Caſe.

See particularly the Caſe of Mr. Walker and Mr. Sutcliffe in the Caſe.

And to perfect theſe Oppreſſions, 'it was 'rare that ever they abſolutely diſcharged any 'Perſon who once came under their Hands, 'tho' but for the ſlighteſt Information; and 'rather choſe to let them go under Bail; by 'which Artifice they both kept theſe Perſons 'under the Terror of their Laſh; and alſo 'juſtify'd their own Proceeding, in being ſo 'merciful to take Bail for ſuch Perſons, as by 'this means were, tho' never ſo innocent, ſtill 'reputed Guilty, and obnoxious to the Ju'ſtice of Parliament.'

Naſk Collect. Vol. II. p. 834.

Nor is this Diſmiſſion ſo to be underſtood, as if no uſe at all was made of that Bail, which they were compell'd to give: Or, as if thoſe who thus obtain'd their Liberty, were never call'd in queſtion any more: For I find very few, if any Inſtances, of any ſingle Clergyman, who was once taken in hand by the Parliament (whether of thoſe before mention'd, or any others) that afterwards eſcap'd Sequeſtration. The greater Part of them were indeed turn'd out of their Preferments, before they were out of their ſeveral Confinements, into which they had been thrown. And of Thoſe who were reſpited for ſome time, either the Houſe it ſelf, or ſome of their Committees in the Country, did at length fall upon them, and Diſpoſſeſs them of their Livelihoods. Of which, there needs no other Evidence than this; that there are ſcarce any of theſe, whom I have here mention'd as impriſon'd, but what I find, were ſome way or other Sequeſter'd alſo. And as for thoſe few, who do not as yet appear to me to have ſuffer'd in this kind likewiſe, the Defect of my Informations from many Places, will eaſily account for that matter.

But generally ſpeaking, the Houſe diſpatch'd, not only thoſe whom they had taken into cuſtody, but great Numbers of others likewiſe; and that ſometimes by their own immediate Acts (without the Intervention of the Committees, at leaſt, of their ſtanding, and more ordinary ones) tho' moſtly, if I miſtake not, on the Reports of the Committees for Religion, and for Plundered and Scandalous Miniſters; which when the Houſe receiv'd, they uſually, if not always, in the Beginning order'd the Caſe to be drawn up together with (or elſe, in Form of) an Ordinance for Sequeſtring the Profits of them into the Hands of ſuch Perſons as they thought fit to truſt, and appointing another Godly and Orthodox Miniſter of their own Naming, to ſucceed in the Cure; to whom

For tho' the Sequeſtrations appear on the Journals, it ſeldom appears (unleſs I much miſtake) whether it was an Act, or a Report from a Committee, &c.

Digitized by Google

whom the Iſſues of the Living were ſometimes allow'd; at other times part of them only were allotted him; and the Remainder of what the Perſons, to whom the Sequeſtration was committed, did not put in their own Pockets, was employ'd towards carrying on the War: And this Ordinance they afterwards tranſmitted to the Lords for their Concurrence. The firſt Caſe ſo tranſmitted, was, as far as I have yet obſerv'd, That of Mr. Edward Finch of Chriſt Church, on May 8, 1641. The next was That of Mr * Aſton of Painſwick in Glouceſterſhire, the Twelfth of the ſame month. After which, Dr. Heywood, Mr. Squire, Mr. Stone, Dr. Soames, Dr. Colderley, Dr. Meredith, Dr. Parke, together with great Numbers of others, ſuffer'd in the ſame manner. And this Practice they continu'd until the latter End of 1642: But from thenceforward, if I miſtake not or at leaſt, ſoon after (as Mr. Stephens obſerves) they reſtrained the Concurrence of the Lords no further, proceeding to Diſpoſſeſs the Clergy, by the Single Authority of their own Houſe.

See his Majeſty's Declaration of Aug.12,1642.

See him among the Lond. Clergy. See Stall. Collect. Vol. II. p. 233.

* See him in that County, and for alſo Stall. Collect. Vol. II. p 238.

Nor muſt it be forgotten (tho' it cannot be remember'd without much Horror, as the Ld. Clarendon expreſſes himſelf on a like Occaſion) that thoſe Barbarities had the Approbation of, and were in good meaſure encouraged and promoted by the Clergy, who had gone over to the Faction. For not only Mr. Bond, in his Sermon to the Commons in 1644, mentions with Satisfaction, the many Dumb Devils, that were then caſting out of many Pariſhes in the Land; but ſeveral of the Principal of thoſe Miniſters, in a Petition preſented to the Houſe, December 20, 1641, (in purſuit of their Remonſtrance) give the like Approbation to the Proceedings of the Houſe, againſt ſuch as they are pleaſed to term Unworthy, and Scandalous Miniſters. And the whole Aſſembly in a Body, in their Petition to the Houſe, July 19, (which was the firſt Buſineſs of any Conſideration they ſet about) recommended to them, among other Things, 'A thorough and ſpeedy Proceeding 'againſt Blind Guides, and Scandalous Miniſters;' for tho' perhaps not much leſs than a Thouſand of the Lo al Clergy, had by that Time been ſent to Starve, with their numerous Families, yet this was not, it ſeems, enough to ſatisfy the Zeal and Rage of theſe mercileſs Men.

Vol. II. p. 17, much ſo.

Diffent. Sayings, Part 1. p. 23.

See Compl. Hiſt of Engl. Vol. III. p. 134.

After which it cannot be wonder'd at, if the Rabble alſo had their ſhare, in the firſt Miſeries of the Loyal Clergy, and contributed not a little to their Ruine: For as the Houſes had by Receiving and Proſecuting the Petition againſt Epiſcopacy, by Ordering the Rails to be Removed from the Communion-Tables, by Puniſhing the moſt Eminent of the Regular Clergy, by Countenancing ſuch as were notoriouſly Diſaffected to the Church, and by many ſuch like Proceedings, ſufficiently diſcover'd their own Diſlike of the Eccleſiaſtical Eſtabliſhment, and thereby abundantly Animated its Enemies openly to appear againſt it; ſo on the other Hand, did the Rabble under this Encouragement treat both the Service of the Church, and thoſe who Miniſtred in it; and that too both openly in the Streets, and even in the very time of their Officiating, with all Poſſible Contempt and Inſolence. By which means theſe Reformers without Doors, not only became themſelves in good part the more immediate Authors, as well as Executioners of the Clergy's Miſery, but by a reciprocal Influence, Encouraged likewiſe the Faction in the Houſes, to purſue, and with their worſt Deſigns proceed againſt the Church herſelf, as well as the Clergy.

Ibid. p. 105.

It hath been already mention'd on other Occaſions, that they tumultuouſly met at Weſtminſter, and about White-Hall, crying out, No Biſhops, No Biſhops. That they inſulted their Lordſhips in their Paſſage to the Houſe; that they were like to have ſtoned them, as they came by Water to the Houſe, to avoid the Inſolences which they had before met with in the Streets; that the Arch-biſhop of York had his Robes torn from his Back, and was like to have been Murthered; and that they Interrupted the Uſe of the Liturgy at St. Margaret's Weſtminſter, even in the Face of the Houſe of Commons, who were at that time Aſſembled there for Divine Worſhip. Nor was this the only Inſtance of their Inſults of that kind; for the Faction was ſoon arri ved to that h ight of Riot, that 'An Orthodox 'Divine could ſcarce Officiate' any where 'Accor-'ding to Law, without being Affronted by ſome 'petulant Sect a y;' inſomuch that the Houſes themſelves were forc'd to Iſſue out Orders to prohibit them; but thoſe Orders were ſo coldly executed, that they ſerved only to Increaſe the Tumults.

See Clarend. Hiſt. Vol. I. p. 364, 368, 371. Heyl. Hiſt. Laud, p. 419. Hiſt. & Preſb. Eutr. p. 412. Pell. Ch. Hiſt. Cent. 17. L. II. p. 182, 186.

See Nalſ. Coll. Vol. I. p. 600.

Beſides which, I muſt now further Obſerve, that the Summer before the meeting of this Parliament, a Paper was paſted up at the Exchange, Saturday May 9, Adviſing and Animating the Apprentices to back the Arch biſhops Palace at Lambeth, which was accordingly attempted, about Midnight the Monday following, by 'A Rabble of mean unknown diſſolute Perſons, to 'the Number of † ſome Thouſands,' with 'open pro-'feſſion and Proteſtation, that they would tear the 'Arch-biſhop in Pieces': But having given ſufficient Notice themſelves of their Deſign, he was provided for them, and prevented them from forcing the Houſe, or doing any viſible Harm to it. However, the next day he was forc'd to take farther care for his Security, by Planting ſome Cannon to defend the great Gate, and ſtrengthening the leſſer Doors, which gave admittance to the Houſe, by any other ways. Notwithſtanding which, by the King's Command, he Lodged ſome Days and Nights after at Whitehall, 'which Place likewiſe 'was not Un-threatned, in their ſeditious Diſ-'courſes and Meetings:' And tho' one of the Ring-Leaders in this Riot was juſtly Executed, and thereby a ſtop put for the preſent to the Tumult, yet Mr. Strode, a leading Member of the Houſe of Commons, afterwards diſcourſed of it, even in the Houſe, 'with much Pleaſure and Content;' And in the firſt Draught of a Remonſtrance, prepar'd for the Houſe, and brought in by Mr. Pym, it was again mention'd with a touch of Approbation; tho' afterwards they thought fit to alter it ſomewhat, but not to Condemn, or ſhew their Diſlike of it.

† 500 ſaith Dr. Heylin.

Heyl. Hiſt. Laud, p. 418. Clar. Hiſt. Vol. I. p. 371. Comp. Hiſt. of Engl. Vol. III. p. 105.

The October following, when the High Commiſſion Sate at St. Paul's, Two Thouſand of the Sectaries, ſuppoſing the Arch-biſhop to be preſent, made a Tumult at the End of the Court, tore down the Benches of the Conſiſtory, and cried out, they would have No Biſhop, nor No High Commiſſion.

Compl. Hiſt. of Engl. ubi ſup.

The ſame Day that the Tumult, which occaſioned the Biſhops Proteſtation, was made at Weſtminſter, the Rabble alſo violently Aſſaulted the Abbey Church there, (on ſuppoſal, ſaith Fuller, that ſome of their Company, who had rudely ruſhed into it, and were reproved, and turned out by the Virger, and by Orders of the Dean, and the Doors ſhut after them, had been detain'd Priſoners there) and would have pulled down the Organs, and ſome Ornaments of the Church; and for this End, had forced out a Pane of the North Door, and got Entrance; but meeting with a ſtout Reſiſtance from the Scholars, Quire-men, Officers, and other Servants, they were Char. Hiſt. Vol. I. p. 265. Heyl. Hiſt. Laud, p. 419. Ch. Hiſt. Cent. 17. L. II. p. 183.

Digitized by Google

were driven out; and one Wiseman, a Knight of Kent, who had undertaken the Conduct of the Mobb for that Day's Service, was kill'd with a Tile from the Battlements. However, 'They threatned they would come with greater Numbers, and pull down the Church.'

And as for the Outrages committed in the Parish-Churches, and the Affronts and Abuses offered to the Inferior Clergy, as well in the Performance of Divine-Service, as in the Streets, a Writer of these Times gives us an Account. 'Having thus sent into the Country for ugly Shapes and Skins of Beasts, to dress the Clergy in for the Peoples Sight, no Marvel if (as the Heathens served the Christians) they now set Dogs to Bait them, Countenancing all those who oppos'd the Establish'd Worship of God, and suspending the due Administration of the same, by an impious Order of the House of Commons, &c. —— And in MANY Churches have some Members, of their private Authority, forbid the Priests to read Divine Service; others in contempt thereof, put on their Hats during the Reading of the Prayers, which gave such Encouragement to the Rabble-Rout of that Faction in the City, that in DIVERS Churches UNHEARD OF VIOLENCES were Offer'd to Ministers, Officiating in full Congregations, by a few Sectaries; yet scarce durst any Man, either rescue the Minister, or defend their own Religion; and it's too well known, how a few (call'd Zealous) Young Fellows, with their Wenches, rushing into any Church in London, could have set up Psalm, and thereby Sing a whole Parish out of their Religion: A Trick they had learned from the Dutch Rebels, and Anabaptists. —— A fourth way to make the Clergy Odious to the People, was their aberting all Outrages and Affronts, done to the Persons and Functions of the Clergy; insomuch that —— The Faction, took such Encouragement, (having found their Strength in the House of Commons) in their Contempt of a Priest, that a Divine in his Habit could not walk in the Streets of London, without being reproach'd in every Corner, by way of Baal's Priest, Popish Priest, Cæsar's Friend, and the like Scoffings. —— A fair Introduction to the reproachful Usage of the Clergy at Committees, in the Face of their own Parishioners. —— Committees were made at several Stages, for continual Clergy-baitings. My Ears still tingle at the loud Clamours and Shoutings there made, (especially at the Committee which sate at the Court of Wards) in derision of Grave and Reverend Divines, by that Rabble of Sectaries which Dayly flock thither to see this New Pastime, where the Committee-Members out of their vast Privilege to abuse any Man, by Vile and Opprobrious Language, exposed them to the Scorn and Contempt of the Mobb. That by these, and some other Methods of Oppression, 'The Souls of many Honest and Faithful Ministers of Christ were so fill'd with the Scorn of the Proud, who thus had them in derision, that they died for very Grief; as Dr. Halsey, and Dr. Clerk, and divers others.' —— And some Pages after, 'I have known some Sectaries in London, command their Servants to go to the Sacrament, and to sit in the lower Places of the Church, to try whether the Minister, would bring the Sacrament to them in the Seats, that so they might have an Action at Law against the Minister, or else complain against him to the Parliament.'

Perfec. Und. p. 19,20,21.

Vin. p. 14.

These were the first Outcries made upon the Clergy; which by what has been now said, appear to have begun in the House of Commons, and more particularly, the very first of all (as is Evident from the Case of Dr. Cosin,) in the Method of an Impeachment: And it is known to every one that they Ended at last, in the utter Ruine of the Church. For which Reasons, I cannot forbear to observe, that the late Proceedings of a like Nature against a Regular Clergyman (of known Zeal and Affection to the Establishment,) could yield but a Melancholy Prospect to such, as knew and considered, these Circumstances of History. Sedition and Faction, were indeed the Ridiculous Pretences now, as Popery and Superstition had been Formerly; but the Doctrine of the Church was the Real Ground of the Quarrel (as the Government, Discipline and Ceremonies, of it were in 1641) of which every Body was convinced, before one of those Entrusted with the Management, did in Effect declare as much upon the Tryal. For which, however, I presume, he had no Thanks from his Party: And if it be true, that an Oath, either to Damn or Starve the Clergy, was more than talkt of (in Case the Impeachment had gone down as glibly with the People, as it was expected) we should thereby have found the Parallel compleated, and the Covenant as exactly Copyed after, as the inventive Hand of those who are wise to do Wickedness, could have drawn the Resemblance. Whether the late Changes in her Majesty's Administration were in any measure owing to that Attempt of the Party, or not, is more than I shall presume to Determine; but it is sure, that if there were no other Reasons for them, these were abundant. Sufficient, to weigh with a tender and truly Nursing Mother of the Church; and more especially with a Descendant of that Blessed Prince, who after the Impeachment of his Principal Clergy, became First a Prisoner, and at length a Martyr.

Having thus mentioned the more immediate Proceedings of the House itself, with the Clergy; I now Proceed, as I propos'd to account for those Committees, which they appointed for the same wicked Purposes of Ruining and Destroying them. And several of these Committees, being of less Note and Consideration, then others of them were, I shall therefore in a Word or Two, dispatch them first, tho' something has been already Noted relating to Each of them.

November 9, 1640. A Petition of Dr. Alexander Leighton, (the Scots-man formerly mention'd with Prynn, Burton, &c.) was Read in the House, and the same Day a Committee was appointed to take his Case into Consideration. This Committee consisted of Seventeen Persons, of which Mr. Hampden was the First, and Cromwell, and Pennington, Two Others; but it was, as I find, afterwards Augmented from time to time.

Naff. Collect. Vol. I. p. 322

December 12, following, (on Occasion of a Petition from the Inhabitants of Beckington, in Somersetshire; against Mr. Alexander Hulse, their Minister, if I mistake not) a Committee was appointed to receive such Petitions, as should concern Dr. William Piers, then Bishop of Bath and Wells.

Ibid. p. 666.

The 22d of the same Month, a like Committee was appointed to receive Petitions against the Bishop of Ely, &c, in Pursuit of a Petition from the Inhabitants of Ipswich.

Ibid. p. 700.

The same Day a Sub-Committee to the Committee of Religion, was made a Committee of the House, to Examine the matters of Complaint concerning Religion in the Diocess of Lincoln.

And to each of these Committees (as likewise to the Committee of Informations, and that for Examinations,) I find by the Journals, several Matters relating to the Clergy, were from time to time refer'd, particularly to that for the Bishop of Bath and Wells, were referred, the Petitions titions of their several Parishioners respectively against Mr. Alexander Husse, Dr. Ankehill and Mr. Earle, before mention'd: But as these Committees were not in themselves of equal moment and concern in the Sequestration of the Clergy, with others which the House appointed; so neither are the Entries in the Journals perfect enough to enable me to give any satisfactory Account of their Continuance, Proceedings and other Particulars relating to them.

And therefore I proceed to Those Committees; of which there are more Notices remaining, as having render'd themselves more observable by the Great Numbers of the Clergy which they ruin'd, and the uncommon methods of Oppression wherein they did it: Among which, the Grand Committee for Religion claims the first Place; not only in regard of the Numbers which were Sequestred by it; but because it was appointed within Three Days of the meeting of the Parliament; namely, Nov. 6, 1640. This Committee consisted of the whole House, and 'had been af-'sum'd ever since the latter Times of K. James;' 'tho' seldom or never any such thing had before been 'heard of in Parliament.' In the Chair of it was placed Mr. White the Centurist (of whom I have spoken in another Place) who had also the Chairs of several other Committees that Harrassed the Clergy.

Grand Committee of Religion.

Clar. Vol. I. p. 161.

Hist. p. 357. Nalf. Collect. passim.

To this Committee, for the most part, were referr'd the great Numbers of Petitions against the Clergy, which I have formerly mention'd as presented to the House soon after their Meeting; and very many others of the same kind, during the course of their unhappy Session) of which he Lord Clarendon takes notice in these Words: —' Petitions presented by many Parishi-' oners against their Pastors, with Articles of their ' Misdemeanours and Behaviours.—— All which ' Petitions were read with great Delight, and ' presently referr'd to the Committee about Reli-' gion.

Hist. Vol. I. p. 357.

Ibid.

'The Matter of these Accusations was for the most part, as the same Noble Author informs us, their 'Bowing at the Name of Jesus, and 'obliging the Communicants to come up to the 'Altar (as they enviously call'd it) i. e. to the 'Rails which enclos'd the Communion-Table, to 'receive the Sacrament;' and some other Instances of their paying Obedience to the Rubricks and Canons of the Church. I shall have an occasion of saying more of this matter hereafter; and therefore need only observe at present, that there can be no plainer Evidence of this Truth, than the Century it self; Nine Parts in Ten of which is made up of Accusations of this kind, together with That of Malignity against the Parliament: Tho' the Compiler of it had at the time of the Publication, his Choice of several Centuries of Sequester'd Clergy; out of which he would (as there is no question to be made) have produc'd more Instances of real Scandal and Immorality, had there been any such among them. And on how slender Evidence, even those few of that kind, which are produc'd, were supported, is justly observ'd by Dr Nalson in these Words: 'Some of these who were recor-' in that Shamel's Book of Centuries, who ' were accus'd of Adultery and Drunkenness, had ' those horrid Accusations supported by no o-' ther Proof, than only Kissing a Woman in the ' Presence of Company; and the drinking only one ' half Pint o' Wine.' But how slender soever the Immorality was prov'd, as that was not the only Allegation against the Clergy, but what they call'd Superstition and Popery most commonly made up the general part of the Accusation, and very frequently the whole of it: So if any of the Guilt of [illegible] Crimes (such as Bowing at the Name of Jesus, preaching against Sacrilege, or for Conformity, &c.) had been maintain'd against them (and that they could not fail to do with little Pains and Trouble) 'The Charge was supposed sufficiently 'made good; and they were treated accordingly, as if they had been the most notorious 'Criminals, and those Crimes most notoriously 'prov'd.'

Coll. Vol. II. p. 918.

By the frequent mention which I find made of Clergymen before this Committee, and the Multitude of Petitions ledg'd with, or referr'd to them, the Number of the Loyal Divines which they dispatch'd in this manner, must have been, as I conjecture, very great. But as they had a Sub-Committee under them, and that again sub-divided into several lesser Committees, (of which I shall speak particularly by and by) so, if I mistake not, most of the Business which was referr'd to this Grand Committee, by the House, was by them again further turn'd over to those Under Committees. And not having notices sufficient concerning those whom I find before this Committee, to determine exactly, how far it did more immediately be it self proceed with them, and what part of their Prosecutions was carry'd on by the Sub-Committees, I forbear to account for the Sufferings of some particular Persons, whom I find before them, until I come to speak of those inferior Committees. Only it may not be amiss to take notice in this place, of some of the more early Sufferers under this Committee: Tho' 'tis not improbable, that most, if not all of them, had in the course of their Prosecution, pass'd thro' the Hands of the subordinate Committees likewise.

At parishlary, Hol-
lor. Up-by Finch
and Mr.
Squire to

Hist. Vol. I. p. 357.

have done. See Nalf. Collect. Vol. I. p. 719. Vol. II. p. 246.

The first Determination then, which I remember to have met with from the Committee I am now speaking of, was in the Case of Mr. Peel, Vicar of Wickham in Buckinghamshire; whom Jan. 16, 164⅓, they 'Resolv'd unfit to 'continue the Ministerial Function any more.' The 23th of the same Month they resolv'd, that Mr. * Taylor was unfit to have any Ecclesiastical Promotion in the Church. Much the same Resolves (with this last) they pass'd within few Weeks after, on Mr. Gil. Withers, Mr. Ashton of Painswick in Gloucestershire, Mr. Latham of Wolverhampton, † Mr. Layfield of Alhallows ‡ Barking, Mr. Stone of St. Mary Abchurch, and Mr. Webb of Gisson in Hertfordshire. Most, if not all of whom were at length (on Reports or doubtless, to the House) actually Sequester'd, and will be afterwards mention'd in the List.

* Of Benefice Hertford (as I guess) were sea him.

† Who had been on a Report from the Commissioners (Nov. 21, 1640.) taken away Layfield for Superfition, &c. Nalf. Collect. Vol. I. p. 562. See alſo p. 651, 752.

Within the same compass of Time, I find also Mr. Squire of Shoreditch before them, who was afterwards turn'd over to one of the Sub-Committees; and Feb. 22, they resolv'd, that a Report of the same nature with that against Mr. Taylor, should be made to the House of Dr. Hasse of St. Alpage, and Mr. Seagal, his Curate, who were both at length turn'd out likewise. I do not remember to have found, when that Report was made. Instead of it, the First Report of this kind that I have yet observ'd from this Committee, or any of the Sub divisions of it, was in the Case of Mr. Francis Cheseldine. This Report was made by Mr. White (as Chairman of the Committee for scandalous Ministers a Sub Committee to that of Religion, as will be said by and by) May 5, that a Bill was agreed to by the House. Four Days after, the Case of Mr. Ayloff before mention'd, was reported from the Nov. 21, a Report was made from this Committee for other Mr. Layfield, and of another nature. See Nalf. Coll. Vol. I. p. 562

Digitized by Google

the Grand Committee it self; and the 17th of the same Month, that of Dr. Eman. Vty of Chigwell in Essex, was Reported by Mr. * Corbet. The Houſe concurr'd with the Committee in both theſe Caſes likewiſe, and all of them were, I preſume, ſoon after drawn up into the † Form of an Ordinance, and tranſmitted to the Lords for their Concurrence: For this, as I have already ſaid, was the Me hod which the Houſe at firſt obſerved; and it was in Fact practiſed in the Caſe of Mr. Finch and Mr. Aſton.

* Who held the Chair of one of the former Diviſions of this Grand-Committee, which will be mentioned hereafter.

† See the Form of one of theſe Ordinances in the Caſe of Mr. Symmons, who will be mentioned under the following Committee of Scandalous Miniſters.

I have only to add, concerning the whole of this Committee, that they were ſitting if I miſtake not, in 1649, and poſſibly were not at all Diſcharged by the Houſe, as long as themſelves continued.

But (as I have already intimated) this Grand-Committee was branched out into ſeveral Diviſions, in which Capacity they muſt likewiſe be conſider'd. And in order to it, the Reader is to be informed, that December 19, 1640, they did, by their own Authority, appoint a Sub Committee 'to take into Conſideration the Petition of 'the Inhabitants of Hugenden, and all other Petitions of that Natur; alſo to conſider how there 'may be Preaching Miniſters ſate up where there 'are none; how they may be Maintained where 'there is no Maintenance; and all other Things 'of that Nature: Alſo to enquire of the true 'Grounds and Cauſes of the great Scarcity of 'Preaching Miniſters throughout the Kingdom; 'and to conſider of ſome way of Removing of 'Scandalous Miniſters, and putting others in their 'Places.' And for theſe Purpoſes it was ordered, That 'the Knights and Burgeſſes for the reſpective Places, ſhould inform the Houſe in Six 'Weeks of the State and Condition of their 'Counties, &c. in this kind.' Whether this Committee was to make their Report to the Grand Committee it ſelf, or was ordered to lay their Reſolutions directly before the Houſe, I have not obſerved; but by what I find in Dr. Naſon, it looks as tho' both this Sub diviſion, and the ſeveral Branches of it, which will be after mentioned, did, in ſome Caſes at leaſt, make their Reports to the Houſe it ſelf, tho', if I well remember, in other Caſes it appears, that they Reported firſt to the Grand Committee, from which the Houſe aft erwards received the Reſolutions.

Committee of Inquiries for Scandalous Miniſters.

Cobbett Vol. II. p. 211, 245, 246.

This Committee conſiſted of about ſixty one Perſons, (together with all the Knights and Burgeſſes of Northumberland, Wales, Lancaſhire, Cumberland, and the Burgeſſes of Canterbury) the Names of which I ſhall here ſubjoyn, out of the Parliament Journal; and the rather, becauſe they did beyond any other Committee whatſoever, as long as they continued, harraſs and oppreſs the Regular Clergy. They are as followeth:

Tho' Dr. Naſon's Coll. Vol. I. p. 691, mentions that Fact, he by what means the reſt of the Names are to be gotten in this Lift, I know not.

See alſo Dr. Naſ. in the Preface, and the Order to a Select Committee, &c. given in ſome Names after ſo many another, and from that Lift which I have ſeized my ſelf from the Parliament-Journal; but through Haſte and Inadvertency, omitting the Chriſtian Names and Titles; Thoſe Names I have ſet down in the Liſt of Mr. Naſon, and put in from the Lift in the Order to a Select Committee, &c. which will be taken Notice of by and by.

Sir John Cole,	Mr. Peyn,
Sir Gilbert Pickering,	Mr. Hungerford,
Mr. Noble,	Mr. Rous,
Sir Oliver ‡ Lake,	Sir Peter Hayman,	‡ Or Luke.
Mr. Punce,	Mr. Robert Harley,
Mr. Brampfield,	Mr. Weeler,
Mr. Oldfield,	Mr. Rivers,
Mr. Stephens,	Sir William Brereton,
Sir Henry Wallop,	Sir Henry Seymor,
Mr. Wallop,	Mr. John Woite,
Mr. Edward Aſh,	Sir Tho. Barrington,
Mr. John Alb,	Sir Chriſtopher Wray,
Mr. Zouch Tate,	Mr. Crue,
Mr. Lowre,	Mr. Maynard,
Sir Miles Fleetwood,	Mr. Cradock,
Sir William Maſſam,	Mr. Noel,
Sir Tho. Pelham,	Mr. Petts,
Sir Arthur Goodwyn,	Mr Wingate,
Mr. Rous,	Sir Tho. Widdrington,
Mr. Hevingham,	Sir John Ry,
Mr. Millington,	Sir Nevil Poole.

To theſe the Liſt in the printed Order Upon, but Pym, Mr. Aſh der, &c. which will be hereafter mentioned, adds, Mr mitte ers. Punce and Mr. Wingate.

It cannot be doubted, but that ſeveral Gentlemen, who were abhorrent enough from the Principles and Practices of the Majority, were fot Countenance nominated to this Committee; and that they either omitted to appear, or if they did, endeavoured to moderate the Rigour of their Proceedings. But I have not ſufficient Informations to point them out to the Reader, nor do I know, whether any other Members were afterwards added to this Committee. This in the mean Time I find, that Mr. Woite the Cenſurift, was put into the † Chair of this, as he had been into that of the Grand Committee it ſelf; and that from the Powers granted them, they had ſometimes the Name of the Committee of Preaching; but more frequently that of the Committee of Scandalous Miniſters.

† Nalſ Coll. Vol. I. p. 211, 248. Unleſs being the Chairman of the Grand Committee of Religion, and ſo Reporting ſome Matters of that Committee to the Houſe, that might lead Dr. Naſon into a Miſtake. Quere.

The ſame Day that they met, a Petition of the Inhabitants of St. Clement's Danes was read, and referr'd to them. After which, I find in the Parliament-Journal, an Order of the Houſe of February 1, 1642, appointing them to begin their more regular Meetings (as I underſtand that Order) the Day Seven-night after, in the Court of Wards; and at the ſame Time that this Order paſſed, a Petition *againſt Dr. Eman-Vty of Chigwell in Eſſex, and a Petition of the Inhabitants of † Patrifoick in the ſame County, were ſeverally referr'd to them. March 20, following, they were ordered to 'prepare and draw up a ‡Bill a-'gainſt Scandalous Miniſters, and to take into 'Conſideration what had been offer'd concern-'ing Commiſſions to be ſent into the ſeveral 'Counties, to examine Scandalous Miniſters.' And April 6, 1641, it was farther referred to this Committee, 'to conſider of the State of Hoſpi-'tals and Free-Schools, and the Miſ-employ-'ment and Abuſes of the Revenues and Govern-'ment.'

Naſ. Coll. Vol. I. p. 691, 744.

* Poſſibly this was a Second Petition for a Second Order of the Houſe about it; for a Petition againſt him was referred to this Committee, Jan. 6, 1641. Naſ. Coll. Vol. I. p. 719.

‡ Viz. one againſt Dr. Thomas Dove. See Naſ. Coll. Vol. I. p. 744.

† Sir Orlando Bridgeman and Sir John Corbet were likewiſe Members of this Committee, but refuſed to act therein, as they did in the Grand Committee of Religion, &c. See Clarend. Hiſt. Vol. II. p. 96. And ſee the Bill it ſelf, Hiſt. Collect. Vol. I. p. 320, &c. ſeq.

‡ I find in ſome Caſes Appeals from Committees in the Country to this Committee.

The 1ſt of June after, the Houſe ordered that this Committee ſhould continue no longer than 'the Bill againſt Scandalous Miniſters ſhould be 'Reported.' But the 29th of the ſame Month, it was revived, on the Petition of one Mr. Cradock, and and continued to sit again: But the precise Time of their being drop'd, I do not remember to have met with.

Nalſ. Coll. Vol. I. p. 322.

The Mischiefs intended the Church by this Committee (which had their full Effect) were very many; for besides that Authority which the House had given them over the Estates and Preferments of the Clergy, they had likewise in their very Frame and Constitution (such was the Art wherewith it was contrived) an uncontrollable Power lodged with them, over the more valuable Possessions of their Credit and Reputation; since, as I have before observed, on another Occasion, the bare Convening a Clergyman before the Committee (and this was always in the Power of the meanest and most profligate Parishioner to do) was sufficient to give him the Character of a Scandalous Minister, even tho' the Committee could find nothing against him; and did at last dismiss him (tho' that I think was rarely done) without Censure; and therefore much more, when any Minister was Sequestred by them, it was no longer to be doubted, but that he was a publick Nuisance, and (as the Committee it self most commonly Resolved) altogether unfit to continue the Ministerial Function any longer. Nor were they a few, or those the Meanest of the Clergy, who suffer'd under this most wicked Method of Calumny and Scandal. I shall beg Leave in this Place, to produce some more Testimonies to this Purpose: The Lord Clarenden (speaking of the Committee of Religion, after they had made this Sub-division of the Committee for Scandalous Ministers) assures us, that the Intention of preferring and publishing Petitions and Articles against the Clergy, was, 'That the People 'might be inflam'd against them, who were 'quickly taught to call all those, against whom 'such Petitions and Articles were exhibited, —— 'the Scandalous Clergy; which Appellation was 'frequently apply'd to Men of great Gravity 'and Learning, and the most unblemished Lives.' And again, —— 'whilst all the Learned and 'Orthodox Divines of England were looked upon 'under the Notion of Scandalous Ministers; and 'if the Meanest and most Vicious Parishioner 'they had, could be brought to prefer a Petition 'against either of them to the House of Commons (how false soever) he was sure to be 'Prosecuted as such.' To the same Purpole, the Learned Dr. Bruno Ryves, speaking of the Sufferings of the excellent Mr. Symmons of Rayne in Essex, observes, That 'he was referred to the 'Committee for Scandalous Ministers, thereby to 'blast his Credit and Reputation in the Ministry. 'A most Diabolical and Devilish Counsel, and 'a Work of him who is the Accuser of the 'Brethren, to defame honest Orthodox Ministers with the odious Names of Scandalous and 'Malignants, tho' made so neither by Error in 'Doctrine, Wickedness of Life, or Debauchedness of Conversation, but by the Malignity of 'a Vote; knowing that by this means, such 'Ministers, Doctrines, and Testimonies will be 'of little or no Credit afterwards with the Vulgar; which is in Truth no other than what Mr. Symmons himself observed on his own Case, as has been already noted in another Place; namely, That 'he was at last referred to the 'Committee for Scandalous Ministers, that he 'might be afterwards reckoned in that Number, 'and Disabled thereby from doing Christ any 'more Service (for a Minister marked with that 'Badge, by them (they call the Parliament) is 'more odious, than he that is made such an one 'by Sin and Sathan;) so that when he returned 'Home, the Drunken Crew (whose vicious Lives 'he had oft reviled) against him and their Children 'too, would point at him as he went the Streets, 'and say, There goes a scandalous Minister; there 'goes he that was in Geal with his Fellow Rogues 'the other day.

Hist. Vol. I. p. 157, 158.

P. 263.

Merc. Rust. p. 16.

Letter to the Clergy of his Acquaintance, &c. prefixed to his Loyal Subject's Belief.

The same Observation Mr. Dugdale makes on this Proceeding of the House. 'Shortly after the 'Beginning of that Parliament (they) founded a 'Committee to enquire after Scandalous Ministers; 'under which Title few of the Reverend and 'Orthodox Clergy did escape.' I shall only further add the Testimony of Dr. Nalson in this matter; who speaking of this Committee for Scandalous Ministers, subjoyns, 'Thus did 'they endeavour to bring the Orthodox, Episcopal and Loyal Clergy into both Contempt and Hatred; and to make them appear Scandalous, 'receiv'd and encourag'd all sorts of Informations 'against them.' And again mentioning the multitude of Petitions lying before this Committee, he saith, That in Them the Clergy 'were charged with the most horrid crimes of Adultery, 'Prophaneness, Swearing, Drunkenness, and indeed what not?' And that 'every Accusation 'was not only received, but credited; insomuch 'that few or none of the Loyal Clergy escap'd the Lash. Honesty and Learning being thus, as Mr. Selden said, Sins enough in a Clergyman.'

Short View, p. 569.

Collect. Vol. I. p. 799.

Vol. II. p. 331.

But to return to the Beginnings of this Committee. Immediately upon the Erecting of it, the Faction (not fated with the Numbers that had been before accused; and finding, saith Dr. Heylin, their Work begun to fail them) took care to give publick notice to the whole Kingdom, that a Tribunal was erected; where every Informer would assuredly be welcome, and every Clergyman be as certainly condemn'd. To this end, they publish'd and dispers'd a Paper, entituled, An Order made to a select Committee, &c. wherein they set forth the Institution of the Committee, the Names of those who compos'd it, and the several Powers and Instructions given to them; adding withal, that 'it was 'earnestly desir'd and expected by the Parliament, 'that all ingenuous Persons in every County of 'the Kingdom, will be very active to improve 'the present Opportunity, by giving a true 'Information of all the Parishes in their several Counties.' And left their saying this but once, should not be enough to make People take notice of it, and to encourage them in a speedy and vigorous Dispatch of this wicked Undertaking, they repeat it again in the last Paragraph. That 'a Committee is chosen purposely to receive Petitions and Informations of this nature, 'and to take special care about so weighty a 'Business;' and that 'the Committee desires Informations from all Parties, if it be possible, 'within this Month.'

Hist. Rebell. p. 49. Second Impression. (Edit. 1646).

When the E. of Manchester was appointed to Establish the clergy in the Associated Counties of the Eng. &c. on his Instructions to the Committees, he directed 'em to appoint a Set of Informers to go round the Country to get Intelligence of which I shall say more hereafter.

One of the Printed Copies of this Paper now lies before me; and it appears to have been published in 1640; which if the Year be reckoned to end at Christmas, must be within Six Days of the Institution of the Committee. So very diligent were they to promote the Trade of Parson-hunting, as this great and horrible Wickedness was commonly call'd. And indeed, the Practice of it, tho' a very short one, hath upon it several Marks or Ignorances; many of the Names of the Committees being so horribly mangled in the Spelling, that some of them are not to be known again (and many of them very hardly) for the same Men. Besides, that several Places of it are confus'd, and will but badly hold to common Sence.

Scott. Coll. Vol. III. part. 2.

The Author of Persecutors Unvailed (and Dr. Nalson, as I conceive, from him) affirms, that this Paper was publish'd and dispers'd by the Puritan Faction in the House of Commons; and calls it a forged Order in the Name of the House of Commons. But the Title-Page doth not pretend

* P. 18. Coll. Vol. II. p. 331.

Digitized by Google

tend any Authority from the House; and the whole Frame of it evidently discovers, that it was no other than an Officious Undertaking of some particular Persons, to render the Notice of this Committee more publick, than the bare Appointment it self might possibly do; and to give the common People such Intimations of the Intentions of the House against the Clergy, as the Grand Committee it self, in their Institution of this Sub-Committee could not openly do.

However, it did at the first Appearance, bare so much of the Face of an Order of the House (at least, with a common and ordinary Reader) and the bare Publication of an Order of Parliament, without their Leave or Authority, was such a Presumption, that it was complain'd of, and upon that Complaint 'disclaimed by the 'House,' but never 'countermanded;' nor was any 'Penalty inflicted upon the Printer, Publish-'ers or Spreaders' of it; nor 'were they so much 'as once question'd for it.'

Nalf. and Perfec. Und. third.

But however base and scandalous this method of obtaining Informations, by 'animating the 'Parishioners against their Minister, and seducing 'Servants to accuse and betray their Masters,' might be, it did (in conjunction with some other Arts of the Faction) effectually answer the wicked Purposes for which it was intended; and met with such a ready Compliance from the meaner Sort of People, that 'within a short 'space above 2000 Petitions were brought in a-'gainst the Clergy;' and within some months after, Mr. Corbet, who had the Chair of one of the farther Divisions of this Sub-Committee, 'boasted, that he had (before his single Committee, as I understand it) no less than '900 Petitions against scandalous Ministers'.

Hist. Vol. I. p. 153.

Perfec. Und. third.

Nalf. Collect. Vol. II. p. 246. Dugd. Short View, p. 563.

Whether these Petitions and Informations were always directed to the House, and by them turn'd over to the Committees, or were sometimes exhibited to the Committees themselves, I cannot determine; but guess, that for the most part, it was done in the former of these ways: At least, I find it so in several Instances.

Corbet's, Harlow's, &c. Committees.

This, in the mean time, is certain, that Complaints at length coming in every day against the Loyal and Orthodox Clergy, this Committee for Scandalous Ministers (or else the Grand Committee it self) was, for the Dispatch of Business, further divided, as is before intimated, into several less Committees; which from the Names of those who were put into the respective Chairs, were call'd Mr. White's Committee, Mr. Corbet's Committee, Sir Robert Harlow's Committee, and Sir Edward Deering's Committee: Which is sufficient to suggest, how great the Numbers of the Clergy must needs have been, who suffer'd under them.

Nalf. Vol. II. p. 245. See also Perfec. Und. p. 20.

Among all the Reasons which were alledg'd for Harrassing and Dispossessing so many of the Clergy, before this, and the other Committees then on foot, none was more popular than That of their being petition'd against by their several Parishes; by which they intended it should be understood, that the Minister was a Nuitance and Burthen to the Parish; and that it was their common and joynt Request that he might be remov'd. But this, of all others, was one of the most grievous circumstances of their Oppression: For if but a few Sectaries, (animated by the abundant Encouragement before spoken of) combin'd together, tho' not the Tenth, nor even the Twentieth Part of the Inhabitants, they went under the Denomination of the Parish. And sometimes, if but a single Sectary, or any other Enemy of the Minister (tho' made so either by Reproof, or Prosecution for some notorious Crime, or by the Minister's demanding his just Dues) prefer'd a Complaint against him; he was sure to be heard, and the Minister was dismiss'd as Articl'd against by the Parish; and that too, in some cases, when in truth, the whole Parish, that is, much the better, as well as the greater Part of them, appear'd in behalf of the Minister, and petition'd (as in some Instances they ventur'd to do) for the Continuance of him; tho' generally speaking, as the vilest Arts were used to promote the Complaints against the Minister; so was the same Diligence us'd, and no less wicked methods put in'd, to prevent any one from appearing in his Favour; and that too, for the most part, with Success; not only because of the Improbability of succeeding in an Attempt of that kind, but because whoever undertook it, ran a great Hazard of being both deemed and treated himself as a Malignant.

See particularly, in the Life the Case of Mr Symmons of Reyne in Essex.

And where is the Minister, who can this, or some other account both not one Enemy? For Who are to you, whom all Men speak ill of you.

I shall have occasion of saying more of these matters hereafter: And the Reader will also find them exemplify'd in several Instances, when I come to the Particulars of the Clergy's Sufferings in the List. But there are some Testimonies peculiar to this Committee, which I shall be oblig'd to produce in this Place. The Lord Clarendon, as little as he speaks of the Particulars of the Clergy's Sufferings, expressly tells us, that These Complaints were frequently exhibited 'by a few of the Rabble, and meanest of the People, against the Judgment of 'the Parish.' And again (as is already noted in another Place) that 'if the meanest, and most 'vicious Parishioner they had, could be brought 'to prefer a Petition against either of them (the 'Clergy) to the House of Commons (how falsly 'soever) he was sure to be prosecuted' as a Scandalous Minister. To the same purpose the excellent Mr. Symmons of Reyne, affirms (with peculiar regard, as I understand him, to this Committee, under which he suffer'd:) 'All Accusations against any, tho' the best Ministers, 'by the most malicious and lewdest Persons, 'were invited by Ordinance, encouraged and 'admitted without any Proof at all.' And another, who was both an Eye and and an Earwitness of these Oppressions, has left us this more ample Testimony, 'That not any Knave 'or Fool in a Parish, whom Reproof for Sins 'had made the Minister's Enemy, but * now 'thought himself commanded (yea, and bound 'in Conscience to obey) to fly in the Face of God's 'Minister, and his Spiritual Father, that within a 'short space, above 2000 Petitions were brought 'in against the Clergy, to readily had they 'pack'd their Business. Two or three of the 'Puritans avowed Instruments in a Parish presenting Petitions, constantly stil'd, The Petition of the whole Parish; tho' the major part of the 'Parish, yea (I have known it) Three Parts 'of Four in a Parish, have never seen any 'such Petition, but disclaim'd it under their 'Hands: And the basest Mechanick Hand to 'a Petition, how false soever, in it were a-'gainst a Clergyman, was receiv'd with Favour, 'and with Mr. Speaker's Thanks for their Love 'to the Parliament; and could bring upon any 'Minister of Christ more chargeable and vexatious Summons and Attendance on the Parliament or Committees, and oftentimes longer 'Imprisonment, than the Report or Testimonials of all the other better Parishioners could 'free him from.'

Hist. Vol. I. p. 263

Vindic. of K. Charles, p. 71.

Author of Perfec. Und. p. 18.

* On the Publication of the Order of the House be- fore mentioned.

To the same effect, Dr. Nalson, on occasion of a Report from this Committee, affirms, that their 'Accusers were mostly the several Sectaries in their Parishes; or such others as went Collect. Vol. II. p. 246.

Digitized by Google

'about to defraud them of their juſt Dues', and were 'their inveterate Enemies.' To which muſt be added this farther Circumſtance of the Oppreſſions of this Committee, that even the Members of it themſelves, the very Judges of the Clergy (as Dr. Nalſon obſerves in the ſame place) 'were frequently both Parties, in 'promoting and managing thoſe Accuſations, 'and by their often favouring their (the Cler-'gy's) Accuſers, ſhew'd the Partiality of Ene-'mies.'

I need not prevent my ſelf, by ſaying, that ſeveral Particulars of this Truth will by and by appear in the Caſes of Mr. Symmons, Mr. Finch and Mr. Squire; but I muſt not omit to take notice in this place, that the Ignorance, as well as the Malice and Conditions of thoſe who accus'd the Clergy before theſe Committees, ought not to paſs unobſerv'd. To which purpoſe Dr. * Nalſon informs us, that the known Enemies of the Clergy, contrary to natural Juſtice, were admitted to be their Accuſers; that Miſtake as well as Malice, lay often at the Bottom of all their Informations; infomuch that 'it was no uncommon thing, for 'thoſe ignorant Informers to accuſe their Miniſters for preaching Popiſh Doctrines in their 'Pulpits, when they only in their way took 'occaſion to mention them in order to their 'Confutation.'

* Speaking ſtill of this Committee. Collect. Vol. I. p. 798.

I have already, in accounting for the Grand-Committee it ſelf, hinted out of the Lord Clarendon, that the Subject of theſe numerous Accuſations and Articles brought againſt the Clergy, was either ſtrainedly trifling, or elſe plain Matter of Duty and Obedience to the Orders of the Church. When I come to ſpeak of the Committee of Religion, of this Sub diviſion of it, and of the Committee of Plunder'd Miniſters together (as I ſhall be obliged to do, for want of Notices concerning them, more particular and diſtinct, than any I have hitherto met with) I ſhall ſa much more on this Subject: As I ſhall likewiſe, in accounting for the other order of the Committees and Commiſſions let on foot for Sequeſtring the Loyal Clergy; the ſame Methods, in this reſpect, being practiſed before all of them. But Dr. Nalſon having left us one Teſtimony of this Kind, peculiar to this Committee, I ſhall be obliged to produce that in this Place: 'All thoſe, (ſaith that Author, 'ſpeaking of a Report from this Committee) who 'were obedient to their Governours in the Church, 'or thought God Almighty ought to have Bodily 'Worſhip and Adoration in thoſe Places, where 'he has put his Name, and made them Houſes 'of Prayer; All thoſe who thought Kneeling at the Receiving the Holy Sacrament 'neceſſary, or any other decent Poſtures, Geſtures, 'or Veſtments that might outwardly ſignify inward Veneration and Homage, Lawful and Expedient, were upon the ſlighteſt Accuſations 'voted Guilty of Innovation, Prophaneſs, and 'unworthy of any Promotion in the Church.

Collect. Vol. II. p. 234, 235.

However, the Oppreſſion of their Accuſations, tho' on many Accounts very grievous, was notwithſtanding in this Regard tolerable, that little better could be expected from the Diſſolute and Enthuſiaſtick Rabble of their ſeveral Pariſhes. But the Treatment they met with from ſome of the Members of the Committees I am now ſpeaking of (who ought to have known better) was altogether intolerable; for it muſt be farther known, that to compleat the Miſeries of the Clergy, their inhumane Judges ſometimes inſulted them with ſo much Scorn and Contempt, and with ſuch open Revilings and Reproaches as could not chooſe but be very irkſome to Perſons of an ingenuous and liberal Education. Theſe 'Commit-'tees, (ſaith the Author of Perſec. Undec. who was 'himſelf preſent at ſome of them) were made as 'ſeveral Stages for continual Clergy-Baitings. 'Mine Ears ſtill tingle at the loud Clamours and 'Shoutings there made (eſpecially at the Commit-'tee which ſate at the Court of Wards) in Deriſion 'of Grave and Reverend Divines, by that Rab-'ble of Sectaries, which daily flock'd thither to 'ſee this new Paſtime; where the Committee-'Members out of their vaſt Privilege to abuſe any 'Man (tho' their Betters, ſome Members of the 'Convocation, whoſe Privileges are, and by Law 'ought to be as large, as thoſe of the Houſe of 'Commons) without controul have been pleaſed 'to call the Miniſters of Chriſt brought before 'them (by Goalers and Purſevants, and placed 'like Heinous Malefactors without their Bar, 'Bare-headed forſooth) Saucy Jacks, Baſe Fellows, 'Braſen-Faced Fellows; and in great Scorn has 'the Cap of a known Orthodox Doctor, been called to be pull'd off, to ſee if he were not a 'Shaven Popiſh Prieſt: And upon a Pariſon's Evidence for one of his Pariſhioners, that he was 'no Papiſt, (whoſe Evidence in ſuch Cafes is and 'ought to be Authentical,) it was reply'd by a 'Committee, have you no Witneſs but a Baſe 'Prieſt? And to ſome Eminent Doctors of Divi-'nity of the City of London, viz. Dr. Baker, Dr. 'Brough, Dr. Walton, giving Teſtimony in a 'Cauſe then before them, it was ſaid by a Citi-'zen, Member of that Committee, (Iſaack Pen-'ningtons) what ſhall we believe theſe Doctors 'for? And Sir Robert Harlow, going to his Com-'mittee Chair, (the Chair of the Scorner) bragg'd to his Friend, how he would Bait the Dean of 'Chriſt-Church. And after ſuch like Uſage with chargeable and long Attendance, de die in diem on theſe Committees, as many Clergymen as were brought to the Stake to be Voted (right or wrong) were ſure to be Outed of their Livings, elſe their Good and Godly People were not Pleaſed. That the Souls of many Honeſt and Faith-'ful Miniſters of Chriſt, were ſo filled with the 'Scorn of the Proud, who thus had them in Deriſion, that they Died for very Grief; as did Dr. Halſey, Dr. Clerk, and divers others.

P. 50, 51.

Dr. Halſey.

As to the Numbers diſpatch'd by this Committee, and the ſeveral Branches of it, I can only ſay in General, that if a Judgment may be made from the multitude of thoſe Clergymen, who were Summon'd before them, and the Severity Uſed towards them, they muſt have been very many. The Lord Clarendon, in the Place before cited ſaith, that 'All the Learned and Orthodox 'Divines of England,' were deem'd Scandalous. And that wholoever had but one Pariſhioner (tho' the very meaneſt in his Pariſh) that would Accuſe him to the Houſe of Commons, was ſure to be Proſecuted: And how ſure they were to be Sequeſtred on ſuch a Proſecution, may be Learned from what is juſt now cited out of the Perſec. Undec. Mr. Dugdale likewiſe affirms, that few eſcaped this Imputation. And Dr. * Nalſon, that few eſcaped the Loſs of theſe Committees. And the Author of * Perſec. Undec. ſpeaking again of this matter ſaith, 'nor were there any Honeſt Or-'thodox Clergy —— who Groan'd not under the Inſolency of this Proud Domineering Faction?' Nor will there be any Difficulty in Believing this, when it is conſider'd, that no leſs than Two Thouſand Perſons, (as has been already ſaid) were brought in. Soon after publick Notice was given of the Appointment of this Committee in the manner is fore ſpoken of; and that there were no leſs than Nine Hundred before one of its Sub-diviſions.

Hiſt. Vol. I. p. 263.

Short View. p. 161.

* Collect. II. p. 235.

* P. 18

Mad

Had the Proceedings of this and the other Sequestrating Committees, been * preserved, it would have been eafie as to have given a more Diſtinct and particular account of them; to likewiſe to have Specified the Numbers which Suffered under each of them Reſpectively, and to have produced the Names of ſome of the more Conſiderable and Eminent among the Clergy, who were Ruin'd by them. The Reader will however without that Aſſiſtance find many of them diſcover'd, and their Names diſperſed up and down the Liſt. But I ſhall content my ſelf with mentioning only in this Place ſome few of the Firſt and moſt Early Sufferers, that I find before them. January 8, 1643. the Petitions againſt Dr. Eman. Uty, of Chigwell in Eſſex; and Mr. William Ward, of St. Leonard's Foſter-Lane, were referr'd to them; and each of them in the ſame time being order'd into Cuſtody of the Serjeant at Armes, the former was actually Apprehended, but admitted to Bail about Ten Days after: And May 17. following, the Reſolutions on his Caſe were Reported by Mr. Corbet, and agreed to by the Houſe, (as is before remembred) when he was Voted to be Scandalous and Vicious in his Life, Superſtitious, a Blaſphemer, an Enemy to the King's Prerogative, &c. and therefore unworthy to Enjoy any Eccleſiaſtical Promotion, &c. Tho' it muſt be Obſerved by the Way, that Mr. White the Centuriſt, (and Chair-man of this, as well as other Committees,) in accounting for the Reaſon of Dr. Uty's Sequeſtration, mentions no one ſingle Inſtance or Suggeſtion of any Immorality (notwithſtanding the Committee had reſolv'd him Superſtitious and Scandalous) which, it is well known, he would never have omitted, had any Charge of that kind been prov'd before the Committee in ſuch a manner, as to have carry'd the leaſt Shew of Truth with it.

Jan. 30, the Petition of the Inhabitants of Patſwick in Eſſex, was receiv'd againſt Mr. Tho. † Dove, which was order'd to be read the Monday following; and then, as is before ſaid, was referr'd to this Committee.

About Dec. 21, 1641, Alderman Pennington informed the Houſe againſt Mr. Quelch, Miniſter of St. Bennet Grace-church; and about Two Days after, a Petition of the Inhabitants of that Pariſh was read againſt him: Whereupon he was order'd to be ſent for as a Delinquent, by the Serjeant at Armes; and the Petition was referr'd to this Committee. I alſo find him actually in cuſtody, and admitted to Bail, about the 16th of January following.

The ſame Day that Mr. Quelch was firſt informed againſt, the Houſe order'd this Committee to take into conſideration on Thurſday following, the Informations (which had, it ſeems, been made) againſt Dr. Beal; and by that means his Caſe alſo came before them.

May 17, 1643, the Houſe committed ſome Jeſuits Aſſiſtants to them; and poſſibly the Dean of Jerſey, whom I have formerly mention'd, as ſent for into cuſtody, was at that time (or afterwards) committed over to them; and ſo at length were Dr. Fell, Dean of Chriſt Church, Dr. Haſſey of St. Alpnage, and many others.

Among whom, there were Three, who have left behind them ſome Accounts of the Treatment they met with; the Particulars of which I ſhall here ſubjoin, in order to give the Reader the better Apprehenſions of the various and manifold Oppreſſions which the Clergy convened before them, underwent. And that the rather, becauſe theſe Inſtances will in good meaſure confirm the Truth of thoſe Teſtimonies I have produc'd, and will create a quicker Senſe of theſe Miſeries than any general Affirmations can poſſibly do.

The Firſt of theſe is the very Excellent Mr. Symmons of Rayne in Eſſex, who 'was voted 'a Delinquent, upon the bare Information of 'one malicious Varlet, (Samuel Burrows of ſome time of Colcheſter, Brother to Maſter Burrows the Miniſter) —— Notorious for Falſe Swearing, Publick Drunkenneſs and Blaſphemy; for which —— at the Publick Seſſions he 'was bound to his good Behaviour.' And being upon that Vote, taken into cuſtody of a Meſſenger, was turned over to this Committee: After which, obtaining the Favour of putting in Bail, he was forc'd to make many tedious Journeys to London in the Winter, to attend the Committee; and once ſent for again by a Purſevant, as tho' he had not been Bail'd at all. The Proſecution againſt him was carried on by a Joynt Purſe, extorted by Threats and other Arts of this Burrows: And after many Moleſtations, Charges and weary Journeys, a Sequeſtration was at laſt iſſu'd, and put into the Hands of his known Enemies; of which his debauch'd Adverſary had by his Admiſſion to ſome Leading Members, been ſo well aſſur'd beforehand, that he offer'd to lay Wagers on it. The Reaſons alledg'd for his Sequeſtration, were his Preaching (and Practiſing) that Doctrine, which he undertakes to Explain, and Vindicate, in his Loyal Subject's Belief. The chief Heads of which, in his own Words, are, That the King being the Supream Magiſtrate, hath immediate Dependance upon God, to whom only he is accountable: That the Title of the Lord's Anointed, is proper and peculiar to the King: That Royal Birth is Eſſentiall with Royal Unction: That Authority is a ſacred thing, and eſſential to the King's Perſon: That Reſiſtance is againſt the Way of God, deſtructive to the whole Law of God, inconſiſtent with the Spirit of the Goſpel, the perpetuall Practice of Chriſtianity, the Calling of Miniſters, common Prudence, the Rule of Humanity, Nature it ſelf, Reaſon, the Oath of Allegiance, and even the late Proteſtation. Nor were they aſſham'd to avow this (tho' under ſeveral Miſ-repreſentations, of which Mr. Symmons complains) in the † Ordinance it ſelf for his Sequeſtration; a Copy of which I ſhall therefore ſubjoin: And the rather, that the Reader may alſo ſee a Form of one of thoſe Inſtruments, which I have not hitherto had an Opportunity of producing.

'Die Veneris, 30. Mart. 1642. Whereas Edw. Symmons, Clerk, Rector of the Pariſh Church of Rayne in the County of Eſſex, hath in his Sermons, 'and otherwiſe, expreſs'd great Malignity and Oppoſition againſt the Parliament, and the Power and Proceedings thereof; affirming, that the 'Parliament would force the King to comply 'with thoſe Laws they ſhall make; and that 'they raiſe a Force againſt the King; and 'that they are not to be obey'd, tho' they com'mand according to God, if it be not 'according to the King's Command; and 'adviſed them not to lend any Money, 'Plate, or Horſes, towards the Raiſing of 'Forces for the Parliament, and preſs'd his 'Auditors to believe, whatſoever is ſet forth in 'the Declarations, Publiſhed in the King's Name; 'becauſe a Divine Sentence is in his Mouth, and 'he cannot Err, and that if David's Heart Smote 'him for cutting Saul's Garment, what would it 'have done if he had kept away his Caſtles, 'Towns, and Ships? Which the Lord's and Com'mons

* As they were not in any Inſtance even by himſelf. See the Petition of the Clergy to Sir Tho. Fairfax in 1647.

Naſh. Coll. Vol. I. p. 719. 728. Vol. II. p. 446.

Tent. p. 2.

Naſh. Collect. Vol. II. p. 744.

† See one Mr. Dove in that County, who was, as I ſuppoſe, the ſame Perſon with this Mr. Dove.

Naſh. Collect. Vol. II. p. 771. 776. 815.

Ibid. p. 773.

Ferſee. Und. p. 21.

See his Letter to the Clergy, and others of his Acquaintance, Printed on his Loyal Subject's Belief.

The' when he came thither, he was not caſt'd to anſwer Accuſations. Merc. Ruſt. p. 18.

† Annex'd to the Loyal Subject's Belief.

'mons in Parliament Assembled, taking into consideration, for the better supply of an Able and Godly Man in the said Church, and for the Promotion of fit Maintenance for those, that shall Officiate therein; do constitute and ordain, that Emanuel Stock, Peter Jeffeline, Richard Bugby, Richard Chunkley, Henry Jeffeline, Ralph Jeffeline, Edward Hiat, or any three of them, shall have Power and Authority, and are hereby required, to Sequester the Parsonage-House, and all the Tithes, Rents and Profits whatsoever, of the Parsonage of that Church, and to Appoint Collectors for the Gathering and Receiving of them, as they in their Discretion shall think fit; and shall have Power to Pay the same unto Robert Aitkins, M. A. a Godly, Learned and Orthodox Divine; who is hereby Appointed and Required to Preach every Lord's Day, and to Officiate as Parson, and to take care for the Discharge of the Cure of the said Place, in all the Duties thereof, until further Order shall be taken by both Houses of Parliament: And if any shall refuse to Pay unto the said Sequestrators or any three of them, or to the Collectors Appointed by them, any of the Rents, Dues or lawful Fees accustomed to be Paid; upon information thereof by the Sequestrators, or any three of them, unto either House of Parliament, the said Lords and Commons do Declare, they will Proceed against such Refusers, according to their several Offences, and Contempts.' Nor must it be Omitted, that this Sequestration was Issued five Months after his last Answer before the Committee (as tho' he had not Answered at all) and that too even tho' divers of the Members thereof, had concluded to have him Reported to the House, as a Man deserving their Favour.

Another of the Gentlemen who was Harrassed before this Committee, was the Excellent Mr. Symms of Shoreditch; who was Articled and Petitioned against by some of the Rabble, and meaner People of his Parish, contrary to the Sense, and even to the Trouble and Grief of far the greater and more considerable Part of his Parishioners, before a Committee, February 18, 1642. (whether the Grand Committee of Religion, itself, or any of the Sub-divisions, doth not appear;) and afterwards I find him before Mr. Corbet's Branch of that Committee I am now speaking of. The Articles against him were presented August 7, 1641; and before they were offer'd to be Proved, were Printed and Publisthed by the malice and industry of the Faction. I have not (as is before said) seen that Paper; but from After Mr. Symms Published his Answer to it, which now lieth before me. In the first of these Articles he is charged with 'Introducing 'Popish Ceremonies into his Church:' The Answer to which, in one Word, is, that he observ'd the Rubricks and Orders of the Church, and 'Used 'the Ceremonies Established by Law,' and no other. The Second is, that he said, 'the Bi-'shops were the King's best Subjects,' which in it is true, he did say; but he Added, 'As they did (or 'might) best by themselves;' of which he offer'd unexceptionable Proof. Thirdly he is charged with calling those 'Schismaticks, who would not 'Bow at the name of Jesus.' The truth of which he doth not remember; but faith, that perchance if any one call'd those Idolaters, who did Bow, he might in return, say, those were Schismaticks, who did not. He is charged in the fourth, with 'Writing himself commonly Priest, and Des-'piling the Name of Minister:' The Former of which he readily own'd, but deny'd the latter. The Fifth accuseth him of Comparing the Condition of his Majesty (when the Scots were in Arms against him) to that of the 'Man who fell 'among Thieves;' and that the Formal Confessors and the Protestant, were the Levite, and the Priest, but the Papist was the good Samaritan.' The Use of the Parable on that Occasion he Acknowledg'd; the Words as charged on him he deny'd, and affirms that he Advanced nothing at that time, but what he was Warranted in, by his Majesty's Proclamation; and even that also he spoke not 'Absolutely, but by way of Supposition;' and after the Pacification never said any thing of it. But the Reader will better guess at the great Wickedness and Dis-ingenuity of this, and the Second Article of his Accusation, (for they had both the same Foundation) by having Mr. Squire's very Words layn before him. His Maj'ty Issuing a Proclamation, Commanding his Loving Subjects to be Aiding and Assisting to him after the Scots had taken Newcastle, Mr. Squire thought it his Duty to Enforce that Proclamation on his own People, by an Exhortation from the Pulpit; and on that Occasion bespoke them in these Words; 'Suppose the Irish 'Papists, whom we hate, worse than the Jews and 'the Samaritans, should shew Compassion on the 'King; would they not Brag, they were better 'Subjects than we Protestants.' The Fifth Article is, that he Affirmed it 'a Sin of Damnation for a 'Man to hear Voluntarily any other Minister than 'his own, save in going to a Christening, or to an 'Offering, or unless Invited to a Dinner.' But he utterly deny'd the Truth of this Allegation. He is Accused in the Seventh Place, with having Affirmed, that an 'Excommunicate Person un-'reconciled, went directly to Hell.' His very Words were these; 'I use not to Pass my Judgment of 'Damnation upon any; but for my self I say, 'I would not for the Price of my Soul Die, un-'der an Excommunication passed against me, 'Cave non errante.' The Eighth and Ninth Articles (as they were Published against him by the Author of the Pamphlet) concern'd his defending Sports on the Sabbath-Day, and setting up Pictures in the Church; but neither of them coming in Question before the Committee, I omit to say any thing of them, save that in general, they were both absolutely False, and, it may be, drop'd for that very Reason. The Tenth charges him with 'ALLOWING 'the Picture of the Virgin Mary, and our Saviour, and his Twelve Apostles at his last Supper in 'Glass.' In return to which, it must be known, that there was no Picture of the Virgin Mary in his Church; of our Saviour and his Apostles, there was indeed. And surely it would be needless to repeat any thing in defence of this Suffering them to continue so; all tho' the Fact had been otherwise than in Truth it was, to the Shame and Confusion of his Enemies: For the Parishioners (which is own'd by the Article it self) would have had these taken down, and a Crucifix Erected in the Room of them; but this Mr. Squire oppos'd; because the Crucifix had been so much abused in the times of Popery. And I cannot forbear on this Occasion to observe the great Wickedness and Hypocrisie, of that Generation of Men: For there are many Instances of other Clergymen, who were Articled against, and Sequestred in these times; for this (among other things) that they set up (or at least, would not pull down) Crucifixes in their Churches: And had Mr. Squire done the same, there is no Question to be made, but that would have Furnished out one Accusation against him likewise. I shall not recite particularly the Remaining Articles, (for they were Seventeen in all) nor the Answer he gave to them; because they were never Insisted on both by the Committee; which possibly was for the same Reason, that those before mentioned

Heyl. Hist. Laud. p. 441.

Answer to the Articles against both Squire, &c. p. 1.

P. 2.

P. 3.

P. 4.

P. 5.

P. 6.

Which I have out of some Informations communicated to me by the Ingenious Mr. Aitch, from a MS. L. [illegible] Manuscript [illegible].

mentioned were Omitted; Namely, becaufe they were abfolutely Falfe, and the direct Contrary to fome of them, was the Truth. Only I fhall give the Reader the Heads of them, that he may fee, they were all of a Piece with the Reft. 'They concern'd Bowing towards the 'Altar; Adminiftring the Sacrament at the 'Rails; Fomenting Strife amongft his Neigh- 'bours;' (whereas he had been Eminent for compofing Differences, and promoting Peace among his Parifhioners) 'Affirming that it was a 'Sin to Deprave the Canons of the Church; that 'it was a Sin to Refufe the King our Eftates, 'or Lives, if he fhould Demand them; Profecu- 'ting his Parifhioners in the Eccleſiaſtical Courts, 'for inconformable Practices;' (which was true with Regard to fome of the moft Obftinate of them; but he had long Protected others, and kept them from being Profecuted, even fome of thofe very Perfons, that now Profecuted him in Parliament) 'And Laſtly, that in thofe Popiſh 'Obſervations, &c. he had been no leſs Offenſive 'than Canterbury himſelf; and did thus in Order 'to Recommend himſelf to the Favour of ma- 'ny Biſhops.'

P. 7, 8.

It hath been already ſaid, that the hafty Zeal of the Author of the Pamphlet againſt Mr. Squire, put him upon Publiſhing thofe Articles, before they were Offer'd to be prov'd to the Committee; by which means, as he mention'd, ſeveral Articles, which when the Cauſe came to a Hearing were not inſiſted on; fo he Omitted ſeveral others, which (if I do not miſtake the Extract from the Manuſcript Life before mentioned) were at that time alledged againſt him, or came at leaſt, Incidentally into the Charge. The moſt obſervable of which were, that he had 'call'd the Scots Rebels,' and Preached againſt Rebellion; that he had 'Warn'd his People not to come to the Sacrament, 'unleſs they were ſo Affected to the King as the Pa- 'piſts were;' that he had aſſerted in his Sermons, that 'Original Sin was taken away in Baptiſm;' had 'Defended Chriſt's Local Deſcent into Hell;' had 'Reflected on the Former Princes of this Na- 'tion;' (ſo tender were they of the Honour of Princes) had 'Exteol'd Prayer above Preaching,' and had 'Removed the Communion-Table, ſet it 'Altar-wiſe, and cauſed it to be Rail'd in,' and gotten a Purple Velvet Cloth for it.

Unleſs theſe alſo were laid in the Petition, but were ſo very Proteſtant that he was aſhamed to produce them.

Theſe were the Accuſations, on which the Rabble of the Pariſh, got him Summon'd before the Committee: To Obviate which, about Two Hundred and Thirty of the beſt of his Pariſhioners, Subſcribed the Following Teſtimonial in his behalf:

P. 10, 11, 12. Where ſee all their Names.

'Theſe are to Teſtifie, that Maſter Squire, 'of the Pariſh of Shoreditch, ha b about Thirty 'Years, been very Painful in Diſcharging his 'Cure, by conſtant Preaching twice every Sun- 'day; alſo in his Catechiſing of the Youths of the 'Pariſh, and in his Sermons CONTINU- 'ALLY BEATING DOWN POPE- 'RY, and in his Catechiſing, Inſtructing the 'Youths with Arguments againſt the Papiſts; as 'alſo hath in the great Sickneſs not forſaken his 'Flock; but hath procured the Charity of many 'for the Relief of the Poor in that time of Ex- 'tremity; and hath Lived Blamelefs, and done 'much Good in his Pariſh.' Great Numbers of the Pariſhioners would have Attended the Delivery of this Teſtimony; but doubting it might (as the Times then went) have been Interpreted a Riot, they Contented themſelves with Preſenting it by a few Hands only. How ver, on the Day of Hearing, many of them Flock'd to ſee the Event, and by the Conc rn, which Sate on their Countenances, plainly ſhewed the great Affecti- on, and the many good Wiſhes, they had for him.

Notwithſtanding which, the Committee (on theſe Shameful and Trifling Accuſations, Atteſted by the Bare Words only of the Witneſſes, and thoſe too, for the moſt Part, Perſons that he had Proſecuted for Non-Conformity, and ſome of them even Excommunicate) not only Proceeded to his Sequeſtration, but contriv'd it in ſuch a manner, as to Deprive him of the whole Income of the Foregoing Year; it being the Cuſtom of the Pariſh, that whoever is in Poſſeſſion of the Vicaridge on Lady-Day, hath all the Profits of the preceding Year: Nor was the Severeſt as far as I can gueſs by the Century (for they were ſo much Infatuated, as to Pick out this truly Excellent Petion for a Place in that Paper) grounded on any other of the many Articles againſt him, than thoſe Two, which ſo Shamefully Pervert the Words of his Sermon about the Papiſts being the King's beſt Subjects, and the uſe of the Parable of the Good Samaritan, to a like Purpoſe. P. 11.

The other Barbarous Uſage of this worthy Perſon, his Imprifonment in Newgate, and ſeveral other Places; his Excellent Character (abundantly confirm'd in this that neither his Accuſers, nor the Century, have Suggeſted the leaſt Immoralty againſt him) the great Authority and Reſpect which he had in the Pariſh; his Diligence in the Diſcharge of his Duty; his great Charity to the Poor, and many more Particulars of this Kind will be after mentioned, when I come to Speak of him in his proper Place, among the London-Clergy.

In the mean time, I proceed to Mr. Finch, of Chriſt-Church in London; who is the other Clergyman Sequeſtred by this Committee, that hath left Behind him ſome account of his Uſage and Treatment, and particularly, the Accuſations, on which he was Diſmiſſed, together with his Vindication and Defence. I ſhall only take Notice in this Place, of the Articles produced againſt him, and account for his other Sufferings when I come to Speak of him in the Liſt it ſelf, among the London-Clergy. Theſe Articles (together with the Pretended Proofs of them,) were, as I have ſaid already in another Place, Printed and Diſperſed according to the mode of the Times. And in return to them, Mr. Finch, Republiſhed the Articles, Sub-joining his Anſwer to each of them, as he Deliver'd it in to the Grand-Committee it ſelf, (before which alſo it ſeems in the Courſe of his Proſecution he had ſometimes appear'd, as well as Before the Sub-diviſion of it, which we are now accounting for,) and then Reply'd to thoſe Proofs of them, which that Pamphlet had advanced. The Author of his Troubles, and the principal Sollicitor, Manager, and Procurer of Witneſſes in his Proſecution, was one William Greenhill a Chandler: And the Firſt Accuſation againſt him, was, his 'Worſhipping 'of the great Idol lately Erected, viz. the Altar.' In reciting it ſaid he neglected his Anſwer to this part of the Charge; and therefore I proceed to the next, which was his 'exalting Twenty Soli- 'lings a Piece, and many times more, for Funeral 'Sermons, tho' he ſeldom Preach'd them Himſelf;' and alledging, that his Pulpit was his Shop. In reply to which, he own'd that of the Bitter Sort he uſed to Demand Twenty Shillings; but of others he only took Ten Shillings; and to the Pulpit it ſelf, as the Subſtance of the Anſwer it ſelf, which he delivered in to the Committee; but I muſt here acquaint the Reader, that it does not always, after the Year by Mr. Finch's Pen, (and the other I have not Seen) mean, if thoſe Perſons were Examined before the Committee, and what were Depoſed by the Witneſſes of the Pamphlet (as true it ſeems it was) which will immediately reconcile ſome Contradictions in this Account. And therefore the Diſcouſe, how other, Becoming, and Reſpectful upon all thoſe Blunders, muſt not lye at the Door of the Committee. See alſo Lloyd. Hiſt. Lord, p. 442, and Nalſon, Vol. II. p. 333. I have not ſeen the Pamphlet itſelf againſt Mr. Finch. Anſw. to the Art. againſt Mr. Finch's Preface. P. 2. That under each Article he has as well as he can, turns to the proceeds. Proofs of his Accuſations, contain'd in the Pamphlet Published a- poorer Sort, not only forgave his own Fees, but perfuaded the Parifh-Officers to do the like. And as to his calling the Pulpit his Shop, he utterly deny'd that particular Expreſſion; but readily own'd, that he alledg'd, his Pulpit was his Livelyhood; and therefore he ought to reap the Benefit of it, as well as they did of their Shops. There were, I find, Two Inſtances produced, in Maintenance of this (and as I apprehend, of the 10th and 11th Articles, which will be mentioned by and by). The Firſt in the Caſe of Mr. Hon, whoſe Funeral-Sermon was to have been preached by Mr. Rilden the Lecturer; but there having been an Order againſt Night-Funerals, and thoſe who had the Care of Mr. Hon's Funeral, neglecting to get themſelves ready until ſome Hours after the Time preſcribed in that Order, Mr. Rilden himſelf declared, he would not venture to Preach; and adviſed Mr. Finch not to Bury the Corps that Night, and to ſhut up the Church Doors: which was accordingly done. However, the Corps being after brought to the Church, Mr. Finch, without any Delay, ordered the Doors to be opened, and the Body was immediately Interr'd. And ſo far was he from receiving any Exceſſive Fees, (for indeed any Fees at all for the intended Funeral-Sermon) that the Money thus receiv'd and complain'd of, was the whole Fees for the Officers of the Church, &c. which for his own Share was only Three Pounds for breaking the Ground in the Chancel, and Five Shillings for the Burial-Fee.

Digitized by Google

P. 22.

P. 10, 11, 12.

The other Inſtance alledg'd in Proof of his Extortion, was in the Caſe of one Mr. Daruton; for whom it was requeſted of Mr. Finch that a Funeral-Sermon might be preached by Dr. Holdſworth. To which he readily aſſented; adding withal, that the Excellent Doctor would do a great Honour to his Pulpit; but declaring that he expected the Fee, as tho' himſelf was to have preached the Sermon; which is not only Reaſonable in it ſelf, but in Fact the Practice of all Churches, as far as ever I could learn. His Third Accuſation was, That he ſcarce 'appear'd Twice, and ſometimes not once in a Year,' in his Church; which was very true, for he was prevented by Impriſonment; but he got his Place ſupply'd by 'allow'd, ſufficient and able Preachers.' The Fourth and Fifth were, That he uſed to 'Preach and go in 'Perambulation in his Surplice;' to which the Reader will ſurely expect no Anſwer. The Sixth Article accuſeth him of 'Non-Reſidence, and 'letting to Farm his Vicarage Houſe: But his Abſence was no other than what was conſtrain'd by his Impriſonment, before mentioned; nor was the Houſe a Vicarage-Houſe. The Seventh Article, was more to the Purpoſe, and accuſ'd him of being 'a common Swearer;' the Proofs not of which he utterly deny'd, and juſtify'd his Sorrow for any thing of that Kind, which might have ſlipp'd from him through Preſſure Inadvertency. 'After that, followeth the other Hackney Accuſation of 'Tavern haunting, and Drunkenneſs,' which he likewiſe deny'd; ſave that he made no ſcruple to go to Publick Houſes, either in Caſe of Neceſſity, or in Company with a Friend or Neighbour, which he hoped was without Offence or Scandal. The laſt, and worſt part of this Article was indeed atteſted by Mr. Rilden the Lecturer, 'who 'for fear of loſing his Quarterly Contribution, 'might happily be drawn to ſay that, which he 'himſelf after ſaid, he would not, if he came upon his Oath, Swear for a World. And it was 'obſerved by many, that he gave his Teſtimony 'very faintly, and not without being jogg'd and 'egg'd forward by Greenhill' before mentioned. In the Ninth he is accuſed of Exceſſive 'Exceſſive Fees, as Ten Shillings for a Churſtening.' The

P. 9, 3.

P. 3.

P. 4.

P. 13.

latter part of which was an abſolute Falſhood; nor did he demand any Fees at all, other than what his Predeceſſors had been accuſtomed to take. The Two next continue the Charge of 'Exactions at Funerals, demanding his Fees before he would do his Duty, and taking Ten or 'Twelve Pounds for breaking the Ground, which have been anſwered already. The Four following Articles charge him with 'being Drunk, 'when he delivered the Sacrament to a Dying 'Woman; that at the ſame Time, he caused all 'preſent to quit the Room, and enjoyn'd the ſick 'Perſon to confeſs all her Secret Sins to him; 'that being thus alone with her, he demanded 'himſelf ſo uncivilly, that the Woman was forced to cry out for her Husband to come in, and 'that afterwards, for his Performance, he ſent 'for his Fee of Three Shillings and Four Pence.' To which he anſwers, that the pretended Drunkenneſs was altogether Falſe; nor was it offered to be prov'd before the Committee, but in doubtful and ambiguous Terms, and even thoſe extorted from the Woman, who terrify'd it by Threats. And after all, the utmoſt that it amounted to was no other than this, That ſhe 'conceived him 'to be diſtemper'd in Drink,' which, ſaith Mr. Finch, 'he well might; my Diſtractions and 'Griefs have been ſo many, my Miſeries and 'Afflictions ſo great, that when it's well known I 'have neither eat nor drank that Day, by my Looks, 'Diſcourſe and unwonted Alteration of Speech, I 'have been ſuppoſed to have been diſtemper'd.' As to the other Parts of that Charge, he only put the Company out of the Room, whilſt he asked the dying Perſon, whether any particular Sin troubled her Conſcience, exhorting her in that Caſe to reveal it, in order to receive his Directions, and what Comfort he might be able to give her; and immediately, upon her telling him there was no ſuch Sin, ſhe called in the Company again. And as to the unkeenly Behaviour, the Husband himſelf (and the other Women then preſent) appeared before the Committee, and not only acquitted him of any Uncivil Demeanour, but tenth'd the groſs Falſhood of any Outcry made by his Wife. And indeed this Accuſation ſufficiently deſtroys it ſelf; for ſure it will never be believ'd, that any, even the worſt of Men, ſhould offer what is here ſuggeſted to a dying Perſon. The Sixteenth and Seventeenth Articles concern his refuſing to have any Sermon in his Church on the 5th of November, 1639, unleſs he might receive Ten Shillings for it, out of the Collection to be made for the Poor; and the Year following, not permitting any Sermon to be preached at all. The Truth of this Aſſeveration ſtood thus: It had not been Cuſtomary to have a Sermon at Chriſt Church on that Day; but the Curate coming to him with an earneſt Requeſt from the Pariſh, that he might then be allowed to Preach to them, Mr. Finch gave way to it, and did indeed receive Ten Shillings for his ſo doing; but whence the Money came, he never knew to this Day of his Accuſation. Our occaſion of theſe laſt mentioned Articles, that there was not a Collateral Evidence produced on his Behalf, given on to the Celebration of that Solemnity; alledging that in a Sermon ſo to it, he commended the Fact, and thanked God it was almoſt long enough. In anſwer to which, he produces the whole Paragraph of the Sermon, which appears to have been perverted to a Senſe directly contrary to the whole Tenour of it; nor have I ever a more convincing Account of the horrid Badneſs of that Treaſon, than what at that Time of his Sermon. His being ſeparated from his Wife, and ſome other ill Circumſtances, make up the Regret ſuch Abuſes. To which, in the laſt Place, he a Writ, &c.; that I had been acquitted

P. 5.

P. 6

P. 14

P. 14, 15, 16, 17.

a Pro Rege & Lege Carolo, Epiſtolæ, Epiſt. 20. ſome [illegible]

P. 2.

Digitized by Google

P. 19,19,20, 21,22,23.

ted from thofe Accufations both in the Court of Arches, and before the Delegates. And afterwards more particularly, that if what the Coachman (or fuch I find was the Evidence to fome of the Proofs of his Incontinency) had witneffed, was true, he muft either have debauched his Sifter himfelf, or been a Procurer to, and an Eye-witneffe of her Luft, which he hopes exceeds the Belief of his very worft Enemies. And as for the other Women, the frequenting of whofe Company was the only Evidence of his Incontinency with them; one of them was a Lodger in the fame Houfe with him, and furely he muft be often with fuch an one. Another was Wife to a Perfon who had left him (Mr. Finch) in Truft with his whole Eftate, and the Education of his Children, during his Abfence at Sea. A Third was one whofe Company he was never in, in all his Life; nor more than twice in Company of the Fourth mentioned, and that only upon a Difference referred to him and the Church-Warden. The only remaining one (who, if I rightly apprehend, teftify'd fomething of that kind againft him, relating to her felf) was not only a Woman of the loofeft and vileft Character; but he never faw her in all his Life, more than once, and that in the Kitchin of a Publick Houfe, a Place very unfit, as he well obferves, for any Luftful Practices; nor did he ever own the Woman, pretended to be his Wife, as fuch. The Nineteenth is his oppofing the Lecture in his Parifh, unlefs he was extraordinarily paid for allowing of it; which is fo abfolutely Falfe, that he had been active in Promoting it, and received the Thanks of feveral of his Parifh for fo doing. Nor was there any other Ground for this Accufation, than what followeth: After the Choice of the Morning-Lecturer, the Parifh (at the Motion of a Member of Parliament) for Mr. Finch his Readinefs to permit them to make Choice of whom they had thought fit to fupply that Lecture, did voluntarily under their Hands, as appeared by the Veftry-Book, give him Twenty Pounds per Annum, as an Addition to his fmall Living: And when the Lecture (which in the Time of the great Sickneſs had been Difcontinued) was again renewed, and a new Lecturer was chofen, they paid him the Arrears of his Twenty Pounds per Annum; And this, and no other, was the Money, the Receipt of which they fo much complained of. The keeping one of the Keys of the Chefts, where the Book of the Foundation was, and the Regifter of the Parifh, (tho' according to the expreſs Letter of the Canon) was made another Article againft him, and call'd his keeping away divers Books belonging to the Church; and the laft was his taking up fome Dues of the Parifh, which belonged to the Poor, which he utterly deny'd.

P. 9.

P. 18.

In 1641.

Thefe were the Anſwers, and this the Defence which Mr. Finch made to his Accufations before this Committee; and Publifhed to the World immediately on his Sequeftration.

As to Mr. Symmons and Mr. Squire, the Two firſt Perſons mentioned on this Occaſion, I can aſſure the Reader from other Informations, that they were not only Men of Veracity, but of excellent Learning and Piety, and therefore their Teſtimonies tho' in their own Behalf will be unqueſtionable; but I have not met with any Notices relating to Mr. Finch's Character, more than what are here laid before the Reader, in this Account of his Accuſation and Defence. But furely common Charity will oblige every one to give more Credit to the bare Word of a Clergyman, tho' in his own Vindication, than to that of his known and profeſs'd Enemies; eſpecially, in Thoſe Times, when it is ſo Notorious, that the beſt Men were ſlander'd and calumniated with the moſt open and known Falſhoods. This, at leaſt, is plain, that ſome of the Articles are in themſelves to very trifling, the Replies to others of them carry ſuch an Appearance of Truth in the very Frame of them; and the whole Charge, as Dr. Heylin has obſerved, comes ſo little ſhort, either in Point of Offence, or in Point of Proof, of what cou'd legally Diſpoſſeſs any Perſon of his Free-hold, that I promiſe my ſelf, the Reader will join with me in thinking his Sentence to be a ſufficient Evidence of the Oppreſſions of this Committee; who, on the Allegations before mentioned, Reſolved him 'guilty of Practiſing Innovations in the Church, 'Non-Reſidency, Foul Extortion, Neglect of the 'Duty of his Function, and Prophaning the Sa- 'crament; a Man of Prophane Life, Scanda- 'lous in his Doctrine and Converſation, and 'an Hinderer of Preaching:' And therefore 'unfit to hold any Benefice or Promotion 'in the Church:' Which Reſolution was, on the Report, agreed to by the Houſe, (as is before ſaid) May 8, 1641. And Mr. White immediately upon it, was ordered to prepare and tranſmit his Caſe to the Lords, 'That the Pariſh might be 'eas'd of him;' which was however, more than the Pariſh (or even ſome of thoſe who Petition'd againſt him, as I underſtand it) had ever deſir'd: And therefore 'moſt of the Gentry, and divers 'others of Quality, Honeſty, and Ability,' ſign'd a Petition to the Houſe of Commons, praying, that he might not be diſmiſſed, but 'left to Of- 'ficiate his Cure among them:' Tho' I cannot find the Petition was preſented; or if it had, there is no doubt to be made, but it would have been rejected, as I find it ſat'd with ſeveral others of the ſame Nature.

Some have Dr. Heyl. Hiſt. Laud. p. 441. Rarely him with ſome Inſtances of the firſt Nature, who had been tranſported to theſe grieved Animoſities and Extravagancies.

Hiſt. Laud. p. 441.

Neal. Collect. Vol. II. p. 233, 234.

Anſwer to the Articles, &c. p. 25, 26

I have not laid the Particulars of the Proceedings againſt theſe Gentlemen before the Reader in ſo full a Manner; becauſe I apprehend them to be peculiar in the Circumſtances of Oppreſſion and Wickedneſs; or becauſe I judge them to have exceeded moſt others in the Degrees and Aggravations of thoſe Oppreſſions, (for what is here repreſented was, as I find, the common and ordinary Method of Dealing with the Clergy; and in many Cafes, as well before this, as other Committees, I meet with ſeveral Circumſtances much more Oppreſſive, than any here mentioned) but becauſe they are related by the Sufferers themſelves, and are more perfect and compleat than any other Accounts of this Nature, which I have hitherto receiv'd. And therefore I would ſuggeſt to the Reader, that inſtead of thinking this to have been the utmoſt, which any of the Clergy ſuffer'd, he ſhould from hence judge, how great the Miſeries of their uncommon Sufferings muſt have been, when in the ordinary and common Caſes, a few of the Rabble, much the leaſt and worſt part of their Pariſh, (and ſometimes a Single Perſon, tho' a profligate Drunken Blaſphemer, tho' a profeſt Enemy to his Miniſter, and made ſo either by Reproof for his Vices, or by Proſecution for his Inconformity) ſhould be heard in Parliament againſt a Clergyman; ſhou'd be countenanced and careſs'd by the Members of the Committee, and be able to get their Miniſter purſevanted, impriſon'd, and otherwiſe haraſs'd, publickly expos'd as a Scandalous, Vicious Perſon, and at laſt diſpoſſeſs'd of his Free-hold, and turned a Starving with his Wife and Family; whilſt his Incomes were put into the Hands of thoſe very Proſecutors, whoſe Covetouſneſs, as well as Malice, had prompted them to the Accuſation. When theſe few malicious Perſons pals under the Denomination of the Pariſh, altho' commonly the greater part of the Inhabitants were either unconcerned in the Proſecution, or concerned in behalf

half of the Minister, and sometimes had the Courage to appear in great Majority for him, and Testify under their Hands his Excellent Character, and their Earnest Desires of his continuance; whillt those who came into the Petitions and Articles, were compelled to it by Force and Threatnings; when some of the Crimes objected to the Clergy, and Admitted by the Committee, were plainly Matters of Duty; and such, as they must have been those very Guilty Persons they are Represented, and even Perjur'd too, had they Omitted them; when at other times they were either Ridiculously Trifling and Foolish, or Notorious and Direct Falsehoods, and when in some Instances the not doing Impossibilities (as no being Resident when they have been Imprisoned) was made the Matter of a Charge against him; when the direct Contrary to that which has been alledg'd as a Crime against one Clergyman, has been laid in the Petitions and Articles against another, and each Condemned; when their Words, as well in, as out of the Pulpit, were not only Mis-represented, but wrested, and torture'd to a Sense directly contrary to their plain and Unquestionable Meaning: Insomuch that even when they have Spoken the very Sense of their Adversaries, they have been Accused of saying those things, which of all others they Prosecuted with the greatest Rigour; when the only Proof alledged in maintenance of those Accusations, was the Bare Words of the Informers (without Oath) which no Laws of any Kingdom (much less those of England) ever admitted of, as Competent Evidence; especially, considering, that those who gave it, were either Sectaries or Excommunicate Persons, or the Professed Enemies of him whom they Accus'd; and sometime's of such Debauched and Wicked Lives, that th ir very Oaths would not have been allowed in any Regular Court of the Land. And when the whole Accusations (tho' admitted to be true) would not by the Laws either Civil or Ecclesiastical) of any Christian Nation (in the World, have produced an Admonition, (yea, in some Cases they Merited the highest Commendation,) altho' nothing less than a Total Deprivation was by these Committees deemed a Punishment equal to the Guilt of them; when the Dealings and good Understanding between these Corrupt Judges and Witnesses were manifest; the Harrassing by long Journies, frequent and tedious Attendances, and other Arts of Vexation, previous to their Condemnation, were so many; when the Vile Scandals and Reproaches, which had been alledg'd against them (and Published to the World with additional Falsehoods before ever they were offer'd to be Prov'd) was confirmed as well in the Form and Manner it self, as in the Damnatory Sentence of the Sequestration; and that likewise to compleat the Severity of it, so timed and contrived, as to do them all the other Hurt and Damage that was Possible. And when in the last Place, the Persons thus Oppressed and Ruined, were Men of the most Excellent Lives, and Learning; Men who had formerly been the Admiration of the very Party, that now were become their Prosecutors; Men particularly frequent in Preaching, and Zealous against Popery, which of all other Qualifications, were those their Prosecutors professed to admire, and the want of which was the great Pretence alledged for these Barbarous Proceedings against the Clergy.

I shall not stay at present to observe, that it hence also appears, nothing but Loyalty to their Prince, and an Affectionate Obedience to the Ecclesiastical Establishment, could be at the Bottom of these Persecutions; that the Latter of these was the POPERY so loudly and so frequently charged upon the Clergy; And that since the Infamous Century was an Extract only from the Informations and Sentences of such Witnesses and Judges, any one must be void of Common Sense, that can give Credit to it, (although the Calumnies of it have been continued down to these very times in which we now live; and part of it has been re-printed in opposition to this Undertaking;) omitting, I say, these things at present, I shall only further add, that I believe, the Reader will upon this Representation, readily joyn with me in pronouncing, that the Wickedness and Injustice of these Committees was very great, and that by necessary consequence, such must the Miseries and Calamities of the Clergy have likewise been.

I have in these Observations, confined my self to the particular Circumstances of the Cases now Represented. The Reader will meet with Numberless others in the Progress of this History (for in truth, Oppression display'd it self during the Course of the Clergy's Sufferings, in all the Exquisite Variety of Shapes and Forms that it is possible to Imagine;) but I would here be Understood chiefly to have intended the Proceedings against the two Former of these Gentlemen, namely, Mr. Symmons and Mr. Squire. For as to the other I must confess, I am not fully Satisfy'd with Regard to his Character, and some parts of his Defence, in which I think, he doth by no means wholly acquit himself, from having been (formerly at least) a Man of an Ill Life; nor am I on this account Displeased, that he happen'd to be to, because his Case will afford us some Remarks of another Kind.

For which reason perhaps, it was, that his Case (as is said before) was the first reported to the House.

It would be doubtless False, as well as Ridiculous, to Affirm, that there were not in those (or indeed any other times) among the whole Body of the Clergy, any Men of Wicked Lives, and such as were even a Reproach and Scandal to their Function, (tho' not many of those who were so, came under the Cognizance of the Committees; for if they would fall in with the Times, and few Debauched Persons would forsake Houses and Lands for a good Conscience, they might not only keep their Old Livings, but take their Choice of what New Ones they pleased) I shall take notice of several such, when I come to the List. But even with Relation to these, the Oppressions of the Committees were very many (as sufficiciently appears in this Case of Mr. Finch, on supposition that he was in some part Guilty) in being, as Mr. Squire justly observed, in what he premis'd to the Answer which he Published against his own Adversary, the Method of Malice in those times, as well to report those FAULTIER who were Faulty, as to report those Faults, who were Faultiest. For even the Worst of them had this in Common with the Rest, that they were Dispossessed of their Freeholds by incompetent Evidence; namely, the bare Words of their Accusers; that their innocent Actions were made Suspicious; that real Suspicions were pass'd into Certainties; that Matters of ill Report only, were magnify'd into Great Crimes; and lastly, were magnify'd into Great Crimes; and their Vices (comparatively little) were set off in the blackest Colours, and represented as the last, and most profligate Degrees of Lasciviousness and Debauchery: That they have (many Years back into their Lives, for Matter of Accusation against them (sometimes, as I have even to their Youthful Times in the University) that they accused them of such things, as they had judicially answered before in other Courts; and that they not for twenty Sequestrations and Deprivations of their Freeholds, for such Offences, as no Regular Court of the most So-Severe) Tribunal, cou'd have condemned, with any other Sentence than that of an Admonition, or at moſt, a Suſpenſion. But enough of this, leſt I ſhou'd be thought to defend that, which of all other things, I moſt abhor, the Vices of the Clergy.

Digitized by Google

Committee for Plundered Miniſters.

Hyd. Hiſt. vindic. Ed. 2. p. 419. See alſo Mr. Symmons's Letter, prefix'd to his Loyal Subject's Belief, p. 7.

And therefore I now paſs from the Committee for Scandalous, to that for Plunder'd Miniſters; which was inſtituted under Pretence of 'making ſome Proviſion for ſuch Godly Preachers 'as had either ſuffer'd Loſs of Goods by his Ma'jeſty's Soldiers; or Loſs of Livings, for adhering 'to the Houſes of Parliament.' And how truly it was a Pretence, and nothing elſe, may be learn'd from the worthy Mr. Symmons, in the Place now cited. 'Unto this day, ſaith he, I 'cannot hear (tho' I have enquir'd) that 'King had ſequeſter'd any Living, or turn'd a-'ny Miniſter out. Perhaps ſome, whoſe Con-'ſciences accus'd them for preaching Trea-'ſon, and Sedition, did run away, when his 'Majeſty's Forces approach'd; and in pity to 'the Peoples Souls to forſaken, ſome might 'be appointed by his Majeſty to preach unto 'them'. And had this Committee diſpoſſeſs'd no more of the Epiſcopal and Loyal Clergy, than his Majeſty had of their Friends; and appointed none to ſucceed in the Places of thoſe whom they had thus Sequeſter'd; but ſuch as had been Plunder'd and Turn'd out by his Majeſty or his Army, in the manner they pretended, their Proceedings would have carry'd ſome ſhew of Juſtice with them. But the contrary is notorious; ſince hardly any who ſucceeded in the room of thoſe Loyal Clergymen Sequeſter'd by them (and they Sequeſter'd great Numbers) had, as far as I can yet learn, ſuffer'd in any kind, either from his Majeſty, or his Forces. But, as Dr. Heylin aſſures us, under the Notion of Plunder'd Clergymen, 'they brought in a confus'd Rabble of 'their own Perſuaſions; or ſuch, at leaſt, as 'were moſt likely to be ſervicеable to their 'Ends and Purpoſes; ſome of which had no 'Goods, and moſt of them no Livings at all to loſe.' And, as he further obſerves, the Truth of this matter was, they durſt not truſt the Pulpits with the Regular Clergy; becauſe they would not ſerve their Deſigns; nor the Rightful Patrons with filling up the Vacancies made by their Committees, leſt they ſhould preſent Men of the ſame Principles with thoſe Ejected: Nor would they ſo much as truſt thoſe, whom they themſelves thruſt in with Titles to the Livings for Life, leſt they ſhould become refractory and untractable: But kept them only Tenants at Will: and by neceſſary conſequence, Servile and Obſequious. And in another place, the ſame Author obſerves to the like Purpoſes, that 'moſt 'of the Silenc'd Lecturers and Factious Miniſters, which within Ten Years then laſt paſt, 'had left the Kingdom, either for Inconformi-'ty, or Debt, or their own Intemperance of 'Spirit, had of late flock'd into it a-main, like 'ſo many Birds of Raping, to ſeek after the Prey; 'and upon Theſe, and ſuch as Theſe, the Se-'queſter'd Benefices were beſtow'd, to be held no otherwiſe by them, than as ‡ Uſufructuaries, 'or Tenants at Will; that ſo they might con-'tinue in a Servile Obſequiouſneſs to the Power 'and Pleaſure of their Great Landlords. To which I muſt add that of Mr. Stephens of Lincoln, in his MSS. Papers frequently men-tion'd already: 'White and his Committee have 'taken of the baſeſt of the People, Tradeſmen 'and ignorant Fellows of all ſorts and conditions, 'appointing them to be Miniſters; and after 'thruſting them into the beſt Parſonages of the 'Kingdom.' In which Mere * Ruſt. is yet more particular, and expreſs: 'Their Powerful Mini-'ſtry are Ignorant, Factious Schiſmatical Mini-'ſters; or elſe Intruding Mechanicks; who with-'out any Calling, either from God or Man; 'Stepping from the Cobler's Stall, the Butch-'er's Board, or the Bricklayer's Scaffold, into the 'Pulpit; like Sheba's Trumpet, ſummoning the 'People to Rebellion.' So far were they from ſupplying thoſe Vacancies with Plundered Clergy-men. But that the real Deſign of the Faction in appointing this Committee, was to Erect a Standing Tribunal for the Ruin of the Regular Clergy; tho' the Pretence was, to provide for Godly Miniſters who had been ruin'd, is from hence alſo further evident; that tho' their firſt Order enabl'd them only to enquire what Malignant Perſons had Benefices near the Town; in whoſe Places theſe pretended Plunder'd Perſons might ſucceed: Soon after (as I ſhall ſay by and by) their Power was Enlarg'd; and they were not only to enquire for Malignants (i. e. Loyaliſts) on whom to make Reprizals; but were to enquire after ſcandalous Perſons alſo, which would juſtifie a Sequeſtration, where there was only a Godly, tho' Unplunder'd Mini-ſter, to ſucceed him.

* Epiſt. to the Reader.

Hyd. Hiſt. vindic. Ed. 2. p. 441.

In the mean time, to introduce this Deſign, and to render the Pretence more Specious, with their uſual Hypocriſie, Dec. 27, 1642, they order'd, That at the next Publick Faſt 'a Collection ſhould be made for the Miniſters 'that had been Plundered;' But ſurely, if ever 'any 'Faſted for Strife and Debate, and to 'ſmite with the Fiſt of Wickedneſs,' they were theſe Men: For four Days after, viz. Saturday, Dec. 31, they proceeded to perfect that Wickedneſs, which was chiefly aim'd at by the pretended Charity at their Faſt; and appointed this Committee, which ruin'd and deſtroy'd ſo many Hundreds of the Regular Clergy; ordering Mr. Sollicitor, Sir Gilbert Gerard, Mr. Martyn, Sir William Armyn, Mr. Prideaux, Mr. Holland, Mr. Rous, Mr. Cage, Mr. Knightley, Sir William Hayman, Mr. Wentworth, Mr. Ruthen, Mr. Wheeler and Mr. Spurſtow, or any Four of them, 'to conſider of the fitteſt way for the Re-'lief of ſuch Godly and Well affected Miniſters, 'as have been Plundered: And likewiſe to con-'ſider what Malignant Perſons have Benefices 'here, in and about this Town; whoſe Livings 'being Sequeſter'd, theſe may ſupply their 'Cures, and receive their Profits; and are to 'meet on Monday next at Two poſt Merid. in 'the Exchequer-Court.' To theſe I find, were afterwards added ſeveral other Members from time to time: And among theſe additional Members, was, as I ſuppoſe, Mr. John White, ſo often mentioned already, who had the Chair of this Committee (or, at leaſt, was in it Mar. 16, 164$\frac{3}{4}$) as well as of the two others laſt accounted for.

Hyd. Hiſt. vindic. Ed. 2. p. 474.

Ibid. p. 476.

Ibid. p. 458.

Spongia: Or Articles againſt Dr. Featly, &c. p. 1.

The Reader ſees in the Words of the Appointment it ſelf, why they were call'd the Committee for Plunder'd Miniſters; but their Proceedings gave occaſion to the Royaliſts afterwards to vary the Name; and by as juſt as obvious an Alteration to call them the Committee for Plundering Miniſters.

‡ And his Majeſty ob-ſerves in his Declaration of Aug. 12, 1642. That part of the Incomes of the Livings was em-ploy'd to the Maintenance of the Incumbent, and Part to the Maintenance of the War. See the Declaration at large in Hyde Collect.

* In the Warrants for thoſe who were put into the Sequeſter'd Livings by the Earl of Manchester, in the Aſſociated Counties of Eſſex, &c. was a Clauſe to impower, reſerving a Power to that Lord, to remove them again when ever he ſhould find, in theſe words, To preach, &c. during my Pleaſure. And in the Ordinances which paſs'd after particular Perſons (but two Form already praiſed in the Acts and of Mr. Symmons of Bayne) the Expreſſion in the Aſſignment of the Sequeſter, is, Until further Order.

Jan. 4, 1643, which was Four Days after their firſt Inſtitution, their Powers began to be enlarged; and (on the Petition of the Inhabitants of Staines and Twittenham, againſt Dr. Soame their Miniſter, which was that Day read in the Houſe, and referr'd to this Committee) they were enabled to 'ſend for Parties and Witneſſes;' and ordered to 'conſider of Conſtituting Miniſters to ſupply the Cures, and to Sequeſter the Means of the ſorefaid Livings for them, if upon Oc-caſion they ſhall find it fitting, and to preſent it to the Houſe;' as I find they frequently, if not always did, in the more early Cafes before them. But whether they had afterwards, as Buſineſs increas'd upon their Hands, a Power given them of finally determining Matters themſelves, with out Reporting to the Houſe, I do not know.

Which I preſume reached the other Caſes before them, as well as that of Dr. Soame.

July 27, 1643. An Order was made by the Houſe, that this Committee ' ſhould not nomi-nate any to Benefices, but ſuch as ſhould firſt ' be examin'd by the Aſſembly:' And the ſame Day they Impower'd them (as is already hinted) ' to conſider of the Informations againſt Scanda-lous Miniſters, tho' there be no Malignancy proved ' againſt 'em;' and gave them alſo Power to put out ſuch, as were Scandalous, their Scandal being proved againſt them.

Hiſt. Collect. Folio, p. 111 In the Caſe of Mr Harriſon of Sandwich in Kent, (where ſee him) I find, that Committee impower'd three Lay-Gentlemen to take Examinations againſt him, which was accordingly done, and a Return made to them: Which particular Power and Order from the Committee, teſtifies the general one from the Houſe in 1643 are therefore to be looked on as another Method, by which they exerciſ'd their Clergy.

† Thoſe Powers (ſays a late Author) were to make them a Standing Tribunal for all the Clergy throughout the Kingdom, ſince they might call whom they would Scandalous; and hereby prevented them of a Trial, that every Enquiries ſhould extend to every County.

September 6, 1643. The † Commons ordered, that the ' Deputy Lieutenants, and Committees of Parliament in any County of this Kingdom, or ' any Five or more of them, ſhall have Power to ' take the Examinations of all Witneſſes againſt ' any Miniſters, that are Scandalous either in ' Life or Doctrine, or any others that have de-ſerted their Cures, and joyn'd themſelves actual-ly with, and are aſſiſtant unto the Forces raiſed ' againſt the Parliament.'

For that no expreſs Order of the Houſe I can ſhew to you later and of 1644.) made them a Committee of Appeals, accuſes by what Mr. Baldwin himſelf owns paid 'em to their Ears, in the Caſe of Dr Watkins, who had reſolv'd to ſtand him for his Living, as well he ſaid here-after. See p. 356 of Part 2.

These Examinations and Depoſitions they were to tranſmit to this Committee; and poſſibly it might be this, or ſome ſuch-like Order of the Houſe which made them (or at leaſt, from which they uſurped Authority, as they ſeem to have done during the long Tract of Rebellion and Uſurpation which ſucceeded their Inſtitution) a ſort of Superior Court in the Matters of Sequeſtration, to the no ſmall Trouble and Vexation of the more diſtant Clergy, who tho' at firſt happy in being ſo far removed out of the View of the Parliament, were after doubly miſerable in being forced to attend this Committee (and ſome of them, Aged as they were, on Foot from the Remoteſt Parts of the Kingdom; their many Plunderings and extreme Poverty not affording them any other Conveyance) to which their Cauſes were removed from the ſtanding Committees of the ſeveral Counties, and who either confirm'd, revoked, proceeded anew, or otherwiſe concluded upon the Proceedings of the D puty-Lieutenants, or Committees in the County, as they thought good. The Inſtances of which are ſo very many, and occur ſo often, that they ſeem to have intermedled in moſt of the conſiderable Caſes, and to have been the great Fountain of Power in that Kind, as long as that Parliament it ſelf continued; and particularly in the County of Northampton. I find the Committee there (in moſt Caſes at leaſt) tranſmit to their Certificates and Letters to a Committee at London (which I ſometimes find to have been this Committee, and gueſs it was ſo in all the Caſes) who, purſuant to thoſe Certificates, &c. proceeded to Sequeſter them.

March 15, 1646. It was alſo referred to this Committee, ' To take effectual Courſe that no ' Miniſter that has been Sequeſter'd for Scandal ' in Life or Doctrine, or for Malignancy againſt ' the Parliament, be admitted to any Living, or ' permitted to Preach, until he has Licence from both Houſes of Parliament; and that they take ' care, that ſuch as be admitted by their Order, ' may take the Covenant before they be admit-ted. The Year after they were impower'd to put in Execution the Ordinance of the 23d of Aug. ' that Year, providing, That ' Miniſters placed in Livings by Authority of Parliament, ſhould be continued therein;' by which all Sequeſtred Miniſters, who endeavoured to Re-poſſeſs themſelves of their Livings, or gave any Diſturbance to the Intruder in the ' Exerciſe of the Office of his Miniſtry,' and all that aided or abetted them, were to be impriſon'd. The 20th of December, that ſame Year, a great Debate ariſing in the Houſe, whether Arch-biſhop Uſher, having formerly adhered to the Enemy, ſhould continue to Preach at Lincoln's Inn; it was upon a Diviſion carried in the Affirmative, with this Proviſo, That the Arch-biſhop did firſt take the Negative Oath. ' But leſt Delinquent Miniſters ' ſhould be encouraged by this Vote, they ordered ' immediately, that it ſhould be referred to the ' Committee for Plunder'd Miniſters, to ſend for ' and Examine ſuch Miniſters, as have adhered ' to the Enemy, and Preach now in the King-dom, and ſuch as have of late, or now do cauſe ' the Book of Common-Prayer to be Read, and to ' take care for the ſilencing of them.' And Jan. 27, following, the Houſe ordered an Ordi-nance to be brought in, for ' enabling the Com-mittee for Plunder'd Miniſters to diſpoſe of the ' Revenues of ſuch Impropriate Rectories, as ' were belonging to the late Arch-biſhops and ' Biſhops.' Which was afterwards (as I ſuppoſe) accordingly done; (tho' I don't remember to have met with that Ordinance) for I have ſeen in the Paper-Office, a Book belonging to this Committee, by which it appears, that they had (and exercized) a Power of augmenting ſmall Livings, which probably they did out of theſe Revenues.

Scob. Collect. Part 1. p. 111

Comp. Hiſt. Vol. III. p. 160

I find likewiſe ſeveral other Clergy-Matters of leſs Note from time to time referred to them; and 'tis probable from their long Continuance, that many other Powers of greater Conſideration were given them. But my leiſure permitted me only to examine the two or three firſt Years of the Journals of this Parliament; (nor have I otherwiſe met with any Notices of theſe Matters, beſides what I have here mentioned) and therefore I can ſay nothing more of them.

The Place appointed for their meeting by the Order of the Houſe at their Inſtitution, was, as hath been already ſaid, the Exchequer-Court; in which Place, and in the Exchequer Chamber (if at leaſt, they are diſtinct Places) they accordingly ſate for ſome Time, as I find by the Appearance of ſome of the Clergy before them, in the Latter of thoſe Places. But in the Year 1649, they were ſitting in the Court of Wards. In what other Places they met (or whether in any other) I can't tell: But as they were from the Time of their Inſtitution, the Main Engine made uſe of by the Parliament, for the Ruine of the Clergy; ſo did they continue thro' the whole Courſe of the Rebellion and Uſurpation, (concurrent, I mean with the Parliament) even to the very dawning of the Reſtauration. I have ſeen many of their Orders in 1646. I find 'em ſitting in Feb. 164⅞. Mr. Whitlock mentions 'em in March 21. following; and in October, 1652*. When Lilly's Book

Mem. p. 380, 522.

* In the ſame Year alſo the Committees againſt the Welſh Propagation was referred to them, as we ſhall hereafter.

of

Digitized by Google

of Astrological Predictions was referred to them; and when the Rump-Parliament (as it was then called) was Restored in 1659, the 16th of Feb. Mem. p. 657. that Year, Mr. Whitlock takes Notice, this Committee was ordered to sit; and I find them likewise sitting sometime in the foregoing Month, and even in September before that; at which Time, after so many Revolutions and Changes in the State, after they had seen the sad Confusions brought upon the Kingdom, and had themselves felt and suffer'd under some of 'em; and when one would have imagined, their Thoughts should have been rired, and their Hands weary with pursuing their Fellow-Subjects; yet I find 'em at something of their old Work again. As to most (if not all) of the intermediate Years, the Account of the Sufferings of several particular Persons in the List will shew, that they were sitting in them likewise.

This long continuance of their Sessions, their intermeddling in the Sequestrations of so many of the Clergy in the more Remote and Distant Parts of the Country, already mentioned, and the frequent Instances which will appear in the List of Gentlemen dispatch'd by them, will serve to form a Judgment in some measure, of the great Numbers of Clergy, which must needs have been dispossess'd by this Committee. And I shall speak of the great Oppressions practis'd by them, when I come in the next Place to treat in general (as I shall be obliged to do, for want of more distinct Notices) of this Committee in conjunction with that of Religion and Scandalous Ministers. But some Particulars of that Kind, which I am assured belong to this Committee, will appear in what I shall immediately subjoyn, of some of the more early Sufferers before it, and of two or three other Clergymen, of whom I have met with more large and particular Accounts.

The first Case I have observed referred to them, was, (as is before said) that of Dr. Seame, on a Petition of the Inhabitants of Staines and Twittenham. This was done Four Days after they were appointed, viz. Jan. 4, 164½. However, they proceeded not to dispatch the Business in the same Order, as it was turned over to them; for that Doctor was not dismissed from his two Livings of Staines and Twittenham respectively, till the 4 April and September after: But long before that, viz. the 23d of this same Jan. they Reported to the House (who agreed to it) the Sequestration of Dr. Heywood of St. Giles's in the Fields; and this † Report was the first they made, as far as I have hitherto observed. In October, 1641, this ‖ last mentioned Doctor had been Summoned before a Committee, for not suffering the Order for defacing the Churches, to be read in his Parish-Church. But after having ordered his Curate, Mr. Hutton, to read his Majesty's Declaration there, he was for that Offence, June 13, 1642, committed Prisoner to the Fleet: January following he was Sequestred by this Committee (as it now (said) and the Month after I find him again in Custody; as he was also several other Times, and in several Places.

The same Day that they Reported the Case of Dr. Heywood, they also Reported those of Dr. Rives of St. Martin's Vintry, Dr. Isaacson of St. Andrew's Wardrobe, and Dr. Watts of St. Alban's Woodstreet; to each of which they had the Concurrence of the House, and they were all Sequester'd accordingly. Soon after (if not concurrent with) this Time, was Dr. Daniel Featly before this Committee. He drew up an Account of what passed at it, and of the Defence which he made to the Articles exhibited against him, which he stood to his Answer before them; which was at length taken out of the Hands of those who had Plunder'd his House and Study, and was printed 1644, at Oxon, under the Title of Spongia, &c. and subjoyn'd to a short Vindication of him from some other Calumnies, of which I have before spoken. It will very much contribute towards giving the Reader a just Notion of this Committee, to lay before him the Substance of that Paper.

For the Ch. of Windf. r.

‡ My Extract of the Parliament-Journals, for the former Living, says, April 1642; but I much suspect a Mistake in it for 1643.

† See the Ch. of Westminster.

‖ Nalf. Collect. Vol. II. p. 499.

Sir him among the London-Clergy.

After Dr. Featly had waited divers Weeks upon them, he was at last March 16, 164¾, called to his Answer in the Exchequer-Chamber. The Articles exhibited against him, were Seven; on the Foot of which Mr. White, who had then the Chair of the Committee, demanded of him in the first Place, whether he had not affirm'd in a Sermon, that it was Blasphemy and Ignorance, to 'speak against Bowing at the Name of Jesus,' and had not said, those were 'of the Seed of 'the Serpent, who pull'd down the Rails, or spoke 'against the Ceremonies.' To which Dr. Featly, (after complaining of such a mixt and complicated Interrogatory) reply'd, that before he proceeded in his Defence, he was constrain'd to desire, they would take some care, that he might with safety attend them; foralmuch as he 'could not go or come without evident Peril of his 'Life;' having once a Musket preferred to his Breast by a Soldier; and another Soldier having declared, that they would not leave Lambeth till they had made an End of him; and alledging some other Instances of Danger both to his Person and Estate: To which Mr. White only said, that he knew nothing of the Matter, and therefore bid him 'Answer to his Charge.' Whereupon the Doctor proceeded to desire, that nothing might be heard against him, but on the Testimony of sufficient Witnesses, and then observed to the Committee, 'That the 'Articles themselves shew, that they were patch-'ed together by a Taylor of two Names, who 'is the Accuser, by the Name of Ambrose Glover, 'but brought for a Witness by the Name of 'Ambrose Andrews: He had Time enough (saith 'the Doctor) to have stitched them better; for 'he confesseth, that he had been about them this 'Twelve Month; yet how miserably (saith he) 'are they botched? there is neither Method nor 'Order, nor Sense in them. In the first Article 'there are two distinct Articles comprised; in 'the Second, Six; in the Third, Five; in the 'Fourth, Two; in the Fifth, Three; and (to fill 'up the Number) the First is repeated again 'in his Fifth; in the Sixth there are Two; 'in the Seventh, Five; in which Article also, 'there is most Eloquent Nonsense. The Keys taken from the Church, and left them in such Hands (who left them in such Hands?) as have laid them by, until they became Rusty; so that Sodomy, Murthers, Felony, Pillage and Plunder, is daily committed without Punishment; as if Sodomy, Murther, &c. were ever punished by the Ecclesiastical Courts, or Power of the Keys; for which all Men 'know Men are arraigned, and condemned at the 'Assizes and Sessions.' Such wretched Accusers and Accusations did they accept of, and proceed upon, against Men of known Worth and Learning: But Mr. White, unwilling to have this observed, orders Dr. Featly to 'leave 'these Speeches, and answer punctually to the 'Articles; which the Doctor accordingly did in the Negative, as far as they contained any thing against the 'Law of God, or Man, Civil, Canon, Municipal, or Common.'

Spongia, p. 1.

P. 32.

P. 32

They were exhibited also by some Semi-Separatists, who had been Indicted at the Sessions, Part 1.

The First of these Articles was, That 'he 'suffereth new Ceremonies; as, standing up at 'the Gloria Patri; and preacheth for Bowing at 'the Name of Jesus; and said, it was Blas-'phemy or Ignorance,' &c. The Second, That 'the Communion-Table was remov'd to the East

P. 4.

P. 6, 7.

'End

'End of the Church, Railed in, and ſtood ſeveral Steps high; that he boweth towards the Eaſt End of the Chancel, preacheth for the Ceremonies, and calleth them innocent Ceremonies, and the Surplice a ſpotleſs Garment; and refuſeth the Sacrament to ſuch as do not come to the Rails.' The Third, That 'he
P. 8. 'preacheth for Organs (ſhewing the Neceſſity of them) againſt Extempore Prayer, ſaying, Whereas ſuch were never in, ſo they were never out; that he ſeldom preacheth, and yet preſſeth hard for 2 s. 6 d. in the Pound.' The Fourth, That
P. 11. 'he ſaid, thoſe who pull'd down the Rails, or ſpoke againſt them, or the Ceremonies, were the Seed of the Serpent, &c.' The Fifth, That
P. 12. 'he ſaid in a Sermon, Bowing at the Name of Jeſus, was uſed till Cartwright, that Archeretick, oppoſed it. But Q. Elizabeth cruſhed Mar-Prelates Brood, put Penry to death, imprißoned Udall till he died, bowed the Backs of thoſe in the Star-Chamber, who would not bow their Knees; And that the State had ſate a long time, and done nothing; comparing them
P. 14. 'to a Fowl that doth not hatch, &c.' The Sixth, That 'he refuſed himſelf to lend Money
P. 15. 'to King or Parliament, and diſſuaded others from it.' The Seventh, That 'he had ſaid in a Sermon, Thoſe were reſiſting Times, wherein Authority is trampl'd on, &c. the Keys taken from the Church, &c.' (as before) And 'that the whole Tenour of the Goſpel was againſt that which is preached almoſt in every Pulpit in London; who do nothing but cry, Arm, Arm; Fight, Fight; Blood, Blood; Battle, Battle; Kill, Kill, &c. And that the Wiſe had loſt their Wiſdom, and the Remedy was worſe than the Diſeaſe.'

Theſe were the Articles exhibited againſt him: In which, the Reader will obſerve, that there is not a ſingle Word of any Immorality, nor any other Offence, which by any of the Laws of the Land, whether Civil or Eccleſiaſtical, could render him obnoxious to any the leaſt Cenſure (tho' the whole had been made good by ſufficient Evidence) much leſs, which could amount to a Total Deprivation.

To theſe the Dr. in point of Right, reply'd with admirable Learning and Strength of Argument; defending the Obſervances and Rites of the Church, at large, from Reaſon, Scripture, the Primitive Fathers, and the Uſages of the Ancient Church; and pleading the well known, and expreſs Laws, and Canons of our own Eſtabliſhment, in vindication of his Practice; and alledging, that he was ſo far from having offended againſt them, that what he had done, was manifeſtly in obedience to them. To which his Judges were not able to
P. 6, 9. make any Reply; and Mr. White, the Chairman, was plainly, and ſhamefully Non-pluſt.

Nor were the Articles (as he made appear) leſs Shameful in point of Fact: For in the firſt place, he is only accuſed of ſuffering his Pariſhioners to ſtand at the Gloria Patri; which it was not in his power to hinder: He did in-
P. 5. deed preach for the Bowing at the Name of Jeſus, in vindication of the Canon of our Church; becauſe a puny Divine of Theirs had, in his Abſence, at Lambeth preached againſt it, and call'd it a Popiſh Idolizing Innovation. However, he did not even this much, but at the earneſt Entreaty of the Prime Gentlemen
P. 6. of his Pariſh. And after all, the particular Words as charged upon him in the Article, were utterly Falſe.

As to what concerns the Removal of the
P. 7. Communion-Table, it ſtood at that time in the very Place where it did when he came firſt to the Pariſh. It had indeed about 20 Years before been remov'd into the middle of the Church; but the Pariſhioners finding the Inconvenience of it in that Place, became it ſtope up the Paſſage to one of the Iſles, and one of the Chapels, did with publick Conſent, and without any Orders of Dr. Featly, remove it to the Eaſt End of the Church, where it had formerly ſtood time out of mind: Nor was it then turned Altar-wiſe: Inſtead of which, he had been threaten'd, preſented, and even cited into the Eccleſiaſtical Courts, for not letting it in that faſhion: Which, however, he was to far from doing, that he preach'd a Sermon both
P. 8. againſt that, and againſt calling it an Altar.

The Aſcent on which the Communion-Table ſtood (which was another of the Grievances complain'd of) had been the ſame for Sixty Years: Nor could it be Levell'd, without injuring the Dead, and annoying the Living; by reaſon of the many Coffins which had been but lately interr'd there. And as for the Rails, Dr. Featly call'd a Veſtry to put in Execution the Order of the Houſe of Commons relating to Innovations: And when the Frame of Rails were mention'd, 'They cry'd all with one Conſent, it is no Innovation; let it ſtand, let it ſtand.' With regard to what concerns his Bowing towards the Eaſt, he never practis'd it at his coming in, or going out of the Church, as many others did; but his Pew was ſo made, that when he Knccl'd, his Face was towards the Eaſt; and if he Bowed at all in Worſhip, it muſt of neceſſity be that way.

The Fact which related to his refuſing the
P. 8. Sacrament to ſuch as would not come up, and Kneel, was this: He never turn'd back any for not Kneeling; but once a Young Fellow (an Apprentice with a Taylor, who was his chief Accuſer) coming to the Rails, and refuſing to Kneel; the Dr. purſuant to the expreſs Words of the Rubrick, deny'd to adminiſter to him: But the young Fellow offering himſelf again (before the Adminiſtration was Ended) with Tears in his Eyes, Dr. Featly aſk'd him, if he refus'd on Scruple of Conſcience; which he ſeriouſly affirming, the Dr. immediately adminiſter'd to him; but withal appointed him to come to him the next Day, as he did accordingly, and upon Examination, appear'd 'Tardy and Ignorant enough,' even 'in Points of Catechiſm;' altho' Andrewi's Wife had ſaid, he was able to make a better Sermon than Dr. Featly.

He did indeed plead for the Convenience,
P. 9. but never the Neceſſity of Inſtrumental Muſick in the Publick Worſhip: And in oppoſition to
P. 10. the late ſcandalous Practice of unpremeditated Prayer in Publick; and of the Diſuſe of the Lord's Prayer, did ſay of ſuch as uſed them, they 'were never out, becauſe indeed, never in;' but not as his ignorant Accuſers had charg'd him, 'Never in, becauſe never out.'

To the Accuſation of preaching but ſeldom to his People, he return'd an Anſwer in theſe Words: 'Beſides Ten Diſtinct Books, and ſome 'of them of no ſmall Volume, which I have 'publiſh'd in the Defence of the Orthodox 'Proteſtant Religion, againſt Atheiſts, Papiſts 'and Arminians, I have been a conſtant Preacher in England and France for theſe 32 Years at leaſt; This laſt Year I have preach'd 'ſometimes twice, and ſometimes Thrice a 'week, tho' not ſo often at Lambeth as I uſed 'to do; partly, by reaſon of my Attendance

'Two

Digitized by Google

'Two Months at Court, by Command of the 'then Lord Chamberlain, the Earl of Eſſex; part-'ly in regard of a double Task, recommended to 'me from ſome Members of the Honourable 'Houſe of Commons; the former writing Anno-'tations upon all St Paul's Epiſtles; the latter 'an Anſwer to a Treatiſe of a Popiſh Prieſt, In-'tituſ'd a Safeguard from Shipwreck; the For-'mer ready for the Preſs, the Latter printed 'with the Approbation of the Houſe: Only 'this is true, That I have very ſeldom, or 'never preach'd at Lambeth Church this Year 'in their Hearing: For Five of them have 'not been at Lambeth Church at Divine Prayer 'thoſe Nine Months: For which their Delin-'quency, I humbly deſire, that according to 'the Statute, they may pay Twelve Pence to the 'Poor for every Sunday and Holiday they have 'been abſent from their Pariſh-Church:' But to this Motion Mr. White turned a deaf Ear.

P. 11. The Accuſations in the Fourth Article were as there ſet forth, altogether Falſe: But he did indeed Preach againſt the horrible Prophanations of Churches, as then begun: And for his Warrant, alledg'd not only the Word of God, but what was of much greater Authority in thoſe Times, and before thoſe Judges, 'an Ordinance of both Houſes of Parlia-'ment.'

P. 13. The Fooliſh Accuſation in the Fifth Article, of comparing the State (by which they would have the Parliament underſtood) to a Hen that did not Hatch, &c. was no other than his lamenting the Want of putting the Laws in Execution againſt 'Recuſants, Browniſts, Drun-'kards, &c. as appear'd by the very Words of the Sermons which he produc'd: Nor was the Parliament named, or ſo much as hinted at.

P. 14. His refuſing to 'lend Money to the King or 'Parliament', was no other than deſiring the Collectors to go firſt to the Buſt of the Pariſh, that he might ſee what they did: But they refuſing to do that, and coming a ſecond time, he deſir'd them to meet him in the Veſtry the Tueſday after about that matter, which they ne-ver did. And as to his diſſuading a Man of his Pariſh from doing it; one of his Proſecutors would have had that Clauſe omitted; becauſe it was only an Hearſay: And the Dr. produ-ced a Certificate under the Hand of the Per-ſon himſelf, in flat contradiction to it.

P. 15, 16. And as to what concerns the Laſt Article, there were no ſuch Words in the Sermon, to which the Accuſation refer'd. In another Ser-mon, there was indeed ſomething to the Pur-port of that Article; but vaſtly different from the Ignorant, as well as Malicious Repreſen-tation of it, laid in the Charge: Nor was it any other, than a juſt and affectionate Lamenta-tion for the want of Eccleſiaſtical Diſcipline, to Reſtrain 'Lay-men uſurping upon the Prieſt's 'Function, and Handicrafts men handling the 'Word with their black and impure Hands'; to 'cenſure Heretical, Schiſmatical and Blaſphe-'mous Doctrine; Adultery, Inceſt and Fil-'thineſs not to be named:' And a juſt Abhor-rence of the horrible Doctrines of Blood and Plunder (ſo contrary to the Genius and Tem-per of the Goſpel) and the ſcandalous Invec-tives againſt the ſacred Perſon of his Maje-ſty, wherewith the Pulpits about London were at that time fill'd.

P. 16, 17. This was the Subſtance of the Anſwer which the Dr. return'd Mar. 16. The 23d of the ſame Month he was again before Committee; and the Witneſſes were call'd to prove ſuch few parts of the Charge, which Mr. White, for Reaſons beſt known to himſelf, had thought fit to inſiſt upon. Theſe Witneſſes were Ambroſe Andrews the Taylor before mentioned; one Edm. Rayner, a Shipwright: (commonly called the Anointed King; becauſe he had ſaid, 'He was as much 'the Lord's Anointed as the King';) John Good, Edw. Searles, Thomas Sharp, a Cobler; John Clerk, P. 20. a VVaterman; Neariah Mormay, and, I think, one Burrell. Theſe the Dr. interrogated, when ſome of the Sermons were preach'd, on what Text, and what elſe they remember'd of them? To which, not being able to anſwer any thing, he requeſted the Committee not to hear-ken to ſuch 'looſe and indefinite Teſtimonies;' producing withal the Original Sermons, wherein there was 'no Blot, Scratch or Raſure,' in the Places plainly referr'd to by the Articles. But Mr. White, according to his wonted Juſtice, refuſ'd 'to look upon' them; tho' as the Dr. juſtly obſerves, the High Commiſſion-Court; and Star-Chamber (which theſe Men had ſo much clamour'd againſt) never refuſed ſuch plain Evidence.

After this, the Dr. excepted to the Rank and Quality of the VVitneſſes, and to their known Enmity againſt him; alledging with great force of Reaſon, theſe words of the Civil Law: P. 18. 'In teſte attendenda, ſtatus dignitas, fides puri-'tas, & morum gravitas, item cujus condicionis 'cujus opinionis fuerit, & ne forte aliquis contra 'præfatum Paſtorem inimicitias habuerit; item 'teſtes abſque ulla infamia, aut ſuſpicione, aut 'manifeſta macula eſſe debent.' And to ſhew that his Accuſers were not thus qualify'd, he Ibid. offer'd a Certificate under the Hands of the Veſtry of his Pariſh (ſeveral of which were perſonally preſent to have atteſted the ſame by word of mouth) againſt Three of them; that they were 'diſaffected to the Diſcipline and Li-'turgy of the Church of England; had openly de-'praved the Book of Common-Prayer;' that ſome of them did not 'come to the Church at all, ſtand 'indicted as Delinquents at Seſſions and Aſſizes;' and that they were 'accounted turbulent Perſons, 'and Sowers of Strife and Contention.' But Mr. White refuſed it, ſaying, 'he would take 'no Papers,' (tho' he had taken not only the Articles, but Votes and Informations againſt the Dr.) nor would he permit it ſo much as 'to be 'read.' However, afterwards the Dr. had the Favour of getting a Certificate read from the Quarter-Seſſions; whereby it appear'd, that ſe-veral of theſe VVitneſſes ſtood recorded for Re-cuſants.

To this the Dr. ſubjoyn'd his particular Ex-ceptions to each of them ſeparately; and beſides the general Charge of their Diſaffection to the Eſtabliſhment (of which he alledg'd many In-ſtances in ſpecial) he ſhew'd, that Good was a Sabbath-breaker (which would have been Crime enough at that time in another;) But Mr. White would not ſuffer the Proof of that (tho' the Evi-dence was at hand) to come before the Com-mittee. Againſt Andrews he alledged, that he P. 19. frequently diſturbed the Preacher at Church; talked, and laugh'd in Sermon-time, jearing the Preacher; and ſometimes ſpoke out aloud in Diſturbance of him. But neither would Mr. White ſuffer the Proof of this to come on. Againſt Searles he excepted, foraſmuch as 'he 'confeſs'd, that the Cauſe of their preferring 'Articles againſt Dr. Featly, was to ſtay the Pro-ſecution of a Bill againſt himſelf at Seſſions; 'and ſaid, that if the Dr. would take off the 'Indictment, the Articles againſt the Dr. ſhould 'ſoon be withdrawn.' And farther, that Searles had blaſphem'd the Holy Scriptures, affirming 'that the Old and New Teſtament were but 'Man's Tradition.' But neither would Mr. White permit this to be prov'd. As for Rayner, be was then Bound over to the Aſſizes by Sir John Lenthal, for 'Diſloyal Speeches againſt his Majeſty?' And as for Cook the Waterman, and Sharp the Cobler, beſides their mean Rank and Quality; when they were interrogated before the Committee, what the Difference was of bowing in, or at, or to the Name of Jeſus? What was the Difference betwixt Arch-Heretick and Arch-Schiſmatick? and ſome other Queſtions; they cou'd ſay nothing to them; nor did they agree betwixt themſelves, as to what they teſtify'd: Whereupon Dr. Featly Remonſtrated to the Committee, That 'if ſuch Witneſſes, ſo ſimple and illiterate, ſo foul and obnoxious, known for divers Years to be profeſs'd Enemies to their Paſtor, and none of them Sworn, may be taken againſt a Doctor in Divinity, and the Evidence of an unqueſtionable Copy of his Sermon, and the Teſtimony of Hundreds (of better Rank than theſe) who were preſent at all theſe Sermons, and heard no ſuch Paſſages, as are articled againſt me, be rejected; 'I know no Preacher in England, 'that can have any Security for his Living or Life.

Digitized by Google

P. 29.

In fine, 'altho' the Doctor very vehemently deſired, that his Witneſs might be call'd in—— yet he could not obtain the Favour, to have ſo much as ONE examin'd in his behalf,' either to clear the Peſſiſges of his Sermons, or make good the Juſtice of his Exceptions to the Perſons, which were produc'd as Evidences againſt him. But 'without any further Debate of the Cauſe,' the Committee (conſiſting at that Time of as few as it was poſſible, i. e. Four Perſons only) proceed on the Foot of ſome of the Accuſations before mentioned, to Vote him out of the Rectory of Lambeth, and appoint another to Officiate in his Place; but deferr'd to Report it until the 11th of July following; when to the great Diſappointment (no doubt) of his Adverſaries, it was disagreed to, and thrown out by the Houſe, and the Articles againſt him voted partly Idle and Frivolous, and partly Falſe and Scandalous. But ſoon after, upon diſcovering the Correſpondence betwixt him and Archbiſhop Uſher, (then at Oxford with the King) the Houſe re-aſſum'd his Cauſe; and 'for betraying the Truſt repoſed in him, and adhering to the Enemy,' he was Expell'd the Aſſembly of Divines; both his Livings were Sequeſter'd; his Study of Books and his Eſtate were ſeiz'd, and he himſelf was committed to a Common Jail, which in a ſhort Time brought him to his End; as I ſhall ſay hereafter. And to compleat theſe Oppreſſions, they he was manifeſtly Diſpoſſeſs'd for his Letters, only to Archbiſhop Uſher; yet the * Articles on which he was accus'd before the Committee, from which he had been Acquitted, and which the Houſe had truly Voted Frivolous and Scandalous, were ſome Time after Read verbatim in his Church at Lambeth, and pretended to have been the Ground of his Sequeſtration.

P. 22.

Clar. Hiſt. Vol II. p. 256.

Sept. 29, 1643 Spond. p. 22.

Ibid. p. 21, 22.

* P 169. of the 2d Part, I have ſaid, that he was, low, ſow, ſo I am, take with ' Diſpoſſeſs'd by the

' Houſe on theſe Articles,' but I find ſaid it a Miſtake: And the Reader is now to be informed, that the Second Part of this Work, being firſt drawn up, was likewiſe firſt Preſs'd, which makes it too late to re-all theſe Miſtakes, as it is likewiſe to add, alter and reform ſome other Things, of which I have been ſince informed.

The Oppreſſions of the Proceeding againſt Dr. Featly, are ſo very many, and ſo very obvious, that they need not be pointed out, or diſplay'd by any farther Obſervations: Only it may not be amiſs to ſuggeſt, That the Doctor was in Doctrine a Calviniſt; a Favour r likewiſe of the Faction in many Points; a Man of Moderation, as they now love to ſpeak (and for theſe Reaſons, among others, was nominated one of the Divines of the Aſſembly) and had been very popular with, and high in the Eſteem of the Party. Inſomuch that they had run'd great Advantages to themſelves, as the Lord Clarendon Remarks, on his Reputation in Learning. And therefore the great Severities which they afterwards exerciſ'd upon him, may read a very uſeful Leſſon to ſuch, as by palliating the Opinions, and by continually pleading for Favour to the Faction, do in a manner lend them their Name and Authority, (which they are otherwiſe forward enough to uſurp) and by that means, plainly contribute towards advancing them to that Power, which they will never fail to uſe with the utmoſt Rigour, as well towards their HALF FRIENDS, as their moſt profeſs'd ADVERSARIES.

Hiſt. Pol. II. p. 281.

I have only to ſubjoin, before I leave the Caſe of Dr. Featly, that I have not ſingled out the Inſtance of it, becauſe I judge the Proceedings on it to have been Barbarous and Inhumane, beyond the ſtanding and ordinary Methods of their Dealings with the Clergy; but for the ſame Reaſons, that I have before ſubjoin'd to the Accounts of Mr. Symmons, Mr. Squire, &c. and to avoid Repetitions, muſt therefore deſire the Reader to make the ſame Obſervations and Reflections on it.

I muſt not, however, yet diſmiſs the Account of this Committee, until I have added a Word or two of the Injuſtice done to another Perſon, whom I find before them, or rather (as this Matter ought to be expreſs'd, for Reaſons which will appear by and by) the Injuſtice done to another Perſon, whoſe Caſe I find before them, the Year after Dr. Featly's Sequeſtration; and again, in the more advanced Years of their ſitting; namely, 1647. The Clergyman was Mr. Raynolds of Devon, who had the two good Livings of Stoke-Flemming and Woodleigh, in that County; from both of which he was Sequeſter'd by the Committee, with this Inhumane Circumſtance of Oppreſſion, that he was never to much as Summon'd, much leſs was he ever heard by them, before they iſſued their Sequeſtrations: That from the former of theſe Livings, was granted in 1644, and kept private in the Pocket of the Perſon appointed to ſucceed him, until 1646. Inſomuch that Mr. Raynolds had been condemned almoſt two Years, before he knew that he was accuſed; much leſs was he tried before them. And this was done to provide for one, who had married the Kinſwoman of a Perſon then in Power. The Sequeſtration of the other Living was iſſued in the ſame oppreſſive Manner, about three Years after, to gratifie a Perſon who had married the Widow of a Gentleman (Brother to a certain Juſtice of the Peace) that had indeed a Right to the next Preſentation; but he waited till he was out of Patience, for the Death of Mr. Raynolds, who was then betwixt Eighty and Ninty Years of Age; and under the Weight of all thoſe Years compelled to take a Winter Journey to London of near four Hundred Miles, (hither and back again) in order to get the Sequeſtration of this laſt mention'd Living reverſed; which he did indeed effect for ſome Time (as far, at leaſt, as a verbal Order would do it): But the Committee ſoon after re-call'd that Revocation, (or at leaſt confirmed) their former Sequeſtration) and iſſued another Order to ſeize his Houſe, Goods, &c. and to Diſpoſſeſs him, which was accordingly done. One of the Accuſations againſt him, was, Neglect of Cure; the Truth of which was no other than this; That

Nov. if I conſtitute right, were the Informations ſo much as taken by the Committees in the Country, purſuant to the Ordinance of Parliament Known for that purpoſe, and before mentioned

Digitized by Google

That he had the Palsey, and cou'd not Preach himself at that Age. Another was, The not supplying the Defect of his own Abilities with better Curates; but keeping such as they called Scandalous ones: Whereas one of those very Curates was after approved by themselves, and held a Living, during great part of the Usurpation. Another of them was thought worthy to succeed in a Sequester'd Living, and is one of those mention'd in the Abridgment: And a Third was after Curate to another Person, who likewise succeeded in a Sequestration. Nor were some of the Curates kept by the Person that succeeded Mr. Reynolds at Stoke-Flemming, other than really Scandalous; for one of them (who went by the Name of Wilkinson) was a Jesuit, and had been a Lieutenant in the Army: And another of them had never seen either University (unless perchance he had been in Garrison some Time at Oxford) for he served in the Army at Plymouth, and at Holmby-House (where he was one of those, who had the Guard of the King's Body) only he had been designed for the University before the Wars, and is likewise inserted in the Abridgment: Not to add, That the Successor himself never once Administred the Sacrament, during the whole Fourteen Years of his Intrusion.

Committees of Religion, Scandalous, and Plunderers Ministers jointly.

These are the Accounts of the several Committees before mentioned, as far as I have been able to distinguish, what separately belong'd to each of them. The History of these Committees (not indeed of any other of the Committees, Commissions, &c. which will be after mention'd) was never yet professedly undertaken by any Writer; and the Authors, as well of those, as of the succeeding Times, who mention some few Things of them, do it for the most part in the general Expressions of the Committees, or the Committees of Parliament: So that, as I have before suggested, I shall be obliged to produce what other Notices I have met with relating to them, jointly, and in the heap, with this Caution only, That what here followeth, doth, as I guess, for the most part belong to the two last of them; namely, The Committee for Scandalous, and that for Plunder'd Ministers.

And what I have further to offer in this Kind, will chiefly concern the Prosecutors, the Articles, and the Oppressions, by, and under which such of the Clergy suffer'd, as were convened before these Tribunals of Injustice; which being all of them (as the Reader cannot but perceive) Heads, that have been already touched on in the separate and distinct Account of each of these Committees. I must therefore premonish him, that what I have now to offer, is for the most part only some new (but more plentiful Particulars) of the same Kind with those, which have been already produced.

And therefore with Regard to the first of these Heads, now proposed, (namely the Prosecutors of the Clergy before these Committees) I must in this Place repeat what hath been already said in another, That any of the meanest, basest, and most ignorant Persons in a Parish, and very often a Single Person, tho' notoriously Loose and Debauched, was Countenanced (and in some Instances employ'd) by these Committees, to Article against the Minister, tho' a Person of great Worth and Gravity, and of the first Rank for Piety and Learning; and what is more, these few Persons often pass'd under the Notion of the Parish.

The kind Reception given to such as first apply'd to these Committees with Articles against their Ministers, on the Publication of the Order of the House, before remembred, (as well as the Invitation in that Paper it self) gave all possible Encouragement to this shameful Practice; and animated the Rabble in most of the Parishes throughout the Kingdom, to worry and insult their Pastors, and to get them convened, either before these Committees, or some others in the several Counties, as they thought fit.

The Author of Perfecutio Undecima, who was a sad Spectator of these Miseries of the Clergy, hath left us a very pregnant Testimony to this Purpose: 'Two or three Reformers in a Parish (saith he) usually demanded no smaller Matter of their Parson, than 'that he shou'd resign up his whole Livelyhood at once, viz. his Living; otherwise 'they would threaten to fetch him up to the 'Parliament; which Threats so far prevail'd 'with many of Blameless Lives and Conversation, that to avoid the Trouble and Charges, 'and the infinite Scorn and Vexation at Committees, and the Shame (as then it was accounted) of being ranked among the Scandalous Ministers, gave up their Churches, viz. Mr Melson, Dr. Homes, Mr. Ward, Dr. Pierce, Dr. Hill, Mr. Paget, Mr. Hanslow, &c. and all others fought to change their Livings for some more quiet Place; and I have heard some of these malicious Londoners, not ashamed openly, in the Face of a Committee to profess (and without controul) that they would never give over vexing their Parson, till they had worried him out of his Living; and so much have these factious Men prevail'd, that scarce any Parsons or Vicars in that City are left Unsequester'd. And again, 'So the Case standeth with P. 12. 15. 'the Divines of England; let any ignorant 'Hearer (suppose an APPRENTICE-'BOY, I have KNOWN IT) accuse any Clergyman (the graveft Doctor in Divinity) of Preaching Doctrines, which the Boy 'thinks are False, or Popish Doctrines; to the 'House of Commons, or Committees, shall the 'Divine be sent for, perhaps by a Pursevant; 'justifie his Doctrine he must not, though never 'so True; the House supposeth it to be False, 'Erroneous, Popish, or Scandalous; because complained of: Answer he must, did he preach it, I, or no? Whether it be true or false, 'they will not dispute; hit or miss, they will 'Vote, and that's enough to make any Doctrine True or False, Popish or Scandalous; 'and thereby to Imprison the Person of Christ's 'Minister, and to seize on his Estate; to out 'him of all his Free-hold and Livelyhood, and 'to spoil him of his Goods.' To the same Effect, Dr. Bruno Ryves, who was not only a Spectator, but a Sufferer also under these Calamities, observes, it was 'well known, that two 'or three Men (tho' the very Dregs of the People) 'Petitioning against Orthodox Ministers, have 'in the Judgment and Acceptance of the Faction 'of the House of Commons, out-poised the rest 'of the Parish, tho' infinitely beyond them, as in 'Number, so in Quality; their Testimony being 'rejected with much Acrimony and Shamelessness, 'when the others Libels have gained Credit 'and Reputation with them;' of which he immediately subjoins a pregnant Instance, in the Case of Mr. Coesling of St. Mathew's Friday-street; who was Petitioned against by some of the Schismaticks, 'In the Name of the whole Parish,' tho' Three Parts of Four protested against 'it under their own Hands.'

P. 22.

Merc. Ruff. P. 194.

The

The very worthy Mr. Jer. Stephens, one of the Prebendaries of Lincoln, himſelf likewiſe both a Witneſs of, and a Sharer in thoſe Miſeries; of the Clergy, hath alſo in the M. S. Papers already mentioned on ſeveral other Occaſions, left this Teſtimony to the ſame purpoſe; That 'if 'but one Scandalous Drunkard, or Whore-maſter 'in a Pariſh complain'd of the Miniſter, they Se-queſter'd him.' 'Upon every Pariſh-Pique (ſaith 'Dr. Naiſon) and Unkindneſs (which ſeldom is 'wanting) between the Miniſter and his Pari-'ſhioners, Petitions were exhibited againſt them.' And if the more advanced Times of theſe Confuſions may help us to judge of the Beginnings of them; and the Quality of thoſe who petitioned againſt the Old Miniſters, may be gueſs'd at from thoſe who petitioned for New ones, of about 23 of the Inhabitants of Alkeſly in Derbyſhire, who (Sept. 2, 1653,) certified to the Commiſſioners for Approbation of Publick Preachers, of the Abilities, Parts, Piety and Godlineſs of Mr. Tim. Stanniforth (who hath a Place in the Abridgment, amongſt the Ejected Miniſters) Ten or Eleven of them, it is ſure, could not Write, at leaſt, (if haply all of them might be able ſo much as to read) and therefore ſet their Marks inſtead of their Names, to the Paper. And I find very frequent Inſtances of the ſame nature in other Applications of this kind.

Collect. Vol. I. P. 666.

P. 381.

Agreeable to the Quality of the Perſons who thus petition'd, and Artic'd againſt their Miniſters, was the Manner of their procuring Hands to the Petitions, and the Matter of the Articles which they exhibited. As to what concerns the Methods made uſe of to get theſe Petitions and Articles ſubſcrib'd, the Author of Perſecutio Undecima before mention'd, informs us, That 'Agents in Pariſhes have been em-'ploy'd in going from Houſe to Houſe with Parliament Warrants, ſummoning and terrify-'ing all Men and Women; nay, Servants (I 'have known it) whom they could hear were 'acquainted with ſuch Miniſters; and at Com-'mittees, the Neighbours and familiar Friends 'ſo ſummon'd, have been urg'd ex officio, to 'ſpeak, not only to Articles laid in Petitions, 'but alſo have had their Conſciences ſifted, to 'make them confeſs ſome Crime, or Report, or 'Suſpicion of a Crime.' Something of this kind hath been already alledg'd in the Caſe of Mr. Symmons of Reyne; and the Reader will meet with ſeveral Inſtances of it hereafter. I cannot forbear producing that of Mr. Cheſlin of St. Matthew's Friday ſtreet, in this place. 'When 'all theſe malicious Courſes (ſaith the Author of 'Merc. Reſt.) would not effect the thing they aim'd 'at, they go from Houſe to Houſe, for Hands to 'a Petition againſt him, to the Houſe of Com-'mons; pretending that he had preach'd Falſe 'Doctrine; and made it the Subject Matter of 'their Petition: And if any Man refuſed to 'ſubſcribe (as many did, becauſe they could 'not reſtifie the Truth of their Petition) in their 'Spirit of Meekneſs, they call'd them Malig-'nants, Papiſts, and Enemies to Religion." And in other Caſes, 'to ſome Pariſhioners refuſing 'to ſubſcribe, becauſe they could prove nothing 'of the Accuſations, it hath been reply'd, Set 'your Hands; leave us to prove the Charge:. For it muſt be further known, that ſometimes when the utmoſt that could with any Shadow of Truth be alledg'd againſt a Clergyman, was ſo very Trifling, that their Adverſaries themſelves muſt have been aſhamed of it.

P. 26.

P. 149.

Perſec. Und. p. 12.

Ibid. p. 23.

The Pariſhioners in theſe caſes have been adviſ'd to 'put in ſome odious Crimes againſt 'their Parſon, amongſt the ſmaller matters; 'otherwiſe the Houſe will not regard your Pe-'tition: No Matter whether ye can prove them, 'or not.' And if but any one of theſe Trifles were prov'd; as the Miniſter was ſure to be Sequeſter'd, ſo was there no ſmall Shew of Juſtice in the Sentence and Proſecution. In a word, ſo little regard was had to the Truth or Falſhood of theſe Articles, that they were ſoon become a Matter of Form, as much as a common Bill or Bond. And a Lawyer would readily, out of his Papers, furniſh any Pariſh with a Charge againſt their Miniſter, tho' he had never ſeen him, or heard of him before. 'Two or three Precedents in this kind (ſaith 'the Author above cited) from theſe new Le-'giſlative Hands, had made a Caſe for ſome 'Lawyer's Table-Book, that the known way 'of Petitioning againſt a Clergyman, was, to 'go to ſuch a Lawyer, or ſuch a Solicitor, 'who for his Fee, could furniſh any Client 'with Accuſations againſt any Clergyman what-'ſoever.' And if they ſtarted the Doubt how they ſhould prove theſe Articles, it was ſoon anſwer'd, The Parliament, ſay they, 'put no 'Men to their Oaths; nor allow any Coſts or 'Damages upon Default of Proof, tho' their 'Accuſation or Charge againſt their Miniſter 'be never ſo foul, never ſo falſe, and the Mini-'ſter's Charges never ſo great.' Of which he there ſubjoyns a very pregnant Inſtance in the Caſe of Dr. Coſin.

Ibid.

P. 23.

P. 22.

But the moſt ſham-ful and aggravating Circumſtance of Oppreſſion, in the manner of procuring Petitions againſt them, was, that their Judges themſelves became Sollicitors and Agents in it. 'What Juſtice (ſaith the ſame Au-'thor) can any expect from ſuch Committees, 'who have taken upon them to be Judges of 'the Clergy, againſt whom they have ſo openly 'declar'd themſelves Parties and Adverſaries: 'For ſcarce any of the perſecuted Clergy, but 'can name ſome particular Members of this 'Faction in the Houſe of Commons; and ſo 'by conſequence, of theſe Committees alſo, who 'have been active, not only as Repreſentatives, 'but as chief Promoters and Authors of their 'Troubles, (Miſer Corbet, Chair-man, againſt 'Mr. Brooks; Sir Henry Mildmay, and Mr. Aſh, 'againſt Dr. Walton;) ſome, by giving Inſtru-'ctions what to lay in Petitions againſt them; 'others have drawn up Articles and Petitions, 'and ſent them to Pariſhes to be ſubſcrib'd, and 'to ſeek out Witneſſes, if they could, to prove 'them: Nor ſcarce durſt any Pariſhioner deny 'his Hand, tho' he knew nothing of the Charge, 'for fear of being accounted a Malignant.'

Nor did the Accuſations themſelves fall much ſhort of the ſhameful manner, in which they were obtained; being in great meaſure plainly matter of indiſpenſible Duty; and thoſe too ſuch Duties, as they were bound to by the additional Tyes of Oaths and Subſcriptions, and the known Laws of the Kingdom: Infomuch that the Clergy muſt have been doubly criminal, had they omitted to practiſe them. Of this ſort was their Loyalty whether expreſs'd in their Affection to his Majeſty, or their Diſaffection to the Parliament, and their Proceedings; and their obſerving the Canons, Rubricks, Ordres and Injunctions of the Church; or elſe again, ſuch ſilly and ridiculous Traſh as plainly ſhew'd the, were put to the worſt ſhifts for Accuſations and Articles againſt them; and (as I am forced often to obſerve) generally ſpeaking, the very utmoſt that was alledged againſt them, with any Shew of Truth, fell much ſhort of a Suſpenſion; much leſs would it amount, by any Laws then in being, to a Total Deprivation, ſuppoſing it had been legally and regularly proved; as I ſhall after ſhew, nothing of it was.

Digitized by Google

I have already produced ſome Teſtimonies of this Kind, peculiar to the Committees for Religion and Scandalous Miniſters: The Truth of it hath likewiſe appeared in the Caſes of Mr. Symmons, Mr. Squire, Mr. Finch and Dr. Featly, before recounted; and as the ſame Spirit ran thro' the whole Faction, ſo it will further appear alſo in the Account of ſome other Committees, which I ſhall ſpeak of, and in the Articles againſt ſeveral Clergymen, which will be mention'd in the Account of them in the Liſt: But as to what concerns the Committees now under Conſideration, the Author of Perſecutio Undecima hath left us his Teſtimony to this Purpoſe alſo in theſe Words;

P 27. ' If no Proofs could be found of Crimes and Vi-
' tious Converſation in a Clergyman, then came ' in the Politick Counſel of the Heatheniſh Prece-
' dents againſt Daniel, We ſhall not find any Oc-
' caſion againſt this Daniel, except we find it a-
' gainſt him concerning the Law of his God, under
' the (made odious) Crimes of Innovations, Su-
' perſtition, Popery, a Sin (not sinnes) without
' Tranſgreſſion of any Law, Statute, Act of Par' liament, Order or Ordinance of both, or either
' Houſes: Nor would the Faction puliſh any ' Rule, to meaſure what ſhould be account d In' novations, Superſtition, or Popery, and what
' not; but with theſe falſe Traces they cunningly
' kept up the loud Cries of their People againſt
' the Clergy, making thereby ſo large a Snare,
' that nor the moſt Zealous Proteſtant Divines,
' who had been all their Life time preaching a-
' gainſt Popery and Superſtition, could poſſibly
' eſcape, if but accuſ'd. ' To the ſame effect, Hiſt. Laud, P 441. Dr. Heylin obſerves, that the Articles againſt ſeveral of the Clergy were ' Railing in the Com' munion-Table, Adoration toward it, calling up
' the Pariſhioners to the Rail to receive the Sa' crament, reading the Second Service at the ' Table ſo placed, Preaching in Surplices and
' Hoods, adminiſtring the Sacrament in Cops,
' beautifying and adorning Churches with paint-
' ed Glaſs, &c.'

But to wave Teſtimonies, I ſhall lay the Thing it ſelf before the Reader, out of the Century, which exceeds every Thing elſe of this Kind; becauſe the Publiſher of it was an implacable Enemy to the Clergy: And as there is no queſtion to be made, but that at firſt they pitched on the the worſt they could find, to give the better Countenance to their Proceedings; ſo had he the culling of ſeveral Hundreds at that Time, which had been actually Sequeſter'd; out of whom, there is no doubt to be made, he choſe the blackeſt Inſtances, and gave as bad a Turn to them as he could; and yet was he forced to fill up, by
* As appears by a Marginal Note of the Preface to the Cent. p. 6. † See alſo Perf. Undec. P. 27. and his Majeſty's Proclamation of May 13. 1644. a Century, p. 2, 3, 5, 6, 7, 10, 11, 13, 14, 21, 22, 23, 26, 30, 32, 33, 35, 36, 37, 40, 42, 43, 45, 47, 49. b P 2, 3, 4, 6, 8, 11, 13, 16, 18, 19, 21, 22, 31, 38, 40, 42, 43, 47, 49. c P 7, 8, 12, 13, 15, 17, 18, 19, 20, 29, 31, 36, 38, 39, 40, 42, 43, 47, 48, 49. d P 2, 3, 10, 11, 16, 17, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 29, 30, 32, 36, 37, 38, 40, 48. e P 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 15, 16, 21, 24, 31, 33, 35, 37, 39, 41, 44, 47. f P 2, 3, 9, 13, 17, 24, 31, 33, 40, 47. g P 10, 23, 24, 29, 31, 32, 36, 38, 39, 40, 41, 42, 46, 50. h P 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 18, 23, 24, 25, 32, 41, 42, 46, 50. i P 2, 3, 4, 9, 16, 19, 39, 41. k P 4, 5, 6, 11, 18, 23, 24, 25, 32, 41, 42, 46, 50. l P 2, 3, 4, 9, 16, 19, 39, 41. m P 8, 9, 12, 16, 20, 21, 22, 24. See alſo his Majeſty's Declaration of Aug. 12. 1642. Husb. Collect. 406, 512. n P 2, 4, 5, 10, 12, 14, 18, 21, 24, 26, 28, 29, 30, 31, 33, 34, 36, 46.

ſtuffing of Sermons, and ſuch like Trifles, which
P. 6. were not worth the Printing, and which he himſelf
P. 7. ſeems to be aſhamed of, when he ſays, ' Theſe
P. 9. ' Paſſages I have collected out of Sermons, Pam' phlets, Books, and Petitions, which I have ' met with, and which I have thought fit to ' make publick, that the World may ſee what
' Doctrine and Diſcipline the Church of England
' hath undergone, and what Reformation we ' have had, and what Religion we are like to ' have, if we have not a ſpeedy Remedy.' And
P. 10, 11. in the Preface to the Reader, he ſays, ' That
' many of the Paſſages were taken out of Ser-
' mons, Books, Petitions, and Pamphlets, which
' were Printed and Preached in the Time of the
' Rebellion, and ſince the Diſſolution of the ' Parliament, and that the Author of the Book
' of Sermons, and the Petitioners, were Men
' of Quality, Learning, and Eſtates, and ſome
' of them Members of the Houſe of Commons.'
P. 12, 18. And in the Preface to the Reader, he ſays, ' That
' many of the Paſſages were taken out of Ser-
' mons, Books, Petitions, and Pamphlets, which
' were Printed and Preached in the Time of the
' Rebellion, and ſince the Diſſolution of the
' Parliament, that the Earl of Stafford was no Traytor,
P. 2, 18, 37 39. ' and put to Death wrongfully; that the Parlia-
P. 3. ment-Men were Mechanicks, and Illiterate;
P. 4. ' that the Parliament had more Papiſts in their Ar-
' my than the King; and that the Parliament Ar-
' my did more hurt than the Cavaliers; that he (as
P. 5. ' one of them is accuſed) had a Sanctimonious Jade to
' ſend to the Parliament, to Poyſon the whole Band;
' and that ſome of the Lords were Fools, Baſtards,
' and Cuckolds; that the Petitions of the Parlia-
P. 6. ' ment to the King, were Commands, and not Peti-
P. 7. ' tions; calling the Parliament Soldiers Parlia-
P. 9. ' ment Dogs; charging the Parliament with Sacri-
' lege, in endeavouring to Aboliſh Epiſcopacy, and
' to take away the Lands of Deans and Chapters;
' and ſaying, that to Alien the Lands of Cathedral-
' Churches, to maintain Preaching Miniſters, is to
' pervert the Will of the Dead, that gave them;
' wiſhing Evil might befal thoſe, that went to
P. 10, 11. take away the Government by Biſhops, which had ' its Platform from Heaven; when as Presbytery
' was from Corah, Dathan and Abiram; call-
P. 10, 44, 47. ' ing the Parliament Schiſmatical and Pragmati-
' cal Fellows; a Company of Leggerheaded Fellows;
P. 12, 18. ' Factious Spirits; declaring the Earl of Eſſex and
' his Army to be Traytors, and that the Parlia' ment had done what they muſt die for, if ever
' the Laws were ſettled; ſaying, that the War was
P. 16. ' againſt the King's Perſon, and wiſhing their ' Hands might rot off, that ſhould be lift up there-
P. 18. ' in; that the Parliament had driven the King a-
' way from them, and that the King had no Pa-
P. 24. ' piſts about him; and that the Proceedings of
P. 44. ' thoſe about him were juſt: that they ſcorned the
P. 23. ' Parliament; that the Parliament were not Gen- ' tlemen of Quality; that they cared not a Fig for
' the Parliament; that they could not ſettle the
P. 26. ' Church, becauſe they were not Scholars, but Me-
' chanicks; that they were Factious Fellows; that
' the Major Part being with the King, they were
P. 29. ' the Parliament; that the Land was govern'd by
P. 30. ' wicked Men; that the Parliament hath no Power
' to do any Thing in the King's Abſence, no more
P. 37. ' than a Man without a Head; that thoſe
' who d'ed in the Parliament-Service at Edge-hill,
' went to the Devil.'

They were likewiſe in Point of Doctrine, ac-
P. 6, 13, 18, 19, 40. cuſed for ' Preaching againſt Extempore Prayer;

P. 9. 'Preaching against that Doctrine, which teacheth, 'that the greatest part of the World should be dam-
P. 3, 17, 19, 41, 45. 'ned; affirming, That Original Sin was washed a-
P. 42. 'way in Baptism; and asserting the Doctrine of 'Universal Grace.'

To These may be added, 'Refusing to read
P. 40. 'the Burial Service over 'Children dying unbap-
P. 41. 'tized; refusing to lead the People in saying the
P. 40. 'Covenant; saying, The Curse of God was on
'them that kept Abbey-Lands; and therefore they Ibid. 'did not prosper; receiving the Alms and Obla-
'tions from the Church-Wardens; laying them
'on the Book, blessing them, and offering them up,
P. 14. 'and then returning them; Setting up J. H. S.
P. 26. 'in the Church; reproaching a Fellow for put-
P. 13. 'ting on his Hat in the Church; singing the 43d
'Psalm, Then shall I to the Altar go; Saying, he
'(which was alledg'd against one Clergyman)
P. 16. 'had rather hear a Pair of Organs, than the 'singing of Hopkins's Psalms, which he called
P. 5. 'Hopkins's Jiggs; Saying, that since they had
'Moses and Aaron before them, and the Organs
'behind them, they were an Happy People; and
P. 17. 'that if the Bishops should command him (the 'Clergyman against whom this was alledg'd) to 'wear a Kettle upon his Head, he would do it.'

These, and such as these, were the Crimes (even in the worst Representation of their Prosecuters themselves) that filled up far the greater part of the Articles exhibited against the Clergy: Which may for the most part, be reduced to the general Heads of Loyalty to his Majesty, Abhorrence of the Rebellion, and Affection to the Doctrine, Discipline, Worship and Order of the Church Established by the Laws of the Kingdom: But then it must be further known, that they were often interspers'd likewise with Allegations of Popery and Immorality; with relation to the former of which, it was so well known, what was call'd by that Name in those Days, that little need be said of it: Only I cannot forbear to add, that maintaining the Power of Absolution, pursuant to the several Orders and Offices of the Common-Prayer-Book; advising in Cases of Difficulty and Distress, the disburthening of the Conscience to the Minister, and receiving his Directions; praising God for the Examples of departed Saints, and the like, were abundant matter for a Charge of this nature; as plainly appears to any considerate Person, through the false Colours and Misrepresentations of the Century; and will in some Instances be hereafter particularly shewn.

'The most of your Petitioners voted for refusing the Communion, or adhering to the King and the Religion Established according to their Judgments and Consciences.' Petit. of many thousands of the Reg. Clergy to Sir T. Fairf. in 1647. See also the Proclamat. of May 15, 1643, which will be after mentioned.

And as to the other Imputation, namely, that of Immorality, it is to be remember'd, that not the least word of it is pretended to be charg'd upon many of them; nor will the Charge, where it is plain (black and horrid, as it sometimes is) have any weight with the Reader, when he considers, from what hath been already produc'd, and what will further appear in the Sequel of this History, that the vilest Methods were made use of to procure these Charges; that the Witnesses were Fellows of the most Profligate Characters; that the most known and bateface'd Falsehoods were alledg'd against the Clergy; that they searched Ten, Twenty Years backward, even to the Juvenile Times of the University, to produce these Enormities; that bare Suspicions and Surmises (and even these taken upon the slightest grounds) were pass'd into Crimes: (Nor is the Century it self ashamed in so many Words, to alledge Suspicion of Inch or such a Crime, as an Article in several Instances) that not their Words only, but their Actions, were distorted, and misrepresented, in the most perverse and wicked manner imaginable; that by concealing the several Reasons and Circumstances, they passed an innocent Action into an outragious Offence; that any real Crime (tho' comparatively small) was magnify'd into the grossest Enormity; and that the most common, and Hackney Charge in this kind, was Tavern-haunting and Common Swearing; the former of which was very often plainly no other, than the innocent Freedom of taking a Glass of Wine in a Publick House; and very frequently the other, as I find in several Instances (and some of them from their own Articles themselves) their using in Discourse the Asseveration, By my Faith.

Heyl. Hist. Presb. Ed. 2. P. 443.

Nor will there be any need of endeavouring to acquit the Clergy from this Head of their Accusation (or any other that reflects any real Dishonour upon them) or to search any further for the true and real Causes of their Usage; when I have added, that I do not at present remember ever to have seen any one Petition, or any Articles (and I believe, I have seen Abstracts or Copies of well near the better part of a Thousand) wherein Malignity (under which I also include Affection to his Majesty) or Superstition (either in the general, or specify'd in some particular Instance) did not make up one (and usually the chief) Branch of the Accusation. 'In
P. 28. 'every Petition (saith the Author of Persec. Unc.) Malignancy against the Parliament, was 'the Burthen of the Song;' and this is so very notorious from the Century it self, that tho' there are many Instances wholly made up of those two; yet I think, there are not above Two or Three in the whole Hundred, without either the One or the Other of them; and not above Eight or Nine without the Former of them (namely, Malignancy, or some Instance of it) in particular, not excepting even the very first and blackest of all the Examples; which is loaded with such horrid Crimes, as had they been true, were enough without that Additional Charge, to have made the Person accus'd, the Abhorrence and Detestation of every Man alive.

And, to note that by the way, so very Sensible are the Party at present, that this single Charge of Malignancy, will interpret all the other Articles against the Clergy (at least, at this time of Day, when the whole course of that Rebellion, and the real Designs of it are known to every body) that in a late Attempt against this Undertaking, by mangling and re-printing Part of this Infamous Century, the Publishers have wholly omitted every Word of that kind; and left out as well the General Charge, as every single Allegation of Malignancy, in the whole Paper.

I must not dismiss the Head of the Accusations brought against the Clergy, until I have added a Word or two more; namely, that after they had been by numberless Barbarities and Vexations driven from their Houses and Parishes, Absence, and deserting of their Cures, was frequently made one Article of the Charge against them. I have met with several Cases of this kind (which will afterwards occur to the Reader) but I shall content my self in this Place, with producing only at present the pregnant Testimony of Persecutio Undecima. 'When by these 'Tricks they had cruelly committed many of the 'Clergy into many some Prisons, forcing others to 'fly the like Cruelty, by forsaking their Habi-
'tations and States, their Wives and Children,
'they sequester'd them for Non-Residence; first,
'force them to Fly, and then punish them for 'Flying.'

See the several Instances of this Accusations in the Century, passim.

P. 28. Dr. Nalson in his Recital of some Proceedings in the Affociated Counties (of which I shall speak hereafter) doth to the present purpose, in a Marginal Note of his own, at first an Accusation of a Clergyman for Absence, and Deserting of Cure, &c. in these words Presently. They must needs go, whom the Parliament directs.

And

Digitized by Google

Displ. Short View, p 168.

And the Reader will be perfectly able to judge of the Matter of their Accusations, when he is in the last place, informed, that 'one was by Isaack Pennington sent to Newgate, for singing a 'Malignants Psalm:' And that 'another was committed to that Prison which they made of 'the Lord Peters's House in Aldersgate street; 'because, says his Mittimus, he daily read most 'malignant Chapters.'

After what hath been now said on this, and the Foregoing Heads (tho' much of the same kind will be produced, when I come likewise to speak of the other Committees) let the Reader

P. 87. judge of the Affirmation in the Abridgment; namely, that the Clergy Sequester'd by the Committees, 'were generally by the Oaths of several 'Witnesses proved insufficient, or scandalous, or 'both; especially guilty of Drunkenness and 'Swearing; and those that were able and pious 'Preachers, that were cast out for the War alone, 'as for Opinion sake, were comparatively few.'

Next to the Conditions of the Accusers, and the Matter of the Accusations, the Qualifications of the Judges come to be consider'd. And surely if Malice and Ignorance may be thought befitting Qualifications for such as were to sit in Judgment upon the Doctrines and Livelyhoods of the Clergy; none were better qualify'd than the Members of these Committees; or such at least, as were most active and busie among them.

P. 31. The Author of Persec. Undec. rightly observes of the Parliament in general, That they had 'cast out about Two hundred of the House of 'Commons, Men of greateft Eftates;' 'and 'had Packed' into it 'Multitudes of Tradesmen 'and Merchants of London, and other Corporations;' 'besides many Lawyers, mercenary Men, 'most of them being Recorders, and so Servants 'to Incorporations; together with a few Engaged Knights and Gentlemen, famous for Hawking and Hunting after Lectures and Whore-'Houses.' To which the Army in due time, added a good Recruit of 'Colonels and Officers.' And these, saith he, 'are the Men usurping all 'Power both of Church and State: Who are 'become the Supream Heads of the Church, 'and of all Church Matters, which none of 'em 'ever understood: Yet these (also Parties) have 'made themselves Judges of the Religion, Do-'ctrine, Function and Estates of all the Clergy of 'England.'

Next to Mr. White, who had the Chair of all these Committees, and has been so often mentioned already, Miles Corbet seems to have been the most diligent Adversary that the Clergy had.

Ibid. He was in the Chair of one of the Sub-divisions of the Committee for Scandalous Ministers: And the Author last cited, gives this Account of him, That he was 'Recorder of Yarmouth;' and having 'indict a Man for a Conjurer, was urgent 'upon the Jury to condemn the Party upon no 'Proof, but a Book of Circles found in his Study, 'which Miles said, was a Book of Conjuring; 'had not a Learned Clergyman told the Jury, that 'the Book was but an Old Almanack.' And to evidence further, what fit Men these were to judge of the Doctrines of the Clergy, he subjoyns, 'I have been present at a Committee for Religion, 'consisting of Five or Six Tradesmen and Mer-P. 32. 'chants of London, and an ignorant Lawyer in 'the Chair: Yet these have judged Doctrines by 'Wholesale. —— At this Worshipful, (nay, Honourable) Bar, was a heavy Complaint a-‡ Mr Brooks of Yarmouth 'gainst a Grave ‡ Divine, of Blasphemy, which 'he had preached, viz. That the Virgin Mary 'was the Mother of God: And at a Day appointed for Voting, had not a Divine whisper'd some 'of these Committee-men, had this Doctrine been 'Voted Blasphemy. So easily might the Sacred 'Ephesine Council have been condemn'd by this 'Learned Committee for ——. —— And when 'a Reverend Doctor, and Master of Jesus-College Dr. Sterne. 'in Cambridge, who was charg'd with Blasphemy 'at Sir Robert Harlow's Committee, for writing, 'Honour God with thy Substance, on the Basin for 'Alms, made answer, by asking, whether it was 'not rather Blasphemy in them to call a Sentence of 'Scripture Blasphemy; it was reply'd by a Boy, 'Member of that Committee, Will you suffer him 'meaning the Dr.) to answer by Questions? At 'another time, I heard one of these Committees 'cry out, What a miserable Condition these Peo-'ple were in, who liv'd under such a Minister, who (as the Article was) had preached, that Original Agreable to some of the Charges of the Century above mentioned. 'Sin was washed away in Baptism; which was 'there derided at, as Popery. In brief, to never '(so true Doctrines, the Chair-man saith, they sit 'not there to dispute. Up started Captain Vern '(a Tradesman of London) and ask'd it Divine '(justifying his Doctrine to be True and Ortho-'dox) did you preach these Doctrines? Answer 'I or no: Whether they be true or false, leave 'that to us to judge.' And very competent P. 32. Judges they were in their own Opinions; some of them declaring, that 'since they had 'read the Scriptures (in English) why should 'they not be able to judge of Divinity, as well 'as the best Doctors?

Under these Judges, and with such Evidences, it seems in a manner needless to observe, that what Persecutio Undecima (with of those mentioned P. 15. in the Century, holds good of all such as were Dispossessed by those Committees; namely, that not any one Person had any legal Trial at all. I do not mean, what his Majesty observes in his Proclamation of May 15, 1643, (which will be mention'd by and by) that by Magna Charta, the Church was to be preserved in all its Rights and Liberties; and that by the known Laws of the Land, none but the Ordinary could remove any Incumbent, or Sequester his Profits, &c. And that there was not so much as the Shadow of Law (but on the contrary, the most open and manifest Violation of it imaginable) in the whole of their Proceedings; but that their Dealings with the Clergy before those Committees, were the most barefac'd and shameful Infringements of common and natural Equity, and even of those very Rules and Methods, which themselves pretended to act by: So that had they been vested with a competent Authority, and been bound to no Laws, but those of Natural Justice and Reason, their Treatment of the Clergy would have been the Abhorrence of all sober Persons.

For in the first Place (besides the other oppressive Circumstances of this Kind, already observed) they enquired after, and admitted of Charges against them; the very Memory of which, common Humanity (much more Christianity) had many Years before buried in Oblivion. * If the Persec. Undec. p. 26. 'Parish afforded no Evidence, nor their Old Ac-'quaintance' (for even those they stirred) 'down they sent (in some Mens Cases) to the 'University, to hunt out some Scandal in the 'Time of their Ministers Abode there; nor have 'some Clergymens Lives and Conversations from 'their Cradle been left unsearch'd (I cou'd Name 'Particulars) to get something wher'of to accuse 'a Clergyman at the Parliament; so that any 'Report of a Crime committed Twenty Years 'before this Parliament —— or before taking of 'Holy Orders, or being possessed of a Church, 'or any Crime which Justice had long since ta-'ken Cognizance of, and censured —— or any 'rash Words, never so privately spoken, have 'been now ripped up to make a Minister's Scan-

It is too well known that the same men that was taken by the Party without doors, with a Re-gular Clergy-man that was impea-ched before the Lords within these few Years.

* dal

Digitized by Google

P. 149. 'dal, and the whole Ministry Scandalous.'

To the same purpose Mercurius Rust. informs us, That Mr. Cheshlin's Enemies 'examin'd his Conversation in the very Places where he lived, 'even from his Childhood to that Time, hoping to 'find something, whence to frame an Accusation 'against him.' And the Manuscript of the excellent Mr. Stephens, so often mention'd, affirms to the same Effect, that they searched Twenty or Thirty Years back into the Lives of the Clergy, to find Matter of Accusation, contrary, as he well observes, to their own Ordinance (meaning, as I presume, the Bill for the Punishment of Scandalous Clergymen, presented to the King at Oxford; but rejected by him) which provided only, that Enquiry should be made for such Crimes, as had been 'done or committed within Three Years now 'last past'd, before the first Day of this present Ses- 'sion of Parliament.' Nor can I omit to observe, that this Proceeding was particularly Unreasonable in such, who, as this well known, will very hardly allow any one to be a true Saint, that hath not before been a very grievous Sinner.

Heth. Coll. Fol. p. 129.

The MS. indeed feits Two Years, and calls it an Ordinance (not a Bill) and in some other Circumstances seems to make it dif. ferent from this Bill presented to his Majesty: So that possibly there might be an Ordinance of that Kind, which I have not yet seen. Quere. Vnless these Things may be accounted for by a loose and uncorrect way of speaking.

To this must be added in the next Place, That notwithstanding the Laws of this Realm are so particularly tender of the Liberties and Freeholds, as well as of the Life of the Subject, that they always incline to favour the Criminal, and admit of nothing in these Cases for Proof, which doth not carry with it the plainest Evidence of Fact (insomuch that it is well known, an Offender is often dismissed without Censure, for want of a legal and regular Proof, when in the Consciences both of the Judge and Jury themselves, as well as of all that are present in the Court, he is verily believed to be Guilty) yet in the Case of the Clergy before these Committees, were the lightest and most groundless Suspicions allowed of, and thought abundantly sufficient, to make up part of a Charge against them. Mr. White indeed, in the Margin of his Preface, tells the World, that the greatest Faults (amongst which surely must be the Adultery and Fornication with which he charges them) stand proved by many Witnesses, seldom less than Six. But this alone is sufficient to over-turn the Credit of all the rest that he saith: For certainly those must be left to all Sense and Reason, as well as to any Sense of Religion (and be indeed what he there calls them, Priests of Priapus) who would take so many Witnesses to the Commission of such Crimes as these. However, he sufficiently contradicts himself, when he comes to recite the Particulars of the Allegations, on which they were Sequestred. And Suspicion of Incontinency, being in Company of Women, suspected of ‖ Incontinency, and being with other Women, who walk alone in the Streets in the Dark and Twilight, or going into a Tavern with a Woman, or into dark Places (when the House of the Person thus accused, stood in a dark Alley;) or being in Company with Papists which the very Laws require of a Clergyman, and that for the same Reasons, for which our Blessed Lord himself did eat with Publicans and Sinners:) I say, when such Allegations as these, make up some of the Accusations produced against them in that very Paper; and many more such will after occur in the Sequel of this History; insomuch that I need not scruple to assert, that of the worst and most vicious of all the Clergy, who were before them (for that there were none of them criminal in any Kind, is what I believe no Body will undertake to affirm) scarce any one of them had the least Crime made good against him by competent Evidence; much less was the twentieth part of their Accusations (either in Number or Degree) sufficiently proved; and that therefore allowing the Committees to have been vested with a Legal Authority, (which manifestly they had not) even the worst Clergyman they had before them, was unjustly sentenced and condemned, being not only punished beyond the Demerit of his Crime, but found Guilty also without a competent Proof of the very least Article: Nor was this all; for as the most and most perverted Interpretation was made of their Actions, and that Gloss thought sufficient Evidence against them; so were their Words still more shamefully distorted, and turn'd to a Sence directly opposite to what they plainly intended by them. 'Another Trick of false Accusing, (saith the Author so often cited) accounted a just way of charging Clergymen, was a fallacious wresting of Words. A Reverend Doctor (whom I could Name) was accused in Parliament, that he had preached about Fourteen Years before this Parliament, that the 'Bishops, when they took away the Mass, took away 'all Religion. Upon Hearing, the Doctor produced the Sermon, and made it appear, that he preached at that Time (being the Publick 'Allizes at York) that Men must not think that the 'Bishops, when they took away the Mass, took away 'all Religion. Another Divine was accused of Popery, viz. That he had Preached, that the 'Intention of the Priest, was of the Essence of 'the Sacrament; when he preached it only 'Historick, and confuted the Opinion at the 'same.' That Mr. Squire was falsely accused in the same manner, and those very Accusations made the Ground of his Sequestration (as represented by the Century it self) I have already noted: I shall only add one Instance more to this Purpose, viz. That the excellent Dr. Edward Masten of Queen's College in Cambridge, is in the Century accused of 'praying openly for Saints, 'and People departed this Life'; which Mr. Lloyd allures us was no other, than his 'Blessing God for 'the Examples of Saints Departed': And indeed any one, who is acquainted with their Method of Proceeding in those Times, might easily have satisfied himself of this, from the Charge it self, without the Assistance of such an express Testimony in his Vindication.

P. 25.

P. 41, 42.

Mem. p. 115.

It is known to every body, that the least Variation of an Expression; or the Alteration, or Omission of a single Word, or even a Particle, may, and very often doth wholly change the Sence of what is Spoken; and Sometimes pervert it to a quite opposite Purpose. And it is no less known, how particularly exact, for that very reason, the Laws of this Kingdom are in Cases of Indictments for Words; not only requiring them first to be Specify'd, but to be Attested likewise in those very Terms that are laid in the Accusations. But such was often the Malice, and no less frequently the Ignorance of those, who articled against the Clergy, that nothing could be more Loose, or less punctual, than the Testimonies of this Kind, given in before those Committees; nor could it well be otherwise, when mere Mechanicks, Fellows of the basest Callings, as well as of the meanest Stations and Capacities, were admitted to accuse their Ministers in those Points of Doctrine, of which it was plain they were wholly Ignorant, (and upon Examination, sometimes appeared so in the Face of the Committees) and by Consequence it was impossible they could at all, much less punctually and exactly Represent it in their Testimonies. The Manuscript of Mr. Stephens hath a very noted Passage to this Purpose, speaking of the Committees in the Country, which transmitted mitted their Examinations to some of these Committees, and particularly, if I mistake not, to that for Plunder'd Ministers. 'They admitted (saith the 'Manuscripts) of very mean People, and very 'poor Fellows, any Allegation, without Oath and 'Assertions; when the Witnesses were so Igno-'rant, and Stupid, that they could not speak 'Sence, or Reason, they accepted Papers written 'by others, and caused Copies to be sent to M. 'White, who admitted all, as legal Depositions, 'and good Proof.' And on these Accounts I be-lieve, it may be safely Affirmed, that scarce any one Clergyman out of a Century, who was ac-cused for Words (not even in the great and no-torious Case of Malignity, of which they were all undoubtedly Guilty) had the Allegations main-tained against him in such a manner, as would have been admitted for sufficient Proof, before any Regular Judicatory in the Kingdom. Nor must it be Omitted on this Occasion (tho' it hath been already suggested in other places) that generally speaking, the Clergy were Dispossessed of their Freeholds by these Committees, on the Bare Words of their Accusers, without any Oath. This just Complaint is so frequent in the Writers, who mention any thing of those Times, that I shall not need to produce any Testimonies of it; especially considering, it is known to every Body, that the House of Commons (and much less their Committees) are not a Court of Judica-ture, and therefore cannot exact an Oath; altho' it must be observed, that as they had broken through most of the other Laws, and particularly that of Magna Charta it self, in taking upon them to dissesse their Fellow-Subjects of their Estates by their own single (no) Authority: So for a shew of Justice at least, they might in the same Plenitude of their Power, have ordered, that no Evidence should be Admitted, but on Oath; tho' I must own, I cannot think it would have been of any great use to the Clergy; because the Witnesses being for the most part such profligate Wretches, they would on one hand have made very little Scruple of Swearing any Thing; or if on t'other they had Deposed but the least Circum-stance, or any ground of Suspicion for a Crime, the Minister was sure to be turned out; at least, it would have been no hard matter to have pro-ved Malignity and Superstition, (that is, what they called so, tho' they seldom took care to do even that sufficiently) and that would effectually have convicted him: Only if an Oath had been exacted, the Accusations and Articles against the Clergy would not perhaps have been so large, and very Foul, as they otherwise proved to be; because some, it may be, would have scrupled at Perjury, when it was needless; and they were sure to dispossess their Minister, the main Thing they intended, at a cheaper Rate; tho' they never stuck at plain simple Lying, and Calumnia-ting, to serve their farther Purposes of exposing and blackening the Clergy.) But I believe, scarce a single Clergyman would have been Saved by it, unless the bare Name of an Oath (tho' never so little was expected to be proved by it) might have deterr'd some from Accusing their Minister at all, whilst every one was forward to do it at such an easie rate, as that of a bare Accusation.

See Perfec. Under. p. 55, 56 Cent. P. 24. II Cent 7. Perf Under. P. 26.

Cent. p. 44.

Perf Under. p. 26, 27.

And this will still more fully appear in the next Circumstance of Outrage and Injustice, under which the Clergy Suffer'd before those Inquisitors; which was. That they were fre-quently condemned, without so much as be-ing ever heard; and often without so much as even hearing themselves, tho' they were accu-sed. I have already mention'd something of this matter, in the Case of Mr. Reynolds, and in the distinct Account of the Committee for Plunder'd Ministers. And this must be plainly the Case of all (or most of) those, who were Sequester'd for Absence, and deserting of their Cures; which was, as hath been already said, a very common Article against the Clergy in those Times: But perchance the Notoriety of those Crimes was thought to be equal to any Regular Proof and Proceedings against them. And so frequent were the Oppressions of this kind, that the Pe-tition presented to Sir. Tho. Fairfax, in the Names of many Thousands of the Sequester'd Clergy, in July 1647, complains of them in these Words: 'Divers were never call'd to answer; scarce one 'had any Articles prov'd by Oath, or other legal 'Process; and some put out on private Informa-'tion given to Mr. White the Chair-man.' The same thing is also taken notice of by Mr. Ste-phens's MSS. 'There were never any Bills in 'Chancery fuller of Untruths and Lies, than the 'Sentences of Sequestration made by J. White; 'as may be fully prov'd by many Thousands of In-'stances. He sent out Orders for Sequestration 'OFTENTIMES BEFORE HEARING OF 'THE CAUSE, AND BEFORE EXAMI-'NATIONS OF WITNESSES COULD BE 'DONE——,' dispatch'd Orders of Sequestra-tion 'presently, on VERBAL INFORMATI-'ON, and Letters from some of the Coun-'try Committees. Seldom, or never was any 'Cause in a legal way of Proceeding, heard and 'determin'd. —— Execution went first, and 'Indictment follow'd after.' Empson and Dudley were but Pettyfoggers to him; they had Juries (tho' pack'd ones) and kept the Outside of Jus-tice; but 'White kept neither the Half-side nor 'Outside: For he proceeded without Witnesses 'upon Oath, and without Juries,—— contrary 'to all the Laws of God and Man.' And to the same effect Dr. Griffith Williams, some time Bishop of Ossery, in his Antichrist revealed, shewing that this Persecution of the Clergy did in point of Continuance, Numbers, and the va-rious methods of Oppression, far exceed that un-der Q. Mary; saith, 'They were cited;——they 'had Articles exhibited against them, and time allow'd them for answer; and all the Proceed-'ings against them, were in forma Juris; 'they were more justly proceeded against, 'were fairly handled, and less cruelly dealt 'with:—— For I speak by the Experience of 'some that I knew my self, to be thus handled, 'and thus dealt withal BEFORE EVER THEY 'WERE CALLED IN QUESTION, OR 'CHARGED WITH ANY CRIME, OR 'ACCUSED FOR ANY FAULT, OR HAVE 'LEAVE TO ANSWER FOR THEM-'SELVES, OR BE SUFFERED TO SPEAK 'ONE WORD IN THEIR OWN BEHALF; 'and for the Relief and Support of their Wives 'and Families, to be adjudged, yea, and often-'times contrary to their own Articles and 'Engagements, to be deprived of all their 'Means, their Lands and their Livings, and 'all that they had, to be taken from them.' Such were the Proceedings of those Keepers of the Liberties of England, as some of them af-terwards called themselves, who clamour'd so loud against the Great Earl of Strafford, and the Excellent Arch-bishop, for subverting the Fun-damental Laws of the Realm; whilst themselves tore up from the very Roots, not the Magna Charta only, but the Laws of God, as well as Man; and proceeded in plain contradi-ction to the Constitutions of all Nations, whe-ther Christian or Heathen, to the natural Justice and common Sence of Mankind; and were a manifest Reproach to Human Nature.

Which they there also justly call'd 'Unheard of 'Proceedings,' not to be paralleld 'in any Age.'

Two, who made a Trade of Pro-secutions and Informati-ons in the Time of H. 7.

With an Eye, as I should guess, on the Committee I am now speak-king of.

Digitized by Google

But neither doth this conclude the Oppressions of those Committees; for such base Methods were used to Countenance and help out those Vile and Ignorant Wretches, who appeared against the Clergy with a false and malicious Testimony, that it is not easy to determine which was the greater piece of Wickedness, to dispossess them of their Freeholds without any Hearing, or on a Hearing, managed by such shameful Artifices and Contrivances. 'When some of the honester Party (saith
P. 21. 24. 'Perse. Under.) —— upon often Experience of 'such Slanders uncontrouled, moved, that according to Reason and common Justice, whoever brought a False Accusation against any Man, 'should, lege Talionis, be punished, as the Accused should have been, if Guilty; the Faction 'in the House rejected that just Motion, pretending, that such an Order would discourage Petitioners; and a Chairman being told by Dr. Sterne, 'Master of Jesus-College in Cambridge, upon the like Occasion, that the Committee were bound 'by God's Law not to Countenance a False Witness, according to the 9th Commandment; replyed to the Doctor, that he should not teach 'them what to do.—— Nay, instead of Reproving False Witness, the Faction in Committees have found out Shifts, to help out a Reforming Lyer, or else to salve up the Business, with further Proof to be produced hereafter, or 'making Consequences, or Inferences upon a false 'or doubtful Testimony, left their good People, 'as they call their Agents) should be discouraged.'

I have done with these Outrages when I have added this one Word more, That sometimes they first put the Livings under Sequestration (and that often just before Harvest) and afterwards at their Pleasure proceeded to a Hearing, or at best, to a fuller Hearing of the Cause. The Author of
P. 28. Perse. Under. hath transmitted to us the Words of the Order for the Sequestration of St. James Garlick-Hithe, from Mr. Freeman, by the Committee for Plundered Ministers, to this purpose: 'It is this Day ordered, by the Committee for 'Plundered Ministers, that all the Profits of 'St. James Garlick-Hithe be Sequestered into the 'Hands of, &c. from Mr. Freeman, the present 'Incumbent, till Cause be shew'd to the contrary.' And this I find likewise to have been not only the
See the Ch. of Lincoln. Case of Mr. Stephens, so often mentioned (before one of these Committees) but of many others of the Clergy in the County of Northampton, whose Tithes were first secured, and put into the Hands of Sequestrators, and their Causes after heard at Which were (at least some of them) before sent to or after of their Committees likewise, as I conjecture. such Times as the Committee thought fit, and perhaps sometimes not at all. And the same Injustice was no doubt practised on the Clergy of other Counties likewise.

I cannot forbear to suggest again in this Place, That since the several Charges of the Century are taken from the Articles and Proceedings of such Accusers, such Judges and Witnesses; the most prejudic'd Person living may be left to judge, whether any the least Credit ought to be given to them.

As to what concerns the Numbers ejected by these Committees, I have already said something of that Matter, under the separate Account of each of them; and must now add, that in general it is plain, they were very great. The whole Century of those, which are by Mr. White represented to the World to very Scandalous, as well as Malignant, were dispossessed by them; the Order for Printing that Paper, bearing Date
Title Page of the Century November 17, 1643; by which Time no other Committee for Sequestration had been erected, at least, not to any considerable Effect, as far as I am able to learn. Besides which, it appears, by a
P. 6. Marginal Note of the Preface to the Century, that several Hundreds more had been at that time Sequester'd, the Crimes of whom are there promised to be exposed to the World; but either Shame or Death (in the following Year) prevented the Execution of that Purpose. About one Hundred occur in the Parliament-Journals, by the End of 1643 (exclusive for the most part of those mentioned in the Century): Above one Hundred more appear in the List of the London-Clergy (recited by Perse. Under. p. 41, & seq. all of whom were, as I conjecture, Sequester'd by the Committees I am now speaking of, and far the greater part, by the End of 1643, likewise) most of these likewise Exclusive, both of those in the Century, and those now mentioned from the Parliament-Journals.

Which for the most part, [illegible] that all those who were dispossessed by them, are not noted in the Journals: To which agrees the Complaint of the Clergy in their Petition to the Commons, Feb. 28. 1643. Thus, Fair, 'That no Records, and scarce any Notice were kept of those, 'that were dispossessed thereby by those Committees. Only some few of them 'were not Sequester'd, but Harrass'd, Threaten'd, and forced to Resign.

And by July, 1647, the Numbers they had ejected, amounted to several Thousands (far the greater part of whom were, as I judge, turned out by the latter End of 1643; in which Year, and the two foregoing, I find these Committees more especially busie;) for in that Month and Year, Petitions were severally presented to his Majesty; and General Fairfax, in the Name of MANY THOUSANDS of the poor Sequester'd Clergy, who in that Address of theirs to the Latter, acquaint him, that the greatest part of them had been turned out by the Committees for Scandalous, and for Plunder'd Ministers.

Some of the chiefest of the Clergy, who were thus Sequester'd (all Exclusive of those particularly mentioned before in the Separate and Distinct Accounts of these Committees, and of most of those likewise already mentioned, as Imprisoned) were these which follow: Dr. Read of Ffield in Essex, Dr. George Wilcocks, Lecturer at Newcastle, Dr. Chidersley of Shinfield in Essex, Dr. Meredith of Standford Rivers in Essex, Dr. Lud. Wemyss of Lambourn in Essex, Dr. Samuel Blake of Southweld in Essex, Dr. Peake of St. Mary-Magdalen Bermondsey in Surrey, Dr. Byon Walton of St. Martin's Orgars, Mr. Udal of St. Augustin's in London, Dr. Hinchman, from a Living in the Isle of Portland, Dr. Mussi of St. Dunstan's in the West, Dr. Seaton of Bushey in Hertfordshire, Dr. Fairfax of St. Peter's Cornhill, Dr. Mansford of Thorefield in Hertfordshire, Dr. Robert Coleford of Hadley in Suffolk, Dr. Augustine Wildbore of Lancaster, Dr. Richard Parr of Eccleston in Lancashire, Dr. William Oswaldston of Much-Parndon in Essex, Mr. Chillingworth, from the Mastership of the Hospital in Leicester, Dr. Michaelson of Chelmsford in Essex, Dr. Matthew Griffith of St. Mary Magdalen Old Fish-street, Dr. Mussi of Hilifax in Yorkshire, Dr. John Manby of Cottenham in Cambridgeshire, Dr. John Littleton from the Temple, Dr. Balcanqual of the Savoy, Dr. John Gorsuch of Walkeine in Hertfordshire, Dr. Nicholas Andrews of Guilford in Surrey, Dr. Jeffrys of Feversham in Kent, Dr. Nicholas Wright of Thrydon-Garnon in Essex, Dr. Groff. Ashersh of Hosmanden in Kent, Dr. Dan. Hosmanden of Olcombe in Kent, Dr. Edw. Martin of Dunnington in Cambridgeshire, Dr. Chambers of St. Andrew's Hubbard, Dr. Clement of Ann's Aldersgate, Dr. Grant of St. Bartholomew's by the Exchange, Dr. Brown of St. Faith's, Dr. Stiles of St. George's Botolph's Lane, Dr. Baker of St. Mary-Hill, Dr. Jermyn of St. Martin's Ludgate, Dr. Pierce of St. Martin's Outwich, Dr. Gifford of St. Michael's Bassishaw, Dr. Brough of St. Michael's Cornhil, Dr. Cheshire of St. Nicholas Olave's, Dr. Holi-

See all the Particulars in the respective Counties and Places in the List.

Cent. p. 5, 8, 10, 12, 39, 41.

Perse. Under.

Digitized by Google

Holdsworth of St. Peter's Poor, Dr. Howel of St. Stephen's Walbrook, Dr. Hacket of St. Andrew's Holbourn, Dr. Swadlin of St. Botolph's Aldgate, Dr. Fuller of St. Giles's Cripplegate, Dr. Turner of St. Olave's Southwark, Dr. Bray of St. Martin's in the Fields, Dr. Johnson of St. Mary Whitechapel, Dr. Wimberly of St. Margarets Westminster, and Dr. Stamp of Stepney; with many others of the like Note and Eminence, who will after occur to the Reader in the Liſt.

Only it is requiſite to obſerve to him in this Place, that when he meets with this Expreſſion, By the Houſe, (as he frequently will) he is to underſtand for the moſt part, if not always, that the Perſon ſaid to be Sequeſter'd in that manner, had paſſed through the Hands of ſome or other of theſe Committees, and that his Caſe was from them Reported to the Houſe.

To remedy theſe Miſeries of the Clergy, and put a ſtop to them for the future (if it had been poſſible) his moſt gracious Majeſty, with a peculiar Tenderneſs and Concern for the great Numbers, who had then already ſuffered, and daily continued to ſuffer for their Affection to him and the Church, iſſued two Proclamations; the one of April 7, 1643, (which I have not ſeen) and the other from Oxford (bearing Date the 15th following) 'againſt the Oppreſſion of 'the Clergy by the Intruſion of Factious and Schiſ- 'matical Perſons into their Cures, and detaining 'their Tithes and Poſſeſſions, &c.' In this laſt Proclamation his Majeſty takes Notice, how contrary theſe Proceedings againſt the Clergy were to Magna Charta, and the other known Laws of the Kingdom, which provide, 'That 'no Eccleſiaſtical Poſſeſſions may be Seized, &c. 'or Sequeſter'd, but by the Ordinary; that 'Churches may not be filled, or the Incum- 'bents removed, but by the Ordinary; that Cu- 'rates, Lecturers, &c. cannot be appointed, but 'by the Ordinary; that no Lay-Perſon is capa- 'ble of receiving Tithes, &c. unleſs ſuch as are 'made a Lay-Fee.' And again, forbids the invading of thoſe Rights, under the Penalties of the former Proclamation; and further ſets forth, That 'whereas divers of the Clergy, eminent 'for their Piety and Learning, becauſe they 'publiſhed his lawful and juſt Commands and 'Declarations, and would not, againſt the known 'Laws of the Land, and their own Conſciences, 'ſubmit to Contributions, nor publickly pray 'againſt us and our Aſſiſtants, but conform 'themſelves to the Book of Common-Prayer 'Eſtabliſhed by Law, and preach God's Word 'in the Purity thereof; and in their Sermons 'will not teach Sedition, nor will publiſh ille- 'gal Commands and Orders for ſomenting the 'Unnatural War, levied againſt his Majeſty; 'are ſome of them driven and forced from 'their Cures and Habitations, ſome others ſilen- 'ced and diſcharged from the Exerciſe of their 'Cures, and Perſecuted; and their Curates, if 'Orthodox, diſplaced; and others, who are 'Factious and Schiſmatical, intruded and put 'in, to ſow Sedition, and ſeduce his Majeſty's 'good Subjects from their Obedience, expreſly 'contrary to the Word of God, and the Laws 'of the Land; and the Glebes, Tithes, and 'other Emoluments of Right belonging to 'ſuch Incumbents, as will not conform to 'that Faction, are diverted in all Pariſhes where 'ſuch Arbitary Power prevails; and diſtribu- 'ted, part to ſuch Factious Curates, and the 'reſt to the Maintenance of this War againſt 'Law, and the Liberties of the Church:' and therefore his Majeſty declares, That his Royal Will and Pleaſure is, and he doth ſtraitly Command, That no one ſhall meddle in thus depriving the Clergy of their Means and Pulpit; and that the Dues be again paid to thoſe Diſpoſſeſſed, as lawful Incumbents; and all Officers and others are to be aſſiſting to the Regular Clergy, and to oppoſe the Intruders; but alas, this ſerved only to render the Authors of the Clergy's Miſeries more inexcuſable: And, as Dr. Heylin juſtly obſerves, tended rather to declare his Majeſty's Piety, than to ſtop the Courſe of thoſe Proceedings; being indeed a manifeſt Declaration of his Goodneſs, but withal, a Demonſtration of his great want of Power: 'For, notwithſtanding all this Care, his faithful 'Subjects of the Clergy, in all the Parts of 'the Realm, were Plunder'd, Sequeſter'd, and 'Ejected for the Crime of Loyalty; ſome of 'them never being Reſtored, and others un- 'juſtly keep from their Eſtates, till this pre- 'ſent Year, (Anno) 1660.'

Hitherto far the greater part of thoſe, who Suffered, were ſuch as had diſtinguiſh'd themſelves, and had been unfortunately Eminent for Learning, Piety, Loyalty, or ſome High Station in the Church; or elſe were unhappily ſettled in the Counties near London, as it were within ſight of the Parliament: But that no Remote Part of the Kingdom, nor any Clergyman, how obſcure ſoever, if Loyal and Orthodox, might eſcape them, beſides theſe Superior Judicatories at London, Inferior Courts of Inquiſition were likewiſe erected in all Counties, and moſt of the Cities and great Towns, both of England and Wales.

Theſe were Committees appointed in the Country, and were ſometimes called the Committees of Parliament; becauſe the Members of them were not only nominated by the Parliament, in the Ordinance, which firſt erected them; but a Power was expreſly reſerved to both Houſes, to name ſuch additional Members, as they thought fit, and to appoint new Sets of them, for Places now mentioned in the firſt Ordinance; both which they frequently did afterwards, from time to time, as their Occaſions required: They were alſo called the Committees of, or for ſuch a Place, or County, and the Committees of Sequeſtration. And ſome particular Sets of them, after they had by ſubſequent Orders and Ordinances new Powers given them, were called the Standing Committees for ſuch and ſuch a County.

They were actually ſitting in Northamptonſhire in July 1643, and the Year following were very buſie in that County. They were compleatly form'd, and enter'd upon Buſineſs in Herefordſhire, by the Beginning of March 1645. By ſeveral of their Original Orders, and Papers, which I have now before me, I find, they were ſitting in Devon and Cornwall in 1646, and continu'd acting in the former of theſe Counties through the Years 1648, 1650, 1651, 1652, and 1654: And in a word, there is ſcarce a conſiderable Eſtate or Family in the Kingdom, but can ſadly reſtifie, that they continu'd from the time of their Inſtitution, till towards the latter end of the Uſurpation, to Harraſs and Ruine their Fellow-Subjects in every Part and Corner of the Nation.

Ignorant, and Inſufficient Miniſters, in 1654, ſaith, There was then no Authority in Being for that Purpoſe, ſo that publick Committees had then by ſome Orders or Ordinances, been put down, (or perhaps drop't of Courſe with the long Parliament) but I do not remember to have met with any Aſſent of it. Scob. Collect. Part 2. p. 111.

Referred to in the Proclamation which follows.

Rush. Collect. Vol. p. 177. See alſo Heyl. Hiſt. Presb. (Edit. 2.) p 450. Hiſt. Laud. p 474.

Ubi ſupra, 433, 475.

Committees in the Country.

See Rush. Collect. Vol. p. 597.

The Preamble to this Ordinance for Eaſing Scandalous,

For

For it must be known, that the Ordinance, by which they were firſt Erected, was not peculiar to the Clergy, nor Appropriated to them in their Miniſterial Capacity; but was the monſtrous one of ‖ April 1643, for *ſequeſtring notorious Delinquents Eſtate*s, wherein the Clergy and Laity were blend.d together, under the general Notion of Delinquents, and each involved by it in one, common Ruin.

‖ Hubb. Coll. Fol. p 113. Scob. Coll. Part 1. p. 40. ſaith Mar. 31. See an Order previous to this Ordinance. Hubb. Collect. Fol. p 11.

This Ordinance, after having prefac'd its black Deſigns, with alledging it, how agreeable it was to Natural Juſtice, that the Eſtates of thoſe, who are Inſtruments of Publick Calamities, ſhould be apply'd towards the Support of the Common wealth; provides, that the Eſtates as well Real as Perſonal, of William, Arch biſhop of Canterbury, the Arch-biſhop of York, the Biſhops of Durham, Coventry and Litcefield, Norwich, St. Aſaph, Oxford, Bath and Wells, Hereford, Ely, Glouceſter, Peterborough, Llandaff and Worceſter; and of all Biſhops, Deans, Deans and Chapters, Prebends, Arch-deacons, and of all other Perſons, Eccleſiaſtical or Temporal, who ſhall, or ſhould raiſe Arms againſt the Parliament, or had, or ſhould be in actual War againſt them, or voluntarily contribute Money, Horſe, Plate, &c. or other Aid or Aſſiſtance to the maintenance of any Forces againſt them, &c. or join in any Oath, or Act of Aſſociation againſt them, or ſhould impoſe any Tax, &c. towards the maintenance of any Force againſt them, &c. 'ſhall be forth-'with Seized into the Hands of Sequeſtrators 'and Committees hereafter in this Ordinance 'named;' and of ſuch 'other Perſons, as ſhall 'at any other time be appointed and nominated 'by both Houſes of Parliament, for an, Coun-'ty, City or Place within the Realm of En-'gland, or Dominion of Wales:' After which the Ordinance Impowers the Committees to call to their Aſſiſtance the Train'd Bands, or any other of the Parliament Forces, and to Impriſon ſuch as are Refractory, &c. or to certifie their Names to a Commi tee of Lords and Commons, which were, it ſeems, appointed for that Service; and had Power to ſend for, and Impriſon thoſe Refractory, &c. Perſons. The Money thus raiſed, was to 'be imployed to the uſe, 'and for the maintenance of the Army, and 'Forces raiſed by the Parliament.'

Which is the reaſon that ſo many of the new Clergy were Inducted, as the Reader will ſee ſoon by Troops of Horſe.

The Ordinance it ſelf in the Cloſe, erects thoſe Committees, by Nominating the Commiſſioners for all the Counties, and moſt of the Cities and County Towns of England, ſave that the County of Oxon was left blank (doubtleſs as being to much under the Power of his Majeſty at that time.) Nor was there any County, or Place of Wales mentioned in that Ordinance, for the ſame Reaſon; but they were not unmindful of thoſe Parts of the Kingdom, when they had a nearer Proſpect of getting them into their own Hands; and accordingly, by an Ordinance of June 13, 1643. Sir Thomas Middleton was, among other things, impowered 'To 'name and appoint Commiſſioners, &c. for the' put-'ting in Execution,' this Order: 'For the Seiſing 'and Sequeſtring the Eſtates, &c.' of Delinquents, in the Counties of Denbeigh, Montgomry, Flint, Merioneth, Carnarvan, and Anglſey. May 10. 1644, a like Ordinance paſſed, appointing Commiſſioners for the ſame (and ſome other) Purpoſes, in the Counties of Hereford, Monmouth, Glamorgan, Brecknock and Radnor. The 8th of June following, Commiſſioners were likewiſe named for the Execution of this Ordinance, in the Counties of Pembroke, Carmarthen and Cardigan: And the 27th of the ſame Month, theſe Committees were nominated for the County of Oxon, in an Ordinance which ſerved likewiſe for other Purpoſes; ſome of which I ſhall have Occaſion to mention by and by.

See there and in all the following Ordinances Names of the Commiſſioners for the reſpective Counties, and other Places.

Hubb. Coll. Fol. p. 222, 432.

Hubb. Ibid. and p. 243. See alſo an additional Ordinance to this, p. 432. See alſo Scob. Collect. Part 1. p. 61.

Hubb. Coll. Fol. p. 439.

Ibid. p. 501.

Ibid. p. 311.

In the mean time, Auguſt 19, 1643, this Ordinance of April 1, was by an Additional one enlarged and explain.d; providing that in the Number of thoſe Delinquents and Papiſts, mentioned in the firſt Ordinance, ſhould be likewiſe deemed ſuch, as abſented themſelves from their uſual Places of Abode, &c. or betook themſelves to the King's Forces; and ſuch as ſhould imbezzle, or conceal, &c. any of their Effects, to avoid Payment of Taxes and Aſſeſments to the Parliament, or kept out of the way, ſo as no Tax could be levyed upon them, or that conceal or harbour the Goods or Perſons of Delinquents; or ſhould ſue or moleſt any Perſon, for Obeying or Executing any of the Parliament Ordinances, or Orders, &c. But added withal a Clauſe, impowering the Commiſſioners to allow to the Wives and Children of any Delinquents, for their Maintenance, any portion of his Goods and Eſtate, provided it did not exceed one fifth Part, of which I ſhall have Occaſion to ſay more hereafter.

Ibid. p. 316.

The general Powers given by the two Grand Ordinances now mentioned, to theſe Committees, over the Eſtates, as well Perſonal, as Real, of all Perſons, whether Temporal, or Eccleſiaſtical, whom they had thus marked out for Delinquents, was, no doubt, abundantly ſufficient (without ſpecifying any thing peculiar to the Clergy) to bring under Sequeſtration every one of them, who had hitherto diſcovered, or ſhould continue to retain any ſence of Duty to his Majeſty: And it will be eaſily imagined, that thoſe who fought all Occaſions againſt them, and conſtantly dealt with them, by the moſt Arbitrary and Oppreſſive Methods, were not wanting to execute the Powers and Authority here given them, in a very Diſtinguiſhed manner, againſt the Delinquent Miniſters; as I doubt not, it would in Fact appear, could a perfect Account of their Proceedings be recovered.

However, care was ſoon taken, to provide even yet more effectually, for the Diſpoſſeſſing of the Clergy by theſe Committees: And therefore September 6, 1643, as I have before ſaid on another Occaſion, the Commons Or-dered, that the Deputy-Lieutenants, and theſe Committees in any County, or any Five of them, ſhould 'have Power to take the Ex-'aminations of Witneſſes againſt any Miniſters, that are Scandalous either in Life or Doctrine; or any others that have Deſerred 'their Cures, and joyned themſelves actually 'with, or are Aſſiſtant unto the Forces raiſed 'againſt the Parliament, &c.' and ſend them to the Committee for Plundered Miniſters: And purſuant to this Order, it was, as I conjecture, that the Committee of Northampton were ſitting upon the Clergy, as I have before noted in that County, in 1643. and 1644: For unleſs I very much miſtake, although theſe Committees ſeiz'd the Revenues of the Clergy, examined Witneſſes againſt them, and on thoſe Examinations proceeded to ſeiure them; yet by their Letters and Certificates, they tranſmitted the Caſe to the Committee for Plundered Miniſters, who proceeded finally to determine upon it, and to compleat the Sequeſtration. What was done in other Counties, purſuant to this Order of September 6, I cannot expreſly ſay; ſave that I find ſeveral Footſteps of the Committee for Plundered Miniſters,

Ibid. p. 311.

in-

intermedling in them; and that it seems highly probable, since no Opportunity was neglected againſt the Clergy, this of enquiring into their Scandal, &c. as well as Delinquency, was by no means omitted; at leaſt, until the further Powers of that kind (of which I am now going to ſpeak) were ſpecified to theſe Committees; and in thoſe Counties, if any ſuch there were, where ſuch Powers, or ſome others of the like nature, were not at all given.

It muſt be further known therefore, that as the Houſes often did on ſeveral Occaſions (purſuant to the Powers particularly reſerved in the firſt Ordinance) nominate additional Commiſſioners for many Places, diſcharge ſome, alter others, erect new ones, where there had been none before, give ſeveral new Powers; as well to the old ones, as to thoſe they had new model'd, or a freſh erected, after the firſt Nominations, for ſome further Purpoſes; and iſſue Inſtructions for their better Proceedings (ſometimes general Ones which concern all of them; at other times ſpecial Ones, peculiar to ſome particular Sets and Aſſociations of them;) fo did they likewiſe from time to time, make theſe Committees their grand Executioners for the ſubſequent Ordinances of Levying their numberleſs Aſſeſſments and Impoſitions, raiſing Horſe and Foot, aſſociating ſome Counties, and providing for the Security of others: And in ſeveral of theſe Ordinances were ſpecial Clauſes inſerted, relating to the Clergy.

Rush. Coll. Fol. paſſim.

The firſt of this kind, that I have obſerv'd, is that of March 26, 1644. to enable Sir William Brereton to execute ſeveral Ordinances, &c. which not only Recognizes, as it were, his former Nomination, and places him at the Head of theſe Committees for the County, and City and County of Cheſter; but among ſeveral other things, provides, 'That the ſaid Sir William Brereton, together with the Deputy-Lieutenants and Committees, as aforeſaid, ſhall have 'Power to call before them all Miniſters, and School-maſters, within the County of Cheſter, 'and the County of the City of Cheſter, that 'are Scandalous in their Lives, or ill affected to the 'Parliament, or Fomenters of this unnatural 'War, or ſhall wilfully refuſe Obedience to the 'Ordinances of Parliament, or ſhall have deſerted their ordinary Place of Reſidence, not 'being employed in the Service of the King 'and Parliament; and they ſhall have Power to 'ſend for any Witneſſes, and examine any Complaint or Teſtimony againſt them, upon 'Oaths of ſuch Perſons as ſhall, and may be 'produced to give Evidence againſt them: 'And upon ſuch Proofs of the aforeſaid Crimes, 'the ſaid Sir William Brereton, together with 'the Deputy-Lieutenants, and Committees aforeſaid, have hereby Power to Remove and Eject all ſuch Scandalous Miniſters, and School-maſters; and in their Places to nominate, and appoint ſuch Learned, Able, Godly and Fit Perſons, as they (with the Advice and Conſent of Three, or more, Godly and Learned Divines of the ſaid County of Cheſter, 'which they ſhall call unto them for that Purpoſe, 'ſhall think fit; and ſhall cauſe all ſuch Miniſters 'and School-maſters ſo Nominated, and Appointed, and Placed, to be put in Poſſeſſion of the 'ſaid Churches, and Schools, &c'

Ibid. p. 469.

P. 472.

The ſame Powers, almoſt verbatim, were given to the Committees of the County of Glouceſter, the County and City of Glouceſter, the Counties of Hereford, Monmouth, Glamorgan, Brecknock and Radnor, by a Clauſe in a like Ordinance of May 10, 1644; to the Committee for the County of Salop, by a Clauſe in a like Ordinance of June 13, the ſame year; to the Committees of Berks, Buckingham and Oxford, by a Clauſe in a like Ordinance of the 27th of the ſame Month (which, as I have before ſaid, firſt appointed the Commiſſioners for the laſt of theſe Counties;) to the Committees of the County of Wilts, by a Clauſe in a like Ordinance of July 15, following; renew'd to the Committees of the ſame County again, and added to thoſe of Dorſet, Somerſet, Devon, Cornwall, Briſtol, Exeter and Pool, by a Clauſe in a like Ordinance of Auguſt 19, 1644; and to the Committees of the County of Worceſter, in a Clauſe of the like Ordinance of * September 23, in the ſame Year. And, I gueſs, that a Power of the like Nature was given to the Committees of the County of York, and of the County and City of York, and of Kingſton upon Hull, and the Counties of Lancaſter, Nottingham, Durham, Northumberland, Cumberland and Weſtmorland; which I take to be the Places within the Verge of the Northern Committees, to whom, Mr. Whitlock informs us, a Power was given July 18, 1645, to Sequeſter Malignant Miniſters.

Ibid. p. 510, 512.

Ibid. p. 526, 528.

Ibid. p. 537, 541. See alſo the Ordin. of July 1, Ibid. p. 514.

* Ibid. p. 548, 550.

Ibid. p. 866.

Mem. p. 155.

Alſo Sir Tho. Fairfax had a Power to do ſomething of that nature before in Yorkſhire; and another Ordinance for the like purpoſe, was order'd to be brought in Mar. 27, 1649, for the ſame County: Of both which, I ſhall ſay ſomething hereafter.

As to the Seven Aſſociated Counties of Eſſex, Norfolk, Suffolk, Hertford, Cambridge, Huntingdon and Lincoln, The Charge of Purging them, as likewiſe of Reforming the Univerſity of Cambridge, being committed to the Earl of Manchester, by a particular Ordinance (tho' founded in a good Meaſure, on the Foot of theſe Committees,) I ſhall ſpeak of them at large in another Place. But as for the other remaining Counties whether the Committees proceeded by vertue only of the general Powers given them in the firſt Ordinances, or by the general Order for taking Examinations, and tranſmitting them to the Committee for Plundered Miniſters; or whether the like Powers were granted them in the * Clauſes of ſome other Ordinances, which have hitherto eſcaped my Enquiry, I cannot ſay: But that theſe Committees did proceed againſt the Clergy in ſome other Counties, beſides theſe here named (particularly in Kent and Leiceſterſhire) I am very well aſſured; and have ſome Reaſon to think the ſame of the other Counties of South-Wales, which are here omitted. And whoever reflects on the Temper of the Times, will eaſily believe the Clergy were not undiſturbed in any one part of the Nation.

* Perhaps 'tis very ſhort, and general ones; ſaying only in a Line or two, that ſuch a Committee ſhould have the ſame Powers as were given to ſuch or ſuch a Committee, by ſuch or ſuch an Ordinance, and ſo I muſt have overlook'd them: For I find ſuch Clauſes in ſome of their Ordinances for other Matters.

Although the Committees at London, had, as hath been ſhewn at large, exerciſed all the Arts of Malice and Oppreſſion, that could eaſily be Invented, towards ſuch Miniſters, as were brought before them; yet the Miſeries of the Clergy in general were very much increaſed, by the Erecting thoſe other Committees, in the ſeveral Parts of the Kingdom, and ſpreading as it were, the Contagion over the whole Nation, which as yet had raged chiefly in and about the great City only: For beſides, that the Calamity was hereby render'd Univerſal in point of Place, and the deſtroying Angel was Commiſſioned to ſpare no Family, which had not the Blood of the Covenant ſprinkled on the Poſts of the Doors: So the Goods, Monies and Temporal Eſtates likewiſe, as well as their Spiritual Promotions, were by theſe Ordinances put into the Hands of the Plunderers; the Remoreleſs and Privacy, as it were, of ſeveral

Ibid. p. 489, 492.

Ibid. p. 504, 508.

Which ſtark began to be urged.

Digitized by Google

Counties, administred Opportunities of Oppreſſion with his Shame and Clamour than thoſe could do it, who acted in the more Publick View of the Kingdom at London; and thoſe poor deſpicable Wretches, who could not be at the Expence of a Journey to the Metropolis, in order to vent their Spleen and Malice on their Miniſters, had a Tribunal brought Home to their Doors, which render'd it now as eaſie to diſpoſſeſs, as it was to invent an Accuſation againſt their innocent Paſtors: Nor were the greater Part of thoſe, whom their Patterns as well as Maſters at London, had nominated for that wicked Purpoſe, leſs ready for ſuch an Undertaking, than themſelves had been, and ſtill continu'd to be.

See the Preambles to the Ordinance of Jan 20. 1643. for Regulating the University of Cambridge, &c. Hobb. 1 vol. fol. p. 415; and to the ſame Purpoſe, the Earl of Manchester in his Inſtructions to the Superintendants under him in the Aſſociated Counties of Eſſex, &c (of which I ſhall ſpeak hereafter) recommended to them the diſquieting themſelves into the ſeveral Parts of the Country, that the People might be thereby the more encouraged to apply to them, when they were enabled to do ſo much for much Eaſe.

Dr Rogers, See Herebord Cathedral.

Whether theſe Committees kept any better Journals againſt the Proceedings of the Clergy, than thoſe at Weſtminſter had done; or if they did, whether they might not afterwards deſtroy them, to conceal their Shame, on the Proſpect of the Return of his Majeſty, I cannot tell: But after the beſt Enquiries I could make, I have not yet met with any more, than an Account of their Proceedings in Hereford for one Year. The Characters, and ſome few other Things of the Commiſſioners at Northampton; ſome of their looſe Orders, chiefly relating to the County of Devon; ſome few other ſtraggling Notices and Hints; and very lately, the Accuſations and Anſwers of ſome of the Clergy of Leiceſterſhire; which, tho' far from being enough to compleat a tolerable Account of any one of theſe Committees, (for had their Papers been remaining, many Volumes could not have accounted for all of them) yet are ſufficient to ſhew, that the ſelf-ſame Spirit of Injuſtice and Oppreſſion was predominant in the Country, as in the Town, and that the one exactly copied after the other.

Theſe Courts of Injuſtice were erected at Hereford, ſoon after that City fell into their Hands, in December 1643, with a Salary of Four Shillings per Diem at firſt, (and afterwards Five Shillings) for each acting Member; and their firſt Work was to turn out the Cathedral Clergy, whom they ſoon diſpatch'd; placing in ſome Preachers of their own, and ſeizing the Revenues and Houſes of the Dignitaries and Prebendaries (and forbidding ſome of them to Remove their Goods) out of the Former of which, they Rewarded their Teachers of Sedition, and pay'd their own Salaries; and into the Latter they thruſt both their New Chaplains, and themſelves, as they thought good. The Palace fell to the ſhare of Colonel Birch; Dr. Nath. Wright (one of the Members of the Committee) had the Deanery; and the Temporal Eſtate, as well as the Spiritual, of the Biſhop was put under Sequeſtration. The firſt Act, that occurs in that Extract of their Proceedings, which I have receiv'd, was of March 7, 1643; the firſt Sequeſtration of any Tithes, was that of Kinnaſby, from Mr. Vyner, June 13, 1646. The 23d of the ſame Month they likewiſe Sequeſter'd thoſe of Streeten from Dr. Wright; and the laſt Date in that Extract, is of March 22, 1646. The only Order for Sequeſtration, that is at large recited in it, is that of Dr. Wright, now mentioned; the Reaſons aſſigned for which are, that he was of a 'Scandalous Life' in general, without mentioning any one Particular) 'Incendium againſt the Parliament,' and had 'abſented himſelf from his Cure.' But if the Extracts be exact, they do in the Caſe of another Perſon fully interpret themſelves, and inform us, what we are to underſtand by Scandal: For tho' nothing more was alledg'd and prov'd againſt him, (as appears by their very Order it ſelf) than his being "ill Affected to the Parliament, and a Fomenter of the War;" yet for that they voted him Scandalous, as well as a Delinquent, and accordingly aſſign that Reaſon for his Sequeſtration. Nor could other than the vileſt Oppreſſions be expected from them, if the reſt were Men of ſuch Characters, as thoſe who compos'd the Committees of Cumberland and Northampton. There were indeed ſome conſiderable Eſtates and Families nominated in the Ordinances for theſe Purpoſes; but ſeveral of them did in all probability refuſe to join in that diſhonourable Employment; and others, I believe, let a very ſparing Hand to it; nor did they perchance proceed ſo far, but to ſeveen themſelves; and became Judges in theſe Courts, to prevent being cited thither as Criminals. This, at leaſt, is ſure, that the Committees in the firſt of the Counties now mentioned, were 'moſtly made of Tradeſmen,' who were always moſt forward in Buſineſs, and more active in their wicked Employment; than either the few Gentry, or even thoſe of the Soldiery, that were mixed with them: Nor was there ſo much as one Gentleman appeared with thoſe at Northampton, at ſome of their firſt Sittings, and hardly any after, that could claim that Title, either by 'Blood or Armour;' much leſs did any of them underſtand either Divinity or Law, (whether Civil, Canon or Common) nor ſcarcely any of them even the Latin Tongue: Inſomuch that when Mr Jer. Stephens of Wootton (ſo frequently mentioned) had occaſion to alledge a Sentence of Law-Latin out of Bracton, they took it as an Affront, and Rebuked him for it; telling him themſelves, 'They did not underſtand Latin.' This general Account of the Committee of Northampton, I find in the Papers of the excellent Perſon laſt mentioned; beſides which, theſe Papers proceed likewiſe to the Detail of the Characters of moſt of the Commiſſioners, an Extract of which (for they are too long to be all inſerted) here follows.

See the Cath. of Lincoln.

See an Ordinance' Hobb. Coll. Vol. p. 870, and ſome others in that Collection.

See him in that County.

See the Cath. of Worceſter

'Sir R. S——l (ſay they) was a Perſon never 'noted for Religion, Goodneſs, Piety, &c. his 'Grandfather lived upon an Impropriate Parſonage near Northampton, and thruſt the poor 'Vicar out of his Houſe (which of Right belonged to him, into another) and worſe one, 'and uſurped alſo the Glebe Land. Sir W. his 'Son, by griping, ſelling of Deer, and Graſing, 'got an Eſtate of ſeveral Thouſand Pounds, and 'was Knighted by King James, amongſt the 'glut of Knights made by that Prince, tho' it 'never appeared that he had a Coat of Arms, or 'was a Gentleman: This Sir R. his Son, ſucceeded his Father in Covetouſneſs, Gripping 'and Niggardlineſs; was a noted and perverſe 'Wrangler, hated to pay Tithes; was on that 'Score particularly Troubleſome to the Clergy; 'and had been in the High Commiſſion-Court for 'Moleſting of them: He had been thrown out 'of the Commiſſion of the Peace by the Lord 'Keeper Coventry, for this troubleſome, obſtinate, 'wilful and Stubborn Diſpoſition; and was 'overthrown in Eight Points in Law by his Mi'niſter, to his no ſmall Diſgrace; for which he 'was after quit with him, by a Proſecution in 'Parliament; he was utterly unlearned; underſtood not ſo much as Latin; was a bitter Enemy to the Loyal and Learned Clergy, a 'perpetual Babler, and would talk till he forgot 'what he had ſaid laſt: His Carriage, whilſt a 'Committee-man, was ſo Inſolent, Violent and

'Un-

Digitized by Google

* From the Committee.

'Unjuſt, that he was not only odious to all 'the Country, but diſmiſs'd * for a meer Wrang- 'ler: He became at length indeed aſhamed him- 'ſelf of what he had done; diſavowed his Acti- 'ons, and put them on others of the Committee; 'and at laſt ſuffering ſometimes himſelf from the 'Soldiers, was unpitied by every one: He never 'pay'd any Taxes whilſt he was in Power.'

'His Son R. was alſo another of the Com- 'mittee, (for he could not be called a Committee- 'man) being a Swawling Snotty Noſe; under- 'ſtanding neither Law, nor ſo much as Latins 'nor any thing elſe but Dogs and Hogs; and was 'fit only for a Grazier, as his Father had been.'

'E——d F——r of Daventry: His Father was 'a Pewterer; he was himſelf, neither Gentle- 'man, Scholar nor Lawyer; was an 'ignorant Fellow, who underſtood not a Word 'of Latin; but a very violent Presbyterian; 'a moſt violent Perſecuter of the Clergy; and 'had caſt out many, to the utter Undoing of 'their Families. He was alſo a noted Whore- 'maſter and Fornicator; us'd to hunt on Chriſt- 'mas, and feaſt on Aſh-Wednesday; turned af- 'terwards (with the Times) an Independent, 'and was at laſt forc'd to ſell his Eſtate for 'Debt.'

'T——P——n was indeed the Son of a Clergy- 'man but no other ways a Gentleman: Nor was 'he either Lawyer or Scholar, or knew ſo much 'as Latin; was from Town-Captain, advanced 'to the Committee, and the Bench; had got- 'ten what he had, by Carting, Ploughing, Gri- 'ping and Graſping: And tho' at firſt, for * 'fetring up Chriſt in his Kingdom, Might 'and Main; yet at laſt turned Independent.

* The Preſbyterian way.

'J——n N——n: His Father ſold Skins: He got Money by Plundering, and Sequeſtring, and then purchas'd the College of Cotheſtoke 'near Oundle, conſiſting formerly of a War- 'den and Twelve Fellows.'

'E——d H——y: He liv'd in Church-Lands; 'and was a Gentleman of the New Erection on 'thoſe Lands, which he had almoſt doubl'd by 'Oppreſſion. He was a Wet Saint; and once 'with a Company, having drunk a Cellar dry, 'befrid the Barrels, and ſung Pſalms.' A very fit Aſſeſſor on thoſe Tribunals, before which, Frequenting of Taverns (tho' without Excels) was ſo Common and Fatal an Article.'

'J——n B——n: He was indeed a Com- 'mittee-man; but all that he was capable of, 'was, to tell the Clock, and empty the Pot and 'Pipe. Good part of his Hatred to the Clergy, 'was, his having been ſued for Tythes by 'his Miniſter,' and it may be, that was the Qua- lification, which Recommended him for a Committee-man.

'Sir R——d S——n: He was one, who 'had long carried two Faces under one Hood: 'For he came not into the Party, till he ſaw the 'King's Cauſe decline; and then heartily con- 'tributed to haſten the Fall of it. He was in- 'deed a Gentleman of a good (but at that time 'decayed) Family; and had about Three 'Hundred Pounds per Annum, of Church-Lands '(viz. ſome of thoſe belonging to the Cathe- 'dral of St. Paul,) for his ſhare of the Booty: 'He was earneſt in Sequeſtring the Clergy, and 'notorious for Gaming at Cards and Dice; 'Tho' it is well known, that once playing at Cards, was ſufficient to get any Clergyman diſ- miſſed from his Living.

'R——d O——y: His Father was one of 'the poor Knights made at Calais by the Lord 'Eſſex, when the Queen told him, he ſhould firſt have built an Hoſpital for them. This 'R——d had ſold all the little Land he was 'Poſſeſs'd of, and would do any thing for a Mor- 'ſel of Bread.'

'J—— T——n was a young Man juſt 'come to an Eſtate, and lived ſometimes on the 'Parſonage of Newnham.'

'Sir G——t P——n had an Un- 'cle, whoſe Ears were cropt for a Libel on Arch- biſhop Whitgift: Was firſt a Preſbyterian, 'then an Independent, then a Brownift and af- 'terwards an Anabaptiſt: He was a moſt furi- 'ous, fiery, implacable Man; was the principal 'Agent in caſting out moſt of the Learned 'Clergy; a great Oppreſſor of the County; 'got a good Manner for his Booty of the E. of 'R.; and a conſiderable Purſe of Gold, by a 'Plunder at Lyn in Norfolk.'

'Sir J—— D——n was never noted 'for Ability or Diſcretion; was a Puritan by 'Tenure; his Houſe being an ancient College, 'and his Lands the Revenues of that College; 'where he Poſſeſſed the Church, and abuſed 'moſt part of it to prophane Uſes; the Chancel 'to a Barn, the Body of it to a Corn-Chamber 'and Store-Houſe; reſerving one Side-Iſle of 'it only for the publick Service of Prayers, '&c. He was noted for Weakneſs and Sim- 'plicity; and never put on any Buſineſs of 'Moment; but was very furious againſt the 'Clergy.'

'Z——h T——e: His Grand-father was 'born of poor Parents in Weſtmorland; but 'advancing himſelf by ſome means or other, 'got the Nunnery of —— near Northampton, 'for his Booty, in Queen Elizabeth's Reign: 'After which, his Son (Father to this Z——h) 'married a Daughter of the Lord Zouch, who 'was with Child before Marriage, or elſe ſhe 'had never fallen to his Lot. This Z—— 'built on the Scite of the Nunnery, and Part of 'the Church; turned other Parts of it to 'prophane Uſes, particularly, the Chancel, 'to a Dairy, Buttery and other ſuch Offices. 'In digging and altering, he Violated the Aſhes 'of many great Perſonages; and among them, 'thoſe of Simon, ſometime Earl of Northamp- 'ton, the Founder of the Nunnery, who lay 'interr'd there in a Vault: He had likewiſe 'other Church-Lands, and no Bread to Eat, 'but of that kind: He was ſo vile an Uſurper 'of the Church's and Clergy's Rights and Tithes, 'that his Miniſter Mr. Percival, had been forced 'to Petition the King againſt him: He wrote 'Notes on his Majeſty's Letters taken at Naſeby; 'and among them, hath frequently theſe mo- 'deſt and dutiful Interjections; Here's a fine 'King! Here's a fine King!

'Major B——r, who was at laſt Major-Ge- 'neral of four Counties; among which, this of 'Northampton, was one; had been a broken 'Attorney's Clerk, and wrote for a Farthing a 'Sheet to Eat. He was a moſt notorious Plun- 'derer whilſt in the Army; and after, a Proud, 'Inſolent, Domineering, Turkiſh Baſſa, keeping 'all Mankind in awe; and diſpoſſeſs'd very 'many of the Clergy, without ſo much as a 'Shew or Pretence of any Proceedings.'

'J——n

Digitized by Google

'J——n R——g was firſt, a Clerk to an 'Attorney; after which, as it was ſaid, going 'to London, there undertook ſuch Paultry and 'Knaviſh Buſineſs, that he was forced to ab'ſcond, and keep in a Privileg'd Place of the 'Temple. In the beginning of the Rebellion, 'the Parliament had threatned to hang him, 'and other his Aſſociates for wicked Practi'ces that they had been guilty of; but keep'ing himſelf out of the way, until ſome o'ther Buſineſs had diverted the Parliament; 'and at length approving himſelf a fit Perſon 'for ſuch wicked Deſigns, as they had them'ſelves in Hand; he got ſo much into their 'Favour, as to have the Office under them, 'of making Tickets for Paſſengers; from thence 'was promoted to ſome Office in Goldſmith's 'and Haberdaſher's Stalls; and on the Sale of 'the Church-Lands, got good Bargains, and ſo 'became a Worſhipful Eſquire, forſooth, and 'a Member of theſe Committees.'

It ſeems needleſs to obſerve on theſe Characters of the moſt buſie and forward Members of the Committee at Northampton, that it is more than probable, the greater part of the Acting Sequeſtrators in all the other Counties, were of the ſame Sort; for the Abhorrence wherewith every one bears the Name of Sequeſtrator, even at this Diſtance of Time, and the Ignominy that attends the Poſterity of ſuch of them (who have any left) ſufficiently ſhews, how vile their Perſons, as well as their Proceedings had been: And as little neceſſary it is to Remark, how truly Miſerable the Clergy muſt needs have been under them, when the moſt Diſtant and Remote Corners of the Kingdom were not without theſe Plunderers, and any Two (or at moſt Three) of them had in their Hands the abſolute Power of the Livelihoods (and often the Liberties) of every Clergyman whom they thought fit to call a Delinquent.

As to what concerns their Proceedings, it muſt be known, that the Spirit of the Times being perfectly uniform and the ſame, the Commiſſioners in the Country copied exactly after the Pattern ſet them by the Committees at London; of which having ſpoken ſo largely already, it would be tedious to repeat the Particulars of them; eſpecially ſince they will appear ſo plentifully, when I come to mention the Sufferings of Particular Perſons in their proper Place; the Ignorance, Malice, poor Conditions and profligate Wickedneſs of thoſe, who were the Accuſers and Witneſſes againſt the Clergy, throughout the ſeveral Counties; the Occaſions of their Enmity againſt them; the Matter (ſave that the Covenant was now ſet on Foot, and the refuſing of that made a very frequent Article againſt them), the Falſhood and the Ridiculouſneſs of their Accuſations; the manner of their Proof; the plain and ſhameful Diſtortion both of their Words and Actions; and the Variety of Oppreſſions exerciſ'd pro re natâ by their wicked Judges, render the Practices of theſe Committees altogether the ſame with thoſe already accounted for, and they varied only in the Two Circumſtances of the Perſons that Acted, and the Perſons that Suffer'd under them.

However, I cannot forbear alledging ſome Particulars, in Proof of what I have now ſaid: The Manuſcript Papers of Mr Stephens, out of which I have recited the Characters of the Sequeſtrators at Northampton, affirm, That the Witneſſes againſt the Clergy there, were 'Vile, 'Refuſe, Contemptible People, not fit to be placed with the Dogs of the Flock; much leſs to 'Evidence againſt the chief Paſtors of it.' And in another Place, they inform us, That the Committees 'took the Examinations of Witneſſes; received from very poor People, and very poor Fellows, any Allegation without Oath and Juries.' And again, That 'they admitted of very mean 'People, and very poor Fellows, any Allegation, 'without Oath and Affections; when the Witneſſes were ſo ignorant and ſtupid, that they 'could not ſpeak Sence or Reaſon, they accepted 'Papers written by others, and cauſed Copies to 'be ſent to Mr. White, &c.' And it appears thro' the whole Courſe of thoſe Papers, that any poor Wretch, who wanted to get Money, or any the vileſt Fellows of a Pariſh, who had a Pique or Quarrel againſt their Miniſter, would keep him in continual Fears; and whenever they thought fit to attend the Committees, they were not only heard, but countenanced, alſo and encourag'd, and had frequently Intereſt enough to get their Miniſter and his whole Family turned a ſtarving: Nor could there be a more compleat Evidence than Mr. Stephens was, of theſe ſad Truths; becauſe they were fully exemplified in his own Caſe: For one of his Accuſers was the Jaylor at Northampton, who (beſides that he was a notorious Whore-maſter) uſed to let out the Priſoners in the Night to Rob and Steal, and was at laſt Hanged at Nottingham for Robbing on the High-way: Another was a Bayliff; a Third was an Infamous Ale-Houſe-keeper, his Wife a Bawd, (and at length killed by a Soldier in a Quarrel) and his Daughters ſo very Lewd, that they were commonly known by the Name of the Ammunition Whores; the Fourth was a profligate Fellow, who lived moſtly in this Ale-houſe, notorious for Drunkenneſs and all manner of Diſorders. Mr. Stephens recounts particularly, no leſs than Eight ſeveral Baſtards that he had; and is forced at laſt to add, And divers others; he had been Diſ-inherited for Lewdneſs; was Outlaw'd for curing off the Hand of a Man, who found him ſtealing of Deer; had been Indicted at one Quarter-Seſſions in Twelve ſeveral Indictments; had ſtabb'd and wounded ſeveral Perſons; diſobey'd all Orders; nor could any Juſtice in the Country rule him; he ſtood Excommunicated; and was thrown at laſt into Northampton-Jayl (for ſtabbing one Braybrook) where he had like to have murther'd ſeveral of the Priſoners; for which, being thruſt down into the Dungeon, he died there in a miſerable Condition; and the Proſecution of him by Mr. Stephens in the Eccleſiaſtical Court, for ſome of theſe Crimes, was the whole occaſion of his Enmity againſt him: And yet, tho' all this was known, he had a favourable Ear from the Committees, was countenanc'd and encourag'd by them; and admitted againſt Mr. Stephens, not only as the chief Proſecutor, but as an Evidence likewiſe, and that too without Oath, The Fifth was a Fellow who having gotten his Maid with Child, contrived to drown it in a Well, which was accordingly done, and the Wench after hanged for it at Northampton. The laſt was a Groom, who had been Diſ-inherited by his Father for ſome vile Practices, and was inferior to no Cut-Purſe in Newgate for Cheating, Lying, Couſining and Falſhood; the very Peſt of the whole Country; for wherever he heard of a Miniſter and his Pariſhioners at Variance, he would go and threaten the Miniſter to joyn with the Pariſhioners; and by that means got Money from ſome; from others an Horſe, or a parcel of Sheep; by others he was kept in a Yearly Penſion; but from others, nothing would content him, beſides the Livings themſelves; and he had accordingly ſeveral good ones in that County, Sequeſter'd into his Hands by the Committees, who always countenanced and encouraged

Digitized by Google

Encouraged him, notwithstanding they well knew, that he thus made a Trade of Informations.

I am satisfied, I need add nothing more in this kind, to what I have now said; save that to these plentiful Instances of the Malice and profligate Wickedness of the Witnesses against the Clergy, I shall beg leave to subjoyn one, of their profound Ignorance in the Case of Mr. Gibson of Horn-Castle, in Lincolnshire; who was Articled against by some of his Parishioners (before the Sequestrators under the Earl of Manchester,) for Ormanism; by which the poor Wretches meant Arminianism; and abundantly discover'd what competent Judges they were of the Doctrine of their Minister, and how fit to determine upon the Thing, when they were ignorant of the very Name, by which it was call'd.

See him in that County.

However, their Meaning was good; and the thing they intended to accuse him of, they well knew, was Capital in those Times. The Century hath several Articles of that kind against the Clergy; and not only in this Particular, but in all others, the matter of the Accusations before these Committees in the Country (as I now said) as well as the Quality of the Witnesses, &c. was so perfectly the same, with those exhibited to the Committees at London, that one would be tempted to think, they had made this wicked use among others, of the Pamphlet last mentioned, to furnish themselves out of it with the Forms of accusing any Minister, whom they had pitch'd upon for Sequestration. 'Assisting his 'Majesty, Being in some of his Garrisons, Discountenancing the Rebellion, Obeying the Orders and Injunctions of the Church, Bowing 'at the Name of Jesus, towards the Altar, 'Railing of it in, Requiring People to come 'up to the Rails to receive the Communion,' and the like, fill'd up much the greater part of these Articles, which were preferr'd against them: So that, in a Word, the Representation, that I have already given of these Matters out of the Century, is likewise a just Account of their Accusations before the Committees in the several Counties; only the Covenant being but in its Infancy, when that Pamphlet was Published, the Allegation of refusing that, appears more seldom in the Accusations of it, than in those before the Country-Sequestrators. To which must be added, that the Common-Prayer also being afterwards abolished, and the Directory established in the room of it, the continuing to Officiate by the One, and refusing the Use of the Other, were two new Crimes wholly unknown to the Century, and the more Early Times of the London-Committees. I must farther take notice likewise, that the Accusations of Scandal and Superstition, seem to have been dealt, with a more sparing Hand, by the Country-Informers, than by those, who first accused the Clergy in Parliament; or at least, they seem to have been less particular in their Charges of that Nature: The Reasons of which might possibly be, that the Clamours of that kind dispersed throughout the whole Kingdom, by the Proceedings of the Committee of Religion, and those of Scandalous and Plundered Ministers, had so far obtain'd their desir'd Effect, that the whole Body of the Regular Clergy were supposed Guilty of those, without an Accusation; or else Delinquency being now made Criminal, by a Standing Ordinance (and not by the Arbitrary Vote of a Committee only) and the taking of the Covenant being enjoyned, there was less need of troubling themselves with any other Articles: Insomuch, that of all the Divines Sequester'd in Northamptonshire about 1644, I do not find by Mr. Stephens's Papers, any one of them was even accused for a vicious Life (and in truth, they were, generally speaking, Men of Excellent Lives and Learning;) but they were turned out, 'either for refusing the Covenant, or upon some Displeasure of their Neighbours about paying their Tithes; or refusing to pay the Taxes,' or some other Allegations of the like Nature.

However, the Charges of Immorality were by no means, wholly dropt in other Places; they still continued to be more frequent than true; but I must repeat, as proper to the Committees likewise, what I have formerly remark'd of those at London; that tho' many of the Articles fram'd against the Clergy, were made up wholly of Superstition, or Malignancy or both; yet I do not at present remember to have seen any one Sett of them, presented to any of the Committees of the Country, which consisted altogether of Immorality: But as something or other of the former kind was always intermix'd in the Accusation; so, I am well satisfied, that generally speaking, it served as the chiefest Proof and Evidence of the Scandal.

The Particulars of what is here said, relating to the Matter of their Accusations (as well as the many other Methods of Oppression, made use of to dispossess them of their Livelyhood; of which I shall presently likewise subjoyn a Word or two) are, as hath been already noted, too many to be recounted in this Place; and will appear hereafter dilperled up and down in the Life: But I cannot forbear preventing my self, by producing an Instance or two at present, of the trifling and ridiculous Things, that were alledged against some of them. In Cumberland a Gentleman was avowedly ejected for Hunting, and going to a Publick House. The Crime against another, was, Walking in his Garden on a Sunday-Evening: And against a Third, was alledged, the Fault of his Servant, which it was impossible for him to have prevented. A Reverend Clergyman of Gloucestershire had this Accusation against him, 'That he Courted a Hare of a Sabbath-Day;' which was no other, than his Greyhounds pursuing, and killing an Hare that accidentally came before him: And Mr. Pully of Fordham in Essex, was Sequester'd, because that was a better Living than Wakefield: For it being necessary that a certain New-England Teacher should be provided for, two Livings were taken under Consideration for that end; and Fordham appearing the better of the two, Mr. Pully was accordingly pitch'd upon to be dispossess'd; altho' it is not to be question'd, but other Reasons were provided to be exhibited to the Committee. The Committee in Shropshire were inclined to have spar'd a Gentleman, that appeared to be a Person of excellent Learning, until one of the Members stood up, and said, The Jesuits and Priests were Learned, and therefore did the more harm; and accordingly the poor Clergyman was Sequester'd, as may be justly affirmed, for being a Learned Man. A Clergyman's suffering his Children to play at Cards for Pins, hath helped, as is affirmed, to make up one of the Crimes against him; and it is said, that the Reverend Mr Lionel Playters of Ugshall in Suffolk, was accused of 'eating of Custard after a Scandalous Manner;' not that he was, as I suppose, accused in these Words; but probably something of his eating, was produced in Maintenance of some matter of Scandal alledged against him; which in effect, amounted to what is here affirm'd; and gave occasion to that Saying. This, at least, may be gathered Mildy, as I think, before these Committees; as Ludd, before some other Sequestrators

See him in that County.

See him in that County, and what is more further said of that matter.

Digitized by Google

from these, and many such like Reports which go up and down of these Times; that the Articles against the Clergy were very ridiculous, and that they were as truly scandalous to the Informers, as they themselves intended them to the Persons whom they accused.

As to what concerns the Injustice of these Committees, and the Oppressions exercis'd upon the Clergy, by the more immediate Hands of the Committee-Members themselves; it hath been already suggested, that at Northampton (in defiance of natural Justice, and the very Laws of Nations, as well as Magna Charta, and all the Laws of this Kingdom) 'they did not examine 'one Witness against any Minister, upon Oath;' tho' it must be own'd, that if they acted there, as I guess they did, by virtue of the Order of Sept. 6, 1643, that Piece of Oppression was rather owing to the Order it self (which mention'd nothing of an Oath) than to those who executed it. In the mean time, the Papers so often mention'd (which were mostly, unless I very much mistake, drawn up, on a personal Knowledge of the Matters contain'd in them) affirm, and several times repeat it, that none of the Clergy in that County were legally Ejected by these Committees, even on the foot of their own Ordinances: Such was the Liberty and Property of those Times. Nor did the Clergy reap any great Advantage from the Administration of an Oath in those Places, where they had that Favour allow'd them, and even where the Witnesses confin'd themselves to Truth; because any the least Shew or Pretence, either of Accusation or Evidence, was sufficient to displace them; as abundantly appears in the Case of the very worthy Mr. Newte of Tiverton in Devon; against * whom a Witness of more than common Note, depos'd (and that Deposition was admitted, and had its Weight) to this Effect; 'That he heard a Gentle-'man say, that he heard another Gentleman say, 'that Mr. Newte, when in France, promoted the 'King's Interest.' And of the same kind was what hath been already noted also; that they accepted Papers written by others, and transmitted even Copies of these to the Committee for Plunder'd Ministers, as sufficient Grounds on which to proceed to the divesting of their Freeholds and Livelihoods; and dispossess'd others, even without so much as a Shew or Pretence of any Proceedings at all against them.

See Hist. Collect. Fol. P. 111.

See him in that county.

* As I have been informed by his own Son, the Reverend and Worthy Mr. John Newte of Tiverton, one of the Clerks in Convocation for the Diocese of Exeter.

Nor is it easie to determine, whether the Injustice of their Mock-Tryals, or that of dispossessing them without any Hearing at all, was the greater; since those Tryals were perfectly Matter of Form, and no other; for they frequently began with Condemnation (seizing the Incomes and Revenues of the Clergy, and that too just before Harvest) and then proceeded to a Hearing of the Cause at their Leisure; if at least, it may be called a Hearing, when sometimes they were not allowed to know, either their Accusers, or the Particulars of their Accusations; nor permitted to make any Defence; but on the other hand, were driven from their Committees with Taunts and Threats, when they desired Liberty to do it; yea, when some had obtained their Peace, as the Chief Captain Lysias did the Freedom of Rome, with a great Sum, (and that too more than once) it hath proved but a very short one, for the Committees have afterwards harrassed and perplexed, and sometimes proceeded to Sequester them; and if I do not very much mistake, they Sequester'd several in Leicestershire, (and probably in other Counties also) after they had so far wrought upon their Fears or Necessities, as to compel them to take the Covenant; which is not altogether unlike the exquisite Wickedness of the Italian, who promised his Enemy his Life, if he would Renounce Jesus Christ; but as soon as he had done it, told him, Now he was sure to destroy both Soul and Body, and immediately plunged him to the Heart. Nor was the Wickedness of driving the Clergy from their Cures to preserve their Life or Liberty, and then Sequestring them for Absence (which they call'd Desertion) peculiar to the Ravagers at London; for I find several Instances of it before these Committees likewise; and sometimes they even Sequester'd those for being absent, who had leave from themselves to be so. I must add, before I dismiss this Head, that a Gentleman of unquestionable Credit and Reputation hath assured me, that one of the Cornish Sequestrators (whose Name he mention'd, and who died not many Years since) would make no Scruple to divert Company with the Stories of the Management in those Times; and did, in his hearing, very frankly tell one to this Effect, That there was an honest old Clergyman in that Country, of an unblameable and unexceptionable Life (and of a Living as good) whom they could get no Body to Accuse; or if they had, no one would have believ'd them, should they have said any ill of him. However, himself and a Brother Sequestrator so contrived the Matter, that they got him Suspended (à Beneficio at least) and secur'd the Profits of his Living in their own Hands, till they had shared an Hundred Pounds a piece out of it, and then suffered the Old Gentleman to have it again. Nor is this so much to be wonder'd at, seeing it is more than probable, that they did not let so many good Livings, as they had the Disposal of, slip through their Fingers, without being able to tick some Sweet from them afterwards; and I have now before me three Original Receipts given by Mr. G. Vinter (the Chair-man of one of the Sequestrating Committees in Suff.x) to Mr. * John Tredcroft (who succeeded in the Sequester'd Living of West-Grinsted in that County) for an Annuity of Twenty four Pounds per Annum, paid him by that Gentleman; and a Worshipful Person of that County, now living, very well remembers, that it was 'a common Suspicion in those Days, that 'there were Underhand Dealings with them they 'put in, and that Mr. Vinter was compar'd to 'the Lord of the Manner, and they to his Copy-'Holders, paying Fine and Quit-Rent.' In a word, to very shameful were their Practices, that the House it self could not but take some Notice of them, having under Debate Jan. 17, 1647, the Partiality of Committees: But what was the Result of that Debate, I do not find.

See the Case of Mr. Jay in the County of Northampton.

See the Case of Mr. Blake of Barnstaple in the County of Devon, and of Mr. Blake in the same County.

* One of those mentioned in the Abridgm. p. 290.

See likewise that of Mr. Blake of Barnstaple in the County of Devon.

* Others for him.

Whitl. Mem. p. 289.

I forbear any further to prevent my self, by producing in this place, more Accounts of the numberless Oppressions practis'd by the Committees in the Country; which will appear so plentifully, when I come to speak distinctly of the Sufferings of particular Clergymen, in their proper place: Only, pursuant to the Method which I have hitherto taken in the like Cases, I shall here lay before the Reader, the most perfect Account that I have of the Sufferings of any one Person before these Committees that he may be thereby enabl'd to form to himself yet more perfect Notions and Apprehensions of them, than any of the foregoing Observations can furnish him with. The Case that I shall thus produce, is That of the Excellent Dr. William Peterson, then Dean of * Exeter, and Rector of St. Breock in Cornwal; several Original Papers having been preserv'd, and communicated to me; and among them, one, containing a Summary of his Usage and Treatment, drawn up (in those very Times) and, as I conceive, either by himself, or by one Mr. Thomas † Wright, a Gentleman of his Parish, and his Friend, in these Words:

† He was afterwards Rector of Lanteglos by Fowey in Cornwall.

‡ That

him in his Troubles, and in whose Hands the Papers, Depositions, &c. are written.

'That during all the late Troubles, and at 'such time as the Lord Fairfax came with his 'Army into the County of Cornwall, Dr. Peter-'son, Rector of Breock in the said County, kept 'the Poſſeſſion of his Houſe there, and in the 'diligent Execution of his Miniſterial Fun-'ction.

'Within a ſhort time after the Standing Com-'mittee for Sequeſtrations ſettled themſelves in 'the ſaid County, to receive Informations a-'gainſt Delinquents; but becauſe (for the ſpace 'of Six Months, and more) none came voluntarily in to inform againſt the ſaid Dr. the Committee aforeſaid do by ſpecial Warrant appoint two looſe and diſorderly Fellows to pick up matter againſt him. Theſe Promoters came into the Pariſh; and putting themſelves into the Com-pany of three or four of the moſt unworthy, and looſer ſort of People, they are much inqui-ſitive after his Carriage; and to invite them the ſooner to ſay ſomewhat againſt him, the Sheaf of the Pariſh is promiſed to be left them at a ſmall Value; and ſome others of the Pa-riſh, that were better diſpoſ'd, were threaten'd, that if they will not give in ſome Matter a-gainſt him, they ſhould not be left worth a Groat, and yet he made at laſt to ſwear againſt him whether they would or no. Some of them are wrought at length to ſpeak ſome things concerning the Doctor's Affection to the King, and Diſaffection to the Parliament: Whereupon the Promoters aforeſaid, deliver in ſome Infor-mations againſt him; and preſently after, theſe Looſe and Unworthy People are call'd before the Committee, to give in their Evidence, and are privately examin'd, without acquainting the Dr. therewith; to the end he might either by him-ſelf, or ſome other, have been preſent at their Examinations, and have croſs-examin'd them, as Need requir'd.

'Shortly after, the Doctor himſelf is ſummon'd to appear; and thoſe private Examinations be-ing read unto him, he deſired that the Witneſſes might have been brought before him Face to Face, or that he might have ſome time to croſs-examine them, but could not be heard; but he is put to make his preſent Defence, Viva Voce, having thereby (as was verily thought by all the Standers by) cleared himſelf of thoſe falſe Allegations, he preſented them with a Certifi-cate of his whole Pariſh, together with a Pro-teſtation under his own Hand, ſetting forth his moderate and peaceable Carriage, during all the time of thoſe Unhappy Differences; and then he is commanded to withdraw.

Both which Papers were ſo before me. The former of them is ſign'd by a-bout 140 of his Pariſhio-ners; who ſet forth in it, that to 'their great Comfort and Benefit,' he had ever ſince he had been their Miniſter, 'been very diligent and frequent in Preaching, 'and Opening the Word of God to them;' made uſe always of ſuch Matters, as 'tended to Edification;' and was moſt ſuitable to the Time, viz. 'Love, Peace 'and Unity.' That he was of a 'moſt Exemplary Life, Hoſpitable and Chari-'table,' and moſt ready to do any good Office for his Parishioners. That 'he never 'uſed any Invectives againſt the Parliament;' but always preached for 'Peace, 'and a good Underſtanding betwixt his Majeſty and his People;' and That they believed 'his great Worth is ſpread thro-ghout the Kingdom;' and That he was 'the greateſt Comfort they had enjoyed ſince their Being.'

In the other Paper, he ſets himſelf moſt ſolemnly proteſt (and confirmes it with his own Hand) 'in the Preſence of Almighty God,' that he 'made no inve-'ctives againſt the Parliament;' That he uſed 'all Means & words as 'might 'Union and Agreement betwixt the Counties of Devon and Cornwall,' and al-ſo ſhewed the Commiſſioners of the Two Counties to that end, with 'all Earneſtneſs, That he never 'lent forth Man or Horſe againſt the Parliament;' That he never took the Covenant, or 'Proteſtation on either ſide;' That he had diverſ good Offices to ſeveral of the 'Parliament ſide, ſaved the Lives of ſome of them, and had 'relieved their Priſoners, and obtained Proteſtions for others, by his Intereſt in the Lord Hopton, and Sir Richard Greenville: All which, he ſaith, he can confirme in the Life, 'On his Salvation, and as he hopes for Mercy at the Hands of 'God. And in another Paper, Publiſhed himſelf with his own Hand, he ſets forth his moderate Proceedings in Convocation, having diſſuaded to be excuſed fa-ſting dayes, and made an Intereſt to have that Reaſon granted. But the Adverſe Party would not allow him to be abſent, having diſlik'd the New Oath, and en-deavoured to get it rejected, and having at laſt never taken it, and being very wary and cautious in the Matter of the Remembrance. All which Teſtimonies of his good Behaviour ſome Acquaintance have ſince ſhewed me, and well approved of by them, and Recorded in their Books, to which he appeals for the Truth of them.

Moſt of the Contents of the Proteſtation are likewiſe confirmed by a Petition (a Copy of which is now likewiſe before me) to the Committee of Lords and Com-mons for Sequeſtration, from the High Sheriff of Cornwall, and about Thirty Parliament Men, Juſtices of the Peace, Captains, &c. who alſo add, that 'he is 'endowed with great abilities of Learning, laborious in his Calling, of a 'moſt exemplary Life;' That he hath 'gained from the whole County a Reve-'rend and Worthy Eſteem.' They teſtifie likewiſe his great Endeavours for 'Peace, 'his great 'Moderation, 'and that he never 'fomented Diviſions;' and at the Bottom of that Petition, Mr. Peter Pollard, a Lieutenant in the Parliament Ser-vice, ſubſcribes a ſeparate Certificate, that he was himſelf one of thoſe 'many 'Priſoners, (taken at Stratton) 'whom Dr Peterſon relieved Weekly, when they were in great Extremity, whileſt under Confinement at Bodmyn.

'The Committee now enter into a great Diſpute, whether any matter of Fact were either prov'd upon him, or confeſſed by him, that might bring him within the compaſs of any of the Ordinances of Sequeſtrations: Two of the Com-mittee (to wit, Mr. Treſaſis the Elder, and Mr. Eriſſey) were of opinion, there was not; but the other three, viz. Mr. Gewen, Mr. Chi-verſon and Mr. Wills, carry'd it in the Affirma-tive, by the Majority of one Voice only; ſo they Pronounced him Suſpended from the Exe-cution of his Miniſterial Function within that County; but they did all agree, and openly de-clare, that he ſhould receive no Moleſtation in his Eſtate; and accordingly, for that Year he did enjoy it, and was made to believe, that he ſhould be preſently reſtored.

'But the next Year, ſome other Gentlemen of the Committee, that never heard him make his Defence, and were Ignorant (as themſelves con-feſs'd) of the leaſt Article againſt him, and al-together unacquainted with the Reaſons of the Suſpenſion of the Sequeſtration aforeſaid, theſe (at the Solicitation of the Solicitor) iſſue forth a Sequeſtration againſt him, and plac'd all upon thoſe very unworthy Perſons, that were In-formers and Witneſſes againſt him.

'Theſe Men behave themſelves towards him in a moſt Inſolent Manner, entring into his Houſe, commanding him, his Wife and Family, inſtant-ly to depart, bringing with them at one time, Soldiers with their Pieces ready Charg'd, requi-ring them to Shoot, Shoot, and they would bear them out in it; ſaying, all things in and about the Houſe, were theirs; and at an another time; they came between Eight or Nine a Clock at Night, with about Thirty in their Company, with Clubs and Staves, to draw him out of Doors; but the Importunity of his Sick Wife prevailed with ſome of the Company to ſuffer him to continue the Poſſeſſion that Night.

'The Inſolencies of theſe Mens Carriages being proved upon Oath before the Committee, and the Doctor acquainting them, how unduly the Sequeſ-tration iſſued forth, contrary to the Promiſe and Agreement of thoſe Gentlemen that heard him, the Sequeſtration is for that time taken out of the Hands of theſe Unworthy Perſons, and he again reſtored unto the Living.

'But ſhortly after, at the Sollicitation again of Rule the Sollicitor (and for his own Hands) he prevailed ſo far with ſome other Gentlemen of the Committee (who were likewiſe meer Strangers to all the Proceedings) as to get them to iſſue forth a Sequeſtration of his Living; and to place it again in the ſame Unworthy Hands as formerly; who behaved themſelves in the like Inſolent Manner, or worſe; being ſo far forth Countenanced by the Committee, as they came aſſiſted by a Troop of Horſe, and had Authority to caſt all his Goods out of Doors; and ſome of thoſe Gentlemen, who were of the Committee, did afterwards confeſs, that they were heartily ſorry for what they had done; and would not have done it, but that they were drawn to it, and threatned by ule, and ſome others of the Committee, whoſe Names are ready to be produced on all occaſi-ons: And all this was done to Introduce into

They word more, as I find about 10 diſſeiſſes him of (good a Title ſimbrick was after-wards done) parrity, as I gueſs, Tem-porals, and parrily, Spi-rituals.

Digitized by Google

'the

See Abridg. p 305.

'the Living one Innis, a Scotchman; who being 'a Stranger to the Place, got into the Living 'by vertue of a forg'd Petition, (ready to be 'produced) which he laid he had from the Pa- 'riſh; Whereas in truth, thoſe, whoſe Names were 'ſubſcribed, utterly deny'd, that ever they put their 'Hands to the ſaid Petition; and not one of them 'did live in the Pariſh; The truth whereof is 'certified by the Committee of the County, to 'whom it was referr'd; and by Vertue thereof, 'the ſaid Innis took up the whole Profits of the 'Living for ſome Years, without allowing ei- 'ther to the Doctor, or his Wife, any thing to- 'wards their Subſiſtence; nor ſo much as a 'Fifth Part, which is allow'd by Ordinance of 'Parliament, notwithſtanding many Orders have 'been granted by the Committee for Plunder'd 'Miniſters, commanding the ſame to be paid; 'but after the taking up the Profits as aforeſaid, 'he left the Living, and whither he is gone, is 'not known; ſo that now, and ever ſince, the 'Living doth lye in the Hands of the Commit- 'tee of the County, who have, and do receive 'the full Profits thereof, allowing nothing to 'the Doctor or his Wife.'

I ſhall not venture to Subjoyn any Obſervaiions to this Account of the Sufferings of this Excellent Perſon, which doth of it ſelf ſo fully and clearly explain the Outrages of thoſe Times, and confirm moſt of the Oppreſſions before mention'd (with the addition of ſeveral others) as practiſed by theſe Committees, and their Profligate Inſtruments: Only I muſt add (what I have already, and ſhall hereafter do, on the like occaſions) That I have not ſingled out this Inſtance (from among many others) to ſee before the Reader, as the moſt Inhumane and Oppreſſive of any that I have met with, (for I had no ſuch Variety of Choice) but have produc'd it at large, for no other Reaſons than that it was the moſt Perfect, and the moſt Authentick Account, that I had of the Proceedings of theſe Committees againſt any ſingle Clergyman; and therefore the ſeveral Outrages of it are not to be lookt on as particular, and peculiar; but as the Common and Ordinary Practices of their Plunderers: And I have met with ſeveral Hints, and Intimations, of many that were Uſed much worſe: Nor muſt I by any means omit to obſerve to the Reader, from this Inſtance, the Treatment the Party gave to that Moderation, which they ſo much celebrate: For it appears, that of all Perſons whatſoever, this Right worthy Dean (deeply as he Suffer'd under them) had notwithſtanding exceeded in that Virtue.

As to the Numbers ejected by theſe Committees, it will readily be thought they were very great, when it is confider'd, that the Limits of their Juriſdiction were the ſame, with thoſe of the whole Kingdom; that their Continuance were ſo long; and that the Complaints of their Ravages, even at this Day, in moſt of the Counties of England, are ſo many: But it is Impoſſible, our of the few Looſe and Scatter'd Notices that I have received of their Proceedings, to make any tolerable Computation of that kind. At Hereford, in the Courſe of a ſingle Year, they had diſpoſſeſs'd about Threeſcore of the moſt worthy Clergymen in that Dioceſs, including the Cathedral Clergy; and in the little County of Leiceſter, I find about Thirty Seven of the Clergy of that County (all of whom were, as I gueſs, afterwards Sequeſter'd) Articled againſt, from April. to November 1645; and no leſs than a Hundred were Sequeſter'd in Northamptonſhire, and about the ſame Number in Hampſhire; moſths, if I conjecture aright, by theſe Committees likewiſe: And therefore ſhould we ſay, that in the Train of their many Years Ravages, they turned out (excluſive of the Cathedrals) but Forty in a County, one with another (and I ſhould think, that is no extravagant Demand, purſuant to theſe Hints) the whole would amount to above Two Thouſand: But I lay no Streſs on a Computation, where the Proper Notices for making it, are ſo very Scanty; and proceed to the laſt thing, which I have to ſay of theſe Committees; which concerns their ſhameful Neglect of many of thoſe Pariſhes, from which they had Ejected the Loyal Clergy; and the more ſhameful Succeſſors who fill'd the Pulpits of not a few among them.

1646.

See the Liſt of Hampſh.

In order to which, it muſt be known, that upon the Sequeſtration of a Living (whether by the Committees above, as hath been already noted, or by theſe in the Country, of which I am now ſpeaking) the Profits and Incomes of it were not preſently put into the Hands of the Perſon, who was to ſucceed in the Cure, but moſt commonly into the Hands of ſome other Perſons (frequently ſome of the Promoters, Proſecutors and Evidences, againſt the Ejected Loyaliſt) whom the Committees thought fit to Name, with an Order to pay either the whole, or ſuch part of it, as they were Pleaſed to appoint, to thoſe of their own Practicers, that were ſubſtituted in the vacant Places: But as in the Caſe of Epiſcopacy, they were ſo impatient to Reform, that they could not delay their Satisfaction, whilſt they might give themſelves time to prepare another Form of Government, which ſhould ſucceed in the Room of it: So did their Zeal to turn out Scandalous Miniſters, ſo much exceed that of providing ſuch as were Godly, Learned and Orthodox, to ſupply their Cures, that in many Places they appointed no Succeſſors at all; for a Conſiderable time; but put the Revenues of the Livings into their own Pockets, or ſhared them with the Sequeſtrators, or ſometimes accounted to the Publick for as much of them, as they thought convenient.

See his Majeſty's Declarat. of Aug. 12, 1642; who complains, that the Incomes of the Clergy were partly employed to maintain the Intruders, and partly to maintain the War againſt himſelf.

This hath in ſome part appear'd already in the Caſe of Dr. Peterſon, laſt mentioned; as it will more fully hereafter, in many more ſuch Inſtances: and the Commiſſioners for propagating the Goſpel in South-Wales, were ſo very ſhameful in this kind, that Complaint of it was made to the Parliament, as I ſhall ſay in another Place; and, what I cannot but think is ſtill worſe, they often Appointed, and at other times Permitted, at leaſt, on the Sequeſtration, or Death, of an Incumbent, or other Vacancy in a Pariſh, ſuch Perſons to fill the Pulpits, as are by no means ſufficiently accounted for; when it is only ſaid, that they were a 'Reproach and 'Scandal to Chriſtianity:' Altho' it muſt be owned, this was not wholly their own Faults; for they made ſuch a thorough Reformation among the Malignant Clergy; and ſo many of them were not only brought unders but really merited that Denomination, that it was plainly impoſſible for them to ſupply their Places at all with Men of Learning and Univerſity Education; much leſs could the whole World at that time have fill'd their Pulpits, with Men of Learning and Piety, Equal to that of great Numbers among thoſe, who were Ejected.

I do not mean Such Scurrilous Phraſes as occaſionally Preached, or Set in Print by ſome of theſe very Miniſters, but ſuch as were often Settled in Pariſhes, or permitted, at leaſt, to enter the Countries, &c.

Even in London, where the Proviſion generally ſpeaking, is ſuch, that a Godly Man may venture to accept of it; where the Souls were ſo Numerous, and where they lay ſo open to the View of the whole Nation, at their very firſt ſetting out, when they had great plenty of their Preachers unprovided for, and when it was ſo very needneedful to pass their Pretence of setting up 'Jesus Christ in his Kingdom,' for a Reality, there 'were about Forty Churches void, having no conformist Minister in them;' and yet at that very time, the Earl of Northumberland, discouring with a Leading Minister of the Faction, about the Supplying of these Churches, and saying, they 'must supply some of the Sequester'd Clergy of London,' he was solemnly Answer'd, God forbid! Not to repeat what hath been already Hinted, that the Vacancies which were at length supply'd by those Committees at London, were in good Measure filled with a Sett of Factious Lecturers from New England, and even with 'Tradesmen, 'and Ignorant Fellows of all Sorts,' who were appointed 'to be Ministers,' then thrust 'into the best Livings in the Kingdom,' as hath been already remember'd.

Digitized by Google

Perfec. Und. p. 42.

Ibid p. 19. was there falsly, where more above so said at that time.

And how well the Want of Gospel Ordinances, was supply'd, and the Ignorance and Insufficiency, of those Dumb Dogs, that were cast out, was remedy'd in other Places, by the Commissioners we are now speaking of, will be sufficiently guess'd at, if not from this Instance of London, yet at least, from those many Testimonies and Instances to this purpose, which here follow.

The' possibly some few of these Instances may belong to some other Sorts of Sequestrators, as I find many others do, which I have for that reason, omitted to mention in this Place.

In Cornwall I find a sort of Unsettled Itinerants appointed, as they were in South-Wales: And in Cumberland, a very Learned Gentleman of that County hath assur'd me, 'tho' they Ejected the Episcopal 'Clergy, and so left many Cures vacant, yet they 'did not care to supply them, nor could do it presently with particular Incumbents;' but it was done for some time, in the Itinerant way. How miserably several Places in Lincolnshire were provided for, I have laid already, when I spoke of the Classes of that County. In Hereford likewise, I find, they ran to and fro, and seldom settled in one Living, longer than until a better was Sequester'd from some Malignant or other: And Dr. Fuller, who never Labour'd under any Imputation of Partiality in Favour, of the Church, 'for tho' he was a Sufferer under the Faction, yet his Pains were not Pungent, or his Senses not quick enough to rouse him out of his Lethargy) could not but see, when he open'd his Eyes, that 'many young * Students, whose Orders got the Speed of their 'Degrees,' were put into Livings; and that other Ministers of the Times were Dualists and Pluralists, notwithstanding the Clamours they had made against the Corruption; and that 'many 'Vicarages of great Cure, but small Value, were 'without Ministers; which was often complain'd 'of, seldom redress'd; it passing for a current 'Maxim, that it was safer for People to fast, than 'to feed on the Poyson of Malignant Pastors.'

The' he seems to speak chiefly indeed of the Isle, and more easily Times of the Sequestrators.

*Ch. Hist Cent 17. Lib. 11 p. 208.

But to alledge a few Particulars: At Gorran in Cornwall, he Incumbent dying in 1646, no one was put in for Ten Years together; but the Sequestrators (as every one was well satisfied) 'put the Profits into their own Pockets.' The Rectory of Burrington in Devon, lay void a considerable time, after the Excellent Mr. Harvey was Sequester'd from it; and there were neither Prayers nor Preaching, more than once in a Month or Five Weeks. No one was Placed in, at Headcorn in Kent, (after they had drove Mr. Brett from thence) as a Settled Minister; but sometimes they had one, and at other times they had no Minister. After the Sequestration of Mr. Goodwin from the Vicaridge of Cransford in Suffolk, there was no Settled Minister in some Years; but only Curates who did not tarry any while; and among them was one Mr Swine, who had no less than Seven or Eight Curacies or Livings, besides. There was no Settled Minister at Tavistock (a great Market-Town) in Devon, from 1642, till 1648; but various People Preach'd there. There were no less than Five in as many Years, at Cadbury in the same County; and some of them never administred the Sacrament; and in other Places of that County, there was such a Succession of Ministers, that the Old People who lived thro' the Times, cannot enumerate them. There was no one Settled in the small Vicaridge of Nasington in Northamptonshire, for a long time, after the Ejectment of the Excellent Mr. Wilcox, until at length there came a vile Debauched Fellow, who after ran away for Debt. At St. Ives in Huntingdonshire, no Minister appears on the Parish-Book, from 1642, (when Mr. Downhall and his Curate were driven away) until 1650. The little Vicaridge of Ninehead in Somersetshire, after the Incumbent had quitted it, and the small Tithes were seized, had no one Settled upon it; but became a sort of resting Place for the wandring Loyalists, for some time; who were, however, hunted out one after another; and at last, that no more of them might find a piece of Bread there, they supply'd it by a Club of their own Preachers. It appears by some of the Original Accounts, of the Sequestrators for one part of Cornwall, now before me, that the following Places were unsupply'd with Settled Ministers respectively, either in part of, or the whole Years 1646, 1647 and 1648; for I find Salaries paid to those, who Officiated in them, being destitute of Ministers, viz. Bodmyn, Launceston, St. Austel, Lanteglos by Cambleford, Linkenborne, Stratton, St. Buryan, Sennen-Levan, Warbistow, St. Cleer, St. Malyn, Kellington, St. Creed, St. Stephens in Branwell, Saltash, Camborn, Gwinnear, Feock, Peranuthno, Mawer, Blissland, Germo, St. Germans, St. Ives, Southhill, Tintagel, Ladock, St. Earth, St. Clements, Minhinet, Mullian and Ruan, St. Mevrin, Sithney, Brock, Lanvake, Gwinnop, and St. Cue. And it also appears in the same Accounts, that Stipends were issued to about Fourteen other Persons, who are said to Officiate at divers Places; besides which, I find, that at Withel in the same County, there was no Settled Minister, for Five Years, after the Sequestration of Mr. Frobock. The Vacancy of Colan in the same County, was never filled, after the Death of the Minister, till 1661. St. Columb Minor, and another Impropriation in that County likewise, were kept in the Commissioners Hands; and there was hardly any Service at all performed at them. There was no one Settled at St. Issy in that County, after the Sequestration in in 1651, until 1658; and then one Rule held that Living and 3 or 4 more: Nor was any one Settled in Little St. Petherick in the same County, after the Sequestration of Mr. Berry in 1652, until 1657. The Parish of Hittesleigh in Devon, was unprovided with a Settled Minister, for some time after the Sequestration of Mr. Baker; and a Pestilential Distemper, breaking out at Barnstaple in that County, soon after the Suspension of the Excellent Mr. Blake of that Place, the Committee neither sent any one thither, nor would they permit Mr. Blake to return, tho' they were earnestly Petition'd for that Purpose.

But several of them Daughter-Churches. To another Part of those Accounts, some other Places are mentioned to a like Purpose; and many that officiated in divers Places likewise.

And Happier were these Places without Ministers, than many of those Parishes, where Care was taken (if it may be call'd by that Name) to provide for the Supply of the Cure, as will fully appear from what follows. The Learned Person just now mention'd further assures me, from Cumberland, that those who Succeeded the Ejected Clergy of that Diocese, were Inferiour Illiterate, Bold, Rude Persons, and several Exercised their Gifts in the Independant and Anabaptistical Way. The Manuscript Papers of Mr. Jer. Stephens, so frequently alledged, inform us, that as a Hundred worthy Men (generally Speaking) were Sequester'd in that County; so 'vile, undeserving, poor Curates, poor School-

Digitized by Google

'masters, poor Lecturers, poor Vicars, poor 'New Lights, were Substituted in their Places; 'hardly one that had been Fellow of a College, 'or had been any Time in the University; but 'poor Scholars, Servitors, and Curates.' And again, speaking of the whole Kingdom, tho' they called them Orthodox and Learned Divines, 'In 'Truth they were scandalous for their Igno-'rance and want of Learning, and alfo for their 'Lives and Conditions, as may be proved by 'many Thousand Instances.'

A few of this kind I shall here subjoyn: The Learned Mr. Riland, who had been Fellow of Magdalen-College in Oxford, and after the Restoration became a Deacon of Coventry, was succeeded on the Sequestration of his Living in Warwickshire, by a Jesuit-Gomber: The Living of Dunsford in Devon, was fill'd for several Years by one Pearse, who had been a Trooper at Worcester-Fight, and carried a Token of that good Service by a Cut over his Hand; he was wretchedly Illiterate, was never of any University, nor in any Orders, as far as can be learned; not at least, in Episcopal Orders: The excellent Mr. Tongood and Mr. Standfast of Bristol, were succeeded by 'Taylors, and others; who, some were Baptists; others, in 1653. turn'd Quakers and Ranters.' One Taylor's Name in Particular, was Emens; and he succeeded Mr. Standfast in the Rectory of Christ-Church in that City; and the Vicaridge of St. Philip's was supply'd by one Hancock, who had been Butler to Sir George Horner; and both these (to note that by the way) are mentioned among the ejected Nonconformists in the Abridgment: One Becket a Baker, was put into the Rectory of Buckland in Gloucestershire; and one Finch a Cobler, was put into Lemington in the same County; and is likewise the Person mentioned by the Abridgment, as ejected thence. Two of Mr. Tylor's Successors at Depden in Suffolk, were 'Illiterate Mechanicks, as appears from the Parish 'Register-Book, where they have under their 'own Hands left lasting Monuments of their Insufficiency, by writing Nonfence and False Grammar, as often as they had occasion to write at 'all: The Lady Eden's Coachman (whose Name was Ongue) succeeded in the Sequestr'd Living of Kelden in Essex; and it may be, he was the Coachman (tho' 'tis not impossible, that two of that Employment might go into the Pulpit, as well as the Coach-Box, in those Days, and no doubt, drove on furiously) who preach'd some time at Hempstead in Herefordshire: One Bagley a meer Layman, succeeded the worthy Mr. Gen. Benson, in the Sequestr'd Rectory of Cheston in Shropshire; and Mr. J Elmhurst, B. D. who was Sequester'd from Aston-Ingham in Herefordshire, was succeeded by a Justice of the Peace's Clerk: The Learned Mr. Gam. Chase, B. D. (Tutor to the incomparable Dr. Pocock) was succeeded at Tarcombe in Devon, by two Persons; the one of whom, could 'hardly read a Penny Sermon,' and the other was said to have been 'Apprentice with an Apothecary': One of the Successors of the worthy Mr. Forbiss, in the Vicaridge of Bovey-Tracy in the same County, was a Weaver, who used to preach with a Sword by his side: Mr. Vaudry, the Sequester'd Minister of Elmore in Bucks, had for his Successor, a Bodice-Maker: Mr. Ingham, who filled the Living of Ribchester in Lancashire, on the Sequestration of the very worthy Mr. Hindle, was never at any University, and could hardly write his Name: Coven, who succeeded Mr. Collins (one of the Suffering Prebendaries of Exeter) in the Sequester'd Rectory of Sampford-Peverell in Devon, had been a Ship Joyner, and left behind him at the Parsonage, a Table-Board of his own making, which was all that Mr. Collins had for Fifths: One Pearse, reported to have been a Pedler, was one of the Successors to Dr. Arrway, in the Sequester'd Rectory of Hodnet in Shropshire: One Churchton, said to have been a Gentleman's Butler, succeeded Mr. Orpe on his Sequestration from the Vicaridge of Staunton in the same County; as did one Hopkins a Glover (or Skinner) in the Living of High-Ercal in that County, on the Sequestration of Mr. Fowler; and both of these last are recounted among the Sufferers in the Abridgment: Mr. Cherry of Much-Holland in Essex, is said on his Sequestration to have been succeeded by a Weaver: Mr. Aunsham, on his Sequestration from Hopesey in Shropshire, was succeeded by one Stone, a Trooper: One Lloyd was sent from Eton-School, to succeed Mr. Ch. Hall, Sequester'd from * Cainham. When Mr. Heywood was driven from Foresham in Cheshire, one of his Successors (who tarried longest on the Parish, was an Anabaptist; and at the Return of his Majesty, most of the Parish were Anabaptists or Quakers.

At Grinstead, in Essex, was one Lillburn, a Weaver, who after the Restoration, returned to his Calling; and at Westmerse, in the same County, the worthy Incumbent not being able so much as to write his Name, used to make the Mark of Arthur Okely, Rector of Westmerse: The excellent Mr. Canon, B. D. of Brampton, near Northampton, was succeeded on his Sequestration, by a Boy, (Son to a poor Alehouse-Keeper,) who had been but one Year at Cambridge; and Mr. Haywood of Badbey, in the same County, had, for his Successor, on his Sequestration, 'a Fellow 'that made Nails at Bittmingham, and went up 'and down the Country with a Bag to his Back to 'sell them:' Mr. Foliot, (Son to Sir——Foliot,) who was sequestred from the Rectory of Alderton, in that County, was succeeded by one Ii——, 'a Squint-Ey'd Fellow, that used to sing an old 'Ballads:' The worthy Mr. John Woolford of Afston, in the same County (worth 140 l. per Annum) was, on his Sequestration, succeeded by 'a Boy lately at Grammar-School, scarce 18 Years 'of Age, and had hardly ever seen the University') In and about Southampton, was one Rout, who on the Restoration, appeared to be a Papist: One Say, a Weaver (before whom, in Contempt, they once hung up a Shuttle) and one Byles a Sadler, who had an old Saddle set before him instead of a Cushion, officiated at Itound Chureh near Southampton: And it is well known that at Over-Wallop, in that County, (the Sequestred Rectory of the very learned and pious Dr. Young, the suffering Dean of Winchester,) one of the * Successors was a Tinker. I could Name a great many more of the like kind; but I forbear to do it, partly, because some of them belong to other Sorts of Sequestrators; and partly, because I judge these abundantly sufficient to let the Reader see the Hypocrisie of these Committees, who dispossessed such great Numbers of the Regular Clergy, under Pretence of their being an Hindrance to the Power of Godliness; and yet frequently left the Parishes void of all Religious Offices; or placed in such to Officiate, as effectually promoted the Mystery of Iniquity. I have but this one Word more to add, viz. That the Reader will by hereby enabled to judge with how much Truth the generality of those who succeeded the Sequestred Clergy, are by the Abridgment characterized for Persons who 'set themselves laboriously to seek the saving 'of Souls.' (See p. 87.)

P. 320.

P. 327.

Dugd. Vicm. P. 369.

P. 116.

* In Shropshire, if I mistake not.

* I have been informed, that he was not the Successor, but think in an Assistant or Lecturer, I suppose, to preach in the Afternoon; when he used Prayers: I cannot tell what that Man learned and ever so able Dr. had preached up in the Morning. And sometimes when the Lot came out of the Parish, would begin a Dispute with him in the Church, but paffed off the Doctor's Sequestration, he was made his Successor.

In the Ordinance of the 19th of August, 1643. Fifth (Additional to, and Explanatory of that of April, foregoing, which laid the Foundation of the Committees I have been now speaking of,) was a Clause, Empowering these Committees to allow the Wives and Children of Delinquents the Fifth Part

Digitized by Google

P. 488. Part of the Estate and Goods which should be seised. This the Abridgment mentions as an Instance of the Clemency of those Times, far exceeding what was shewn to the Nonconformists in 1662: and I find it insisted on by others of the same Sentiments with Dr. Calamy, long before he abridg'd Mr. Baxter's Life: For which Reasons I intended at first to have spoken to it, when I should come to consider those Reflections and Observations, among which Dr. Calamy hath inserted it, in the close of his 9th Chap. But this Piece of Clemency was so great an Addition to the other Misseries of the Clergy, that I shall be oblig'd to consider it as such; and for that End to speak to it in this Place. Nor can I readily think of any Thing that gives so vile a Representation of the usurping Clergy of those Times, as this matter of the Fifths appears to do: For as Wood justly observes, (speaking of the considerable Annuity, which Dr. Gunning allowed Dr. Tuckney, after the Restoration,) 'no Presbyterian 'or Independent was ever known to allow any 'Loyalist, whose Places they had occupied for 'several Years, the least Farthing, but rather 'rejected and avoided them, vilified, scorned, 'and exposed them to the Plebeians, as empty, 'formal, and sketch'd Nothings. Those Things I 'have known, and do remember them as done in 'this University; and the like without all doubt, 'was used at Cambridge.' And I add, that they were so far from making them any voluntary Allowance, that it was very rare they ever paid them this Allowance of the Fifths, tho' oblig'd to it (after the Committees and Commissioners had issued their Orders for that Purpose,) by that very Authority, in virtue of which they possessed the Livings themselves.

Ath. Vol. II. p. 378.

Hist. Collect. Vol. p. 599. The Clause in the Ordinance before mentioned, was in these Words: 'It is farther declared and ordained, that after the Apportioning 'and setting out of some necessary Maintenance '(if it be desir'd) for the Wives and Children of 'such Delinquents, whose Goods and Estates 'are, and shall be Seiz'd (which Allowance or 'Maintenance, the said several and respective 'Committees, or any two, or more of them 'respectively, shall hereby have Power to make, 'so as they allow not the Wife and Children of 'one Delinquent, above one Fifth Part of his 'Goods, and Estate so seiz'd) they shall authorize the Collectors and Agents to Sell the Residue, &c. And in the Ordinance of Jan. 22, 1643, Empowering the Earl of Manchester to Regulate the University of Cambridge, and remove Scandalous Ministers in the Seven Associated Counties of Essex, &c. it was also 'Ordain'd, that the said Earl of Manchester shall Ibid. p. 415. 'have Power to dispose of a Fifth Part of all 'such Estates, as * they shall Sequester, for the 'Benefit of the Wives and Children, &c.' But because 'Clergymen were not expressed by Name' in the Former of these Ordinances (for the Latter concern'd the Clergy only, and the Members of the University of Cambridge) 'such as 'enjoy'd their Sequestrations, refus'd to contribute 'any thing to them.' Whereupon, saith Fuller (but more probably, because no Provision was as yet made for these Great Numbers, which had been before Sequester'd by the Other Committees at London, &c.) the Commons Nov. 11, 1647, Ordered, 'that the Wives and Children of all such 'Persons as are, or have been, or shall be Sequester'd by Order of either Houses of Parliament, shall be comprehended within the 'Ordinance that alloweth a Fifth Part for Wives 'and Children; and shall have their Fifth Part 'allowed unto them; and the Committee of 'Lords and Commons for Sequestration, and 'the Committee for Plunder'd Ministers, and all 'other Committees, are requir'd to take notice 'hereof, and yield Obedience hereunto accordingly.' And in the Ordinance of Cromwell, and his Council, pass'd Aug. 28. 1654, for Ejecting Scandalous, Ignorant and Insufficient Ministers, &c. it was provided, that in case the Commissioners for that purpose 'shall find, that 'such Minister so displac'd, hath no other 'Temporal Estate, sufficient to maintain his 'Wife or Children (if he have any;) and in case 'such Minister so displaced, shall, by the time 'limited by the said Commissioners, leave the 'quiet and peaceable Possession of the Houses, 'Glebe, or any other Lands belonging to such 'Place, and remove his Habitation out of such 'Parish. —— then the said Commissioners, or 'any Five of them, shall allow unto the Wife 'and Children of such Minister, so Ejected, or 'Displac'd, for their Maintenance, a Proportion, not exceeding the Fifth Part of the 'Profits of such Benefice, with Cure (all Parish-Charges, Publick Taxes and other Duties, 'being first deducted out of the whole') which 'the Commissioners are Authoriz'd to cause to be 'paid, &c. and to the like effect, in the Act (for so they term'd the Appointments of their Parliaments, after Cromwell was declar'd Protector) of 1656, for the quiet enjoying of Sequester'd Parsonages, &c. it was Provided and Enacted, 'That where the Sequester'd, or Ejected Minister is not Seised of, to his own Use, or others 'in Trust for him, or his Wife, of the Real Estate of 30 l. per annum, or possessed of a 'Personal Estate to the Value of Five Hundred 'Pounds, the Commissioners that are, or shall 'be appointed for the Ejection of Scandalous, 'Ignorant and Insufficient Ministers and School-masters, or any Five of them, shall within 'their Limits make unto the Sequester'd Minister during his Life, Allowance out of the Profits of the said Parsonage, or Vicaridge, not exceeding a Fifth Part of the Profits thereof,' which by this Act they were now not only impower'd, but required, to pay the Sequester'd Ministers, with such Arrears thereof, likewise, as they should think fit.

Scob. Coll. Part 2. p. 224. Ibid. p. 331.

Whether there were any other Ordinances, or Clauses, &c. touching this Matter; and Particularly, whether there were any Instructions, or Orders of this kind, provided for particular Committees, among the Special Powers, granted to some of them, which concerned the Clergy, I know not; and therefore proceed in the next Place, to consider, what Advantages might accrue to the Clergy, and what Benefit they did in Fact reap from the Provisions now mentioned. To which Purpose it must be observed in the first Place, that (setting aside many Abatements and Allowances to be made) those Fifths plainly appear to have been nothing less, than what, at first, they seem to promise: For the Allowance of them did not Commence, until some Years after the Sequestrations were begun; and then did not look back on what had been already done: So that the Families of those many Hundreds of Clergy, who had been Plundered, and Dispossessed before that time, must of Necessity, until then (had it afterwards afforded their Case) have been destitute of all manner of Support, and Assistance from it; but in truth, as it must be further remarked, by the first Ordinances, none were to have the Advantage of this Allowance, but such as the Committees in the Country (and at length the Earl of Manchester) should afterwards Dispossess: Nor was there any other Provision made, until November 1647, (which was near Seven Years from the Beginning of the Sequestrations, an ample time for Starving;) and yet all that while, the Houses, and the Committees in London, did, as I have before shewn, continue to turn out some Thousands; and I believe no

* The Sequestrators under him.

Full. Ch. Hist. Cent. 17. Lett. p. 229.

For even this Order doth not express the Clergy by Name, and plainly contradicteth, what had been ordered to be Practised by the Committees at London, or the three immediate Orders of the Houses.

no one will think, much leſs venture to ſay, that by virtue of that Order, any of them recover'd their Arrears: Beſides, it muſt be alſo obſerved, that they did, as far as Ordinances could do it, Starve the Delinquent Himſelf; tho' they offer'd at ſupporting the Innocent Wife and Children: For the Allowance was expreſly confined to them only until the Act of 1656, which was for the Space of well near Sixteen Years. To this muſt be Added alſo, that the Ordinances did not, until 1654, oblige; but only allow, and Impower the Commiſſioners, to ſet out this Fifth Part, for the Support of the Wives and Children; by which means it became a Matter of pure Grace and Favour: And ſurely there was little hopes of Mercy, where there was no Juſtice; nor will any one believe, that any Compaſſion was ſhewn by thoſe, who appear to have Exerciſ'd the greateſt Oppreſſions and Inhumanities. The Order of the Commons indeed, November 11, 1647, is Expreſs, that all Sequeſter'd Perſons ſhall have their Fifth Part allowed, &c. But of what Validity a bare Order of one of the Houſes might be with thoſe, who ſo frequently broke thro' that, which carried the Face of greater Authority, (Namely, the joynt Ordinances of both Houſes, the Laws of thoſe Times) I leave any one to Judge: Or ſuppoſing that Order to have had the Force of a Law, it only put them (as I apprehend it) on the Level with thoſe mention'd in the Firſt Ordinance; who 'tis plain, were to depend on the Favour and good Pleaſure of the Committees only for their Portion; or, if it was a Peremptory Command, what Succeſs a Sequeſter'd Malignant or his Family, could have met with in a Suit againſt a Sequeſtraing Committee, is very eaſie to perceive: And no leſs Evident is it, how unfit a poor Diſtreſſed Woman (for the Man was often forced to fly for the Preſervation of his Life, or Liberty) muſt needs be, to Sollicit an Order for her Fifths, and much more, to carry on a Suit in thoſe Times of Oppreſſion, againſt the Oppreſſors themſelves; eſpecially when they were often Plunder'd to the laſt Penny (where it could be diſcovered) which might enable them to maintain the Proſecution, and were to undergo a tedious and expenſive Journey, and a more tedious Attendance on the Committees at London, for their Orders; by which in the Beginning, far the greater Part had been Sequeſter'd: And much more Miſerable ſtill muſt the Caſe needs be, where the Children were Deſtitute of a Mother, and the Father durſt not venture to appear in the Behalf of them; and once more, in many Places there were no Succeſſors appointed for a Conſiderable time; and tho' the Commiſſioners were indeed Impower'd to allot the Fifths without the Nomination of a Succeſſor, yet as far as I can gueſs, they were generally Speaking, turned over to thoſe Intruders for them, and that muſt at leaſt have created many Delays, if not have been an Occaſion of wholly diſappointing ſeveral Families from Receiving any thing at all: Nor is this yet the worſt of the Caſe; for upon the Death of the Sequeſter'd Perſon, ſuch Fifths as Iſſued from the Livings, were immediately to ceaſe; and ſurely, where generally ſpeaking, they could not enable the Family to Eat, nothing could be laid up out of them for Futurity: So that thoſe Families, which might have been comfortably taken care of, had the Fathers of them been permitted to Enjoy their own, muſt for that time forward be utterly unprovided for. And if thoſe Ordinances, &c. did not Include the Cathedral Revenues (as I think, I can be pretty ſure, they did not; for none are ſo much as pretended to be paid out of the Revenues of that kind, in the Accompts of the Welch Sequeſtrators; tho' they are often charged to the Parochial Clergy,) nor any of the * Heads and Fellows of Houſes in the Univerſities (to which I think I can be very certain,) then thoſe Perſons whoſe Incomes Iſſued wholly from them, muſt have been left alogether deſtitute. In this at leaſt, I believe, I may be poſitive, that none of the Biſhops had any manner of Benefit † from them; nor did I ever hear that any Dean, or other conſiderable Dignitary, had it.

See to this purpoſe alſo the Hiſt. of Engl. and Scots Preſb.

For I underſtand the ſaid Clauſe 'to be confirm'ed by what is foreſeeing,' 'ſhall be included in the Ordinance, &c.

The Lands of all Biſhops, Deans and Chapters, having at laſt been aſſigned to the Service of the Publick, by other Acts and Ordinances, which made no Provijion for Faiths

* 'Tis, all before ſaid, the Clauſe in the Ordinance of the Earl of Mancheſter, ſeems to have included, as well the Heads and Fellows, &c. of Houſes, as the Parochial Clergy: But I do not remember to have met with a Single Inſtance, to intimate, that a Farthing was ever paid to (or indeed, ſo much as claimed by) any of them.

† As a Fifth of the Income of the Biſhoprick, but eſpecially as a Fifth of their Temporals, or other Incomes, they might; of which kind I underſtand the Fifths mentioned in the Account of Biſhop Hall. (See the Cathedral of Worceſter.) However, quere.

To this muſt be added, the Qualifications and Exceptions made by ſome Subſequent Ordinances themſelves, to the General Orders for allowing of the Fifths: For Sept. 8, 1645, they provided by an Ordinance on purpoſe, 'That no Wife, 'Child or Children of any Delinquent, who 'ſhall come from their own Habitation, into 'the Parliament Quarters, with, or without their 'Fathers or Husbands, from the King's Quarters, ſhall have, hold and enjoy any Fifth 'Part, &c.' And by the Clauſes of the Ordinance of Aug. 28, 1654, before recited, it appears, That if a Clergyman had an Eſtate ſufficient to ſupport his Family; or if he ſhould not leave the Intruder the quiet Poſſeſſion of his Houſe, Glebe, &c. and remove his Habitation out of the Pariſh, he was not entitul'd to the Allowance: And more fully yet, in the Act of 1656, care was then taken, 'That no 'Ejected, or Sequeſter'd Miniſter, ſhall have, or 'receive any Benefit or Advantage (viz. of the 'Fifths) by virtue of this Act, who reſides, or remains in the Pariſh, or Place, out of which 'he is Ejected, or Sequeſter'd, during ſuch Reſidence;' which (to obſerve that by the way) is abundantly ſufficient to ſilence the Clamours that have been made about the Severity of the Five Mile Act. A Precedent for that Clauſe of it which (if I am not miſtaken) was moſt complain'd of, being ſo plainly made by the Party themſelves in this Clauſe, and the correſpondng one of the Ordinance of Aug. 8, 1654: Whilſt thoſe Ordinances of their own ſuffer'd not a Loyal Clergyman to continue in any the moſt remote and private Pariſh, to which he had born the Relation of a Miniſter, if he expected to be kept from ſtarving. And in the laſt place, let it be conſider'd, That if the Miniſter had no Wife and Children, he was not entituled to any Thing at all, (until 1656,) but ſent to beg his Bread, and that too, God knoweth, out of Deſolate Places; ſince thoſe who alone were willing to relieve him, lay at that Time under the ſame Circumſtances of Ruin and Plunder.

Hob. Caſes. Folio, p. 216.

Which in the Act of 1656, was ameriorated to 30l. per annum, or 100l. in Money.

Scob. Caſes. Part 2 p. 111.

To which, if I miſtake not, ſome of the Committees added ſeveral other, and more ſevere Reſtrictions of not doing any thing contrary to the Orders of the Parliament.

It appears by what hath been already ſaid, that for ſome Years, no one Family of any Clergyman had any manner of Preference to this Allowance; that for the firſt Seven Years (which was alſo the hotteſt Time of the Sequeſtrations,) the Families of Inch only as had been ejected by the County Committees, and the Earl of Manchester (who were as yet by far the leaſt Part of the Suffering Clergy) were inſtructed to ask them; that neither could there demand them as a Right; that the firſt afterwards had nothing but a looſe Order of the Houſe of Commons (till 1654,) ſo much as to intitle them to prefer the ſame Petition; that when Allowances are made for the

Digitized by Google

the unmarried Clergy, or such of them as might be Widowers, (until 1656,) and for those who were excluded by the other Restrictions mentioned, many will appear to have been debarr'd from so much as a Right to that Request; and if to these we add such as were discouraged from asking at all, by the little prospect of Success, it must be concluded that very few did, or could in Fact reap any Benefit by these Orders and Ordinances.

But that which most effectually defeated the Intent of them (if this Favour was at all really intended the Clergy,) was the cruel and inhumane Denyal of these Fifths, (the pursuit of which likewise occasioned unspeakable Trouble, Harrassings and Charges to such as endeavoured after them, and very much added to the Miseries of the Clergy,) sometimes by the Committees; but more frequently by those usurping Intruders, who devoured the Bread of those miserable and perishing Families; and that too, not only in defiance of many, and repeated Orders of the Committees, but sometimes with such other monstrous Circumstances of Barbarity, as are hardly to be credited.

I have before observed, that little Mercy could be expected by the Clergy from those Committees which had been the Authors of all their other Miseries; and accordingly, I sometimes find several distressed Families in pursuit of an Order for their Fifths, for some Years together, but all in vain: And the Author of Persecut. Undec. a sad Witness of these Calamities, acquaints us with this Truth in the observable Words which here follow: 'Just such a Cheat doth the Committe for plunder'd Ministers put upon the afflicted Wives and Children of the sequestred Clergy, in their suing for the fifth Part of their 'Husbands Living, which an Ordinance of Parliamen: pretended to allow them: If their Husband or Father hath two Livings, their first 'Trick is to tell them, that they will allow them the fifth Part of but one of them; the next is, 'that tho' the Ordinance run generally without 'any Limitation, yet they have their secret Instructions, whereby they grant Orders for a fifth 'Part, with this Proviso, That if the Sequestrator (or Cut-Purse) show not good Cause to the contrary. 'This draweth on much Travel and Charges on 'Lawyers, and Solicitors, and Committee-Officers; and the Parliament Minister upon hearing, 'pretending that the Living is of Value little 'enough to maintain him, or any frivolous Plea, 'breeds a Demurrer: And altho' they grant Order after Order, yet all is to no purpose; for, 'say the Committee, we must not displease our 'Friends; they mean their Masters, who, under 'Pretence of long Prayers, can devour whole 'Houses, and starve other Mens Wives and Children, by invading their Possessions, kept from 'the right Owners by Club-Law: And truly 'their Ordinance for the fifth Part, doth generally prove but a meer Mockery to the Wives and Children of the Clergy, in the midst of their heavy 'Persecution, and a Snare to draw them into Expence of their last Groat, in hopes to get their 'so fairly promis'd Mirsel, that, as I have 'known very few obtain it effectually; so have 'many of them after some Years of chargeable 'and vexatious Attendance, been wearied out, 'buying at too dear a Rate their Repentance of 'believing or hoping for any Justice or Mercy 'from the Puritan Faction.' And in the Margin he adds, 'The Wife of Dr. P. hath been 'Three Years, to the Expence of almost One 'Hundred Pounds, to obtain her fifth Part, but 'could not prevail.'

'What is here said of the Committee for Plunder'd Ministers, will be easily believed of the Committees in the Country; and 'tis very sure that if there had not been an Understanding between the Committees and the Intruders, they would have made their Orders for the Fifths prove more effectual; for I would willingly be satisfy'd whether if one of these Usurpers had complain'd against a Delinquent Clergyman for Matter contrary to the Ordinances of the Times, the Committees would not have taken speedy and sufficient Care that the Ordinance should have its full Effect; but so far were they from doing any Thing of that Kind, in the matter of the Fifths, that, as is before said, they were generally, and almoft universally, as well as inhumanly deny'd, and unpaid, by the usurping Intruders. The late right Reverend Author of the Friendly Debate (if common Fame * rightly Points him out,) was, as well as the Writer of Persecut. Undec. a Witness of the Miseries of those Times; and he assures us to this Purpose, that some of the Clergy 'not only went without the Allowance, but had better been without the Vote too, 'which cost them dear, and proved to them the greateft Cruelty; for they spent what they had 'left for a feeble Support, in suing for that which 'they could never get.' In confirmation of which, he likewise cites the Hiftory of the English and Scots Presbytery, in these Words; 'The new 'Incumbents refuse to obey the Ordinance, constraining them to plead before Judges, their Adversaries, who instead of speedily Relieving them, 'delay them with length of Time, and make 'them consume in Suits that which they borrowed to plead their Cause. By this Expence 'and Delays, these poor desolate Persons, are 'constrained to desist their Prosecution; and 'many being ejected out of small Benefices, dare 'not present their Petitions for the Fifths, because 'the Expences will amount higher than the Principal.' After which, the Friendly Debate proceeds to speak of their Evasions, 'by which, (saith 'that Author,) the Intention of the Parliament 'was deluded, and most of the poor Souls who 'were in want, received no Benefit of that Ordinance; but rather, as I said, a great deal of 'Mischief, while they were shuffled off with litigious and crafty Tricks, and oppressed with 'Charges; some of which were so notorious and 'shameful, that Fuller, (who was no implacable 'Enemy to the Party, tho' a Sufferer under them,) could not but leave them on Record in his Ch. Hiftory: 'Many, (saith he,) were the Evasions 'whereby such Clergymen possessed of their 'Livings, do frustrate and defeat the effectual 'Payment of the fifth Part to the aforesaid 'Wives and Children. First, they plead their 'Taxes being first deducted; Tithes are so badly 'paid, they cannot live and maintain themselves, 'if they must still pay a fifth Part out of the Remainder. Such consider not, if themselves cannot live on the whole Grift, how shall the Families of such sequester'd Ministers subsist on the Toll. Secondly, if the aforesaid Minister hath 'a Wife without Children, or Children without 'a Wife, or but one Child, they deny Payment, 'as not within the Letter (tho' the Equity) of the 'Order; tho' one Child is as unable to live; on 'nothing, as if there were many more. Thirdly, 'if the sequester'd Minister hath any Temporal 'Means of his own, or since his Sequestration 'hath acquired any Place wherein he officiateth, '(though short of a comfortable Subsistence,) they 'deny Payment of a fifth Part unto him. Fourthly, 'they affright the said sequester'd Minister, threatning to new Article against him for his former 'Faults; whereas had he not been reputed a 'Malignant, nor a fifth Part, but all the five 'Parts were due unto him. Fifthly, many who

See also the Hift. of Engl. and Scots Presbytery, p. 313, & seqq.

L. 2. p. 228.

* Though I have not on the other Hand, heard, that he disowned that Piece.

P. 69, 70.

L. 19. Cent. 17. p. 219.

Digitized by Google

have Livings in great Towns (especially Vicaridges) disclaim the receiving any Benefits in the Nature of Tithes, and accept them only in the notion of Benevolence. Then they plead nothing Due to the Sequester'd Minister out of the free Gratuities, which only are Bestow'd upon them. Sixthly, they plead, that nothing can be demanded by Virtue of the said Ordinance, longer than the Sitting of the Parliament, which made it; which long since is Dissolv'd. Now tho' this be but a Dilatory Plea (themselves Enjoying the Four Parts by Virtue of the same Order) yet tho' it doth not finally blast, it doth much set back the Fifth Part; and whilst the same groweth, the Ministers Wives and Children Starve. Lastly, of late, since the Setting Forth of the Proclamations, that all, who disquiet their Peaceable Possession who are put into Livings by the Parliament's Order, shall be beheld as Enemies to the State; such Sequester'd Ministers who only Sue the Refusers to pay the Fifth Part, unblameable in all things else, are Threatned (tho' they humbly conceive contrary to the true intent of the Proclamation) with the forefaid Penalty if they desist not in their Suit; many more are their Subterfuges (besides vexing their Wives with the tedious Attendance to get Orders on Orders;) so that as one truly and sadly said, the Fifths are even paid as Sixes and Sevens;' which however, is True only in the Proverbial, and not in the Literal Sence (as bad as that would have been;) for I shall by and by shew, that in these very Few Instances, where I find them paid, it was for the most Part, after the Rate of Tens and Twelves.

Nor were some, who did not pay the Fifths, content to Exercise that Barbarous Injustice themselves, without perfuading others to do the like: For Mr. John Ley, who had Succeeded Dr. Edward Hyde, in the Rich Sequester'd Living of Brightwell in Berks., wrote two Treatises against the paying of Fifths under these Memorable Titles; 'General Reasons grounded on Equity, Piety, Charity and Justice, against the payment of a Fifth Part to the Sequester'd Ministers Wives and Children;' And 'an Acquittance, or Discharge from Dr. Edward Hyde his Demand of a Fifth Part of the Rectory of Brightwell in Berks, pleaded, as in a Court of Equity and Conscience.' But it hath not been as yet, my good Fortune to get a Sight of either of these Performances; and therefore I cannot give the Reader any account of them, who will possibly be as desirous, as I my self am, to see how the Robbing a Family of their whole Livelihood, after Disobeying of those Laws (which could be the only Pretence, even in their own Sence, for that Robbery can be argued from Equity, Piety, Charity and Justice; since I must own, it appears to me as, yet, a greater Paradox, than any in Tully.

Wood, Ath. Vol. II. f. 150.

Ibid. 194.

The Reader will find these general Accounts exemplify'd in many Cases, when I come to speak of the Sufferings of particular Clergymen, in their proper Place: And indeed, to say, that the Instances of those who never could obtain the Allowance, (tho' several of them by long, tedious and expensive Journies and Applications, Su'd for it,) are very Frequent, doth by no means sufficiently account for this Matter; since it should rather on t'other Hand, be said, that the Instances of such as got it, are, comparatively speaking, rare, and hardly to be met with.

The Accompts of the Sequestrations and Agents, under the Act for the Propagating the Gospel in South Wales (of which I shall speak at large hereafter;) and an Accompt of the Treasurer to the Sequestrators, for the greater Part of the County of Cornwall, (which hath been Communicated to me by the Reverend Mr. Ruddle of that County,) will afford some Grounds for guessing at that proportion of the Clergy, which receiv'd that Bounty. By the Former of those Accompts I find, that in Monmouthshire, they are not so much as charged to more, than Eleven Persons, for the Years 1650, and 1651; altho' about 70 or 80 Parishes appear to have been in the Sequestrators Hands in these Years. In Brecknockshire, they are charged to Twelve for the Former of those Years, out of about Twenty Four Sequester'd Livings; in Glamorganshire, to not one Person in 1651, (and but Four or Five in the next Year,) out of about Thirty Nine Parishes, then under Sequestration, in the Five Eastern Hundreds of that County; and to but Eight in the whole County, out of about 70 Livings (and perhaps more, but to many appear in their own Accounts to have been Sequester'd by the Year 1650,) for the 1655, 1656, and 1657, as I find by some other Informations; and but one of these had them for the whole Three Years; the rest but for Two Years only. And in Pembrokeshire, they are charged to the Accompt of Seven or Eight Persons only, for the Year 1650, out of about Thirty Nine Livings, then in their Hands: Although in the other Counties, indeed, and even in these Counties, in the other Years, they are Charged to many more: And what proportion these Fifths bore to the whole Revenues of the Clergy, which they had seiz'd, will also further appear, by the Sum Total of these Accompts, which in Monmouthshire, for the Year 1650, was 312*l*. and the Fifths that Year 63 l. in Pembrokeshire, for the same Year 106*l*. and the Fifths 34 l. and in the only remaining Years of these Accompts (which were 1651, and 1652) when the most Fifths were paid in this County; the Sum Total of the Two Years was 2633 l. and the Fifths but 183 l. And when it is consider'd, that these Accompts were given in, according to those Rates, at which the Livings were Let to their Godly Friends, or perchance taken by the Sequestrators themselves, in other Names; let any one Judge, whether these Sums amounted to the Fifths of the Real Value of the Livings, as they might have been Rented out to Honest Tenants; much less, whether the Clergy reaped the Fifth Part of that Benefit from their Livings, which they might have made, had they Occupied them themselves. Besides which, it must be farther known also, that these Commissioners were at that time Accompting, by Virtue of an Ordinance from Cromwell, and his Council for the Incomes of the Clergy, which they had so Diametrically (for several Years) put into their own Pockets, and of which publick Complaint had been made; and therefore were to Discharge them by any means, and in any manner they could: And this Article of Fifths (tho' haply very seldom paid) was doubtless of great Use and Service to them: And I am the more confirm'd in this Opinion, not only from the other vile Practices of these Commissioners (of which more hereafter in another Place) but because in the County of Cardigan, the Fifths are charg'd to all but Two Persons; and it will hardly be thought that among so many Restraints and Requisites (which I have before shewn, their Ordinances provided) but Two Persons of all the Clergy in that County should be Disqualify'd; besides that, I am otherwise assur'd, several Intruders in these Counties of South Wales poss'd'd the Livings from 1646, to 1660, without ever paying any Fifths at all: But these, I suppose were such, as Succeeded in the Livings of those, who were Ejected by other Committees before the

But possibly some Few of these Livings might be put under Sequestration to the Dutch of an Income, and some of the Members sitted out of them, might not after their Restoration, agree with some of the Livings before those Years.

Including, however, one of the Cathedrals.

Of which more anon.

See it in Scobell. Part 2. f. 147.

In which I am the more confirm'd by what I find suggested of the Commissioners in N. Wales; namely, that they gave some of their Intercessors Annuities out of the Profits of the Livings, that they might charge much more in their Accompts, than really they Received.

Digitized by Google

the Propagators were on Foot in that Country (of which I find conſiderable Numbers) and belong not to their Accompts until 1650; at which time theſe Livings, as well as the Livings which themſelves ſhould Sequeſter, were by the Act of Propagation, put into their Hands.

But to put this matter out of all queſtion, with Relation to Wales, let one who wrote in theſe Times, and ſpoke from his own Knowledge, declare for all the reſt in theſe words; 'Their 'very Fifths were deny'd them, tho' allowed by the 'Act for Propagation; which being accounted ac- 'cording to the Undervaluations made by the Se- 'queſtrators, and their Agents, will appear to be ſo 'ſmall an Allowance to maintain a Family, that 'it will not find them Bread and Water; and yet 'this pitiful Pittance cannot be Receiv'd or Ob- 'tain'd, without many a tedious tireſome Journey, 'and much Expence and Hazard of Mens Lives; as, 'ſome have Periſhed in the Waters, by going to Pe- 'tition, and ſeek Relief for their Periſhing Fami- 'lies; and others being Wearied out with Fruitleſs 'Journeys, and Dilatory Anſwers, have given over 'all Addreſſes to theſe Unmerciful Sequeſtrators, 'and other Officers, to pour out their Complaints 'before the All ſeeing God.'

Petition of So. Wales, &c. p. 17 printed in 1652.

As to the Accompt of the Treaſurer to the * Sequeſtrators in Cornwall, it doth not wholly concern the Clergy, as thoſe of the Propagators did; but is intermixed with the Lay Sequeſtrations, and with ſome thing of the Weekly Aſſeſſments. It is current for the Years 1646, 1647, 1648, and part, at leaſt, of 1649; and takes in Five of the Nine Hundreds of that County (with relation to the Lay Sequeſtrations at leaſt;) but the Weekly Aſſeſſments include the whole County; and the Payments to the Itinerant Miniſters, ſeem to do the ſame, as I have already ſaid in another Place: For it muſt be known, that County was in great part like thoſe in South Wales (which will be noted hereafter) ſupply'd by a ſort of Travelling, and Unſettled Clergy.

* Namely, the Committees in the County, of which I ſpoke laſt.

It is not a Fair Accompt drawn out to be delivered in, and examined (as thoſe of the Welch Propagators are) but ſome only to be the private, rough and imperfect Memorandums of the Receipts and Diſburſements. And Livings, and Inhabitants, and

I am under ſome doubt, whether the Receipts from the Sequeſter'd the Payment of the Fifths, may not be for the whole County not to confined to thoſe Five Hundreds only.

In this Accompt about Sixteen ſeveral Perſons only appear to have the Fifths ſo much as Charged to them, in all that time, and theſe not altogether; but Seven in the Year 1646, Eight (Inclusive of ſome of thoſe of the Foregoing Year, and ſo in the following Years) in 1647; Six in the Year 1648, and Three only in part of 1649; unleſs Two of theſe laſt might belong to 1648; for the Accompt is confus'd (and I doubt, Imperfect) enough, and particularly, in what is moſt requiſite to be known, in the next place to ſettle the Proportion; Namely, how many Livings the Sequeſtrators might in thoſe Years have in their own Hands: That they had a great many (tho' poſſibly ſome of them on the Death of the Incumbents) ſeems plainly Suggeſted, by the great Number of Pariſhes (recounted by Name in another Place) which were ſupply'd by theſe Itinerants; befides that a great many of them were alſo ſaid in general to have Preached in diverſ Places. However, it doth not appear by that Accompt, that more than 25 Livings were in the Sequeſtrators Hands, in theſe Years: But the great Defect of it in this Particular, is Evident from hence, that the Treaſurer doth not give the Sequeſtrators Credit for the Incomes of ſeveral of thoſe very Livings, for the Fifths of which he makes them Debtors, in other Parts of that Accompt it ſelf; but I find by other Informations, that about 70 at leaſt, of the Clergy of this County, were put under Sequeſtration, and moſtly, as I Conjecture, by theſe Sequeſtrators. Now, if we ſhould ſay for the Purpoſe, that there were but 40 of theſe Livings under Sequeſtration in the Year 1648, and ſhould we add the Two abovemention'd as Donbted of, to the Six that certainly appear charg'd with the Fifths in that Year; but One in Five, by that Computation, will be found to have receiv'd them: Nor can it be thought, that many might receive them from the Intruders themſelves, and not from the Commiſſioners; becauſe ſo few of the Livings in this County were, as is before noted, ſupply'd with ſettled Miniſters. But I muſt own, ſince on one hand, it is not certain, that all the Fifths charged, were duly paid; and ſince on the other hand, it doth not appear how many Livings were then in the Sequeſtrators hands; nor whether theſe were the Fifths for the whole County, or not, that this is a very imperfect Computation: And for the firſt of theſe Reaſons likewiſe, no certain Judgment can be made of the Numbers of the Clergy, who receiv'd them in the Welch Counties; but according to the beſt Conjecture I can make, as well from theſe, as from other Informations, I am, in my own Mind, fully ſatisfy'd, that taking the whole Body of the Sequeſter'd Clergy together, throughout the Kingdom, incluſive of the Cathedrals, not one in five (for ought I know, ſcarce one in ten, eſpecially if we ſhould add to the Accompt, the Ejected Fellows and Scholars of Houſes in the Univerſities) ever received any Fifths at all; and poſſibly not Ten in the whole Number ever had them, without Trouble, regularly paid, from the time of the Sequeſtration, and to the full Value: And ſome of the Uſurping Clergy were ſo tenacious, and ſo far from being ready to pay them under the Lawleſs Times of Confuſion and Uſurpation, that they even ſtood a Suit at Law for them after the more ſettled Times of the Reſtoration; and then (tho' ſore againſt their Wills) were conſtrained to produce them.

On ſuppoſition that theſe were the Fifths of the whole County at that time; of which, however, quaere.

Nor were they content barely to refuſe the Payment of them, but often did it (as I before ſaid, with the Addition of ſuch inhumane Circumſtances, as can hardly be parallell'd. Many with numerous Families of Children, were deny'd their Fifths (and ſometimes had nothing elſe to ſupport them.) Mr. Seddon of Eaſtham in Cheſhire, particularly, with Nine Children; and Mr. Helloway of Kiſlingbury in Northamptonſhire, with Ten; the Intruder on the laſt of theſe Livings, diſobeying all Orders that had been procur'd for the Payment of them. And the Manuſcript Papers of Mr. Stephens mention one Ringſtead (if I read the Name right) a Sequeſter'd Miniſter ſomewhere in the Weſt, who had obtain'd no leſs than Thirty ſeveral Orders for his Fifths; and yet could never get one Farthing; which broke his Heart. When Mr. Gooden, the Sequeſter'd Rector of Lidyard-St. Lawrence in Somerſetſhire (then worth betwixt 2 and 300 l. per annum) apply'd to Mr. Wakely the Intruder (and the Bartholomew Sufferer at this Place) for ſomething at leaſt, to keep his Family (then in extream want) from Starving; Mr. Wakely's 'Wife took 'upon her to return this Anſwer, That he had 'nothing to do there; and if he wanted, he 'muſt take his Payl and threſh.' 'Tis agreed on 'all hands, that this barbarous Uſage haſten'd 'his Death.' And the Caſe of Mr. Douch of Stalbridge in Doſetſhire (valu'd at 300 l. per Annum) was juſt the ſame: He had a Wife and five ſmall Children; and when they wanted Neceſſaries, and he came and knocked at his own Door for a Piece of Bread (as his own Son, who ſeads me the Information, rightly expreſſes his demanding

See him in that County.

See him likewiſe in that County.

Abridgm. p. 320.

Digitized by Google

† Quare whether either of the two of this Name who are mention'd in the Abridg. Comp. 2. 232, 233. For in the town way, if I mistake not. See him in that County.

ding of his Fifths) the Intruder, Mr. † Sam. Fairclough would take him by the Shoulders, and ' bid ' him go thresh for his Living.' When the Wife of Dr. Jones of Offwell in Devon, came to the Intruder's House for the Fifths, the Lexute pretended for refusing the Payment of them, was, that her Husband might be Dead; in return to which the good afflicted Woman alledged, they might be all well enough satisfy'd he was Living, for that she had a Letter from him dated at Rotterdam, (whither he had been forced to fly;) but the only Answer she could get, was to this Effect, That Rotterdam Rogues was a common Saying, and so she might go about her Business, for she should have nothing there. Nor is it this to be wonder'd at, when they could evade much fuller Evidence than this, of a Man's being alive, as will appear in the Case of Dr. Locket, the sequester'd Rector of Westminster in Somersetshire; who, sending to Mr. Elford (the Person that had ' usurped his Livings,) to demand ' his Fifths, Elford refused to pay them, alledging, ' that the Dr. was Dead; whereupon the Dr. went ' in Person to demand them; but Elford persisted in ' his Refusal, and told the Dr. tho' he was natu- ' rally alive, yet he was dead in Trespasses and Sins, ' and therefore there was nothing due to him.' Mr. William Bispham, Rector of Eccleston in Chesshire, being sequester'd, ' either thro' Fear or Mena- ' ces, or thro' great Want, or indeed thro' both, (as ' it's thought,) quitted the Kingdom, and went be- ' yond-Seas, leaving his poor Wife to the Charity ' of some well-disposed Neighbours; and being at ' last exposed to extream Poverty, she came to Mr. ' Gelbourn, who then was possess'd of her Husband's ' Living, to ask for some of his Charity; and begg'd ' of him in particular to give her so much Money ' as would buy her a Pair of Shoes, but he refused it, ' and would not give her one Penny, tho' she came ' to him in the most humble and suppliant way of a ' Beggar.' When Mrs. Pierce, (the Wife of the excellent Mr. Pierce, sequester'd from the Rich Portion of Pit at Tiverton, in Devon,) ' one time ' applied herself to Mr. Chilhull, the Intruder into ' her Husband's House and Benefice, for her Fifths, ' or for something to supply the Necessities of her ' Family, pleading with him the number of her ' Children, which were Six at that Time, and all ' very young and helpless, and wanted Relief; he ' insultingly repls'd, That he had a Pair of Geldings in the Stable, and a Groom too, which ' must be maintain'd, and were more chargeable ' than all her Children. So that she never receiv'd, ' or could get any Part of her Fifths, nor her Hus- ' band any of his Arrears during the whole time of ' his Sequestration, which was above 14 Years; a ' great part of which they and their whole Family ' lived mostly upon Charity.' And on the Restoration, Mr. Pierce was forced to quit Claim to them, before he could get quiet Possession of his Rectory: To these I must subjoyn the Case of Mr. Barnes, the sequester'd Rector of East Hsley in Berkshire; ' on whose presenting a Petition in ' behalf of his Wife and Seven Children, to the ' Commissioners, they granted a Fifth for the ' Maintenance of her and her Children, provided ' Mr. Barnes and all his Family left the Parish, ' which accordingly was done; but when his ' Wife supplicated to the then present Incumbent, ' Mr. John Francis, for it was deny'd; then sent ' his little Daughter, hoping her Innocence might ' move him; but deny'd again, the Child said, ' we must all starve if not reliev'd. Mr. Francis's ' Answer was, Starving is as near a way to Heaven as any. —— He was forced to leave the Country, left he should be Sued for the Fifths, ' after the Bartholomew-Act; for he did not pay ' them.' Nor must I omit the Answer returned by Valentine Powell, (one of the Commissioners for Propagation of the Gospel in Wales, and the Archpolitan of the Itinerants there,) to ' a Gentleman in Radcastle, that Petitioned him for Re- ' lief and Maintenance for the poor Children of ' the ejected Ministers; namely, That their Heads ' should be dasht against the Walls, as Babylonish ' Brats, and so their Portions would be paid.'

See him in the Ch. of Chester.

See him there. Another of the Bartholomew Sufferers, Abr. p. 309, the Time there falls Sept. Tavertun.

Where see him.

One of the Sufferers of the Abridg. Liberavit p. 247.

These Histories need no Comment: And therefore here when I have said, that many more in-humane Denials of the Fifths will occur in the Accounts of the particular Sufferers, I must, in the last Place, observe, that supposing the Fifths had been duly, regularly and constantly paid, the utmost Extent of the boasted Lenity in appointing them, after they had, contrary to all Law, and by the Power of a successful Rebellion only, plunder'd the rightful Possessors of the other Four Parts, doth not exceed that of a Highwayman, who Robs to a considerable Value, and leaves the Person just enough to defray his Travelling Expences: Or, as a Gentleman pleasantly expresses it, was no other than sticking up a Feather when she had stript the Goose. But alas, as they were utterly deny'd in most Places: So even in those Cases where they were paid, they proved, generally speaking, of very little Use and Benefit to such as received them, and that on many Accounts; for in the first Place, since so frequent and so just are the Complaints that the Incomes of but too many Places, God knoweth, are so very small, that the whole of them falls much short of a tolerable Provision for the Minister; what could the fifth Part of such poor Parishes amount to, especially under so many Abatements and Deductions, as reduced the best Livings to an Inconsiderable Value. For the Ordinance of August, 1654, provided, that it should be only a fifth Part of the clear Produce of the Benefice, ' all Parish Charges, publick Taxes, and other ' Duties being first deducted,' which they very well knew how to do: And every one knows what heavy Burthens were in those Times of Liberty and Property, lain on the Subjects. Taxes, weekly Abatements, Contributions, twentieth Parts, and I know not what other Impositions without Number, were then on Foot; such as the Nation never knew before nor since; until of late some of the same Party had got the fleecing and plundering of the Kingdom again. And had not Her Majesty been graciously pleased to interpole, would, in all probability, have continued to do so, till no one besides themselves had been worth a Groat: Besides, it is well known, that great Numbers of the Godly, (and, doubtless, many of the Ungodly were soon Converted to such a thriving Opinion,) decry'd Tithes as Antichristian, and utterly refused to pay them at all, or at best, paid what they thought fit; which, to be sure, was little enough: Nor was that a Season to disoblige these Friends; or, if it had been so, they were no Times to compel them, when every one (but the Friends of his Majesty and the Church) did what was right in his own Eyes. Add to this, that the Livings were often set out to their own Friends at a very low Rate, and sometimes perhaps farmed by the Sequestrators, or Commissioners themselves, in the Names of other People; and there is but little Reason to think they would overburthen themselves in the Rent: Or, if the Livings were some time taken by others, the precarious Title (which was the only one the Plunderers could give,) and the little Reputation there was in Farming the plundered Incomes of a starving Family, did, no doubt, make the Tenants accept the more easy Bargains. Nor was this all; for the Commissioners themselves, their Agents, their Solicitors, their Clerks, their Messengers and Door-keepers, and I know not what other Officers, were all to be paid their Salaries (as I find, both by the Welch and Cornish Accounts,)

See more particularly what will be after said of this Matter in the Account of Propagation of the Gospel in Wales.

Digitized by Google

I shall intend, at the end of this Account, to frame a Computation of what is meant by the Words [many] and [few] in the Articles, how many of them are set down in specifical and uncertain Terms, that it may not be done.

* Narrative, p. 249, 250. See more in Wiltshire; and for the Account of the Commissioners for ejecting Scandalous Ignorant and Insufficient Ministers and Schoolmasters.

compts,) out of the sequester'd Revenues; besides an hundred other occasional Articles, together with private Fees and Gratuities to the Commissioners for Orders; the Sequestrators for Payments, and the Attendants for Dispatch, (over and above the common and ordinary Fees,) and the Expences in Journies, and tedious Attendance, and even sometimes the doubled Charges of the Intruder's Admission and Continuance; which, there is no Question to be made, the poor sequester'd Clergyman paid for out of his Allowance, when the Accompt came to be Balanc'd; and that this is more than Conjecture, is undeniable, from the Case of Mr. Busfnell, (of whom more hereafter,) the sequester'd Vicar of Box, in Wiltshire; who when he lent to demand his Fifths, the Intruder expected of him that he should allow his Fifth Part of 15*l.* which he (the Intruder,) laid was demanded of him by the Commissioners, as their Incidents Charges, in dispossessing Mr. Busfnell; and which, as himself observes, is not unlike the Story of Phocion, 'who being unjustly condemned to Death, was afterwards enforced to buy 'his Poyson, and be at the Charges of his own 'Execution.' And probably there were, besides these, a thousand other Defalcations, which, it is not easie to think of, nor at present to Mention, That some of those who received their Fifths had been kept out of them for several Years, and some who had them for a Year or Two, at first, were continually dunn'd them over after.

And now, after all these Discounts, what could the Fifths of a small, yea, what could the Fifths of a considerable Living amount to? For the most Part, I am well satisfied, little more than a Tenth, (and sometimes, I believe, not more than the Fifth of a Fifth, which is a five and twentieth,) of which I have met with several Complaints, and shall here (that these Computations may not seem Groundless,) subjoyn some Instances.

The Cornish Accompts are so confused, that I cannot certainly determine by them the yearly Value the Livings were let at, and consequently cannot guess what proportion the Fifths laid to be paid, bore to it; but what I have here laid of the Low Rates, at which some of the Livings were let, (as for as I have heard any Thing of what they are now valued at,) as likewise of the Disproportion of the Fifths even at that Low Rate, is, if I conjecture Right, in great Part confirmed from those Accompts themselves, without those other Deductions not mentioned, which, to before, are not to be met with there.

I am wholly unacquainted with the Value of the Livings in Wales, and therefore cannot Guess by the Accounts of the Propagators, at what Rate they farmed them out: However, as to the Fifth of that Value, which they appear in those Accompts to have been Rented at, they are pretty exact in computing it; but then how much of that which they Charged, was in fact Paid; and the particular Shares that any of the Clergy of those Parts bore in the other Defalcations, is more than I can Determine; only that those Deductions were very great, is Evident from hence, that the generality of the Fifths on those Accompts of the Propagators, run at 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5*l. a Year*; and some there are even under Twenty Shillings: However, I have met with some particular Accounts from other Places, which will in some Measure help the Reader to form a Judgment of those Matters. The Fifths paid for the Vicaridge of Chebsey in Hertfordshire, were but 10*l. per Annum*; and the Glebe alone is valued at 40*l.* a Year. By the Act, (saith Mr. Busfnell, before mention'd,) they were 'to allow me a Fifth; and yet, all 'Tolings consider'd, they did not allow me * a Tenth,' and that not till some Years after, and then only till further Order; and yet, (saith he,) 'this, till 'further Order, cost me and my Friends, (considering how many Journies we made, how great Expences we were at,) even as much as 'the Fifths came to:' Yea, when he had obtain'd the Order, and the Clerk demanded 2*s.* and 6*d.* for it, Mr. Busfnell plainly told him, it was 'more than he should make of it.' Nor is this the only Complaint of that Kind that I have met with. But to go on, Mr. Ward of Berradon, in Rutlandshire, had but 15*l. per Ann.* of the Fifths of that Living, which was then worth 120*l.* a Year. The Rectory of Stockley-Pomeroy, in the County of Devon, was Let to one of their own Party, for little more than half the Value; and the Fifths were paid to Mr. Bowbere, the sequestered Rector; but after that Rate which was but little more than a Tenth. And Mr. Firsler of Bolam, in Northumberland, had but 4*l.* 6*s.* and 8*d.* a Year for that Vicaridge, (and that badly paid,) and this they were pleas'd to call a Fifth of it.

See him in that County.

See him in Devon.

In fine then, since scarce a Fifth of the Clergy had any Fifths at all, and by Consequence four Times more went without them than had them; since those who did receive what was called by that Name, hardly receiv'd more than a Tenth; and neither that, generally speaking, until after a considerable Time, and not without a Trouble and Charge that was often more than an overBalance for them; since those who purchased them at so dear a Rate, and those who after many tedious Journies, and very great Expences and Vexations, were at last altogether defeated of them, were haply more than those to whom they were orderly and regularly Paid; since the Writers of those Times expressly call the Fifths a Mockery on the Clergy, a Snare to draw them to the Expence of their last Groat, and in expreſs Words, the greatest Cruelty; and since it must be no small Aggravation to their Sufferings, to be lookt on as gently dealt with, and as it were, well at Ease, even when they were under the worst Oppression: I say, confidering all this, I presume, I am with the Reader in thinking, that the Appointment of the Fifths proved a very great Addition to the Miseries of the Clergy (as it is sure it did to to very many of them) and that the Tender Mercies of some Men are Cruel.

The Presence of Immorality, and the Reality of what they called Superstition and Delinquency, (that is, Obedience to the Orders of the Church, and Affection to his Majesty,) had hitherto made great Havock among the Clergy; and would have continued, no doubt, to perfect the intended Reformation, had they met with no other Assistance; but so it happen'd, that the Famous Covenant being now set on Foot, they had thereby a Shibboleth, a new Test, which would with great Effect, and very little Trouble, mark out every Honest and Orthodox Clergyman, and at once Arraign, Convict and Dispatch him. The unspeakable Mischiefs which this Horrible Combination did to his Majesty, and his Affairs, have so Interwoven the Account of it with the Histories of those Times (and the great Infamy of this Bond of Iniquity hath made it so well known to, and so much the Abhorrence of every one,) that I shall need say the less of it.

The Covenant.

See Clarend. Hist. Vol. I. p. 89. Vol. II. p. 234, 235, 286, 287, 288, 289. See also Whitl. Mem. p. 70.

Let it suffice therefore to take Notice, that as the Faction could not at that Time when it pass'd, be without the Assistance of their Brethren from Scotland: And this Solemn League being propos'd, and peremptorily insisted on, as the Condition of that Assistance; so it was readily Embraced by the Two Houses, had a quick and speedy Passage thro' them, and in Two Days Time the full Approbation of the Assembly likewise, Two only of that whole Body (and they again soon Confessing that they had received full Satisfaction to their Doubts) making any Pause or Scruple at it. After this, it was solemnly taken at St. Margaret's Westminster, by the respective Members of each House, and by that Junto of Divines, Sept. 25, 1643, at which Time several Narrative, p. 248.

* Vit. 12*l.* a Year for a Living, which was offered to be taken at 100*l.*

P. 247.

Digitized by Google

of th. Matter were very Profuse in their Gifts of Prayer and Preaching on the Occasion, saying such extravagant things of it, as are not easily to be conceiv'd.

My present Purpose requires me to Transcribe no more, than a Clause or two of it, which shew how particularly Odious and Detestable it must have been to such of the Clergy, as had a just Value for the Ecclesiastical Government, or any Duty to his Majesty; and therefore how impossible it was for any of them, with a good Conscience to submit to it; especially considering, that his Majesty, by his Proclamation

Heyl. Hist. Presb. Ed. 2. p. 431. a. October 9, 1643, did 'straightly Charge and 'Command all his Loving Subjects of what Degree or Quality soever, upon their Allegiance, 'that they presumed not to take the said Seditious and Traiterous Covenant;' which his Majesty justly Terms 'a Traiterous and Seditious 'Combination against himself, and against the 'Established Religion, and Laws of the Kingdom.' The Persons who took it, were to oblige themselves, to 'Endeavour in their several 'Places and Callings, the Preservation of the Reformed Religion in the Church of Scotland, in Doctrine, Worship, Discipline and Government, against their Common Enemies; the Reformation of Religion in the Kingdom of England and Ireland, in Doctrine, Worship, Discipline and Government, according to the Word of God, and the Example of the best Reformed Churches; and to endeavour to bring the Churches of God in the Three Kingdoms to the nearest Conjunction and Uniformity in Religion, Confession of Faith, Form of Church Government, Directory for Worship, and Catechizing ——And 'that they would in like manner, without respect 'of Persons, endeavour the Extirpation of 'Popery, Prelacy (that is, Church Government by 'Arch-bishops, Bishops, their Chancellours, and 'Commissaries, Deans, Deans and Chapters, Archdeacons and all other Ecclesiastical Officers, depending on that Hierarchy) Superstition; —— and 'with all Faithfulness, endeavour the Discovery 'of all such, as have been, or shall be Incendiaries, Malignants, or Evil Instruments, by hindering the Reformation of Religion, dividing the 'King from his People, or one of the Kingdoms 'from another, or making any Factions or Parties 'among the People, contrary to this League and 'Covenant, that they may be Brought to publick 'Tryal, and receive condign Punishment, &c.'

These, and such others, were the Terms of this deep Conspiracy against his Majesty, and the Ecclesiastical Government; and as it was afterwards order'd to be hung up in Churches; so I have often thought with my self, that such of their Brethren, who defac'd the Churches, and sometimes tore down (among other things) the Creed, the Lord's Prayer, the Commandments, and his Majesty's Arms, did thereby make very fit Preparations for the Reception of it; since these, and this Covenant, must of necessity have confronted and reproached one another.

But their pulling down the Commandments, and Setting up their more Sacred Covenant in the Churches (which they Worshipp'd with more Superstition and Idolatry, than any whom they accused, did these Altars that the Fashion first defac'd, and thus anew Prophan'd) was not the only Use they made of it: For the House of Commons ordered it to be taken, the next Lord's Day after themselves had taken it, 'by all Persons in their 'respective Parishes, and the Ministers to exhort 'them to it.' And November 30, order'd, that the Ministers within the Bills of Mortality, do the Lord's Day following, tender it to such, as have not taken it; and return to the Houses the Names of such as do refuse it; and that such Ministers, Lecturers and Curates, as have not taken it themselves, do then also take it: And in Case of refusal, the Church-wardens, were to return the Names of such Ministers, &c. to the House; and by a joynt Ordinance of both Houses, February 2, 1643, provid'd, that it should 'be 'solemnly taken in all Places throughout the 'Kingdom of England, and Dominion of Wales,' by all above the Age of Eighteen; subjoyning Instructions and Directions for the more regular and solemn Performance of it: Among which, are these relating to the Clergy; 'that the several 'Ministers be required to read the said Covenant 'publickly unto their People, the next Lord's Day 'after they receive it; and prepare their People 'for it;' and that the Committees of Parliament (viz. those Country Committees, of which I have before spoken at large) do disperse themselves through the Countries, and Summon all the Ministers, &c. and 'after a Sermon Preach'd by one 'appointed by the Committee for that Purpole, 'they cause the same Minister to tender the 'League and Covenant unto all such Ministers, &c. —— that the said Committees do withal 'give the said Ministers in Charge, to tender it 'to all the rest of their Parishioners, the next 'Lord's Day; making then unto their said Parishioners some solemn Exhortation, concerning 'taking and observing thereof, &c. —— that if 'any Minister do refuse to take, or tender the 'Covenant,' his Name be by the Committees returned to the House of Commons.

Ibid. p. 431.

As these Committees were dispersed throughout the whole Kingdom; so nothing more was needful, than the Ordinance now mention'd, to make the Calamity Universal, and to bring every single Clergyman, in the most remote Corner of the Nation, under the blackest Conspiracy of Treason and Rebellion; or to Endanger the loss of all he had in the World. However, on some special Occasions, particular Orders and Ordinances were likewise Issued, relating to this Matter; as namely, in the Instructions now mention'd, it was to 'be recommended to the Earl of Manchester, 'to take special care, that the Covenant be tendered and taken in the University of Cambridge:' And in the Ordinance passed January 22, foregoing, for regulating that University, and removing Scandalous Ministers in the Assiciated Counties of Essex, &c. the said Earl was impower'd to Administer the Covenant; and the Oxford Visitors were afterwards 'to Enquire by Oath, viva 'Voce —— concerning those, that neglect to take 'the Solemn League and Covenant,' &c. and in the subsequent additional Ordinance, they were impower'd to administer it; but the Oxford Gentlemen never suffer'd it to come to that Tryal; but flatly Deny'd, and strenuously Opposed the Authority of the Visitation it self; and were for that previous Crime Ejected, and Expell'd the University; as will appear more fully hereafter. There were also several other Orders and Causes of the like kind, which, it is needless to produce: Only it may not be amiss to Observe, that the Committee for Plunder'd Ministers likewise took Cognizance of this Crime of neglecting the Covenant (whether by an express Order of the House for that Purpose, which may have escaped me; or wh ther the House referr'd to them such Ministers, as were returned for that Refusal, I know not; as appears by the Petition of those many Thousands of Sequester'd Ministers, that addres'd Sir Thomas Fairfax in 1647, who complain, that as they had been mostly turned out by that Committee (and the Committee to Scandalous Ministers) for their not 'taking the Covenant,' or be'ng in Affection to his Majesty and th Establishment: And I find that by an Order of March 15, 1645, the House expressly Enjoyn'd that Whitl. Mem. p. 70. See also Chas. Hist. Ed. 1. p. 189.

Ibid. p. 431.

In the Orders of May 9. 1643. Scob. Collect. Part 2. Hist. Acc. p. 187.

Digitized by Google

that Committee to take Care, that none be Admitted to any Living by their Order, but such as had enter'd into that Horrible Bond and Obligation.

By these Ordinances, and in this Manner, it was, that so much Havock was made among the Clergy, throughout the whole Kingdom, with this wicked Engine; for it must be known, that there were not any new Committees directed on purpose to enforce it on the Clergy (or any others) and dispossels them of their Livings in case of refusal; but it was only a new Weapon put into the Hands of the Old Committees then on Foot (and of such Committees, or particular Sects of them as were appointed for other Purposes) which enabled them with more Ease and Readinels, as well to discover, as to dispatch Malignants of all Kinds, and especially, Malignant Ministers.

And that very great Numbers of them Suffer'd under it; or rather, that more Suffer'd by the Covenant, than by any one Invention of the Times besides, seems in a manner needless to say; since I have before observ'd, how Universally the Contagion of it was spread throughout the Kingdom, by the Committees in the Country: And every common Person knows, that this was the great Engine, wherby the Ruin both of the Clergy and Layity was then effected: Insomuch that you shall scarce meet with an Ancient Man, that happen'd to know any of the Sequester'd Clergy, but he will readily tell you, they were turned out for the Covenant: A plain Argument, that the Desolation it made, was very great; And to observe that by the way, so very General was this Opinion, that I question whether it may not have occasion'd some Mistakes in the Informations, transmitted to me, and sometimes have passed these Sequestrations on the Score of the Covenant, which haply were grounded on other Causes. This, at least (as I find by Articles and Accusations against the Clergy) must be understood by it, that 'refusing the Covenant,' was only one of the Charges brought against such a Person, tho' it is not Improbable, that it was most commonly the chief Article, and perhaps usually the Occasion of all the rest; and accordingly, in the University of Cambridge, in the Seven Counties within the Association of the Earl of Manchester, (where this Storm first Lighted) in the Counties of Leicester and Northampton; and, in a Word, in all other Places, where I have met with any Accounts of the Accusations of the Clergy before the Country Committees, the Article of refusing the Covenant, was, as the Reader will find in the List, the most frequent (and no doubt, the most Capital) Crime objected to them.

It is not possible to compute, with any tolerable Exactness, the particular Numbers that were devoured by this Abaddon: But the Reader may guess at something of it, by what followeth:

P. 28, 29. 'A Scandalous Covenant, (saith the Author of Perfecutio Undecima,) Maliciously Studied, and laid 'for a meer Snare, and Rock of Offence, to the Eslates and Consciences of the Clergy: —— Insomuch that at a general Summons of the Gentry, and Remnant of the Clergy of the County of Surrey, for the taking of this Covenant, some chief 'Actors of the Faction, when they saw, that with 'several Salvo's, and Liberty to take it in any 'Sence, with Mental Reservations, and Considera-'tions, that it was but a Forced Oath, and such 'like Mincines; many Men (and some of the 'Clergy, Loving this present World, took the 'same) said, they were very sorry to see some take 'it, whose Estates they hoped to have caught by this 'Hook; and although the Authors of the Cove-'nant knew the Clergy's greater Obligations than 'other Men's, by Oaths of Allegiance and Supre-'macy to the King, and by Oath of Canonical 'Obedience, and by several Subscriptions upon 'Record, to the present Church, and by their stricter Tie of Conscience, and greater Knowledge of the Function of Episcopacy, (from whence themselves received their own Holy Orders) which from our Saviour and the Apostles Days, was without Interruption, for Fifteen Hundred Years, and still is continued in all Christian Churches, where Rebellion started not 'the Scruple, and the Sword ever since maintains 'the Heresie; yet none were so much Pressed and 'Urg'd to take this Covenant, in terminis to De-'stroy Bishops, as were the Clergy; and the Refusal 'thereof was ipso facto, Loss of any Clergyman's 'Livings and Livelihood. Nay, to Barbarous were this Faction, that their Committees for Compositions at Goldsmith's Hall, would not admit the Lord Bishop of Winchester —— to Compound for his Sequester'd Temporal Estate, unless he would take the Covenant, to Swear to 'Destroy himself and his own Sacred Function.' To the same purpose Dr. Heylin informs us, that 'the 'Terror of this Covenant, and the severe Penalty 'impos'd on those, which did refuse it, compell'd 'great Numbers of the Clergy to forsake their 'Benefices, and to betake themselves to such * 'Towns and Garrisons, as were kept under the 'Command of his Majesty's Forces, whole va-'cant Places were in part, supply'd by such Pres-'byterians, who formerly had Lived as Lecturers 'or Trencher-Chaplains; or else Bestowed upon 'such Zealots, as flock'd from Scotland or New-'England, like Vultures and other Birds of Rapine, 'to seek after the Prey: But finding the Defer-'red Benefices not proportionable to so great a 'Multitude, they Compell'd many of the Clergy 'to forsake their Houses, that so they might 'avoid Imprisonment, or some worse Calamity: 'Others they sent to several Gaols, or shut them 'up in Ships, whom they expos'd to Storms and 'Tempests, and all the Miseries which a Wild 'Sea could give to a Languishing Stomach.'

Hist. Presb. Ed. 2. p. 445.

* which was doubtless, the reason of the Article ascribing the Clergy, that they had betaken themselves, or been in such a Garrison of the King's, &c. whether, it is plain from hence, they had themselves been driven them.' And to the same Cause are ascribable, and not very common Article, of Absence, and Deserting of Cure.

And to the same Effect is that Passage of Dr. Bates (for he is there speaking of the Covenant) already produced on another Occasion; 'Curiones 'præfertim Ecclesiarum, qui Opimus fruebantur 'Beneficiis, Ædibus, Bonis & Redditibus sequestri 'nomine spoliantur, Ergastulis Subterraneis Carce-'ribus Inclusi per Annos Plures, imo & navibus in 'fluvio Thamesi, idque effœtefcente jam Æstate '(Deportatione Intentata) nec audità causa, ne-'que Accusatione allatâ Squalore macerantur.'

Elenc. p. 54.

At London (saith Mr. Walton) all the Bishops Houses were turn'd to be Prisons, and they fill'd with Divines, that would not take the Covenant.'

Life of Dr. Saunderson, P. 33.

The very Learned Dr. Hum. Prideaux, now Dean of Norwich, hath inform'd me, that there were Two or Three Hundred Ministers (if not more) Eject'd in that Diocese; forasmuch as those Counties being within the Earl of Manchester's Association 'all were ejected that would 'not take the Covenant.' And the Friendly Debate hath these words to the same Purpose (speaking of the Covenant, and of the Clergy who Suffer'd by it:) 'I have read of a Thousand Imprison'd 'and Sequester'd on this Score, and near a Hun-'dred Fellows of Colleges Banish'd Cambridge 'for refusing it.' To which I shall only subjoyn in the last Place, the Words of the Learned Sir Henry Yelverton in his Apol. Epist. prefix'd to Bishop Morton's Book of Episcopacy: 'If I mistake 'not, there were Eight Thousand forsook all for 'the Covenant;' which shews how great a share this New Oath had in the Ruin of the Clergy; altho' I am satisfied that great Person was (as him-

P. 109, 110.

P. 38.

Digitized by Google

himſelf moves the Doubt) mittaken in that Number; for the whole of the Eyctes Clergy were computed at no more; and there were a great many of them ejected before the Covenant was ſet on Foot, and many after it was again laid aſide under the Independent Reign.

I ſhall Dimiſs this Head, when I have obſerv'd, that the Malice of the Faction, and the Miſeries of the Clergy, ſeem each to have been perfected in the exquiſite and finiſh'd Wickedneſs of this Covenant: For no leſs than the Loſs of all Liberty and Livelihood, and the diſmal Cries of a Starving and Periſhing Family, were the unavoidable Attendants of Refuſing it: Nor was any Corner of the Kingdom exempted from the Calamities; and yet on no other Conditions could this be avoided, than thoſe of Engaging their Souls in the moſt ſolemn Manner to God, that they would tear up the very Foundations of that Church, which moſt of them did think in their Conſciences to be the beſt and pureſt Church of Chriſt upon the Face of the Earth, and to which they were all bound and obliged by many Oaths, and Subſcriptions; and that they would deſtroy and extirpate that very Order from which they hold their own; and which, far the greateſt Part of them, was fully perſuaded to have been the Inſtitution of Chriſt Himſelf, either immediately by his own Hands, or mediately by thoſe of his Holy Apoſtles. It was likewiſe, in Effect, ſolemnly to Declare, in the preſence of God, that they did Renounce that Allegiance to his Vicegerent, which, by his own Laws, by thoſe of the Realm, and by many Sacred and Inviolable Oaths, they were indiſpenſably bound to yield unto him; and in the ſame Manner to combine and involve their Souls in the ſouleſt, blackeſt and moſt execrable Rebellion, that ever any Nation (as the noble Lord Clarendon hath obſerv'd,) was either curſed with, or under.

See Querel. Cantabrig. P. 23, 24, as printed with Merc. Ruſt. in 1647.

Regulation of the Univerſity of Cambridge.

What the Party had hitherto done in Ruining and Deſtroying the Loyal Clergy, was but Removing the Effect, without Reaching the Cauſe; or but as poyſoning the Stream, which would in Time become wholeſome again, by a freſh Supply of Waters from the Fountains; and therefore, whilſt the Univerſities continued unreform'd, their Work was but half done. This they were ſenſible of from the very Beginning of their Reformation: But the other Affairs of Conſequence which they had on their Hands, and the preſent Neceſſity of putting a Stop to Loyalty, by Suppreſſing, in the firſt Place, thoſe of the Clergy, who were already gone Abroad, and poſſeſs'd of the Livings throughout the Kingdom, oblig'd them to Poſtpone for ſome Time, their Care of preventing the like Miſchiefs for the future, which, at length, was aſſumed; and the Univerſity of Cambridge, which was in their Hands, (whilſt the Purifications of Oxford had put that Univerſity out of the Reach of any Ordinance from Weſtminſter,) was the firſt they ſet themſelves to Reform.

That they had from the very Beginning, as I have now ſaid, an Eye upon each of them, for this Purpoſe, appears from hence, that Decemb. 17. 1640, they appointed a Committee 'to Examine 'what the Viſitor or other hath done to Erſan. 'Coll. in Cambridge;' and the ſame Day made an Addition of Members to that Committee, and referr'd ſome Grievances of Wadham-College in Oxford, to them, likewiſe. What thoſe Grievances were, or what was the Caſe of Emanuel-Coll. I don't remember at preſent to have met with; but this ſufficiently ſhews, they wanted to be Meeting with thoſe Two great Bodies, as ſoon after more plainly appear'd; for within the Compaſs of five Days viz. the 22d. of the ſame Month,) a Sub-Committee was made a Committee of the Houſe, 'to conſider of the Abuſes of the 'Univerſities, in Matters of Religion, and Civil 'Government, either done, or ſuffer'd by them.' Jan. 20. following, (as hath been already ſaid in another Place, they reſolv'd, 'That the Statute 'made 27 Years before, in the Univerſity of Cambridge, impoſing on young Scholars a Sub-'ſcription, according to the 36th Article of the 'Canons, made 1603, is againſt the Law and 'Liberty of the Subject, and ought not to be 'preſs'd on any Graduats or Students;' and ſoon after paſs'd an Order to the ſame Effect, for Oxford. June 4, 1641, they declared themſelves yet more openly in their Intentions of Reforming the Univerſities, by Reviving the Committee for the Univerſities, and Ordering them to 'prepare 'a Bill for the Regulating the Univerſities,' which was accordingly done, and read the firſt Time, Auguſt 3, following; but what became of it afterwards I know not. In the mean Time, they had reſolved, as preparatory to this Bill, (June 24. 1641,) 'that the Order about conſidering of 'Abuſes in the Univerſities, did extend to Examining in any College or Hall:' To which muſt be added, that in the Famous Remonſtrance of the State of the Kingdom, they acquaint his Majeſty with their Purpoſes of this Kind, in theſe Words. 'That they intended likewiſe to Reform and 'Purge the Fountains of Learning, the Two Univerſities.

That above mention'd, a Copy is.

Clarend. Hiſt. Vol. II P. 232.

But that Undertaking being, as is before noted, deferr'd for ſome Time, and his Majeſty having in the mean while Fortified and Settled a good Garriſon in Oxford, all Thoughts of Attempting any Thing on that Univerſity were in Vain. Nor did the Ordinance for Regulating her Siſter Univerſity of Cambridge paſs, until the latter End of 1643, altho' before that Time, the Town being in the Hands of the Parliament, as is before ſaid, the Army had undertaken the Reformation there. A ſhort Account of which, (and of ſome of the Proceedings of the Earl of Manchester afterwards, on the Ordinance, for Regulating this Univerſity) was wrote, in the Names of the * Sufferers themſelves, and printed, under the Title of Querela Cantabrigienſis, out of which, it will be neceſſary, in this Place, to lay the Matter before the Reader.

* Drawn up (by the Excellent Dr. John Barwick) about 1644, as I gueſs, by one of the elected Fellows of St. John's College, in the Univerſity, (afterwards Learn of St. Paul's) as my very worthy and learned friend, Mr. Bennet of Coldhoſtel, hath offered me from a MS. Life of that Doctor, in two Volumes of that College, and as I find intimated in a Letter from the very learn'd Mr. Baker, now Fellow of that Houſe: To each of which Gentlemen I owe more Thanks and Acknowledgments than I am capable of Expreſſing.

It muſt be known therefore, that March 4, 1642, the Earl of Holland, then Chancellor of this Univerſity, obtained an Order from the Houſe of Lords, 'That no Perſon or Perſons 'whatſoever ſhall preſume to Offer any Outrage 'or Violence——unto any the Colleges, Chapels, 'Libraries, Schools, &c. belonging to that Uni-'verſity; or to any the Scholars, or publick Miniſters thereof: Nor Plunder, Paſſage, Deface, 'Spoil, or take any the Books, &c. and that 'Divine Service ſhould be quietly perform'd and 'exercis'd,——according to the Settlement of 'the Church of England, without any Trouble, 'Let or Diſturbance, until the Pleaſure of the 'Parliament be further ſignif,'d;' which Order was, three Days after, ſeconded by another of the ſame Tenor, from the Earl of Eſſex, then General for the Parliament; but theſe Proteſtions prov'd only the 'Shutting of the Stable-Door, after 'the Steed was Stol'n.' For to prevent their having any Effect, whilſt they 'were in Procuring,' a Warrant was the more ſuddenly iſſued, and the more vio'ently proſecuted, by the Lord Grey of Wark, to Coll. Cook, Lieut. Coll. Boldon, &c. Authoriſing them 'to enter into the Houſes of 'all Papiſts, Malignants, &c. that have, or ſhall 'refuſe Proface to the Querela.

Feb. 2. 1644.

Digitized by Google

' refuſe to appear at Muſters, or to contribute —— ' to the Parliament; and to ſeize upon all ſuch ' Armis, Horſes and Ammunition, as ſhall be ' found in their Cuſtodies, and to apprehend ' the ſame Perſons,' &c. This Warrant was not leſs eff ctuall, than ſpeedily put in Execution; and, purſuant to it, ' under Pretence of Papiſts, ' Malignants, &c. there was ſcarce a Scholar in ' all the Univerſity (ſaith the Querela,) which eſcaped Examination: And left our College-' Chapels, Libraries, or Treaſuries, or even the ' privateſt Cabinet therein, or any of our Cham-' bers, or Studies, ſhould, (perchance,) have been ' converted into Stables for Horſes, or Magazines ' for Arms, and Ammunition, they ſearch'd them ' all ſo ſtrictly, and plunder'd them all ſo thorough-' ly, that Nothing which they lik'd, eſcap'd ' their Fingers, our ancient Coins not excepted.'

Some few Months after thoſe Proceedings, his Majeſty's Neceſſities obliged him to Acquaint this Univerſity, by a Letter, of ' his ſtrange ' Wants, even of Suſtenance for his very Houſ-' hold:' Whereupon ' our Hearts burned within ' us (ſaith the Querela) to hear our Living Foun-' der, whom we expected to be made (by that ' Time) a Great and Glorious King (as was pro-' miſed him) ſhould almoſt Starve, while we had ' Bread on our Table: And therefore, ' out of ' our Poverty, a ſmall and inconſiderable Sum ' of Money was Collected, and Tender'd, as a ' Teſtimony, not only of our Loyalty to him, as a ' King,—— but alſo of our Charity to him, as a ' Chriſtian, their in extream Want and Neceſſity.' After this, his Majeſty (foreſeeing that the Flame of this Univerſity was too great a Treaſure to be over-look by thoſe, who had given but too much Cauſe to think, that they intended to Support their Rebellion by Sacrilege; and well knowing that this Act of their Loyalty in Supporting his Majeſty, would both direct the Faction to, and ſeem to Countenance them in ſuch a Plunder) proffers to ſecure it in his own Hands; or if any Accident, (or perhaps his own Neceſſities) ſhould prevent him from Reſtoring the ſame, Engages to Return them the ſame Weight, and in the ſame Forms, &c. and for that End writes them another Letter, to take an exact Survey of the Form, Names, Arms, Motto's, &c. of each Piece. The Univerſity were the more inclined to accept of this Offer, becauſe the Plunders were already begun in their Neighbouring Counties, where they had Rifled the Houſe of the Counteſs of Rivers, and ſeveral others. And the Rabble being likewiſe Arm'd, in the Town of Cambridge, had fired their Muſquets, (which could not but be look on as Warning-Pieces) into the Chamber-Windows of ſeveral of the Scholars.

Querel p. 2, 3. (Edit. of 1647.) with Mercr. Ruſt. of that Year.

P. 4.

P. 5.

Purſuant therefore to this Propoſal, about the beginning of Auguſt, 1642, (and before his Majeſty had erected the Royal Standard at Nottingham) the Univerſity ſent away Part of their Plate: Whereupon (within a few Days after) Cromwell (who ſerved in Parliament for the Town of Cambridge, and had then newly taken a Command in the Army) was ſent from London ' to ſtop all the Paſſages, that no Plate might ' be ſent; but his Deſigns being fruſtrated, and ' his Opinion, as of an active ſubtil Man, thereby ' ſomewhat ſhaken and endanger'd,' he thence-forward bent himſelf to do what Miſchief he could to the Univerſity; and in Purſuit of thoſe wicked Purpoſes, within a Month after comes down from London ' again, in a terrible Manner, ' with what Forces he could draw together; and ' ſurrounds divers Colleges, while they were at ' their Devotions in their ſeveral Chapels, ta-' king away Priſoners ſeveral Doctors of Divinity, ' Heads of Colleges, viz. Dr. Beal, Maſter of St. ' John's College; Dr. Martin, Maſter of Queen's-' College, and Dr. Sterne, Maſter of Jeſus Coll.' whom he hurried Priſoners to London, with ſuch Circumſtances of Outrage and Abuſe, as I ſhall at large Relate, when I come to ſpeak of the laſt of theſe very learned and worthy Men, at his own College: Only I muſt add in this Place, that they likewiſe Seiz'd and Impriſon'd Dr. Holdſworth, the Vice Chancellor, ' firſt, in Ely-Houſe; ' then (becauſe they Thought that was not Ex-' penſive enough, tho' they had plunder'd him of ' all) they thruſt him into the Tower, only for his ' Loyalty, in ſeeing his Majeſty's Commands Exe-' cuted,' in the Printing his Declarations.

P. 7. See more of him at Worceſter Cathedral.

At length the Town of Cambridge was pitch'd on ' for the prime Garriſon, and Rendezvous,' of the Seven Aſſociated Counties; after which, the Miſeries which the Univerſity underwent, were without Intermiſſion: For, in the firſt Place, ' by ' this Means (as the Querela expreſſes it) inſtead ' of carrying us all to London-Jayls (thanks be ' to our Multitude, not their Mercy) they found ' a Device to convey a Priſon to us; and under ' Colour of Fortifications, confin'd us only in a ' larger Incloſure, not Suffering any Scholars to ' pais out of the Town, unleſs ſom Townſ-man ' of their Tribe would Promiſe for him, that he ' was a Conſider.' And from that Time forward, for near Two Years together, the 'Prophanations, ' Violence, Outrages, and Wrongs' done to their Chapels, Colleges and Perſons, by ' the uncon-' troul'd Fury of Rude Soldiers' (notwithſtanding the fore-mention'd Proteſtions) were Matter of unſpeakable Grief to any that conſider'd it. At one Time, particularly, the ' Vice-Chancellor, ' and Heads of Colleges, ſolemnly Aſſembled in ' Conſiſtory, being many of them threeſcore Years ' Old and upwards, were kept Priſoners in the ' publick Schools, in an exceeding cold Night, till ' Midnight, without any Accommodations for ' Food, Firing, or Lodging; and for no other Rea-' ſon, but only becauſe they could not in Con-' ſcience comply, or contribute any Thing to this ' deteſtable War, againſt his Majeſty.' And in the Reſult, the Two Profeſſors of Divinity, and the Profeſſor of Law (the Junior of which had been near Twenty Years in his Chair) were Plun-der'd, and Impriſon'd; and one of them (namely, Dr. Ward, the Margaret-Profeſſor of Divinity) dy'd under his Confinement.

P. 8.

On Good-Friday, March 30, 1643.

P. 9.

See Sidney Suſſex-Coll. P. 10.

Towards the End of the ſame Year, the Regent Houſe was likewiſe beſet, in the ſame Manner, being ' violently inviron'd with great Bands of ' Armed Soldiers, who wanted nothing but the ' Word, to Diſpatch' thoſe that were in it. And to enhaunce the Outrage, they were commanded by one Dawes, who had himſelf been formerly a Member of that Body; and in flat Contradiction to the Oath which he had then taken, came, and utterly deny'd the Vice-Chancellor leave to ' Diſſolve the Congregation.' Nor was the Occaſion of this Violence any other, than their Denying to confer a Degree on one, whom in their Conſciences they judg'd unworthy of it. And becauſe ſeveral of the Members of that Houſe made uſe of that undoubted Liberty, which the Statutes allow'd them on ſuch Occaſions, they ' were forthwith Seiz'd on, and Impriſon'd ' by the Committee, in no better Lodgings than ' the common Court of Guard.

At another Time, Mr. Power, the Lady Marg. Preacher, going to Preach ad Clerum, according to his Office, ' was furiouſly purſued over the ' Market-Place, by a confus'd Number of Sol-' diers, who, in a barbarous and uncivil Manner, ' cry'd out, a Pope, a Pope, and vowed high ' Revenge if he offer'd to go into the Pulpit;

' whereupon the Church was straightways fill'd ' with great Multitudes; and when some who ' accompany'd the Preacher, told them, It was an ' University Exercise, and to be by Statute perform'd ' in Latin, they reply'd, They knew no Reason why ' all Sermons should not be perform'd in English, ' that all might be edify'd, threatning withal to ' tear the Hoods and Habits which Graduates ' then wore, according to the University Statute.' And when Complaint was made of this Uproar, to the Lord Grey of Werk, the General of the Association, no Course was taken to prevent the like Mischiefs for the future; but Mr. Power was forced to Return, without performing the Duty of his Office, and glad he could Escape so: Nay, so far were those in Authority at that Time, from Discountenancing, much less Punishing the Authors of such Insolencies, that the Soldiers ' tore the Common-Prayer Book in Pieces,' before the Face of their then Generals, (to little Regard was paid to the Clause concerning that Matter in the Order of the House of Lords beforementioned) and even Cromwell himself encourag'd them in that Violence, and openly rebuk'd the University-Clerk for complaining of it.

After this, it will not be strange, (saith the Querela) to hear how our Persons have been abus'd; ' how divers of us have been Imprison'd, ' without so much as pretending any Cause, but ' snatch'd up in the Streets, and thrown into Pri- ' son, at the Pleasure of a small breaking Cap- ' tain; where we have lain Three or Four Months ' together, not so much as accus'd, much less ' heard, but quite and clean forgotten, as if there ' had been no such Thing in Nature. How some ' of us (and many others with us,) have been ' thrust out of Bed in the Night, that our Cham- ' bers might forthwith be converted into Prison- ' Lodgings: How our young Scholars with Ter- ' ror have been commanded to accuse, and cut out ' the Names of their own Tutors; and some of ' them thrown into Prison for not being Old ' enough to take their Covenant. But (to pass higher) How often have our Colleges been bro- ' ken open, and Guards thrust into them, some- ' times at Midnight, while we were asleep in ' our Beds? How often our Libraries and Trea- ' suries ransack'd and rifl'd, not sparing so much ' as our Ancient Coins,' (Particularly ' at St. ' John's College, whence they took in Ancient ' Coins to the Value of Twenty Two Pounds, ' according to Weight) which those that know ' any thing, know to be a great Light to the ' Understanding of History? How often hath ' that small Pittance of Commons, which our ' Founders and Benefactors allowed for our Sustenance, been taken from off our Tables, by the ' wanton Soldier? How often have our Rents ' been extorted from our Tenants; or if receiv'd, ' remanded of our Bursars and Stewards, and by ' Force taken from them? ——They having for ' above Two Years together fet themselves upon ' little else, than to graze and take away our ' Goods and Furniture belonging to our Chambers, ' Pesling, and Selling away our Books at a ' Tenth Part of their Value. —— And to this ' End they have Constituted a decay'd Hatter ' Plunder-Master General, who (together with a ' Conventicling Barber and a Cobbling Taylor) ' hath full Commission, for our Property sake, ' to Lord over us, and Dispose of our Goods, as they ' please.' But in the mean time, to Render the ' Scholars Odious, and Expose them to the Rabble ' for Papists, they took care to ' Reserve out of ' their Plunder all sorts of Pictures, were they but ' Paper Prints of the Twelve Apostles, and every ' Market-Day to Burn them openly in the Market- ' Place, Proclaiming them to be Popish Idols of the ' University; until we became so hated by the ' Weaker Sort of deceiv'd People, that a Scholar ' could have small Security from being Ston'd or ' Assaulted, as he walk'd the Streets.

P. 22.

P. 23.

They likewise cut down the Trees of the Walks, Orchards, Woods and Groves belonging to the Colleges (tho' the Latter were by an Ordinance expr fsly declar'd not Sequestrable) and sold the Timber for a considerable Value. They Seiz'd, and took away Materials for Building at Clare Hall, to the Value of 3 or 400 l. and Defac'd five or six Fair Bridges of Stone and Timber, belonging to several Colleges; spoil'd a Goodly Walk, with a new Gate belonging to King's-College, under pretence of keeping out Cavaliers; and yet they would fain have been hir'd with 40 s. to spare it, and cast up a Work beyond it. They plunder'd, and drove the true Owners out of St. John's College, for above Sixteen Months together, and converted all the Old Court of it (which had formerly contain'd 300 Students at a time) into a Prison for his Majesty's Loyal Subjects; not suffering any to remove either their Bedding, or other Goods wherof the Jaylor could make any use or Benefit; and rented out the whole of it at above 500 l. per annum; and at length laid their Paws on most of the other Colleges: ' Quartering Multitudes of Soldiers in those ' Glorious and Ancient Structures, which the ' Devout and Royal Founders design'd for Sanctuaries of Learning and Piety; but were made ' by them mere Spittals, and Bawdy Houses for ' sick and debauch'd Soldiers; being fill'd with ' Queans, Drabbs, Fiddlers and Revels, Night and ' Day.' And tho' the Lewdnels of their Soldiers was complain'd of to the Officers, and the particular Persons shew'd to them, none were ever punish'd; nor were the Holy Sisters removed. To this must be added, that they Tore and Defac'd the Buildings, Pull'd down, and Burn'd the Wainscote of the Chambers, the Beadsteds, Chairs, Stools, Tables and Shelves for Books. ' And when their Ragged Regiments, which had lain Lowsing before Cromlands nigh a Fortnigh', were commanded to Cambridge, forthwith the Colleges were appointed for their Kennels; and Fourscore were turn'd loose into one of the least Halls (Pembroke) in the University, and charg'd by their Officers to shift for themselves; who, without any more ado, broke open the Fellows and Scholars Chambers, and took their Beds from under them. But when the King's Prisoners taken at Hilsden-House, were brought Famish'ed and naked, in Triumph, by Cambridge to London, some of our Scholars were knock'd down in the Streets, only for offering them a Cup of Small Beer to sustain Nature; and the Drink thrown in the Kenne', rather than the famish'd and parched Throats of the Wicked should usurp one Drop of it. In fcems in a manner needless to observe, after what is already said, that the Burthen of Arbitrary Taxes, and other Impositions of that nature, was laid with a distinguishing Weight, on their Shoulders, before they enter'd upon the shorter (tho' to some of the Scholars, the less oppressive) Method of Taking all: For it must be known that they sometimes demanded Taxes for those very Chambers which the ' Soldiers then ' poffels'd, and Burnt.'

P. 24.

As to the Ravages and Plunderings of the several Chapels, they are not sufficiently to be express'd. They tore down all Carved Work, not sparing the Monuments of the Dead; and by

P. 25.

Direction

Digitized by Google

Direction of Cromwell, ruin'd a beautiful carv'd Structure in the University-Church, which ſtood the Univerſity in a great Sum of Money; alſo' it had not one jot of Imagery, or Statue Work about it; and horribly abus'd the Vice-Chancellour, for mildly telling them 'they 'might be better employ'd.' They alſo made King's College-Chapel a Place to exerciſe their Soulders in; and one who call'd himſelf John Dooſing, and by Virtue of a pretended Commiſſion, went about the Country to break Windows, batter'd and beat down all the Painted Glaſs, not only in the Chapels; but (contrary to, or at leaſt, beſide their own Order) in the Publick Schools, Colleges, Halls, Libraries and Chambers, ('miſtaking perhaps, ſaith the Querela, th' Liberal Arts for Saints, which they intended in time 'to pull down too,') and defac'd and dugg up the Floors of the Chapels; many of which had lain in the manner he found them, for * Two or Three Hundred Years together, not regarding the Aſhes of the Founders; ſome of which might probably lye Buried there: And afterwards by armed Force compell'd the ſeveral Societies to pay 40 s. each 'for not mending what he had ſpoil'd 'and defac'd,' or forthwith to go to Priſon. And to compleat their Outrages, they violently Plucked Mr. Pawſon, one of the Fellows of Sidny-College, 'from the Communion as he was ready to 'receive that Holy Sacrament, before the ſolemn 'Election of a Maſter of that College,' (and threw him into a Goal) to make an Equality in that Election, in order to get in a Creature of their own. Nor will this be wonder'd at, when 'tis farther known, that at St John's College even 'the 'Communion-Plate was moſt Sacrilegiouſly ſeiz'd 'upon, and taken away from the very Communion- 'Table,' notwithſtanding it had been (after a former Plunder) reſtor'd to the College, by an Order from the Cloſe Committee.

The Univerſity have heard, the Cloiſter King's Coll Chapel was ſaved by two or three Batter-down's, probably before their Batterers came thither on his Round.

* P. 18.

See Pope's Life of Ward, p. 15.

But theſe Outrages of the Garriſon, Barbarous as they were, are, as the Querela obſerves, to be look'd on but as Preparatory to the more Oppreſſive, tho' leſs Rude and Violent Proceedings of the Reformation, which muſt now be ſpoken to. Matters therefore being at length in ſuch a State, that they had both Leiſure and Opportunity to turn themſelves to that great Work; as Introductory to it January 6, 1642, the Lords and Commons under Colour of exempting the Eſtates, and Revenues of this Univerſity, from the Ordinance for Sequeſtring Delinquents Eſtates, paſt a Declaration, appointing that the Receivers and Treaſurers of the Univerſity, and of each reſpective College and Hall, ſhall be approv'd by the Earl of Manchester; and that they ſhall pay the Incomes and Revenues to the Committee for Sequeſtrations at Cambridge, or otherwiſe as it ſhould be order'd by that Earl.

P. 18.

Hiſtr. Collect. Fol. p. 409.

By the Ordinance of April 21, 1643, they did exempt this Univerſity from Taxes. (See Hiſtr. Collect. Fol. p. 636.) And March 24, 1643, they ordered 300 l. to this Univerſity, for the Re-building and Repairing of the Publick Library, that wanting the Monies not ever paid, or how it was employed, I know not; and order'd it to a Committee, to conſider of maintaining the Heads of Houſes, out of the Biſhops, &c. Revenues; and did the ſame for the Univerſity of Oxford likewiſe. And at length, paſſed it into an Act, that 3000 l. per Ann. ſhould be aliened out of the Appropriate Tythes of Biſhops, Deans, &c. in both Univerſities, for the better Supply of the Headſhips and Moderſhips, which were to be appointed to them by the Committee for Regulating the Univerſities. (See Scob. Collect. Part 2. p. 42, 123.) But whether any of it was ever paid, I know not. Only I mention theſe things on this Occaſion; as being ſo they made it the Buſineſs of ſome of Favour to the Univerſities (and very rare in the Hiſtories of thoſe Times) tho' by no means countervailing the Hundredth Part of the other Outrages which they committed upon them.

By this Declaration the whole Eſtates of the Maſters, Fellows, &c. were plainly put into his Hands. And ſoon after (viz. January 22, 1643, as is before ſaid) their Perſons likewiſe were put into his Power; for on that Day paſs'd the Ordinance for Regulating this Univerſity (which Authoriz'd the ſame Earl likewiſe to remove Scandalous Miniſters in the Seven Aſſociated Counties of Eſſex, &c. of which more hereafter) taking notice that 'the Service of the Parliament 'being retarded, the Enemy ſtrengthen'd, the 'Peoples Senſe S ſarv'd, and their Minds diverted 'from any Care of God's Cauſe, by the Idle, Ill-Affected, and Scandalous Clergy of the Univerſity 'of Cambridge, and the Aſſociated Counties, and 'that many that would give Evidence againſt 'ſuch Scandalous Miniſters, not being able to 'Travel to London, nor Bear the Charges of ſuch 'a Journey:' Therefore it provides, that the * Earl of Manchester ſhall appoint one or more Committees in each of theſe Counties, to conſiſt of Ten (whereof Five might Sit and do Buſineſs) and to be Nominated out of the Deputy-Lieutenants, or Members of Committees, Nam'd by any former Ordinance of Parliament; who were to put in Execution the following Inſtructions; Namely, 'to call before them, all Provoſts, Maſters and Fellows of Colleges, all Students and Members of the Univerſity †, that are Scandalous in 'their Lives, or Ill-Affected to the Parliament, 'or Fomenters of this Unnatural War, or that 'ſhall willfully refuſe Obedience to the Ordinances of 'Parliament, or that have Deſerted their Ordina-'ry Places of Reſidence, not being Employ'd in the 'Service of the King and Parliament,' and to ſend for any Witneſſes, and to Examine them upon Oath, and then to Certifie the Names of thoſe Accuſed, and the Courge and Proofs againſt them to the Earl himſelf, who is Impower'd 'to Eject ſuch, 'as he ſhall think unfit for their Places, and to Se-'queſter their Eſtates, Means and Revenues, and to 'Diſpoſe of them as he ſhall think fitting; and 'to Place other fitting Perſons in their Rooms' after they ſhould be Approv'd by the Aſſembly of Divines. The Earl (or the Committees) had Power likewiſe to Adminiſter the Covenant: And he might alſo aſſign the Fifths to the Wives and Children of any Sequeſtr'd Perſon.

* The General of this Aſſociation. See the Reaſons of Aſſociating theſe Counties Clar. Hiſt. Vol. II. p. 368.

† Then follow Miniſters, School maſters, &c. in the County.

It was likewiſe ſuperſeded by a Clauſe in this Ordinance, that the Committees ſhould provide a Clerk, to Regiſter all Warrants, Orders, Summons and Ejectments, and pitch on a Place for keeping the Writings: Which probably, in the Reaſon why a conſiderable Part of their Proceedings were preſerved, while ſ hole of the Committees at London were (as the Clergy complain in their Petition of 1647, to Sir Thomas Fairfax) hardly ſo much as ever taken at all, or, it may be, at leaſt, on looſe and ſcattered Papers only: Inſomuch that even at that time it could hardly be learned, who was Sequeſter'd, or for what. And therefore it is no wonder that ſuch of their Proceedings as were taken, are now (as for as I can yet learn) quite loſt; ſave ſome few Pages that I have met with in a Book, which I gueſs, belonged to the Committee for Religion ; and contained ſome few Minutes of their Firſt Proceedings. As to the Papers now mentioned, of the Proceedings on this Ordinance, they were ſome time in the Hands of Dr. Nalſon, who made an Extract out of them; a Copy of which was, among ſeveral other Papers, communicated to me by the Worthy Dr. Goodall of the Charter Houſe. I have already more than once hinted at this Extract: And being now more eſpecially, to make uſe of it in the Hiſtory of this Viſitation, and the Sequeſtrations within this Aſſociation, I ſhall here give the Reader a Short Account of that MS. It conſiſts of about 60 Pages in Folio, and contains the Examinations of the Witneſſes, &c. ſigned by the Earl of Manchester in his Viſitation of this Univerſity, and Eſſex and the Clergy of the Counties: An Alphabetick Extract of the Articles (together with the Names of the Commiſſioners, and of the Witneſſes) preferred againſt about 100 of the Clergy in Cambridgſhire, Lincolnſhire, Suffolk and Norfolk; and ſome very Short Minutes of the Articles againſt about 18 of the Clergy of Eſſex; all within the compaſs of the Year 1644, and ſome few Weeks of 1643. It contains likewiſe a Liſt of the Names, Livings, Temporal Eſtates, many Wives and Children of the Sequeſter'd Clergy of thoſe Counties: That for the Three Former of them agreeing with the Names of theſe, whole Accuſations are extracted; but that for Norfolk containing 38 Names more than appear in the Extracted Articles of that County; and that for Eſſex Three more than there are in the Minutes before mentioned: But no Articles, nor any Liſt appears for the Counties of Hertford and Huntingdon; only Our Sequeſter'd Miniſter in each is Occaſionally mentioned. It hath alſo a Liſt of 419 Miniſters, and 38 others, that took the Engagement, and the Time when they did ſo. And Thirdly I could add, that it was Tranſcribed from Dr. Nalſon's Copy, by an Exact, and Careful Hand.

Hiſtr. Collect. Fol. p. 435.

The true Intent of this Ordinance was, beyond all Queſtion, as the Querela has obſerv'd, 'to 'Plant a new Univerſity, for propagating at leaſt, 'if not inventing a new Religion:' And, 'ſeeing 'they could not make the Univerſity of Cam-'bridge rebel, to make at leaſt, a Rebellious 'Univerſity at Cambridge.'

P. 19, 23.

To

Digitized by Google

To the performing of which good Work, the Earl of Manchester, wi h whom it was Intrufted, forthwith fet himfelf, and that too at firft, more immediately by his own proper Act (as well as Authority) without the laft Invention of a Committee; altho' the Ordinance, if I rightly underftand it, had not only permitted, but obliged him to do that Drudgery (faving that at laft he was to put his Fiat to it) by Commiffioners, which afterwards I find he Authoriz'd, and appointed for that Purpofe; but when it was done, or who they were, I do not find. And he feems likewife at his firft Setting out (unlefs he had fome Inftructions, which I have not yet met with) to have gone beyond his Commifion, not only in the Manner, but in the Matter of his Enquiry likewife; for I find he requir'd all the Colleges (as will be faid by and by) to bring in their Statutes, which looks as though he intended a Regulation of the Conftitution, as well as of the Members of the Univerfity; to the latter of which the Ordinance plainly confin'd him: Nor could the Statutes of the refpective Colleges help him in the Inqueft, which the Inftructions of the Ordinance directed him to make, unlefs Part of the fuppos'd Scandal of their Lives might be imagin'd to have been, their acting befide, or contrary to thefe Statutes.

Unlefs they were the fame that were appointed for the County of Cambridge, and the Ordinance, made to diftinct Provifion for the Univerfity, no reafon feems to imply, that the Committee for the County was to act in that affair, unlefs the Earl fhould think fit to nominate a particular Committee for it:) and if fo, the Commiffioners were appointed, March 15. 1643. and were, Samuel Smith, Robert Vintor, Henry Warner, Hauck Fuller, William Stone, Theophilus Vaughan, William Harlackenden, Edward Clench, Robert Clerke, John Benifh and Samuel Spalding ; and afterwards I find others acting with them in the County, (unlefs the Earl made an Addition to the Committee, or erected feveral Committees) viz. Dudley Pope, Thomas Duckett, Robert Robfon, Dr Staines, Thomas French, John Bedel, Edward Sridgwith, Mat. Linfey, Thomas Coe, John Reak, John Wilfone, Gregory Gunkil, Robert Caftell, John Sherwood, Michael Dalton, William Saville, Francis Bacon, Henry Middnay, Thomas Wild, Dr. Smith, Thomas Smith, William Iceman, John Brewfter, Richard Luckenden, Nath. Bacon, Humphrey Wilcots, and Thomas Shaw. Thefe were never in Commiffion at large; but my Extracts reaches at the laft that for Lincoln, and only Mentions the Names of the Commiffioners for the reft of the Counties, and the Dates. But as the reft of the Warrants run "to call before them all Mayors, &c. who fhall be impower'd them to act in the Affairs of the Univerfity) moft, as I fuppofe, ran "to call before them all Prouofts, Fellows, &c. and all Miniflers, &c.

Q. cited. p. 9.

And to Kirby's, as I find it, Thomas Shere is ftiled in fome Mifbooks inftead Matter in the Year 1643, and I have Reafon to think it was Copied by a very inaccurate Hand, which may perhaps have led me into fome Miftakes.

Fell Hift. of Cambr. p. 165.

But be thofe Matters as they will, this Fact is certain, that the Earl Repairing in Perfon to Cambridge, did, Feb. 24. 1643, iffue his Warrants to each College and Hall in this Univerfity, 'requiring them forthwith, by the Bearer, to fend 'unto him the Statutes of their College, together 'with the Names of all the Members of their Society, whether Fellows, Scholars, or other Officers; 'and alfo to certifie unto him who are now prefent, and who Abfent, and to give him Notice of the 'expreſs Time of their Difcontinuance, which were 'then abfent. What Return was made to this Warrant, I know not (fave that I find an Intimation in one of the fubfequent Warrants, that fome at leaft, if not all of the Colleges, had given in fuch a Lift as was hereby demanded;) but Two Days after the Earl iffued another, directed to each College and Hall likewife, 'willing and 'requiring them, upon Sight thereof, to give fpeedy 'Advertifement Vifs, Medlis, & Modis, to the 'Maſter, Fellows, Scholars, and Officers of their 'College, to repair to the faid College the 10th 'Day of March next Enfuing, to give an Ac- 'count, wherein they fhall be requir'd to Anfwer, to 'himſelf or fuch Commiſſioners as he fhould ap- 'point.' The next Day after that here fix'd for their Appearance, another Warrant was directed to the Maſter or Preſident of every College, &c. 'to give in the Names of all their Members, who have 'either left their Colleges, or return'd fince the laſt 'Catalogue; and to fend the Records of the College- 'Acts, paſs'd by the Maſter and Fellows for Twelve 'Years paſt.' That the former of thefe Two laft Warrants could be fully comply'd with, was plainly impoſſible; for fome of the Fellows, &c. were at that Time 200 Miles diſtant from Cambridge, and therefore could not (eſpecially conſidering the Interruptions which they muſt neceſſarily meet with from one or the other of the Armies) receive the Summons, and repair to Cambridge in Purſuance of it, within the Compaſs of ſo ſhort a Time as that allow'd by the Warrant, which was but Twelve Days: Beſides which, ſome of thoſe Summon'd to appear, were at that time by themſelves kept faſt Priſoners at London. However, many of thoſe, which probably might very well have repair'd to the Colleges, refuſing to do, the Earl iſſues his Warrant, April 3, following, to the Maſter, Fellows, &c. of Bennet-College; Setting forth, that whereas he had by his Warrant of February 26 requir'd all Fellows, &c. to repair to their faid Colleges by the 10th. of March laſt paſt, &c. therefore he Declared 'that if Mr. Tunſtall and 'Mr. Palgrave, did not appear Perſonally on 'Friday next, at the Sign of the Bear in Cambridge, before thoſe Commiſſioners whom he had Authoriz'd, &c. he would proceed to Exe-'cute ſuch Sentence, by Ejectment, or otherwiſe,' as he was Authoriz'd to do. The like Warrant was the ſame Day iſſued reſpectively, for about 72 Fellows more of Caius, St. John's, Queen's, Peter-Houſe, Sidney, Trinity, Chriſt, Magdalen and Jeſus Colleges, and for Pembroke and Clare-Halls, in this Univerſity. And Five Days after (viz. April 8.) he did in good meaſure Execute, what he had Threaten'd; Ejecting by his reſpective Warrants (Directed to the Fellows and every of them in each Houſe) bearing Date that Day, about 65 Fellows of the ſeveral Colleges and Halls now mentioned (with the Addition of Emanuel-College) who were moſtly thoſe Summon'd to appear by the Warrant of the 3d. of that Month, with about Five or Six others, not there Nam'd. And the Reaſons Aſſign'd, are, 'for not being 'Reſident in the ſaid Colleges, and not returning 'to the Places of their uſual Reſidence there, upon due Summons given to that Purpoſe, and 'for ſeveral other Miſdemeanors, Committed 'by them, which Parties were Required upon their Return to Cambridge whenſoever, not 'to continue in the ſaid Univerſity above the 'Space of Three Days, upon Pain of Impriſon-'ment and Sequeſtration of their Goods:' The Warrant Directing withal, that their Profits be Sequeſter'd (and Reſerv'd for ſuch Succeſſors, as ſhould be appointed) and their Names be put out of the Buteries, and a Return made within one Day of what was done in theſe Matters.

Feb. 26.

But as Abſence was the Pretence for Turning out thoſe, who would not appear; ſo there were other Reaſons at Hand, for Turning out thoſe, who (perhaps under the Confinement of the Garriſon, which is before mentioned) could not be gone; and others, againſt whom they thought fit to bring Accuſations of a different Nature; and therefore in the mean time, whilſt this matter of the Summons for Appearance was in Tranſacting, the Earl, to Imploy the Vacant Time, proceeds to Eject by his Warrants, ſome others for other Crimes. Particularly, March 13 1643, (Three Days after that fix'd for the general Appearance) * Dr. Cofin, from being Maſter of Peter-Houſe; 'for his ſpiting the Proceedings 'of Parliament, and other ſcandalous Acts in the 'Univerſity.' The like Warrants were alſo iſſu'd (but whether the ſame Day, or not, I cannot be poſitive; tho' I gueſs, it was ſo) for the Ejectment of Dr. Beal, Maſter of St. John's, Dr. Martin, Maſter of Queen's, Dr. Sterne, Maſter of Jeſus, and Dr. Lane, Maſter of Pembroke-Hall. And by another Warrant, Dated March 15. he Ejected Mr Stephen Hall, from a Fellowſhip of

* Affiduous & the very firſt Perſon I find Diſtinguiſh'd in this Work.

Digitized by Google

The first Tryers that I ever met with Recited.

of Jesus-College ' for refusing to take the Solemn ' League and Covenant.' And by the like Warrant (of the same Date, if I mistake not) Mr. John Oswey, Fellow of St. John's.

See the Preface to the Querela, p. 19.

The Unwary (if it may not be call'd Ignorant) manner of expreſſing the Warrant for the Ejecting Dr. Cosin, and the other Heads now mentioned, gave occaſion to ſome of thoſe Learned Gentlemen, who Suffered under theſe Invaſions, and with Contempt and Indignation (mixed however with ſome ſort of Secret Pleaſure) beheld the Stupidity of their Perſecuters and Succeſſors, to Conſtrue the Senſe of it, as tho' Oppoſing had referr'd to other Scandalous Acts, as well as to the Proceedings of Parliament; and in deriſion of their Ignorance (which alſo happily enough expreſs'd the True and Real Cauſes of their Expulſion) to ſay they were Ejected; as appeared by their own Warrants, for Oppoſing Scandalous Acts in the University. But this was doubtleſs, what the Loſers had not Leave (tho' ſupported by the Proverb) to ſpeak to their Faces; nor would the poor Ejected Fellows be permitted by theſe Plunderers to have their Jeſt, tho' the others had their Eſtates; for without Mercy (or Remorſe, as far as appeared) they continued to Diſpoſſeſs thoſe, whom they had confined within, as well as thoſe whom they had firſt driven from this Univerſity: And the Methods in which they chiefly purſued this part of their Undertaking, were theſe; Having ſingled out ſuch of the Univerſity, as were moſt Noted for their Loyalty; and having nothing to Object againſt them, but that Crime; their greateſt Difficulty was now, to find out ſome matter of real Scandal; for as yet theſe Scandals, Publick and Notorious as they were, did not appear, notwithſtanding, they had ſolemnly ſet on Foot a Reformation to remedy them: That ſo great a Tribunal therefore might not want ſome Crimes to puniſh (or at leaſt, to colour over thoſe Puniſhments, which they had before reſolved upon, for ſuch Reaſons as they were aſham'd to produce, without the utmoſt neceſſity) they tender an Oath of Diſcovery (which was, as far as appeared, an Invention of the Regulators themſelves, and unſupported by any Order or Appointment of their Maſters at Weſtminſter) by which the Members of the Univerſity, were to ' Accuſe ' their Neareſt and Deareſt Friends, Benefactors, Tutors and Maſters; and betray the Members and Acts of the ſeveral Societies,' in direct Contradiction to the Oath, which all of them had before taken, in theſe Words: ' Non revelabis alicui quod ſecretum Collegii, non Malum aut Damnum inferes Collegio, aut cuilibet Sociorum.'

Of which Kind the Proceedings of the Parliamentire might be deem'd likewiſe by Vertue of the Word Other.

Querela p. 20, 21.

Fell in his Mſſ. of Cambr. p. 269, tells us, that he wrote a 20*l. Ads. (one of the Earl of Manchester's Chaplains, who attended him, when in the University, on the Buſineſs of the Regulation) to know the Truth of what the* Querela relates, concerning this Oath: In Anſwer to which Mr. Aſh tells him, That he could not call to Mind the moving of ſuch Matter. —— But however, that he might be under Miſtakes through Forgetfulneſs. Although that Author muſt aſſuredly needed not to have been ſo Diffident in their Point, if he had known that Dr. Barwick (a Perſon of the beſt Character, and himſelf one of the Sufferers) was the Author of the Querela. To which may be added, that it was drawn up within Three Years of the Fact; and of Mr. Aſh's Memory ſaith him, before Eleven Years: For the latter is dated in 1651; Dr Barwick and thoſe other Sufferers, its whole Name is wrote, had Tokens enough of Remembrance at the End of Three Years: For the Smart of their Sufferings could not be worn out, when they made this Complaint.

See Wood. Coll. Vol. p. 421

In the mean time, if any one refuſed this Oath (as the Querela thinks all, but one or two did) ſo very like the Oath, ex Officio (as it ſeems ſome of their Commiſſioners Spelt it) which they had ſo loudly Clamoured againſt, that it is impoſſible to know one from the other of them; forthwith they tender'd them the Covenant, as they were impower'd by the Ordinance; and upon the Refuſal of that likewiſe, a Warrant was ſtraightway Iſſued (without a ſecond Tender, as the Inſtructions to thoſe, who ſhould Adminiſter the Covenant, directed) for their ' Ejectment and ' Baniſhments from the Univerſity of Cambridge, ' for refuſing to take the Solemn League and Covenant, and other Miſdemeanors in the ſaid Univerſity; and without any delay, our Names (as ' the Querela goeth on) are cut out of the College-Tables, and we ' ſtrictly commanded in Three Days Space to quit the Univerſity and Town, under pain of Imprisonment and Plunder.' But they might have ſpared that laſt Part of the Threat; for all was gone long before; tho' it muſt not be forgotten that they durſt not venture to offer the Covenant to the Univerſity as a Body, leſt it ſhould have been Blaſted by their Univerſal Refuſal; but tender'd it ſeparately, and one by one, to ſuch chiefly, as they had before marked out for Ruine.

* Like Warrants, I ſuppoſe in this Reſpect, with that for thoſe who were Ejected on Abſence, &c. which ſee before.

Nor would they in the Refuſal of it, admit that Plea of Conſcience, which they had themſelves clamour'd ſo much about, and pretended in part to Fight for; as was more particularly Manifeſt in the Caſe of Mr. Baldero, who being ' brought ' before the Earl of Manchester, and being not ſatisfied in Conſcience, deſired his Lordſhip, that ' his * Chaplain (then preſent) might reſolve him ' in ſome Scruples about' the Covenant; but the Chaplain declining it, and alledging, that it was ' reſolve Mens Conſciences,' Mr. Baldero ' was not long after ſent up Priſoner to London by the ' the ſaid Earl, for tendering the Reaſons of his ' refuſing the Covenant, tho' Invited and Requir'd ' thereunto by his Lordſhip; and there, without ' further hearing, committed to Priſon, where he ' continued a long time, at exceſſive Charges.

See Querela, p. 19.

See him at the End of the List of this Univerſity.

* Querela; p. 25, 26.

The Refuſing them of this Oath of Treachery (as the Querela juſtly calls their new invented Oath of Diſcovery,) to their Societies and Brethren, and the other National Oath of Treachery, to his Majeſty and the Church, were not only in good part the Real, but was plainly in their Proceedings the Only appearing Cauſe of their Ejectment: And yet it cannot but be obſerved, in what a ſolemn manner the Committees were impower'd by the Ordinance, to call before them all Provoſts, Maſters, Fellows, Students, &c. (as well as all Clergymen in the Counties) who were ' Scandalous in their Lives;' purſuant to which, the VVarrants for their Ejectment (to Increaſe the Oppreſſion) ran among other things, for ' Scandalous Acts,' and for Miſdemeanors. But it muſt be known that theſe were only general Accuſations, and that too, only of the VVarrants themſelves; ' for not one of them had any Accuſation brought, much leſs prov'd againſt him,' ' when they appear'd on their Summons; nor was ' any one Particular' (of Miſdemeanors) alledg'd, ' much leſs offer'd to be prov'd by any one ſingle ' Witneſs,' agreeable to what Dr. Pope, in his Life of Bp. Ward, tell us, that when that Biſhop (then Mr. Ward) and his Fellow-Sufferer, Mr. Gibſon, of Sidney-College, asked the Committee if they had any Crime to Object againſt them, becauſe ſome were ſaid to be put out for Miſdemeanors, they were anſwer'd (for Truth will out ſometimes) ' that theſe were only Words of courſe, put into ' all their Orders of Ejectment;' and indeed the whole VVarrants ſeem to have been no other, than a Form, which probably the Clerks kept by them, and ſerved indifferently for the Ejectment of any one (a Demonſtration that no particular Crimes, which muſt have been different, were charged on them) notwithſtanding the Pretence of Scandal was ſo Formally Inſerted in the Ordinance; for I have ſeen the Original Warrant for the Ejectment of Mr. Salter of Caius-College; whoſe Name being of a Different Hand from that of the Succeſſors (which is in the Hand of the Form) it would incline one to think, that any Fellow, who could procure a Blank from the Earl (or Perchance the Secretary, for a Sum of Money) might inſert whoſe Name he pleaſed, in the Vacancy, and ſo turn him out, and Enjoy his Fellowſhip: And the Querela expreſſly affirms, 'that ſo little was Property valu'd, that a Pair of 'Camp-Chaplains, or one of them, might Ex-'punges, Ejects and Baniſh whom they pleas'd'; 'and gives a broad Hint, That Mr. Aſh (one of thoſe Chaplains, and the very firſt good old Man of the Bartholomew-Lift) expunged the Name of Mr. Herman of St. John's College, and inſerted that of Mr. Boteler, in one of the Warrants, after it was Sign'd, Seal'd, and even Iſſu'd.

Ibid. p. 21, 28.

P. 22.

Abcid p. 184.

Whom ſee in that College.

As to what concerns the Numbers of thoſe who were Ejected, and the Excellent Characters of many of them (for ſurely thoſe who ſucceeded, were every way, and in every Degree inferior to thoſe who went out) I muſt refer the Reader to the Liſt for both; and ſhall here only ſay in general, that unleſs I miſtake, there were (as I have already ſaid, no leſs than five Maſters Ejected in one Day, and Sixty five Fellows in another: That the Earl of Manchester did in a manner Eject at the firſt Heat, near 200 Maſters and Fellows (beſides Scholars of Houſes, Exhibitioners, &c. which probably, might be above as many more) as appears by the Liſt in the Querela: That at Queen's-College the Reformation was ſuch a thorough one, as left neither the Maſter nor any one Fellow or Scholar on the whole Foundation: And in a Word, that of the Sixteen Maſters,* Twelve were turned out at this Time of Regulation; † one was afterwards diſpoſſeſs'd for Refuſing the Engagement; ‡ Two dy'd before the Querela was wrote (or otherwiſe perhaps might have claim'd a Place in that Liſt amongſt the Reſt); and Dr. Love of Bennet-College only Surviv'd without Ejectment; and that, if I conjecture right, there could not be during the whole Courſe of the Rebellion and Uſurpation, by one method and another, leſs than betwixt five and ſix Hunder'd in all, turn'd out of this Univerſity. A ſad Conſideration, that Gentlemen of a Liberal and Ingenuous Education, ſhould ‖ be quite ſtript of all Livelihood (which 'was the Caſe of many among them) and ex-'poſ'd to Beggary, having nothing left to ſuſtain 'the Neceſſities of Nature, and no Friends to go 'to; but deſtitute and forlorn, not knowing 'whither to bend one Step when they ſet 'Footing out of Cambridge.'

See Full Hiſt. Camb. p 169.

See alſo Querel. p. 6,7.

Ibid. p. 22.

* Including Dr. Batchcroft of Caius-Coll. who was not in full poſſeſſ'd, till ſome Years after. One him in that College.

† Viz. Dr. Rainbow of Magd. Coll.

‡ Viz. Dr. Bambrigg of Chriſt's, and Dr Eden of Trin. Hall. See the Computation at the End of the Liſt of this Univerſ.

‖ Quer. p. 26.

Nor was the Reformation, which the Earl made, leſs ſpeedy, than it was Thorough and Effectual; for as the Ordinance paſſed the latter End of January, ſo he apply'd himſelf to Buſineſs the very next Month; in March Ejected ſeveral of the Maſters and Fellows; in the Two or Three following Months, diſpatch'd far the greater Part of thoſe Numbers which fell by his Hands, and left little to do in way of Ejectment by the Beginning of the following Year; altho' if I miſtake not, ſome few Ejectments were made by his Authority in 1643; but when, or in what manner it wholly ceas'd, I cannot yet learn.

To the Buſineſs of Ejecting the old Members, naturally ſucceeded the other Part of his Commiſſion; which was that of Placing 'other fitting Perſons in their Room.' And as the Ordinance for this Regulation had manifeſtly violated the known and undoubted Laws of this Kingdom, by diſpoſſeſſing ſo many Perſons of their Freeholds, without the leaſt Shadow or Colour from thoſe Laws; ſo did the Perſon whom they had entruſt'd with the Execution of it, in the moſt open and ſhameful Manner conceivable, ſet by, and break thro' all the trifling Formalities of Statutes, Oaths and Appointments, as well of the Univerſity, as of the ſeveral Colleges (which it ſeems themſelves, as we ſhall ſee by and by, wanted to be Reform'd, no leſs than the Members) and had little more Regard to the Wills and Pious Inſtitutions of the Founders (tho' ſettled in the moſt Solemn, Sacred and Inviolable Manner by themſelves, and confirm'd by Royal Charters, and by the Laws of the Realm) than if there had never been any ſuch things in Being; which tho' to be abhorr'd and deteſted in thoſe that invaded the Univerſity, and all its Rights and Privileges, was, however, doubly Infamous, and plainly the moſt open and known Perjury, in ſuch Members of the ſeveral Colleges (or ſuch as had been ſo) who joyned with them, and aſſiſted in the Undertaking. The horrible Outrage in Halling Mr. Pawſon of Sidney-College, from the Sacrament, and throwing him into Priſon (which was to make way for the Election of Mr. Mynſhull into the Maſterſhip) hath been already mention'd; but they were not always ſo intent upon providing Succeſſors to the Vacant Places; for at St. John's College they ſunk no leſs than Fourteen or Fifteen Fellowſhips, and Shared the Profits of them in Common, among the Reſt. At Jeſus-College, from the latter End of 1644, 'To the Reſtoration, there were ſeveral 'Fellowſhips continually ſunk; the Number being 'never Compleat; generally five or ſix Sunk, and 'for ſome time half of the whole Number.' And therefore it ſeems not improbable that the like might be done in other Colleges alſo.

Vid. Aſt 11.

Bp. p. 22.

An Inſtance of this, I have ſeen from a Learned Gentleman of this Univerſity. The Tithes of Sourfleham in Hertfordſh. Times taken from Parſh. Wood, Ath. Vol. II. p 136. But then by the Act of Apr. 5. 1650, they ſerved 300 l. per Annum as this Profeſſorſhip, out of the Tithes, &c. of Stob. Coll. Part 2. p. 113.) but whether ever paid, quære.

tingtonſhire belonging to the Margaret Profeſſorſhip, were alſo in like manner ſeiz'd by the Intereſt of Colonel Val. Walton, one of the King's Judges, into Profeſſorſhips, and ſurried on the Chapel of Colne in that However, more Care was taken to Supply others of the Vacancies, and particularly the Vacant Maſterſhips; the Revenues of which, (being ſo good) and the Influence which the new Poſſeſſors of them might have toward the further Reformation of the Colleges, not Suffering any Delay in that Matter: Accordingly, April 10. 1644, the Earl of Manchester, as I find, Directs a Paper to ſome more of the Colleges, Declaring, that his 'Purpoſe was forthwith to ſupply the Vacant 'Fellowſhips'; and Deſiring, that if there were any in the reſpective Colleges, 'who, in Regard 'of Degree, Learning and Piety, ſhall be found 'fit for ſuch Preferment,' they would, upon Receipt of that Paper, Return him their Names, in Order to their being Examin'd by the Aſſembly: But in the mean time, Matters, as I ſaid, had been put in the greateſt forwardneſs, for the Nomination of the Maſters; ſome of thoſe who were to ſucceed in the vacant Places, having already been examin'd and approv'd by the Aſſembly: And therefore (the very Day after the laſt mention'd Paper bears Date) I find the Earl of Manchester came in Perſon into the Chapel of Peter-houſe, and there did 'declare and publiſh Mr. Lazarus 'Seaman to be conſtituted Maſter of the ſaid Peter-'Houſe, in the Room of Dr. Cofin, late Maſter there, 'but juſtly and lawfully ejected thence;' requiring Mr Seaman to take upon him that Office, putting him into the Maſter's Seat, and delivering to him the Statutes of the College, in Token of his Inveſtiture, ſtraightly charging the Fellows, &c. to acknowledge and yield Obedience to him, 'notwithſtanding he was not elected, nor admitted, 'according to the ordinary Courſe preſcribed by the 'ſaid Statutes; in this Time of Diſtraction and 'War, there being a Neceſſity of Reforming, as 'well of the Statutes themſelves, as of the Mem-'bers of the ſaid Houſe.' The Earl alſo gave him an Inſtrument, under his Hand and Seal, to the ſame Effect. As Dr. Cofin had been the firſt Maſter Ejected; ſo was Mr. Seaman the firſt of all the the Intruding Maſters (as far as yet appears to me) that was put upon any of the Colleges: But April 12, (which was the Day following) the Earl came; and likewiſe to Jeſus-College, where, with the ſame Declarations and Ceremony, he gave Mr. Young the Poſſeſſion of that Maſterſhip. But the vacant Fellowſhips were not Fill'd up with ſo much haſte; for the firſt Warrant that I have yet met with, for ſupplying any of them, was at Peter-Houſe, and bears Date June 11, 1644, and ran to this Eff. & that 'whereas he (the 'Earl of Manchester) had Ejected Mr. Beaumont, 'Sc. late Fellows of that College; and whereas 'Mr. Charles Hotham &c. had been examined, 'and approv'd by the Aſſembly of Divines; Theſe 'are therefore to require you to receive the ſaid 'Mr. Hotham, &c. as Fellows in the Room of Mr. 'Beaumont, &c. and to give them Place according 'to their Seniority in the Univerſity, in Preference 'to all thoſe, that are, or ſhall be hereafter put in 'by him.' But others of the Fellowſhips lay vacant yet much Longer; for Mr. Tolly's Fellowſhip in this Houſe, tho' vacated by Ejectment, April 8, 1644, was not ſupply'd till September 20, that Year; others not till the January following; and Mr. Banke's Fellowſhip was not Filled until May 8, 1645: But I know not the preciſe Time, when theſe laſt had been made Vacant.

Digitized by Google

Nor was any Regard had in ſupplying the Succeſſion, to the Filling up of the Places with the Natives of ſuch Counties, as the Local Statutes directed, if I conjecture right in that matter, from many Inſtances, which I find of Perſons ſucceeding in Fellowſhips, who were of quite Different Counties from their Ejected Predeceſſors. And to this muſt be added in the laſt Place, that Querel. p. 23. 'inſtead of thoſe ſolemn Oaths, which the Pious 'and Prudent Founders and Legiſlators enjoyn'd 'to be taken (and without taking of which no 'Man could Pretend any Right to any of their 'Foundations) Their new Intruders only took 'the Covenant again, and made a Proteſtation to 'Reform all the wholeſom Laws and Statutes, ac-'cording to that Covenant.'

I have ſeen the Form of that Proteſtation, made by Mr. Seaman before mentioned, when he was admitted to the Maſterſhip of Peter-Houſe; and another of that made by the Intruding Fellows; each of which is the ſame (varied only in the Neceſſary Circumſtances) and after the Preamble, ran in theſe Words: 'I, &c. do ſolemnly and 'ſeriouſly Promiſe, in the Preſence of Almighty 'God the Searcher of all Hearts, that during the 'Time of my Continuance in that Charge, I 'ſhall Faithfully Labour to Promote Piety and 'Learning in my ſelf, the Fellows, Scholars and 'Students, that do, or ſhall, belong to the ſaid 'College, agreeably to the late Solemn National 'League and Covenant, by me Sworn and Subſcribed, 'with reſpect to all the Good and Wholſome 'Statutes of the ſaid College, and of the Uni-'verſity, correſpondent to the ſaid Covenant; and 'by all means to Procure the good Welfare and 'perfect Reformation, both of the College and Uni-'verſity, ſo far as to me Appertaineth.'

Querel. Prof. and p. 2, 26, 27. Thus, as the Univerſity juſtly complained, was ſhe loaded with an Iliad of Miſeries. 'The 'Knippердollings of the Age reduc'd a Glori-'ous and Renown'd Univerſity almoſt to a 'meer Manſter; and did more in leſs than 'Three Years, than the Apoſtate Julian could 'effect in all his Reign; viz. Broke the Heart-'ſtrings of Learning, and all Learned Men; 'and thereby luxared all the Joynts of Chri-'ſtianity in the Kingdom:' Inſomuch that they 'fear'd not to appeal to any impartial 'Judge, whether if the Goths and Vandals, 'or even the Turks themſelves, had over-run 'this Nation, they would have more inhumanly 'abus'd a Flouriſhing Univerſity, than theſe 'pretended Advancers of Religion had done; having, as the Complaint is continu'd, 'Thruſt 'out one of the Eyes of this Kingdom; made 'Eloquence dumb, Philoſophy ſottiſh; Widow'd 'the Arts; drove the Muſes from their Ancient 'Habitation; Pluck'd the Reverend and Ortho-'dox Profeſſors out of the Chairs, and Si-'lenc'd them in Priſon, or their Graves; Tur-'ned Religion into Rebellion; Chang'd the Apoſtolical Chair into a Desk for Blaſphemy; 'Tore the Garland from off the Head of Learn-'ing, to place it on the dull Brows of Diſ-'loyal IGNORANCE; Made thoſe ancient 'and beautiful Chapels, the ſweet Remembran-'cers and Monuments of our Fore-fathers 'Charity, and kind Fomenters of their Chil-'drens Devotion, to become Ruinous Heaps 'of Duſt and Stones; and unhiv'd thoſe Nu-'merous Swarms of labouring Bees, which 'uſed to drop Honey-Dews over all this King-'dom, to place in their Room Swarms of ſenſe-'leſs DRONES.'

Artley did the other 18 a few Years after.

But neither did all this compleatly regulate the Univerſity: And therefore they reſolved to Reform, even beyond themſelves (ſo very fond were they of further Reformation; and ſo hard are they to be pleas'd, even when they are their own Chuſers;) for which purpoſes they continued their Projects of this kind: And Nov. 6, 1645, I find a New 'Debate in the Houſe [of 'Commons] about Regulating the Univerſity 'of Cambridge.' And July 6, in the following Year, 'The Lords defired a Committee of both 'Houſes might be appointed to Reform' it. What the Event of this Propoſal was, I know not: But whilſt ſome were buſie in fitting up the old; others perchance thought it as good wholly to Erect a New Building: And therefore in 1649, one Sir Balthaſar Gerbier (what, or who he was, I cannot tell) 'ſet up a New Aca-'demy in White-Friers, for the Teaching of 'all manner of Arts and Sciences.' And in 1650, a Proj ct was propos'd to the Parliament, by the Gentlemen Free-holders &c. of Durham, containing among other Things, a Propoſal for erecting the College and Houſes of the Dean and Chapter in that City, into an Academy, for the Benefit of the Northern Counties; becauſe they were ſo far from the Univerſities. What became of that which was erected by Gerbier, or of the Propoſal for this to be erected at Durham, I know not; but in the mean Time, the old Project (and the rather, it may be, becauſe they were ſo much in Love with Reformation) ſeems to have been prefer'd. And therefore May 4, 1649, it was 'refer'd to a Committee to Re-gu-'late' the Univerſity of Cambridge. But of what number that Committee conſiſted, who they were, or what Powers or Inſtructions were given them, I do not find. In 1650, mention is made of a Committee for regulating both Univerſities; and with Relation to this Univerſity I find them actually Sitting, and doing Buſineſs, particularly Octob. 14, 1650, they diſpoſſeſs'd Dr. Young (who in 1644, had ſucceeded Dr. Sterne by Warrant from the Earl of Manchester, as is before ſaid) of the Maſterſhip of Jeſus-College. Of what Perſons this Committee conſiſted, or when they were appointed, I am likewiſe ignorant. In the Inſtrument for Ejecting Dr. Young now mention'd, it is ſaid, that he had been return'd by the Viſitors, &c. (and I find thoſe Viſitors mention'd in ſome other Papers likewiſe;) ſo that it ſeems, there were alſo ſom Reformers with that Title, then on Foot in Cambridge, who acted under th Committee, which I therefore preſume, far at London. Jan. 2, 1649, an Ordinance paſs'd for taking the En-gagement. I have not yet been able to get a Sight

Whitl. Mem. p. 172. (ſeſſ. Pagod 186.)

Ibid. p. 220.

Ibid. p. 426.

Ibid. p. 418.

Ibid. p. 381.

Scob. Collect. Part 2. p. 101.

Digitized by Google

Sight of it (which if I could, it might perhaps help ſomewhat to clear up this Matter). But June 21, 1650, it was referr'd to the Committee now mention'd, for Regulating the Univerſities, 'to examine what Matters, Fellows, Officers, &c. in each of them did Neglect or Refuſe to 'take that Oath; and Power was likewiſe given 'them to Diſplace ſuch Maſters, Fellows, &c. and 'to Place other fit Perſons in their Room.' Purſuant to which Powers perhaps it was, that theſe Viſitors were appointed; by whoſe Means not only Dr. Young, but ſeveral others were, as I find, turn'd out of this Univerſity, on the Score of this Engagement. And I gueſs, that all of thoſe who were turned out on that Account (of which Sort the Reader will meet with ſeveral in the Liſt of this Univerſity) were diſmiſs'd by their Means; for it muſt now be further ſaid, that as the Independents had refin'd upon the Presbyterians, and invented the Teſt of the Engagement (of which more hereafter) to diſpoſſeſs them, as the Presbyterians themſelves had that of the Covenant, to diſſeiſe the Royaliſts; ſo that Oath was warmly urg'd in Cambridge (as well as in the other Parts of the Kingdom) about 1650, and by that means ſeveral of thoſe who had been put in by the Earl of Manchester, were again diſpoſſeſs'd; as were likewiſe ſome of the Loyaliſts, who had either got the Preferments, after the Covenant ceas'd to be impos'd with ſo much Strictneſs, or by ſome means or other eſcap'd the taking of it. But the Notices which I have hitherto met with, relating to the Committee now mention'd (who were empower'd to Eject ſuch Members of either Univerſity as refus'd it) or to the Appointment of Perſons, or Numbers of thoſe Viſitors that had the Care of ſeeing it done, and to the Manner of their Proceedings, or to the Number, Characters and Qualities of thoſe who were Ejected on that Score, are ſo very few, and ſo imperfect, that I forbear to Attempt the Account of this Second Viſitation; and ſhall only add, that in 1652, a Vote paſſed, that 'the Committee for the Univerſities do ſit no more;' which I take to be this Committee here laſt mention'd.

In an Entry in the Regiſter of Jeſus-College (a Copy of which I have now before me) it is ſaid that Dr. Young was turned out for not Subſcribing the Covenant; but I preſume, it is a Miſtake for the Engagement.

 As it was likewiſe in* Oxon; but who they were that put it in Execution there (unleſs probably this ſame Committee) I am not informed.

Whit. Mem. p. 506.

And perhaps the Reaſon of that Vote might be, that to Reform thoſe great and pernicious Bodies ſtill more effectually, another Sett of Viſitors was then in View for each Univerſity: This, at leaſt, is ſure, that a new Commiſſion for Viſiting of them (and of the Schools of Weſtminſter, Winchester, Merchant-Taylors and Eton; for Malignancy was now to be nipp'd in the earlieſt and moſt tender Buds) was ſet on Foot September 2, 1654, by an Ordinance of the Lord Protector and his Council, conſtituting and appointing the Vice-Chancellor of each Univerſity for the time being, ſeveral Heads of Houſes, and Fellows likewiſe, reſpectively in each, together with the Lord Say and Seal, and about Twelve others for Oxford; and the Lord Henry Cromwell, with about the like Number for Cambridge, Commiſſioners for the Viſiting——all Colleges and Halls within the ſaid Univerſities; and veſting them with the 'Uſe and Exerciſe of all 'and every the like Powers, Authorities, and Ju'riſdictions, as any Perſon, or Perſons heretofore appointed Viſitors of either of the ſaid Uni'verſities, or of any College, or Colleges, Hall, 'or Halls, within the ſame; or which any Viſitor, 'or Viſitors now have, or heretofore had, and 'lawfully uſed, and exerciſed by Force, or Ver'tue of any Law, Statute, Ordinance, Cuſtom, 'Commiſſion, Patent, or Foundation of any 'College, or Hall reſpectively:' And in purſuit of theſe Powers they were commanded, among other Things, to 'Examine what Statutes of the 'ſaid Univerſities, or of the ſaid Colleges and 'Halls reſpectively, or what of them were fit to be 'taken away, abrogated or alter'd; and what it fit 'to be added——in matters of Religion, Manners, 'Diſcipline and Exerciſes, and to exhibit the ſame 'to his Highneſs, and the Parliament.' But in the mean Time, a Power was given them to explain (away no Doubt) ſuch Statutes, as were Ambiguous, or Obſcure, and ſhould be offer'd to them for their Judgments: Much the like Powers were alſo granted them, relating to the Schools before mentioned (and the Colleges belonging to thoſe of Winchester and Eton) ſave that any Four of them might act in theſe Matters, provided Two were of each Univerſity, for the School of Weſtminſter; but Winchester and Merchant-Taylor's Schools were wholly committed to the Care of the Oxford Commiſſioners, and Eton to thoſe for Cambridge.

What was done in Purſuit of theſe ample Powers, equal ſurely to all their Wiſhes, I know not. Whether the Project of Reforming the Statutes, was at all undertaken (and if it was, no Doubt one Part of it was, that the Exerciſes, as well as the Law-Proceedings ſhould be performed in Engliſh;) or whether the ſeveral Revolutions of Government, then ſo frequent, allowed them for any time to ſupply the Places of the Regular Viſitors, which the Univerſities had been depriv'd of ſo many Years, and for want of which every thing was in ſo much Confuſion, I cannot ſay: But ſurely in this Plenitude of Power, Including as well all the former Powers of the ſeveral new fangled Viſitors of any kind, as thoſe given by the Pious Founders to their Succeſſors in their ſeveral Sees, or to others; one might expect that the Reformation ſhould be at length thoroughly Compleated, and thoſe Univerſities made a Praiſe in all the Earth: But however that matter was, 'tis ſure, that ſome time in the foregoing Year, a much Shorter and Eaſier Method was propoſed in Barebone's Parliament, for Reforming the Univerſities, which was (in the Military Senſe of the Word) that they might be Broke, and 'that all Lands 'belonging to them and the Colleges in them, 'might be Sold, and the Monies that ſhould ariſe 'thereby, be Diſpoſed for the Publick Service, and 'to eaſe the People from the Payment of Taxes 'and Contributions.'

Clarend. Hiſt Vol. III. p. 178.

But as God in the Unſearchable Depths of his Wiſdom, permitted theſe Viſitations to light on this (and its Siſter) Univerſity; and as the many Oaths, Proteſtations, Covenants, Engagements, Committees, Commiſſioners, &c. under which they had ſo long Groaned, had brought them Low to the Ground, even to the Ground; ſo was it now the Seaſon, wherein he who alone bringeth up from the Grave, as well as bringeth down, is wont to Stretch out his Holy Arm to Save; and this he ſhortly after did in the Dawnings of the Reſtoration, at which Happy time the Earl of Manchester was Authoriz'd by the Houſe of Lords (as appears by his Warrant for that Purpoſe) to Re-inſtate ſome of thoſe, whom he he had long before Ejected; which he accordingly did, particularly at Peter-Houſe Mr. Barrow, June 20; Mr. Tyringham, July 30; Mr. Bargrave, Auguſt 2; and Dr. Cosin, the Ejected Maſter, Auguſt 3, 1660: As alſo Mr. Lacy of St. John's, the 27th of the ſame Month, and probably many others, both of that, and other Houſes. It is obſervable, that in ſeveral of thoſe Warrants the Earl owns, the Gentlemen were, 'wrongfully' put out of their Fellowſhips; which is much more Intelligible, than another Clauſe in ſome of them, which runs thus; 'Whereas I am informed' that ſuch or ſuch an one hath been Ejected, &c. whilſt his Lordſhip himſelf was the Perſon who had Ejected them:

Scob. Collect. Part II. p. 166, 167, 168.

Seven of which might act.

See that College.

And

Digitized by Google

And if his Memory would not serve him to Recollect all the Fellows that he had dispoſſeſſed, certainly it could not fail to remind him of Dr. Cofin, whoſe great Eminence, as well as his being the very firſt Man that his Lordſhip diſpatched, could not but be ſufficient Remembrancers: And yet in the Warrant for his Reſtitution likewiſe, the Expreſſion now mention'd, is made uſe of.

Removal of Scandalous Miniſters in the ſeven Aſſociated Counties of Eſſex, &c.

The ſame Ordinance which appointed the Earl of Mancheſter to regulate this Univerſity, authoriz'd him likewiſe (as is before ſaid) to Remove Scandalous Miniſters in the Seven Aſſociated Counties of Eſſex, Norfolk, Suffolk, Hertfordſhire, Cambridgſhire, Huntingtonſhire and Lincolnſhire. The Powers and Inſtructions given by the Ordinance (which hath been already produc'd) for this latter purpoſe, were not Separate and Diſtinct from thoſe for Regulating the Univerſity; but one and the ſame general Clauſe included each of them. The Committees which the Earl was Authoriz'd to Appoint, being to call before them as all Provoſts Maſters, Fellows, &c. ſo likewiſe,‖ †All Miniſters in any County of 'the Aſſociation, and all School-maſters that are 'Scandalous in their Lives, &c†.'

See the Reaſons of ſeven Aſſociation Ord. Hiſt. Vol. II. p. 168

Save that the Eſtabliſhment had ſo ſtated it, as a Right to the Livings and Cuſtom, had given a particular regard to the Clergy of the Colleges, ‖ Hiſt. Collect. Fol. p. 415.

† See before in the Account of the Univerſity, and the Proviſion for placing Others in their room, included likewiſe the Clergy in the Counties, as well as the Fellows, &c.

And as the Orders and Directions, both for the Univerſity and the Clergy of the Country, were the ſame; ſo did they go hand in hand in the Execution: For the * very Day that the Earl iſſued his Warrants to the Colleges to bring in their Statutes, he nominated the Committees for the Counties of Lincoln, Huntington, Eſſex and Hertfordſhire; and ſoon after, proceeded to appoint the reſt, Namely, that for Norfolk, Mar. 5, for Suffolk, Mar. 12. (one for the City of Norwich, alſo Mar. 14,) and for Cambridgſhire, Mar. 15, following. The Warrants for this Purpoſe ran thus; 'By Vertue of an Ordinance, &c. I 'do Authorize and Appoint you †, &c. or any Five 'of you, to call before you all Miniſters, or School-maſters, within the County of, &c. that are Scandalous in their Lives ‡, &c. with full Power and 'Liberty to ſend for any Witneſſes &c‖. and you 'to certifie the Names of ſuch Miniſters, with the 'Charge and Proof againſt them, to me'. Then he Authorizes and Appoints them to Adminiſter the Covenant,' And to Perform and Execute all other 'Things directed by the Ordinance,' for which that ſhould be their Warrant.

* Viz. Feb. 24. 1643.

† Naming the Commiſſioners.

‡ Reciting the Words of the Ordin.

‖ In the Words of the Ordinance likewiſe.

What Additions or Alterations the Earl might after make in thoſe Committees, or what new Sets of them he might further appoint, I know not; but that ſomething of this kind was further done, ſeems plain to me; becauſe I find many Committee-men Acting (particularly in Cambridgſhire) which are not mentioned in the firſt Commiſſions, either for that, or any oth r of the Counties. And as the Earl himſelf in thoſe Commiſſions, Nominated the ſame Perſon ſometimes a Commiſſioner in different Counties; ſo I find others of them, who had been Confined by the Commiſſion, to a particular County, acting however, in another County, to which they had not been Named by thoſe Commiſſions, of which I have as yet ſeen the Copies. Whether they did this by Vertue of the general Powers of the Ordinance (which ſeems indeed to be ſo Worded, as if an Committee once appointed, might Act in any of the Counties of this Aſſociation) notwithſtanding the Earl had by his Commiſſion determined them to ſuch or ſuch a particular County; or whether that Earl after Granted them new Powers, I cannot tell. In the mean time, the Warrants now mentioned, were Accompany'd with Inſtructions from the Earl to the Commiſſioners, for their better Conduct of themſelves, and their Proceedings in this Affair; and with a Letter Exhorting them to the faithful and effectual Diſcharge of the Truſt and Office committed to them; tho' perhaps the Earl might have ſpared the Pains of inſerting theſe latter Cautions.

The Inſtructions were to this Effect; Firſt, That 'They ſhould be Speedy and Effectual in 'the Execution of the Ordinance, and Divide 'themſelves into ſeveral Committees, and Sit at 'General Places within the County, That ſo all 'Parties by the Eaſineſs of Acceſs, might be Encouraged to Addreſs themſelves to them with their 'Complaints.'

Secondly, 'That they ſhould iſſue their Warrants to Summon before them ſuch Miniſters 'and Witneſſes,' as the Articles preferr'd to them, ſhould Require.

Thirdly. The Earl Acquaints them, 'He thinks 'it not Fit, that the PARTY ACCUSED 'SHOULD BE PRESENT at the 'taking of the Depoſitions; becauſe of the Diſcountenancing the Witneſſes, and Diſturbing the Service; but when the Depoſitions were taken 'upon Oath, they were then to let the Party Accuſed have a Copy of them, if he will Pay for it, 'and to give him a Day to return his Anſwer 'in Writing, and to make his Defence at another Meeting to be appointed within Fourteen 'Days, or thereabouts.'

Fourthly, 'They were to return both the Accuſation and Defence, to Mr. Good, or Mr. Aſk, 'who were appointed to receive them, and on 'ſuch Receipts were to have further Directi-'ons.'

The Earl's Two Chaplains. See Quarrel Catalog. p. 22.

Fifthly. 'If the Party Accuſed would not appear, nor make his Defence, they were to 'Certifie the Cauſe of his Abſence, or Neglect; 'becauſe if he were Non Reſident or in Arms againſt the Parliament, the Earl would proceed againſt him.'

Sixthly, 'It being found by SAD EXPERIENCE, that Pariſhioners were not 'FORWARD TO COMPLAIN of 'their Miniſters, although they were very 'Scandalous; but having a Prize, and Power in 'their Hands, yet wanted Hearts to make Uſe 'thereof, too many being Enemies to that Bleſſed Reformation, ſo much by the Parliament deſired, and loth to come under a Powerful Miniſtry; and ſome ſparing their Miniſters, becauſe ſuch Miniſters, to gain the good Opini-'ons of their People, did ſpare them in their 'Tithes, and therefore were Eſteemed Quiet Men, 'or the like: Therefore they were required to 'call unto them ſome well Affected Men, within 'every Hundred; who having no Private Engagements, but intending to further the Publick 'Reformation, were to be Required, and ENCOURAGED by the Committees, to Inquire after the Doctrines, Lives and Converſations of ALL MINISTERS and School-maſters †, and to give Informations to the 'Committees, both what could be Depoſed, and 'who could Depoſe the ſame.'

On this Clauſe of the Inſtructions Dr. Nalſon in a Marginal Note) paſſes this juſt Reflexion, that if a Miniſter could ſet his Text, then was made Matter of an Article againſt him (and ſeveral ſuch appear in the Proceedings of thoſe very Commiſſioners, as well as in other Records) but if he was able to his Parſhioners in that Point, he was, in the ſenſe of thoſe Inſtructions, for that very Reaſon to be deemed Criminal, and Malignant.

† An abundant Evidence that the Clergy were not ſuch Monſters as they had been repreſented; and that they were not diſpoſſeſſed at the Requeſt, and on the Petitions of the Pariſhes, as was pretended, but in direct Oppoſition to the Senſe and Deſires of them, even ſtanding the Gratifying the Pariſhioners was (I frankly allow it) as a moſt juſt and neceſſary Cauſe for the Sequeſtrate of any Clergyman, and that too, tho' but Four or Five of the meaneſt, and moſt ſcandalous of them, did deſire it.

Digitized by Google

Seventhly, 'For the better Encouragement both 'of the Commissioners and Presenters, each 'Commissioner was to have 5 l. for every 'Day he sate;' and they were also to Direct to take Care, that 'the Clerk might receive some 'Pay, that so he might not Discourage the Prosecutors or Informers, by Demanding Fees for Warrants, Copies, &c. unless the Writings were very 'large, and the Parties would voluntarily give 'him Something.

Eighthly, 'They were directed to proceed 'against all Ministers, &c. that were Scandalous 'in their Lives or Doctrines, Non-Resident, 'Ignorant, Idle, Lazy, or ill affected to the Par-'liament.

Ninthly, 'To require the Parishioners, to 'make Choice of some fit and able Person to 'succeed, who was to have a Testimonial from 'the well-affected Gentry, and Ministry, and to take 'particular Care that no Anabaptist or Antino-'mian be recommended.

Tenthly, 'They were to enquire the true 'Value of each Living, and certifie the same; as 'also the Estate, Livelihood and Charge of 'Children, which the accused Person had, for 'the Direction of his Lordship, in the Assign-'ment of the Fifths.

And Lastly, 'They were requir'd to use all other Ways and Means they thought fit, for 'speeding the Service.'

With these Directions went likewise an Exhortation by Letter (as is already said) in these Words: Gentlemen, I send you by this Bearer a Commission, with Instructions for executing the Ordinance, &c. within your County. I neither doubt of your Abilities nor Affections, to further this Service; yet, according to the great Truft imposed upon me herein by the Parliament, I must be EARNEST with you to be DILIGENT therein: You know how much the People of the Kingdom have formerly suffer'd in their Persons, Souls and Estates, under an idle, ill-affected, Scandalous and insolent Clergy, upheld by the Bishops; and you cannot but foresee, that their Pressures and Burthens will still continue, although the Form of Government be alter'd, unless great Care be taken to Displace such Ministers, and to Place Orthodox and Holy Men in every Parish; for let the Government be what it will, for the Form thereof, yet it will never be good, unless the Parties imploy'd therein be good themselves. By the Providence of God, it now lies in your Power to Reform the former Abuses, and to Remove these Offenders: Your Power is great, and so is your Truft; and your Fault will be no less, if you do not well Discharge this great Truft; if a General Reformation follows not within your County, assuredly the Blame will be laid on you; and you must expect to be call'd to Account for it both here, and HEREAFTER. For my Part, I am resolv'd to imploy the uttermost of my Power, given unto me by the Ordinance, for Procuring a General Reformation in all the Associated Counties. Expecting your Forwardness, and hearty joyning with me herein, I rest, &c.

The Commissioners being thus directed to pick out, and imploy an infamous Set of * Informers, and solemnly adjured, as they will Answer at the last dreadful Day of Account, to be especially Diligent in the Work of ruining as many Innocent Ministers of Jesus Christ as they could, being moreover prepared for that End (contrary to all natural Justice) to keep them (when they were first accused at least) from having their Accusers Face to Face; and all other Things being set in Order, to make it as cheap and easie as possible, for the Country to promote the Destruction of the Clergy, they forthwith set themselves to their wicked Imployment; and so readily answer'd the Exhortation given them, that those for the County of Huntington had offer'd an acceptable Sacrifice of their First Fruits before March 6, 1643; (which was within Ten Days after they had receiv'd their Commission) for on that Day the Earl signify'd by Letter to the Assembly, that having on Report from his Commissioners, conceiv'd it fit to Remove Mr. Thomas Shepherd, Rector of Graffham in Huntingtonshire, he had pitch'd on Mr. Richard Williams to succeed; and therefore recommended him to them for their Tryal and Approbation: However, he did not (as I after find) proceed to execute his Resolution of making Way for Mr. Williams by the Ejectment of Mr. Shepherd, until the 13th of that Month.

This Dispatch (for it deserves that Name on more Accounts than one) was very great, considering the several Forms which were to be observ'd. The Committee were doubtless first to come together, and agree upon the Distribution of themselves, and the Times, and Places for Sitting: When this was done, and their Sessions were open'd, agreeable to what should be resolv'd on in this previous Meering, the Witnesses pursuant to the Instructions were first to be examin'd separate and apart. Upon this, the Minister was to have a Copy of his Accusations; then a Day was to be appointed for his Defence: After which the Accusation and Proof were to be return'd to the Chaplains, and from them to the Earl, who was likewise to come to a Resolution to concur with the Committee in their Report of Displacing the old Minister; and to hear and determine on the Proposals for a Successor, and finally to write to the Assembly to make a Tryal of him: All which, it seems, had been done in this Case of Mr. Shepherd, within the Compass of those few Days now mention'd: And yet the Zeal of the Committee for Huntingtonshire did not much out-strip that of their Brethren (but rather seems to have fallen short of it) in the other Counties; for I find the Assembly had, by March 19, 1643, signify'd their Approbation of ‖ Mr. Matthew Clerk (pursuant to the like Recommendation of the Earl to succeed at † Stretham in the Isle of Ely, in the Room of Mr. Nich. Felton, Ejected (or to be Ejected; for tho' his * Ejectment is recited, the Date of it doth not appear) from that Living, altho' the Commission to the Sequestrators for Cambridgshire had issued as is already said, but Four Days before. Whether his Lordship had resolv'd on this Sequestration before the Forms of Summons, Hearing, &c. were come on (and so had taken Order, that his Clerk should be in Readiness) ‡ or whether both his Lordship and the Committee broke thro' those trifling Forms, and by some Means or other hasten'd the Execution (or by what other Means this Sequestration might be to much expedited) I know not; but be that Matter as it will, it is still further sure, that the Committee of Cambridgshire were as precious of their Time, as those in Huntington: For, March 20, 1643, which was but Five Days after the Date of their Commision, they were Sitting, and received Articles and Informations against Mr. Crosland of Bottesham, and Dr. Grey of Castle-Camps, both in that County: And much about the same Time did the Committees of the other Counties likewise enter upon Business.

* Dr. Nalson in a Marginal Note, calls them Blood-Hounds, to hunt down the Clergy.

‖ Which was one Sixty beyond what had been yet taken in Mr. Shepherd's Case.

† A Living worth 200 l. per Ann.

* And that too as appears by the Words of their Ejectment, on a Return from the Commissioners.

‡ Unless there be some Defect in the Extracts as to this Matter; for some of their Masters had been put in forward-ness by the Committees (which the Earl found in the Counties at his coming) called by the Ordinance for Sequestrating Delinquent Clergymen; which seems to be some Reason to Conjecture.

Acts 25. 16.

Digitized by Google

It may not be amiss in this Place, to let down the Forms of their Proceedings, to Eject the Scandalous Minister, and place the Godly one in his Room: On the Return from the Committees to the Chaplains (a Form of which I do not meet with) and their Report to his Lordship (the manner of which doth not appear; as neither do the further Directions to them mention'd in the Instructions,) he determines to remove the Offender, and forthwith directs a Warrant to the Church-Wardens and Constables of the Parish, acquainting them, that pursuant to the Return of ' the Commissioners, and after mature Consideration had thereupon, he did deem, and adjudge ' N. N. worthy to be Ejected out of the Parsonage and Cure of &c. And therefore requir'd ' them, and every of them forthwith to Eject, ' and cast out of the Parsonage of &c. and out of ' all and singular the Profits, Commodities, and ' Advantages whatsoever, belonging thereunto, ' the said N. N. from Officiating there, and from ' the Receiving or Possessing any Fifths or other ' Profits out of the Church, or said Cure, as ' themselves and he will answer the contrary, at ' their utmost Peril.

This Warrant of Ejectment was followed with another of Sequestration (directed likewise to the Church-wardens, and Constables, or sometimes, it may be, to others) setting forth, that whereas Articles had been exhibited, and proved against &c. and his Lordship had adjudg'd and order'd him to be Ejected: Therefore he requir'd them ' carefully to demand, and receive the Tenths, Tithes, Benefits, and other Advantages and Profits of the Parsonage, and in as full and ample Manner as the said &c. hath heretofore receiv'd the same: And requir'd them (likewise) to keep the said Tithes and Profits in safe Custody, until they should receive further Order from himself.' After which (or sometimes, as I find before the Ejectment, and Sequestration were issued, and immediately upon his Determination with himself to issue them) his Lordship acquaints the Assembly by Letter, of his Resolution to Eject such a Person for such and such Reasons; and that withal, having receiv'd an ample Testimony of the Piety and Industry of &c. in Preaching God's Word, together with a Petition from the Parishioners of &c. who do earnestly Desire that the said &c. should be their Minister, of whose Diligence in his Pastoral Function they have had long Experience; he doth therefore send him unto them, desiring their Tryal and Approbation of him; that so his Lordship may proceed accordingly.' And upon a Certificate from the Assembly, ' that upon Examination, and some Tryal of his Abilities for the Ministry, ' they conceiv'd him fit to † Officiate, &c.' his Lordship then issued his last Warrant, setting forth, that such an one having been approv'd by the Assembly, and desir'd by the Parish, his Lordship doth therefore ‡ ' Authorize and Appoint the ' said &c. to Officiate as Minister; Preach, ' Teach and Catechize in such a Parish, during ' his (the Earl's) PLEASURE'; and then Authorizes him (or any that he shall appoint) to take Possession of the Church, Parsonage, Houses, Glebe, Lands;' and to ' receive the Tithes ' and Profits,' and enjoy the same, ' until his ' Lordship should take further Order concerning the same;' requiring all Officers to Aid and Assist him for that Purpose, in Case of need.

This was, as I judge, the Standing and Ordinary Method, and these the common and more usual Forms, wherein the Earl and his Committees proceeded; because I find them (and no other) once Exemplified in Dr. Nalson's Extracts, altho' 'tis probable, that in some Cases, and according to some Difference of Circumstances, they might now and then be varied: And in this manner they continued to Harass and Disquiet the Unfortunate Clergy of those Counties, from the Date of their Commissions, until the latter End of 1644. The last Articles that I find preferr'd against any one, were those against Mr. Barth. Mitchell of Welbourn, in Lincolnshire, which were exhibited (or he, at least, then examin'd on them) Feb. 3, 1644, on which it appears that he was Ejected; but the Date of that Ejectment is not mention'd; and the Warrant for Ejectment, which bears the latest Date, is that issued against Mr. Brown, Vicar of Malton, in Suffolk, and is of March 17, 1644: However, the Articles had been preferr'd against him some Months before. How much longer the Committees continued to act, what they did, what Numbers they dispatch'd afterwards, or when they ceas'd, I know not; but in the compass of that single Year, of which the Extract gives an Account, it appears that they had Ejected in five of the Seven Counties no less than 156 of the Clergy; Namely, in Norfolk 51, Suffolk 37, Cambridgshire 31, Essex 21, and Lincolnshire 16, (and no doubt the Two other Counties of Hertford and Huntington had likewise their Proportions.) Nor am I sure the Extract was made from the compleat and perfect Papers of all the Proceedings in each of those five Counties, during the course of that Year; so that perhaps the Desolations of it might be yet greater.

There it another Exemplification of a Letter to the Assembly for this same End, which is much shorter, and wives less forth, that the Person is both recommended to his Lordship, and desir'd by the Parish, and Requesting the Assembly to certify their Judgment of his Abilities.

† There appears another Form in these Words, " We " do approve " of &c. for " an Orthodox " Divine, and " do think " him fit for " a Pastoral " Charge for " the Exercise " of his Gifts " in the Ministerial " Function.'

‡ Sometimes his Lordship authorized the Parishioners, or the Sequestrators to put in a Minister themselves; but seldom that might be only for a present Exigency, and until his Lordship had Thought of some Others, &c.

In Feb. and March, 1643.

Unless some of those whose bare Names occurred in the List, without any Account of the Articles against them, might be some of those Ejected in the following Years, or some of those Ejected by the other Committees, before the Earl of Manchester's Reformation began, which however, I do not see any Reason to think.

At least in that of Norfolk, as I find by some other Informations.

What I have before said, when I spoke in General of the Committees in the Country (of which these were but one Branch new modell'd, and determin'd to a particular Purpose) must be here repeated, that the Matter of the Accusations against the Clergy (the Charge of Immorality, of which I shall say more by and by, and the Case of the Covenant, which was urged with more than common Strictness in these † Counties only excepted) was so perfectly the same with that before represented out of the Century, that the one may be look'd upon as accounted for in the other. What they termed Superstition and Malignancy, did in a manner Include all their Articles; among which, ' Bowing at the Name ' of Jesus, and towards the Altar, keeping Company with Malignants, refusing to contribute ' to the Parliament,' and the like, were the most frequent and ordinary: Nor were the Charges less frivolous and ridiculous (but rather much more so) than those brought against the Clergy, mention'd by the Century. I cannot forbear producing some of them in this Place; such as ' Standing up at the Gloria Patri; Reading the ' Second Service at the Communion-Table, being ' troubled that the Rails were pulled down, and ' the Table remov'd; using the Canonical Prayer ' and no other, before Sermon; Officiating and ' Preaching in the Hood and Surplice, not suffering ' Godly Men, (Mr. Steph. Marshall, Mr. Fairclough, and Mr. Sedgwick) to Preach in their ' Churches; Reading the Liturgy to the Discomposure of Godly Mr. Waterhouse (lately ' come from New-England) who was to Preach; Preaching

Digitized by Google

'Preaching but once a Sunday; Suing for 'Tithes; Having a great Estate, and neither 'maintaining the Outward, nor comforting 'the Inward Man, not being able to Edifie 'by them nor their Curates (one of them having drunk Prince Rupert's Health 3) Being 'Prefer'd to the Living at the Perination of 'the Bishop of Ely; Using Altar-Worship, Easter-Worship and Dopping-Worship; Reading the 'King's Papers aloud, and those of the Parliament in a low Voice; Suing for a Tithe-Calf, 'and Buying a Communion-Table with the 'Money, on which was put this Inscription, 'Sin no more, &c. Bidding the People learch 'the Scriptures, and see there if it were lawful 'to take Arms against the King, or to Plunder; 'Charging Godfathers to carry their Children to 'the Bishop to be Bishop'd; Saying, the Archbishop and the Bishop of Ely could lay the 'Parliament on their Backs, if they would dispute with them about Religion; Preaching, 'that Saints pray for us in general, tho' not in particular; Charging a Man to Ride a Horse 'to Death, rather than let the Parliament have 'him; Making Feasting on the Sabbath-day; 'Praying for Bishops and the Earl of Bristol, altho' he that thus pray'd, had taken the Covenant; Saying, that they ought rather to shorten their Sermons, than omit any of the Prayers, and Sweating by their Faith and Troth.'

These Particulars are all (save one or two) taken out of the Articles against the Clergy in the County of Cambridge. Let it suffice concerning the other Counties, to say, that they were of the same nature; and that these Trifling and Shameful Accusations are not such as occurr'd now and then; but generally speaking, the Bulk, and main Parts of the Charge are made up of Allegations in Kind the same, and in Degree but little short of what is now produc'd: To evidence which, I shall lay the whole of one of those Accusations before the Reader, in the Words and Form of the Extract. Mr. William Izaafon, Minister of Stradham Bulbeck in Cambridgshire, was Articled against 'for being Zealous to put in Execution 'Bishop Wren's Fancies and Articles; Bowing 'to the Altar, at the Name of Jesus, for Swearing 'in Faith, it was as great a Sin to pull down the 'Rails, as to break the Fourth Commandment; 'Teaching that 'tis the Duty of every Soul to Obey the Bishop; he will not suffer Godly Ministers to Preach; but said, such Preach their own Spirit, and are Giddy Men. Naming Mr. 'Gurney of Sudbury, he has not enter'd into the 'Association, nor taken the Covenant, nor read any (Papers) that came out by Authority of 'Parliament, except once, and that in such a 'manner, as no Person could understand him; 'but what is set out in the Name of the King against the Parliament, he reads it with great 'Courage and seeming Joy.' To this let me add the Accusation against Mr. Mapletoft of Downham in the same County, viz. that he had said, 'It 'is a dangerous thing to Pray Extempore; and 'that he knew the first Man that did pray so; '(at being a thing new come up;) that they put 'down all good Ministers, and put in Pedlars, Tinkers and Cobblers; that now the People run after False Teachers, that Preach in Tubs, 'and Pray by the Spirit; that he prays not for 'the Parliament, nor would send a Man with 'Arms, because he said it was against the King.' This is more than the one Half of his Charge, and the rest is only speaking against the Parliament and the Proceedings of the Sequestrators, &c.

With these Articles against the Clergy before the Sequestrators under the Earl of Manchester, are likewise crept into the Extract, the Accusations against one or two of the Clergy, which I guess to have been prefer'd to the Committees for Sequestration of Delinquents Estates, before the Care of Reforming those Counties, was in a more particular manner committed to that Earl. I can't forbear transcribing part of one of these Charges likewise, which was brought against Mr. Lee of Wisbich — in the Isle of Ely, namely, for saying 'That the Parliament had Wit 'enough, if they had but Grace enough to make 'Use of it; for calling a Godly Minister Mr. Allison, Chaplain to Colonel Palgrave's Regiment, Brother Red-face; for Drinking Prince Rupert's 'Health; and saying upon the Loss of Gainsborough, that Cromwell, as valiant as he was, turned his Back in the Face of his Enemies, and bid his Soldiers shift for themselves; for Laughing at one Mr. Stoneham, a Godly Minister, in the time of his Sermon; and calling one Dobson, a 'Parliament Major, Rogue.' The whole Remainder of his Accusation, was keeping Malignants Company, Preaching against Extempore Prayer, Speaking against Defacing Churches, and having one Preach for him, who 'Prayed Inclusively for 'Prince Rupert and Prince Maurice,' and said, 'now Cavaliers, Fight for thy Kingdom.'

I am tired with Reading, and much more with Transcribing, the Repeated Crambe of these Allegations, as often as I come to mention the Subject Matter of them, in speaking of any of the Committees and Commissioners of those Times; but I don't know how I can more effectually Convince the Reader, that the Accusations against the Clergy were very often the Same, in terminis, always the same in Sense (and only Differenced in the great Variety of Ridiculous Instances of what they call'd Superstition and Malignity) than by Quoting him, as I have my self, with the frequent Repetition of them on these Occasions.

As to the Oppressions exercised upon the Clergy by these Committees, in the manner of obtaining Informations, and their Proceedings upon them; I should judge that they fell not much short of those which were practis'd by other Committees already accounted for; if, at least, any Conjecture may be made from the Instructions given them, for the Conduct of Themselves in this Affair. Dr. Nelson has not set down the Condition and Quality of the Witnesses in more than one Instance of the Extract; and that Instance likewise (if I conjecture right) belongs to the Committees on foot before the Earl of Manchester had the Paramount Power of the Sequestrations.

Whether they were not taken notice of in the other Cases, or he omitted 'em for Brevity-sake (after he had given this Sample) I know not: But out of Nine which appear'd to attest the Accusation, one was a Thatcher, another a Tailor, a Third a Glover, and Two others were Labourers. I find the wicked Oppression of Dispossessing the Clergy for Absence, when they had been forced from their Abodes to preserve their Liberties, at least, if not their Lives, was likewise practis'd in these Counties: But not having any Account of the Defence which the Clergy made, nor any other Particulars of the Proceedings against them, I am not able to say any thing more of these Matters; only I am obliged in Justice to the Commissioners, to let the Reader know, that they Admitted no Accusations (generally speaking) against the Clergy, but on Oath; and that the Charge of Immorality morality occurs less frequently before these Sequestrators, than before any other Committees that I have yet met with. Whether their having a shorter, and more easie Method (as has been noted on the like Occasions already) to the Covenant, and the Accusation of Malignity (now declared Capital, by an Ordinance) might be the Occasion of this; or whether the Generous Nature of the Earl of Manchester, (of which I shall say something by and by) permitted him not to Countenance the 'known Falsehoods of those Accusations, and moved him to a particular Abhorrence of that base way of Proceeding, I cannot tell.

But be this as it will, the Fact is certain, that out of about One and thirty Accusations brought against as many Clergymen of the County of Cambridge (which I chuse to single out for the Example, as being the First mentioned in the Extract) no Allegations of this kind appear against more than Eight of them, which, as they lie in the Extract, are those that follow: 'Not Examining his Parishioners Preparatory to the Sacrament; neglecting (once) to Bury the Dead; 'frequenting Taverns and Ale-houses, and being 'very Vicious (in that general Expression) being 'an Enemy to Godliness, a Swearer, a Striker; 'being Drunk at Christmas, often so, and Beating 'his Wife; being seen Drinking with Dr. Lamey of Pembroke-Hall, and then Drunk; being 'a Drinker, Swearer and Quarreller.'

Except what he called Neglect of Cure, and in pursuance to Scandalous Contents, i. e. Malignants, as appears by the Use of that Word in other Places; and particularly, that one Part at least, of the Scandal against ten of them, is 'Drinking Prince Rupert's Healths.

This is (not the Sence only, but) the full of the Charge of Immorality (as Represented in the Extract) for the whole County of Cambridge, thro' the Course of that Year, the Proceedings of which it contains: And from hence it is obvious to Remark; how little Truth there is in the Accusations of that Nature, brought against the Clergy before other Committees; since all that was Alledged against the whole Sequester'd Clergy of a County, for one very warm Year of Inquiry, amounts not to so much as one Half, either in Quantity, or Degree, of what is Charged upon many single Persons in the Century; nor will any one pretend to say, that the Clergy of this County were better than those in other Places; because there is not the least Ground for such an Assertion; or that the Severe Proceedings of the Committees at London, had now wrought a Reformation; for they had learnt to Accuse the Clergy of Crimes Committed Ten or Twenty Years before; and therefore would much less have spar'd them for Enormities of but Two or Three Years standing, could any such with any Shew of Truth, have been produc'd.

Confuting of no less than Eleven Pages in Folio, by which it may be judged what Proportion the Immorality bears to those other Articles.

However, I must add, this is spoken on supposition that the Extract faithfully represents all the Immoralities that were charg'd upon 'em; which, as far as can be gather'd from the Inspection of it, there appears no reason to doubt; but on the contrary, there is reason to believe it has so done; because it takes notice of Immoralities in several Places: Altho' some other Informations which I have receiv'd, relating to Mr. Wicherly, the Sequester'd Rector of Hemington in Suffolk (and one of those whole Accusations, are in the Extract) seem to furnish an Objection in that Matter: For of Three Articles particularliz'd in those Informations, as brought against Mr. Wicherly, not one appears in the Extract: And whereas the whole Charge is said to consist of 16 Articles, Those represented in the Extract, fall several short of that Number, as far as can be guess'd: For none of the Articles there are either separated or number'd.

See Queen's-College in Cambridge.

But perhaps the Articles mention'd in these Informations had been preferr'd against him to the other Committees on Foot, before the Earl of Manchester was sent into these Counties, with that Power; and when he was Summon'd before the Sequestrators under that Earl, a new Set might be Framed, and Perfected. This is sure that tho Dr. Nalson may be presumed to have Omitted two of these three Articles, in partiality to the Clergy (because they contain Charges of Immorality) there was not the same reason for his omitting the other, which was only 'Refus'ing to Baptize in Private' (according to the Direction of the Rubrick) without manifest and apparent Necessity, and was Plainly a commendable Practice; nor cou'd it bring an Odium on any, besides (like most of the Particulars of those Charges, which are Abbreviated there) those, who Objected it as a Crime, and depriv'd him of his Living on that Account.

Altho' the Letter, if it be exact, saith they were those Sixteen Articles, on which he was Sequester'd, which he undeniably was, by the Earl of Manchester.

But if Dr. Nalson did omit to be punctual in Extracting the Allegations of that kind; and the Articles meant in the Informations now mentioned, were those, on which Mr. Wicherly was Accused before the Sequestrators under the Earl of Manchester. It is manifest, that the Charges of that Nature were no better supported before those Committees, than they were before others; as will plainly appear by the Letter it self; which as far as it concerned the Matter we are now speaking of, was in these Words: Mr. Wicherly 'was Sequester'd from his Living of Hemingston in the Rebellious Times, upon Sixteen 'Articles exhibited against him by his Parishioners; every one of which Articles, my Father 'one of the same Parish, affirmed several times 'in my Hearing, to be Notoriously False: And 'when his Neighbours would have had him joyn'd 'with them in their Information, he declared against it, upon Account of the Articles being false. 'Three of the Articles I Remember perfectly. 'First, That he refused to Baptize Children at Home; but this he never did, when the Canon 'required, or in case of great Danger of Death. 'Secondly, That he was Drunk, and fell from his Horse: When the whole Neighbourhood knew 'that there was not any Man of greater Moderation as to Drinking, than he was. And I 'heard my Father say, that he was that Morning 'as Sober as ever he saw any, when he Discourfed him at his House; and that immediately after he went from him, before he had rode 'half a Mile, he heard his Young Unruly 'Horse had thrown him. Thirdly, That he made 'his Parishioners, when he went Perambulations, 'Drunk, and then over-reached them in Bargaining 'for their Tithes. Which was no Truer, my 'Father said, than the other Two; for he said, 'there was but one Drunk then; and that he 'would not be at Rest, till he had Compounded with him. Besides, my Father said, 'his Parishioner was then very well satisfy'd 'with Mr. Wicherly's Demands; and that his 'Tithes were a good Pennyworth, and worth 'much more. Sir, I heard my Father say, that 'all the rest of the Articles were of the same 'Stamp. In short, I knew the Gentleman my 'self; and I never saw, nor ever heard of 'any Misdemeanour, or Fault, sufficient to 'to Eject him out of his Living, but his not 'being of Their Faction'.

See alike Instance in the Case of Mr. Tray, in Kent.

But tho' the Charge of Immorality occurs so seldom, That of Malignancy (as I have observ'd already, on other Committees) was so frequent, or rather Universal, that unless I have miscounted, it is omitted but once in the whole Articles for the County of Cambridge, and not above once in all the other Counties, (tho' Superstition supplies the Room of it in both these Places) and, usually speaking, makes up the Gross of all the Charges brought againſt the Clergy; an unqueſtionable Evidence, what were the real Cauſes of their Sequeſtration.

Digitized by Google

Notwithſtanding which, theſe Committees are, purſuant to the Title of the Ordinance it ſelf, in the Warrants, commonly called Committees for Scandalous Miniſters; the Clergy cited before them are term'd Scandalous Miniſters, and the ordinary Forms of the Warrants for their Ejectment (as is before intimated) ran 'for Scandalous Life and Doctrine,' (as I gueſs by that Exemplification recited in the Extract, and from ſome other Hints in thoſe Papers) and that too in thoſe very Caſes where no one Accuſation of Immorality was lain in the Articles; for nothing of that Kind appears in the Charge againſt Mr. Felton of Streetham, in the Iſle of Ely, (as repreſented in the Extract) altho' the Warrant for Ejecting him (which there is at large Tranſcrib'd) was Worded in the manner now ſaid. But (as I have before obſerv'd of the Committee at Hereford likewiſe) they had now learn'd to call Oppoſing the Proceeding of the Parliament, 'Scandalous Acts.' And, as is more particularly Apparent in the Proceedings we are now ſpeaking of, had agreed to call ſuch Doctrines as they miſlik'd, 'Scandalous Doctrines;' and therefore, if a Man were ſequeſter'd for his 'Affection to 'his Majeſty,' and Preaching any Thing contrary to the 'new Goſpels of the Times,' he was in their Sence of the Words, Ejected for 'Scandalous Life 'and Doctrine;' altho' ſuch as underſtood thoſe General Expreſſions, in the uſual and ordinary Significations, did, without Queſtion, alway Apprehend by them, that ſuch Clergymen were turn'd out, for ſome Enormous Immoralities.

The firſt Perſon mention'd in the Extract.

I muſt not Diſmiſs theſe Accounts of the Regulation of the Univerſity of Cambridge, and the Removing the Scandalous Clergy in the Counties of this Aſſociation, without acquainting the Reader that this Earl of Manchester, who was put at the Head of theſe Sequeſtrations, was in the Life-time of his Father, the Lord Kimbolton, whom the King accuſed of Treaſon, together with the Five Members of the Houſe of Commons; and muſt do him the Juſtice (tho' he was made the Inſtrument of ſo much Injuſtice to the Clergy) to reſcue the Reader for his Character at large to the noble Lord Clarendon; who informs us of him among other Things, that the unhappy Occaſions of his falling in with the Faction, were chiefly his having married a Daughter of the Earl of Warwick, the Narrowneſs of his Fortune during the Life of a Parſimonious Father, which were not ſufficient to ſupport him at Court, and the Neceſſity he found of throwing himſelf on the prevailing Party, to protect that Father of his (who had render'd himſelf obnoxious to Juſtice) and thereby to ſecure his own Fortune; that he was of a Genteel and Generous Nature, which the Rough Parts he was forc'd to act in thoſe Times never wiped out, nor corrupted: Inſomuch, that he was never Guilty of any Rudeneſs towards thoſe he was oblig'd to oppreſs: 'That he 'long and heartily wiſh'd the Reſtoration; that 'very Few who had an Hand in Contriving the 'Rebellion, gave ſo manifeſt Tokens of Repen-'tance, as he did:' And that he never forfeited that Grace and Favour to which his Majeſty receiv'd him after his Return.

Hiſt. Vol. I. p. 145. Vol. II. p. 180, 181.

Lord Fairfax to place only the Diſtreſſed in the Counties of York, Lincoln, Nottingham, and Rutland. Vol. I. p. 437.

February 27, 1643, An Ordinance paſs'd, ſetting forth, that 'many Miniſters in the County of 'York, being not only of Scandalous Life and Con-'verſation, but leaving their 'Churches and Cures, 'have withdrawn themſelves willfully from the ſame, 'and have with ſuch Forces as were raiſed againſt 'the Parliament and Kingdom (thereby giving 'Evil Example to the People under their Charge) 'and aided and aſſiſted the ſaid Forces:' Therefore the Lords and Commons did Authorize Ferd. Lord Fairfax, 'to Nominate, Appoint, and place 'ſuch Able, Learned and Godly Divines, as he 'ſhould think fit, unto all ſuch Churches and Places 'in the ſaid County of York,' as were, or ſhould become Void in that Manner; or ſhould be 'Sequeſter'd by Virtue of any Order, or Ordinance of 'Parliament.' What his Lordſhip did in purſuit of this Power, and whether his Authority of filling up Vacancies, was Interpreted to imply a Power of Declaring, and by that Means at leaſt, making them void, I am wholly uninform'd; but the Preamble of Scandalous Life and Converſation ſeems to have furniſh'd him with a favorable Handle for ſuch a Practice.

The following Year I find Mention made in the Parliament Journals of an Ordinance for turning out of Scandalous Miniſters in the County of Southampton; but whether it paſs'd or not; or if it did, how, by whom, or in what Manner it was Executed, I do not find; nor does the Printed Liſt of the Ejected Clergy in this County, take any Notice of it.

Mention of an Ordinance for Sequeſtering the Clergy in Hampſhire.

The many Projects that had been now ſet on Foot (eſpecially the laſt, of Commitees in the Country) for Ejecting the Loyal Clergy, and the Application wherewith thoſe entruſted to Execute them, had ſet themſelves to that Buſineſs, ſeem to have contented the Faction for ſome time. And they were ſatisfied, as far as I can perceive, to let the old Ordinances have their Effect, without producing any new ones againſt 'em for Two or Three Years; but Time and Experience at laſt taught 'em (when they had Leiſure to Review their Work) that the Reformation was not yet Compleat, unleſs they Silenc'd, as well as Ejected, the Malignant Miniſters; and prevented 'em from getting new Pulpits, as well as threw 'em out of the old ones: For which Purpoſe a Complaint having been made of an Indictment in Bucks, for not Reading the Common-Prayer, it was order'd, October 26, 1646, 'That an Ordinance be brought in, to take 'away the Statute that injoyns it, and to diſable 'Malignant Miniſters from Preaching.'

Malignant Miniſters Silenc'd.

Except ſilencing and new modelling ſome of the Committees in the Country.

Whitl. Journ. p. 230, 241, 285.

See what is before ſaid of the Great Seal at the End of the Account of Abolishing the Liturgy.

March 15, following, it was 'order'd, that 'none who have been put out of their Livings 'for 'Scandalous Malignancy, ſhall be admitted 'into any without Conſent of Both Houſes.' And December 20, 1647, it was referr'd to a Committee 'to Examine, what Delinquent Miniſters did Preach, or Read the Book of Common-Prayer, and to Silence 'em. What was further done in theſe Matters at that Time, I know not; but ſome Years after, theſe Revolutions (for ſome of the ſame Purport) were effectually provided for by ſeveral Acts or Ordinances, as will be hereafter ſaid in another Place.

 Obſerve what theſe Times meant by Scandal.*

I have mention'd theſe Orders and Reſolutions together, becauſe of the Affinity that there is betwix 'em; but I muſt now Step back again to the Year 1646, Midſummer-Day that Year, having in a Manner compleated the Wiſhes of the Parliament; as not only putting 'em in Poſſeſſion of the Strong and almoſt only Remaining Garriſon of Oxon; but thereby opening a large Scene, and making Way for a great deal more of their moſt beloved Work of Reformation. Altho' to their no ſmall Diſturbance, they found the Univerſity held out a Siege more than a Year and Half, after the Town was ſurrender'd; for the Convocation-Houſe prov'd a Citadel, and each Oxford Viſitation.

Digitized by Google

each single College a Fort, which they found it not very eafy to reduce.

But tho' the Surrender of Oxford in 1646, brought on the great and calamitous Visitation of that Univerſity; yet like the other Univerſity of Cambridge (ſo very much did theſe Two beautiful and lovely Siſters reſemble one another, under their Suſt rings) ſhe had her Portion of other Troubles and Haraſſings, previous to the General Deſolation made, when the Faction had gotten the full Power in their Hands: And it will be neceſſary to take Notice of theſe, before I proceed to Account for the Viſitation it ſelf.

Wood, Ant. Lib 1 p. 347. To which Purpoſe it muſt be known, that in 1640, when the Seeds of Confuſion began to Ripen, and Threaten that plentiful Harveſt of Rebellion, which followed ſoon after, the Factious Townſmen began to abuſe the Scholars; to invade the known and undoubted Rights and Privileges of the Univerſity; to Diſturb and Reſiſt the Proctors in the Execution of their Duty; and particularly, got Mr. Aſhburd of Lincoln (then one of 'em) Summon'd before the Parliament, to anſwer for his having ſet at Liberty a Fellow, whom one Alderman Nixon had illegally Impriſon'd.

I preſume, he attended, but it's ſaid before they were at Liberty to hear him; for I find he dy'd in the Pariſh of St. Bride's, London, in the Beginning of February this Year. Wood, Athe. Vol 1. p. 500.

In September this Year, Henry Wilkinſon (then B. D. of Magdalen-Hall, but afterwards for his Ibid. p. 348. good Service to the Cauſe, made one of the Viſitors, and Canon of Chriſt-Church) preach'd a Factious * Sermon, mention'd already in another Place, before the Univerſity at St. Mary's †‡ Inveighing againſt the Ceremonies of the Church, &c. for which being ſentenc'd to a Recantation and (on his Refuſal) forbid to Preach any more in the Univerſity until he ſhould make it: He ſoon after Petition'd the Earl, who referring the Matter to the Committee of Religion, he was not only acquitted from the Cenſure, but order'd to Print his Sermon, which gave no ſmall Encouragement to the Faction in this Univerſity.

* On the famous Text of Rev. 3. 16. So then becauſe thou art Luke-warm, and neither cold nor hot, will ſpew thee out of my Mouth: The Senſe of which is well hardly paſs for Canonical Scripture with ſome of their Moderate Succeſſors.

† See alſo Nalſ. Collect. Vol. I. p. 700, 765.

I have already ſaid in another Place, that October 17, this Year, ſome Grievances of Wadham College were by the Earl refer'd to a Committee. I muſt now add, that the 27th of the ſame Month, Ibid. p. 349. Dr. Potter (then Vice-Chancellor) was ſent for, by a Serjeant at Arms, to Anſwer ſomething done in Execution of his Office; and being diſmiſſed, was ſoon after cited before a Com- Poſſibly the Committee now mentioned. mittee, then Sitting in the Court of Wards, which had ſome Affairs relating to the Univerſity before them. And Jan. 7, this Year, was again before the Houſe for Suſpending Mr. Wilkinſon, as See alſo Nalſ. Collect. Vol. I. p. 700, 701. hath been likewiſe already ſaid on another Occaſion.

Much about the ſame time the Townſmen Wood, Ant. Lib. 1. p. 349. Petition the Houſe of Lords againſt the Univerſity, for having invaded their Privileges (to which the Univerſity drew up a Counter-Petition,) and whilſt the Matter was depending; gather'd Tumults in the Night, abuſe the Governors of the Univerſity, ſtop the Proctors in the Execution of their Offices, and inſult them in ſuch a very rude Manner, that the Vice-Chancellor found himſelf under a Neceſſity to publiſh an Order, that no Scholars ſhould ſtir Abroad out of their reſpective Colleges.

June 28, 1641, the Order formerly remem- Ibid. p 352. ber'd, paſs'd the Houſe, that none who were matriculated, or took any Degree in this Univerſity, ſhould be oblig'd to Subſcribe the Third Article of the 36th Canon: To which was alſo added, that no Student in either of the Univerſities ſhould 'Bow towards the Altar, or 'make any Offerings there.'

Much about this time the Publick Acts were in Convocation Voted down for ever: On which Occaſion Dr. Potter, the Vice-Chancellor, Lamenting in a ſharp Speech, the Contempt thereby put upon all Learning, he was again complain'd of to the Earl, and order'd to tranſmit a Copy of his Speech to Weſtminſter, which was accordingly done: But what Reſolution the Earl came to upon it, I cannot learn.

February 8, 1641, the Scholars of both Univerſities were order'd to take a Proteſtation, which poſſibly was the Famous one already remember'd, taken by both Houſes in May this Year:) And March 2, the Power of Judging in Academical Caſes was taken from Dr. Prideaux (now Vice-Chancellor) as being a Clergyman, and given to Dr. Giles Sweit, his Deputy, a Lay-man. The like Example to which (ſaith Wood) the Univerſity never had before, or ſince. Ath. Vol. II. p. 687.

In July 1642, his Majeſty, then at York, Wood, Annals. p. 352, &c. wrote to Dr. Prideaux the Vice-Chancellor, to borrow ſome Money of the Univerſity: Whereupon a Convocation was call'd; who with one Conſent, voted his Majeſty all the publick Money they had, which was 860 l. And beſides this, ſeveral of the Colleges (more particularly Chriſt Church, Magdalen, and Queen's-Colleges) and ſeveral private Perſons, ſent their Plate, and ſent Money alſo. Soon after which the Parliament publiſhed a Proclamation, declaring this Act of the Convocation null, and void, pronouncing thoſe Criminal who had been concern'd in it, ſtraightly prohibiting any the like Actions for the future, commanding all, and ſingular Perſons of each Society to ſecure the Treaſure of the reſpective Colleges, and ordering Dr. Prideaux (then Rector of Exeter-College, and Biſhop of Worceſter) Dr. Samuel Fell, Dean of Chriſt Church, Dr. Frewen Preſident of Magdalen-College, and Dr. Potter, Provoſt of Queen's, to be ſeiz'd, and brought before them, to Anſwer what they had done in this Matter. But they all withdrew, and did not return to Oxford, as I think, until the King came thither, after the Battle at Edge-Hill. In the mean time, his Majeſty, on Notice of theſe Proceedings of the Earl, writes to the Commiſſioners of Array, the High-Sheriff of the County, and the Mayor of Oxford, to Protect the Univerſity. But the War being new broken out, neither theſe, nor the Scholars which met in Arms the following Month, were ſufficient to oppoſe the ſuperior Force of the Lord Say, then Ibid. p. 355, 356. Lord-Lieut. of the County; who on the News of Sir John Biron's having marched to Oxon, to Ath Vol II. p. 179. poſſeſs that Place for his Majeſty, order'd his Whitl. Mem. p. 60. *Deputy-Lieutenants to draw together what Forces they could, and meet him near the City, in order to diſpoſſeſs him; which was accordingly done; and their Numbers amounting in all to about 3000, Sir John Biron on their Approach, was oblig'd to quit the Town; which the Lord Say entering September 14, 1642, went forthwith attended with a Guard to New-College, and thence to Queen's, to ſearch for Plate and Arms: And having ſet a Guard that Night on the latter of

* Among which was Mr. Whitlock, who had a Troop of Horſe, and is being moved to a Council of Officers to ſecure and ſurniſh that Place for the Earl, and to appoint Mr. Whitlock for Governor; the Earl Say did not think fit to follow that Advice. Which Paſſage is taken Notice of by Mr. Whitlock himſelf, in his Memoirs (ſo ſupra) with much Regret.

theſe

theſe Colleges, goeth the next Day to Magdalen-College, on the ſame Errand, and taketh away what Arms he could find from thence; as likewiſe from Merton, C. C. C. and Chriſt-Church.

At the ſame time ſome of his Soldiers having diſcover'd ſome Trunks of Dr. Sam. Fell's, lodg'd out of the College, they ſeiz'd, and carry'd 'em to his Lordſhip's Lodgings; as they did likewiſe the remaining Plate of Chriſt-Church, not yet ſent to his Majeſty, which they found hid behind the Plaiſtering in the Cellar. They alſo ſet a Guard on the ſeveral Gates of that Houſe, and on the Lodgings of Dr. Iles (one of the Canons) that he might not convey away his Goods; and 'attempted to break into the Treaſury; and after a Day's Labour, forced a Paſſage into it; but met with nothing, except a ſingle Groat and an Halter, in the bottom of a large Iron Cheſt. Inraged with that Diſappointment, they went to the Deanery; where having ranſack'd what they thought fit, they put it altogether in a Chamber, lock'd up, and retired to their Quarters, intending the next Morning to return, and diſpoſe of their Prize: But when they came they found themſelves defeated, and every thing remov'd to their hand,' by the Help of a Key, which Mr. (afterwards Dr.) Alleſtry had to the Lodgings.

Life of Dr. Alleſtry.

The Day following (which was the 16th) his Lordſhip impriſon'd Mr. Lloyd of Oriel, and Three Maſters of Arts of Chriſt-Church, for ſome Words which they had ſpoken, and the next Day Three others: Which had ſo terrify'd the Scholars, that the Sunday following Two Doctors only, and very few of the Maſters appeared at Church. However, his Lordſhip reſtor'd all the Colleges their Plate (Chriſt-Church and Univerſity only excepted, becauſe theirs had been conceal'd) and contented himſelf with taking a Promiſe from the reſpective Heads, that it ſhould be forth coming, and ſhould not be made uſe of by the King againſt the Parliament. But it muſt be own'd, that Promiſe was not kept: For his Majeſty coming to Oxford, ſoon after the Battle of Edge-Hill, his Neceſſities oblig'd him to ſend for the Remainder of the College-Plate, which was accordingly carry'd in, and Coined for his Uſe. Beſides which, the Scholars in their private Capacities contributed Two Thouſand Pounds at one time, Eight Hundred Pounds at another, for the ſame Service; whilſt other of them, according to their ſeveral Abilities, maintained Two or Three Men for his Majeſty's Service, at their own Expence; and thoſe who could not ſerve him with their Pockets, did it with their Perſons; both Working with their own Hands on the Fortifications, and taking up Arms for him, and in the laſt of theſe Stations doing their Military (as they had wont to do their Academical) Exerciſe with ſo much Readineſs, and with ſuch a Diſtinguiſhed Gracefulneſs of Poſture, as gave the utmoſt Pleaſure to all that beheld them. They undertook likewiſe all the Inferiour Duties of the moſt private Soldiers, performed ſeveral Handſome Actions againſt the Rebels, and followed his Majeſty's Fortunes in the Arms, during ſome part of the Rebellion: Nor muſt I omit particularly to mention, that of the Hundred Students of Chriſt-Church, no leſs than Twenty were Officers in the Service, and the reſt, almoſt to a Man, bore Arms.

Both Doctors of Phyſick.

See Whitlock ubi ſupra, contrary to the Advice of thoſe about his Lordſhip, which Mr. Whitlock ſo ſeems to lament.

Wood. Ann. lib. p. 113.

Ibid. p. 363, 364.

Ibid. p. 363, 364.

Ibid. p. 366. Ath. Vol. II. p. 719.

It is altogether needleſs to proſecute the Particulars of theſe Matters, from the Time of his Majeſty's firſt coming among them, until the middle of the unfortunate Year 1646; when the Place (tho' furniſhed with a very good Garriſon, with Proviſion for Six Months, and all other Neceſſaries for a Siege, and having in it at that time many of the principal Nobility and Gentry) was ſhamefully enough given up to the Parliament-Forces; which, as hath been intimated, made way for the Viſitation that is now to be accounted for. But before I do yet proceed directly to that Subject, it may not be amiſs to take a brief View of the State into which the long Continuance of a Garriſon, and the Surrender of it at laſt into the Hands of the Parliament, had reduc'd this Flouriſhing Univerſity. The Publick Acts had been diſus'd for many Years; the Schools had been converted into Magazines; ſuch of the Publick Exerciſes as continu'd, were perform'd in a manner leſs Solemn than had been always cuſtomary before; and at laſt wholly dropp'd; and in the private Colleges, they were in a manner quite neglected. The Plate was not only gone, and the Barbarics empty'd of the Publick Money; but each College had likewiſe contracted Great Debts, and had not Money for their ordinary, and moſt neceſſary Uſes (tho' ſome of them had ſold all) notwithſtanding the Number of Scholars was reduc'd to a very few. The Private Purſes of ſuch as remain'd, were likewiſe exhauſted: Inſomuch that they labour'd under downright Poverty, and even Beggary, and appear'd in the Streets like Walking Ghoſts. Nor under thoſe melancholy Circumſtances, did they know where, or to what they could betake themſelves for Relief; the whole Kingdom being now in Confuſion, the Edifices of the ſeveral Colleges and Halls went in a manner to Ruin; the Chambers being moſtly taken up for thoſe who attended his Majeſty, or repair'd thither for Defence of the Place. Five of the Halls were perfectly empty'd of the Scholars; and the Principals were forc'd to Let out the Chambers to Townſmen, to keep them from falling quite to the Ground. And after the Surrender of the Place, 'There appear'd (ſaith Wood, Athen. Vol II. p. 740.) nothing but Confuſion and Diſorder. Heidi was broke looſe upon the poor Remnant; and they were over-run by Sectaries, Blaſphemers, Hypocrites, Exciters to Rebellion, Cenſurers, Covetous Perſons, Men of Self-Pride, Envy and what not? So that 'thoſe of the Gown, who could not brook ſuch Perſons, did either leave the Univerſity, or Abſcond in the reſpective Houſes, till they could know their Doom, by the Approaching Viſitation. The Soldiery did declare their Impudence ſo much, that they 'forbore not to Preach in ſome of the Pulpits, and to thruſt themſelves into ſome of 'the Publick Schools, and there in the Places 'of Lecturers, ſpeak to the Scholars againſt 'Human Learning, and challenge the moſt Learned of them to prove their Calling from 'Chriſt.' In a Word, the Univerſity Firſt underwent all the Miſeries which unavoidably attend on the Confuſions of War; and afterwards, all the Oppreſſions that ſucceſsful Rebellion, and triumphant Enthuſiaſm could put upon it.

They had Inſtructions for the King's going to Oxford in Chr. Hill C. Hill p. 227. But for what it ſaid of Rupland and Pendennis-Caſtles ibid. p. 332.

Ibid. p. 361.

Ibid. p. 366, 367.

It hath been before ſaid, that the Parliament had their Eyes on both the Univerſities, from the very Beginning of the Rebellion; and the Loyalty exerciſed by this Univerſity, in the ſeveral Inſtances new mention'd; together with the great Advantages which his Majeſty reap'd from the Fortifications of Oxford, which he took ſo long for his Head Quarters, could not but make them look on that Place with an eſpecial Obſervation. Add to this, that the Univerſity had diſmiſs'd the Earl of Pembroke

Ibid. p. 361.

Digitized by Google

Pembroke from being their Chancellor (alledging, among other Reasons for their so doing, his Adherence to the Parliament, in Opposition to the Interest of his Majesty and the Church) and Oct. 24, 1643, declar'd the Marquis of Hertford Chancellor in his room. On all which Accounts it was not to be expected, that they should omit any Opportunity of taking them in hand: And therefore tho' the Body of the University it self was as yet out of their reach, the Supplies of Nourishment for that Body were in some measure in their Power; as the Estates and Tenants of the several Colleges happen'd to lie within the Parliament Quarters, or any of the Counties which had submitted, or been subdu'd to them: And such as did not, it is probable, might be something influenc'd by their Orders, whilst the Success of the War continu'd Doubtful and Uncertain: On which grounds, as may be suppos'd, Mar. 24, 1643, the Commons pass'd an Order, 'That all 'the Tenants of the Colleges, &c. in Oxford should 'keep the Rents in their Hands, till farther 'Order from the House.' It is probable this Order was not without its Effect; but that of July 2, 1646, was, no doubt, more Effectual (not only this Town in particular, but almost the Whole Kingdom, being by that time brought under their Power;) which provided, 'That no 'Head of an House, Fellow, &c. should be 'admitted to any Place of Profit in the U- 'niversity, nor any Lands set, or Leases re- 'new'd, until the Pleasure of the Parliament 'in that matter was known.' This was a plain, as well as an early Step, taken towards the Reformation, which was in the following Year set on foot; and was withal apprehended to be a manifest Contravention of the Articles of Surrender; wherein it had been stipulated, That 'the Chancellor, Masters, Heads, Fellows, and all other Persons belonging to the University, or any Colleges or Halls, should according to their Statutes, &c. enjoy their ancient Government '(subordinate indeed, to the immediate Authority and Power of Parliament;) and that all the Rights and Privileges, &c. Lands, Revenues, &c. should be enjoy'd by them respectively, free from Sequestrations, Fines, Taxes, and all other Molestations whatsoever, for, or under colour of any thing whatsoever, relating to this present War, or the Differences between his Majesty and the Parliament.' Whereupon Dr. Hammond, then Publick Orator, was order'd to write to Sir Tho. Fairfax, and beseech him that he would use his Endeavours with the Parliament, that the Articles of Surrender might be punctually observed: But whether that General mov'd in the matter, or not, is unknown. This only is sure, that if he did, it was without that Effect, which the University Desir'd, tho' probably did not Expect. Nor could they well, as for many other Reasons, so for this especially, as I should judge, because the last Clause in the Article plainly left an Ope to destroy all the rest of it, whenever they pleas'd. It was in these Words: 'Provided, that this shall not extend to retard any Reformation there intended by the Parliament, or give them any Liberty to intermeddle in the Government.'

Ibid. p. 167.

Ibid.

Ens Humb. Called Fol. p. 896.

The taking up Arms against the Parliament, was after by the very Ordinance for the Visitation, decreed to be enquir'd into.

Besides the Clause before, that they were to be subject to the immediate Authority of Parliament.

In Sept. following, the Parliament made a further Advance towards the more immediate Appearance of their Authority in a Visitation, by sending their Harbingers to prepare the way for it. These were Seven Divines whom they dispatch'd to Oxford the Tenth of that Month, to reduce the University to a better Temper; and to dispose them to a Reconciliation with the Parliament and their Proceedings. The Persons pitch'd on for this purpose, were Mr. Robert Harris, of Hanwell in Oxfordshire; Mr. Edward Reynolds, formerly of Merton-College; Mr. Henry Wilkinson, Senior of Magdalen-Hall; Mr. Francis Cheynell; Mr. Edward Corbet, both of Merton-College; Mr. Henry Cornish, formerly of New-Inn-Hall, and Mr. Henry Langley, formerly of Pembroke-College. These were provided with a Power to Invade any Pulpit in Oxford, as often as they pleased. And that which they chose most frequently to Prophane, was the University-Pulpit at St. Mary's; where Interrupting the Courses and Turns of Preaching, Settled in the University, they vented according to the Mode of the Times, their Extempore Prayers; which they generally drew out into a tedious Length; interspersed with extravagant Recommendations of the Parliament, and their Blessed Proceedings; and seldom concluded with the Lord's-Prayer. But this was, however, a proper Preamble to the Discourses that usually followed, which were for the most part, of a Length proportion'd to that of their Prayers; fill'd with Empty, Useless Titles, and bitter Invectives against the Governours of the Church and University; whom they usually call'd Dumb-Dogs, Formalists, &c. And all this utter'd with Ill Looks, Wry Faces, Antick Gestures and a Clamorous Voice; which had soon emptied the Church of the Graver and more Sober part of the University, who mostly betook themselves, for the Convenience of Divine Worship, to the Parish of St. Mary Magdalen.

See each of these in Wood, Ath. Vol. II.

But besides their Sunday's Exercises, they had also their Meetings every Thursday (a Practice which the Hypocrisie of those Times had brought much in Vogue,) for the Resolving Cases of Conscience, and determining such Questions, as they judg'd of most Use, in matters of that kind. These were held in a House within the Parish of St. Peter's in the East, (which the Scholars therefore called the Scruple-Shop) whither, by this Specious Pretence, they drew great Numbers, especially of the meaner Sort; and to far obtain'd their Purposes, that they made some of them Renounce their Allegiance and Oaths which they had taken to the King, Exercise publick Fastings, and Repentance, in their Congregations, for having taken up Arms in his Defence, and take the Solemn League and Covenant. But their Success was not without its Interruptions and Disturbances, which it met with from one William Erbury. This Enthusiast had been formerly of Brazen-Nose-College, was after censur'd in the High Commission-Court, for Preaching in Conventicles, had been now for several Years a Chaplain in the Army; and being of the Independent Principles, was much in the Favour and Esteem of the Soldiers; and Envying the Reputation which the Presbyterians had gain'd by this Method, went one Day to hear these Determinations; when it happen'd, that the matter in Debate concern'd the Office and Dignity of the Ministry. Whereupon Erbury told them, they had no Ministry, nor were they a Church. A Set Time was therefore appointed to Debate this Question, 'Utrum in Ecclesiâ Ministerium felicius aliquibus Hominibus sit concreditum?' The Terms of which, at the time of meeting, were thus alter'd; 'An illi, qui pro Ministriis se venditant, majore Prosequâ gaudeant, aut uberiore utantur jure in annunciando Evangelio, quam quilibet ex Plebe Christiana?' The Event was, that after much wrangling, Erbury and his Party put the Presbyterian Disputants under the same Difficulties, that our Blessed Saviour did the unbelieving Jews, by his Question of John's Baptism; For Demanding of them, 'whence they had their Orders,' they durst not say, 'from the Bishops, who were confessedly on both sides Antichristian; (and should

Ibid. p. 168.

Ibid. p. 167.

Wood, Ant. Lib. p. 167, 168 are also the Account given to the Parliament by the Ministers sent to Oxford.

they at that time have said otherwise, to bring themselves off, they fear'd the People; nor could they deny it, since every one knew they had all been Episcopally (and no otherwise) Ordain'd; and so the Shout went on the Side of Erbury's Party, and the Convention was Dissolv'd, to the no small Disturbance of the Presbyterian Disputants; who for some little Time discontinued their Meeting, but soon after reassum'd it. Nor was this the only Disputation which Erbury had with them: For at another held in St. Mary's-Church, he maintain'd this, among other Positions, 'That the Saints shall have the same Wor-'ship, Honour, Throne and Glory, which Christ 'now hath; and shall be endowed with a greater 'Power of Miracles than Christ had whilst on 'Earth.' The Contest lasted about Four Hours, in a Tumultuous Manner; and at last both Parties retir'd, each claiming the Victory. Not long after this, Erbury left Oxford; but his Conventicle was continu'd by Henson, Keiser, and Grimes, then Officers and Preachers of Note, in the Army; but formerly the one a Shoe-maker, the other a † Pedling Broker, and the Third a Carpenter.

Wood, Ant. Lib. i. p. 169.

† Or Button-Maker, as some said.

But to return to the Visitation: These Preachers having now repair'd the Way, the Ordinance for Visiting the University, pass'd May 1, 1647, appointing (a) 'Sir Nath. Brent, Mr. (b) Edward 'Corbet, Mr. John Pulliston of the Middle-'Temple, Mr. (c) Henry Wilkinson, Mr. (d) 'William Pynn, Mr. Will. Typping, Sir William 'Cobb, Mr. Geor. Greenwood, Dr. (e) John Wilk-'inson, Mr. (f) Edward Reynolds, Mr. (g) Robert 'Harris, Mr. (h) Francis Cheynell, Mr. John 'Pocker, Mr. (i) John Wilkinson, Mr. (k) John 'Mills, Mr. (l) Christopher Rogers, Mr. William 'Cope, Mr. Bartholomew Hall of the Middle-'Temple, Mr. Thomas Knight of Lincoln-'s-Inn, 'Mr. John Helling of Gray's-Inn, William Draper, 'Gabriel Beck of Lincoln's-Inn, John Carrwright, 'and Samuel Dunch Esqrs; Visitors of the said 'University, and of all the Colleges, Halls, 'Masters, Scholars, Fellows, Members, Officers,' &c. Empowering 'them, or any Five of them, 'to Enquire of, Hear and Determine, all and 'every Crimes, Offences, Abuses, Disorders, and 'all other Matters whatsoever, which, by the 'Laws of this Realm, Customs or Statutes, 'rightly Establish'd, of that University, or the 'Statutes of the respective Colleges, or Halls, 'may lawfully be enquir'd of, heard and de-'termin'd in the way of Visitation of the Univer-'sity, or the Colleges, Halls, Masters, Scholars,' &c. Wherein they were to Proceed, 'to all In-'tents and Purposes, as by the said Laws, Sta-'tutes and Customs, any other Visitors, by any 'Authority whatsoever appointed, might proceed 'respectively.

Scob. Collect. P. 1. p. 116.

May 23, 1649. Some other Visitors were added; but who they were, doth not appear. Whitl. Journ. p. 339.

The Reader will here observe, that Five of the Seven Preachers were made Visitors; tho' in the beginning of this Parliament all Clergy men were with some Clamour disabled by an Act of Parliament from having any Place of Judicature. See a Letter at the End of Pegafus. p. 3, 4. I must add further, that tho' (Two of them more especially) were the most busie, and in Conjunction with Sir Nathaniel Brent, were in a manner the only Persons who transacted the whole Business of the Visitation, as far as I can yet perceive.

(a) See Wood, Ath Vol. II. p. 92. (b) Ibid. p. 749. (c) Ibid. p. 397. (d) Ibid. p. 311, and Wood, Ath. Vol. I. p. 816. (f) Wood, Ath. Vol. II. p. 407. (g) Ibid. p. 748. (h) Ibid. p. 145. (i) Ibid. p. 770. (k) Ibid. p. 747. (l) Ibid. p. 749.

They were more particularly Authoriz'd 'to enquire upon Oath concerning those, 'that Neglect to take the Solemn League 'and Covenant, and the Negative Oath, or op-'pose the Ordinances of Parliament concerning 'the Discipline and Directory; or did not pre-'mote the same in their several Places, or should 'Teach or Write against any Point of Doctrine, 'the Ignorance of which doth exclude from the 'Sacrament.' They were likewise 'Directed to 'Enquire upon Oath, of all who had taken up 'Arms against the Parliament,' and to 'certifie the 'Vacancies of those who should be found Guilty 'of any of the aforemention'd Offences,' to a Committee of about 25 Members of the House of Lords; and about 50 Members of the House of Commons, after nam'd and appointed in the Ordinance, as well for 'confidering, determi-'ning and directing on such Returns, what fur-'ther Proceedings should be had;' as for 'the 'Receiving, and finally determining such Appeals, 'that should be made by any of the Scholars, 'from the Sentence of the Visitors.' And lastly, the Visitors were 'to enquire what Oaths en-'joyn'd to be taken by the Statutes of the Uni-'versity, or any of the Colleges, were not fit to 'be taken, and to Report their Opinion' in that Matter likewise, to the Committee now men-tion'd.

The Ordinance, for Reasons obvious enough, concludes with a 'a Salvo to all the Rights of 'the Chancellor, for the Time being.

Instructed with those Powers, the Faction forthwith set themselves to the Godly Work of Reforming this University: And tho' it is notorious, that when the incomparable Archbishop Laud, in the time of his Chancellorship apply'd himself to Reform the real Disorders of it, the Puritans industriously oppos'd him, encouraging the Under-Graduates to wear unstatutable Habits, and when they were hunted out of Bawdy-Houses or Taverns, promoting Riots, and Drinking-Matches in the private Colleges; yet they lost no Time themselves in setting about Regulating the pretended Crimes of Loyalty and Affection to the Church: And therefore in about a Fortnight (viz. May 15,) after the passing of this Ordinance, a Citation was issued from Ten of the Visitors, (then at London) Directed to the Proctors and Heads of Houses, or their Vice-Principals, &c. Acquainting them, that on Friday the 4th of June following, they intended to open the Visitation; Summoning them, and all the Scholars, Officers, &c. to appear that Day in the Convocation-House; and enjoyning them to give in the Names of all the University-Officers, and of all the Scholars, &c. of the several Colleges. This Citation was not only deliver'd to the several Persons concern'd, but also Pasted up upon the Walls and Pillars, in several Places of the University: However, just before this Day of Doom came, it happen'd that the Garrison (the Army being now grown in more Senses than one Independent) made a Mutining, seiz'd the Money sent to pay them off, (in Order to their being Disbanded) and refus'd to lay down their Arms; Whereupon Sir Nath. Brent (the first Commissioner for the Visitation) and some other of the Visitors, who were still at London, thought it not safe to venture down, until the Event of that threatning Tumult could be seen; and therefore dispatch'd Letters to such of their more Officious Brethren, as were already got to Oxon, that they could not be with them until the long Vacation.

Wood, Ant. Lib. i. p. 169.

Ibid. p. 171.

See a Letter from a Scholar in Oxford, to his Friend in the Country (1649.) per Totum.

Wood, Ant. Lib. i. p. 158.

Mean while, the University, after the Alarm of the Citation, were not unmindful to put themselves in Readiness to receive the Assault; and therefore the Heads of Houses and other Principal Members, held frequent Meetings in Private, to Consult of, and Prepare an Answer to be return'd to these Inquisitors, and to draw up their Opinion of the Covenant, the Negative Oath, and the Directory, (concerning all which the Ordinance had directed a special Enquiry) which being accordingly done, it pass'd in a full Convocation, June 1. 1647, and was resolv'd to be render'd in all their Names, to the Visitors, as their full Answer, without the Diffinding Voice of any single Person, one Godfrey of Christ-Church (then lately come from Geneva) only excepted, who murmur'd something against it.

Ibid. p. 171, 172, 371.

It was chiefly Drawn up by Dr. Sanderson, and Published at Oxford that Year, 1647. In 4to. under the Title of

(a) Reasons of the present Proceedings of the University of Oxford, concerning the Solemn League and Covenant, the Negative Oath, &c. Wood, Ath. Vol. I. p. 816.

Digitized by Google

A thing which furely Merits an especial Remark, that at a Time when his Majeſty's Fortunes were loweſt (or rather indeed utterly ruin'd) his Perſon in the Power and Cuſtody of the Rebels, a Devouring Viſitation, and a Garriſon of Enthuſiaſts, with their Swords at their Throats upon them, not a ſingle Perſon of all that great Body, but one corrupted Renegado, ſhould be found to recede the leaſt Step from his Duty and Allegiance.

But to Return: The Mutining of the Garriſon happening but Two Days before the Viſitation was to Commence; the Return from Sir Nathaniel Brent, and thole of the Viſitors who were at London, came too late to prevent the Preparations for it. Accordingly, the Evening before, Merton-College Gates were ſet wide open, to receive Sir Nathaniel and his Brethren from London. Some of the Commiſſioners who liv'd in other Parts of the County, were likewiſe come to Town, but chiefly the Stomachs of the Preaching Viſitors before mention'd (who expected to Feaſt themſelves on ſuch Headſhips and Canonries as ſhould be Vacated, which in Fact they afterwards did) were up, and could not be pacify'd, but by breaking faſt themſelves; altho' the whole Company was not yet come together. And therefore the Ordinance Empowering any Five to Act; the next Morning (contrary to the Expectations of every Body) Mr. Rogers, Mr. Harris, Mr. Reynolds, Mr. Henry Wilkinſon, and Mr. Cheynell (having gotten likewiſe Mr. Dance, Mr. John Wilkinſon, and Mr. Draper, who came to Town in Expectation of meeting the reſt to joyn them) proceeded to open the Viſitation; and began it (as they did all the other diſtinguiſh'd Wickednetſes of theſe Times) according to their uſual Hypocriſie, with Prayers, and a Sermon. The Petion pitch'd upon for the Office of Preaching was, Mr. Harris, (one of the Viſitors) who tho' a notorious Pluraliſt, yet expected ſome further Emolument, and was after Rewarded with the Preſidentſhip of Trinity-College, in the Room of Dr. Potter, diſmiſs'd by the Viſitors. The Preferments which he then enjoy'd are thus Reckon'd up by one of the Gentlemen of this Univerſity, in a Letter wrote about this Time: 'Hanwell, his old Love, '160 l. per Annum, beſides Graſing, &c. Biſhop's-gate, towards 400 l. Hanborough, towards 300 l. Buriton and Peterſfield in Hampſhire, not above 5 or 600 l. more, beſides the '4 s. a Day for the Aſſembly Membersſhip, and '10 s. for Apoſtleſhip, in Oxford.' And, (to take that by the Way) being Conſcious of the Offence which he could not but know it would give in thoſe godly Times, when Pluralities were ſo much decry'd, he took Notice of it * himſelf, in the Sermon we are now ſpeaking of; and declar'd, (how true I know not) that tho' he held indeed the 5 Livings, yet he had not the Profits of them.

Bid. p. 186, 187.

See a Letter at the End of Pegaſus, p. 3.

In Addition to which I have read ſomewhere, that he was guilty of in thoſe Times with one Sleeve on his Head, others coming out of his Pockets, &c.

* See the ſame Letter.

‡ Contrary to Mr. Greenwood, their new Principal of Braſen-Noſe; who being, it ſeems, charged with the ſame ungodly practice of Pluraliſme, declared, good Man, 'that he had not the 'Livings, but only the Profits of them.' See the ſame Letter.

I cannot forbear to add on this Occaſion, that the ſame Letter (p. 2.) obſerves, as much as Sermons were Idoliz'd in that Age, Old John Wilkinſon, another of the Viſitors, 'was known 'not to have preach'd above once in 40 Years; 'had out-liv'd the little Learning he was once 'Maſter of, and was become the Sport of the 'very Boys;' And that Rogers, another Commiſſioner for the Viſitation, had made himſelf 'Famous (ſaith the ſame Letter) for Adam the Protoplaſtus, when many Years ſince he ventur'd 'to be a Preacher, and attempted to imitate 'that Sound (which he might often have heard) 'of παλαιολογος which 'tis ſuppos'd he thought 'compounded of the Greek παλαι (if he ever 'knew ſo much of that Language) and the Latin 'Lapſus, which yet he was not ſo much Maſter 'of, as to give it a more perfect Sound than that 'of Protolapſus.'

P. 1.

In ſuch Hands had the Ordinance lodg'd all the Important Rights of Viſiting this great and famous Univerſity, and the ſeveral Colleges of it; which the wiſe and pious Founders juſtly eſteem'd an Authority of ſuch Conſequence, that by their ſeveral Statutes they repos'd it with none but Perſonages of the higheſt Stations; and which were therefore always preſum'd to be of the moſt eminent Characters.

But to proceed with the Viſitation: The Citation before-mention'd enjoyn'd the Heads, &c. to appear betwixt the Hours of Nine and Eleven, which they accordingly did; but Mr. Harris held them ſo long by the Ear, at St. Mary's, that the Clock ſtruck Eleven juſt as the Sermon was ended. In the mean while, Dr. Fell, then Vice-Chancellor, perceiving they were like to ſlip their Time, ſent Orders to the Sexton of St. Mary's to keep his Clock exactly with the Sun, and as ſoon as it had Struck, enter'd the Convocation-Houſe, and there, by the Mouth of the Proctor, declar'd, that the time being elapſed, (or to uſe Mr. Rogers's Expreſſion, protolaps'd) they were obliged to no longer Attendance; and having gotten the Fact atteſted by a publick Notary, diſmiſſed the Scholars to their ſeveral Colleges, and for hwith went off with the Beadles before him. But by this Time the Viſitors were come as far as the Proſcholium; where the Paſſage being narrow, one of the Beadles cryed out, Make way here for Mr. Vice-Chancellor, which theſe Sneaking Viſitors preſently did. So much Courage doth Innocence and a good Cauſe always Inſpire; ſo much Authority, and ſuch a Sort of Majeſty did Right and Juſtice, Honeſty and Loyalty carry with them: And ſo little could thole who were come on Purpoſe to invade them, withſtand the Surprize of their ſudden and unexpected Appearance. Add to this, that tho' the Powers granted them by the Ordinance, had now plainly made them Superior to the whole Univerſity, yet none of thole then preſent, having ever been in Eſteem, or in any Poſt of Eminence before, they muſt probably be ſuppoſed to have had an Awe and Reverence for the Governors, and other Perſons of Character in the Univerſity, from which they could not readily Diſengage themſelves. Upon this, the Vice-Chancellor civilly moving his Cap to them, ſaid, 'How do ye, Gentlemen, 'tis paſt Eleven a 'Clock,' and ſo paſſed on his way, without taking any further Notice of them, whilſt the Scholars applauding his Conduct, with a general Hum, attended him: And the Viſitors, after they had recover'd the Fright of the Beadles Staves (thoſe Engines of Authority having made them give way, like the Rebel-Slaves, when they ſaw the Whips in the Hands of their Maſters) continued their Cavalcade, with a Mobb of Boys and Preſt-men, to the Convocation-Houſe, where they laid their Heads together for about an Hour (as they did likewiſe ſeveral Times afterwards); but what paſs'd, was not made publick at that Time, nor at any other Time ſince, as far as I can learn, and probably never will, until that Great and Solemn Viſitation, wherein all their Deeds of Darkneſs ſhall be laid open.

Wood, Ant. Lib. 1. p. 320.

Letter from a Scholar, &c. p. 1.

In

In the mean while, their having thus ſtipp'd their time, did, as was plain to every one, put them under a Neceſſity of Beginning all again, if they would have any Regard to Regularity in their Proceedings; and by that means made them the Jeſt and Deriſion of every Body; and it was indeed wonderful to ſee, with what Contempt and Scorn the Univerſity always Treated them, both in this and many other Inſtances, throughout the whole Courſe of the Viſitation; altho' not their Fortunes only, but their very Lives were in the Hands of thoſe Inquiſitors, and of the Garriſon, who were Commanded to put their Orders in Execution.

June 5, which was the Day after their Firſt Attempt was thus Fruſtrated, a Committee of the Univerſity met, and came to the Following Reſolutions, 'That, No one ſhould Appear, 'unleſs the Summons had Five Names to it. 'Secondly, That no one ſhould Appear on a 'Holy-Day. Thirdly, That he ſhould Demand 'by what Authority he was Summon'd; and if 'deny'd an Anſwer, ſhould Preſently Depart. 'Fourthly, That if they Declar'd their Authority, 'he ſhould Anſwer with a Salvis Juribus Regni, 'Academiæ, & Collegii, &c. Fifthly, That he 'ſhould Demand his Accuſation in Writing; as 'alſo time to put in his Anſwer; and ſhould Re-'turn it in Writing, and no otherwiſe. And 'Laſtly, That he ſhould utterly Refuſe to Anſwer 'on Oath, becauſe that would be to Accuſe him-'ſelf, and would plainly Revive the Oath ex Offi-'cio, which their Faction had ſo Loudly and Cla-'morouſly Decry'd.'

What the Viſitors did, for about the Space of Ten Weeks after this, I do not find; but it ſeems as tho' this firſt Aſſault had diſcover'd to them, both their own Weakneſs and the Reſolution of the Defendants; and that therefore they found themſelves under a Neceſſity of making the Battle more ſtrong; which was accordingly done Auguſt 26 1647. by an additional Ordinance, declaring in the firſt Place, 'That the Cathedral-'Church, or College of Chriſt-Church, was ſubject 'to this Viſitation, in like manner as the reſt of 'the Colleges; and then farther Ordaining, 'that the Viſitors ſhould have Power to Adminiſter '(as well as Enquire of) the Covenant, and 'Negative Oath: That they ſhould have Power 'to Demand and Perule the Statutes, Regiſters, 'Accompts, &c. and all other Papers whatſoever, 'of the Univerſity or the reſpective Colleges and 'Halls; And ſhould have Power to Seize, and 'Detain in Cuſtody, any Perſon whatſoever, that 'after a Perſonal Citation, ſhould Refuſe to pro-'duce theſe Books or Papers; or any other Mem-'bers of the Univerſity, who ſhould Omit, or 'Refuſe to Appear before them, after a Second 'Perſonal Summons or Citation;' directing them alſo 'To Impannel a Jury or Inqueſt, to con-'ſiſt of Members of this Univerſity above the Age 'of 21, to Enquire by Oath on the Articles 'founded upon the Tenor of the Firſt Ordinance '(and to be Approv'd by the Committee of 'Lords and Commons, Erected by that Ordinance) 'of any of the Crimes therein mention'd,' and provided alſo that 'Oliver St. John, the Attorney-'General, ſhould prepare a Commiſſion (for which 'they alſo Empowered him) Authorizing the 'Perſons (whom they had formerly Named) 'to viſit the Univerſity, without any further 'Warrant, according to the Purport of theſe 'Two Ordinances; and Empowering the Commiſſi-'oners of the Great Seal to affix the Seal to ſuch 'Commiſſion, when it ſhould be prepared:' Which Horrible Mockery was accordingly Effected the 27th of September following, running in theſe Words: 'Chiefly, by the Grace of God, &c. 'To our truſty and well-beloved Sir Nathaniel 'Brent, &c.' then Reciting the Ordinance for viſiting the Univerſity; and after adding, 'Know 'ye, that we, intending the Regulation and Refor-'mation of our Univerſity of Oxford, &c.' Nor were they Aſhamed, on the Foot of this Monſtrous Impoſture, to proceed to the Viſitation: And having now (as the laſt Attempt upon him, next that of his Head) prophanely made Plunder of his Majeſty's Name, under the Sacred Authority of it, to Ruine that Univerſity, which had Employed all their Treaſuries both Private and Publick, for his Service, had afforded him even Shelter from the Bloody Attempts of theſe very Men for ſo many Years, and were at that very time Suffering the Loſs of all they had left in the World, to preſerve their Allegiance to him; and all this, whilſt it was openly and perfectly known to every one, that his Majeſty, inſtead of granting any ſuch Commiſſion, did, of all other things whatſoever, Deteſt and Abhor it; and that the whole of it was pure Mockery and Force, and every Letter of it Falſified and Counterfeit.

Wood, Ant. Ox. Lib. 1. p. 197.

But to return to the additional Ordinance, which provided in the laſt Place, 'That the Sheriffs, 'Mayors, and other Magiſtrates, ſhould be aiding 'and aſſiſting to the Viſitors, as they ſhould have 'Occaſion.'

The ſame Day theſe farther Inſtructions were iſſued, 'That the Viſitors ſhould ſit de Die in Diem, to Receive Informations; and that they 'ſhould begin with the Heads of Houſes, and 'the Canons of Chriſt-Church; that they ſhould 'take Care that no one Comprehended in the Ar-'ticles of Surrender, ſhould bear any Office in the 'Univerſity; that they ſhould Enquire who were 'Preſent in Convocation, when the Money was 'ſent to his Majeſty; and that they ſhould En-'quire on Oath, what Offences had been Com-'mitted, and by whom, againſt the Laws of this 'Realm, or any of the Statutes of the Reſpective 'Colleges.'

September 24, the Committee of Lords and Commons, came to a Reſolution (founded on the Two Ordinances before Accounted for, and Reciting particularly the chief Heads of them) that the Viſitors ſhould proceed to Enquire, Examine, Determine, &c. according to the Tenor of theſe Ordinances: And being now Furniſhed with new Powers, freſh Inſtructions, and Recruited with a Supply of ſome of their Members, they returned, as it were, to the Charge with greater Vigour; and according to the Mode of the Times, appointed a Faſt on the Feaſt of S. Michael and all Angels, for renewing of the Viſitation; all tho' their Abo-liſhing of this Feſtival on the Occaſion, was not altogether unſuitable to the Undertaking they had in Hand; ſince in contending for this Body (Learned in all the Wiſdom of Greece, and indeed of all the other Parts of the World, as well as in that of the Egyptians) they quitted the Character of the Firſt Holy Angel of the Day, and choſe to themſelves that of his Adverſary: For it falling to the ſhare of Mr. Corniſh, and Mr. Wilkinſon, ſen. (Two of the Viſitors likewiſe) to Pray and Preach on that Occaſion; the Latter of them by his Abominable Raiſing, and Invectives, drove every Modeſt Perſon out of the Church; which moſt of the Heads of Houſes foreſeeing, had forborn to be Preſent.

Ibid. f. 358.

Ibid. p. 361.

The ſame Day a Paper (without any Names) was affixed to the Doors of the University-Church, giving Notice, that thenceforward the Viſitation was to be de Die in Diem; and the following Week a Citation was Iſſued to all the Heads of Houſes, requiring them to bring in their Statutes, Regiſters, Accompts, and to a Word, all their Publick Writings, to the Warden's Lodgings at Merton-College: And the ſame Day Dr. Fell, the moſt worthy Vice-Chancellor, lor, was Ordered to Appear before them, 'To 'Answer to such Questions as they should De- 'mand of him;' and required 'To send by the 'Hands of the Persons who served those Orders 'upon him, all the Books, Acts, &c. belonging 'to the Universitys.' At the same time the Proctors were order'd to bring in their Keys, Books, and the other Publick Things in their Custody. It is not enough to say, that every one of these Orders were Disobeyed; for they were also despised and Contemned. This Day likewise the Visitors appointed their † Spies and Informers in every College, whom they afterwards rewarded with the Fellowships of such as were Ejected; which may serve in good Measure to account for the Characters of those who Succeeded the Loyalists of this University; since none but Persons of the basest Spirits could have undertaken so Vile a Service, especially considering they performed it effectually, and were of singular use to the Inquisition.

Digitized by Google

† Mr. Wood expresses this Matter. I presume they were a sort of Delegates, chosen by the Visitors, and the Persons whom in some Papers from New-College, I find call'd Delegates, Assistants to the Visitors.

About this time they dispatched one of their Body to London, for Instructions how they were to behave themselves with relation to the Articles agreed on at the Surrender of the Garrison; and the 4*th* of October issued another Summons to Dr. Fell, to appear the Wednesday following, and bring with him the Books and Papers as well of his own College, as of the University; at which time he appeared accordingly, as did likewise the rest of the Heads of Houses; but instead of bringing their Papers, they Demanded to know by what Authority they were Summon'd. In return to which, they most shamelessly produc'd the Mock-Commission under the Broad Seal, and at the same time served them with a Citation to appear Four Days after with their Books and Papers, or their Reasons in Writing, why they refused to do; and Dr Fell the Vice-Chancellor, was commanded to attend them again in the Afternoon. The Day following they sent for the Keys of the Convocation-House and School, and the Beadle's Staves; but the respective Officers Returned for Answer, that the Vice-Chancellor had them. After this they adjourned the approaching Term from the 12*th* (when it ought according to Statute to be opened) to the 15*th* of that Month. The same * Day Mr. Wighwick, the Master of Pembroke-College attended with his Answer in Writing (and Subscribed with his Name) to this Effect 'That he 'had seen and considered their Commission under 'the Broad Seal; but having some Scruples up- 'on him, whether it might be Genuine or not, 'he desired Liberty might be granted him, to 'wait upon his Majesty in Person, to know the 'Truth of that Matter; because if it had been 'issued contrary to his Majesty's Intensions, he 'could by no means submit to it, under Pain of 'Falsifying the Oaths he had taken to his Majes- 'ty, the University and his own College.' With so much Contempt and Derision did the University continually entertain them, altho' they knew it would Cost them their Places, as it did * Mr. Wighwick in particular, whom they Ejected from his Masterships the very next Day (and Substituted Mr. Langley, one of the Preachers formerly mentioned, in his Room) whereby he won that Honour, which his Answer had justly Merited, of being the first Person that dropp'd in this Noble Conflict.

Vis. the 6th.

The Principal of Brazen-Nose-College excepted.

* Vis. the 15th.

* Alledging however for their Reason, that the Society had chosen him contrary to the Orders of the Parliament who had before Ejected Mr. Langley. Ibid. p. 190.

Ibid. p. 189, 190.

The Day following the Proctors of the University appeared, and delivered a Protestation (attested by a Publick Notary) in the Name of the Vice-Chancellor and Delegates themselves, and all the Scholars, to this Tenor 'That (with all due 'Submission to the Parliament) they could not 'own any Visitor but the King; and that having 'Sworn to maintain his Rights, they could not 'without manifest Perjury, Submit themselves 'to this Visitation, wherewith they desire them to 'acquaint the Parliament.'

The same Day Dr. Fell, by an Order affixed to the Gates of the Schools, was depriv'd of his Office of Vice-Chancellor, under Pretence of having been admitted to it, by the incompetent Authority of the Marquis of Hertford, as Chancellor (whom the Parliament Disown'd in that Capacity) but in truth, for the Stout Opposition that he made to the Visitors; and is withall by another Order again Summon'd to bring in the Publick Books, &c. of his Office; and by a Third he is declar'd to be Dismissed, and Strip'd of his Authority, and publick Notice is thereby given of it to the Proctors, and the other Officers of the University, &c. that they may no longer obey him as such; but neither himself, nor the others Concern'd had any more regard to those Orders than to the Former; and therefore the 11*th* of this Month, without any Regard, either to this Mock-Deprivation, or the Prorogation of the Term before mention'd, he proceeded to hold a Congregation, and to open the Term, as usual; but the next Day was taken into Custody, and hurry'd Prisoner to London, by Order of the Parliament: Whereupon Dr. Potter of Trinity, the very Day after, Boldly took up the Cudgels (or if you will the Beadles Staves) and Officiated as Pro-Vice-Chancellor. In the mean time, the Morning that Dr. Fell proceeded to open the Term, the Heads of Houses again appeared, as they had been required; however, not with their Statutes, &c. (but with their Reasons for not Delivering them, and their other Books, &c. to their High Mightinesses;) which in one Word was, that 'They could nor do it without mani- 'fest Perjury.' At the same time some of the Publick Lecturers who had been sent for, were acquainted, that they were now no longer to look on Dr. Fell for their Vice-Chancellor; and that the Term being put off, they need not Read.

Ibid. p. 191.

Ibid. p. 192.

At this time also Sir Nathaniel Brent, and Mr. Henry Wilkinson, were on their own Motion, dispatch'd to London to give the Committee at London an Account of what had been hitherto done in the Visitation. But when they came up, they were the 30*th* of that Month call'd to give that Account to both Houses of Parliament; who referr'd them back again to the Committee, which was Empower'd to hear, and finally determine of that whole Matter.

About the Beginning of the next Month Died Dr. Pink, the very Loyal Warden of New-College: Whereupon the Fellows were served with an Order, not to proceed to an Election of a New Warden; which Occasion'd their Application to the Lord Say, and Nath. Fiennes (who being nearly Related to the Founder, might be supposed the fittest Persons to undertake the Patronage of the College) that they would use their Endeavours to procure Liberty for them to proceed to an Election; but they had for Answer, that they might chuse Mr. White of Dorchester if they pleased; but if they offer'd to come to an Election, and make Choice of any other Person, it would never be forgiven them.

Ibid. p. 193.

November the 3*d*, the Provost of Oriel appeared before the Visitors; but like the rest, without his Statutes, Books, Papers, &c. and the Day following Dr. Potter the President of Trinity, and Pro-Vice-Chancellor (who had before been Summon'd separately, but in vain) Dr. Radcliffe, Principal

Ibid. p. 195.

Digitized by Google

Resolution to Defend the Body of the Place; which, on the other hand, their Adversaries, encourag'd by Success, ſet themſelves as diligently to Attack; and ſuſtained by their Grand Army, the Committee at London, got them the latter End of this Month, to Vote Dr. Fell out of his Deanery of Chriſt-Church (as he had been before, out of his Office of Vice-Chancellor) for Contumacy againſt the Parliament; and obtain'd the ſame Sentence from them againſt Dr. Oliver, Prefident of Magdalen-College; Dr. Potter, Preſident of Trinity; Dr. Bayly, Prefident of St. John's; Dr. Radcliffe, Principal of Bragen-Noſe, and Dr. Gardiner, Dr. Iles, Dr. Morley, Canons of Chriſt-Church. But ſo little regard was had to theſe, or any other of their Orders, that having ſoon after enjoyned Dr. Hammond, then Sub-Dean of Chriſt-Church, to Publiſh this Eject-ment of Dr. Fell from the Deanery, he utterly refuſed to do it. And having repeated their Deprivation of him from the Office of Vice-Chancellor, and order'd it to be paſted up upon the Walls of the Univerſity, the younger Scholars Tore the Papers down again; and with the utmoſt Contempt and Indignation, Trampled them in the Dirt.

Whitl. Mem. f. 299. Jan. 22, 164$\frac{4}{5}$, the Commons receiv'd, and paſs'd an Ordinance from the Lords (ſet on foot by a Report from the Reforming Committee) for making the Earl of Pembroke Chancellor of Oxford. The Earl had been (as is already noted) Diſplaced ſome Years before, by the Univerſity; and the Houſes finding it abſolutely neceſſary, in order to reduce this Univerſity to Obedience, to have that Great Officer exercife his Authority among Them in Perſon; That there might be no Diſpute about his Right, on account of his Former Diſmiſſion, they paſs'd the Ordinance now mentioned. This Lord was of a Character altogether different from that of the Earl of Manchester (to whom the Care of Regulating the other Univerſity had been committed;) and therefore I rather chuſe to refer the Reader for an Account of him to the Lord Clarendon, than produce any Par-ticulars of it in this place.

Vol. I. p. 646, 47 Vol. II. p. 157.

Or 12th. The 9*th* of the following Month, the Committee order'd Dr. Potter, the Pro-Vice-Chancellor, and Mr. Waring and Mr. Hunt, the Two Proctors, into Cuſtody; but the Meſſenger who was ſent down for them, was forced to return empty-handed, not being able to find them. And the 17*th* of the ſame Month, the Houſe of Commons Vote Mr. Reynolds, one of the Viſitors, and Mr. Dr. Croſs of Lincoln, and Mr. Ralph Button of Merton, Proctors of the Univerſity. And March 8, the Lords order'd, that the Earl of Pembroke ſhould go to Oxford in Perſon, and with the uſual Solemnities, * Repoſſeſs himſelf of his Chancellor's Office, create Mr. Reynolds D. D. and put him and the new Proctors in Poſſeſſion of their Offices: And, what was more to Mr. Reynolds's purpoſe, put him likewiſe in poſſeſſion of the Deanery, and Lodgings of Chriſt-Church; and Mr. Rogers, Mr. Henry Wilkinſon, ſen. and Mr. Langley, into the † Canonries of Dr. Gardiner, Dr. Iles and Dr. Morley; and to give Poſſeſſi-on likewiſe to Thoſe New Heads who had been Appointed by the Reforming Committee, to the Extinction only of what had been then Voted by the Committee at London, which Dr. Sheldon pleaded in Barr to their Power of Exciting him, by virtue of that Authority: But ſurely either the general Powers of the Ordinances for Viſiting this Univerſity, or ſome New Orders from the Committee at London (Orders then more in the ordinary Methods of the Times, in which they frequently proceeded, not only without, but contrary to all Rules, or Laws, even of their own making) were the Foundation on which they acted at that time: For I find there then Unqualified Orders ſent to Dr Sheldon, who had not even Expect one by the Committee, until after this Day (Mar. 8, 1647,8) when this Commiſſion was ſigned; particularly, ſome of the Canons of Chriſt-Church: Altho' the Viſitors had (by the time the Earl came to the Univerſity, purſuant to this Order) received a Command from the Committee at London, to Diſcontinue their other Canons alſo, as will appear hereafter: But the Earl not being named one of the Viſitors, was confined to the Order of the 10th now mentioned, and none of thoſe other Orders could concern him: Which render'd His acting in thoſe Caſes, altogether Diſagreeable, &c. * Ibid. p. 395, 396.

† Purſuant to ſome Votes paſs'd a few Days before.

See a Letter at the End of Pegaſus. p. 8. But Wood, Ant. Lit. p. 402. calls it a Commiſſion, poſſibly in a looſe way of Speaking. By the Caſe of Dr. Sheldon (which See in the Life) it ſeems, this Iles and Dr. Morley; and to give Poſſeſſi-Order or Commiſſion, confined them to the Extinc-

The new Officers, Delegates (or Informers) had Power given them to conferr Degrees, and to Expel from the Convocation ſuch, as refuſed to own the Viſitation. And becauſe their Orders had been hitherto Contemned, a Meſſenger was ſent down (March 17,) to take theſe refractory Heads of Houſes and Canons, into Cuſtody; who refuſing to be blown away from their Livelihoods by a Vote, did ſtill preſume to keep poſſeſſion of them. But timely Notice being given of what was done, the Meſſenger went back to London without them. At the ſame time the Committee condeſcended to Order up the Stanly Bradles before them, Complaint having been made, that they refuſed to Appear, or to Officiate under the New Magiſtrates; as they did alſo on a like Complaint, thoſe who had the Keeping of the Inſignia, &c. of the Univerſity, and had refuſed to Deliver them up. And Dr. Oliver, Preſi-dent of Magdalen-College ſtill continuing to Offi-ciate as Pro Vice-Chancellor, they ſent him poſitive Orders to Deſiſt, or threatned to take him into Cuſtody; and repeated their Orders (ſeconded likewiſe by thoſe of the Viſitors to the ſame Effect) to Dr. Potter, Dr. Radcliffe, Dr. Bayly, Dr. Iles and Dr. Gardiner, with the like Menaces: But I cannot Learn, that any of them all Obey'd. The ſame Day the Viſitors Publiſhed a Citation, in the Form of a Viſit & Modis, to bring in thoſe who had hitherto refuſed Obedience to ſuch In-junctions, as had been ſent them: Whereupon ſeveral of them appear'd the 21*ſt* of that Month, but ſtill without giving them thoſe Anſwers which they look'd for. Among theſe, were Dr. Pitt, the Warden of Wadham, and Mr. Henry To-zer, the very worthy Sub-Rector of Exeter-College, againſt whom ſome of the Informers of that Houſe had furniſhed the Viſitors with ſeveral matters of Accuſation: Whereupon he deſired time to put in his Anſwer; which being Granted him, he returned the 27*th* (now 1648) of that Month, and Diſown'd their Authority; as did likewiſe at the ſame time Dr. Sheldon, the Warden of All Souls; Dr. Hammond, then Sub-Dean of Chriſt-Church, appearing that Day alſo, told them, 'He did not Think himſelf obliged to Anſwer their 'Queſtions, as they propoſed them.' By which wary Anſwer as he did effectually Elude the Intent of their ſending for him; ſo he meant to cut off all Occaſions, they might have, to take hold of him, had they Proceeded with any manner of Regard to Law or Equity: But they were ſo far from being held with theſe Cobwebbs, that their whole Seſſion (after the Interruption of it, whilſt the main Cauſe was depending before the Committee) was even according to their own Principles, a perfect Nullity; their Court being plainly Loſt and Dropt, ſince they had omitted Regularity to adjourn themſelves from time to time; which not only their own Com-miſſion, but the Forms and Manner of all Courts requir'd them to do.

Ibid. f. 397. See alſo the Letter at the End of Pegaſus, p. 5, 6, 7.

See ibid. p. 402. and Wood, Ant. L. L. p. 396.

But tho' they had neither Law nor Equity, they had Power with them (eſpecially after the Commons had March 23, deſir'd the Ge-neral to let them have a Guard) and that as they contriv'd it, ſtood in the ſtead of both the other. Accordingly, March the 30*th*, the Committee (on the Repreſentation of the Viſi-tors) proceeded to Order Dr. Sheldon out of the the Wardenship of All Souls, for Contumacy against the Parliament; as they did likewise Dr. Hammond, Dr. Wall, and Dr. Payne, out of their Canonries of Christ-Church; and the First of them also out of his Office of Publick Orator; and the Parliament having now passed an Ordinance (for they found the bare Orders of the Committee and Visitors signify'd very little) to deprive Wood, Ant. Lib. 1. p. 398. Dr. Fell of his Deanery, the Visitors, pursuant to it, issued their Commands for the quitting of the Dean's Lodgings to Mr. Reynolds, and got them Pasted up to the Doors; but Mrs. Fell (for the Dr. himself was still in Custody) took no manner of Notice of them.

Digitized by Google

About the same time the Visitors order'd all the Scholars, who expected any Benefit from the Articles of Surrender, to lay their Cause, together with their Reasons, before them; which, to avoid the Trouble of hearing one by one, they requir'd them all to Subscribe with their Names, and to Commit the Care of Soliciting that Affair to Four or Five such Persons as they should think fit; Appointing first the 6th of April, and afterwards the 8th of May for a Hearing.

March the 31st the Committee at London farther Order, that no one who had hither-to, or should for the Future oppose or disown the Power of the Parliament to Visit the University, should have any Vote either in Convocation or Congregation. The Day after the Visitors having receiv'd Instructions to put in Execution the Orders of the Committee of March 30, before mentioned, they went (tho' it was then Easter-Eve) with a Guard of Musquetteers to Christ-Church, and by a Messenger accompany'd with one of the Soldiers, sent for Dr. Hammond to appear immediately before them in the Hall, and acknowledge himself depriv'd of his Canonry, and his Office of Publick Orator; the same they did by some others of the Canons; but none of the them appearing (Dr. Wall only Excepted, who after was on his Submission Restored to his Canonry) they contented themselves with Publishing a Citation, Commanding the Canons, Students, and all other Members of that House, to appear before them the Monday following in the Dean's Lodgings; but when the Day came, they found it would have been wisely done, if they had first of all been sure to get Admittance there themselves; for finding the doors Lock'd and Barr'd against them, they were obliged to send for a Party of the Garrison to Break them open; and Mrs. Fell being in the Parlour, they advise her peaceably to quit the Lodgings, and not provoke the Parliament, left her Husband should fare the worse for it. But the good Lady (who was withal a Woman of singular Courage and Vivacity) no way mov'd, either with their Threats or Promises, refused to stir one Foot: Whereupon they left a Guard there, who afterwards had well nigh Effected the Visitors Intention of Dispossessing her, with the Stink of their Filth and Tobacco. In the mean time, that which prov'd a greater Disappointment to them, was, that not a single Canon, or any other Scholar appeared there pursuant to the Citation, Two or Three of the Infamous Informers only excepted.

The next Minute after the arrival of the Carr and the Votes. Letter at the End of Pegasus, p. 7.

The same Day they Affix'd to the Lodgings of All Souls the Ejectment of Dr. Sheldon the Warden; and Published the Election of Mr. John Palmer in his Room, tho' being Bach. of Physick (and at that time a Member of Parliament) he was utterly uncapable by Statute, of that Preferment.

The Sub-Warden was Order'd to Execute this Sentence, but he utterly refused. Letter as the End of Pegasus. p. 8.

The Day after they went to the Lodgings of Dr. Newlin, (then President of C. C. C. and Pro-Vice-Chancellor) in hopes to have met with the Books, Seals, Keys, Beadles-Staffs, &c. and finding those Doors shut against them likewise, they Broke them open (as they had before the Dean's Lodgings at Christ-Church) but miss'd of their Booty. Which was the greater Disappointment, because the New Chancellor (some time before giving them Notice of his approach) had Order'd them by all means to secure these Deposita and Enfigns of Government. The same Day they sent to Dr. Saunders the Provost of Oriel, to know whether he Submitted to their Authority; who without returning them any Answer, forthwith left the University. The next Day by a Paper Affix'd to the Gate of the Schools, and other Publick Places, they Cited to appear before them on the Day following (in the Convocation-House,) Dr. Potter, Dr. Newlin, Pro-Vice-Chancellor, the Two Proctors, the Delegates appointed sometime before, to give in the Answer of the University to the Visitors, and in a Word, all, who claim'd any Right of Voting in the Convocation; and this with a particular View of Seizing by that means the Insignia of the University, which were so much wanted to Introduce and Receive the Chancellor, in such manner as th' Parliament had Directed. But they were Disappointed in this Contrivance likewise; for besides Dr. Paul Hood, Rector of Lincoln, and about Ten Masters, none appear'd who had any thing to do in Convocation. Notwithstanding they proceeded to Publish the Deprivations of the Vice Chancellor, the Pro-Vice-Chancellor and the Two Proctors; which being done, Mr. Smith, of Magdalen-College (who will be again mentioned by and by) stood up, and Demanded of them, 'by what Authority they Sate there,' and declared himself Surpriz'd to find 'that no one 'Protested against what was done.' However, the Visitors took no other Notice of him, than to Whisper one to another ——, 'He's Crack'd, 'he's a Mad-man.' And to say Truth, he was not much better, altho' there was something in what he told them himself sometime after upon another Occasion that 'He was no more 'Mad than themselves.' Sat Pegasus p. 4.

This continued Obstinacy of the University, made it altogether necessary for the chief Officer to hasten his Approach. In order to which, he now let out from his Seat of Rameshury, and the New Vice-Chancellor (after having prepared Matters in the best Manner that they could for his Reception) the New Proctors and Heads, some Country-Mimicters of their own Stamp, and some Lookers out (in all to the Number of about a Hundred) went as far as Abingdon to meet him. I shall account for the Procession which they made, in the Words of one of the Gentlemen of Oxford, who was at that time a Spectator; and the rather, because it will help to give the Reader a just Notion of that Contempt and Derision, wherewith the University constantly look'd upon these Reformers. 'Tuesday, Apr. the 11*th*, the Long-Legg'd piece of Impertinency (which 'they mil-call Chancellor) was to be brought 'with State into Oxon. To this End these few 'Inconsiderable and Ill-Fac'd Saints hired all the 'Hackneys in Town (which were barely bad, 'yet good enough for them.) Out they went, 'and met the Right-hon. Maglem. I told you of. 'What Courtship pass'd between them at meeting, how he Swore at them, and they said 'Grace at him, how many Zealous Faces and 'Ill-Legs they made, and at what Distance, I 'know not: A Long time they were about 'it. At last they came, and the Governor 'and

Wood, Ant. Lib. 1. p. 397.

Ibid. p. 399.

Together with Nine Fellows of the Peace, being then the Quarter-Sessions. Wood, Ant. Lib. 1. p. 399.

Pegasus, or the Flying-Horse from Oxford. p. 1, 2, 3. Wrote by Mr. Thomas Barlow. See Wood Ant. Lib. 1. p. 406.

Digitized by Google

' and his Regiment meets them at Fryer-Bacon's
' Study, where you might have seen the Presbyte-
' rian and Independent agreed againſt the poor
' Chriſtians of Oxon. In the mean Time Tho.
' Smith, of Magdalen-College, had an excellent
' Deſign; he would Ride in with them too; and ' that he might have ſuitable Accommodation,
' would needs borrow an Aſs; nay, an Aſs he ' would have, and Ride in next before the ' Chancellor: and when they told him it was a
' mad Trick, he told them no; for he knew there ' would be many Aſſes beſides his. Now they ' came! They came! And indeed it was ſuch
' a miſerable Pageant as I never ſaw. Had you
' ſeen tall Pembroke in the midſt of thoſe little
' inſpir'd Levites, you would have Sworn you
' had ſeen Saul once more among the Prophets.
' Along they came without any Reſpect from ' thoſe in the Streets (which were not many;)
' not a Cap or Knee from them, but Frowns and ' Curſes; and (was a Wonder (but that the Sol' diers Guarded them) if they had not welcomed
' them with old Eggs and Apples. Aaron Rogers,
' Langley and Squint-ey'd Greenwood were the ' chief Men (what the worſt were, when theſe
' were the beſt, you may Judge) and with ' them about Ten or Twelve Scholars more,
' freſh Men and all, only they were interlarded
' with ſome Country Parſons, who brought their ' Sons for Fellowſhips, and ſo worſhip'd the
' Beaſt for their Profit.'

Which in part we did, and came in with the Cavalcade. See Wood, Ant. Lib. I. p. 399.

Wood Faſti, in loco d. 14 Julii & Annal. Ant. Lib. I. p. 400.

With Drums Beating, and Colours Fly-ing. Wood, Ant. Lib. I. p. 393.

As the Earl paſs'd by Chriſt-Church, ſome of the Scholars who could not get Horſes, mad how before the Gate, and ſix of them entertained him with an Engliſh Speech, which was forced to have one good Quality of being very ſhort; becauſe the Chancellor was thrown Horſback, and is Baith in his ſame. See it, Wood, Ant. Lib. I. p. 400. Another Piece of Eloquence ſomewhat ſhorter, was alſo deſigned him, if the aforeſaid Rain had not pre-vented; wherein the Orator would have told him among other Things, ' That he ' might ſee how the Scholars already ſtung up their Caps; and were it not for ' that they kept both the one and the other in Awe before his Lordſhip, they ' would even fling off their Heads and their Hearts for Joy'. Ibid.

' All that ſaw theſe Dragooners in Divinity, upon
' theſe Miſerable Hacknies, with ſuitable Looks
' and Geſtures, imagin'd that ſome ill-fac'd
' Mayor of ſome Beggarly Town had been ' brought in by the Mechanical Clowns of the ' Place. They were now almoſt at Merton-
' College Gate, when Mr. Cheynell begins an † Oration in Engliſh (they cannot Speak Latin by the Spirit) delivers him in the Name of the Univerſity (a Lying Levite, whom the Univerſity ſent not) 1 ſt, a Key of the Conve- cation; 2 dly, a Seal; (a Counterfeit one, for the true ones are ſafe enough) 3 dly, a Bible; and when he came to that, he was inſpir'd, and ſpoke faſt, and much of it: And you may eaſily believe that he would not quickly have done with the Bible, who will hold out Three Hours on one poor Text. He ſadly complain'd to his Lordſhip of all Sorts of People, eſpecially of the Beadles, for neglecting their Duty; that they came not and bow'd their Knee to ' Baal, nor Worſhipp'd the Calf which they ' had ſet up.'

Attended with the Dregs of the Rabble. Ibid. 4

† See the Speech at large. Wood Ant. Lib. I. p. 400.

An Engliſh Bible then cauſe, as he told them in his Speech, the Presbyterians had Tranſlated the Bible into Engliſh without Liturgy or Apocrypha (into which were all, no doubt, Perſpicuity). See Letter at the End of Pegaſus, p. 8, and that Part of the Speech in Wood, ubi ſupra.

2. Tell Ye, or of the Engliſh Bible then, after Ye the Earl, exerpaid in a Preface to the Publick Library, of ſon Great Book Cromwell ately Publiſhed in France, which was on your Side, ſuch a noble and unparalleled Benefaction, as (without all the others that had been ever made to it) not excepting that of Sir Thomas Bodley himſelf, who had been hitherto called the Founder, and whoſe Immortal Name ſhall Whereupon, and commanded therefore to adminiſtrate. Mr. Corbet, an then Chaplain of the King's, ' now Conſidering the whole Buſineſs from Beſſborne in Pembrokeſhire; ' but by the ſame Figure Earth my Author, that Bucer the Monk Peter had called the Earl himſelf in his Sermon, ' Hucuſque ſimilem quit Academiam unquam
' Invexerunt.' Letter at the End of Pegaſus, p. 10

Some of them, and that not many were Fain with Fear, allude to the Gilt Statues of the Supreme Beadles, and the Plain Silver ones of the Bed-Maces, which have the Majeſty of them, kept them as a Support to their tottering Gait.

' Guilt; (witty Mr. Coxynell.) Well, think what ' you will, I am ſure that was intended for a Jeſt.
' Dixit. Mr. Cheynell hath done. My Lord
' Bows his Body; but wiſely ſays Nothing. Then
' down comes my Lord, goes into the College
' at the Entrance; their deſign'd Proctor, Burton,
' makes a Latin Speech to his Lordſhip, which
' he underſtood, as much as his Horſe, Mr. Cley-
' nell's Engliſh one. This done, my Lord is for ' the Chamber; and thoſe Levites who on Hack-
' nies, mann'd him down the Street, Ride back
' again through the High-Street, where they ' were Hiſs'd and Hooted at.'

Wood, Ant. Lib. I. p. 401.

The next Morning, the Earl, attended with his double Guard of Dragoons (the Viſitors, and a ſtout Party of the Soldiers of the Garriſon,) went firſt to the Lodgings at Chriſt-Church; where, after having in vain adviſ'd Mrs. Fell peaceably to quit them, (and for her Refuſal, given her ſome ill Language) the Soldiers took her up in the Chair as ſhe ſate, and carried her out into the Quadrangle; as they did likewiſe the reſt of the Gentlewomen, and Children of the Family, in all, to the Number of about Four-teen Perſons. From thence they went to the Hall; and having gotten the Buttery Book, they ſtrike out Dr. Fell's Name, and inſert in the Room of it, that of Mr Reynolds. The like they did by Dr. Hammond (then Sub-Dean, and Publick Orator), Dr. Gardiner, Dr. Rayne, Dr. Wall, Dr. Iles, and Dr. Morley; placing in their Stead, Mr. Corbet (whom they alſo made Orator) Mr. Rogers, Mr. Mills, Judg-Advocate in the Rebel Army.) Mr. Cornyſh, Hen. Wilkinſon, ſen. and Mr. Langley, whilſt Dr. Sanderſon was as yet ſpar'd, b cauſe he was out of Town when the laſt Summons had been iſſued.

See Letter at the End of Pegaſus, p. 9.

Breaking open the Doors of it, ſaith the Letter at the End of Pegaſus, p. 9.

But as yet they were not turned out of their Lodgings. See Letter at the End of Pegaſus, p. 12.

That day they alſo held their firſt Convocation, of which the Gentleman before-mention'd, gives an Account in theſe Words: ' Afternoon a ' Convocation is call'd, by a Fellow they call
' Beadle: He came into our College with ' his Hands in his Pockets, (Staff he had none;) in ' the middle of the Quadrangle, pulls out a Paper,
' puts on his Spectacles, and read the Form in ' Latin, tho' 'tis certain he underſtood no good
' Engliſh; (Langley was the Man, a Taylor) and ' inſtead of per fidem, per fidem, per fidem, called it
' provided, provided, provided. Afternoon they
' advanc'd towards the Schools: There march'd
' before his Lordſhip Four Fellows in Gowns,
' ill-fac'd, Heads Bare, Hands in their Pockets:
' Theſe went for Beedles. After theſe my Lord
' and the Rabble. To the Convocation they ' came, where there appear'd not above Thirteen
' or Fourteen who had Votes; yet the Houſe was ' full of People, Batchelors, Freſh Men, Townſ-
' men, Serving-Men, all came in, and Sate, where ' once Gallant Men did.'

Pegaſus, p. 5.

Maſters of Pembroke-College, New-inn-Hall, and Magda-len-Hall. Wood, Ant. Lib. I. p. 401.

The Buſineſs they did, was to Publiſh, and put in Execution the Orders of Parliament for mak-ing Mr. Reynolds (their new Dean of Chriſt-Church) Vice-Chancellor (and which no King or Emperor had ever undertaken) Doctor of Divinity, and Mr. Croſs and Mr. Burton, Proctors of the Univerſity; as likewiſe to Claw and Curry one another with the beſt Degrees and Titles of Learning, which they had an Oppor-tunity of doing at a cheap and eaſie Rate; for it was very obſervable, that no one Dr. of Divinity (old John Wilkinſon only excepted) nor any one Dr. in either of the other Faculties (except Sir Nathaniel Brent) out of this whole Univerſity was as yet among them: Nor could the Autho-rity of the Chancellor now he appear'd in Per-ſon, bring in any more of the Doctors or Heads of Houſes, than Dr. Zouch of Alban-Hall, Dr. Herbert Pelham (both Doctors of Law) Dr.

Who took an Oath to ob-ſerve the Statutes, &c. of the Univerſity. Subjects to the Authority of Parl. Wood. Ant. Lib. I. p. 402.

See Pegaſus, p. 5. Letter at the End of Pegaſus, p. 11. Wood, Ant. Lib. I. p. 401.

Digitized by Google

Paul Hood, the Rector of Lincoln-College, and afterwards Dr. Wall of Christ-Church, Doctors in Divinity. So that to the perpetual Shame of thofe Invaders (and the no leis Honour of the then Members of the Univerfity) they were not only forc'd to create a Man Dr. of Divinity, on Purpofe that they might have one of that Degree to undergo the Office of Vice-Chancellor; but were neceffitated likewife to beftow that, and other Degrees on the reft of their Creatures (as thofe Creations more efpecially, made them, even in a literal Senfe) as well to enable them to bear the Poft allotted them with the better Grace, as to do what Honour they could to themfelves; fince they faw every other Body contemn'd and defpis'd them. Accordingly, in this Convocation (befides their new Vice-Chancellor) Mr. ‡ Harris and Mr. Corbet, Two of the Vifitors, were created Doctors in Divinity, Mr. Palmer, their intended Warden of All Souls, Dr. of Phyfick, and Mr. Langley, Mr. Cornifh, Mr. Cheynell, and Mr. J. Wilkins (the Two former together with Mr. Corbet and Mr. Rogers, that Morning made Canons of Chriſt Church; and the Two laft defign'd the next Day for the Headſhips of St. John's and Wadham-Colleges,) * Batchelors of Divinity; for as yet they were but Maſters of Arts: And to finiſh the Infamy of their Proceedings, great Part of them were Tranſacted and Regiſter'd in Engliſh; and an Order was made, that for the future the Acts of Convocation ſhould be always publiſh'd in that Language.

Wood, Ant. Lib. 1. p. 402. Pegaſus, p. 3.

‡ As was Rogers alſo (creature of the Viſitors) 2 or 3 days after. Wood Ant. Lib. 1. p. 444. On what other Perſons they beſtowed their Bounty in Hertford, when they had the Univerſity in their Hands, I ſhall leave another Occaſion of ſaying by and by.

* And after Mr Cheynell, Mr. Wilkins, and Mr. Langley, D. D. (See Wood, Ath. Vol. II. p. 770) and ſtyled the ſame to Mr. Cornish, but to refuſed it. Ibid. p. 772.

The next Morning, (which was April 13.) the Earl, the Viſitors, and the Guard of Muſqueteers (without the latter of which it would have been in Vain at leaſt, if not Dangerous, to have attempted any Thing) went to Magdalen-College; and tho' all the Fellows, &c. had been cited, but one † ſingle Perſon appear'd; ſave that Thomas Smith, before-mention'd (whom they after ſent to Bridewell) came into the Hall, and ask'd the Earl ' what he had to do there.'

Wood, Ant. Lib. 1. p. 402, 403, 404, 405.

† As neither did any of the Fellows of All Souls, Wadham, or Brazen-Noſe, on the like Summons the ſame Day. See Pegaſus p. 4, 5.

Dr. Oliver, the very worthy Preſident, was then Abroad on his Progreſs; but that matter'd not: For having gotten the Buttery-Book, they ſtruck his Name out of it, inſerted that of old John Wilkinſon (one of the Viſitors, and Principal of the adjoyning Hall) in the Place of it, break open the Lodgings, give Dr. Wilkinſon the full Poſſeſſion of them, and order Dr. Oliver's Moveables into the ſafe Cuſtody of thoſe good Keepers, the Soldiers which attended; becauſe the doors had not been ſet wide open when they came to plunder away his Headſhip.

How ſtarſh the Letter at the End of Pegaſus, p. 9.) ' Commands the whole Society to be ' Starved; &c.
' commands no more
' Commons
' to be dreſſed.
' For his own Family; who muſt be brought up now like Scholaſticus's Hoſts, to live ' without Eating' He had ſo from, forbid the Cook to dreſs any Supper; but the Fellow replied to obey him, and ' ſome very honeſt Men (ſaith Pegaſus, p. 44) eat ' the Meat in their own Diſhes.' Tell Day after the Viſitors ordered, that not one of this College ſhould preſume to meddle with the Proviſions of their Places till they made their Feaſt with them. Wood, Ant. Lib. 1. p. 404.

The ſame day, and in the ſame way of Violence, they Ejected Dr. Sheldon from All Souls, Dr. Pitt from Wadham, Dr. Potter from Trinity, * Dr. Bayly from St. John's, and Dr. Radcliffe from Brazen-Noſe; Subſtituting with the like Methods of Violence, in the firſt of thoſe Colleges, their new † Dr. Palmer, juſt now mention'd; in the ſecond, Mr. John Wilkinſon; in Trinity-College, Mr. (but their D.) Harris, and in St. John's and Brazen-Noſe, Mr. Cheynell, and Mr. Greenwood.

See the Particulars of thoſe Doctors on the Left.

† Whom (ſaith the Letter at the End of Pegaſus, p. 7.) The Committee had ' long before ' decreed he ſhould be guilty of ' Contempt: Whereupon he not throwing himſelf into that Crime which they ' decreed he ſhould be guilty of, was an Adherer to the Votes, a Denial of their
' Prophetick Faculty, and ſure, a Contempt of their Authority, who had to
' a abſolutely decreed more Laſſem, that he ſhould contemn and deſpiſe for it.

This was ſurely a good day's Work: But alas! ſuch was the Obſtinacy of the Univerſity, that they found they had but too much Reaſon to think they ſhould be forc'd to do over again all that they had been doing this and the preceding day: For tho' they were ſo diligent as to Work by Candle-light (it being Night when they came to Braſen-Noſe) yet they needed to have left off this Evening, where they began the Morning of the day before; ſome of the Students of Chriſt-Church having taken the Buttery-Book, and boldly cut out of it all the Names which the Chancellor and Viſitors had with ſo much trouble and difficulty inſerted, as ſoon almoſt as they had turn'd their Backs: Inſomuch that they were forc'd to take the other Walk to Chriſt-Church the next Morning; and in the ſame manner as they had done before, write in again the Names of their new Dean and Canons; and whilſt this was doing, one of the Commoners of the Houſe going into the College, found a Guard at the great Gate; and being refus'd Entrance, the Gentleman ask'd them if their Maſters were ' aſhamed to let People ſee what they were ' doing within?' Whereupon he was forthwith taken up, and ſent to Priſon.

And thus the Earl having fully executed his Commiſſion, ' is diſmiſs'd from his Office of Petty-' Conſtable, under Juſtice Cheynell,' and lets out for London, where he is thank'd (April 21.) by the Houſe of Commons, for his good Services, in ' Settling the Univerſity of Oxford.' At the ſame time the Houſe of Commons being probably inform'd by the Earl, Mr. * Cheynell, and Mr. Wilkinſon, ſen. (Two of the Viſitors who were likewiſe got to London) that the Univerſity utterly refus'd to ſubmit to the Viſitation, were forc'd to alter their whole Project; and inſtead of the Covenant, Directory, and Negative Oath (the Engines whereby at firſt they Thought to have ruin'd them, and out of the Reach of which the Scholars kept themſelves, either by not Appearing, or ſtatly diſclaiming the Power of the Viſitation) were forc'd to ply upon them thoſe of Non-Appearance, and Contempt of the Parliament: And therefore as the laſt and final Reſult, they now reſolv'd ' That the Viſitors ſhould cite all the Offi-' cers, Fellows of Houſes, &c. of this Univerſity; ' and that ſuch as refuſed to appear, or (on their ' Appearances) to ſubmit to the Viſitors, ſhould by ' them be ſuſpended from their Places, and return'd ' to the Committee; ' who were Authoriz'd to Effect ' them from their Fellowſhips, and Expel them ' from the Univerſity; ' and that the Heads (on the ' Signification of ſuch Sentence to them by the ' Committee) ſhould in Conjunction with the Vi-' ſitors firſt proceed to put others in their Places.' They likewiſe reſolved at the ſame time, ' That the ' Burſars ſhould make no Diviſdends till they had ' Orders from the Committee; ' that the Tenants ' ſhould pay their Rents to the Heads appointed by ' the Authority of Parliament, and that theſe Votes ' be printed.'

Letter at the End of Pegaſus, p. 11.

Whitl. Mem. p. 402. Wood, Ant. Lib. 1. p. 405.

* Who likewiſe got the Committee to Raiſe what had been lately done by the Chancellor, &c. beſides his Commiſſion.

April 15. A Progamma was affix'd to the Gates of the ſeveral Colleges, forbidding the Uſe of the Common-Prayer, and enjoyning that of the Directory. Soon after they order'd the ſeveral Burſars to carry in their Books, Rentals, &c. to the

Wood, Ant. Lib. 1. p. 402.

Which Gentleman afterwards, when the Univerſity was reſtored, was Knighted, and made Maſter of the Rolls.

Digitized by Google

the new Heads which had been thrust on the Colleges, with the methods of Violence juſt now mention'd: But I do not find any of them obey'd that Order; and therefore a more general one was iſſued to all the Burſars to bring in their Books, &c. to the Viſitors, April 28, in the Forenoon; but not a ſingle Perſon among them all Appearing, they diſpatch'd a Sort of an Apparator of their own, accompany'd with a Soldier, as a Meſſenger (for the new Beadles utterly refus'd to undertake it, unleſs they might have a Guard) in Queſt of them; but none of them were to be found, ſave that in the mean time one of the Burſars of St. John's College, and one of Brazen-Noſe appear'd, and pleaded, that the Rentals, &c. were not in their Cuſtody. And in the Afternoon came alſo Mr. Anth. Cleiual, and Mr. John Harris, Burſars of Magdalen-College (whom they had gotten ſerv'd with a Vn & Modii) together with both the Burſars of St. John's and the ſenior Dean; but ſtill without their Accompts, Rentals, Keys, &c. and deſir'd farther time to conſider of that Order, which was granted them until May 3. The reſt of which Munio they wiſely ſpent in preventing May-Poles, and pulling down the Green-Boughs which the Children or Others had gathered to ſet up over their Doors. But they ſoon after employ'd another Day to more Purpoſe; which was, forbidding the Bookſellers to Print or Sell ſuch Pamphlets as had hitherto accounted for their Proceedings, of which they might very well be aſham'd. Among thoſe, there were publiſh'd about that Time Mercurius Academicus, ſaid to be wrote by Dr. Swadlin of St. John's; Pegaſus, or the Flying-Horſe from Oxon, by Mr. Tho. Barlow; Pegaſus taught to Dance to the Tune of Lachryma, ſaid to be done by Mr. (after Dr.) Tho. Pierce of Magdalen; News from Pembroke and Montgomery, or Oxford Manchester'd, &c. Reported to be Mr. John Birkinhead's of All Souls. The Owle at Athens (in Latin, Degrel Verſe) The Oxford Tragy-comedy (in Heroick Latin Verſe) by Ad. Littleton of Chriſt-Church. Halifax Law at Oxon; Lord have Mercy upon us; Luna eſtiva ſolſtitialis & Ruſtica Academia Oxon; nuper Viſitat. deſcriptio (in Degrel Latin Verſe alſo) by Dr. John Aillmond formerly of Magdalen-College; of which, beſides thoſe mention'd in the Margin. I have as yet ſeen only Pegaſus and the Ruſtica Deſcriptio.

Wood, Hiſt. p. 466, 467.

What became of the Burſars on the Third of this Month, I do not find; but the Viſitors (who could not yet without ſome conſideration, look on themſelves as really thoſe Officers and Heads, which the Uſurp'd Authority of the Parliament had made them) ſo much forgot themſelves in the Order for their Appearance, that they appointed them, and Mr. Gaby, the Senior Dean of St. John's, to come to the Vice-Chancellor's Lodgings at Merton; of which College Reynolds was indeed Fellow, and where they were ſitting at the time when that Order was made. This Blunder the laſt mention'd Perſon took hold of; and at the Day appointed, came to Merton, and Enquir'd for the 'Vice-Chancellor's Lodgings;' but no ſuch Lodgings being to be found (Reynolds having long before removed from that College, to the Dean's Lodgings, at Chriſt-Church, in the manner as already Remember'd) he went away again, and took no farther notice of their Order.

As alſo Ox Lachrymæ. A Letter at the End of Pegaſus—and a Letter from a Scholar in Oxon, to his Friend in the Country, not mention-ted in this place by Wood.

Having now gone through with the publick Officers of the Univerſity, Condemn'd the whole Body in their Repreſentatives, plac'd in their New Vice-Chancellor and Proctors. Ejected ſeveral of the more Eminent Heads of Houſes, and gotten Poſſeſſion of their reſpective Colledges, in the manner before related, they began, purſuant to the laſt mention'd Orders of the Houſe, to be more particular; and to Cite the Inferiour Members of the ſeveral Colleges before them; not only the Fellows and Scholars of Houſes, but the Gentlemen-Commoners, Commoners, Servitors, and even the meaneſt of the College Servants, Butchers, Cooks, and Porters. It would be Endleſs to Recite the Particulars of their Proceedings of that kind. Let it ſuffice in general, that at leaſt 180 (and perhaps more) had either withdrawn themſelves, or refuſed to appear; and that about 676 of the ſeveral Colleges, &c. (excluſive of Pembroke-College, Magdalen and New-Inn-Halls, whither great Numbers of Cambridge Men had Reſorted, who were in expectation of the Vacant Fellowſhips) appear'd; out of which, no leſs than 548, either flatly Diſown'd, or refuſed to own (in ſuch a manner as was expected) the Authority of the Viſitation. Theſe came at different Times, and in various Numbers, from May 2, 1648, to the 14*th* of July following, (whether they had by that time Summon'd all the Members of every College, I do not know;) and gave no ſmall Trouble to the Viſitors, at their ſeveral Appearances, as may be well imagined: For of 31 of Magdalen-College, that appeared at one Time, not a ſingle Perſon of them all acknowledged the Viſitation; of 54, of Chriſt-Church that came at another Time, the odd Four only (which was not a Tenth Part of them) ſubmitted. At All Souls, if I rightly Underſtand, but one of all the Fellows own'd their Authority; of St. John's, but 3, out of 35; of New-College, but 1, out of 52; of C. C. C. but one among 25; and but one out of 18, at Brazen-Noſe; but 4, out of 41, at Queen's; but 2, out of 13, at Wadham; at Jeſus, not one of 17; and but one out of 16, at Baliol; and he was the worthy Cook. But it muſt be known, that tho' ſo many refuſed to own the Viſitors Authority at their firſt Appearances, ſome of 'em afterwards (tho' comparatively few) made their Submiſſion, and by conſequence their Peace.

Many of which they after Ejected alſo.

Including ſeveral College-Servants &c.

Which added to the 180, who refuſed to appear, &c. and about 15 Heads of Houſes, and Canons of Chriſt-Church, not Included, make in all, 743. who Diſclaim'd the Authority of the Parliament; and by conſequence, that 548. out of 656. Submitted to it.

It muſt be alſo known, that thoſe who refus'd to acknowledge the Power of the Parliament, to Viſit them; did not all deliver their Anſwers in the ſame Form. Some of them indeed, flatly deny'd the Viſitors Authority, others ſubmitted to the King and Parliament (joyntly;) a Third Sort deſir'd farther time to put in their Anſwers; other ſome 'referr'd themſelves to the Anſwer given in 'by the Delegates of the Univerſity long before.' And there were ſome, who pleaded, that they could not Submit to the Viſitors; becauſe being Clergymen, they were expreſly Diſabled, by a Statute of this very Parliament, from Acting in that, or any other Secular Commiſſion. Beſides which, ſome other Excuſes were Alledged for Non-Submiſſion. It was plain enough from each of theſe Anſwers, that thoſe who gave them, would not own the Authority of thoſe Invaders. However, the manner in which they Deliver'd them, put the Reformers under freſh Difficulties; and therefore Henry Wilkinſon, ſenior, is diſpatch'd to the Committee above, to have their Opinion, whether the Four laſt Anſwers (as well as the firſt) did not Render thoſe, who made them, Guilty of Non Submiſſion; which the Committee ſoon determin'd in the Affirmative, and at the ſame time Order all of them (who were about 334) to be both depriv'd of their Fellowſhips, and Expell'd the Univerſity; which Sentence was afterwards Executed upon almoſt every ſingle Perſon. Not long after, Injunctions were diſpatched to the Viſitors, to Eject from their Places, and Expel from the Univerſity, all who refuſed Submiſſion; and a Power was likewiſe given, to call the Soldiers of the Garriſon to their Aſſiſtance, if need ſhould require. However the Execution of that Sentence was deſer'd for ſome time; nor were they at laſt all turn'd out together, but in ſeveral Parcels, and by Piece-meals. Whether the Viſitors might think the Ejecting ſo many at once, would create more Odium, than they need to bring upon themſelves; or whether they did not readily know how to ſupply their Places,

As they did after on many Occaſions. See alſo Wood Ant. Lib. 1. p. 412.

Wood, Ant. Lib. 1. from p. 466. to p. 412.

But after it ſeem they Viſitors Expelled no leſs than 150. of 200 Townſ.

or

Digitized by Google

or whether they were willing to Try, if some of 'em might not in the mean time be brought to Submit, or for what other Reasons, I cannot Determine.

I must not omit, on this Occasion (as a farther Instance of that Contempt, wherewith the University always look'd upon these Plunderers) to take notice of some particular Answers, given in at these Appearances. Mr. * F. Pistwich of All Souls, return'd his Answer in the Words of Job (Chap. 27. V. 3, 4, 5.) All the while my Breath, &c. God forbid, that I should justifie you; till I die, I will not remove my Integrity from me. Mr. Whitehall of Christ-Church told them, ' His Name ' (Whitehall) shew'd, that none but the King had ' any thing to do with him.' Mr. Carrick, another of the Students of that House, Answered them (in Allusion to their own formal Cant) in this manner, ' I profess unto you, I will not Submit; yea, ' I say unto you, I will not Submit.' A Young Gentleman of Trinity-College told them, ' He ' would Submit to them, provided they would ' Submit to the King;' for which they Forthwith Enquired out, and Expell'd Mr. Lydall, his Tutor: And Mr. † Hughes of Jesus, boldly told them, ' That ' he Scorn'd to Submit, tho' it should Cost him his ' Life; neither could he as a Member of the Uni- ' versity, or of the College, own the present Parliament, or the pretended Power they derived from them.' Mr. Pitt, a Commoner, of Queen's, deliver'd in this Answer in Writing, Subscribed with his own Name; ' In return to the Citation of those, who ' Falsely call themselves Visitors of this Univer- ' sity, I Answer, that I neither will, nor can, ' without Injury to my King, and Conscience, ' Submit to this Visitation; or own those for Visitors, whom his Majesty has so justly declared ' to be Enemies.'

Pursuant to the Orders of the House of Commons, before mentioned, those who thus Declin'd to appear, or when they appeared, refused to Submit to the Visitation, were by the Visitors Return'd to the Committee, who forthwith Voted their Expulsion, and delivered them back again to the Visitors, to Execute that Sentence upon them, which was afterwards faithfully Perform'd; but, as is before Hinted, in such Parcels, and at such convenient Distances of time, as they saw fitting. How many of the Members of this University were utterly Expelled in this manner; and of those again, how many were on the several Foundations, and either Fellows or Scholars of Houses, will be laid in another Place: But it will be requisite here to take notice in general, that besides the Vice-Chancellor and Proctors, they Dismissed about Ten of the Professors and publick Lecturers, and spared no single Head of any College in the whole University, those of Lincoln and Queen's Colleges, only excepted; the former of which comply'd at least, with, if he did not Submit to their Power; that it appears from Wood, the Committee had by the Middle of 1648, Voted out: at one time (as is already said) 334, at another 46, at a third Time, 180, (who were all either Absent, or had refus'd to appear) and at a fourth Time 22 more; besides about 15 Heads of Houses, and Canons of Christ Church, already mention'd; which in all make near 600: And possibly (since these who at first disown'd the Visitation, were, as is before said, 1,148 743) the Committee had then, or did * after Vote out more than † Wood has taken express Notice of; which will be thought the more Probable, from what must be farther said, that the Visitors, as appears by their own Register, Executed the Sentence of Ejectment on no less then † 577; and by other Notices, I find it reasonable to believe, that they Ejected near 650, if not many more: So that, as the Writer of Dr. Allestry's Life, observes, ' Within the Compass of ' a few Weeks, an almost general Riddance was ' made of the Loyal University of Oxford.' And again, ' Those of the Ancient Stock, who ' were Spared upon this Tryal, were afterwards ' cast off upon the second Test of the Engage- ' ment; till in the End, there were left very few ' Legitimate Members in any of the Coll ges.' To which must be added, that of Wood; who (speaking of the Year 1648, faith,' This Year the ' generality of the Heads of Houses, Professors and ' Lecturers, Doctors and Batchelors of Divinity, ' Masters and Batchelors of Arts, Under-Graduates, ' Beadles, College Servants, and sometimes Bed- ' makers and Scrapers of Trenchers, to the Num- ' ber of several Hundreds, were thrown out of ' their respective Places, and soon after Banished ' the University, by the Visitors, for not Sub- ' mitting to their Power from Parliament, and ' Acknowledging their Covenant.' And so general was the Riddance, that at C. C. C. of 46 Members (including Chaplains &c.) they left but 4 or 5; and at University-College, but One single Person, of the whole Foundation. It must be also known that many of those thus Ejected, were by special and particular Orders, and all of them at length, by several general Ones, Expell'd the University, as well as turned out of their respective Colleges. And Lastly, it must be noted, that as the Opposition which they met with from the University, had obliged them to alter their Scheme, and Proceed against the Members of it for Contumacy (instead of the Covenant, Negative Oath, &c.) to * almost all these were accordingly, if I mistake not, turned out for that supposed Crime; altho' I have now before me the Copy of a * Paper, return'd by the Delegates for New College; wherein they not only Marked down, at the several Names respectively, Absence and Non Submission, but also these Words, Scandalum, Dangerous, and to One in Arms, a Plunderer, a Swearer, and a Contention Person: And probably, the like was done for other Colleges.

* Whereof are likewise some other things, relating to the Visitation; and whether that Part of it, that what the Delegates had returned, before the Scholars were fain'd to be so Unanimous and Obstinate, in denying the Power of the Parliament to Visit at all (for it turn'd on that) I cannot tell.

Concurrent with these Citations and Expulsions, were some other Proceedings of the Committee and Visitors, which must be Accounted for; as must likewise several of their Orders, which were Subsequent to them, and altogether necessary to render them Effectual; for tho' their Proceedings with the publick Officers of the University, and the Principal Heads of Houses, and their Possessing themselves of the publick Offices, and the chief Rooms of the Colleges, might well be thought to have Discouraged the Inferior Members, from making any farther Opposition; yet the Event shew'd the Contrary; and the Fellows and Scholars of Houses continu'd (tho' under the Loss, yet) after the Example of their principal Officers, to make a resolute Defence, and obstinately refus'd to be blown away with a Vote, as were the Vice-Chancellor, and the other Heads of Houses before had done.

May 5, therefore, the Soldiers of the Garrison were alln Order'd to Search the Colleges for Arms; who Breaking open all the Doors, Chests, Trunks, &c. Seiz'd not only such Arms, as they found, but the Gentlemens wearing Swords, Bows and Arrows, and even their Knives, if they were a little longer than Ordinary. The same Day they Order'd Two of Magdalen-College, and some

* As I take it Wood only saith J. F.

Too be afterwards Submitted, and even took a Fellowship under them.

Wood. ubi Lib. 3. p. 497.

† He was taken into Custody, Ejected the College, and Expell'd the University. Ibid. p. 498.

Except some who by an after Submission, on either presented the Return of their Names, or the Vote of their Expulsion by the Committee, or the actual Execution of that Vote, by the Visitors.

See the Computation at the End of the Life of this University.

But quere also the Proportion of Oriel.

Ant. ubi supra.

* Particularly Laws, I took them stating June 22, 1648, and then Expelling some of them.

† Wood. ubi supra.

‡ Some being, as is soon said, turned out on the Score of the Engagement, after that Independent Tryal was set on Foot. Life of Dr. Allestry.

some Days after Mr. Chibnal, the Bursar of that College, into Custody, for Stoutly giving in an Answer of the kind already Noted, Namely, that he could not Submit to them as Visitors; because the Parliament had made a Law, that no Clergyman (of which Profession most of the Visitors that Acted, were) should intermeddle in Secular Affairs; and that moreover he could not Submit to Dr. Wilkinson, as President of the College, because he had neither been Elected, nor Sworn, according to Statute; and that for the same Reason, he could not carry in his Books and Accompts to him.

Ibid. p 409. May 22. the Committee Ejected Dr. Mansell, the Principal of Jesus-College: And the 26th of that Month, the Visitors made the whole University Prisoners at large; Ordering 'that no 'Member of it, upon Pain of Expulsion, should 'presume to depart without leave from Henry 'Wilkinson, the Pro-Vice-Chancellor,' which was, doubtless, Preparatory to the following Order of the same time; viz. 'that all the Members of 'the University (under the same Penalty) should 'within Seven days, deliver in a direct and po-'sitive Answer in Writing, Sign'd with their 'Names, whether they Submitted to the Authority 'of Parliament in that Visitation, or not.' At the same time they Order'd the Expulsion of the very worthy Mr. Henry Tozer, Sub-Rector of Exeter-College, and of several other Fellows of Colleges; and committed the Care of Executing the Sentence on Mr. Tozer, and two others, to the Soldiers of the Garrison.

The Day following pass'd an Order of both Houses of Parliament, setting forth, 'That forasmuch as many Doctors, and other Members
Ibid. p 410. 'of the University (notwithstanding the Examples, that had been made of some of them) did still perssist in their Contempt of the Authority of 'Parliament, which might be of dangerous Con-'sequence: Therefore the Committee for Refor-'ming the University, should have power to send 'for them, under the Custody of a Guard, and 'commit them to Prison:' Adding withal, a Clause empowering the Visitors, 'to pull down all Ima-'ges, &c. which were the Occasions of Superstition 'in the University.' The same Day the Visitors order'd a Paper, importing the Ejectment of Dr. Newlin from the Presidentship of C. C. C. to be affix'd to the Gate of that College: But it was immediately Torn down, with the utmost Contempt and Scorn. That Day also appear'd Dr. Saunders, the Provost of Orsel, and utterly refused to own the Authority of the Visitation.

The 29th, being the Prince's Birth Day, some Clerks and Choristers of New-College, and some of Trinity-College, made Bonfires: For which Mr. Bowman and Mr. Price, Two Fellows of the Former of these Colleges, were after Taken up by the Soldiers, and carry'd on the Guard. Some few Days after, Dr. Payne, Canon and Treasurer of Christ-Church, was taken into Custody of a Messenger. At the same time, Dr. Iles, another of the Canons, being sick, they charitably order him the Attendance of Two others of their own Messengers, only requiring him to pay them 6 s. and 8 d. per diem each, for their Labour. And some Days after, Dr. Edwards and Mr. Gisby, the Two Bursars (if I mistake not) of St. John's, were taken into Custody, and oblig'd to maintain Two Soldiers, for keeping them safe. A Guard was also set upon their Chambers, and the Doors Seal'd up. In this Durance they were continu'd (as I conjecture right) about Three Weeks; and then being sent for by the Visitors (who demanded of them the Keys, Books, Accompts, &c. belonging to their Office) Mr. Gisby, with unanswerable Reason, alledg'd, That tho' the New President (who was some time before thrust on the College) had been never so lawfully chosen, and admitted; yet it was known to every one, That the Bursar was not oblig'd to give in his Accompts, till the Year was Expir'd. But Dr. Edwards highly expostulated with them, about their Usage of himself, and Fellow-Prisoner, as having been imprison'd, without being charg'd with any Crime; and that too, when such Bail was offer'd, as no Law in England could refuse. But, said he, Some of the most sufficient Citizens of Oxford, p. 410. 'I must confess, it is the more tolerable, since your 'Faction have treated the best, and most worthy 'Gentlemen in the Kingdom in the same bar-'barous and inhumane manner.' The Visitors also order'd, 'That whosoever should not plainly, 'and without Reserve, submit himself to the Vi-'sitation, should be deemed as flatly denying the 'Authority of it, and treated accordingly'; i. e. 'Taken into Custody, and sent Prisoner to Lon-'don,' according to the late Order of both Houses; and that 'whoever laid claim to any 'Place in the University, should within 15 days 'appear, and Submit to the Authority of the 'Visitors.' And about a Week after, namely, June 14, the Committee at London Voted the incomparable Dr. R. Saunderson out of his Canonry and Professorship, and substituted Robert Creff of Lincoln, in both of 'em. The Visitors also Ibid. p. 411. order'd, That for the future, the Oyer should not go about with his Bell, when any Scholar was to be Bury'd; possibly, being unwilling it should be known, how many of them they had Starved.

June 29, (Dr. Radcliffe, the Old Principal, being then Dead) the Fellows of Brazen-Nose, without any regard to Greenwood, who had some time before been Thrust upon them, boldly Affix a Citation to the College Gates, according to Statute, for the Election of a Principal; to which they proceeded (notwithstanding the peremptory Orders of the Visitors to the contrary) July 13, following, in one of their Chambers, made choice of Mr. (afterwards Dr.) Yate, who was kept out of the Principalship (and no other could be expected) during the Usurpation; but enjoy'd it many Years after the Restoration, by vertue of that Election. See also Wood, Ath. Vol. II. p. 812.

The same Day they forbad Mr. Tozer, Sub-Rector of Exeter-College (who as yet kept Possession) to proceed to an Election of Fellows for That House, the Day following, according to Statute (they issu'd the same Orders to Wadham-College, their Election falling on the same Day) and for his refusing to Obey 'em, both Expell'd him the College, and Imprisoned him. Vit. Tozer, p. 28.

Aug. 1, Dr. Henry Stringer (then Warden of New-College) was Expell'd the University; and about the Middle of the next Month, was depriv'd of the Greek Lecture. But this method of Proceeding with the Refractory Members of the University, singly, and apart, did by no means answer the Intent of the Reformation. Had they Distributed a separate Punishement on every single Person who continu'd to preserve inviolable, his Duty to the Church and his Majesty, a new Set of Loyalists would in all probability, have sprung up before they had quite rooted out the Old. It must be known therefore, That the Visitors had now at various times, executed the Sentence of Expulsion (so far, I mean, as Orders, Declarations, &c. could do it) on some Hundreds of the Scholars whose Names were sent down to 'em from the Committee for that purpose; but they being for the most part, Censures and Injunctions of the Visitors, as it already remember'd.

Digitized by Google

too ſtubborn to be turn'd out of their Livelihoods by Votes at London, or Papers and ‡ Programma's at Oxford, the Ravagers, as well to ſcorten their Proceedings, as to render them effectual, got a Serjeant (attended with ſome Files of Muſqueteers) to Publiſh by Beat of Drum, before the Gates of the ſeveral Colleges, July 5, 1648, 'That if any of thoſe who had been Expell'd by 'the Viſitors home to the Saturday foregoing, 'ſhould preſume to continue any longer in the 'Univerſity, they ſhould be taken into * Cuſtody, 'and be made Priſoners by the Governour.'

‡ The manner of their Proceeding, being to affix ſuch Papers to the Doors of St. Mary's Church; importing and declaring the Expulſion of thoſe, whoſe Names were inſerted in them. But ſome they puniſhed at length in the reſpective Colleges. And I have been informed by one, who himſelf ſuffered under them, that in ſome Colleges, at leaſt, they took a Guard with them, which they drew up in the Quadrangles; there publiſhed the Expulſions, then affix'd them to the Colleges Gates, and within] required thoſe who were Expell'd, to depart the Univerſity (and from within five Miles of it) before Sun ſet; (a ſhort time, ſurely, to pack up, even a Scholar's Goods, out that the Garriſon had taken care ſome of them ſhould be able to ſay, Omnia mea mecum porto) on pain of being treated as Spies. Two ſome Gentlemen adde, that they had ſometimes their Pockets pick'd, under a Pretence of ſearching for Letters.

* By that meant ſtyleth, ſaith Wood, of theſe great Clemency, that ſince the Scholars were plundered of their Goods and Livelihoods, they might not want an Houſe, at leaſt, to put their Heads in.

This was indeed a ready way to bring matters to a Concluſion; and yet the Univerſity ſtood even THIS STORM: Whereupon Four days after they found Themſelves oblig'd to publiſh again by Beat of Drum before the Gate of every College, this farther Order; 'That if any one who 'had been Expell'd, did preſume to tarry in the 'Town, or ſhould be taken within Five Miles of 'it, he ſhould be deemed as a Spy, and puniſh'd 'WITH DEATH.'

Pro exploratore habendum, & proinde capitis diſcrimen aditurum.

Ibid. p 412. This Order, the Committee, not long after, Reſolved, 'The Garriſon ſhould be deſired to put in 'Execution;' and the Governour, by command from Sir Thomas Fairfax the General, gave publick Notice, That he would proceed accordingly with ſuch of them as ſhould not depart in Four Days, unleſs they obtained Leave from the Vice-Chancellour and Viſitors to ſtay longer.

After what is now ſaid, it cannot be doubted, whether This Univerſity did not Defend themſelves to the laſt Extremity; and whether they did not march out at laſt, with all poſſible Marks of Honour; ſince They endur'd a Siege of above ‡ Two Years (more than ‡ 12 Months of which were Open Trenches) and ſtood ſo many ſeveral Storms: For ſurely what was ſaid of the Chriſtian Church in its Firſt Ages, is very Applicable to this Univerſity, That ſhe was never more Glorious, than under this Perſecution.

‡ From Midſummer-day 1646.

‡ From June 4, 1647, (ſo far that the Viſitation was firſt attempted to Aug. 17, 1648, when the Governour publiſhed his Reſolution of Proceeding againſt them as Spies, &c.

I have only to add farther, concerning the Proceedings of the Committee and Viſitors, with regard to their Expulſions, that July 8, this Year (the firſt Day of the Act, according to the Statute, when the Nobility and Gentry, from all parts of the Kingdom, had hitherto reſorted to Oxford, to hear the Learned Exercies of that Univerſity) inſtead of any Academical Performances, a Paper was affixed to the Doors of the Univerſity Church, importing the Expulſion of no leſs than 73 of the Members of it; that ſoon after the Committee at London Decreed thoſe, who were in, or near Oxford, or London, and had not hitherto appeared on Summons, before the Viſitors, to be as much Guilty of Contumacy, as tho they had appear'd, and diſown'd the Viſitation; that the Viſitors, by Order of the Committee, 'Declared all Elections 'void, which had been made ſince the Firſt or Second of July 1646.' And further reſolved among themſelves, 'That whoſoever would not Submit 'to the Viſitation, ſhould not enjoy either his 'Vote in the Univerſity, or in any private College, 'or be capable of taking Pupils, or of undergo- 'ing any Scholaſtick Office;' that juſt before Michaelmas this Year, they were doubly buſie, both in Ejecting the Loyaliſts, and filling up the Places with their own Tools; becauſe about that time come in the cheifeſt Rents of the ſeveral Colleges; that One of the New Heads preaching at St. Mary's, miſ-ſpent a great deal of time, very needleſly, exhorting the Viſitors, to 'perfect the Reformation.' by 'leaving nothing remain which appertained unto 'Baal,; by 'removing the very Trunk of Dagon;' and by 'deſtroying both Root and Branch.' And that two of the Viſitors at London, got the Committee in a Clandeſtine Manner to paſs this, among other Reſolves, 'That no Submiſſion made after 'the Firſt of September *, then laſt paſt, ſhould be 'of any Validity or Efficacy;' that they continued their Expulſions (with ſo much ſeverity, that they could not find Creatures of their own, or Time to fill up the Vacancies) home to December this Year: With which Wood ſhuts up his Account of the Viſitation; adding only in general, that as he had thus related the Firſt, and moſt violent Onſets of it; ſo the Flame afterwards broke out afreſh, from time to time (but not with equal Rage and Fury) till there was at laſt no more matter left to feed it; and that in this Progreis of their Viſitation, they Practis'd ſuch manifeſt Oppreſſions, as compell'd ſome of the Viſitors themſelves (and particularly Mr. then Dr. Mill) in Diſcourſe with the Royaliſts, Frankly to own, the reſt had gone greater Lengths, than they cou'd follow them, and that it was Irkſome to him (Wood) to think of thoſe Miſeries, which that Rebellious-Sink and Rabble of Viſitors, Enthuſiaſts, and Cambridge-Renegadoes, afterwards brought on this Univerſity untill the happy times of the Reſtoration.

Several ſo- theſe in their Prayers, ing God to † Give the King Grace to lay to Heart the Diſpleaſure of God that 'behal'ſun.

* 1648.

Ibid. p 414.

The Original Regiſter of the Viſitation is yet preſerved in the Bodleian Library: But having neither Time, nor Opportunity, to conſult it my ſelf, I was forced to be content with an Extract of the Expulſions, and Elections together with ſome few other Occurrences) mentioned in it: From whence it appears, that the Viſitors had in a manner completed the Ruine of the Univerſity, by the end of 1649; through which Year they continued their Expulſions, and fill'd up moſt of the Vacancies, they had made both in * that and the foregoing Year: However, they kept on their Seſſions till January 26, 1656, and Exerciſed (tho' very ſparingly) both theſe Branches of their Power, home to that time: But what elſe they did after 1649, how frequently, or how ſeldom, they held their Seſſions, how much longer they Sate (beyond ‡ January 1656) or when they were Diſſolved, I am wholly uninformed. The unfortunate Gentlemen who were in their great Numbers, made deſtitute of Livelyhood, or Habitation, wandered to and fro like Beggars and Fugitives: ſome of them betook themſelves to the Barbarians, in queſt of that Humanity, which had left them in their own Nation; others travelled up and down in the ſeveral parts of Europe, where the Providence of the All-wiſe God (who in his unſearchable Judgments, had ſent this affliction upon them) did direct; others lay hid at Home in Obſcurity, being aſhamed, born for the Honour of their Nation, and even of human Nature, to expoſe themſelves, as Monu-

Made and tranſmitted to me by the Rev. Dr. Th. Pennell, then Fellow of Exeter-Coll. now Rector of Broadwinſton in Dorſ. To which kind Aſſiſtance I likewiſe owe many other Notices relating to this Undertaking.

* Sept. 13, 1649, ſhall as Orders of the Houſe for a Committee to view the Univerſity and Colledges, that Care may be taken for the Reparation of the Ruins and Decays thereof. Journ. Parl. p 439.

‡ The Committee for Reforming the Univerſity, were firſt to ſit before [July] ſeventh June 22, 1649; and then expreſs'd a time of Six Weeks, as I remember, all that Year as [July] but a few more than ſix Weeks.

Digitized by Google

ments of that Babarity, which was hardly to be equall'd among the moſt Savage People. Such of them as were ally'd to the Loyal Families, could meet with no Support from their Relations, who had themſelves been likewiſe Plundered, and Deſpoil'd of all, long before; whilſt thoſe who on t'other Hand, were Related to any of the Rebel Families, were look't on by them as publick Enemies, and deem'd Deſerving of yet greater Puniſhment; and many of them, who would at any other time have fill'd the higheſt Places in the Church and Common-wealth with great Sufficiency and Applauſe, accounted themſelves Happy, if they could be Suffer'd quietly to inſtruct a few Children; or could get the Opportunity of Correcting a Preſs, for a piece of Bread: Almoſt all of them, in the mean time, with their Miſery and Poverty, preſerved their Fidelity to his Majeſty, and the Church; and pleaded the Cauſe of Both wherever they came, with ſo much Learning and Succeſs, as was thought by ſome, to be no inconſiderable Means of bringing about the happy Period of 1660.

I may by no means yet diſmiſs this Head, without obſerving, that notwithſtanding the vile Calumnies and Aſperſions of Popery, which the Faction, from the Example of their Predeceſſors, continually caſt upon many of the Members of this Univerſity, the good Providence of God gave them an Opportunity (as indeed he did likewiſe the whole Clergy of the Eſtabliſhment) not many Years ſince, of making it Evident to the World, that they were then no leſs ready to ſtand the ſhock of a Popiſh, than they had been formerly of a Presbyterian Viſitation.

This Godly Proteſtant Reformation made more Hereck, ſaith Wood, than even that in the time of K. Mary's Days. Ant. Li. p. 414.

Thus was the other Eye of the Nation put out, and the Univerſity of Oxford, the Miſtris, not only of the Reformation, but of the Chriſtian World, which had juſtly won (and by the good Providence of God, ſtill retains) the peculiar Title of FAMOUS, fell before the Pretences of the vileſt Hypocriſie, and by the Hands of ſome of their own moſt Deſpicable and Contemptible Members: Nor could the Horrible Paricides, wreſt this particular Honour from Her, that ſhe Expired at laſt, as well in Conformity to, as in Defence of his moſt Sacred Majeſty, Diſclaiming and Renouncing with her laſt Breath, the Pretended Authority of that Rebellious Power, which enabled theſe Uſurpers to Arraign, Condemn, and Barbarouſly Murther Her: And to ſhew how nearly Learning (as well as Religion) and Loyalty are Alyed, She was the laſt Offering made to the Bloody Idol of Rebellion, before the Dreadful and Portentous Sacrifice of His moſt Sacred Majeſty's own Perſon: And ſurely, the moving Epiſcope which the Lord Clarendon Subjoyns to the Year 1648, (in which He informs us, the Viſitation was at its Height) may well be thought to regard this, among the other peculiar Wickedneſſes of it; 'A Year of Infamy (ſaith that Noble Hiſtorian) above all Years which had paſſed before 'it; a Year of the Higheſt Diſſimulation and Hypo-'criſie, of the Deepeſt Villany and moſt Bloody Trea-'ſons, that any Nation was ever Curſed with, or un-'der; a Year in which the Memory of all the Tranſ-'actions ought to be raz'd out of all Records, leſt by 'the Succeſs of it, Atheiſm, Infidelity, and Rebel-'lion ſhould be Propagated in the World.'

Vol. III. p. 56.

Ibid. p. 211.

May this Famous Univerſity continue (as ſhe hath ever been) the Beauty and Glory of the Chriſtian World: May She always Teach and Praiſe the Generous Principles of true Engliſh Loyalty; and never lift up her Hand, but in the Defence, and with the Authority of the Crown; or ever refuſe to lay down her Neck, when the moſt Righteous Cauſe of Monarchy, and Religion, ſhall require it: May afflicted Majeſty always find a Refuge, in her Learning, Courage and Fidelity; and may ſhe ſtill ſupply, the Church in thoſe great Numbers, which ſhe hath hitherto done, with ſuch Divines, as Chriſtianity was never otherwiſe Bleſs'd withal, without the Supernatural Aſſiſtances of Inſpiration: May ſhe be always Jealous and watchful over the Ineſtimable Jewels of the Crown, and of the Mitre: May ſhe ſpy the Danger, which at any time threatens either of them from a far; proclaim it aloud as it approaches, and never want a Man, who for Sion's ſake, will not hold his Peace; but boldly ruſh into the Midſt of the greateſt Perils, and preſent himſelf a Sacrifice for his Religion, and his Prince: May this great Luminary of our Britiſh World ſhine as bright, and endure as long as the Sun; and may the Fountain and Father of Lights himſelf continue to be (according to the Motto of her Arms) not only her Light, but her Salvation; and let Genuine Ignorance, let full and confirmed Stupidity, let Covetouſneſs, Oppreſſion, Hypocriſy and Rebellion, Infatuation, Enthuſiaſm, Deriſion, Contempt and laſting Ignominy, be the plentiful Portion of all her Enemies, as they Eminently were of thoſe, who now Invaded, and Deſtroyed her.

But I forget that I am yet to Account for the filling up of the Vacancies, and ſome other Proceedings of the now Reformed Univerſity: As to the Former of theſe, the Proſpect of ſucceeding in the Places of the Ejected Loyaliſts, having drawn hither a great many Perſons from Cambridge, July 5, the Viſitors appointed a ſtanding Committee for the Examination of them; and the firſt of the following Months, the Committee at London, Authoriz'd the Viſitors to fill up the Vacancies in thoſe Colleges, where there might not be left a ſufficient Number of Electors, according to Statute, after theſe Reformers ſhould have thoroughly Purged them: But either the Committee did afterwards furniſh them with a more ample Power, or elſe they Uſurped that, as they did moſt of the other Rights of the Univerſity; for they appear'd to have placed ſeveral Perſons even in many of thoſe very Colleges, where a Colony of their own Creatures had been already Settled.

Wood, Ant. Lib. f. 411.

Ibid. p. 412.

The Method they took to ſupply and fill up the Vacancies (or rather indeed to Nominate to them; for they could in no Senſe be ſaid to ſupply or fill thoſe Places) was, firſt of all, to take care of themſelves, as the great Law of Self-Preſervation directed; the two other Preachers which were not Nominated in the Commiſſion for the Viſitation, Claimed their next Care; then thoſe Informers, who had been of ſuch uſe to them, in carrying on the Godly Work, Demanded their Conſideration; and laſt in the laſt Place, a Rabble from Cambridge came to their Aſſiſtance, without which, perhaps they could ſcarce have found enough to have filled up thoſe Wide and Ghaſtly Breaches they made in the ſeveral Houſes.

Ibid. paſſim.

I have more than once already mention'd theſe Cambridge Men: And tho' I ſhould Imagine, the Reader cannot miſs of obſerving it himſelf, yet in regard to that great and Learned Body, I think my ſelf obliged expreſly to take notice of it, that by theſe Cantabrigians, I underſtand a Colony of Presbyterians or Independent Novices, which had, as I conceive, for the moſt part ſtock'd to Cambridge, and ſpent ſome time there, after it had been Reformed into Confuſion, by the Baniſhment of Learning and Loyalty from thence, five Years before, and now tranſplanted themſelves to Oxford for Places, which the want of more Loyaliſts to be Ejected, made them deſpair of at their own (miſ-call'd) Univerſity.

It

For a great Majority of them were turned out.

It hath been already remembred ar large, that the Univerſity of Cambridge, whilſt it deſerv'd that Name, made a Stout and Gallant Oppoſition to the Rebellion; and that their coming to Soon into the Hands of the Parliament, gave them the Diſtinguiſhing Honour of falling firſt in the Service of his Majeſty and the Church; whilſt on the other Hand the City of Oxford, being ſo Seaſonably Secured and Fortified, that Univerſity was enabled, both to defend themſelves, and not only to afford Protection to the Sacred Perſon of their Prince, but to yield him likewiſe Noble Service, for the Courſe of ſeveral Years, And it muſt now be obſerved, that as the Reformers Ejected the Cambridge Gentlemen, in ſuch great Numbers, that (if I miſtake not) they were then forced to take ſome of the Dreggs of this Univerſity, to put into their Places; ſo now that the Calamitous Viſitation had well nigh Diſpeopled Oxford, the Reformers at Cambridge were enabled to repay their Brethren with Intereſt, by a Tribe of Ignorant Enthuſiaſts and Schiſmaticks, from under their Government.

But to return to the Viſitors. I have before ſaid, that the moſt Buſie, and in a manner, the only Viſitors, that Acted, were, if I Judge aright, thoſe Five of them, that had firſt been appointed Preachers, to prepare the Way for that intended Reformation, and a Divine or Two more of the ſame Stamp; and theſe took eſpecial Care in the firſt Place (as is likewiſe ſaid) to Reward themſelves for their good Services, they had Perform'd, as well in the Preparation, as in the Perfecting of the Viſitation, Mr. Reynolds, modeſtly contented himſelf with the Deanery of Chriſt-Church; Mr. Harris, (but whether ſo Contented or not I cannot ſay) had to his other Preferments, added the Headſhip of Trinity-College; Mr. Gunnell, had the Headſhip of St. John's, and the Margaret-Profeſſor's Place; Henry Wilkinſon, ſenior, had firſt a Senior Fellowſhip, of Magdalen-College, then a Canonry of Chriſt-Church, and at length the Margaret-Profeſſorſhip; and Mr. Corbet, had a Canonry of Chriſt-Church likewiſe, and was made Publick Orator. As for the other Divines who were in the Commiſſion for the Viſitation, Old John Wilkinſon was made Preſident of Magdalen-College, and Mr. John Mills, and Mr. Chriſtopher Rogers, Canons of Chriſt-Church. However, what is here mentioned, was only their Sallaries; ſince if * Wood may be Credited, there were ſome Perquiſites alſo belong'd to the Office of a Viſitor, at leaſt, to that Part of it, which concern'd the Nomination to the vacant Fellowſhips: For that Author affirms, it was certain, that ſeveral People found their Applications Succeeded never the worſe, for not coming empty handed.

See the Accounts of each of theſe in Wood, Ath. Vol. II.

'Tis muſt be added to his Honour, he ſuffer'd few with the Viſitors, and therein both theſe Places from after, and was ſucceeded by Ralph Bathurſt, one of their Firſt Proctors. See Wood, Ath. Vol. I. p. 772.

* Ant. L. I. P. 413.414.

P. 4.

It is a forew'd Reflection, which the Writer of the Letter at the End of Pegaſus makes on this Occaſion. 'If there be (ſaith he) any 'Senſe in that Old Maxim, that Parties muſt not be Judges, and that 'tis only the 'Hangman's Fee, to have the Dead-Man's 'Cloaths, to wear after him (and it hath not 'been often ſeen, that the Judge hath Seiz'd 'upon them for his Body, and appeared in them 'all the reſt of his Circuit) then ſure theſe '—— will not be able to make up one Tolera- 'ble Commiſſioner, or piece of a Legal Judge, 'for this one Cauſe, if there were no other 'Nullity in it.'

But tho' it be True, that they minded themſelves in the firſt Place; it is as True, that they were not altogether forgetful of their Fellow-Labourers; and therefore Mr. Langley, and Mr. Cumfe, (the two remaining Preachers, which had not been Named in the Commiſſion for Viſiting) were likewiſe each rewarded with a Canonry of Chriſt-Church, and the Former of them, with the Maſterſhip of Pembroke College alſo; and Joſhua Coſs, (their other Preſtor, was made Fellow of Magdalen-College, and Nat. Philoſophy-Reader.

Next to theſe, they Provided for the Informers, who had Betrayed the ſeveral Colleges, in which they had Laboured themſelves; after them the Sons and Relations of ſome of the principal Rebels, and then the Rout from Cambridge, and ſome other Strangers, as is before mentioned, of whom it would be endleſs to ſpeak particularly.

Wood, Ath. Vol. II. p. 744.

That many of the Ejected Royaliſts were Men of the beſt Learning in the Kingdom, will not be Deny'd: But let the Writer of Dr. Aldeſby's Life, Pronounce the Characters of thoſe, who Succeeded; 'They who would Pro-'ſtitute their Allegiance to their Prince, and 'Oaths to the Univerſity, and their Local-'Viſitors, and Comply with the Luſt of theſe 'Uſurpers, tho' never ſo Flagitious, were re-'ceiv'd to Favour: All others, however merit-'ing, were proſcrib'd—— In whoſe room ſuc-'ceeded an Illiterate Rabble, ſwept up from the 'Plough Tail, from Shops, and Grammar-Schools, 'and the Dreggs of the Neighbout-Univerſity: And to the ſame purpoſe, Wood, ſpeaking of the Year 1647, ſaith, 'This Year Flock'd to 'the Univerſity ſeveral poor Scholars, whom 'ſome call'd the Scum of Cambridge; many 'poor Schoolmaſters, Pædagogues from Bilferies, Curates and ſometimes Vicars; as alſo Par-'liament Soldiers; eſpecially ſuch, that had 'been lately Diſbanded, to gain Preferment 'by the Viſitation approaching —— They 'were commonly call'd Seekers, more great 'Frequenters of the Sermons at St. Mary's, 'preach'd by the Six Miniſters, appointed by 'Parliament, and other Preſbyterian Miniſters 'that preach'd in other Churches in Oxford, 'and ſometimes Frequenters of the Convent-'cles of Independents, and Anabaptiſts. The ge-'nerality of them had mortify'd Countenances, 'puling Voices, and Eyes commonly, when in 'diſcourſe, lifted up with Hands laying on their 'Breaſts; they moſtly had ſhort Hair, which 'at this time was commonly call'd the Com-'mittee-Cut, and went in Quipe, in a 'ſhabbed Condition, and look'd rather like 'Prentices, or Antiquated School-Boys, than Academians, or Miniſters; and therefore few 'or none of the Old Stamp, or Royal Par-'ty, would come near to, or ſort themſelves 'with them; but rather endeavour'd to put 'Scorn upon them, and make them Ridiculous.' The Truth of which in good meaſure may be gueſs'd at, from this own Inſtance; that tho' they left but one of the Old Foundation at Univerſity-College (as is before ſaid) yet all that they put in (ſave two) were perfect Foreigners, and Strangers to it.

Ath. Vol. II. p. 743.

They were Scots men. Why he calls them Sirs, I know not; unleſs it be that Sirs of them cuſtoms Ex-erciſed.

However, it may not be amiſs, to produce ſome few Particulars, whereby the Reader may better judge of the Characters of the reſt. The Perſon whom they made Senior Fellow of All Souls, was one Hieronie Zanchy, a Cambridge Man. It does not appear on the Publick Regiſter, whether he was ſo much as Incorporated in this Univerſity; and yet he was made Proctor under thoſe Reformers. He 'was a Hiſſle-'rout Fellow at Cudgelling, Foot-ball Playing, &c. had born Arms for the Parliament, and 'been a Captain, a Preſbyterian, an Indepen-'dent,

Ibid. p. 710.

Digitized by Google

'dent, a Preacher, and I know not what. About a Month after he was made Doctor, he went into Ireland, became there a Colonel of Horse, a Thorough-pac'd Anabaptift, was Rebaptized, and often after Held forth in Conventicles, among the Anabaptifts; and publifhed a Rude Nonfenfical Speech in Parliament at Dublin, fit only to be read to make People laugh at the Abfurdity of the Perfon.' At the fame College was thruft in Mr. Scot, Son to the Regicide of that Name.

But Remely was not the only military Man they preferr'd: Into New-College they Thruft one Major Jordan; and into St. John's, one Robert Gorges; of whom there goeth this Story, That being chofen Prefident, and not daring to truft himfelf with making his Speech, he got Mr. Levins to do it for him; and in return for that good Office of Learning (which, in the Opinion of the Loyalifts, the Saints much wanted) did Mr. Levins the like good Turn, of Vouching that he had Grace; a Qualification that in the Opinion of the Reformers, the Loyalifts ftood in no leff need of. But to proceed:

Ibid. p. 748.

The Firft Perfon they put into Baliol-College, was fuch an one, as they were forced to Expel again themfelves foon after. Into Oriel-College, they Thruft (among others) Nath. Burgefs, Son to the Sactrilegious Dr. Cornelius Burgefs, and Will. Bragg, an Eminent Independent; and at C. C. C. one of the Chaplains they put in, was a Presbyterian, and the other an Independent; it being now become a disputable Point, which of the Two Opinions was the right.

Nor were the Firft and Higheft Places of the Univerfity any better provided for. About the Middle of October, 1648, Dr. Hoyle, their New Profeffor of Divinity, began his Lectures, which had neither Method nor Argument in them; and feem'd to fhew him ignorant, even of the moft common and ordinary Rules of Logick. He open'd them with a fuitable Speech, devoid of all Spirit or Learning; Wherein he laid himfelf out very much in the Praifes of his two Predeceffors, Dr. Holland and Dr. Prideaux, wholly omitting poor Dr. Saunderfon: Nor could he indeed remember with Comfort, or without Shame, a Man fo much better than himfelf, whofe Bread he was Then eating. He likewife highly exolt'd the Parliament; by whom, as he told the Auditors, he was Promoted to That Chair: Which fome of the Loyalifts prefently took hold of; and whifper'd one among another, 'Then 'by his own Confeffion he is not Regius Profeffor.' At the fame time Du Moulin began his Hiftory Lectures; and tired himfelf, as well as the Auditory, with the Praifes of the Parliament, the Vifitors, and in a Word, the whole Rebellion. Wood hath likewife left us a Specimen of the great great Sufficiency of the New Univerfity, in the more Polite Parts of Learning, by Preferving Thefe Queftions, which were in feens asked (among others) by fome of the Examining Maflers. Pro quo Genere tu ftas? Rhetor & Orator (pronouncing the Penultima fhort, as we do, when That Word is made Englifh) Quomodo differunt?

Wood, Ann. Lib. 1 p. 412, 413.

Ibid. p. 413.

In the fame manner with the Preferments, were the Honours and Degrees of the Univerfity alfo difpos'd of by thofe Ufurpers: The Preference they ftill took to Themfelves: And when their own Turns were ferv'd, they then provided for their Friends, efpecially Thofe from Cambridge; and after proftituted thefe Sacred Rewards and Titles of Learning, to the Luft and Ambition of every one, who was diftinguifh'd by Ignorance, Enthufiafm, Treafon and Rebellion. No other Merit or Qualification being required, fays Wood, 'Than a con-'firmed Hatred to his Majefty and the Church.' It muft be owned indeed, That Neceffity firft put 'em upon this Practice, in order to Erect their New Univerfity; which they had not Graduates enough to do, when the Chancellour came in Perfon among them. 'Then, (faith the Author of the Letter at the End of Pegafus) 'to creating of Doctors and Batchelers of Di-'vinity; and for three Days together, all 'Degrees moft liberally diftributed among them-'felves and their Clients; there being no way 'imaginable to get a fufficient Number to make 'a Convocation, or an Univerfity hereafter, 'when the Subfidiary County Parfons are gone 'home again, unlefs fuch Creations pure ex nihilo, were then allowed them: For we hear 'but of Three Compliers prefent in the whole 'University, &c.' And in Two of Thofe Days they created no lefs than One and fifty Maflers of Arts, moft of them Cambridge Men, who were, it feems, as deftitute of Degrees, as they were of Places, in their own Reformd Univerfity: And fuch were their Neceffities, that they found themfelves obliged to create no lefs than 23 Batchelors of Arts: A Degree, which furely was fcarce ever honour'd with a Creation, before that time.

Ibid.

Pegaf. p. 10, 11.

Befides what they Incorporated. Wood, Ann. Lib. 1 p. 404, 405. See alfo Pegafus, ibid. Wood, Ann. Vol. II. p. 744.

Seven that were who had ... laft time in His Majefty's Service, &c. had it made up to them in that way. See ibid. p. 692, 717.

I have before faid, that they were forced to create Mr. Reynolds D. D. that he might with a better Grace, carry off the Port of his New Office; and that for much the like Reafons, they promoted to further Degrees, Mr. Harris, Mr. Cober, Mr. Palmer, Mr. Langley, Mr. Cornifh, Mr. Cheynell and Mr. J. Wilkins; all of them either newly preferr'd to, or fuddenly defign'd for fome of the chief Poffs in the Univerfity. Among thefe, are Four of the Vifitors (who had been alfo Preachers) and the Two other Preachers, which were not named in the Commiffion for the Vifitation: But Hen. Wilkinfon, fenior, one of the Vifitors likewife, and the 7th Preacher, was content to tarry till the next Year, for his Doctor of Divinity's Degree. As to the Two remaining Clergy Vifitors, Mr. Rogers was created D. D. and Mr. J. Mills L. L. B. *; and this being an Emolument, wherein their Lay Brethren were capable of fharing with them, Sir William Cobb, and Mr. William Tipping, Mr. John Cartwright and Mr. John Wilkinfon (Four more of their Body) were created A. M.'s, and the laft of them afterwards M D. As to their few other Friends (for they fwallow'd in moft of the confiderable Places themfelves) when they vermitted to fhare with them in the Offices, and Preferments, befides Mr. Palmer, Mr. Wilkins, Mr. Cornifh and Mr. Langley, already mentioned, they honour'd Mr. Crefs, their Firft Proctor, (now made Fellow of Magdalen-College, and Nat. Philofophy Reader) with the Degree of L. L. D. and offer'd that of D. D. to his Brother Burton, who refus'd it; but their New Principal of Brazen-Nofe, Mr. Dan. Greenwood, did not exercife fo much Self-denial; and therefore was content to be advanc'd to that Degree by them.

Ibid. p. 770.

Ibid. from p. 743. to p. 772.

* Offi. Wilkinfon was D.D. before, and the only Perfon among them that was fo.

As for thofe, whom they preferr'd to the lower Places of Fellowfhips, &c. it would be endlefs to mention them: on this Account let it fuffice to fay in general, that they beftow'd Degrees on them (and moftly by Creation) with a very liberal Hand; and as to what concerns the Reft, on whom they conferr'd thefe Academical Honours, they will be guefs'd at by thefe few Particulars. Lieutenant-Colonel Thomas Kelfy formerly (as 'tis ſaid) a Button-maker, now Deputy-Governour of Oxford, was created A M; Latimer Croſs, lately Manciple of Magdalen-Hall, now Steward of Magdalen-College, had the ſame Degree beſtow'd upon him. Thomas Barrow, (a Student in Divinity forſooth, and to doubtleſs no Graduate) was created B. D. and when he took the Oath of Allegeance for that Degree, did it with this Salvo, 'So far forth, as it 'doth not contradict the National Covenant.' Mr. Samuel Aneley, who Succeeded in the Sequeſtration of the Rich Living of * Cliff in Kent (then worth 300 l. per Annum) was created L. L. D. the Living being a Peculiar, and the Probate of Wills, and other Matters of Eccleſiaſtical Juriſdiction belonging to the Rich. He was, as far as I can find, of an unblamable Life, but a Man of ſo little Learning, that it was with great Difficulty he at laſt got his Batcheleur of Arts Degree (the Perſon who preſented him being hardly acquitted of Perjury) and to Greſly Ignorant of any thing pertaining to the Faculty, in which he was now made Dr. that ſome of the Loyaliſts, who abhorred his Promotion, promiſed to appear, and Vote for him, if he could but tell the meaning of the Word Pandect. Unton Croke, who afterwards became Infamous among the Royaliſts for Denying and Breaking the Articles with Colonel Penruddock, was created L. L. B.; Sir Hardreſs Waller, then lately one of the King's Judges, and actually on the Bench, when the Bloody Sentence was Pronounced, was created A. M. Thomas Harriſon, (commonly call'd Major-General Harriſon) Son of a Butcher, afterwards a ſort of an Attorney, at laſt a Preacher, with many other Offices of the Army, and then lately one of the King's Judges likewiſe (who was not only preſent when the Sentence paſs'd, but ſtood up to ſignifie his Conſent, and ſigned the Warrant for that Black Murther) was alſo created A. M. Colonel Richard Ingoldſby, another Member of the Helliſh Tribunal, * preſent, and conſenting alſo to the Diabolical Sentence, was created in the ſame Degree. The Infamous Colonel John Hewſon, a Fourth of the King's Judges, Originally a Shoe-Maker, conſenting to the Sentence, and ſigning the Warrant alſo for the Execution, had the ſame Honour beſtow'd upon him, after that Horrid Fact; as it was likewiſe at the ſame time on Colonel John Okey, a Fifth of the King's Judges, who was Originally (as it is ſuppoſed) a Drayman, ſided at laſt with the Anabaptiſts, and Fifth Monarchy-Men, and after the Reſtoration, had Juſtice done him at Tyburn. Nor were theſe all; for Owen Roe, and Colonel William Gough, two more of his Majeſty's Judges (each of which were preſent, and ſtood up in token of their Aſſent, when the Black Sentence was given, and ſigned the Warrant with their own Hands) were likewiſe created Maſters of Arts. In one and the ſame Day was all this Load of Infamy (the greateſt ſure, that ever any Place of Learning undrewent) laid on the Marble Waterſides of Oxford. And to add to the Outrage, 'twas done the May next following, that Royal Jaſper of Sacred Memory which brought his Majeſty to the Scaffold. This Patent of Academical Honours, made by the Reformed Univerſity, to no leſs than Seven of the King's Murtherers at one time, whilſt his Majeſty's Blood was yet Reeking, will ſurely be look't on as little other, than a Satyre and Publick Appreciation, and as it were a Recognition, of that Horrible Parricide. After which it cannot be wonder'd that they ſhould diſtribute the Marks of their Favour, to the Preparatory Inſtruments of it; for at this very time alſo, they Ordered ſeveral other of the Rebel-Officers, whenever they ſhould think fit, to come, and be Inverſted with them; and among theſe George Joyce, formerly a Taylor (then a Captain indeed, but much better known by the lower Title of Cornet Joyce, which he had when he Seiz'd the King) and Lieutenant-Colonel * Gibbet, each of whom in their turns (without any viſible Orders, or Authority, beſides th.ir own Daring Impudence; and therefore with an Inſolence plainly Unparallel'd, in any Inſtory or Rebellion) took the Royal and Sacred Perſon of their Prince out of his Bed, and Dragg'd him to a New Confinement; the former of them from Helmby-Houſe, to the Army; the latter from Carnbrook, to Hurſt Caſtle. To whom I muſt likewiſe add another Attendant on that Horrid Murther, Namely, Thomas Trapham, a Chirurgeon, who Sewed on his Majeſty's Head; and when he had done it, laid to the Company, 'He had Sew-'ed on the Head of a Goſe.' This Perſon was at the ſame Time (when the King's Judges Received their Honours) created Batcheler of Phyſick; but I might have Omitted every one of theſe; and it would have been Sufficient to ſay, that on this Day of Blaſphemy and Reproach, they beſtowed the Degree of Doctor of Laws, on Oliver Cromwell himſelf, afterwards the Uſurper: In whoſe bare Name and Title, are Included with great Improvements, the whole Infamy, Treaſons, and Rebellions, of all the Reſt. And to Finiſh their Scandal, the next Year they cloſe him for their Chancellor.

Wood, Ant. Lib. I. p. 744. See alfo Athen. Vol. II. p. 744, 752.

N n nant-

In this manner were the Principal Honours and Offices of the Univerſity beſtowed, after theſe Godly Men had Reformed it. And I muſt add, that Wood particularly recounts many other Rebels of leſs Note, admitted to the ſame Favours; that he Includes in ſome general Clauſes many more, who muſt have remained for ever Unknown, had not Enthuſiaſm and Treaſon ſhewed them to ſome few of their own Times, and call'd them for th from that Obſcurity, to which their very Names are now again Returned; and that what I have now produced of theſe Matters, were the Proceedings of the firſt Year and Half only; it being Nonſenſe, and Inſolent to Trace them any farther. To ſhew however, that one and the ſame Spirit Acted both the Viſitors at Oxford, and the Regulators at Cambridge, I ſhall be obliged further to take Notice, that they Trampled on all Statutes, whether Collegiate or Academical; and had no more regard to them, when they ſtood in their way, than if there had been none ſuch ever Framed by the Univerſity, or the Reſpective Founders. The Parliament had Indeed furniſh'd them with all the Powers of any Viſitors whatſoever; but it is well known, that no Viſitors Power reached any farther, than Interpreting and Determining upon the Old and Doubtful Statutes, and never allow'd them wholly to Diſannul thoſe in being, or frame a Set of New Ones, much leſs to Diſpenſe with the Obſervation of ſuch, as were Plain and Peremptory: Nor could even a Power of Abolishing the Old, and Framing New Ones, juſtifie our Reformers; ſince no ſuch Reformation of the Statutes was in Fact made, when they daily Tranſgreſs'd them in almoſt every Article,

* As plain Evidence that in their own Sence, the Covenant was contrary to the Oath of Allegiance, and Conſequently rendered it conſcientiouſly, abſolutely Deteſted, when it was Impoſed, and had left it Sworn by all Subjects to an Illegal Party.

* Sir Wood. Ann. Lib. 1. 404. and the Abridgment in which Latter Place his Name is ſet by Spelt (as it was wrong) by Printers of Annesley See Wood. Ath. Vol. II. p. 747.

Clar. Hiſt. V. III. p. 225. But Wood ſaith Gaunt.

* Mr Wood errantly call Thom. Chaſe. Vol. II. p. 758. to be the Lord Clar. Hiſt. Vol. III. p. 536.) as alſo errantly in aſſuming that 'He was no-'ver ever Preſident,' and That he 'cannot de-'ſcend to the Cauſes to 'his Heart.'

* The Lord Clarendon ſeems to wiſh Cell. Rowe which then forced the King, Vol. III. p. 112. But Wood relates the Story with all its Circumſtances, from Mr Herbert, then attending the King, and that in numerous Cit. Pieces in that Reign, as it is to another Purpoſe. But as Cobbet was attended with ſeveral other Officers, as is probable there might be one of them. See Ath. Vol. II. p. 742. 743.

In this manner were the Principal Honours and Offices of the Univerſity beſtowed, after theſe Godly Men had Reformed it. And I muſt add, that Wood particularly recounts many other Rebels of leſs Note, admitted to the ſame Favours; that he Includes in ſome general Clauſes many more, who muſt have remained for ever Unknown, had not Enthuſiaſm and Treaſon ſhewed them to ſome few of their own Times, and call'd them for th from that Obſcurity, to which their very Names are now again Returned; and that what I have now produced of theſe Matters, were the Proceedings of the firſt Year and Half only; it being Nonſenſe, and Inſolent to Trace them any farther. To ſhew however, that one and the ſame Spirit Acted both the Viſitors at Oxford, and the Regulators at Cambridge, I ſhall be obliged further to take Notice, that they Trampled on all Statutes, whether Collegiate or Academical; and had no more regard to them, when they ſtood in their way, than if there had been none ſuch ever Framed by the Univerſity, or the Reſpective Founders. The Parliament had Indeed furniſh'd them with all the Powers of any Viſitors whatſoever; but it is well known, that no Viſitors Power reached any farther, than Interpreting and Determining upon the Old and Doubtful Statutes, and never allow'd them wholly to Diſannul thoſe in being, or frame a Set of New Ones, much leſs to Diſpenſe with the Obſervation of ſuch, as were Plain and Peremptory: Nor could even a Power of Abolishing the Old, and Framing New Ones, juſtifie our Reformers; ſince no ſuch Reformation of the Statutes was in Fact made, when they daily Tranſgreſs'd them in almoſt every Article,

Digitized by Google

It were much eaſier (perhaps not a whit leſs true) to ſay, that they did nothing Regular, than to alledge the Inſtances of their Neglect and Contempt of the ſeveral Conſtitutions in the Colleges and Univerſity: However, I ſhall produce a few of them. Their new Heads were admitted without taking the Oaths preſcribed by the Local Statutes; nor was any Thing ſhort of certain Expulſion, the Penalty of diſowning thoſe Governours, alſo' it was * manifeſt Perjury to ſubmit to them, unleſs thoſe Statutes had been aboliſh'd; which the Parliament was ſo far from doing, that the Viſitors were both directed and determin'd by the expreſs Words of their own Ordinance, to proceed in no other Manner, than 'as ' by the Laws, Statutes and Cuſtoms' of the Univerſity, and the reſpective Colleges, any other Viſitor might do. To this Purpoſe the † Author of the Letter at the End of Pegaſus, ſpeaking of the Admiſſion of Mr. Palmer, to the Wardenſhip of All Souls, obſerves, that ' all were required to ' ſubmit to him, as Warden, tho' neither Choſen ' by the College, nor enter'd, by taking any Oath ' to be true to it, or to Govern by † Statute; any ' of which Omiſſions make it direct Perjury, for ' any Fellow to acknowledge or ſubmit to him; ' as it doth alſo in all the other Colleges, where ' thoſe ‖ Intruders are placed; the whole Body of ' Legal Rights of Governours and Corporations ' being by this una Litura aboliſh'd, and turned ' into moſt perfect Arbitrary Government', &c. Add to this, that in the College now mention'd, the Statutes expreſly require the Warden to be in Orders; whereas Mr. Palmer was a Phyſician, and created Dr. in that Faculty ſoon after by themſelves: Beſides, I believe, there are few College Statutes in this Univerſity, but what require the Head to be choſen out of ſome of their own Members, or out of thoſe who had formerly been ſo; but I doubt upon Enquiry, it would appear, that as little Regard was had in their Locations, to this Statute, as to any of the reſt: And it is ſure that Dr. Wilkins, afterwards continued marry'd in the Wardenſhip of Wadham College, tho' it is known to every Body, that the Statutes of that Houſe are expreſs againſt it.

Wood, Ant. Lib. 1. p. 403.

See alſo the Caſe of Mr. Churchill, of Magdalen College, p. 408

* So that all theſe Members of any College, who ſubmit to, were ſo far perjured, but then took Care as much as might to ſhrink under their Ordinance, for in ſome Colleges they ſtood ſworn to obſerve all the Statutes.

† P. 9, 10.

‖ This in thoſe Days from not more exculpable, becauſe ſo well as ſhewn by and by, they were intended to obſerve their Statutes.

At their firſt Convocation, when the Chancellor was with them in Perſon, 'the moſt that was ' ſpoken there, was Engliſh; all that was done, was ' Irregular, Cap-a-pe, no Statute obſerv'd or re- ' garded.' And in another held the Year after, Michael Roberts, their new Head of Jeſus-College, was admitted to his Doctor's Degree without Scio's; but that was ſuch a Puncthio with them, that 'tis hardly worth Mentioning. It is more to the Purpoſe to ſay, that the Oath of Allegiance requir'd by Statute, was not adminiſter'd by the new Governours of the Univerſity to ſome of thoſe who took Degrees; but 'tis no Wonder that Oath was then expiring, ſince his Majeſty himſelf was not permitted to Survive above a Month or two after: However, it might have been expected from the Saints, that they ſhould at leaſt have ſworn Allegiance to King Jeſus, when they had that ſet him up in his Throne; Whereas, it is no leſs True, than Amazing, that during the whole Twelve Years of their Adminiſtration, the bleſſed Sacrament of Chriſt's Body and Blood was not ſo much as once receiv'd by the Officers of the New Univerſity, in their Publick Capacity, tho' every ſly directed by the Statutes; and this Omiſſion there was in ſeveral of the private Colleges, as * Chriſt Church, All Souls, New-College, Merton, and I think ſome others. After this it would be trifling to ſay, that in the Proprefs of their Government they brought in a Voice to take off Caps and Hoods, thoſe unneceſſary Diſtinctions of Degrees; but as it happen'd, they were over-ruled in that Point.

Wood, Ant. Lib. 1. p. 416.

* So alſo Wood, Ant. Lib. 1. p. 414.

Pegaſus, p. 3 Wood, Ant. Lib. 1. p. 411

Ibid. p. 712.

It could not be expected they ſhould pay that Reverence to the Conſtitutions of the ſeveral and reſpective Houſes, which they ſo plainly Violated, with Regard to the more publick Statures of the Univerſity; and therefore at Exeter-College, in direct Oppoſition to the Letter of the Statutes, they kept two Fellowſhips void, and order'd two more to be ſo reſerv'd when they ſhould Drop, to pay the College-Debts, forſooth! They alſo order'd one Mr. Martyn, a Batchelor of Arts, to receive the College-Rents, which the Statutes entruſt with the Rector only, or his Subſtitute; but ſoon after they amended this Miſtake, by making him Sub-Rector, and that (as I think I have heard) whilſt he yet continued A. B. at leaſt, very ſoon after his being A. M. And in the ſame Contravention to the Appointments of the Founder, they order'd the Fellows to take their Places according to their Seniority in the Univerſity, and not that of their Election. At Chriſt-Church the Latin Grace and Prayers were wholly diſuſed, and even the bleſſed Sacrament it ſelf, as is juſt now ſaid, was wholly driven from that Cathedral. At Magdalen-College, the ' Power of Naming Fellows and Demies was, ' by the Commons in 1650, order'd to be left to ' their then Preſident.' At Corpus Chriſti no leſs than 23 of their new Fellows and Scholars were of wrong Counties: And I find another Inſtance of the ſame Kind at Lincoln. At Baliol-College all the Intruding Fellows were made actual the very Day of their Admiſſion (perhaps their firſt Fellow in this College beforemention'd, taught them that their new Set could not ſtand the Ordinary Teſt of a Year's Probation.) And as much as they Exclaim'd againſt Pluralities, where the Law allowed them, they admitted them where never any Law did: For one Mr. * Lee was by themſelves choſen into, and permitted to keep a Fellowſhip in both All Souls and Wadham-Colleges, at one and the ſame time.

Much the ſame they did likewiſe at Oriel. See Wood, Ant. Lib. 2. p. 413.

Ibid. p. 414.

Whitl. Mem. p. 413.

* Poſſibly the ſame Perſon whom they had alſo created A. M. and after diſpenſed with his being ſtanding for Proctor. See Wood, Ath. Vol. II. p. 743, 774.

To this muſt be added, that at Magdalen-College the new Preſident and Fellows broke open a Cheſt in the Treaſury, and ſhared among themſelves (chiefly at the Promotion of Henry Wilkinſon (ſen.) 1400 Spur Royals of old Gold, which the Founder himſelf had depoſited there, 'pro ' lustibus & placitis defendendis, etiam pro poſſeſſi- ' onibus, ſi opus fuerit, amplioribus acquirendis, ' & pro expetimis (quod abſit) Incendiis, & ' Ruinis Manerierum, &c. as the Statutes' declare the Uſes of it. The Week after Dr. Reynolds and his Two Proctors were going in like Manner to break open Bodley's Cheſt; but being aſſur'd by Rouſe the *Libraria*n (a confiding Brother) that there was no Money in it, they quitted their Enterpriſe. At the ſame time one of the new Savilian Profeſſors, and Mr. Ralph Button, (then made one of the Canons of Chriſt-Church) went to Mr. Rouſe for the Key of Sir H. Saville's Cheſt, to Plunder that likewiſe; but finding the Key was not in his Cuſtody, and being informed by him that they would find nothing in the Cheſt, they forbore to break it open: But tho' theſe Gentlemen were diſappointed of the Money which they expected, others of their Fraternity found Monies worth at Chriſt-Church: and to their perpetual Infamy, took down, and converted to their own private Uſes, the Timber of the Buildings at the North-ſide of the great Quadrangle

Wood Ath. Vol. II. p. 748, 749. Which however ſeveral of them after, reſtored, but others of them con- cealed to their own Uſes. See Wood Ath. Vol. II. p. 765

See Evelyn, Vindic. Relief Angl. p. 30, &c.

Wood, Ath. Vol. II. p. 602.

Pope's Life of Dr Ward, p. 14.

Digitized by Google

drangle, which the breaking out of the Rebellion had prevented from being covered: However, this, as Scandalous as it is, muſt be own'd was more excuſable than the Motion made to the Society by Two of their new Fellows at Queen's-College; Namely, 'That foraſmuch as the 'Younger Fellows had had Chambers, they would 'allow that the outward Chapel (which they ſaid 'was uſeleſs) might be converted into Chambers 'for them to Lodge in.' So juſtly doth the Writer of the Letter, at the End of Pegaſus, cloſe it with this Exclamation; 'and ſo farewel Honeſty, 'Civility, Learning, Piety, Civiliſianity, and 'welcome Bedlam, and Barbariſm, and Oppreſſion, 'and Hell, the only Jewels we are to receive in Ex-'change for a flouriſhing Univerſity.' Which ſad Truth, ſome other Gentlemen of this Univerſity took Care to tranſmit to the lateſt Poſterity, by a Medal ſtruck for the Occaſion, bearing on one Side a Sepulchral Pillar, thus inſcribed, 'P. M. Acad. Oxon. 1648.' on the Reverſe theſe Words, 'Deo Eccleſiæ principi Victimæ.' And the noble Lord Clarendon in the ſtill more laſting Monument of his Hiſtory, informs us to the ſame Purpoſe, that the Conſuſions they made were ſo great, that nothing but the ſpecial and extraordinary Providence of God could have preſerved the Univerſity from utter Ruine. His own Words are ſo very obſervable, that I ſhall tranſcribe them at large. After he had taken Notice of the Sedfaſtneſs of it, when his Majeſty's Affairs were at the loweſt Ebb; his Perſon in the Hands of his Enemies, and a ſtrict and ſtrong Garriſon was over them; the 'Invincible Arguments,' they had publiſh'd 'of the Illegality, Wickedneſs, and Perjury' of the Covenant; 'of the 'Learning, Courage and 'Loyalty of that excellent Place, againſt the higheſt Malice and Tyranny, that ever was exerciſed 'in, or over any Nation;' as likewiſe that the Ravagers expelled 'upon the Matter of the 'whole Univerſity; ſcarce one Governour and 'Maſter of College or Hall, and an incredible ſmall 'Number of the Fellows or Scholars ſubmitting,' and that 'they placed in their Rooms the moſt 'notorious Factious Preſbyterians,' as well in the Government, as Fellowſhips, &c. 'without any Regard to the Statutes of the ſeveral Founders, and the Incapacities of the 'Perſons that were put in:' He adds, 'it might 'reaſonably be concluded, that this wild and 'barbarous Depopulation would even extirpate 'all that Learning, Religion and Loyalty which 'had ſo eminently flouriſh'd there; and that the 'ſucceeding ill Husbandry and unſkilful Cultivation would have made it fruitful only in Ignorance, Prophanation, Atheiſm and Rebellion; 'but by God's wonderful Bleſſing, the Goodneſs 'and Richneſs of that Soil could not be made 'Barren by all that Stupidity and Negligence: 'It choaked the Weeds, and would not ſuffer 'the Poyſonous Seeds which were ſown with 'Induſtry enough, to Spring up; but after ſeveral Tyrannical Governments mutually ſucceeding each other, and with the ſame Malice and 'Perverſeneſs endeavouring to extinguiſh all good 'Literature, it yielded a Harveſt of extraordinary Good and Sound Knowledge, in all Parts 'of Learning: And many who were wickedly 'Introduced, applied themſelves to the Study of 'Good Learning, and the Practice of Virtue, 'and had Inclination to that Duty and Obedience they had never been Taught. So that 'when it pleaſed God to bring King Charles the 'Second back to his Throne, he found that Univerſity (not to undervalue the other, which 'had nobly likewiſe rejected the ill Infuſions 'which had been induſtriouſly poured into it) 'abounding in excellent Learning, and devoted 'to Duty and Obedience, little Inferior to what 'it was before its Deſolation: Which was a lively 'Inſtance of God's Mercy and Purpoſe for ever, 'to provide for his Church, that the Gates of 'Hell ſhall never prevail againſt it; which were 'never open'd Wider, nor with more Malice, 'than in that Time.'

Hiſt. Vol. II. P. 794.

P. 11.

Wood, Ant. Lib. I. f. 414.

I muſt not omit to Mention that the Parliament in 1665. being removed to Oxford (on Account of the Plague,) and the Commons then holding their Seſſion in the Convocation-Houſe, were pleaſed at the End of it to Order the Univerſity their Thanks, for that Accommodation; and took that Occaſion alſo by the Four Members (among whom was Mr. Lawrence Hyde, Son to the noble Earl of Clarendon, and afterwards the excellent Earl of Rochester) appointed for that Purpoſe to thank the 'Chancellor, Maſters, 'and Scholars of the Famous Univerſity of Oxford, for their Eminent Loyalty to his Majeſty, 'and to his Father of bleſſed Memory, during 'the Rebellion; particularly, for their Zeal and 'Courage in refuſing to be vitited by the uſurp'd 'Powers, and to Subſcribe the Solemn League 'and Covenant; and in Publiſhing to the World 'their Excellent Reaſons to juſtifie their Refuſal, 'and to aſſert his Majeſty's and their own 'Rights.' A greater Honour than which, ſaith Wood, could not have been done to this Univerſity. Wood, Ant. Lib. I. f. 415.

Vol. III. P. 56. 57.

I have only to add, that (if common Fame may be credited) a new Requeſtion at leaſt (not to ſay a Viſitation) was intended (had a late Impeachment ſucceeded, according to Expectation) for both the Univerſities, occaſion'd by the great Inconveniencies which were found in having the young Nobility and Gentry Educated in the Principles of Obedience to their Soveraign, and Affection to the eſtabliſh'd Worſhip; and therefore providing, that for the future no Clergyman ſhould be allowed to be Tutor to any young Gentleman, in either of the Univerſities, which ſurely would have been the firſt Inſtance in any Nation, whether Heathen or Chriſtian, of forbidding thoſe to Inſtruct the Children, who are by the Publick Laws and Appointments of the Kingdom entruſted with the Care of teaching the Parents.

From the Univerſity we muſt again turn our Eyes to the Parochial Clergy, whoſe Miſeries obliged many Thouſands of them, July 17 1647. to prefer a Petition to his Majeſty, Setting forth, 'That whereas they had a long time been deſtitute of all Livelihood, by means of Sequeſtration of their Eſtates, and other Loſſes, and at preſent driven to Extream Neceſſities, how to 'provide for themſelves and their Families; and 'the Seaſon now approaching for the receiving 'the Benefits of the Harveſt, before which time 'if ſome Charitable Courſe be not taken, they 'were like to Starve or Beg another Year;' and therefore praying his Majeſty to take their Sad Condition into his Gracious Conſideration and Care, that ſome freedy Courſe might be taken to preſerve them Alive, &c.

Clergy Petition to his Majeſty and the General.

Which Petition was ſent from the Committee of Lords and Commons for Plundered Miniſters to the Parliament and Aſſembly of Divines, then ſitting at Weſtminſter, and by them preſented to his Excellency the General.

1647. under the Title of Petitions of the ſequeſtred Clergy, In Order to make publick the Senſe of the General, and the Army, about the Tenants occupying the Rents, &c. of all Sequeſtred Eſtates, and more particularly, the Caſe of the Clergy, and the Parliament ſhould take an Ordinance for that Purpoſe, but it was hoped this Opinion of the Army would induce them to lay ſequeſtrations in or Sentence a general Ceaſe, but Matters being ſtood, and both an Ordinance was like to paſs timely enough to preſerve the Clergies ſubſiſtence the Produce of that Year, they Expect was propoſed, if haply it might encourage any of the Tenants to ſtop the Rents, &c. in their own Hands.

To this Petition his Majeſty return'd an Anſwer ſuitable to his wonted Goodneſs, and that new Scene of Grief open'd in his Royal Breaſt, on ſuch ſuch a repeated View of the Miſeries of his faithful Clergy, whom he was hardly capable of Serving in any kind, altho' they had been reduc'd to thoſe extream Miſeries, to preſerve their Allegiance to him: He therefore tells them 'How 'd'eply Senſible he was of their Condition, and 'how much in readineſs, the whatſoever was in 'his Power, for their Relief, ſhould not be 'wanting; but for the Preſent all that he could 'do, was, to recommend the Petition to the 'General, and the Commenders of the Army;' which he accordingly did, both by ſpecial Meſſengers, and by Word of Mouth, at ſeveral times: Which was all, the Clergy, as I conceive, had in View by this Petition; hoping probably (as a good part of the Nation then did) and therefore ſome whole Counties likewiſe Addreſs'd themſelves to the General) to make ſome Uſe of that Juncture, in which the Army and the Parliament had now been for ſome time at Variance; and therefore their chief Application (after this Recommendation of his Majeſty) was to Sir Thomas Fairfax, the General; To whom the following Petition was preſented Two Days after, if I miſtake not: 'To his Excellency 'Sir Thomas Fairfax, the Humble Petition of many Thouſands of the poor Sequeſter'd Clergy of England and Wales, humbly ſheweth, That 'whereas the Eyes of all the oppreſs'd People of 'the Kingdom are fixed upon your Excellency 'and the Army, as the Great Inſtruments (under God) to reſtore them to their Legal Rights 'and Liberties; which they do juſtly ground upon your ſeveral Declarations publiſh'd to the 'World: And whereas your Petitioners (a conſiderable Number of the Free-born Men of this Kingdom) have been for divers Years, 'Outed of their Livelihood and Freeholds, 'contrary to Magna Charta, and other Fundamental Laws of the Land, by the Arbitrary 'Power of Committees, whoſe Proceedings uſually 'have been by no Rule of any known Law, but 'by their own Wills; of whoſe Orders no Record is kept; nor ſcarce any Notes or Memorials, 'whereby it may appear, when, by whom, or 'for what, your Petitioners are remov'd; the Committees for Scandalous and for Plunder'd Miniſters (by whom the greateſt Part are turned out) being grounded, not ſo much as upon any Ordinance of both Houſes; the moſt of your Petitioners Outed for Refuſing the Covenant, or Adhering to the King, and the Religion Eſtabliſh'd, according to their Judgments and Conſciences, and of thoſe, divers NEVER CALLED TO ANSWER, SCARCE ONE HAD ANY ARTICLES PROVED BY OATH, OR OTHER LEGAL PROCESS; AND SOME PUT OUT UPON PRIVATE INFORMATION GIVEN TO THE CHAIRMAN MR. WHITE: By which UNHEARD OF PROCEEDINGS, NOT TO BE PARALLEL'D IN ANY AGE, our Petitioners who have lived heretofore in good Eſteem, according to their Calling, Degrees, Birth and Education, are reduced to EXTREAM MISERY AND WANT, WITH THEIR WIVES AND CHILDREN, THAT THEY MUST EITHER STARVE OR BEG, if ſome ſpeedy courſe be not taken for their Relief: And whereas thoſe men are put into our Places, labour by all means to ſtir up the People to overthrow the Kingdom in a new War, and are GENERALLY MEN IGNORANT, AND UNABLE TO INSTRUCT THE PEOPLE and MANY OF THEM SCANDALOUS IN THEIR PRACTICES, if impartially examined; and DIVERS OF THEM HOLD THREE OR FOUR OF THE BEſT BENEFICES, whilſt DIVERS OTHER CHURCHES ARE VOID, AND WITHOUT ANY CONSTANT PREACHER; and your Petitioners are ready to Submit themſelves for their Rights to Trial by the Known Laws of the Land; and if any appear Guilty of any Legal Scandal (which we know to have been Unjuſtly charged upon many, and is a great Part of their preſent Sufferings) we ſhall leave them to undergo the ſevereſt Puniſhment and Cenſure, which by any known Law can be inflicted: And foraſmuch as the main Proffits of our Benefices conſiſt in the Harveſt, which is now at hand, which many of the preſent Poſſeſſors, if they could receive, would preſently be gone; whereby the Burthen of the Cure will lay upon your Petitioners, having nothing to live upon all the next Year. Your Petitioners therefore humbly pray, That your Excellency would be pleas'd to make Stay of the Proffits of this Harveſt, in ſuch way as your Excellency ſhall think fit, that ſuch as are charged with any Legal Scandal, may come to a Juſt Trial, and both They (if they be found Innocent) and the reſt, may enjoy their Rights, and have the Benefit of Subjects, according to the known Law of the Land: And your Petitioners ſhall ever pray, &c.

Digitized by Google

Compl. Hiſt. of Engl. Vol. III. p. 155. Scobell, Chap. Hiſt. Vol. III. p. 43. & ſeq.

The Miſeries of the Clergy, which appear from this Petition, have been already remark'd on other Occaſions; and therefore I am now only to obſerve further, That this Addreſs was kindly receiv'd by the General, was ſeveral times debated in his Councils; and the Army having before determin'd to make a Propoſition to the Parliament, 'That the Eſtates of all Sequeſtered Perſons ſhould remain in the Hands of the Tenants 'until a General Peace be ſettled,' it was reſolv'd, That the Clergy ſhould be meant, and included in that Propoſal; and the Propoſition was accordingly After'd, and drawn anew, in ſtronger, and more general Terms, to comprehend and imply them; and in that manner (if I miſtake not) was not long after Tranſmitted to the Parliament: But the Difference betwixt the Army and the Houſes, ſoon after, being in Appearance leaſt, and for the preſent unhappily compos'd, without producing any good Effect, either to his Majeſty, or the Oppreſs'd Subject; theſe petitioning Clergymen, among the chief of them, found no Redreſs; altho' the Hopes which they conceiv'd, were ſo great, that they had begun to move in ſeveral Places, towards Outing the Uſurpers, and the General had on his own Single Authority, ‡ Empower'd (as I gueſs) ſome of them (at leaſt Dr. Layfield) to diſpoſſeſs the Intruders: Which, however, ſoon after, turned much to their Diſadvantage, and created them new Troubles: For on the Advances made towards the Re-eſtabliſhment of the Amity betwixt the Army and the Parliament, the Scene was quickly changed; and Aug. 12, (which was not a full Month after the Petition of the Sequeſter'd Clergy had been receiv'd and approv'd) ſome Miniſters of the Other ſide, preſented a Petition to that General, complaining, that divers Delinquent Miniſters, who were put out of their Livings, did now trouble, and ſeek to Out 'Thoſe Miniſters whom the Parliament put in 'and particularly, that Dr. Layfield had by a 'counterfeit Warrant from the General endeavour'd to remove ſuch a Miniſter from a Place in Surrey.'

‡ If I indge right from the Petition next mentioned: For tho' it ſaith, indeed, that the Warrant which Dr. Layfield produced, was Counterfeit; yet, if Dr. Layfield in fact produced any Warrant, I make no queſtion, but it was General's own Hand. But it was Wiſdom in the Petitioners, to ſuppoſe the Warrant to be General knew nothing of the Matter; ſince the New Friendſhip betwixt the Army and the Houſes was ſeemingly begun again.

Whitl. Mem. p. 267, 268.

Digitized by Google

These Proceedings, Sir Thomas Fairfax, and the Council of Officers, 'declar'd their Diſlike of; 'and ſignify'd their Reſolution of endeavouring to 'bring ſuch Offenders to Puniſhment:' And in order to it, wrote, as I preſume, to the Houſes: For the 19th of that Month the Lords (with whom the Commons alſo concurr'd) acquainted the General, 'That they would take care for the 'Puniſhment of thoſe Delinquent Miniſters, and 'others, by whoſe Practices Miniſters put into 'Livings by the Parliament, had been Diſquieted 'and Outed:' Which they accordingly proceeded Aug. 1647. to do forthwith, by an Ordinance of both Houſes (paſs'd the 23d of that month,) ſetting forth, Scob. Coll. Part 2. p. 231. 'That Whereas divers Miniſters in the ſeveral 'Counties had been diſplaced by Authority of 'Parliament, for notorious Scandals and Delin-'quency; and Godly, Learned and Orthodox Mi-'niſters had been placed in their Rooms: And 'whereas the ſaid Scandalous, &c. Miniſters, by 'Force, or otherwiſe, had entred upon the Churches, 'and gained the Poſſeſſion of the Tithes, &c. the 'Lords and Commons did therefore Ordain, That The Committees of Complaints were order'd alſo, in caſe of any Action brought by any of the Scand. Min. in right to the Perſon againſt whom the Action ſhould be brought. 'all Sheriffs, Mayors, Committees, &c. do forth-'with apprehend ſuch Miniſters, and all ſuch Per-'ſons as had been Aiding and Abetting to them, 'and commit them to Priſon; there to remain un-'til thoſe they had thus diſpoſſeſſed and moleſted, 'ſhould receive Satisfaction for their Damages: 'And that the ſaid Sheriffs, &c. do reſtore thoſe 'Moleſted Miniſters to the quiet Poſſeſſion of the 'reſpective Places; and do in caſe of Need, raiſe 'the Trained Bands, to put this Ordinance in ‡ Exe-'cution: and do alſo take effectual courſe, that 'the Tithes, Profits, &c. be for the future duly paid 'to thoſe Miniſters put in by Parliament, &c.' and if any ſuch Diſturbance ſhould hereafter be given, the Offender was adjudged to one month's Impriſonment toties quoties: Nor was this all; but Dec. 24, this Year, the Commons further order'd, 'That the Militia ſhould take ſtrict Comp. Hiſt. of Engl. Vol. III. p. 160 courſe to put out of the late Lines of Communication, all Delinquent Miniſters.'

But theſe were ſome of the laſt Efforts of the Preſbyterian Power; for ſoon after the Independent Intereſt, by means of the Army, prevailing in, and at length over the Parliament, not only the Regular Clergy began to Suffer under a new Set of Tyrants; but even ſome of the Preſbyterians, became Fellow-Sufferers, and were Involved in one common Calamity, with thoſe many Thouſands of ruin'd Loyaliſts, over whom they had themſelves for ſuch a long Courſe of Years, Lorded it, with ſo much Rigour and Cruelty.

The more obſervable Inſtance of this which firſt occurs, was in the matter of the Engagement, which might not Improperly have been call'd the Independent Covenant, and was an Oath ſet on Foot, for the Security of their new Model of Government, which after the Murther of the King, they had changed into that of a Commonwealth. 'That they might have ſome Obligation of Obe-'dience,' (ſaith the Lord Clarendon, ſpeaking of this new Form of Government) 'from their *Sub-*Hiſt. Vol. III. p. 204. 'jects for the Future, who had broke all the former Oaths, which they had taken, a new 'Oath was prepared and eſtabliſhed, which they 'call'd the Engagement; the Form whereof was, 'That he would be True and Faithful to the Govern-'ment Eſtabliſh'd without King or Houſe of Peers; 'and whoſoever refuſed to take that Engagement, 'ſhould be Incapable of holding any Place or 'Office in Church or State; the Neceſſity of tak-'ing which Oath, did not only exclude all of the 'Royal Party, but freed them from very many who 'had Offices in Church and State, who being of 'the Preſbyterian Party, durſt not Sacrifice their 'beloved Covenant to this new Engagement.'

For Engagement.

October the 11th 1649. the Commons reſolv'd, that all their own Members ſhould Subſcribe it forthwith; the Day following, they Order'd, that the General, the Officers, &c. and in a Word, all Officers Civil, as well as Military (as low as Stewards of Mannors, and even Taylors) and many others ſhould do the like: And what more concerns me to take notice of, 'That all Miniſ-'ters, in all Borroughs, Cities and Towns Corporate, Heads of Colleges and Halls, in the Uni-verſities, Fellows of Houſes, and all Graduats and 'Officers, Maſters, Fellows, Schoolmaſters and 'Scholars, in the Colleges of Eton, Winchcſter and Weſtminſter,' ſhould take it; 'And that no 'Miniſter be admitted to any Benefice, till he 'have Subſcribed it; nor any Sit as a Member 'of the Aſſembly of Divines, nor any Miniſter 'have a new Augmentation, or enjoy any longer 'his old One, unleſs he Subſcribe it; and that 'every Miniſter to be preſented to any Living, 'do ſubſcribe it within 6 Months, publickly in the 'Face of the Congregation. The 24th of the ſame Month they referred it to a Committee, 'To conſider of all Former Engagements, made 'from the beginning of this Parliament,' (in order as I preſume, to Aboliſh the Covenant) 'And 'to preſent their Opinion to the Houſe, what is 'fit to be Done, to take away Miſ-conſtructions, 'that are put upon them, and to undeceive the 'People therein.' And that this new Covenant might come nothing ſhort of the old One, the 9th of November following, it was referr'd to a Committee, 'To conſider, how the Engagement 'may be Subſcribed by all the People of this Nation.' Purſuant to which, a Bill for that purpoſe was prepar'd, and read a Firſt and Second Time, and committed the 27th of the laſt mention'd Month, and paſſed the 2d of January following.

Mr. Scobel hath preſerved nothing, but the bare Title of this Act, and having not been able otherwiſe to get a Sight of it as yet, I cannot give the Reader any other Account of it, than what he may himſelf gather from the forementioned Reſolutions of the Houſe, on which it was drawn up; much leſs can I Account for the Manner preſcribed by it for taking of this new Oath, the Commiſſioners or other Perſons Authoriz'd by the Act to Adminiſter it, the * Penalties appointed for the refuſal of it, or any of thoſe other Particulars, which he might wiſh to be inform'd of; and having received but few Notices relating to the Execution of it, I cannot ſay, with what Rigour it might be done: Nor am I furniſh'd with any other obſervable Particulars, relating to that matter, than what will afterwards occur in the Liſt, Coll. Part 2. p. 201. * Only the Reader will obſerve from thoſe Reſolutions of the Houſe, that Incapacity of having any Place, or Augmentation for the future, was one of them; and by what immediately follows, that all Maſters, Fellows, &c. in the Univerſities, who did not take it, were to be Expelled from the Places, which they already had. And as it is reaſonable to inferre, the ſame Appointment had been made, relating to the Parochial Clergy, ſo in Fact it ſeems to appear from hence, that I find many of them turned out on the score of the Engagement.

I therefore muſt at preſent content my ſelf with ſaying in general, that a peculiar Care was taken of the Univerſities; it being order'd (June 21, 1650) 'That the Committee for 'regulating the Univerſities, ſhould examine what 'Officers, Maſters, Fellows, &c. did Neglect or 'refuſe to take the Engagement, purſuant to the 'late Act for that Purpoſe, and ſhould have Power 'to diſplace them, and place other able and fit 'Perſons in their Room;' That ſeveral of thoſe few Royaliſts who had been left, or were afreſh ſprung up in either of the Univerſities, ſince the The Abridgment, p. 61. ſeems to ſuggeſt, that many of the Epiſcopal Divines took it. See particularly, what is before cited out of the Life of Dr Allefby, under the Account of the Oxford-Viſitation.

firſt

first Regulations, were now dispossessed, and with them several of those very Persons who (in Oxford but the Year before) had themselves ejected others of the Royalists, and succeeded in their Places; and among them some of their new Heads, more particularly, at Oxon, Dr. Reynolds, who had been one of the most active Visitors, was appointed their first Vice Chancellor, and made Dean of Christ-Church, by them, as hath been before observ'd at large; That under the Propagation in Wales (of which I shall next speak) the Neglect or Refusal of this Oath, was laid to the Charge of many of the Clergy, Sequester'd in those Parts; that it found out, and Dispossess'd several Loyal Clergymen likewise in the several Counties of England, but in what Numbers these, or any of the rest were Dispossess'd, I have not sufficient Grounds so much as for Conjectures; and that this Engagement, which had thrust out the Governors, was it self in like manner Abolished by an Ordinance of Cromwell (then Protector) and his Councils, Jan. 19, 1653. such were the Mutations of those Times of Murder.

Bomb Collect. Part 2. p. 277 Swaffh. p. 289

The Propagation of the Gospel in Wales.

These were the first Enterprises of the Independent Tyranny; but the Diligence of their Predecessors having before carried the Reformation to so great an height, there were not so many Royalists left unstarved in England, as in the Ruder and more Remote Parts of North and South Wales, nor very much to be done there, without the Invention of some new Methods of Rapine and Tyranny. That part of the Kingdom had hitherto, partly, as I conceive, by their Loyalty, and partly by the Barrenness of their Country, protected the Clergy there, from bearing an equal Share of Misery with the Rest of their Brethren: Thither the Parliament therefore now (at the Direction of some, who will be by and by mention'd) turn their Eyes, and by a double Portion of Oppression, make the Clergy of these Counties sadly compensate for the Delay of their Sufferings.

They had not indeed before been altogether without a Taste of that bitter Cup, tho' their Brethren in England had been made to Drink deeper of it: For June 26, 1641. I find mention of a Petition from a certain Ministers, who had been Authoriz'd by a Committee of the House of Commons, 'To Preach where there was want of 'Preaching in Wales; which was, I make no Question, preparatory to the same Design, that they carry'd on in England, by their Factious Lecturers: Afterwards when the Committees for Sequestration (of which I have already spoken at large) were Erected in the several Counties, the Clergy in these Parts felt in some measure the Effects of them; for in an Account of the Proceedings of the Propagators in Wales (of which I shall say more by and by) I find mention made of Ministers Ejected before the Act; which in Brecon were 6, in Radnor the like Number, in Monmouthshire 16, in Glamorgan 28, (and possibly a proportionable Number were Ejected in some of the Counties of North Wales) and these I take to be such, as had been Ejected by these Committees.

Sect. 20. 1650 of this and for Carmarthen, Pembroke and Cardigan

But the more general Desolation among them was Effected by the Act for the Propagation of the Gospel, as it was call'd, which had an Original suitable to the Hypocrisie of its Title, and the foul Sacrilege of its Execution: for Hugh Peters, having followed Cromwell, into Ireland, was sent back from thence into Wales, with the Commission of a Colonel, to raise a Regiment: Where having miss-spent his Time, and raised but Three Companies, Cromwell's Wife drew up Articles against him, which Hugh Peters being Informed of, contriv'd, together with one Colonel Philip Jones of Swansey, and one Mr. Sampson Lort, 'To Settle a Congregati-

'onal Church of their own Invention;' hoping by that means to make it Evident, that instead of having lost any Time, he had been all the while very well Employ'd: And afterwards going to London, and being Requested to leave his Advice, 'How to drive on that great Design 'of Propagating the Gospel in Wales,' he briefly deliver'd it to this Effect; that 'THEY 'MUST SEQUESTER ALL MI-'NISTERS WITHOUT EX-'CEPTION, and bring the Revenues of 'the Church into one publick Treasury; out of 'which must be allowed an Hundred a Year to 'Six Itinerant Ministers, to Preach in every 'County;' which was the Model they afterwards proceeded upon, and did in a manner Finish and Compleat it.

Ibid. p. 81.

But Peters, the great Master-Builder, having thus left them, as soon as he had Design'd and Laid them out the Platform of this Babel, the Care of carrying it on, was committed to Valwyn Powell, * Walter Cradock, and some other Enthusiasts of those Parts; who for that End endeavour'd to represent their Countrymen to the Parliament 'as Pagans and Infidels, and a People 'that understood nothing of God, or of the Power of Godliness, and so had need to be Converted to the Faith;' and made it their Business in the Country, by all possible Methods of Calumny and Reproach, to Decry not only the Old Ministers, but the Ministry it self, and the Tithes, and Revenues, by which they were Supported, as Babylonish and Antichristian; and this they did more particularly from the Pulpit, with all the bitter Railings and Invectives, that can be Imagin'd. The Character of Hugh Peters, is so well known, that nothing need be mention'd of him in this Place; but it will be requisite to say something in particular of Valwyn Powel; as well because he will be afterwards frequently mention'd, on Account of the great part he Acted in the Propagation; as because his Enthusiasms and Blasphemies, tho' almost numberless, seem not to be so commonly known, as those of Hugh Peters are.

* If I am ill mistaken in his Christ. Name. Mercr. Cambr. Brit. p. 1. See also Pet. of S. Wales. p. 10, 22.

This Apostle therefore of the Welch Counties, was the Son of one Powell a poor Ale-man, and Badger of Oatmeal, of Knucklas in Radnorshire, by a Daughter of Will. Valwyn of Newton, in Montgomeryshire, call'd Penelope; but it seems, not altogether so Chast, as her Predecessor of that Name; nor was our Young Saint wanting to assist in this Infamy of the Family, being 'By 'his own Confession (during his Minority) wil-'ling to approve of all Games, were they never 'so Wanton or Vile, for his Mother or Sisters 'Livelihood.' But his Genius, as he grew up, being too great for the Attendance of a Common Ale-house, he Attempted, and Obtained an Higher Post, which was that of 'An Hostler (I wou'd 'say Groom) to Mr. Isaack Thomas, an Inn-keeper and Mercer in Bishops-Castle in Shropshire;' after this (as he used to Boast himself, and as it seems Mr. Bagshaw, who recommended him to the World, Suggests) he went to Jesus-College in Oxon; altho' the Truth of that Particular did not appear to Wood, by any other Evidence: But be that as it will, it is certain he afterwards became a Schoolmaster, and at length a Preacher, at Clun in Shropshire, not only without any Degree, but without any Orders likewise, save what he 'Borrowed of an old decay'd Minister (his near 'Kinsman;) out of which razing the other's 'Name, and Inserting his own, under the Colour of these counterfeit Letters missive, he goeth unsent, and begins to Thunder out of the 'Pulpits'; —— but by reason of his Inconformity, and the many Errors which he Broached 'his Serena Valoriensis I or an Hue & Cry after Mr. Vavasor Powell, p. 1. There is a Life of him said to be wrote by his dear Friend and Fellow-Sufferer, R. Bagshaw; which I have not seen. See Wood, Ath. Vol. II. p. 343.

Hue and Cry. p. 2.

Wood ubi supra,

Wood, ibid.

Hue and Cry. p. 2.

I fee of H. Peters by W. Young. M. D. (at whose House in Milford H. Peters lodged) printed in 1663.

Ibid. p. 80.

Digitized by Google

'His Calling was Queſtion'd, and the Orders being well ſcann'd, were found Spurious and Counterfeit, and he bound to appear at the next great Seſſions, to be held for that County of Radnor; where appearing, and Indicted for Nonconformity, Jerging of Orders, and Seditious Doctrine, was with much ado Reprieved from the Gallows.'

Where he had the uſe of ſome Lands, Exercis. fol.

Ibid.

But before this having 'Lived a while (as the Hue and Cry expreſſes it) tho' not purely Chaſt, yet a Single Life —— he was ſo taken with Sweet and Dear Mrs. Quartel, ſometimes a Walking Pedlar, and Seller of Hot-Waters, in Preſteign in Radnorſhire, —— and her Husband ſhortly Deceaſing, tho' his Dead Corps had not lain a Fortnight in the Grave, they being Sweetly Endeared the one with the other, ſee proves to be his Conſort; and ſo he carries her as a Dear Siſter about, tho' her little Child lately depriv'd of his Father, and now Rob'd of his Mother, raiſed the Hue and Cry after them.'

Hue and Cry, p. 3. Wood ubi ſupra.

Hiſt. Anſw. Nonc. p. 344.

'Upon his being Queſtion'd at the Seſſions, and denyd the Liberty of Preaching in the Counties, he Preached privately in Houſes, and often in the open Fields, under Hedges, on the Mountains in Radnorſhire, continually Railing at the Common-Prayer, but being often Diſturbed and interrupted in his Courſe, he went into England, came to London in 1642, where at that time he had full Liberty to vent (as he did almoſt every Day for two Years together) all the Sedition and Blaſphemy, that could well be thought of: After that he removed to Dartford in Kent, (was ſometime alſo in Eſſex) and his own Country being at length reduced under the Power of the Parliament, he returns thither, recommended by a Certificate from the Aſſembly of Divines; and when the Petty Bag for the Propagation[1] was Set on Foot, in order to promote it, he became 'An Active and Vigorous, as the perpetual Motion of a Tongue, or the Invention of a wicked Brain could poſſibly be, for the Rooting out of the Miniſtry, Branding the Calling as Antichriſtian, and vending the groſſeſt, ly'd Scandalous Aſperſions to become Oracles to the People.' By the ſame Method himſelf and his Colleagues likewiſe helped on the Execution of it, which they had obtained it from the Parliament, as will be ſaid by and by. In the mean time, as he had been the chief Promoter of the Act; ſo he was Named a Commiſſioner in it, and was alſo one of the Tinerants (even Metropolitan, or rather Patriarch of them) and a Plyner under it; and 'For his Encouragement in the Worke (ſaith the Hue and Cry) he had his Stipend and Salary of an Hundred Pounds a Year allowed unto him out of Prebends, Dean and Chapters, and other Tithes, beſides the vaſt Emoluments of many other Sequeſter'd Benefices in North-Wales, which were, and continue Daily Paid unto him; and received Tickets from the Commiſſioners in South-Wales for the like Sum, beſides the Wages of divers Tinerants and Sc——lmaſters, who are but his Journeymen and Step-children.' Inſomuch that in a ſhort Time he was enabled to Purchaſe ſome of his Majeſty's Fee-Farm Rents and Lordſhips ('tho' for the moſt part ſtil'd in the Name of another Perſon) and to Build himſelf 'A very Fair and Sumptuous Houſe in Kent, within the County of Montgomery,' which 'tis ſure the Inheritance of Old Hazel of Knowſley, could never have bu[illegible]d him to do, all he'd the Impudence to Perſwade Jn. Jones (as his Anſwer was) before God and Men, 'That he never receiv'd a Penny for his Pains and Preaching.' It is poſſible his Receive for this may be had no 'Dollar, as and

In 1654, when the Hue and Cry was written.

Ibid. p. 15.

See the Petition of S. Wales, p. 17.

Which, ſaith the Hue and Cry, would make a Volume, were they all recited, p. 10. but to mention any more of his Lies, is any of his Objectors were Hue and Cry, p. 3.

[1] Ibid. p. 9.

[2] Ib. p. 10

Ibid. p. 16.

Ibid.

in the Capacity of an Itinerant; but 'tis ſure that in Quality both of Propagator and Farmer; and in other Reſpects likewiſe) he Reaped very conſiderable Advantages; as evidently appears, both from what is now ſaid, and from the Life of Hugh Peters (before mention'd) nor to obſerve the groſs Faithood of this Aſſeveration on other Accounts, which was undeniably Prov'd to his Face, at the very Time, that he Utter'd it from the Pulpit.

However, it muſt be own'd, that the Services he perform'd, were equal to all the Money that he took for them; being both as a Commiſſioner and an Itinerant, the moſt active and induſtrious Perſon of any that ſerved in either of thoſe Capacities: And when the Perſion (of which I am to ſpeak hereafter) was preſented to th. Parliament, againſt the Propagators, leaving no Means (whether Lawful or otherwiſe,) unattempted, whereby he might ſurpreſs and diſappoint it.

It may not be amiſs to produce a few Particulars of his Tyranny and Oppreſſion, either with the Authority and Countenance of the former of thoſe Stations, and of his Enthuſiaſtic and Blaſphemies in the other of 'em, binding over ſome to the Seſſions, ſeizing of * others without Cauſe, and Impriſoning the ejected Miniſters, ſeem to have been very common and familiar with him, under Preſence that th' godly Party in Wales were in 'danger of their Lives, and that Two 'and Forty of them were Slain at the Hearing 'of the ejected Miniſters Sermons,' (which was a known falſhood:) He got a Commiſſion to raiſe Forces, but the Uſe he made of them, was to Tyrannize over the poor oppreſs'd People, and by the Help of them to Plot & his Agents and Farmers, to gather the Tithes, entring particularly the Grounds of one Mr. Kinnaſton, with thoſe Myrmydons, and compelling him to pay the Tithes contrary to former Orders: He Arreſted and Impriſon'd Mr. Hugh Lloyd of Brecknock, (a Gentleman of a good Eſtate, and ſome time a Juſtice of Peace) and kept him in Cuſtody, 'without Bail or Mainprize, until he 'paid him an hundred Pounds, and this upon a 'bare Arreſt, and none durſt Bail him.' He framed no leſs than Threeſcore Articles againſt Mr. Hum. Jones of Welch-Pool, which he intended to exhibit againſt him at the Seſſions, becauſe he burned ſome Notes which he had formerly taken of the Sermons of ſome of the old Miniſters, and which Valvaſor Powel demanded of him, in hopes out of them to Frame ſome Accuſations againſt thoſe poor Gentlemen; but Mr. Jones having prepar'd Counter-Articles againſt him, which he was ſatisfied he could not ſtand the Examination of, he propoſes to him mutually to drop the Articles on each Side, which Mr. Jones readily conſented to, and in the honeſty of his Invention ſpent no more Thoughts on that Matter; but on the laſt Day of the Seſſions, Valvaſor, contrary to his Promiſe, perfidiouſly produced ſeveral Witneſſes againſt Mr. Jones, and among them a poor Fellow of his Congregation, that lived on the Alms of the Pariſh, who Swore ſome Matters of Fact againſt Mr. Jones, of which he laid he was an Eye-witneſs; whereas in Truth he had only been before prepared and inſtructed by Valvaſor Powel. And at Mr. Jones's Requeſt, the Judge asking the Fellow if he knew Mr. Jones, he at laſt confeſs'd in open Court that he did not, tho' Mr. Jones was then preſent at the Bench: To this I ſhall only add, that a Lewd Woman of his Congregation alledging ſhe was married to a Man (who had indeed formerly lived in a wicked Fornicatory with her, but was then married to, and lived honeſtly with another Woman of good Reputation) Valvaſor takes the Matter in Hand, and to effectually Proſecutes it in Favour of his Female Saint, that upon

Ibid.

See ibid. p. 15.

*4 Aſſeſſed at 20 l. per Ann. for Sequeſtrations and Arrears for N. Wales, and the County [illegible] to accept [illegible] for [illegible] Arrears [illegible] Ann. [illegible] Ann. [illegible] Ann.

'the bare Evidence of the wicked Woman, 'the poor Man was convicted, burnt in the Hand, 'and Divorced from his honeſt Wife, tho' it had 'been formerly proved before a Juſtice of Peace 'that this Lewd Woman lay that Night (in 'which ſhe Swore, that ſhe was married to 'the Man) with another Knave.'

As for his Enthuſiaſms and Blaſphemies, I ſhall only produce ſome of thoſe, which are mention'd in the Hue and Cry; and previous to thoſe, it may well be Remember'd, that once, in order to poſſeſs the People with an Opinion of his having a Spirit of Prophecy, he ſent a Meſſenger, on proſpect of ſome Action betwixt the King's Forces, and thoſe of the Parliament, to know the Event; of which, being inform'd over Night, he wrote a Letter Directed to himſelf, and Deliver'd it to his Servant, with Orders to go ſome Miles off, and return to him with it, by what time he might gueſs, he ſhou'd come out of Church; and then takes Occaſion in his Pulpit to encourage the People, by telling them, 'It was Revealed to him 'that Night, that the Enemy ſhould be Diſtreſs'd;' and wiſh'd them never to Believe he was 'A 'Prophet ſent from the Lord,' if they did not ſhortly hear of it; nay, for ought he knew, before they went from that Place; which accordingly happen'd, when the Fellow purſuant to his Inſtructions, came, and deliver'd him the Letter at the Church-Door.

See alſo the Hymn that he compoſed, and ſung upon the Reſtoration of Charles Ch. in London, p. 34.

But lec us ſee, how well his Doctrine concurr'd with his Miracles, to prove the Truth of his Miſſion. At Waiſh-Pool in Montgomeryſhire, he not only aſſerted Chriſt's Perſonal Reign a Thouſand Years on Earth; but affirmed, That 'himſelf was to ſit next unto him.' At Llandeſty in Brecknockſhire, he affirmed, that 'Chriſt 'was actually come a Second time; that a Girl 'in London ſaw him, as a Godly Man aſſur'd 'him; and that themſelves ſhould ſhortly ſee 'him.' At Guildfield in Montgomeryſhire, he preach'd, 'That Chriſt was not the Redeemer of 'the World:' And after, in excuſe for himſelf, told thoſe who queſtion'd with him about it, they muſt not always hearken to what he ſaid. At another time, he affirm'd, 'Chriſt had no 'Church, either in England or Wales;' and 'that the Words of Chriſt in the 13th of 'Matthew, concerning the Tares and the Drag- 'net, were contrary to other Scriptures.' At Manavon in Montgomeryſhire, he taught, that 'all our Fore-fathers were Damn'd, from this 'Place of Scripture, 'Then they alſo which are 'fallen aſleep in Chriſt, are periſhed.' And to juſtifie an Holy Siſter of his Congregation, who had drown'd her ſelf in a Well, he taught publickly in his Sermon, that ſhe was 'a Saint in Heaven;' That ſhe came to her End by the 'Motion of the 'Holy Spirit:' For that it often happen'd, that the Saints, when 'Filled with the Spirit, run 'into great Pools, inſtead of Green Meadows; and ſo 'Embracing their Saviour, make an end of their Lives 'by Divine Providence.' And at Guildfield aforeſaid, affirmed that 'the War- 'Horſes ſhould ſhortly made up to the Reins in the 'Blood of the Parithioners, and other the 'E-'nemies of the Saints;' and that he doubted not, but 'he ſhould live to ſee it.'

Ibid. Ibid. p. 5. P. 6. P. 7. P. 6. Ibid. P. 8. P. 10.

I am perſuaded nothing more need be alledg'd, in order to give the Reader a Notion of his Doctrine; and ſhall therefore only add concerning him, that being an Irreconcilable Enemy to the ſingle Government of Cromwell, he was ſeveral times thrown into Priſon by him; that afterwards leaving his own Country again, he vented his Enthuſiaſms in ſeveral parts of England, particularly at Salisbury and Oxford, (at the former of which Places, he alſo Headed a Party, againſt the Riſing of the Cavaliers, in 1654,) that continuing his Factions and Seditious Practices, he was both on the Proſpect of, and after the Reſtoration, ſeveral times taken into Cuſtody; and that being alſo depriv'd of his Ill Purchaſed Lands, he Died at laſt in the Fleet-Priſon, about the latter End of the Year 1670. As to his Character, Wood ſeems juſtly to have obſerved, that in point of Profeſſion, he was 'Neither Preſbyterian, nor Indepen- 'dent,' but eſteem'd by ſome an Anabaptiſt, and by others a Fifth-Monarchy-Man, and with regard to his Practice, the Author of the 'Hue and Cry' ſaith, that he had 'Paſſed by no Perſon or Pro- 'feſſion, but had either Viſited the One, or Tra- 'duced the Other; that his Cruelties had been ſo 'Immane, and his Cheats ſo Frequent,' that they were too many to be recount'd. Such was the chief Inſtruments of Obtaining, and Executing this Act of Propagation; which may therefore well be expected, both in the Nature, and ſad Events of it, to have been Anſwerable to this Original; and ſo in Truth it was, as I come now to ſhew.

Wood, Ath. Vol. II. p. 345 Gen. alſo the Hue and Cry, ſeem. p. 12, to the End.

Hue and Cry, p. 22.

Wood, Ath. Vol. II. p. 347.

Ibid. p. 346.

In 1653. was publiſhed a Pamphlet, entituled, 'Examen & Purgamen 'Vavaſinis,' attempting the Vindication of the Proceedings in the Protection, &c. and after he was in the Fleet, himſelf publiſh'd 'A 'brief Narrative concerning the Ejected 'Clergy;' Occaſioned by a Report, that he had been thrown into that Priſon for ſome of the Particulars of the Sequeſtred Livings (Wood, Ath. Vol. II. p. 146) But I have not yet ſeen either of thoſe Pieces.

' Preſ. to the Reader.

Mr. Scobel, in his Collection of the Acts and Ordinances of thoſe Times, hath indeed preſerved nothing but the bare Title of this Memorable Act; nor have I otherwiſe been able to get a Sight of it as yet; and therefore the Account, which I ſhall be forced to give of it, will be much leſs perfect, than I could wiſh. It paſs'd February 22. 1649, and was (according to the uſual Hypocriſie of the Times) call'd 'An Act for the better 'Propagation, and Preaching of the Goſpel in 'Wales,' and for 'Ejecting Scandalous Miniſters 'and Schoolmaſters, and Redreſs of ſome Grievances.' It Included the Counties of North, as well as South Wales; and with the Latter, the County of Monmouth alſo, and was to continue Three Years, from the 25th of March 1650, at which time it did (If I do not miſtake the Intimation of ſome Notices, for I am not certain) in Fact expire; nor was it Renewed by any other Act, or Ordinance, that I remember to have met with. And at the ſame Time, ſome of the Clergy found a means to Re-poſſeſs themſelves of their Livings, but I judge they were very few, which met with this good Fortune; ſince I find, that far the greater Part of the Livings of South Wales (and therefore probably thoſe of North Wales alſo) continued in the Hands of the Sequeſtrators, in the Years †1655, 1656, 1657, and 1658, and ſo Queſtionleſs, home to the Reſtoration.

Scob. Collect. Par. 2. p. 104.

See alſo Mer. Camb. Brit. p. 12. Perhaps the Pendency of Sequeſtring any more Livings (by reaſon of this Act) was then ceaſed, but thoſe Sequeſtrations which ſhould by that time be made, were doubtleſs continued.

* I have met with one or two Inſtances (and no more, that I at preſent remember) of this kind.

† As I find by the Accompts of ſeveral of the Agents for Glamorganſhire, for the Three firſt of thoſe Years, and the Return of the Sheriff of Brecon (of which more by and by) for the laſt of them.

The great Deſign of this Act (according to the Plan laid down by Hugh Peters, and Inceſſantly Proſecuted by the Miſſionaries, as is before ſaid) was (in purſuit of thoſe wild Opinions of Tithes, which had now obtained, as hath been already ſaid in another Place) to pluck up the whole Miniſtry by the Roots, at leaſt to Aboliſh utterly the Inſtitution of Parochial Miniſters (to which no Method can be equal, for the real Propagation of the Goſpel, and the Adminiſtration of its ſeveral Offices) to get into their own Hands, the * whole Eccleſiaſtical Revenue, of that Part of the King-

See Agol. preface to the Mercu. Camb. Brit. p. 2.

‡ A Book ſhewing which this Nation had perhaps enjoyed beyond any other in the whole Chriſtian World.

 See Dugd. Short View, p. 205.

Digitized by Google

dom, and to supply the Churches with a few Occasional and Stipendiary Preachers. Nor were these Intentions confined to the Barren Country of Wales; this remote Part of the Kingdom being only fingled out for the Experiments, which they purpos'd to have enlarged to an equal Extent with that of the whole Nation, had they found this Execution of their Project, to have succeeded according to their Wishes, as those who freak of the Propagation in Wales, Unanimously * affirm; and an Act for the same purposes was in fact † passed (soon after this for Wales) with the Inclusive Title, mutatis mutandis, for the four Northern Counties of Northumberland, Cumberland, Westmorland and Durham; but what Proceedings were had upon it, I am altogether uninformed; and not only so, but in Cromwell's little Parliament, the Project was so far advanc'd, that, as the ‡ Abridgment it self informs us, the Question was put, 'whether all the Parish Ministers of England should at once be put down, or no; and it 'was but accidentally carry'd in the Negative, 'by two Voices; and it was taken for granted, 'that Tithes, and Universities would next be 'Voted down.

Something like this seems to have been practis'd in Cornwall. See what is said in accounting for the Success (or rather the no Success) there, to the Objection placed by the Committees in the Country, and also under the Head of Tithes.

* See Dugd. Short View, also Supra. Dr. Young's Life of H. Peters. Title-Page, and Pref. to Mer. Cambr. Brit. p. 2: That Author, p. 2. Mere. Politic. p. 6, 12. Politic. of S. Wales, p. 18, and Abridgm. p. 67, 68. See alfo what hath been already said on the Method of Tithes (good part of which was plainly preparatory to this Defign) and particularly the Letter of Advice sent to the Houfe Dec. 23, 1651.

† See Whitl. Mem. p. 427, and Scob. Collect. Part 2, p. 116. Where the Title of it is Occasionally mentioned. ‡ P. 68.

To the purposes therefore before mentioned, Commissioners were named by the Act; and any Twelve, or more of them, were authorized by themselves, or others, deriving Authority from them, to receive, and dispose of all, and singular the Rents, Issues, and Profits of all, and every the Rectories, Vicarages, Donatives 'without Cure, Portions of Tenths, and other Ecclesiastical Livings, which * then were, or afterwards should be in the disposing of the Parliament, or any other deriving Authority from 'em; as also to receive, and dispose of the Rents, Issues, and Profits of all † Impropriations, and 'Glebe Lands within the said Counties, which 'then were, or afterwards shou'd be under Sequestration, or in the disposal of the Parliament.—And out of the said Rents, &c. To Order and Appoint a constant Yearly Maintenance for such Persons, as should be Recommended and Approv'd for the Work of the Ministry, or Education of Children, and for such other Ministers, as were then Residing in the said Counties.'

See Scob. Coll. Part 2. p. 147. Where this part of the Act happens to be recited.

* By vertue of which Clause, and the correspondling one laft before, there came into their hands, not only the Livings, &c. which themselves, by the Authority of this Act, did put under Sequestration; but alfo thofe Livings which had been before Sequeftred in thofe Parts by the Commitees, &c. which heirs been already mentioned, and all Lincolnfhire and thofe Parts of the Act, and fome Eafts which feem to interpret it, unjuftifiably, that in the Account of the State of the Counties of S. Wales, given in Apr. 1652, (of which more will be faid by and by) the Rivers fuppofed it before this Act, are fettered; (See alfo the Paft of S. Wales, p. 32. Within' it may be, the Propagators forbore to take into their Cuftody thofe Livings, into which the Committees, who had gone before them in the Work of Sequeftration, had put fuch Succeffors as were acceptable to them. This, however, is fure, that for the greater part of the Livings mentioned in that Account, as fequeftred before the Propagation, appear in the Accompts of the Sequeftrators and Agents alfo: And perhaps there was a Clauſe in the Act, which fome may or other, refted the Commiffioners with fuch Livings as fhould become Void by Death, or otherwife. This, at leaft, is certain, that fevoral inftances occur, where Livings which were thus Voided, appear to have been in the Hands of the Propagators.

† By which I underſtand not the utter Alienations of Tithes, or other Eccleſiaſtical Dues, into Lay Hands (which is the more common ſence of the Word) but ſuch Revenues, &c. as we more uſually call Appropriations, or Tithes, &c. belonging to Cathedrals, or employed to other Eccleſiaſtical Purpoſes. The Act, if I am not miſtake in, did not indeed to include, or meddle with the Impropriations of the former ſort; and the Sequeſtrators and Agents in their Accompts (which will be afterwards ſpoken of) do in no Place of them plainly miſtake Word in this latter ſignification: For thefe the contrary appears in any other Place, as I have obſerved, or as remember: And in the County of Monmouth, where they had poſſeſſion of more Livings than in any one County beſides, the Title of the Laſt for the Year 1650, is this; A Liſt of the Tithes, &c. belonging to the Scandalous Miniſters. And to this, that I find Inſtruments in ſeveral of thoſe Impropriations (even in Thoſe which are in the Accompts expreſſly ſaid to belong to the Cathedrals) and thoſe too ſometimes not Vicars only but Vicarages of the Impropriate Rectories, nor Curates only with Stipends, but even Reftors, in ſome of them: Which would have inclined me to think, there might be among them Donatives, or Sine-Cures, but that the Act it ſelf ſeems to have put a manifeſt Difference between theſe and the Impropriations. And on the whole, I am altogether at a Loſs, what to make of many of thoſe Impropriations, which appear in the Hands of the Sequeſtrators and Agents, and are uſually in their Accompts taken expreſly notice of, and diſtinguiſhed from the Other Livings; unleſs by them are to be underſtood Appropriations; and thoſe too, in a ſence, we altogether the ſame with what we uſually underſtand, even by that Word. Quere.

Among theſe Commiſſioners, was, * Valvaſor Powell (as is before ſaid) but the Act likewiſe Erected another ſort of Commiſſioners, which were call'd † Approvers, whoſe Buſineſs it was, as I ſuppoſe, to Examine and Pronounce upon ſuch, as ſhould offer themſelves to Serve in the Itinerary-way of Promulging the Goſpel; and perhaps thoſe few others, who ſhould be Authoriz'd to Settle on any Place, or continue in it; which Examination and Approbation was by the Act (if I do not miſtake) allow'd of as a ſufficient Miſſion, to Preach the Goſpel, without other Orders, of any kind whatſoever; and Mr. Powell, was one of them, that were Veſted with this Truſt likewiſe.

* See Mere. Camb. Brit. p. 1.

† Hist. and Cry. p. 8, 9.

‡ But query: For in the Ordinance of 1653, which ſtyled the Grand Commiſſion of this Kind, expreſly provoking, that their Approbation ſhould not be confirmed a ſolemn teſting upon ofe Perſon for the Miniſtry. See Scob. Collect. Part 2. p. 280.

commonly known by the Names of the Tryers. a Clauſe was inſerted, expreſly providing, that their Approbation ſhould not be confirmed a ſolemn teſting upon ofe Perſon for the Miniſtry. See Scob. Collect. Part 2. p. 280.

As for the Crimes on which the Clergy were by the Direction of this Act, to be Diſpoſſeſs'd, and the Manner in which the Commiſſioners were to Proceed againſt them; I have not met with any thing, which concerns either of theſe Matters, ſave that with relation to the Former. The ſtanding Crimes of Scandal, Delinquency, and Inſufficiency, were, as I Judge, Three of them, and that the New One of Neglecting, or Refuſing the Engagement, made a Fourth; becauſe I find theſe frequently charged upon the Clergy, Ejected by the Propagation. To which I can only add further, that I queſs, the Act Directed the Allowance of the Fifths † but how theſe were Paid, I have already ſaid in another Place.

The Commiſſioners provided with theſe Powers, forthwith Set themſelves to the deſired Work of extirpating the whole Clergy of theſe Counties; in which they uſed ſuch an extraordinary Diligence, that within the Compaſs of a ſingle Year, they had well nigh Effected that † Horrid Purpoſe; having in order to it, * Hired Beggars, 'with ſuch like, to obſerve the Actions of the 'Clergy, allowing ſome 18*d.* —— a Day, for 'their good Service,' or (as the Mere. Camb. Brit. p. 4. expreſſes it) appointed ‡ certain 'Journymen Pedlars, or Itinerant Tobacco-Mongers, 'and others of the like Quality, to perambulate 'ſeveral of the Counties, at 18 d. per Diem, to 'make feigned Diſcoveries, of the Pretended 'Obliquities of the Miniſters;' and where there was no Pretence for any particular Charge, they had ' Blank § Articles of Courſe ready Drawn,' which they uſually fill'd up as much Effect, as any other Allegations (tho' never ſo True) could have Warranted. For the better ‖ Encouragement of Informers and Informers, likewiſe the Sequeſtrators 'Offer'd good Bargains of the Tithes to any. that 'would come in, and help them to do the Work 'of the Lord.' And to Facilitate it yet more, their Miſſionaries and Itinerants, had it in their * Inſtructions (as is before Suggeſted) to help forward the Execution of the Act by the ſame means, that they had uſed to Set it on Foot; who therefore, purſuant to their Orders, renew their Clamours againſt the Old Miniſters, the Tithes, and even the Miniſtry it ſelf, as Antichriſtian; and particularly their Metropolitan, Valvaſor Powell, Preached at Lanyrwill in Montgomeryſhire, 'That 'it were a good Deed to cut the Throats of all 'the

* See Mere. Camb. Brit. p. 1.

† Hist. and Cry. p. 8, 9.

‡ But query: For in the Ordinance of 1653, which ſtyled the Grand Commiſſion of this Kind, expreſly provoking, that their Approbation ſhould not be confirmed a ſolemn teſting upon ofe Perſon for the Miniſtry. See Scob. Collect. Part 2. p. 280.

* By Whitlocke theſe are called Commiſſioners for the Approbation of Publick Preachers.

† As appears by the Act. of the Sequeſt. and Agents for the Year 1650, which the Firſt of their Accompts of this Kind, that I have ſeen, begins with, and to their Accompts of the ſame Year.

‡ Life of Hi. Peters by Dr. Young, p. 35.

§ Mer. Cam. Brit. p. 4.

‖ It. Some of the Life of H. P. alſo ſupra.

* Hist and Cry. p. 9.

Ibid. p. 9.

Digitized by Google

' the Old Manasters;' altho' it must be remembered, that their Quarrel with the Maintenance, was much more reconcilable, than that which they had against the Persons of the Old Clergy; and therefore having raised an Armed Force to drive the One out of the Country, they took that Opportunity, to bring the Other Home to their Houses.

Ibid. p. 41, 9.

Before I proceed with this Argument, it will be necessary to say a Word or two, of some Papers, which I shall now have frequent Occasion to mention. It must be known therefore, that by the great Favour of the present Most Rev. Father in God, his Grace the Lord Arch-bishop of Canterbury, I was permitted, in pursuit of this Undertaking, to search the Papers at Lambeth, and among others of 'em, to turn over a very great Heap that were confus'd and unsorted, and seem'd to lie neglected on the Floor of an outer Room there. These last mention'd Papers, concern'd the Times of the Rebellion, and Usurpation, and for the most part Related to Ecclesiastical Matters, the Cathedral and Parochial Revenues, &c. and particularly the Original Presentations, from the Year 1632, (if I will Remember) to the Year 1659, Inclusive; but those of greater Note among them to my purpose, Related only to the Propagation in South Wales, and the County of Monmouth; and have happily enabl'd me to give a further Account of the very Numerous Sequestrations in those Counties, than perhaps I have of any of the Counties in England, which the Distance, Obscurity, and little Intercourse, I had with those Parts, must otherwise have render'd al ogether as Imperfect, as I doubt the Account of North Wales, for want of the like Assistance, now proves to be; altho' from other of those Papers, I had some Scatter'd Notices, Relating likewise to that part of the County.

If I mistake not, I have somewhere met with an Order of Parliament for the mention of such an one) soon after the Restoration, appointing the lodging of the Nye's Papers with his Grace the then Abp. of Lambeth. (One John Nye, Son to the Famous Bro. Phil. Nye, was Clerk to the

Besides this Paper, there was likewise 'The ' Return of Edward Williams, High-Sheriff of ' Brecon, to the Committee of Parliament, appointed ' to consider, how Wales was supply'd with a ' Ministry, &c. by vertue of a Letter from the ' Chairman, in 1658.' This Paper was the Original it self, Subscribed with the Sheriff's own Hand, and Deliver'd in, if I well Remember (for I find, I have not Noted down that Circumstance) upon Oath. It gives an Account of the Numbers and Characters of the Clergy Ejected in that County, the Characters of such as Succeeded them, in those few Places, where any Successors were, either at first, or after some time appointed; and of the Miserable Disuse of all Holy Offices, for many Years, in the other Parishes, before they had any Settled Ministers with them, together with some other Matters relating to the State of Religion, chiefly under the Act of Propagation. The like Return was also made the same Year for Carnarvon and (if I do not mistake the Nature of the Papers) two others for Merioneth, and Denbeighshire; all which were likewise in the same Heap, but neither of them so full, and particular, as that from Brecon; and as I remember, I saw, Some, for other of the Welch Counties, but very Trifling and Imperfect, occasion'd perhaps by the Respective Sheriffs being Distasted to the Inquiries, which, as I guess, had Occasion'd the Ordering of those Returns. There were also in the same confus'd Heap, great Numbers of Returns from the Constables of many Parishes in Wales, made, as I thereby find, in Obedience to a Commission, issued soon after the Restoration, to enquire into the State of the several Parishes both in North and South Wales, during the Confusions, and several other Papers, of less consideration, relating to the Extirpation of the Clergy in these Parts, by the Inhumane Act we are now speaking of.

In, or before 1662, the same Enquiries were, as I find, also made for Westmorland (and therefore probably, for the Other Three Northern Counties likewise) as also for some part, at least, of the County of Salop. They were, as to what concerns the Sequestrations, coincident in great measure, with the Account of the Commissioners, &c. now mentioned: For which reason I was the less careful to examine them; But in Other matters, several Particulars might have been learnt from them; and therefore I much regret my not being able to spend more time upon them.

The most considerable of these Papers, is 'An ' Account from the Commission by Act of Parliament, ' for Propagation of the Gospel in Wales, of all the ' Sequester'd Tithes, Church-Livings, and Impro- ' priations, within the Counties of South Wales, ' and County of Monmouth; together with all the ' Proceedings, made in Obedience to the said ' Act of Parliament, and the said Commission, ' drawn up the 20th, of April, 1652.' This Account was Occasion'd as I conceive, by the Petition of the Inhabitants of these Counties, to the Parliament, against the Propagators, (of which more will be said hereafter) and perhaps is the Account, which Valoa for Powell, in his Letter (Printed in the Pamphlet Entitled, the Petition of South Wales, &c.) saith, was then in preparing; and if so, it was, as I conceive, laid before the Parliament. It consists of several Columns, containing distinctly, for each of the Counties, the Parishes Sequester'd, the Names of the Ejected Rectors and Vicars, separately, as also the Crimes respectively, for which they (such of them, I mean, as fell by the Act of Propagation) were Sequester'd; the Time likewise of Sequestration, distinguishing such as were Dispossess'd by the Act, from those, who were Ejected before it; the Number of the Parsonages, Vicaridges, and Impropriations, then Unsequester'd and (at the End of each County) the Names of the Old Ministers left in them. There are likewise some other Things in it, which do not so directly concern this Undertaking.

P. 1.

I must add likewise in this Place, that by the Favour of that great Example, and Patron of English Loyalty, the Honourable Mr. Baron Price, there were Communicated to me, the Original Accompts of the Sequestrators, and Collectors for South Wales, and the County of Monmouth, under the Propagation (for the Years 1650, 1651, 1652.) ' Taken at Neath, the tenth Day of Au- ' gust 1655, by virtue of an Ordinance of his High- ' ness the Lord Protector, and the Council.' These Accompts have been already mention'd on some other Occasions, and will be more frequently alledged by and by; and having been of singular Use to me, in Accounting for the Sequestrations in South Wales, I beg leave to Return his Lordship my Most Humble Thanks, and Acknowledgments, in this Publick Manner, for the Favour of them.

The Crimes alledg'd against the Clergy were, (as appears by the Account of the Commissioners in 1652, now mention'd) for the most Part, those which have been already hinted at, namely, Scandal, (more particularly Drunkenness) Malignancy, Insufficiency, and refusing the Engagement. These are so frequently repeated, and in such a Manner, as would in some Measure have suggested what is otherwise asserted out of the Mere. Cambr. Brit. That they were Blank Articles of Course, which were drawn up against them, and that their Accusers had their Eyes on the Act for Propagation only; and the Crimes there determin'd termin'd to be Capital, and not on the Lives of those they Accused, wh n they fram'd their Allegations. Vincafso Powell saith indeed, in his Letter, that 'of all the Men which they put out, 'he knew not any in the Six Counties of North 'Wales that had the Power of Godliness, and 'very few the Form: —— But that most of them 'were unpreaching Curates, or Scandalous in 'their Lives:' And even the Commissioners in their Account, affirm of those they had dispossess'd in Cardigan (which were about 16,) that but Three of them 'only were Preachers, and those 'most Scandalous Livers.' And Hugh Peters, when he appear'd (' uncall'd, unsent for, and 'unconcern'd') at the Committee for Plunder'd Ministers, against the Petition of South Wales, (which will be mention'd hereafter) ' declar'd all 'the Ministers of Wales to be Drunken, Debauch, 'Ignorant and Illiterate, not fit to be trusted to 'keep a Kennel of Hounds, or a Dozen of Sheep.' But if others may be credited (and perhaps they will much sooner, than Hugh Peters or Mr. Powell,) it will be found, that Hundreds Ejected were neither ' unpreaching Curates, nor any 'Way Scandalous in their Lives;' whole 'Calling 'was their Crime, and their Mission their Ruin:' That in the Proceedings of these Ravagers, no 'Respect was had, either to their Fidelity and 'Ability in their Teachings, or Sobriety in their 'Conversations;' and, that in truth, those only who were spared, were the most Ignorant and 'Illiterate of them, that would comply, and either 'Farm their own Tithes, and accept of Good 'Bargains, or else accept of small inconsiderable 'Stipends.' But the Clergy who suffer'd under the Propagators, need no other Vindication from these Calumnies, than what the High-Sheriff of Brecon hath in Effect made for all of them, by the Return for his own County, wherein he mentions about 43 Livings; at Fourteen of which, he saith nothing of the Incumbents (not prodncing so much as their bare Names,) on the remaining 29, it appears, there were among the Sufferers no less than 23 Graduates, viz. One Batchelor of Arts, Eighteen Masters, Three Batchelors in Divinity, and one Dr. (nor doth it appear to the contrary, but that the Rest might be Graduates likewise) which will surely be deem'd a full Answer to the Allegation of *Ignorance and Insufficiency.

Digitized by Google

Petit of S. Wales, p. 5.

This Account of the Welch Clergy, as likewise is contained by the A bridgment, p. 67.

Mer. Cambr. Brit. p. 9. See also Dr. Young's Life of H. Peters, p. 16.

Petit of S. Wales, p. 12, 20.

Hue and Cry, p. 4.

Mer. Camb. Brit p. 4.

The Sums of those said been Ejected before this Propagation and Year or Four of them were satisfactorily difpos'd, but what they suffered, was not much short of a Formal Sequestration.

* If this Proportion may be allow'd of for all Wales, it is plain, that no less than Three Parts in Four of the Clergy were Masters of Arts, or upwards; although it might be well expected, that if the Common Cry of Ignorance had been supported by any Foundation of Truth at all, it would have been more so in those Remote Parts of the Kingdom. However, Quere whether the Livings in that County may not be, generally speaking, better than those in other Parts of Wales, and whether for that reason, they might not be better furnish'd, than those of other Counties.

And with Regard to the other Parts of the Charge, the Sheriff Characterizes Thirteen of these now mention'd, either for † Learning, Piety, Orthodox, Abilities, or Constancy in Preaching; and doth not suggest the least Crime or Default of any single Person among them. It may not be amiss to produce Two or Three Instances of the Disagreement between the Propagators and the High-Sheriff in this point. The Former, as appears by their Account, drawn up in April 1652, Ejected Mr. Thomas Vaughan, from Lanfanfread, for being (among his other Crimes) no Preacher; and yet the Sheriff assures us, he was a Master of Arts. In the same Account they declare, they Ejected Mr. Prror, from Ketheding, for Swearing and Drunkenness; but the Sheriff Recommended him to the Parliament, for an able Minister. Their Account condemns Mr. Habberly, of Talgarth and Lyswen, for a Swearer and a Scandalous as well as Malignant Minister. The Sheriff of Brecon, saith, he was not only A. M. but an Able, Pious, and Learned Man: And the Commissioners affirm, they Dismiss'd Mr. Sycod Wood, of Landewaily and Cricadarne, not only for Assisting his Majesty; but for Drunkenness, and Swearing likewise; whereas the Return assures the Parliament, he was A. M. an Aged, Pious Learned and Godly Person.

I am contented to leave these opposite Characters of the Clergy, with the Reader, without observing particularly, which of the two Parties produced in Evidence, might be the most likely to speak the Truth of them; and thinking my self very secure, on which side the Balance of Credit will be thrown, I proceed to say, that as Shameful and False as these Pretences against the Clergy were, the Commissioners for the Welch Counties had Learned of their Brethren in England, to make them do the Service of the most certain Truths, and by the help of them, to Effect such a thorough Reformation, and Ejection of such great Numbers of the Clergy in these Parts, that not only one of the Constables in his Return affirms, 'The Ministers in general 'who made their Appearance before the Commissioners at Chepstow, were Ejected and shortly after Sequester'd.' But the Abridgment it self, owns, 'All the Parish-Ministers of Wales,' were 'At once put down,' and the Writers of those Times thought themselves sufficiently Authoriz'd to say, 'That the Ministers were almost 'Extirpated,' at least, that 'All the Learned 'Ministers were Ejected.' And the Petition presented to the Parliament it self, on this Occasion, alledges, that 'All, or most of the Ministers of South Wales, together with the County of * Monmouth, had been Ejected from their Benefices,' pursuant to the Resolution, which had been taken before, that † 'All the Ministers should 'be Ejected and Silenced, save only the most Ignorant (as is just now said) who would comply with them, or as another ‖ Author expresses it, 'except some few, who either Fed them, Depended upon them, or had some Correspondence 'with them;' and (as I otherwise find) the Incumbents of some small Places of Four or Five Pounds per Annum.

Petit of S. Wales, p. 12, 20.

Hue and Cry, p. 4.

Mer. Camb. Brit p. 4.

P. 67.

Life of H. Peters by Dr. Young, p. 13. Pref. to Mer. Cambr. Brit. See also Petit of S. Wales, p. 1.

* In Effect, doubtless, of those whom the Commissioners had turned out before the Act for Propagation.

† Mer. Cambr. Brit. p. 4. Hue and Cry, p. 4.

It appears in the Account, drawn up by the Commissioners themselves, in April 1652, that there had been then * 175, several and Distinct Ministers, Ejected in the Six Counties of South Wales, and the County of Monmouth; namely, about 56 before the Act, and 119 under it; of the former Sort, in Glamorgan about 28, Brecon 6, Radnor 6, Monmouth 16; but none of this Kind appear for Caermarthen, Pembroke and Cardigan. And of the Latter, Glamorgan about 7, Caermarthen 14, Pembroke 36, Cardigan 16, Brecon 15, Radnor 7, and Monmouth 24; But several of these Gentlemen being Pluralists, the Number of Livings which they left, was still greater; and was (including as well those Sequester'd before the Act, as those by it) ‡ about 201, viz. for Glamorgan about 50, Caermarthen 15, Pembroke 36, Monmouth 47, Cardigan 17, Brecon 22, and Radnor 14.

* I have in this Computation made the high of Prudence, and difcount more for Pluralists, than I believe there were really among them.

‡ I find Something of the like Kind also in Some of the other Returns.

† Agreeable to which, in another part of their Account, they say, there were then 48 Rectories Vicaridges and Impropriations left Unsequestred. But how to reconcile this with what I am now going to say, from the Accounts of the Sequestrators and Agents, and with what will be shew'd soon, from this very Account of the Commissioners it self, of the Number of Old Ministers, left Unejected, I do not see.

How-

Digitized by Google

However, these (tho' all that appear in the Account of the Commissioners) were by no means the whole, either of the Ministers or Livings, that had been Sequester'd in these Counties, by the Committees and Propagators; for on some * other of the Papers at Lambeth, occur the Names of several Ejected Clergymen, which are not mentioned by the Commissioners (altho' it is sure they had Suffer'd in some or other of the same Counties,) and by the † Accompts of the Sequestrators, and Agents, for the Years 1650, 1651, 1652, it appears, that in the first of those Years they had in their Hands many more Livings, than these now mention'd; and in the two following Years, several others were added to them.

	1650 About		1651 About		1652 About
Glamorgan	70	Glamorgan	70	Glamorgan	64
Pembroke	59	Pembroke	64	Pembroke	64
Cardigan	17	Cardigan	19	Cardigan	23
Caermarth	25	Caermarth.	20	Caermarth	20
Monmouth	81	Monmouth	85	Monmouth	69
Brecon	29	Brecon	29	Brecon	29
Radnor	22	Radnor	22	Radnor	22
	273		292		290

The Occasion of this Disagreement in these several Years, is, that each Year in most (if not all) of the Counties, some few were added, and others of the preceding Years were omitted.

The whole Number of ‡ Several and Distinct Livings, with which they charge themselves in one or other of the Years, is about 328; but this it muft be known, that fome of the Livings mention'd by the ‖ Commiſſioners, being omitted in theſe Accompts of the Sequeſtrators, and Agents, the whole Number of Livings, which either appear by the Account of the Commiſſioners, to have been Sequeſter'd; or by the Accompts of the Sequeſtrators, and Agents, to have been one time or other by the End of 1652, in their (the Sequeſtrators and Agents) Hands, was about 336. The Particulars are theſe, viz.

	about
Glamorgan,	* 77
Caermarthen,	22
Pembroke,	71
Monmouth,	55
Cardigan,	25
Brecon,	30
Radnor,	26

This is to be underſtood likewiſe, Exclusive of about 32 † Impropriations, mention'd by the Sequeſtrators and Agents, on levy rail, if not all (Carmar. 9, Pembr. 16, Cardigan 1, of which, ſince, as hath been already ſaid, there were Incumbents; theſe alſo muſt be taken into ſome Account. And if we ſhould ſay, that but the one half of them (which is 16) were Sequeſter'd from ſuch of the * Clergy as Officiated the Cures; this added to the 336 Livings before mention'd, will make the Total 352, which exceeds by 151, the 201 Livings mention'd by the Commiſſioners, in their Account of April 1652.

It muſt not however, be thought, that this Number of Livings will produce an equal Number of Sequeſter'd Clergymen; for many of the Clergy being Pluraliſts, the Number of the Perſons, which they Loſt, muſt of neceſſity exceed that of the Perſons driven from them; and accordingly, as there muſt have been, without all Queſtion, ſeveral Pluraliſts, among thoſe other Sequeſter'd Perſons, not mention'd by the Commiſſioners (for that there were ſuch, hath been already ſaid, and will be further ſhewn by and by;) ſo I have moreover met with ſome things, which inclined me to think, that ſeveral of theſe Supernumerary Livings, which occur in the Accompts of the Sequeſtrators and Agents, did belong to one or other of the Perſons mention'd by the Commiſſioners, who in ſome Cases did perhaps think it ſufficient, to mention but one Living at the Name of a Perſon, whom they had, it may be, Diſpoſſeſs'd of Two, or per chance ſuch a Perſon had been deprived but of One of his Livings, at the Time when the Commiſſioners Account was drawn up, and might be Diſpoſſeſs'd of the other Livings afterwards: Tho' each of theſe Cases was, as I believe, on the other Hand rare enough; for the Commiſſioners in their Account, do take notice of ſeveral Pluraliſts (and there ſeems to be the ſame Reaſon, unleſs any accidental Thing prevented, for their taking notice of all,) and the Space of Time betwixt the drawing up of the Commiſſioners Account (Namely, April 1652) and the Period of the Sequeſtrators Accompts (which ended with that ſame Year) being not very long, and falling in the latter End of the Time, when they had well nigh Finiſh'd their Work, there was no great Room for any Additional Sequeſtrations in it. And the Fact itſelf for the moſt part, is plainly otherwiſe; ſeeing the greater Part of theſe Additional Livings appear (as is before ſaid) in the firſt Year of the theſe Accounts, which was long before the Commiſſioners drew up their Repreſentation of the State of theſe Sequeſtrations. But there is another Reaſon, that might make the Number of Incumbents fall ſtill more ſhort of the Number of Pariſhes here mention'd; which is, that ſome of the Gentlemen turned out by the Committees, might poſſibly get themſelves Poſſeſs'd of other Livings (as Vacancies happen'd) and be afterwards Sequeſter'd from them by the Propagators: And in ſuch Caſes, tho' there were two Sequeſtrators, there could be but one Sequeſter'd Perſon. Add to this, that ſeveral of this Overplus of Livings might probably enough come to the hands of the Sequeſtrator, by the Death of the Incumbents, or ſome other way, beſides that of Sequeſtration.

Death or of an Incumbent, to ſeize the Living (which ſeems probable enough) or if on the Plaintiffs their Power, they did not as often (at leaſt often) put in their Claims, and Petitions for the Livings, which they had a Title to, or Authority at all wiſhed, I believe, they were ready enough to do, eſpecially where the Living was a Benefice. And according to ſome Caſes, where a Living (as it would ſometimes happen) did in Fact come to their Hands by the Death of the Incumbent: The Ordinance for ſaving the Profits, and the Deans and Chapters Lands, ordered indeed their Rights of Patronage, as well as their Revenues, &c. to the Commiſſioners, to their own uſes; and the Ordinances for ſecluding Delinquents Lands, &c. did expreſſly enable the ſame Rights of the Majeſty, and they were, doubtleſs, part of the Eſtates of the Delinquents, which were to be Sequeſter'd

* Particularly in the Records of the Biſhop of Bangor.

† The State of theſe Accompts, with relation to the Number of Livings in each County for the Years here mentioned, ſtand thus. Viz.

‡ In making this Computation (as likewiſe in the Laſt) I doubt, I may have diſtinguiſhed ſome Livings, which are indeed, but one; I do not know much reaſon to think, that on t'other hand, I have often joyned Livings, which are diſtinct, and ſeparate, and the one eaſt againſt the other, will perhaps bring the Account pretty right.

‖ How theſe Livings came to be omitted in theſe Accounts (as I ſhew ſo how they came to omit as they did, ſome of the Livings in the following Years, which themſelves had mentioned in the foregoing) is another Queſtion, and will perhaps be in part Anſwered, by ſaying, that there might be ſome Sollicitations againſt, which were to take the Priority. That ſome of the Intricates (among which there were theſe, who had, as I find, two Salaries and Livings. See alſo Hen. and Cry. p. 50.) had others of theſe Livings, and that perhaps the Commiſſioners themſelves, had other ſome of them (for Part of South Wales p. 123 and in theſe Cases both Livings might not be brought into the Accounts; and there might be other ways more than theſe, as well as more than were good, if anything to purpoſe, for ſeveral of the Sequeſter'd Parishes, but be the matter as it will be, it is notorious from what is now ſaid, that ſeveral Livings muſt had been Sequeſter'd, were not mentioned in theſe Accompts. Nor do I remember to have met with more than Three Inſtances of any Clergymen reſtor'd. As the three firſt had Inſufficient Grounds to complain, that theſe Omiſſions might occaſionally be their means. I have found alſo an Inſtance or two, as to ſome omitted, (Some illegal Acts there I might ground on the Expiration of the A.) But it muſt be confeſſed, that little is compleat the Sequeſtrators and Agents firſt Petition in the Commons Houſe; namely, that the Act was yet in full Force.

* Beſides Three or Four other I have noted, ſeem to have been Parochial, or at leaſt, to have had Incumbents in them.

† Name's, Carmar. 9, Pembr. 16, Cardigan 1, of which, Brecon 6, and theſe Impropriations again conſiſted of ſeveral Parts, Tythefolds, Portlands Rents, Reſerved Rents of Demeſn and Chief Houſes, Tythes of Mills, Tythary Hay more, as another Note.

‡ Though probably many of them were only Curates, and all the reſt (as likewiſe the Precentor and Cathedral Clergy: But I have not Them under conſideration at preſent.

If it be ſo, ſome of them alſo were Sequeſtrators, and then they will belong to the Appendix only.

Or perhaps may be ſome time ſo left or quit Poſſeſſion of that other Livings, and not at all diſpoſſeſſed, and in theſe Cases they might think fit to mention ſuch a Perſon at all.

If at leaſt, this, or any other Cauſe, did concurr to Bench; and at this Act for the Propagation vested the Commissioners with all Livings, &c. in the Power of the parliament. I presume that clause would carry with it all the Livings in Wales (as they stood at the time vacated) within the first and Rights of Patronage. But then it must be also known, that Trees were sold at Sale at this could get Chapmen for them, with the rest of the Incomes and Profits; and after Sale, became a private Property, and no longer in the Commonwealth and after Sale, became a private Property, and no longer in the Commonwealth Livings came to the Propagators Hands on this Score.) For Sale I at present remember to have met with any other Ordinances relating to the Patronages, even after 1653, when in the Time of their Accompts I am now speaking of.

It will perhaps be alſo thought, that among theſe additional Places of the Sequeſtrators, and Agents Accompts, ſeveral Impropriations not expreſly diſtinguiſh'd, were intermix'd, and that this may ſtill add further to the Diſcount; eſpecially, ſince I have already confeſſed to ſtrike off the one half of them. But it muſt be conſidered in the firſt Place, that tho' I have, for Argument ſake admitted, yet I have by no means determin'd, that only the one half of them had particular Incumbents. And therefore allowing, there were ſeveral undiſtinguiſh'd Impropriations among them, this will reduce but a very ſmall Number of Sequeſter'd Perſons. Add to this, that the whole of theſe Places, which appear on the Sequeſtrators, &c. Accompts, put together, will not amount to ſuch a Number of Pariſhes, as from what will be alledg'd by and by, ſeem to have been Sequeſter'd. And for this Reaſon all theſe Places that occur (without a Note of Diſtinction) on theſe Accompts, may very well be ſuppoſ'd to have been Parochial.

But what ſeems to put the matter out of all doubt, is, that the Impropriations are expreſly taken Notice of, and Rank'd by themſelves, in three of the Counties; and in all the reſt (Glamorgan, only excepted) Porlands Rents, Revenues of Deans and Chapters, &c. are mention'd by Name, and ſeparated from the other Parts of the Liſt; which ſeems to ſuggeſt that the Accompts were carried enough to Diſtinguiſh all the Places, that were not Parochial; and that where no ſuch Diſtinction was made, they were always Pariſhes, which had their own proper, and Parochial Miniſter: So that if there are any undiſtinguiſh'd Im*propriations*, mix'd with the other Pariſhes, they are probably only a few ſcatter'd, and cannot amount to any very conſiderable Number, even although it ſhould be ſuppoſed, that the Accomptants for Glamorgan had ſeveral in their hands, which they omitted to Diſtinguiſh in ſuch a manner, as the other Sequeſtrators and Agents did: For that there are ſome Impropriations in that large County, is, as I ſhould think, highly probable; and that the Propagators had laid their Hands on ſome of them there, as well as the other Counties, will be eaſily Believ'd.

The Parſons here, as they lie in the Accompts, are theſe: For Glamorgan (as is here ſaid) occurs nothing of this kind: For Pembr. in 1650, about 12 Rectories, and 30 Prebends (moſt of them in the great) belonging to the Cathedral of St. David's. In 1651, 1652, the Expreſſion in Impropriations belonging to the Dean and Chapter of St. David's, there Leaſes unexpir'd with the Referred Rents, are about Nine Rectories, Four belonging to the Biſhop, 22 Prebends (in the groſs) and the Golden Prebend of Marloyes, with a Place in two more: For Cardigan 1650, 1651, 1652, Dean and Chapters Revenue, they are in all about Ten Pariſhes, but not ſaid, whether Rectories, Vicaridges or what elſe of any kind: For Carmarthen in 1651, Impropriations, there are in all about 12 Parſons, but not ſaid whether Rectories, &c. In 1652, the Expreſſion is Impropriate Tithes, to Number about 11, as in the foregoing Years: For Monmouth no Diſtinction of any Parſons to be found in the Year 1650; but in 1651, 1652, are mentioned Referved Rents of Deans and Chapters, but they are not ſet down to how all: For Brecon, the Places diſtinguiſhed, are Prebends Rents, of which, about 8 are particularized Impropriations, of which Two are mentioned likewiſe by Name. In 1651, 1652, the Expreſſion is Prebends, of which about 9 are named Impropriations; of which in theſe Years, about Six are mentioned likewiſe by Name: For Radnor, 1650, Nine Prebends Rents are mentioned, and in the Two following Years the ſame Nine are mentioned, but with the omitted Prebends. The Sequeſtrators and Agents make theſe Diſtinctions of the Places in their Hands, not only ſeparately, as in the laſt, That all the other Places were Parochial, but alſo ſhews (if there Leaſeges be Exact) That there were in particular, very few, or no Impropriations among the Places they mentioned, but To ſo already taken notice of. Or, if ſome of them did, under the Terms of Prebends, Rents, &c. make any ſuch Impropriations, as Theſe before mentioned, which had Incumbents in them, they were To, that add to the Number of the Eight Clergy, ſome I have not taken any of the two Prebends Rents, &c. in the Accounts. For which Number of Prebends, Prebends Rents, &c. remainder of the 32 Impropriations already accounted for) without Year or the Accompts, in no 24, to which, when add the 32 Impropriations, and the 32*d* Livings, the Total of the Places I ſpeak of, and anſwering to the Names of the Sequeſtrators and Agents, which appear by their Two Accompts, will be 448.

I have no ſufficient grounds to offer at computing, with any tolerable exactneſs, how many of theſe Supernumerary Places, mention'd by the Sequeſtrators and Agents, ought to be Diſcounted, on the Exceptions now Alledged; tho' perhaps the one Half (which is 75) would be an ample Allowance for the Pluralities, as well as the other Diſcounts; and then adding the other 75, (which are now ſuppoſed to be ſo many Sequeſter'd Perſons and not Livings only) to the 175 acknowledged by the Commiſſioners, that will make the whole Number 250.

*The Reader will find all theſe ſuppoſed Supernumerary Livings, of which I have not met with ſome ſome where in the Liſt, and ſeveral of them for the Sequeſtration quest ators; the Sufferers being wholly omitted by the Former, as the Livings alſo are by the Latter. And the Hue and Cry, expreſly Affirms, that in 1654. there were 'About 700 Parſons in the 'Thirteen Counties (Namely of North and South 'Wales) unſupply'd with any Miniſters.

P 5.

‖ Which will have a good allowance for another Perſon, as I ſhall be ready to demand, when I come to ſum up the Account, with a ſufficient Allowance for Pluralities, and caſual Vacancies: For 'tis moſt reaſonable that ſome of the Sequeſter'd Livings were ſupply'd with Miniſters, and by conſequence, thoſe 700 did not take in all that had been Sequeſter'd.

* Relating to S. Wales only.

† Although I muſt own, that if this Entry was not to be reconciled with the State of the Sequeſtrations which they gave in, it is hard to conceive it, how they ſhould inſert it in the laſt ſame Account. However, I ſhall lay the matter before the Reader, as it appears to me: And ſince it is unneceſſy make from what hath been ſaid more large, That many Perſons were on laſt Sequeſtred, of which the Commiſſioners took no manner of notice, the Entry now mentioned, it poſſibly to be accounted for ſome other ways, which, for want of further Informations, and of more time to examine this, Pages at Lambeth, I am not at preſent able to expreſs.

And there is an * Entry in the Account of the Commiſſioners themſelves, which ſeems very well to accord with this Affirmation of the Hue and Cry, and is this; † Old Miniſters remaining Unejected, ‡ 127. The Particulars afterwards appear in the ſame Account, under the reſpective Counties, and are,

Glamorgan,	17
Caermarthen,	19
Pembroke,	31
Cardigan,	13
Brecon, and Radnor, (joyntly)	14

‡ So that the Propagators (though they came after the Commiſſioners*) had by their own Confeſſion, almoſt full two thirds of the Clergy whom they found remaining, 119, as hath been before ſaid, appearing on the* Commiſſioners Account, to have been Ejected by them.

In Monmouth, they are very Confuſed; but to compleat the Total (127) they muſt have been 33. Theſe Old Miniſters (I take it for granted) were the Regular and Epiſcopal Clergy, who poſſeſs'd the Livings about the Beginning of 1645, when (as I conjecture) the Sequeſtrations under the Committees chiefly began. Altho' ſome of them after juſtly Forfeited their Title to the Appellation of Regular and Epiſcopal, by complying with the Times; and I make no Queſtion, but that a good Part of theſe here ſaid to be Unejected, were of that Sort, and that moſt of the Reſt of them were ſuch, as poſſeſs'd the Smaller, and more Inconſiderable Pariſhes, or were ſome way or other in Fee with the Propagators, as hath been already ſaid.

Although perhaps ſome may think there might be alſo ſome of theſe Succeſſors appointed by the Commiſſioners*, who having been (as 'tis probable, ſome of them were) Epiſcopally Ordained, and ſubmitting formerly to, and living under the Conſtitution, may have been therefore termed* Old Miniſters. And if ſo, then there had been already Sequeſtrations made of thoſe Livings, and by that means the Incumbes of the Ejected Clergy (of which at from the Entry I am now ſpeaking of) will appear ſtill greater.

And on this ſuppoſition, the Caſe of ſeveral even of theſe, will fall little ſhort of Sequeſtration. And the Return of the Sheriff of Brecon, yields ſome particular Inſtances, which I gueſs to have been of this Kind. To which if we add, that poſſibly ſeveral others of them had been Diſpoſeſs'd of one Living at leaſt, on the Score of Pluralities, (as I have ſome Reaſon to think they had) it will follow, that even of thoſe, whom they ſeem'd to ſpare, no ſmall Number ought to be Ranged with the Sequeſter'd Clergy: And accordingly, as ſome will be afterwards mention'd in the Liſt, under thoſe or ſuch like Circumſtances, (which however, are always ſpecified, as far as I have any Notices of them, to Diſtinguiſh them from thoſe, who were abſolutely thrown out, and Scripp'd of all;) ſo perhaps they were of this Number.

See alſo what is alledged concerning the Mr. Cambrit and the Hue and Cry, each p. 4.

Now there are in the ſix Counties of South Wales, and the County of Monmouth, 654 Pariſhes, all † Separate, and Diſtinct, admitting of Different Parochial Incumbents, and Excluſive of the Chapelries, and Daughter-Churches, as I underſtand it; and becauſe the meaneſt of the Livings, and the Scarcity of Clergy to accept of them, in that Diſtant and Barren Country, have always render'd Pluralities more frequent (and in ſome meaſure neceſſary) than in other parts of the Kingdom, let it be ſaid, that every Fourth Man was a Pluraliſt with Two Livings (which however, is a much more ample Allowance for Pluraliſts, than any certainly in this Kind, which I have yet met with, directs me to) it will thence follow, that at the Beginning of the Sequeſtrations, theſe 654 Livings were held by about 520 Incumbents, of which, no more than 127 being left Unejected in April 1652. The Remainder muſt by Conſequence have been 393, or to make a Round Number, ſay about 400.

See Cambd. Brit. Engliſh Edition, at the End of each County.

† Otherwiſe the following Computation drops to the Ground: Therefore quere further of that matter.

By comparing the Liſted Miniſters in each County, as mentioned by the Commiſſioners*, theſe, do not appear, according to the largeſt Allowances* Allowances) above 20 Pluraliſts among the 175 which are there recounted; and that will not make above One in Eight. But having ſome reaſon to think, that there might be ſome of the Pluraliſts not expreſly noted by theſe Commiſſioners*, particularly, where the Livings did not both lie in two ſeveral Counties mentioned, or only Daughter-Churches belonging to the Pariſhes or Vicaridges reſpectively, or alſo ſeparate and diſtinct Lordſhips; or likewiſe the ſame Surname being ſo very common in* Wales to ſee, whether ſome of the Sufferers reſted in different Articles, may not be coincident, and the ſame Perſons reſpectively in theſe Inſtances, where I want the Chriſtian Names, for theſe Reaſons, I ſay, I am at preſent willing to allow, that the Pluraliſts were one Fourth of the Clergy.

However, this whole Number muſt not be forthwith reckon'd to the Account of the Commiſſioners and Propagators; becauſe * milder Death did, beyond all Queſtion, in the † Seven Years of their Tyranny, refcue conſiderable Numbers of them from the Hands of theſe Plunderers.

* If any became Vacant by Ceſſion, Reſignation, &c. I ſhould think, theſe muſt be, for the moſt part, Compulſory*, and then they are* Equivalent to a Sequeſtration*: And ſurely few, or none of the* Old Miniſters were in thoſe Times Removed to better Livings.

† From 1645, when, I ſuppoſe, the Commitees began their Work, to the End of 1651; from after which (namely, the April immediately following) this Account of the Commiſſioners was drawn up: Although 'tis to be noted, that the Calendar of Death among thoſe Old Incumbents*, may decreaſe very faſt, proportionably to the Numbers which died, or were Sequeſtred in the Years preceding.*

But then it muſt be conſider'd likewiſe on t'other Hand, that ſome at leaſt, of thoſe Pariſhes which became Vacant by Death, were probably filled again with other ‡ Loyaliſts, until the more general Defolation began under the Propagators.

‡ And in ſome Inſtances, as I find, even where a Place had been vacated by Sequeſtration*, another Loyaliſt, by ſome means or other, got Poſſeſſion of it, and at length himſelf alſo ſuffered as it.*

Beſides, the Three Counties of Caermarthen, Pembroke and Cardigan, (which is well near the one Half of South Wales) ſeem not to have groaned under the uſual Tyranny of the Times; and if ſo, theſe laſt mention'd Plunderers, at the Commencement of the Propagation, came in upon a full Crop of thoſe, whom, I underſtand, by ‖ Old Miniſters, without being prevented either by the Committees, or by Death: For none are mention'd in them by the Commiſſioners as Ejected before the Act. And in the laſt of them, the Fifths are charged to all the Livings mention'd by the Sequeſtrators and Agents, (Three or Four only excepted;) which plainly ſhews that they did not come to their Hands by the Death of the reſpective Incumbents, or indeed by any other Way than that of Sequeſtration.

‖ Although I meet with ſeveral Inſtances of a Perſon Ejected in Caermarthenſh. in 1646. If therefore the Commiſſioners had exerciſed their Tyranny in theſe Counties, as they did in the reſt, it is plain, the Account of the Commiſſioners is very deficient, abſtaining mentioned none in either of them, Ejected before the Act for Propagation: For if, as is here mentioned, the Commitees had made Strife, or no Progreſs in them towards the Extirpation of the Old Clergy*, then the Obſervations now mentioned, muſt hold good; and all the* Miniſters*, except the 13 Old ones, ſaid to be left, muſt be charged on the* Propagators*, neither their Predeceſſors the* Commiſſioners*, nor their* Fellow-Labourer*, Death, coming in to help them in the Diſpoſant.*

And

Digitized by Google

As appears by their having in their Hands the very Self-Same (which was 1650) no less than 273 Livings &c. as is before noted.

And tho' I have in another Place observ'd, that it is much to be Queſtion'd, whether they actually paid all the Arrears they charged, yet ſurely they would not be Guilty of ſuch a palpable and notorious Prevarication, as to charge them to the Account of the Perſons who were long before Dead and Rotten. Add to this, that after the Propagation began, the Commiſſioners proceeded with ſo much Diſpatch in their great Work of Reformation, that they then left little or no Room for Death to interpoſe.

And ſome new Livings are added to the Accompts of the Sequeſtrators and Aſſiſtants in 1652.

And further yet it ſeems probable (and I have in Fact met with ſome Inſtances to ſupport it) that ſome of thoſe Unejected in April 1652 (or at leaſt ſome Loyaliſts, who got Poſſeſſion of their Livings after that Time) were at length, during the remaining Eight Years of Uſurpation, put under Sequeſtration, if not by the Act of Propagation, yet perhaps by ſome other Methods of Oppreſſion. If all this, I ſay, be conſider'd, it may not perhaps unreaſonably be deemed to counterbalance in ſome Meaſure, thoſe Numbers whoſe Ejectment was prevented by Death. And if this and the other Computations be admitted, it will appear that there were betwixt Three and Four Hundred Miniſters Sequeſter'd in the Six Counties of South Wales and the County of Monmouth.

There will, if I miſ-reckon not, be upwards of 250 Exclusive of Cubiful caſes) recounted by Name hereafter in the Liſt, beſides about 90 Parſons, the Names of the Incumbents on which I cannot learn, moſt of them are ſuſpected to a Note at Glamorgan in Carmarthenſhire: And if the Conſiderate there prove Right, and many of thoſe Livings were not Pluralities of Perſons otherwiſe mentioned in the Liſt; or if more of them were not poſſeſſed by one and the ſame Perſon, who is not otherwiſe mentioned (which two laſt Suppoſitions however, will, as I believe, make the Numbers of Sequeſter'd Perſons fall many Score of the Number of Livings then mentioned, and referred to that Note.) Thoſe thoſe Sequeſtrations which I have diſcovered, and produced in thoſe Counties, will ſomewhat to well near 400 (and doubtleſs there were many which have wholly eſcaped me) and to likewiſe ſome of them might be Curates, and theſe only will belong to the Appendix.

This at leaſt, is undoubted, that either Death, or the Sequeſtrators had, by the Beginning of 1652, deſtro 'd all the old Parochial Incumbents of theſe Counties, 127 only excepted; and that the latter appear to have b n i ſs Merciful than the former, as having rooted out more than Three Parts in Four of what the other had ſpared; that is, in plain Words, having Ejected Three Parts in Four of thoſe Regular Incumbents, who lived long enough to come under their Power. And if their Ravages in North Wales bore any Proportion to thoſe which they made in the Southern Parts of that Country (and indeed they ſeem much to have exceeded them; for in ſome of the Counties in that Part of Wales they did not leave above Two to ſtand * Petition of South Wales, p. 14. for Number, that is, of times of the Counties of South Wales, which are the immediate Subject of the Diſco ſie in that Place.) However, there is ſomething preſents in the ſame Piece, which look as though it might be underſtood of South Wales Trade-Lessons.) And if it is no more of South Wales, than it muſt be eſtimated by the wat. that they were not greater Numbers Ejected in 52, than the which I have before now noted, ſince the Commiſſioners muſt have ſo ally made ſevere ed the Gaſe of the Ejected Miniſters to be Unexcuſed, the leaſt Number to be found by them in any of the Counties here in ſtion to North Wales, Parſons, in his Letter (dated as I judge, the ſame in notes. See Price, of South Wales, p. 6) aſſerts, that there were but 11 Old Miniſters, for theſe about Ejected in North Wales. Tho' I muſt confeſs, that the Propagation (for that is the Subject of his Letter) and the Act of the ſame Propagation which the Commiſſioners in South Wales were to Execute, were not the ſame, the Number of Parſons in North Wales being 121. See Cambden, ubi ſupra) of which 31 is about a 6th Part: And the Number of Parſons in South Wales being (as hath been already ſaid) 654, of which 129 (the Number which the Commiſſioners in that Country to have been Ejec by themſelves) is much about a 5th Part likewiſe. And as for thoſe who were Ejected by the Commiſſioners before the Propagation began, I have no Reaſon to doubt but both Parts of the Country had at laſt, reached alike, in that Point. Nor can it be queſtioned, but that the ſame Advantage ought to be made to Mr. Price's Repreſentation of Matters in North Wales, as I have before ſhewn, there ought to be to that of his Brother-Commiſſioners in the South Part of that Country, for the Proof of which this ſingle Inſtance will be abundantly ſufficient, namely, that the Grand Jury of the County of Montgomery, in a Preſentment (that very Parliament drawn up, and made in the Year 1655) complaining of the want of Miniſters, to fill up among other Things, that there were no leſs than 47 Churches left Vacant, in that one County. And if that Preſentment be more nearly conſidered, it will appear very plain, that Ministerial and Diſtinct Churches had been Ejected from thoſe Churches: And it is moreover added, that "moſt of the Pariſhes (ſo lately Sequeſtered)" (Petition of South Wales, p. 16.) "have but Three Eſt were ſuch as they were Curates, or ſome of theſe 47 were Daughter-Churches or Curacies? can be diſcovered: For there are but 47 Pariſhes in that whole County. (See Cambden's Brit. p. 651.) In the mean Time, they confeſs, what I am ſure is true to the Letter, "that it is not to be made in toto, of thoſe Churches, not even to countenance the Suppoſition that's before made, in comparing the Numbers Ejected in South Wales, with the Parſons ſequeſtered in Cumberland, are ſo ſtrange and diſtinct, exclusive of Chapelries, &c.

As to what concerns the Oppreſſion of the Welch Clergy, by the Manner of their being Diſpoſſeſſed, and the Miſ ries they afterwards underwent, I have received ſo very few Informations from thoſe Parts, that I can ſay very little, or nothing of them, beſides what is already mention'd or hinted at. That the ſame Arts of Calumnies and Faſſhood which prevail'd in England, were practis'd there alſo, will eaſily be thought, and is above ample ſuggeſted by what I have already ſaid of their Blank Artic. s, and their manner of procuring Accuſations. And as readily will it be thought, that the Condition of this Part of the Clergy under their Sufferings, was doubly miſerable: For if the beſt Eſtate of not a few among them, be, as is well known, but little ſhort of downright Poverty, what muſt they needs have ſuffer'd under a Total Deprivation, even of that little which had all along hardly ſubſiſted them, and ther fore never left them any Overplus for ſuch an Occaſion? And accordingly the Mere. Cmbr. Brit. (p. 7) affirms, That "the poor Ejected Miniſters, with their Wives and Families, were READY TO PERISH.' And Dr. Tung, in his Life of Hugh Peters, (p.83.) That "many of them could be ſatisfied with a Morſel of Tithe Cheeſe."

I muſt add, before I diſmiſs this Head, that my Time being ſo very ſhort with the Papers at Lambeth, that concern theſe Matters, I was forc'd to content my ſelf with very imperfect Abſtracts of them; altho' nothing but the Originals, or a compleat Copy could, (as I always foreſaw, and now by fad Experience find) anſwer the many new Queſtions which ariſe on a fuller Conſideration of this Subject: Nor had I at that Time examin'd this Matter of the Propagation (or ſo much as receiv'd many of the other Notices, which I have now produced, particularly the Accompts of the Sequeſtrators and Agents) relating to it; and therefore had my Eye chiefly on the Numbers and Names only of thoſe who appear'd to have been Sequeſter'd: Beſides which, there are in thoſe Counties ſo many Pariſhes (as well as Perſons) of the ſame Name; the Names of others are ſo little differ nt, and the Places annext, Donatives, Chapels &c. ſeem to be ſo many, that it is almoſt impoſſible for a Perſon, wholly unacquainted himſelf with the Language and Country, and unaſſiſted by any one who doth know them, to attempt an Undertaking of this Kind, without Committing a great Number of Miſtakes: On all which Accounts, not only th ſe printed Com n atories, but the Liſt it ſelf muſt, I judge, be found imperfect and what is ſtill worſe, in ſeveral Parts of it much leſs, Erroneous, and Miſtak n, more particularly in Point of Orthography; and the rather, becauſe it was my Business always to follow the Spelling of the Papers, I made use of, where I had no better Authority to correct them. And several of these being only Counties Returns, there is no doubt but they were far enough from being Exact. Nor can the Accompts of the Sequestrators and Agents be rely'd on in this Point; for I not only find them (tho' several among them write Esq.) sometimes tripping in the English, but very frequently writing the Names of the self-same Places, at different Times, in as different and various Manners: In these th' reform, and all other Respects, I shall gladly stand Corrected by any one, who knoweth more of all, or any of these Matters.

Digitized by Google

Put the Value of the Livings (together with the Impropriations, Prebends Rents, &c.) which the Propagators had, by Vertue of this Act gotten into their Hands, is much better ascertain'd than the Number of the Sequestrations happen'd to be: For it appears by the Inspection of the forementioned Accompts of the Sequestrators and Agents of South Wales, and Monmouth, for the Years 1650, 1651, 1652, that the least Produce of the Rents for either of those Years, (namely, that of 1650) amounted to * 9196 l. but in the following Year, to 9694 l.

The Particulars are as I reckon 'em, for there is some difficulty in doing it, as they lie in these Accompts, viz.

1650.	l.	s.	d.	1651.	l.	s.	d.	1652.	l.	s.	d.
Pembr.—1065	11	8		Pembr.—1316	10	0		Pembr.—1316	10	0
Glam.—2560	18	6		Glam.—2923	10	8		Glam.—2694	18	0
Card.—0493	1	4		Card.— 510	1	4		Card.— 720	3	4
Caerm.— 881	4	4		Caerm.—707	14	4		Caerm.—740	5	0
Mon.— 2231	18	10		Mon.—1959	2	4		Mon.—1617	5	8
Brec — 1288	13	4		Brec.—1541	11	8		Brec — 1541	11	8
Radn.— 1013	13	4		Radn.— 734	0	0		Radn.— 733	6	4
	9196	0	4		9694	12	4		9466	0	0

* The Petition of South Wales, and the other Papers which will be cited by and by, imply, that in the 16th Year of their Propagation (which was 1650) the Revenues amounted to 20000 l.

However, these Sums do by no means come up to the real Value of those Revenues of the Clergy, which those Plunderers had gott n into their Possession: For the Commissioners or Sequestrators as such been before intimated, and will be more fully shewn by and by) let out the Livings to their Godly Friends (and sometimes, no doubt, to their more Ungodly selves, tho' in the Names of other Persons) at Half Values; and therefore this Sum must be doubled to make the whole Charge of this Part of their Plunder: And accordingly at the End of the Return of the Sheriff of Brecon, there is (but in a Hand different from that of the Return it self) this note, 'The Total Sum of all the Churches Revenues, during the Vacancies, amounts to 22971 l. 10 s. 4 d.

For almost every Living (as appears, by that Return, and will be (and hereafter) by many Years Vacant, after the by Amount of the Reg lar Incumbent, or other accidental Vacating of them; and the Commissioners in the mean Time, received the Profits of almost every one of them.

Now this Return was made in 1658, when the Propagation had been Eight Years on Foot; and the highest Sum that the Sequestrators and Agents for this County do in their Accompts charge themselves with, for any one Year, being 1643 l. &c. That Sum for Eight Years falls near the one Half short of what this Note in the Return affirms the Incomes of the Vacant Livings to have amounted to.

In the Return is likewise this Entry (in the Hand before mentioned) 'Churches Vacant 63' but in the Accounts of the Sequestrators, &c. th re appear but 59 Livings, with which they charge themselves: and about 27 Prebends, Rectories, and Impropriations, which last they say they did not bring into their Accounts all the Time they had the Profits, and by that reason, as well as by forbearing Undervalues, lessened the Charge upon themselves, which a good Part of them by were Chapelries, Daughter Churches, &c. (See what was said just now in a Marginal Note, relating to the County of Montgomery,) and that there must have been some such among them, is certain, because there are but 61 Parishes in this County. See the English Camden, p. 591.

There is yet more express Testimony of this matter; for the Petition of South Wales presented to the Parliament against these Propagators, sets forth (and it is confirmed by several Writers of those Times) † That the Profits of the Tithes of Church-Livings, and all other Benefices and Impropriations sequester'd within the Six Counties of South Wales, and County of Monmouth, were annually worth 20000 l. or thereabouts.' † Petit. of South Wales, p. 2. See also p. 12. and Pref. to Merc. Cambr. Brit in likewise the Merc. is just, p. 8 p. 20. who say, it came to upwards of that Sum.

And the Answer of the Hue and Cry affirms, That the Propagators or their Agents 'had the Disposing of above 40000 l. a Year in Tithes, Glebes, Impropriations, Rents reserved, and other † Ecclesiastical Benefices, and Promotions, for above ‖ four Years last past, in the Thirteen Counties of Wales, far Surmounting the Sum of an hundred and Threescore Thousand Pounds, and as yet to our Knowledge unaccounted for.'

P. 5.

† This forms the Impropriations were Ecclesiastical, &c. as is before conjectured.

‖ The Hue and Cry was printed in 1654.

But neither will these 20000 Pounds per Annum, yet Balance the Account for South Wales; because the Committees had (as is already said in another Place) Sequester'd about 56 Clergymen, before the Propagators were Erected three; these Clergymen (being some of 'em Pluralists) puffs'd upwards of 60 Livings; and saying, that the Committees began their Sequestrations with the Year 1645 that th y Sequester'd after the Proportion of Thirteen Livings each Year, one with another, until the End of 1649 (when the Propagators succeeded in their Place) this will make 65 Livings in all: And supposing, that the Livings were Worth, one with another, * 70 l. per Annum (for every one knows, the Committees did not use to pitch upon the Worst) that will produce another Sum of about † 14000 l. Nor will this yet compleat their Charge; for there can be no Question made, but that the Clergy in Wales, as well as their Brethren in England, Suffer'd not only in their Spirituals, but in their Temporals likewise: And should we say, that but every Fourth Person among them Suffer'd in the last mention'd Kind, and that each Sufferer lost but 40 l. one with another, (and surely that will go but a little way in bare Houshold-Goods, an Horse, a few Cattle, or Sheep, and the Expences of fruitless Journeys, to preserve their Livings, or obtain their Fifths, had either been possible) this, among a Number of Men, which were betwixt three and Four Hundred, will amount to about 4000 l. And the Fifths, as hath been shewn in another Place, will go but a very little way to Counterbalance it. Add to all this, that 'tis probable, besides the Livings Sequester'd by the Committees, many were likewise Usurped on the Death of Incumbents, in the Times preceding the Act for Propagation; and that possibly several Livings came into the Hands of the Propagators, after the year 1654, (in which the Latest of those Papers, Cited to prove the Value of the Church Revenues usurped by these Plunderers, was published) and if there had been any Successors Named, and appointed, with Power to take the Profits before that Year, it may be, the Value of those Livings is not taken into the Grand-Charge of 20000 l. but how to compute the Produce of these last Articles, I know not.

That it is sure, this Computation cannot be exact; yet is it the nearest I am able to think of.

* which is not the most wary how since I say, and 100.

† Reckoning to their Accounts 13 Livings the first Year, 26 the Second, &c.

But quere further of this matter.

R r Upon

Digitized by Google

Except in two or three Instances, which seem to be peculiar.

Upon the whole then, if the Propagators continued to hold these Livings till the Reformation (and I do not Remember to have met with any thing, that shews the Contrary); on the other Hand it is plain, by the Return of the Sheriff of Brecon, by the other Returns, and by several other Incidental Notices, that they held them till 1658) then the Yearly Income of the Livings, &c. in South Wales, and Monmouth, for the Ten Years, will be Two Hundred Thousand Pounds; and according to this Fourteen Thousand Pounds for the Livings Sequester'd before the Propagation, Four Thousand Pounds (and perhaps I might safely say Ten) for their Temporals, and but Ten Thousand Pounds for all the other Contingent Articles, the Account for this part of Wales, will be near Two Hundred and Thirty Thousand Pounds: And if to this we should add a like Sum of Two Hundred Thousand Pounds, for the whole Income of the Ecclesiastical Revenues of North Wales, (which the Hue and Cry, as before Cited, would fully justifie) in the Hands of their Invaders, that would swell the Account for the Whole of Wales, to almost Half a Million.

P. S. For that but 20000 l. per Annum of that Sum belonged to S. Wales, is plain from the unanimous Consent of the other Papers, wherein mention is made of these matters. (See Petition of S. Wales, and Merc. Cambr. cited as before alledg'd) and what hath been already said of the clear Riddance made in Montgomeryshire, and other Counties of South Wales, makes it plain, that that Part of the Country suffered in a much greater Proportion than South Wales: although I have already, and shall in this place proceed only on the Supposition of their suffering equally in proportion to the Total Number of the Livings.

But because the Number of Parishes in that part of the Country is not full the one Half as great, as of those in South Wales, and Monmouth, I shall content my self at present with the one Half of the Sum now mention'd; as likewise with the one Half of the Charge on the other Articles; which will therefore be 115000 l. and then the whole of the Revenues and Estates of the Church and Clergy (mostly Plunder'd from them, and that too Principally from the Parochial Ministers) come way or other in the Possession of the Committees, or Propagators, or those whom they appointed to Possess, or Collect them, will for the whole Time of the Usurpation appear, on the most Modest Computation, (for I verily believe, I might safely add many Thousands more) to have been above Three Hundred Fourty Five Thousand Pound Sterling; an Immense Heap of Sacrilege and Plunder!

Exclusive of great part of the Revenues of the four Cathedrals in those Parts, as I apprehend (which would amount to many Thousands more) for the Sums of the Cathedral Revenues appear (as both were already noted) in the Accompts of the Sequestrators and Agents; yet I take those to have been only such as were untith'd, when the Propagators were Fitch'd, Fresh'd, Fresh'd, and to be but a small Part of them: And accordingly, they are comparatively few, which appear in this Accompt. See what is before said of the Ordinances, &c. for Setting the Bishops, and Dean and Chapters Lands; upon the Act, as I understand it, settled with those, as well as with the Parochial Revenues, &c. in the Power of the Parliament.

It must, however, be remember'd, as a small Diffusant to this Treat, That had the Clergy been left in Possession of their Incomes, Something must have been paid for Taxes, Tenths, and other Charges.

The whole of it was, not only torn from the Church; but almost all of it from particular Church-men, who were in the Legal Possession of it; far the greatest Part of that again, being Converted to the private Uses of the Plunderers, or those more Prophane, as well as Publick, of Supporting the Rebellion, and Usurpation; the most part of that, which was apply'd to what they call'd the Uses of Religion, and the Gospel, being Distributed among meer Laymen, and those too of the most Inferior Rank (as their Itinerants will by and by appear to have been) and the small Remainder, to say the least of it, being Ravished from that Pious Mother, who alwa's desires to Feed her own Children with her own Hands, and given back again (only at the Arbitrary Will and Pleasure of such as Usurped the Office of Dealing out her Bread) to those truly Scandalous Clergymen, who would Submit to accept of it, in such a Manner, and from such Ignominious Hands. I have only to add, that if the Sequester'd Revenues of one Poor Remote and Barren Corner of the Kingdom, Amounted to such a vast Sum, to what an Amazing Height must the Plunderings, Robberies, and Sacrileges, of these Godly Persons arise throughout the whole Nation!

How these vast Incomes were dispos'd of, I shall say hereafter, when I have first shewn, in what manner the Places of the Ejected Ministers were Supply'd; and the rather, because the Great Work of the Propagation did chiefly center in this Point: Altho' in nothing b fides was it more plainly shameful and scandalous; notwithstanding by the Preparations they had made for it, and the Voice of their Cry in the Wilderness, Prepare ye the way of the Lord; make streight in the Desert an high Way for our God; they had raised such mighty Expectations, that nothing less was look'd for, than that every Valley should have been exalted, and every one of the Mountains and Hills in that Country, should have been made low, and the rough Places plain, and that the Glory of the Lord should have been immediately Revealed. Pursuant therefore to the Project of Hugh Peters, before mention'd, it was determin'd, that (instead of the Setl'd and Fix'd Ministers) he vacant Churches should for the most part be Supply'd (if it may be so call'd) by a sort of Travelling Gospellers, which were therefore call'd Itinerants. Whether they were Confin'd to a certain District, and to a Setl'd and Stated Order of appearing at each Church, so many times in a Quarter (for the Number of Churches, in proportion to that of the Itinerants in some of the Counties, would not permit them to Preach so much as one Sermon in a Month) I cannot tell; but I do not Remember to have met with any thing, that should incline me to think, they were under any other Directions of this Kind, besides that of their own Roving Humours; or put under any Confinement more Streight, than that of a whole County; nor always even that, (such was the greatness of their Abilities and Capacities;) for I find some of them in the same Years, in Two several Counties, and Receiving their Salaries in both of them; as particularly, Mr. Henry Walter, in Glamorgan, and Monmouth; Mr. Nath. Ibie (or Ibbet) in Glamorgan, and Caermarthen; Mr. Tho. Evans, in Cardigan, and Radnor; Mr. Hugh Evans, in Brecon, and Radnor; Mr. Maur. Griffith, Mr. John Hanmer, and Mr. John Harris, in both the same Counties likewise. Nor could the great Genious of Vavasor Powel be content to inform two Counties only, or any thing less than two whole Provinces; and therefore he had his Salary of 100 l. per Annum (notwithstanding his affirming, that he never took any thing for Preaching) in North Wales, and Tickets from the Commissioners in South Wales, for the like Sum, besides other Emoluments, not a few: Nor were some of the others, as I find, wanting to themselves; but between the two Counties, which they Served, made the Total of their Receipts, exceed the Pittance of a single 100 l. per Annum Hand-pay, which was the Portion, the Projectors of the Propagation meant, they should have been contented with. However, some of the Parishes had, if I mistake not, (at least towards the latter End of the Usurpation) Peculiar and Appropriate Ministers Setl'd on them; and that the Itinerants might not be altogether Handless, several of them had Livings besides their Salaries, some particular Livings, which were called their own.

Hue and Cry 43

Digitized by Google

Tho' I do not know wherein they might not take these Livings at a certain Rate, and have sen so much in Salary as the whole amounts to 100 l. a Year; which was the Allowance prescribed (as I think) by the Act.

The chief of these Itinerants were Vavasor Powel (so often mention'd) Mr. Walter Cradock, (if I do not mistake his Christian Name) Mr. David Gam, Captain Jenkin Jones (alias Jenkin [illegible] John Howel) and Mr. * William Erbury, whom I take to have been the Blasphemer of both these Names, before mentioned in the Account of the Visitation at Oxford. I find the Names of each of these in the Accompts now mentioned in the Margent; out of which might be produced likewise the Names of most of the rest: But they are Persons of such Obscurity, that it would be but Labour to recite them.

See Dugd. Warw. p. 195. This Jenkin Jones was also an Approver by the Act. The County in which he was an Itinerant, was that of Brecon; where I find him by the Accompts of the Sequestrators and Agents, receiving his Salary He had in the Year 1654. ' Sinclere Horle, with Men, Arms and Ammunition, Listed, and ready at his Command;' which was, as I suppose, one of the Reasons of his being called Captain. He was a grievous Persecutor of the Clergy. See the Hist and Cry. p. 12.

* See Wood, Ath. Vol. II. p. 102.

Merc. Cambr. Brit. p. 6, 7. and Hist and Cry. p. 4.

The Manner in which it was proposed to Propagate the Gospel by the help of these Instruments, was to Root out Christianity, by Abolishing the Ministry, and Destroying the two Human Supports of it, Namely, the Learning and Maintenance of the Clergy: To which Purposes, as I have already observed, they had it in their Instructions (at least, whilst the Propagation was in its Infancy) to Decry the Old Ministers, as Formalists, &c. and the Ministry it self as Antichristian; to Rail at Human Learning, and to Persuade the People, that all those who were not Lifted in their Congregations, were 'little 'better than Pagans and Infidels.'

See the Hist and Cry. p. 45.

And altho' their Masters and themselves shared 40000 l. a Year betwixt them out of the Tithes; yet one main Point of their Orders, was, to Single out these likewise for Ignominy and Reproach, and to represent them but as Jewish and Mosaical, at best: Only it must be known, That such of them as had been refined, by passing thro' the Fingers of the Commissioners (for no small Portion of them stuck there, as will be said by and by) and been made Christian with the New Name of Sripends or Salaries, were thenceforth Received without any Scruple. These Directions therefore they punctually observed, and Faithfully and Effectually Executed; but the Monstrous Errors, they broached in pursuit of them, made the more Innocent Part of their Preaching and Conversation, especially if compared with those Horrid Blasphemies, which more directly concerned the Person of God himself, and our Blessed Saviour, when they were at Leisure to lay any thing, which did not relate to the helping on the Propagation. This hath in good Measure appear'd, from what is already produced out of the Hist and Cry in the Account of the Preaching of Vavasor Powell. The same Author hath Transmitted to us several things of the like Kind, concerning others of the Itinerants, which it may not be amiss to take notice of in this Place. He affures us therefore, that one John Davids, in Montgomeryshire, told a Justice of Peace, in that County, that he had seen Christ, and was to go the next Morning to See him again; adding 'That he was a 'little Old Man, with a small Grey Beard.' And one Mr. Williams another of these Itinerants, affirmed in a Sermon Preached in Monmouthshire, 'That Christ Jesus was much another Man as 'Old Rice Williams, of Newport (who was, it seems, one of the Commissioners for the Propagation) and 'That he had a large Grey Beard. I shall not stay to Enquire, which of these two Illuminated Persons was most in the Right (for 'tis plain they Contradict one another) as to the Size of the Beard; but proceed to another of their Blasphemers, who was Mr. Richard Powell of Lanigan, in Brecknockshire; and who not only declared in his Sermons, 'That the Lord's 'Prayer was a Rotten Prayer;' but 'Maintained, that God was not the Creator of the 'World.'

Hist p. 8.

This Powell was 'a Scandalous, Ignorant, Covetous, Debosh Fellow;' but notwithstanding that, he was both an Itinerant, and an Approver in the Act. He occurs in the List of those who received their Salary in the County of Brecon: His own was 100 l. besides which, he receiv'd likewise (if I mistake not) the Profits of Lanigan, and the Tithes in kind of Three Neighbouring Parishes, Jewish and Antichristian as Tithes were: But to the Pure, all things are pure; especially, when receiv'd (as these, doubtless, were) with Thanksgiving.

Ibid. To la there called, That he had 'marched 'before his 'Parishioners and 'others, a-'gainst Sir 'William 'Waller's Forces, &c. See Clarend. Hist. Vol. II. p. 119. which I presume, is the Time here referred to) by which I guess, that he had been a Clergyman of the Establishment: And if so, it confirms the Constitute I have before made, that too old Clergy, said to be lef, were in good Part at least such, as had subscribed to, and ran in with the Times; and that those kept in, and not those Ejected, were the truly Scandalous, &c.

* See Hist and Cry, ubi supra.

If that which is now said, be not sufficient to suggest to the Reader what Sort of Gospel was Propagated by the Itinerants, and how miserable a Condition the People were to under these Teachers; what must be said by and by of their Characters, will abundantly supply the Defect of it: But I must first take Notice, that Mr. Powell's good Fortune of Livings, Tithes, and Salaries (tho' perhaps it may serve for a Rule to judge of what his Brother Approvers, and some of the Commissioners, might comfortably enjoy) must not by any Means be deemed to have been the Lot of all those who served with him in the other Capacities of Itinerants, most of them being hired with very poor and miserable Stipends.

See Dr. Young's Life of Hugh Peters. See also Merc. Cambr. Brit. p. 4.

The Scheme indeed formed by Hugh Peters, (as hath been already noted) was to allow each of these Gospel-Postilions 100 l. a Year. And by what I find in the Accompts of the Sequestrators, and Agents, and from some other Intimations, I guess, that pursuant to it, the Act for the Propagation directed that Allowance; but tho' some among them of superior Merit would not be Stinted (and therefore had, as appears in the same Accompts, more than 100 l. a Year for their Salaries) these were however very few: And tho' they thought themselves under-paid with the ordinary Allowance, they made others glad to accept of a Tenth Part of it. At least Mr. Powell had his Journeymen both among the Itinerants and Schoolmasters, whose Wages he took up, and put good Part of it into his own Pocket. Nor is it improbable that several others among them followed that great Example.

These especially, who served in more than One County, as before observed.

Hist and Cry. p. 4.

Many indeed of the Salaries, as charged in the Accompts for South Wales, run at 50, 60, and 70 l. per Ann. but there are several among them of 10 l. and 5 l.

Tho' I know not whether several of these might not have a Living of such a Value, as added to what they received in Salary, made the Whole amount to an Hundred Pounds, or perhaps some of them were Augmentations, which I find practised in those Parts.

P. 6. I take this John Davids to have been the same Person with one of that, these Names, who in Hist and Cry the Sirname is left out in Section 2. and Christian Name, and of [illegible] is called Taylor.

And

Digitized by Google

And if the Practice in this Part of Wales was the same, as in the other, it is much to be doubted, that even the whole of this was not paid; One who very well knew what he said, having assur'd the World, that: ' the Mock ' Teachers, which they had set up, would have ' been glad of 10 l. per Ann. tho' their Masters ' might let upon their Score large Reckonings, to ' be accounted to the State.' Nor must these ' memorable Articles of the Sequestrators Accompts for Monmouthshire, in the Years 1650, 1651, be omitted on this Occasion, ' distributed ' amongst Seventeen Godly Members of the ' Churches of Mynthyr, Llyn, and Lanvaches, ' sent forth to exercise their Gifts, and to promote the Work of the Lord, mostly, amongst ' the Welch in the Mountains, being allo upon ' Approbation before the Commissioners, 364 l. ' 8 s. 10 d.' which amounted to about 21 l. a Piece; but in the following Year their Numbers were increased, and the Sum Total of this Salary to much leſſen'd, as reduc'd it to about 17 l. for then there was ' distributed amongst Twenty ' Godly Members of the Churches of Lanvaches, ' and Mynthyſt Llyn, sent forth to exercise their ' Gifts, and to help on the Work of the Lord ' mostly amongst the Welch in the Mountains, no ' more than 340 l.

Position of S. Wales, p. 15.

But this being more than they could get by Cobling, and those other Mechanical Trades, to which a great Part of them had been bred, it is probable they might think themselves well enough paid, and that others will think the Allowance of no better Salaries to those Gospellers, would have been the most innocent Part of the Propagation, had not those very Propagators themselves let such Mechanicks at Work, as well as paid them their Wages; for it must now be remembred, that a great Part of the Persons, of whom they thus made Choice to propagate the Gospel (as well those who were settled on some of the Livings, as their Travelling Apostles) were Men of such vile Characters, that they did indeed Prophane, instead of helping forward the Promotion of it: Insomuch, that if they had ' had a Design to bring Preaching into ' Contempt and Derision, they could not have ' Thought of a more effectual Course, than by ' setting up such Men to Preach;' some of them having ' need to be Taught which are the first Prin- ' ciples of the Oracles of God.'

Ibid. p. 15.

The loſest Name Mr. Dugdale could afford Short View, p. 329. Powell, Jones, and Gam, (who were Three of the cheiefest among them) is that of ' most Impudent ' Schismatical Knaves.' And notwithstanding the Clamours of Ignorance and Insufficiency, against the Regular Clergy, which filled all their Orders, Resolutions and Ordinances, (and was in a particular Manner alledged against the Clergy of these Parts) it would prove but a very imperfect Character of those who were appointed to supply their Places, to say that they were mere Lay Mechanicks; that they did not so much as pretend to any Orders; that they had never seen (and some of them perhaps scarcely ever heard of) any University, much less were they either Graduates or Scholars. Let the Truth of this be judged of, by what the Author of the Hue and Cry (who personally knew what he said) declares of these Matters: Namely, that ' for P. 5. ' most of the Itinerants, they are such ignorant ' Persons that they can neither Read nor understand English. To the same Purpose Dr. Young (who lived thro' the whole Course of the Propagation) and Lodge likewise upon his own Knowledge: Jenkin Jones, in his Life of Hugh Peter, P. 84. tells, ' they filled the Vacancies with Cooks, ' Ranters, Taylors, Weavers, Shoemakers, Pettmakers, Stocking-menders, Millers, Gingerbread Makers, Collar-makers, Carpenters, and ' Cheese Vat-Makers, only one Academick,' whose Name was Stephen Young; for that he bore a ' Patrifon to guard the Scaffold, at the Mock- ' ising of our Gracious King.' He was a Creature of H. Peters.

I must readily own, that this Representation of the Characters of those Men, with whom the Propagation of the Eternal Gospel of our Blessed Master was entrusted, would appear altogether incredible; but that the Return of the Sheriff of Brecon, (by which the Reader may guess at the Rest) enables me to produce by Name, both the Persons of this Sort (when those Wanderers happen'd to be fix'd) that were thus employ'd, and the Places on which they were appointed to Officiate; namely, at Lanvigan, in that County, Mr. Tho. Lewis, A. M. ' a Learned ' and Orthodox Man, of a Godly Life and ' Conversation, and a constant Preacher in ' Welch and English,' was succeeded by one ' Tho. Pugh a Layman, of but 22 Years Old, ' by an Instrument from the Approvers at White- ' Hall; who was seldom Resident, nor of Abilities to Teach, altho' there were 800 Souls in ' the Parish.

It must be observed, that these Sums were not immediately on the Endowment of the Rev. Act Ministers, but mostly at the Distance of 5, 6, and 8 Years; as will be more particularly said by and by.

Mr. Richard Williams B. D. was succeeded at Lanthetty by Capt. Jenkin Jones, before-mention'd. Mr. Jesias Morgan, A. M. was succeeded in the Rectory of Tayno, by ' Reginald ' Morgan, a Miller, by an Order of the Commissioners for Approbation; who was not Resident, ' but had another Living in Monmouthshire.' Mr. Richard Habberly, A. M. of Telgarth and Lyswen, had for his Successor one ' Tho. Powell, of 18 ' Years of Age, (pretending to but 20) who ' was inducted by Vertue of an Instrument ' from the Approvers:' He had likewise the Parish of Llanelew; and in these Places no less than a Thousand Souls under his Care. Mr. Rowland Gaps's Vicaridge of Langorse, was occasionally Supply'd by ' John Edward, a Shoemaker, by the Commissioners Orders.' Where I take it to be Two Persons mentioned in the Abridgment, (p. 147) as Visited in this County: And to, together with Elias Harry, the Weaver, and David William Probert, the Ploughman (both much wel, by produced by and by) are all that are mentioned in the Abridgment, for this County.

Mr. Jacob Wood, A. M. of Landevaile, and Cricadarne, ' An Aged, Pious, Learned and Godly Person, was Succeeded by John Davies, a Taylor, who had been both Approved, and Inducted by the Approvers.' Nor was one Living thought Sufficient for him; and th refore he was in the same manner, and by the same Authority, put into Bettwsyſſed, the Sequester'd Living of Mr. Charles Williams, ' an Able Minister.' The Living of Llanhilangel, out of which Mr. John Griffith, A. M. had been Ejected, was at length Supply'd by ' Anthony Harry, a Cobler by Profession; who was allow'd by the Commissioners of Propagation to Teach, and Receive the Profits.' William Edward, D. D. an ' Able ' and Godly Preacher,' had his Pulpit at Landeveilgg, filled (with great Sufficience, no doubt) by ' David William Probert, a Yeoman or Ploughman.' Mr. Thomas Cecil, A. M. of Llanvaches and Patrisso, was succeeded by one ' Elias Harry, a Weaver, who jointly shared the Profits ' with the Commissioners.'

He was also one of the Itinerants, and I find him mentioned by Sir Samuel Morland in the Account of the Sequestrations.

Most of these in the Abridgment, are Persecuted Clergy.

After Mr. 'Hopkin Thomas, A. M. (a Learned 'and Orthodox Minister, of a good Life and 'Conversation, and a Preacher in Welch and English) had been Ejected from the Rectory of Llangeinlais; the Place was for some time 'Supply'd about once a Month, by one James 'Jones, a Thatcher, by the Commissioners Orders. 'And at length one David Jones, a Plough-Boy 'of 22 Years of Age, by an Instrument from 'the Approvers, was Settl'd there, as present In-'cumbent, by the Commissioners; and yet was 'not Resident. One Thomas Evans, a Labourer, 'was admitted by the Commissioners to Preach at 'Maesmynny, after the Ejectment of Mr. 'Will. 'Jones, A. M.' On the Ejectment of Mr. 'Will. 'Williams, A. M. (who was an Able, Pious and 'Orthodox Minister) from Llanvaenvanor 'one Evan Bowen, Aged 55 Years, by his Oc-'cupation, and calling a Maton, was by the 'Commissioners appointed to Preach there, being 'Untaught in the English Tongue; for that he 'Confessed, that he had never 'Read the Primmer. 'There were 4000 Souls in the Parish.'

He had been 40 Years one of the Ejected Ministers, and had his Salary accordingly, as I find by the Accompts of the Sequestrators and Agents.

* See what is before alledged out of the Petition of S. Wales, to this purpose.

Nor was this peculiar to the County of Brecon; for besides that, what is before Produced out of the Petition of South Wales, and the Life of Hugh Peters, is affirm'd of all South Wales, at least, if not of both Parts of that Country. There are likewise among the Scatter'd Notices of the other Counties, plain Footsteps of the like Proceedings; and nothing (queſtionleſs) wanting, but the further Informations of ſuch a Return, as that from Brecon, to ſhew the many and Scandalous Particulars of them: However, theſe few are yet preſerved; One Benj. Richards, a Weaver, was an Itinerant (but in what County doth not appear) and had a Salary of 80 l. per Annum. A Taylor (whoſe Name I cannot learn) Officiated two Years on the Sequeſter'd Vicaridge of Landgemar, in Carmarthenſhire. James Davis, a Labourer, held the Sequeſter'd Living of Merthyr (or Merthyn) in the ſame County, Six Years; he was alſo an Itinerant. Mr. Will. Jones, of Dingeſton in Monmouthſhire, was Diſpoſſeſſed, amongſt his other Crimes, for being an Ignorant Reader; and to Remedy that Scandal, one Charles Williams, a Felt-maker of Monmouth Town, (was for two Years) not only Set in to Succeed him; but for his Diſtinguiſh'd Merit, had an Augmentation. And in Glamorganſhire, I find theſe Itinerants; 'William Tho-'mas of Betwas, a Husbandman; Edm. Ellys 'of St. Fagans, a Skinner; James Jones of 'Swanſea, a Weaver; John Roberts, a Miller; 'and Tho. Joſeph of Landewadock, a Shoe-maker.' Nor is it to be doubted, that the Godly Members of the Churches of Lanvacles and Mynthill Loyn, before mention'd, were every one of the like Sort.

By the Commiſſioners, no doubt.

Two of theſe, Evanes, Ellys and Roberts, appear on the Accompts of the Sequeſtrators and Agents, among thoſe who received their Salaries, &c.

I ſhall only add, before I diſmiſs this Head, that their Schoolmaſters (for ſuch was the Extraordinary Care of the Act, that particular Regard was had to, and Directions given about them likewiſe) were either 'the Commiſſioners 'Clerks or Servants, that were in a capacity to 'Read Engliſh, and make a Warrant' or ſuch others, as were 'fitter to go to School, than to 'keep any.'

It may perhaps be thought an Advantage to the Propagation, that whilſt the Perſons Entruſted with it, were of ſuch a Character, very few were Employed; and thoſe Pariſhes, which were Unſupply'd (that is, in truth, almoſt all the Pariſhes in Wales) will probably be deemed better provided for, than thoſe, which were Furniſhed with ſuch Miſerable Teachers: But ſurely the Neglect of the Commiſſioners in this Kind, compleats the Scandal of the Propagation; and renders it, not only the Abhorrence, but the Aſtoniſhment of any one, who Proſeſſes himſelf to be a Chriſtian.

That the Fixt and Settled Miniſters (at leaſt, in the Three or Four firſt Years) were comparatively very few, ſeems plain from the great Number of Livings, which were in the Hands of the Sequeſtrators and Agents; and the main Deſign of the Act, was to reduce the whole Country to the Itinerary way.

Unleſs they ſettled ſome without a Power of taking the Profits, or for Form ſake, changed them as was with their Incumbents, as they received, and paid out again; which, in truth, every Order'd, or Allow'd ſome of their Teachers to take no, Six, or more, ſome things I have met with, ſeem to ſuggeſt.

Nor was the Project, as firſt laid by Hugh Peters, to allow more than Six of theſe Itinerants to a County; agreeable to which, Vavaſor Powell, in his Letter, (more than once already mention'd) ſaith, there were about 32 then (in 1652, as I Judge) Settled in North Wales; which conſiſting of Six Counties, is pretty near that Proportion: But it is ſure that in ſeveral Counties they fell ſhort even of that Number.

Peter. of S. Wales, p. 5.

Which Conſiderſtand of Itinerants, is nevertheleſs Confeſſ'd, &c.

He there aforeſaid, that there had been but 31 Old Miniſters, or thereabouts, but ſee what is already ſaid to that matter, in a Marginal Note, ſome few Pages back.

The Petition preſented to the Parliament, relating to theſe matters in South Wales, not only ſets forth in general, 'That few or none of the 'Counties, had been Supply'd, with any com-'petent Number of Godly, Able Teachers;' but adds more particularly, that there had not been 'above Four or Five Itinerary Teachers, in ſome 'of the Counties, Appointed and Approved of, 'to Teach the Goſpel; whereas ſome of the ſaid 'Counties do conſiſt of above Sixſcore, and the 'leaſt of Fifty, or Threeſcore Pariſhes; many 'whereof have at leaſt, two Thouſand Souls.

Peter. of S. Wales, p. 12.

P. 20.

If the Numbers ſeem now produced in the County of Brecon, ſeem to be Incompliant with what is here ſaid, it muſt be conſidered, that Evidence, their Hired, as well as their Itinerant Preachers, go to Numbers; and that they were not all concurrent: But the Return accounting for the ſpace of ſix or ſeven Years, there was a Flux, and Succeſſion of them. Add to this, that after 1652, (the Year in which moſt of the Papers were alledged, and Petitions) and after the Petition, which will be ſeen by and by mentioned, was preſented to the Parliament, it is poſſible, they took care to increaſe the Number of their Teachers.

Colonel Freeman, when he deliver'd this Petition, expreſly takes Notice of the ſame Thing; and acquainted the Houſe, that there were not 'above 'Four or Five particular diſtinct Congregations, 'in moſt Counties of South Wales; and how (ſaith he) Four or Five Itinerants can Supply a whole 'County (moſt of the Counties conſiſting of 80 'or an Hundred Pariſhes) is Humbly left to your 'Honours Grave Conſideration.'

Ibid. p. 18.

And with this agrees the Merc. Camb. Brit. which repreſenting their Proceedings in the Way of Reſolves, mentions theſe as two of them; 'Reſolved, that Three or Four Itinerary Teachers 'ſhould be Employed in moſt of the Counties to 'Supply the ſame; and becauſe it ſhall not 'ſeem too hard a Work, for ſo few to Supply 'a whole County (which ſome of them conſiſt 'of a Hundred and Twenty Pariſhes, and the 'leaſt, of Fifty or Sixty) Reſolved alſo, that in 'their Expedition, they ſhould be Supply'd with 'Freſh Horſes at every Stage, which commonly 'are Ten or Twenty Miles, and ſometimes more, 'to Ride Poſt from Place to Place, to ſpread 'their Doctrine.'

Merc. Camb. Brit. p. 5. Peter. of S. Wales, p. 14.

Digitized by Google

This was indeed to make the Word of God run very Swiftly; but (as the Mercury observes) 'it 'would not have been amiss, if they had prov-'ided Horses for their Auditors too;' because in proportion to the Number of Places, which must, after this Rate, have Fallen to the Share of each Itinerant, no one Parish could have more, than one Sermon in two Months, unless they had been Furnished with the same Conveyance, as their Teachers. And the Abridgment it self owns, that instead of the Parochial Clergy, they had only 'a Scrip a few Itinerant Preachers, 'who were for Number incompetent for so great 'a Charge; there being but one, to many of 'those Wide Parishes; so that the People having 'a Sermon but once in many Weeks; and no-'thing else in the mean time, were ready to 'turn Popists, or any thing else.' P. 67.

I cannot forbear to observe how well the crying Evils of Pluralities, Non Residence, and want of Sermons in the Afternoons, were remedied by this extraordinary Project of Propagating the Gospel by Post; for if these Evangelical Expresses were left at full Liberty to move where their wild and wandring Fancies led them, (only within the Bounds of some certain County) it is probable several Congregations never saw the Face even of what those Times called a Minister, in several Years: Or, to make the best of it, and say, that there was a certain and determinate Number of Churches nominated and allotted to each Itinerant, at his own proper Cure; yet, since these could not be less than 10 or 12 to each Person; since these again, generally speaking, could not lie less than Six, Eight, and sometimes Ten Miles distant from one another (not to observe at present that several of these Travellers had Sequester'd Livings also, of which they were the immediate Incumbents; and which, as hath been already noted, were in a peculiar Manner called their own) it must necessarily follow, that they could hardly once see the Steeples of every Church they had the Care of under a Journey of 100, or 150 Miles; and then how they could Preach at each of them twice a Day, let any one Judge.

It must not be Thought, however, that these Four or Five Itinerants in each of the Counties, were the only Teachers they had among them. The Commissioners (as hath been already Remember'd) in their Account of April 1652, affirm, that there were no less than 127 old Ministers left Unejected in South Wales, and the County of Monmouth (tho' as several of these had run in with the Times, and accepted of Salaries from the Commissioners, as is before noted; so I have Reason to think, some of them are included among these Itinerants) and therefore they had some fixed, as well as wandring Lights; at least, more fixed, than others of them were. And if the Accompts of the Sequestrators and Agents may be credited in this Point, there will appear a much greater Number of Ministers in each County than those few Itinerants now mention'd.

See the Case of Mr. Richard Powell, left to mention'd.

For if we overcharged the Salaries of some of them (as the Petition of South Wales, p. 35. already alledged, suggests) it is generally to be believed they did not stick to assign Salaries to others, who perhaps never did (or will at most ought) to preach among them.

The whole Number of Ministers (and which, I believe, was well nigh the * whole of the Ministers in each of the Counties, as well those of Itinerant) which appears on these Accompts, was, for Pembroke, in the Year 1650, about Fifteen.

* Especially if we Conjecture made in another Place from those Words, that there were Sequestrations and Agents more present for Some than Other Counties; as certainly there were, when Pembroke was Filled with all sort of Sequestrators, Sequestrated Persons, &c. as there was not Room for many such Things to be in Glamorgan.

received them, and published them in the Parishes, &c. Particulars of these Matters were omitted to continue, when a Salary was Assigned to a Minister, &c. See the Act for Propagation, as before cited. And I believe that the Salary was not only designed to such Ministers, who should Preach and Officiate in the Churches, but also to such of the Ministers as were then residing in the Parishes, or near hand, and had Cures in them, as should, of such Old Ministers as were to Preach, and answer unto the Propagation, &c. Tho' several Ministers did Preach in such Churches, and were not even Instituted to the Benefices, &c. Some by Conjecturing are pleased among those who ought to these Accompts; but have been already fixed.

In the Two following Years the Accompts only say in general, to several Ministers, &c. But the Sum Total charged for their Salaries amounts to much the same (for each of those Years) as that in the former Year; for Glamorgan, in 1650, about 15 l. in the next Year, about 32 l. but for 1652, not above 24. For Cardigan in the first of those Years, about 7 Five; in the Two next ending Years no Particulars appear; as neither are there any in 1650, for the County of Carmarthen; for the Two other Years jointly 90 l. is charged to James Jones, and the rest of the Ministers in the Grofs. After which, James Jones appears to have received 300 and odd Pounds more. Mr. Nath. Ingere 100 l. John Rees 71 l. 4 s. and William Evans a Part of 30 l. and about 8 other Persons are mention'd, as receiving small Sums; but whether they were Gospellers or not, I cannot judge. Mr. Wm. Erbery 100 l. Mr. Cradock 120 l.

The Accomptants are profs in adding Ministers to each of their Names, but at other Times it is wholly omitted, as I am apt to guess it arose from their Carelessness, &c. But I shall add, that I have always Declined to make the most of them, and therefore I believe the Numbers here mentioned are the Outside of those which they paid, as far as they are mention'd in the Accompts; and I believe I have omitted none that were Teachers; but shall I dare admitted of some among them that were not so.

For Monmouth, in the Year 1650, about 9 appear (besides the 17 Godly Members of Lanvaches and Mynithsh Lyon,) the Year after, these Godly Members were increased to 20 (as hath been said in another Place:) And about Thirteen others receiv'd their Stipends in 1652; also the Godly Members were continu'd: Besides which, about 11 appear to have receiv'd their Salaries for Brecon. In 1650, four Persons appear on the same Account, (and Four or Five more who are doubtful.) In 1651, about 9 appear in this County; and in 1652, about 11. For Radnor no Particulars are mention'd, in 1650. In the following Year there appear about Ten, and in 1652, about Eight. But it must here be observ'd, that some of these were inclusive of one another (several of the Itinerants, as hath been already noted, receiving Stipends in two Counties, in the same Year) and that others of them seem to have continu'd in the Counties, where they had their Salaries but some Part of the Year only, for I find a continual Flux among them; and many new Faces appear'd in most of the Counties every Year. And it is farr only to be suspected, that some, who could make Friends with the Commissioners, were allow'd a Stipend (for sometimes, it may be, the Sequestrators and Agents, Borrowed their Names to help out their Accompts) tho' they scarce ever appear'd in the County at all. But if these Numbers should be allow'd them full and entire, without any Deduction, the larg st of them will surely appear very Scanty, for the supply of a whole County, and the plain Fact abundantly confirms it: For Hardly one why personally knew the State of those Counties, affirm, 'You might Ride 10 or 20 'Miles on the Lord's Day, where there were 'Twenty Churches, and not one Door open'd.' And another Person, as well acquainted with what he said, affures us, 'That in some Places 'there was 'scarce a Sermon heard in 6 Miles.' Yea, the Petition it self deliver'd to the Parliament

Digitized by Google

Petit. of South Wales p. 3. and I find the same instanced in several of the Contributors Returns.

ment are very ' The Churches were in MOST ' PLACES shut up, and the Fabrick thereof ' ready to fall to the Ground for want of ' Repair.'

In a Word, there were actually no less than ' SEVEN HUNDRED PARISHES in the ' Ten ten Counties UNSUPPLY'D with ANY ' MINISTERS,' and particularly in the County of Montgomery, as hath been before faid, there were † 47 Parishes ' LEFT VACANT upon the Lord's Day,' which was well near, if not altogether ‡ EVERY PARISH in that whole County.

* How and Cry, Iord There are but 695 Parishes in all the Counties both of North and South Wales, and by Confequence were there Two Parts in Three of the Churches Unfupply'd.

† Petition of South Wales, p. 10.

‡ See what is before faid of that Matter, in a Marginal Note.

What is before obferved of the Charact rs of thole implay'd under the Propagation, holds good likewife, of this horrible Neglect of fupplying the Churches with any Miniters at all, both the one and the other being almoft incredible; but that the fame Return from Brecon lets forth the Particulars of this Part of the Propagation likewife, as far as that County was concern'd in it. Cantreffe and * Beckonow (tho' this Latter was the Shire Town, and had at leaft 1000 Souls in it) lay Vacant no lefs than 9 Years after the Ejectment of ' Mr. Tho. Powell, A. M. a Learned ' and Orthodox Man, of a Godly Life and ' Converfation, a conftant Preacher in Welch ' and Engliff) without any Word preach'd, &c. ' but what Mr. Powell did freely beftow.' Tho. Pugh, the Boy who fucceeded Mr. Tho. Lewis, A. M. at the Rectory of Lanvigan, was feldom Refident, tho' there were 800 Souls in the Parifh. The Rectory of Lanthetty was Six Years Vacant, before Captain Jenkin Jones intruded himfelf preſent Incumbent. The Rectory of Lanfynach (in which here were 500 Souls) lay Vacant 11 Years, after the Sequeſtration of Mr. Watkins. The Rectory of Vaynor had lain fome Time Vacant likewife, before Morgan the Miller, became Rector of it; nor was he then Refident, but lived in Monmouthſhire. Lanfamfread lay Vacant Eight Years after the Ejectment of Mr. Vaughan tho' one of the Accufations againſt him was, his being no Preacher. Lanhamlagg alſo was Vacant for the ſame ſpace of Time; as were likewife the Rectory of Talſaughty, after the Ejectment of Mr. Jones, and the Vicaridge of Hay, after the Ejectment of Mr. Dennis. Llanigan, on the Death of the Incumbent, was left void for Four Years; as was alſo Llanelyhin the ſame Number of Years, on the ſame Occaſion. The Living of Mr. Alexander Griffith lay Vacant Eight Years, after his Sequeſtration. Talgarth and Lyſwyn lay Vacant Nine Years, after ' Mr. Hubberly (A. M. an able, ' pious, and learned Man,') had been Diſpoſſeſſed; only Tho. Powell of Eighteen Years of Age (as is already ſaid) had (after ſome Time, as I underſtand it) Induction to that Living, and to one more; and had (in both of them together) the Care of no leſs than 1000 Souls. The Vicaridge of Langoſſe, from which Mr. Rowland Gwyn had been Sequeſter'd, lay Vacant 9 Years; ſave that ſometime ' John Edward, the Shoemaker, before mention'd, preach'd there. After the Ejectment of Mr. Parker, an able Miniſter from Kerbedin, the Place lay Void 9 Years. Landevaily and Criccadarnarth were Unprovided for 6 Years, after the Ejectment of Mr. Jacob Wood, ' an aged, pious, ' learned and godly Perſon;' as both John Davies, the Layic[illegible] came to it.

* Or Beccon.

Note, it is added, at almoſt every one of theſe Livings, or the Rectors, That ' the ' Communiſts ' once re-' ceiv'd the ' Profits all ' the whole.

Some Years, if I Corrector have Right.

Brynhyffid was alſo in the ſame Condition for ſeveral Years, after the Ejectment of Mr. Williams, until the ſame Taylor had the Cure of that Place alſo. The Cure of Gwenithwae was Unſupplied for many Years. Lanvihangel lay Void Six Years after the Ejectment of John Griffith, A. M. and then Anth. Harry, the Cobler (as is already ſaid) was appointed Miniſter of it. There was no Miniſter at Garthbrengy. Llanliven was Vacant ſix Years, After the Ejectment of Dr. William Edward, from Llandevyleg (in which were 500 Souls) the Place lay Vacant 9 Years; ſave that for Part of that Time it was ſupplied by David Will. Probert the Plough-man, as is already remember'd. Trallange was Vacant and Unſupplied. Abereiker was Vacant after the Ejectment of Mr. Hardy, (A. M. an able Miniſter) 9 Years. Crick Howell was Vacant 10 Years; as were Lambedar and Patriffre 6 or 7 Years, on the Sequeſtration of Tho. Cecil, A. M. but at length Elias Harry, the Weaver, already mention'd, took the Care of thoſe Places. The Rectory of Tybradginlais lay Vacant after he Ejectment of Mr. Hopkin Thomas (' A. M. a learned and Orthodox Miniſter, ' of a good Life and Converſation, and a Preach-' er in Welch and Engliſh') 8 Years, ſave that James Jones, the Thatcher before mention'd, preach'd there once a Month; and after him David Jones, a Plough-boy (and he not Reſident) was ſettled on it. Pendryn was Unſupplied for one Year. St. Davies was Vacant 9 Years, after the Sequeſtration of Mr. Pritchard, al'ho' there were 400 Souls in the Pariſh. Llangamarth (which had 2000 Souls in it) was Vacant 9 Years: Llanathwell 8 Years: Llankadwell and Llangarten ſeveral Years each. Maesmynnis, after the Ejectment of Will. Jones, A. M. was Vacant 9 Years; only Tho. Evans, a Labourer, was admitted by the Commiſſioners to Preach there; but when, or how long, I do not know. There were no leſs than 4000 Souls in Lanavanvaner; notwithſtanding which it had no ſettled Miniſter on it after the Ejectment of Mr. Will. Williams; ſave that Evan Bowen the Maſon (as hath been already ſaid) who had never Read his Primmer in Engliſh, was by the Commiſſioners appointed to Preach there; but when he firſt came to it, or for what Time he continued on it, doth not appear.

It is needleſs to add, that the Horrible Neglect of Supplying the Churches in this County, carries with it a Repreſentation of the ſad Condition of the Preſt, with regard to the ſame Omiſſions; eſpecially conſidering, there have been alſo expreſs Teſtimonies alledg'd, which ſhew, That this Neglect was General, or rather indeed Univerſal: Notwithſtanding which, it may not be thought improper, to produce in this Caſe (as I have in the Former) ſome few of the Particulars in the other Counties alſo, which occur among thoſe more ſparing and imperfect Notices I have met with of them; and which, were there no other Evidence of theſe horrible Prophanations, would well enough ſerve as ſo many Marks and Traces, whereby to gueſs at them. Thus Lanſtephan in Caermarthenſhire, was kept Vacant Ten Years after the Ejectment of Mr. Davies; as was likewiſe the Pariſh of Langrinnet in the ſame County. Lannihangell in Glamorganſhire, was ſeveral Years without a Miniſter, after the Old one had been Sequeſter'd. Biſton in the ſame County, * was Ten Years without one: Langanhefel in Denbighſhire, lay Six Years void, after the Ejectment of Doctor Floyd; [illegible] wife many other Places in the [illegible] ſeveral Years. Llanyſnie in [illegible] lay Ten Years void, after M[illegible] and Llangian, both in that [illegible]

* Or Bidston.

Digitized by Google

Years after the respective Ejectments of Mr. Lloyd and Mr. Griffith. The Rectory of Ryan was Eight Years vacant; as was also Bodvean, after Mr. Owens and Mr. Parry had been Ejected from them: And after the Sequestration of Mr. Griffith from Llandeinchen, that Place was Unsupply'd for Six Years. These Three last are likewise in Carnarvan. Corwine in Merioneth, was Six Years void, Llandevfel and Llanvanor in the same County, were Three Years void after the Ejectment of the Ministers; and Llanymonthwy, Two Years; as were also several other Parishes. Llangoven in Monmouthshire, had no Minister settled on it for Eighteen Years; namely, from 1642. to 1660: And the Vicaridge of Dingllon in that County, had no Minister on it after the Ejectment of Mr. Jones; save that for Two Years Cha. Williams, the Felt maker before-mention'd, was settl'd upon it. Newton in Montgomeryshire, was Six Years void after the Ejectment of Mr. Lewis: And the Living of Langattock (in what County, I cannot readily say) was never serv'd with a Minister for 13 Years after the Ejectment of the Regular Incumbent; save that now and then they had an Itinerant among them.

After this, it will be no Wonder to hear the Writers of these Times complaining, that the People had 'neither the Comfort of Preaching, nor Praying, nor Sacraments, nor Visiting the Sick, nor of any Decency of Burial:' Or, as another Author expresses it, That they had 'neither Preaching, Praying, Christening, decent Burials, or other Spiritual Rights, or Comforts administred unto them:' That they endured a Famine of the Word of God;' That 'many Hundreds were converted to Popery,' after the casting out of the Old Ministers; and that 'whole Parishes had fallen off that way;' the People crying, as the Petition well observed, 'rather to go to Rome, than to Bedlam;' their 'Preachers being so divided in their Opinions, that the good People were at a stand,' and knew not whither else to betake themselves. In a Word, that the Propagation was no other than 'the utter Ruin and Abrogation of the Gospel;' or, as Colonel Freeman told the House when he deliver'd the Petition, That 'the Light of the Gospel was almost extinguish'd.' petition of S. Wales, p. 23.

Ibid. p. 3, 11.

Particularly, in Brecknockshire. See p. 231.

Ibid.

Ibid. p. 28. See a Speech of Cambd. Brit. p. 7.

And indeed the most deplorable Condition of these Countries, with Regard to the Concerns of Religion, is so very Plain and Obvious, from what hath been said on the last two Heads, that it would be wholly needless, not to say Ridiculous, to make any Remarks upon it; only I cannot forbear observing in this Place, that allowing the Clergy of these Parts, to have been those very Ignorant Readers; and what is more, even those Scandalous Livers, which they were Represented (whereas 'tis undoubted, that there were several Persons of excellent Lives, and great Learning among them,) yet surely the bare Recital of the Blessed Scriptures among the People (especially as called and chosen by the Wisdom of the Church) the constant Repetition of the most Ancient and Orthodox Creeds and Psalms of the Christian Faith, the Yearly Celebration of the principal Benefits of Christianity, in the several Festivals, by the Collects, Epistles, and Gospels appointed for that Purpose, the Receiving their Children into the Privileges of the Christian Covenant, and Distributing to themselves the Sacred Mysteries of the precious Body and Blood, of our most Blessed Lord, by Persons Furnish'd with a sufficient Authority and Commission, (tho' perhaps not with such Personal Qualifications, as are otherwise highly befitting, and much to be desired;) and Lastly, the bare Repetition of the Liturgy, and the Service of the Church; I say, that the bare Performance of these Things, tho' from the Mouth of the most Ignorant Reader, or by the Hands of a Vicious Liver, would have been infinitely preferable to that State, into which the Propagation reduced the Gospel in these Parts; yea, I will without Scruple add, this is so far from being a mean and contemptible Condition of Christianity (tho' that may be, and are, God be praised, many better) that such a People have all the Means of Salvation, that are absolutely Necessary, and are much better Provided for, than under the Care of any the most Gifted and Extempore Schismatick, that ever inverted the Scriptural Church: So excellently well hath the Piety and Wisdom of the Church of England provided in her publick Offices, for every single Congregation, where the utmost of her Care and Circumspection, may not always be able to prevent the Ignorance, of an Ignorant, a Vicious, and a Negligent Minister.

But to go on with the Propagation, or rather the Propagators; for I must now say a Word or Two of the Commissioners, who took care enough of themselves, and their Friends, tho' they to shamefully neglected the Churches; which is certainly the Best Account, that can be given, of the Dilapidation of those vast Revenues, that came to their Hands, and of which, I have before promised to Speak. Who, or how many these Commissioners were, I am not able to say, for want of the Act it self; nor do I at present Remember to have otherwise met with the Names of any more of them, than Vavasor Powell (as is before said) Mr. Walter Cradock * Major General Harrison, and Old Rice Williams of Newport, the Form of whose Beard, it seems, Jesus Christ had made choice of, for that of his own, when he appear'd among them; but whoever the rest of them might be, they did not fail, as is now said, of Improving to their own Advantage, the many Talents committed to their Care. It is altogether impossible to account for every Perquisite, that might arise out of so large an Income, as the whole Ecclesiastical Revenue, of Thirteen Known Counties, in the Hands of Persons, that on many other Accounts were known to invert the Maxim of the Apostle, and make great Gain of their Godliness; but they may in some measure be guess'd at, by the few Instances that are subjoyned. One of these Grand Commissioners, at his first Setting out, gave good Proof of the Regard he had for the Propagation of the Gospel, by Refusing to Act, or Concur, in that Troublesome Undertaking, unless he might have some Tythes in his own Hands; and accordingly, he was forthwith made Parson of Two good Benefices. But their Money as well as their Labour, was Set out at Hire; for among those of the Clergy, whom they Spared (that is, whom they did not totally Ruine) I find some who obtained that Favour † by Gratuities (or Divers Sums) to the Commissioners agents, and by Leasing Tythes to a certain Justice of the Peace, at little or no Consideration; and others were permitted to continue (that is, to Preach) which was no Small Favour to such, as had a serious Regard to the Spiritual Welfare of their People) on their Livings, provided they would contentedly allow the Commissioners to take the Profits: And I meet with several Instances of this nice Distinction betwixt Sequestration and Ejectment.

But their main Income, (for I doubt not, it much exceeded their Salaries) was their Letting good Bargains, (for as good Considerations) to their confining Friends, and sometimes openly

* See Dr. Young's Life of Oliver, p. 227. See also Wood, Ath. Vol. II. p. 717.

* To whom the Apostle (2. 15.) seems to allude in the third Head in Answering the Act of Propagation, and so fully his Military Power enumerated particularly in † See Hist. and Collect. part. of S. Wales, p. 22.

Digitized by Google

Farming the Sequester'd Livings themselves, but at no very Rack'd Rent, to be sure; nor can it be Question'd, but that at other Times, they did not overlook the obvious Opportunities of Borrowing (at an easie Hire) the Names of such, as they could not be to Seek for, under which to Rent oth r some of the Livings, and of bringing by that means no inconsiderable Sums into their own Pockets. The Grand Farmers, &c. (saith Mr. c. Camb. Brit.) were chosen out of the Tribe of God, with Power to Set and Dispose of the Tithes to the Godly Party, ' at HALF the Va- ' lue, or LESSER; and ' none of the Old Ministers, ' or Inhabitants were allowed to Farm their ' own ' Tithes at any Rate, tho' they Offer'd double the ' Value, paid by the Pretended Godly Party. And in ' another Place ' the Parishioners, and Inhabi- ' tants cannot Farm their own Tithes a ' any Reaso- ' nable Rate, tho' they are ready to give DOUBLE ' the Rate, the same are Let out to the CHIEF FARMERS; their usual Course being to grant ' One, Two, or more Churches to one of the ' Godly Party, or other Person, that is Lifted of ' a particular Congregation, at LESS THAN HALF THE VALUE: This Grand Farmer ' or Holy Man, hath several Sub-Farmers, and ' Sub Tenants under him, who Let out the Tithes ' at the Rack Rent, and utmost Penny they can ' make of the same, to the great Oppression, and ' Discontent of the Inhabitants.' The Petition presented to the Parliament, alledges likewise, that: ' The vast Revenues of the Outed Ministers, ' are set out at Extraordinary Undervalues.' And Colonel Freeman, when he Deliver'd that Petition, with a Short Speech, took particular Notice of this part of the Abuse; and told the House, that ' The vast Revenue of the Outed Clergy, &c. was ' Received by particular Persons, —— who did Let ' and Set out the same to Friends, Creatures and Alliance of their Own, at Extraordinary Under- ' values, to the Prejudice of the State, and the ' Gain of private Persons.'

P. 1.

* But after the Petition was set on foot, they then offer'd them to the Parishioners. (See petit. of S. Wales, p. 1.) And I find in the Accompts of the Sequs. and Arg. that in the County of Mon. and Brecon, great Numbers of the Tithes were set to the Parishioners.

† P. 31, 32.

Petit. of S. Wales, p. 2.

With these large Detalcations in the Article of their Charge, it might be thought, they should have rested themselves Content: But the Petition of South Wales (as is before Noted) Suggests, that there were no inconsiderable Abatements in the other Side of their Accompt also, particularly, in tha: Grand and Main Article of their Discharge, which related to their Journeymen, I mean, the Itinerants; on ' whose Score (saith the Petition) ' their Masters may set large Reckonings;' tho' it was well known many of them would ' be glad ' of Ten Pound per Annum.' And if we consider the Mean, Servile and Obscure (not at present to say Scandalous) Characters of so many of them, the continual Flux they were in (for many of them tarried but a little while in a County, or even in the County, as I guess) and some other Circumstances, there will appear a large Field for Management of that Kind: Nor can it be Question'd, but the other Payments Administer'd the like Occasion, for the same wicked Practices.

Bid. p. 19.

P. 15.

But be the particular Methods they Used, what they will, the Fact is Unquestionable, that those, who had the Management of these Revenues, were soon Enrich'd, far beyond the Proportion of their Salaries; some of them being ' Advanc'd from ' 7 l. per Annum, to 1500 l. and he who had ' scarce Prize for his Breech, Strouted in Holy- ' Lace, and Scarlet:' And again, '* Having ' changed their pre- Feizado for Rich Scarlet and ' Plush, that would make Satan himself to Blush, to see this sudden Alteration; Now, Sumptuous, ' Costly Houses are Built and Erected; great Pur- ' chases made; some that were Born to 7 l. a ' Year, became Purchasers of Lordships and Man- ' nors, of above 1000 l. per Annum, and all ' striving who shall Out-vye and Out-bid the ' other in their Purchases, —— some Purchasing ' in their own Names; others more Subtile, in their ' Friends and Servants Names.' What has been already said of Vavasor Powell in particular, may serve to Illustrate these Matters, and give the Reader a Just Notion of the Emoluments Reap'd by the rest of the Propagators. He had his Salary of 100 l. a Year in North Wales, and the like for South Wales. The vast Emoluments of many Sequester'd Benefices, and the Wages of diverse Itinerants, and Schoolmasters, by which, and other means he was enabled (tho' the Son of a Poor Ale-man) to purchase some of his Majesty's Fee-Farm Rents, and Lordships, and to Build himself a Sumptuous House at Kerry, in Montgomeryshire: Tho' by the way, I have been inform'd, all their Estates (that of one Family only excepted) are since come to Nothing, and seem to have been Blasted by a peculiar Hand of Providence, as every vulgar Person has long since Observ'd (almost to a Proverb) of most of the other Estates of the Kingdom, gotten by the like Methods in those Times.

Preface to Mer. Camb. Brit. p. 2, 3. and all this in the compass of two Leaves for the Merc. was published on 1652.

* Merc. it Fol. p. 7, 8.

It will not be strange, after what is now said, to Hear the People of those Countries complain, that instead of Employing the Incomes of the Sequester'd Livings towards Promoting the Gospel, the Propagators, and Farmers went away with the Profits of them; that the Revenues of 20000 l. per Annum, in South Wales, went ' to the Hands ' of private Persons, to Build New Sumptuous ' Houses, and Buy Lands;' and that ' Little of ' it (as the Petition presented to the Parliament ' Alledged) had been Converted towards the ' Propagation of the Gospel.'

See the Life of H. Peters by Dr. Young

Merc. Camb. Brit. p. 20.

Petit. of S. Wales, p. 2.

It may not be amiss to Enquire particularly, what Proportion of those vast Incomes, was really Employed to the Purposes Intended (or rather indeed Pretended) by this Godly Act, for the Propagation: In Order to which, it must be Remember'd, that the Total of the Yearly Incomes (not ar Present to mention the other Articles) for South Wales, was computed at 20000 l. a full Moiety of which is Struck off at once by the good Bargains, the Commissioners and Chief Farmers, Set, either to themselves, or to such of their Friends and Under-tenants, as were to have a small Share of the Plunder, for helping their Masters to rake the Greater: It being Undeniable, from what is already said, that the Livings were Set at half the real Values. To this must be Added, that it appears by the Accompts of the Sequestrators and Agents for 1650, 1651, 1652, that the Sums Expended for those Three Years, in Salaries for the Commissioners, Sequestrators, Agents, Sollicitors, Clerks, Messengers and other Articles, amount to so much, as in Proportion for the Ten Years, will give near Fourteen Thousand Pounds more: Besides which, it has been already Suggested, that no inconsiderable Part, of what is charged to the Accompts of the Itinerants, was never Issued for that Purpose, or else went into the Private Pockets of those more Godly Persons, who Hired many of the less Godly, at a much cheaper Rate, than the Act appointed; and knew well enough how to Dispose of the Residue: Nor will less than Fourteen Thousand Pounds more Suffice for this Article, if it may be thought that 200 l. per Annum, for each of the Seven Counties, one with another, went that way for Ten Years together: So that according to this Computation very little more, than 70000 l. of the whole 200000 l. was Employed in what themselves call'd the Propagation of the Gospel. But if we should Proceed to Deduct what was Paid to the Miserable Wretches before mention'd,

To make the best of it: For there are several Particulars which I have not taken Notice of, in the Accompts; and in two or three Instances, the Accompts are lame, and no Particulars appear.

T t that

Digitized by Google

that were not in any Orders at all, or fo much as Perfons of any Learning; but on the contrary, many of 'em bred to the loweft manual Imployments. It wou'd, perhaps, appear, that Fifty Thoufand of that Seventy, was given among fuch as did more Difervice to the Gofpel, than the whole 200000 l. cou'd ever have Redreffed; and that fcarce 20000 l. which was but the Income of one fingle Year, and by Confequence but one Tenth Part of the whole Eccleſiaſtical Revenue that came to the Hands of the Propagators, was ever diſtributed among thoſe who had any Authority to Preach the Goſpel, and who conſtantly and faithfully diſcharg'd that great Truſt in any fix'd and ſettled Place.

It is now high Time to Recapitulate what has been ſaid, to bring the Accompt of this great Prophanation of the Goſpel (for the Thing it ſelf, and not the bare Proximity of Sound, plainly directs to the Appellation) into one ſhort View. The 965 Pariſhes then of the Counties of North and South Wales, were, at the breaking out of the Rebellion, ſupplied (by Computation) with betwixt 7 and 800 Regular Clergymen, each of them particularly fix'd and determin'd to the ſeparate Care and Inſtruction of one or two of theſe Pariſhes: Notwithſtanding which that Part of the Kingdom was, by the Propagators and their Miſſionaries, repreſented as but one Step removed from the Darkneſs and Ignorance of Paganiſm: And that the Sun of Righteouſneſs might riſe upon 'em, and ſhine in its brighteſt Splendor, the Committees and Propagators deſtroy'd by the Slander of falſe Tongues, betwixt five and ſix Hundred of theſe Prieſts of the Lord, that wore a Linen Ephod, altho' there was ſcarce one among 'em, but had been Bred in the Schools of the Prophets: Great Numbers of 'em had been advanc'd to Degrees there; all of 'em had been anointed with the Holy Oil; and ſome of 'em after lived to Govern the Church of God with great Wiſdom, Piety and Learning, in the Higheſt Stations and Offices of it. Theſe, with their Wives and Families, (which in all did not probably make leſs than 4000 Perſons) were forbid to live of the Altar, and in a moſt miſerable Condition, ſent out into the World to Beg their Bread, while their Portions were, for the moſt Part, ſacrilegiouſly devour'd by thoſe mercileſs Inſtruments of their Ruine: And that their People might Starve as well as themſelves, inſtead of theſe fix'd and ſettl'd Miniſters, Four or Five wandring Occaſionaliſts only, were appointed for the main and chief Supply of many whole Counties; as a neceſſary Conſequence of which, none were, for many Years ſettled, to diſtribute the Bread of Life, either the Word, or Sacraments, in far the greater Part of the Churches, (many Hundreds of which were therefore ſhut up) and ſcarce any in the reſt of 'em, but ſuch, as for Bread gave them a Stone, and inſtead of a Fiſh, gave them a Serpent; ſuch as cou'd not by any Pretence of Learning claim an Inheritance among the Tribe of Levi; and were not only of the loweſt of the People, and of the moſt contemptible Mechanick Occupations; but had never been ſo much as made Prieſts, even by the Shadow of an uſurp'd and irregular Authority. But O Bleſſ'd Jeſus! Thou great Biſhop of Souls, who by Breathing on thy Holy Apoſtles, didſt qualifie them, and by a Solemn Miſſion, didſt Authorize them to Diſciple and Baptize all Nations, promiſing to be with them, for thoſe Purpoſes, to the End of the World; Pardon in Mercy, the few Things Thou mayſt have againſt this Thy Church; and look upon the exceeding Meaſure of theſe her Injuries and Oppreſſions; and when at the laſt Great Day Thou ſhalt come in the awful Pomp of an Innumerable Company of Mighty Angels and Arch-Angels, and all the Hoſt of Heaven, together with the Aſſembly of the Patriarchs, Prophets, Apoſtles, Martyrs, Confeſſors, and the other Spirits of juſt Men made perfect; ſay aloud, before that great Convention of the Univerſe, whether of theſe two Sort of Perſons Thou hadſt Choſen, and which of them were better Prepared, and did with more Faithfulneſs declare Thy precious Truth; or more duely and more agreeably to Thy ſacred Appointment, Exerciſe the other Holy Adminiſtrations of Thy Bleſſed Goſpel.

But to go on with the Propagation: So very Monſtrous were theſe Proceedings, that they became not only the Grievance, but the Abhorrence of all Sorts of People; even Vaivaſor Powell himſelf ſtuck not to own, in a very publick Manner, that he had 'objected againſt ſome of them;' but for the main, it ſeems, he liked 'em well enough. However, when the * Propagation had ſhewn it ſelf for about Eighteen Months, as I Gueſs, greater Numbers in South Wales (and ſoon after by their Example, others in † North Wales) began to appear againſt it; and thoſe too not the poor plunder'd and ruin'd Loyaliſts, but the ‡ Engag'd (i. e. as I underſtand it, thoſe who had taken the Engagement) and Well-affected themſelves; ſuch as had rejoyced in the Act at the firſt Paſſing of it, and even ſome who had been nominated Commiſſioners by it, and had in the Beginning fate and acted in that Commiſſion.

* Petition of South Wales, p. 1.

† See the Mem. Cambr. Brit. p. 11.

‡ See the Petition of South Wales, p. 8, 9, 10, 30. and here the Mem. Cambr. Brit. (See particularly p. 13, 14.) and the like and Cry (from p. 18, to the End) which ſet forth at large, the horrible Prophanations of the Propagation, from but even the favourable of the Uſurpation; unleſs they put on ſtrait Countenance to gain the better Credit with the diſtreſſed People, that wanted to be undercut, or might think themſelves in ſome Part eaſie'd in Decency to the Government, they wrote, under tenure of the Face of a Submiſſion to it.

Nor did they only declare againſt it, but Reſolv'd to Attempt the Redreſſing the Miſery of their Country, by Repreſenting them in a Petition to the Parliament: The bare Whiſper of which Alarm'd thoſe Two Watchful and Induſtrious Adverſaries, viz. Guilt and Intereſt, in ſuch a Manner, as tho' they had been rouz'd and awaken'd by a Peal of Thunder: And accordingly, ſuch of the Propagators, as had determin'd to continue the Gainful Trade they had begun, or dreaded the being call'd to an Account for what they had already done, came to a Reſolution of Defending themſelves, by the Practice of the ſame wicked Arts, which had at firſt render'd them Obnoxious; and left no Stone unturn'd, nor any of thoſe wicked Practices unrepeated, which might conduce to that End: Among them, theſe that follow, were ſome of the Chief: In the Execution of which, and no doubt, in the Projecting alſo, none was more Active and Vigorous (becauſe probably, none more Guilty) than Vaivaſor Powell. It is eaſie to believe in the firſt Place, that they would not fail to Repreſent the Petition, as an High Contempt of the Propagation; and that they would Labour, as in Truth they did, to have the Intentions of the Petitioners (in asking 'a Supply of 'Godly, able, Orthodox Miniſters) conſtrued and expounded, as virtually Deſiring 'the Reſtoration of Malignant, Drunken, Unpreaching, 'Ejected Curates;' and to paſs the Contrivers, Promoters and Subſcribers, for Seditious Perſons, who ought to be proceeded againſt as Malignants and Delinquents. Nor was it poſſible they ſhould overlook the Services, which might be render'd them by thoſe who had been the Principal Inſtruments, in firſt making Way for the paſſing of the Act; and therefore Vaivaſor Powell, See Petition of South Wales, p. 8. Mem. Cambr. Brit. p. 8.

p. 10.

Digitized by Google

Ibid. Powell, Mr. Cradock, Capt. Jenkin Jones, and the reſt of the Itinerants in South Wales, were order'd 'to ride Poſt from County to County, 'and Pariſh to Pariſh, to threaten all the Petitio-'ners and their Agents, with Damnation, Se-'queſtration and Ruine,' unleſs 'they would 'deny their Hands, and diſown the Petition;' to forward which, other Endeavours alſo were not wanting: And leſt thoſe who had been (or were like to be) the greateſt Loſers, might think they had now gotten leave to ſpeak, and ſhould thereby add ſome weight to the com-

P. 14.

Ib. and p. 11. mon Heap, they took up freſh Reſolutions againſt ſuch of the Regular Clergy as were yet Unejected; determin'd forthwith to Silence 'em, and to turn out of their Houſes the * Wives and Families of ſuch as had been already Sequeſter'd; as likewiſe from thenceforward to detain their Fifths: And upon Advice that the Flame was, after ſome Time, broken out, and burnt high in ‡ North Wales likewiſe, they diſpatch'd Mr. Powell Poſt, 'to inform the Inhabitants there, that the 'Parliament had declared (which was a known 'and moſt egregious Falſhood) the Petition of 'South Wales Scandalous and Seditious, and 'that all the Subſcribers and Promoters thereof 'ſhould be Sequeſter'd and proceeded againſt, 'as Enemies to the Parliament and preſent Go-'vernment;' and to Threaten all thoſe who ſhould be concern'd in the like Petition (which was now on Foot in that Part of the Country alſo) with the ſame Ruine and Damnation which they had before denounc'd againſt thoſe of South Wales.

* And if I gueſs right, ſuggeſted ſome Threats of ſending their Huſbands to the Foreign Plantations. See p. 10.

‡ P. 11.

But to proceed with them in this laſt mentioned Part of the Country: Having underſtood, That Colonel ‡ Freeman (who after preſented the Petition, as will be preſently ſaid) was entruſted as Counſellour for the Petitioners, the Itinerants had it in their Inſtructions, publickly to 'Preach in all Places 'againſt the Law, and all the Profeſſors thereof, 'eſpecially, againſt Colonel Freeman; and 'that their earneſt Prayers ſhould be to 'the Lord to puniſh him in his Perſon, Power 'and in his Place.' And the Colonel ſhortly after, falling ſick of a Fever, publick Thanks were order'd to be return'd to the Lord, for 'Hearing the Prayers of the Saints; but the Recovery of this Gentleman ſuddenly brought them off of their Te Deums, and oblig'd them to think of ſome more effectual methods than their bare Prayers, to help themſelves: And therefore they employ'd ſeveral of their Truſty Friends, to find out * Articles againſt them, as likewiſe againſt Mr. Gunter, and Mr. Roberts, the Two Agents for the Petitioners, if poſſible, to render them Odious to the Parliament; and by that means deter 'em from proceeding with what they had 'undertaken.

‡ Attorney-General for the Commonwealth in S. Wales.

P. 13.

P. 14. * Which were (if I miſtake not) after preſented; but with what effect, I know not. See the Margent of this laſt cited Page.

§ In Since 1651, there was preſented to the Parliament,' An humble Advice 'Judgment of the Inhabitants of S. Wales, &c. for the Better Work of Propagati-'on there;' pretended to be Subſcribed by no leſs than 10000 Hands (but in truth, the Work of the ſhrewd Perſons that reaped the Harveſt of the Propagation.) For 10000 of thoſe 16 Names were to it, 'never ſaw, or handled it. (See the Margent of this ſame Page.) Poſſibly, this was another of their Methods to defeat the Petition; and one of the moſt early and expeditious: For it was effected juſt at the time when the Petition ſeems to have been firſt in Agitation.

Beſides which, all poſſible Methods were likewiſe taken to † intercept 'all Letters betwixt 'the Petitioners in the Country, and their A-'gents in London, to prevent a true Infor-'mation and Repreſentation to the Parlia-'ment ----; And to that purpoſe, Orders were 'given at Hereford, Monmouth, and all other 'Places: Inſomuch that the Petitioners and 'their Agents could not with ſafety, write any 'Letters to, or from, either by the Poſt or 'Carrier, or any private Meſſengers:' And the Petitioners having contributed to a Joynt Stock, in order to carry on the Petition, the Propagators would needs have got it interpreted 'Raiſing of Money to Levy War againſt the 'Parliament, and preſent Government.' And for this purpoſe, an Information was gravely exhibited before the Committee for Plunder'd Miniſters, 'of a dangerous Deſign, in all England, and Wales;' which was the Title, wherewith they Gloſs'd over this Pretended Plot; probably, that it might not ſeem to point at what it really Intended, viz. the carrying on of the Petition in South Wales. And becauſe a Gentleman (tho' of known Affection to the Parliament, from the very Beginning of the War) who had been Abuſed by one of the Godly Party, 'deſir'd civil Satisfaction for his 'Wrongs Suffer'd,' it was immediately pretended, 'that the Godly Party were in Danger of their 'Lives, and that this was the beginning of Levy-'ing War againſt the Godly;' and occaſion was taken from it, to 'move the Council of State, that 'certain Gentlemen, who had Subſcribed the 'Petition, ſhou'd be therefore brought up by 'Special Meſſengers before them, —— and that 'for the future Security of the Godly Party in 'Wales, ſome Commiſſion ſhou'd iſſue down 'to ſome of the Godly to raiſe Horſe and Foot;' and in the Laſt Place, they Uſed their Intereſt and Endeavours, that 'all the Gentlemen, that 'had Subſcribed the Petition, ſhou'd be put out of the Commiſſions of Peace, the Act of Aſſeſſments, 'and all other Places of Truſt and Imployment.' And theſe Endeavours ſo far Succeeded, that ſeveral were immediately put out of the Commiſſion of Peace in Brecon (and ſome Gentlemen in other Counties) without any other Reaſon aſſign'd, than their having Subſcribed the Petition, and that their being Diſplaced was agreeable to the Deſires of the Godly Party.

Ibid.

P. 16.

P. 17.

Ibid.

But notwithſtanding theſe Artifices (ſuch of 'em I mean, as concern'd the Suppreſſing of the Petition; for others of them are plainly conſequent upon the Tender of it to the Houſe) and no doubt, many others, the good Intentions of the Inhabitants of South Wales went forward; the Petition was Subſcribed by above Fifteen Thouſand Hands (all engag'd and well affected to the then Government) and March 16, 1651, preſented to the Commons by Colonel Ed. Freeman, the States Attorney-General for South Wales, attended by ſeveral other Gentlemen; among whom, as has been before ſaid, were ſome of thoſe, who had been Named Commiſſioners in the Act and State, at firſt with the reſt of them. The Colonel delivered it with a * ſhort Speech, the more obſervable Parts of which, have been already produced on other Occaſions; as have likewiſe thoſe of the Petition itſelf; and therefore I forbear to Recite either of 'em at large in this Place; only it will be neceſſary to ſay in general, that the Petition being Prefaced with the great Satisfaction the Petitioners took, in the Act for the Propagation, proceeds to ſet forth the great Numbers of Miniſters, that had been Ejected. The Foul and Shameful Neglect of Supplying their Places with any competent Number of Teachers; the Imbezeling of the vaſt Revenues of the Sequeſter'd Livings; and the Miſerable State and Condition, unto which, that part of the Country, was reduced, by this Horrible Abuſe of the Act (the chief of which Allegations were alſo briefly Touch'd on, by Colonel Freeman, in his Speech) and therefore prays the Houſe, 'to take a 'Courſe for the Future Supply of their reſpective 'Counties, with a convenient Number of Godly,

Petit. of S. Wales, p. 9, 27.

* And 'a Gen-'tleman that 'hazarded 'his Life and 'Fortune, to 'ſerve the 'Parliament 'and Com-'monwealth 'of Engl.' ſaith Merc. Cam. Trit. P. 13.

* See both of One and the Other, at large, Petit. of S. Wales, p. 3, 4, 5, 27, 28, 29, 30.

Digitized by Google

' able Inquirers, &c. and to call to Account such ' Persons as have received the Profits of the ' Tithes, Church-Livings, Prebends, Sequester'd ' Impropriations,' &c.

Peril of South Wales p. 13, 32.

These very reasonable Desires of so great a Number of the Inhabitants of South Wales, supported by Facts equally shameful, and undeniable, were by the House receiv'd, and forthwith referr'd to the Committee for Plunder'd Ministers, to examine and state the Fact, and Report their Opinions; for which Purposes the Committee was furnish'd with the usual Power of sending for Persons, Papers, and Witnesses; and with those peculiarly of Examining upon Oath themselves; and ' Authorizing such Commissioners in ' the County, as they should think fit to examine ' Witnesses upon Oath,' touching the Matters contain'd in the Petition.

But the Diligent Propagators, who were more grateful, than to Desert a Cause that had been so good to them; and probably more Wise, than to starve a Cause, which had hitherto fed (and would still with good looking after, feed) themselves; did, by some Means or other, deal in such an effectual Manner with the Committee, that, as far as I can judge, they met with all the Favour they could wish for, consistent with a seeming Regard to the joynt Desires of so many Thousand Petitioners, in a Matter of so much Concern, and in it self so very Notorious. I find indeed but very little of what pass'd at the Committee; Three or Four of their Hearings are to be observ'd in the Mere. Cambr. Brit. concerning which, however, very little is said, save that the Propagators were order'd to ' Answer the ' Petition, and bring in their Accompts by the 18th ' of May;' which, saith the Mere. ' put the ' Welch Saints to a pitiful cold Sweat, in Riding ' up and down, and sitting up Day and Night, to ' patch up their broken Accompts;' and the whole produce at last, was only ' a Sheet of Paper, and ' a few general Negatives' (embellish'd however, (it seems) with many Godly Words and Phrases) ' with a Confession of 20000 l. or thereabouts ' for the two last Years;' but not one Particular how they had dispos'd, or what was become of it. There was indeed produced before the Committee, a Book fairly written, with an handsome Title, purporting a particular Accompt; but it was never Read, much less was it lodg'd with the Committee, or lain open for the Petitioners to take a Copy of it: Nor cou'd they obtain so much as a Copy of that sorry Sheet of Paper, which the Propagators called their Answer, until near two Months after it was given in.

P. 9 15 18. each in the Margent, and p 18. 20. 22.

P. 18.

Ibid.

Ibid.

Ibid.

Ibid.

Mere. Camb. Brit. p. 19, 20.

However, the Committee receiv'd it; and thereupon preparing themselves for Justice, requir'd the Petitioners ' to bring in, within two Days ' after, such Particulars contain'd in their Petition, ' upon which they did Desire to examine Witnesses.' For this they were wholly unprovided (as probably the Committee well knew) expecting only that a Commission should have been issued to the Country where the Matter of Fact lay, and Witnesses resided, and where they alledged they were ready to make good every Particular of their Petition. Add to this, that they had not receiv'd the least Order or Direction, either from the House, or Committee, to provide themselves for such a Method of Proceeding: And if by ' bringing in the Particulars, &c.' was meant, (as some, it seems, construed it) to Point out the particular Persons, Sums, &c. that were guilty of the Mismanagement, or had been misapplied, and such other particular Abuses, with Time, Place, and the like, as they meant to complain of in the Propagators; this was plainly impossible to be done in two Months, much less cou'd it be effected in the poor pittance of two Days, allotted them by the Committee for that Purpose. Under these Disadvantages therefore, all that they could undertake, was, to prepare ' several Particulars of the true State of the ' Countries, in Relation to the Work of Pro- ' pagation of the Gospel there, grounded on ' their Petition,' and to present these to the Committee, which they did, July 16, following; signifying withal (if I mistake not) their Desires, that a Commission might be granted to be executed in the Country, in Order to make good their Allegations, and much more than they had as yet set forth. With this Month the Mere. concludes; and therefore I cannot be positive what the Event was; but the Committee having promised to Report what the Petitioners had delivered, to the House, they seemed to expect that such a Commission would shortly be issu'd, and I guess it was accordingly done; for I find some Foot-Steps of a Commission (of some kind or other) issued, pursuant to the Application of these Petitioners: In which the first Enquiry was to be, ' who were Ejected since the Act?' And in * the Accompts of the Sequestrators and Agents, for Caermarthenshire, for the Year 1650, is this Entry, ' Our Disbursements for the Year, as did ' appear by our Acquittances to the Commissioners, ' when we were called to account by them,' &c. But I doubt, the Industry of the Propagators was no less with the Commissioners, than it had been before been with the Committee, as I shall further say by and by, when I have first in a Word or Two accounted for a distinguish'd piece of Service, yielded the Propagators (and among them, himself) by Vavasor Powell, much about this Time, if I conjecture right. It may well be imagin'd from what has been already said, that the Propagation in Wales (especially after the Petition had been deliver'd to the Parliament against it) was now become a very Frequent Subject of Discourse; and that it was generally talk'd of, with no great Advantage to the Propagators: To Inform the World aright therefore in this Matter Mr. Powell (who was well known to be a Godly Man) writes the Letter (whether Real, or Feigned, I know not) more than once already mention'd, giving an account, how much ' God ' had been Glorified' and how ' many Hun- ' dreds, if not Thousands, had been Converted' by the Propagation; Recommending most of the Commissioners, for Persons ' really Godly,' and Setting forth the Uprightness of their Proceedings; reviling the Clergy of North Wales, and lessening the Numbers of those Ejected there, in the manner already taken Notice of; and Setting off the Sufficiency (both as to Numbers and Qualifications) of such Ministers (and Schoolmasters) as had been Substituted in their Rooms.

Mere. p. 22.

* This Paper, if it be to be procured, would do belonging great Light into these Matters.

Sect p. 22.

In some Papers that I have seen, too I am in doubt whether there might not be some other Commission.

* Taken at Neath, Oct. 1655.

See it in the Petit. of S. Wales, p. 6, 7, 8. I take this to be the Letter mentioned by Whit. Mem. p. 558. relating to the Propagation, for its Subject & Argument very well with the Account giv. Whitlock. Some of that Letters, this is in Italics indeed, they might the others of the same Tenor.

And that Falsehood might by the Artifice of a Conveyance, keep equal Pace with that Truth, which had by his own Strength gone thro' every part of the Kingdom, this Letter (to whomsoever Directed) was sent to every Body, that could Read in the Diurnal. What Truth there was in some of the chief Allegations of it, has been already Consider'd; and adding, that it gave Occasion to the Paper so often Cited, Intituled ' The Petition of the Six Counties of South Wales, ' &c.' I return to the Conteit betwixt the Propagators, and their Adversaries the Petitioners. The Latter of which did, I doubt, Receive but little Satisfaction (as is before suggested) from the Commission I was speaking of; and therefore

See the Petit. of S. Wales p. b.

If an Order may be had for it, it will be worth while for a Curious, that finds Commission was at all Issued.

Peril of South Wales p. 32.

Digitized by Google

did, as I Gues; betake themſelves to ſome other Methods for bringing the Propagators to Accompt; becauſe, * Aug. 30, 1654, was paſs'd an Ordinance of the Protector, and his Council, appointing Sir Hugh Owen, and about Eighteen others there named, Commiſſioners for the Six Counties of South Wales, and the County of Monmouth; and Matthew Morgan, with about Twelve others (named alſo in the Ordinance) Commiſſioners for the Six Counties of North Wales. Any Three of which were impower'd to call before 'em all thoſe, who by the Authority of the Act of Propagation, had receiv'd, or diſpos'd of any of the Profits of the Rectories, Vicarages, &c. to give a 'true ' and perfect Accompt upon Oath,' of all ſuch Rents, Iſſues, Profits, &c. Purſuant to which the Sequeſtrators (whoſe Buſineſs it was, as I find, to Set the Livings) and the Collectors (or Receivers and Treaſurers, as they are at other Times called) for South Wales and Monmouth, deliver'd in their Accompts for the Years 1650, 1651, 1652, at Neath, before George Gwyn, Herbert Evans, Charles Gwyn, John Williams, and Robert Thomas, Five of the Commiſſioners appointed in the Act; by whom they were receiv'd and allow'd, Auguſt 10, 1665. The Originals of theſe Accompts were ſent me, by the great Favour of the Honourable Mr. Baron Price, as has been already ſaid; and are the Accompts of the Sequeſtrators and Agents ſo often mention'd in this Hiſtory of the Propagation.

* Scob. Coll. Part II. p. 347.

And ſometimes Agents.

What was done in North Wales by virtue of this Ordinance, I am wholly uninform'd; but I find it confirm'd, and continu'd among many other Acts, Ordinances, &c. 1656; which looks as though the Reaſon and Neceſſity of it ſtill continu'd: And the Return of the Sheriff of Brecon (which I have ſo frequently produced) being made in Obedience to the Orders of a ' Committee of Parliament, appointed to conſi-' der how Wales was ſupplied with a Miniſtry, ' &c. ſeems to ſuggeſt, that the Petitioners (for ſome others) had even till that Time, conteaded with the Propagators; and I preſume nothing but the great Bleſſing of the Reſtoration, which ſet the whole Nation to Rights, did at laſt put an End to the Controverſie. Altho' the ſoul and diſtinguiſh'd Enormities of the Propagation, ſeem in ſome Sort, to have been Exempted from the General Indemnity: For an Enquiry was made by a Commiſſion, after the Return of his Majeſty, into theſe Matters, in the ſeveral Pariſhes both of North and South Wales (as has been already ſaid) in Order, as I conceive, to make thoſe Plunderers refund their ill-gotten Wealth. I have now before me a printed Paper of Inſtructions, from the Commiſſioners, to the Hundred-Conſtables, Directing them what Orders to Iſſue to the Petty-Conſtables, &c.

See Scob. Collect. Parts. p. 190.

And ſome Returns of the ſame Kind, of which I have before ſpoken.

1658.

In the printed Paper are Blanks left for the Time and Place, where, and whereto to make their Returns; and that Copy, which I have, not being filled up, I can't learn thoſe Circumſtances; but if I will Remember (for it is now more than Eight Years ſince I ſearched theſe Papers in a Hurry) not only theſe, but moſt other Matters relating to this Commiſſion, muſt have been learnt from ſome of the Papers at Lambeth, before mention'd, would my Time have allow'd me to make the Enquiry.

The Commiſſioners are therein call'd his Majeſty's Commiſſioners: The Petty-Conſtables were to ' Summon before theſe Commiſſioners ' all Perſons in their reſpective Pariſhes, that had ' acted as Commiſſioners, in Ejecting the Clergy: ' All Perſons that had acted under 'em, as all ' Farmers, Tenants, &c. of Sequeſter'd Livings, ' &c. all that had ſucceeded in the Sequeſter'd ' Pariſhes, or had (either as Itinerants, or by ' Way of Augmentation) receiv'd any of the ' Profits; All Pariſhioners who had kept any of ' the Tithes in their own Hands: The Heirs, ' Executors, or Adminiſtrators of any of the a-' foreſaid Perſons, and any credible Perſons, that ' cou'd give Evidence in any of theſe Matters; ' and were to Enquire of any Books or Writings ' that cou'd give any Light into them: And laſt-' ly, were to ſignifie to all Perſons concern'd, ' that if they would forthwith apply to the Com-' miſſioners, they might compound for what they ' ſtand charged with, and thereby avoid the ' Charge and Trouble of being Sued in his Ma-' jeſty's Name; and their Heirs might ſtand ac-' quitted for ever.' But what Event this Commiſſion had, I am wholly Ignorant.

Before I part with the Propagation, I muſt add, what has been now ſaid at large of this Subject, with Relation to South Wales, is to be underſtood (with the neceſſary Alterations only of Perſons and Places) of North Wales likewiſe, the Proceedings of the Propagators in both Parts of the Country exactly Tallying with one another; of which there are ſufficient Indications, tho' I am not able (for want of more perfect Notices) to produce the Particulars. Moſt of the Obſervations I have to Offer upon this Head, have been already mention'd, or hinted at on ſome Occaſion or other; and therefore I have little more to do now, beſides laying them together. Walvaſor Powell, indeed, in his Letter, affirms, that the Propagation had (about 1652, as I Gues) Ejected but 51 of the Clergy, or thereabouts; and that in Flintſhire particularly, there had not been Two caſt out by virtue of the Act. But in Return to this, it has been already obſerv'd, that in ſome of the Counties (of this Part of Wales, as I underſtand it) they had not left above Two of the old Miniſters; particularly in Montgomeryſhire there were no leſs than 47 of the Clergy Ejected (as I think is plainly enough intimated in the Preſentment of the Grand Jury of that County) which ſeems to have been the whole Clergy in a Man; for there are but 47 Pariſhes in that County. Add to this, that the * Hue and Cry, compared with ſome other Papers, makes the Sequeſter'd Revenues of the Clergy in North Wales, equal to thoſe in South Wales; (for he computes the whole Incomes in the Hands of the Propagators at 40000 l. per Ann. And the other Papers often produced already, never make thoſe of South Wales to have been above 20000 l. of it) and if ſo, the Ejectments in this Part of the Country, muſt in Proportion have far exceeded thoſe in the other.

Petit. of S. Wales, p. 5.

Ibid. p. 14.

See it, Petit. of South Wales, p. 15.

See Camd. Brit. Eng. p. 651. * P. 5.

Nor were the Churches any better ſupplied there, than in South Wales. Mr. Powell declares in the Letter now mention'd, that there had been ' Thirty Two Miniſters ſent, out of which, ' Twenty Four at leaſt, were Univerſity Men; ' and ſome of the reſt, good Scholars.' But the Petition of South Wales affirms, That theſe Teachers wanted to be Inſtructed themſelves, in the ' firſt Principles of the Oracles of God:' That they were ſuch as effectually brought Preaching into ' Contempt and Deriſion,' and that they would have been glad of 10 l. per. Ann. And the Preſentment from the Grand Jury for the County of Montgomery, ſets forth, that theſe imployed with them, were ' Illiterate poor ' Tradeſmen.'

P. 15.

Petition of S. Wales, p. 16.

One would, however, be tempted in ſome Meaſure to think, that they were in Truth, thoſe very precious Men which Mr. Powell deſir'd to have them Thought; becauſe their Maſters were ſo very Sparing of them in the Northern, as well as in the Southern Parts of this Country: For any one that called himſelf a Teacher, was a Rarity, hardly to be ſeen in ſome Years, among many of the Pariſhes, Three or Four Itinerants only being allow'd for the Supply of near Seventy Pariſhes.

Ibid. p. 14.

Digitized by Google

By a Paper, which I take to have been a Return from the Sheriff of Denbighshire, (of the same Nature, but not so full and particular, as that from Brecon, fo often mention'd) and by a like Return from Carnarvan, I find that many Parishes in these Counties, have neglected for several Years together (of which I have already mention'd some Particulars in another Place) and the Grand-Jury of the County of Montgomery, let forth, in the same Presentment, just now mention'd, that the whole 47 Parish-Churches of their County, ' were left Vacant upon the Lord's Day, without any known Preacher to Officiate in them,' fave the ' Few Illiterate poor Tradesmen,' just now Spoken of. It seems the like Presentment was made for Denbighshire; and in the Paper, now mention'd (which I judge, as is said, to be a Return from this County) it is affirm'd, that the Commissioners had Receiv'd out of that single County 6898 l.

Perfe. of S. Wales, p. 16.

Ibid.

It is surely needless to suggest, that (to continue the Parallel) this Sum, and all the other Sequester'd Incomes, in the North Wales are here beyond Question. Dispos'd of in the same manner, as those in the South: For besides what may be gather'd from several other Things, already taken Notice of, the Matter plainly shews it self, in what is here mention'd, Namely, the Scandalous Supply (or rather Neglect) of the Churches and Parishes, in these Parts: But to Compleat the Agreement betwixt the Miseries of those two Parts of the Country, under the Propagation, I must now take further Notice of what has been just mentioned before, that to deliver themselves from the Intolerable Burthen of them, North Wales followed the Pattern of South Wales, in Resolving to to apply likewise to the Parliament by way of Petition; to the Progress of which, the Endeavours, of Vavasor Powell, were no small Hindrance for some time; but the Inhabitants afterward Resum'd Courage, and the Merc. Camb. Brit.

P. 33, In the Margent * With which Month the Merc. ended, as is last mention'd.

affirm'd, in * July 1651, it wou'd ' be suddenly Presented; but whether it was so or not, I do not find; much less can I say, what Reception or Event it had, if at all Presented; only I guess, that in this likewise they shar'd the same Fate, with their Brethren of South Wales; because the Ordinance of 1654, appointing Commissioners to take the Accompts, &c. concern'd North, as well as South Wales; and the Enquiries by Parliament in 1658, (as appears by the Returns from Denbighshire, and Carnarvanshire, just now Spoken of, and another of the same kind, as I take it, that must be now mention'd from Merioneth) were likewise the same, in both the One, and the Other, of these Parts of the Country.

Act to Sequester the Clergy in Yorkshire.

It is now high Time to return again into England, tho' we shall find but very little Work left to be done there (for some Years at least) as has been formerly Suggested. March 27, 1649, The Commons Ordered ' that Mr. Robinson, do ' bring in a Bill, to appoint Commissioners in the ' County of York, to make Inquiry of the Ignorant, ' Scandalous and Malignant Ministers, and to dis- ' place them upon Conviction, and to place Godly and Painful Men in their Rooms.' Whether this pass'd into an Act; and if it did, what Proceedings were had upon it, is wholly unknown to me.

Estates of several Clergymen declar'd Forfeited for Treason.

* Scob. Coll. Part 1. p. 106, 141, 161.

By the * Acts of July 16, 1651, August 4, 1652, and November 18, following; the Estates of about 700 of the Principal Nobility and Gentry, were declar'd Forfeited, for ' Treason against the Parliament, and People of England.' Among these, appear several of the Clergy (and possibly there were some others of them in those Lists, altho' they do not there appear under that Character,) who will be after mention'd in their proper Places; and therefore I forbear to say any thing more of them at present.

Design to send Commissioners from the Country to Sequester the Clergy.

In 1653, a Project was on Foot to send a new Set of Commissioners in to the Country, to Sequester the Clergy, —— For this End, the whole Kingdom was to be Divided into six Circuits; to each of which, Three Commissioners were to be sent from London, who were to be Join'd by Four or Six of each Respective County within that Circuit, in which they shou'd Act; and accordingly December 13, that Year, a Report was made from the Committee, touching Tithes (who had that Matter under their Consideration. That ' the Commissioners should have Power to Eject all ' Ministers, who were not of Good Behaviour, ' and Holy in Conversation, or not Apt and Able ' to Teach, or Held not Forth the Faithful Word, ' or be not Diligent, or Labour not in the Word ' and Doctrine, nor be Greedy of Filthy Lucre; ' and that they be impower'd to settle Godly and ' Able Persons, to settle the Gospel in all void ' Places;' to Unite Parishes, &c. And there were likewise several other Things in the Report: But the Former Part of it being on the Question, Rejected, this Attempt on the Clergy, fell to the Ground at that Time; tho', if I judge right, it was receiv'd the following Year, in the Act appointing Commissioners to Eject Scandalous, Ignorant and Insufficient Ministers and Schoolmasters, &c. of which, I shall say more hereafter, being first obliged by the Order of Time, to speak of another Sort of Commissioners, then commonly known by the Name of Tyers, and Erected in the Latter End of this Year 1653.

Whitl. Mem. P. 535. See also Wood, Lond. Vol. II. p. 319

The Commissioners for approbation of Publick Preachers, commonly called Tryers.

In some Notices Transmitted to me, relating to the County of Devon, there is mention made of Tyers in that County, soon after 1649, as also about the Year 1651. Whether they might be some of the Committees or Commissioners, before Accounted for (or some Impower'd under 'em) who were mistaken for these Tyers; or whether they might be a Committee, or a Set of Commissioners, who had some Powers given them, relating to the Clergy, the Account of which, has otherwise wholly escaped me; or whether these Notices might be mistaken in point of Time, and so they were some of the Divines, Impower'd under those Tyers, of which, I am now going to speak, I cannot certainly say; but I am most inclined to believe, they were of this last kind; and the rather, because they are said to have been of two Sorts, the one Independent, and the other Presbyterian; for the Ministers in the several Counties, to whom the Tyers delegated their Powers, being partly as is probable, of the one of these Opinions, and Partly of the other, It seems likely enough they might fort themselves accordingly, and those of the Presbyterian Persuasion chiefly Compose some of their Sessions; Whilst those of the Congregational way, made up the greater Part of the Other.

Whilst 'twere now, they might not be the Tyers & Judges of the Ministers, &c. Such as were to be chosen Elders, &c. under their New Division Note, in which part, Parl. Hist. Vol. III. p. 1248, 1261.

But be these Matters as they will; it is sure that those Tyers, of which, I am now to speak, were not Formally Erected by any Ordinance, until the latter End of 1653, as is just now said. April 5, that Year, the House indeed Order'd, ' That a certain Number of Ministers and others, be appointed to sit in every County, to Examine, Judge and Approve all such Persons, as shall be called to Preach the Gospel;' and Four Days before that Year Expir'd (viz. March 20,) the Project being then compleatly Form'd, an Ordinance was pass'd by Cromwell and his Council, complaining in the Preamble, ' That for some Time past, no certain Course had been Established, for the supplying Vacant Places with Able and Fit Persons; whereby many Weak, Scandalous, Popish and

Whitl. Mem. P. 542.

Scob. Coll. Part 1. P. 218.

Digitized by Google

This Ordin was again confirmed, among many others, in 1648. See Ibid. p 193.

‡ Or claimed an Augmentation. See p. 220.

See also Abridgment, p. 69.

See the Title-Page of Impunitio Anglise.

* Which was after by another Ordinance enlarged to the 24d of July. Scob. Collect. Part 2. p. 314.

' and Ill-affected Persons, had Intruded' themselves, and therefore appointing, ' That every Person, ' who shou'd after the 25th, of that Instant March, ' be ‡ Presented, Nominated, &c. to any Benefice; ' or Publick Settled Lecture in England, or ' Wales, before he be Admitted, shou'd be judged ' and approved by the Persons after Nam'd, to be a ' Person for the Grace of God in him, his Holy and ' Unblameable Conversation; as also for his Know- ' ledge, and Utterance, able and fit to Preach the ' Gospel;' and that Franc. Rous, Esq; (with about 37 others there Named, part Laymen, part Ministers) should be the Commissioners for such Approbation; any Five of which, were Impower'd to Approve (but no Number under Nine might Act in Rejecting) such, as offer'd themselves for Examination; and in case of the Death or Removal of any of them, the Protector, (with his Council or the Parliament, if sitting) was to Supply the Vacancies: The Protector was also to appoint any place within London or Westminster, for their Place of meeting, which (for some time at least, if not thro' the whole Course of their Sessions) was at Whitehall. To such as they Approv'd, they were to give ' an Instrument in writing' for that Purpose; without which no one was to be deem'd Lawfully Possess'd of any Benefice or Lecture; and by virtue of which Writing, when obtain'd, was put into as full Possession, as if he had been admitted by Institution and Induction.

Nor did their Powers look Forward only, but Backwards also, for near Twelve Months, viz. to April the 1st that Year. No Person, who had been from that Time placed in any such Benefice or Lecture, being allowed to Continue in it, unless he got himself Approved before the 24th of June, 1654; which was in Effect, a full Power of Sequestration on those, who had been admitted to any Living for the Year then past'd; and in case of any Suit or Contest relating to the Patronage, the Commissioners were expressly Authoriz'd to Sequester the Profits, during the Dependance of the Suit, and to appoint whom they thought fit to Supply the Cure.

And it is observable, that tho' the Primary Power given by the Commissioners, was to judge whether the 'Grace of God was in' the Person who offer'd himself for Approbation; and that pursuant to it, one chief part of their Examination usually concern'd the precise Time, and Manner of the Conversion of the Candidate (as will more fully appear by and by) yet either mistrusting the Sufficiency of any Inquiries, that it was possible for them to make in the Shriving of those, who should come before them, or imagining that an Holy Life, did not Necessarily accompany the Grace of God, the Ordinance provided, that all, who presented themselves for Approbation, should bring a Certificate, signed by Three Persons at least, ' of known Godliness and Integrity' (one of which to be a Preacher of the Gospel in some Settled Place) ' touching their Godly and Unblame- ' able Conversation.'

Nor must I omit to Observe, in the last Place, that some of the Sequester'd Clergy, taking advantage of the Act of Oblivion in 1651, (having either attempted to Repossess themselves of their Old Livings, or being Nominated to others) and offering themselves to the Commissioners for Admission, it was therefore provided by an Ordinance, of September 2, 1654, that they should not ' give ' Admission to any of them, until by Experience of ' their Conformity, and Submission to the Present ' Government, his Highness and his Council, ' should be Satisfied, of their Fitness, and Signifie ' the same to the Commissioners.'

Scob. Collect. Part II. p. 365.

The Chief, if not the only Power of Examining and Appointing those, who should be admitted to Livings, had been before Lodged with the Assembly; but these dropping, together with the Parliament, in the Beginning of this Year, one Principal Design of this Commission, seems to have been, the Supplying the Want of that Power, which fell with them; and which, if they would keep up the Face of Order or Religion, it was necessary to Revive.

See the Abridgment, p. 68, 69.

But that which I am more concern'd to take Notice of, is, that this was done with a particular Regard to the Exclusion of the Old Loyalists, and no doubt, of those Young Ones likewise who might have arisen, and been then ready to offer themselves for such Places, as they could get Friends to present them to.

The Abridgment calls this one of Cromwell's ' chief Works,' and expressly assigns ' the Purging of the Ministry,' as the End of it. And tho' it may seem to Suggest, by what immediately follows, that those of the Presbyterian Stamp, were in part Aimed at; yet in the Account of their Proceedings, which is forthwith Subjoyned, such a Character is produced of those, that were Rejected, as the Abridgment never Bestows on any Presbyterian Divines; but is almost the Literal Description, it frequently gives of those of the Church of England: However, there needs no other Proof of what I have now said, than the Additional Ordinance last mention'd; together with some further Particulars, which will be by and by Produced, and several others which will after appear in the List, when I come to speak of the Sufferings of particular Persons.

p. 68.

The Powers thus given the Tryers by the Ordinance of their Institution, for the Purposes now mention'd, were, as Mr. Goodwyn calls them, Hyper-Archiepiscopal, and Super-Metropolitan: For tho' the Clamours raised upon the Tyranny of the Bishops, were so Loud, and many, yet the Laws had provided a Remedy against the most Arbitrary Prelate, that ever Governed; and the Clerk, if he were Aggrieved and Rejected, without good and Sufficient Cause, might (in most, if not all Cases, as Mr. Goodwyn justly observes) Right himself, by a Quare impedit? or if the Bp. be left to judge of the Qualifications of the Clerk to be admitted, yet those Qualifications are sufficiently Specified and Particulariz'd in the Ecclesiastical Laws; and the Bishop may, by the course of Law now mention'd, be obliged to assign the particular Reasons of such his Refusal.

Tryers Tryed, p. 21.

Ibid. p. 21.

But the Determination of these Commissioners was in those Respects, like that of the last Judgment, Final and Absolute: Nor did the Ordinance Specifie any Particulars, save that of an Holy Conversation; leaving all the rest in the general Words of Grace, Knowledge and Utterance; and therefore the Commissioners were not obliged to assign any other Cause of their Rejecting any Person, besides that of a General and Arbitrary, NOT APPROVED. And when it is further considered, that very frequently in such Commissions, some few Active and Designing Members, usually carry all the rest with them, (and if I do not mistake, Mr. Nye, and Hugh Peters, had in Fact this Influence among the Tryers) it will thence follow, that not only the Future Rights of the whole Body of the Ministers in the Kingdom, but in a manner those of the Patrons likewise, were lodged in the Hands of Three or Four Persons only, who did thereby each of them in Effect, enjoy an Authority, much beyond that of the greatest Metropolitan, that ever Sate in either of the Two Chairs of Canterbury

See also Abridgment, p. 14.

Digitized by Google

bury or York; whilst, in the mean Time, they were, God well knows, on all Accounts, defpicably inferior to moft (and I believe, I might fafely fay, on many Accounts, to the very worft) of the Bifhops, that have filled the feveral Sees of this Kingdom fince the Reformation; and might not only, for other Parts of their Characters, be well fuípected of Practiíing, but are alío well known in Fact, to have practiíed fuch Partialities and Corruptions, under the great Temptations of fo high a Truft, as, I think, I hardly ever met with, fo much as charged on any Bifhop, by the worft of his Enemies.

I cannot forbear to obferve on this Occaíion, how much the Security provided by this Ordinance, fell fhort of that which was given to the Church by the Conftitution before in Being, relating to the Learning, Orthodox Belief, and honeft Converfation of fuch as were admitted to the Cure of Souls. With Regard to the Former of theíe, (altho' it is well known, that the Clamour of Ignorance was one of the Loudeft, they raiíed againft the Regular Clergy; and that the Appointments of the Church have fpecifi'd thoíe Degrees of it, under which no one can be admitted to its Orders, and conſequently to Officiate in it;) yet the Ordinance, as is juft now faid, particularized nothing relating to that Matter; mentioning only the ſingle and general Word Knowledge (and perhaps induſtriouſly avoiding that of Learning) and leaving the Particulars to the Commiſſioners; who might therefore determine any Degrees of it, they ſhould pleaſe to think ſufficient; and accordingly (there being no previous Rules, or Directions relating to their Orders, nor ſo much as any Orders at all neceſſarily requir'd) with this unlimited Power, it is well known, they approved of ſeveral, the moſt illiterate Perſons, and even unordain'd Mechanicks, and others of the meaneſt Education. As to what concerns the Second, the Ordinance is wholly Silent in that great Point (unleſs any one will ſay, it is virtually concluded in the Third Qualification) and for any Thing it provided to the Contrary, or for any Care the Commiſſioners took, as far as I can learn, the Perſons who offer'd themſelves, might believe any of the moſt monſtrous Errors (thoſe of Epiſcopacy and Obedience to their Prince only excepted) or be as Defective as they would, in the Belief of the other Diſtinguiſhing Parts of the Chriſtian Faith, provided only he embraced (or told them he did ſo) ſome few Diſtinguiſhing and Diſcriminating Doctrines of thoſe Times, chiefly relating to Predeſtination, and the other Queſtions dependent upon it; whilſt the Subſcriptions, &c. requir'd by the Church, as well to that moſt ancient and primitive Syſtem of Belief, the Apoſtles Creed, as to the latter Explications of it in the Nicene and Athanaſian Creeds, againſt the Arian and other Hereſies, and to the other great Points of Chriſtian Doctrine, in the Articles of Religion (many of which are more particularly level'd, and provided in a more eſpecial manner, to be Recognized againſt thoſe Errors of the Romiſh Church, in Oppoſition to which the Saints of thoſe Times pretended themſelves ſo very Zealous) do give all the Security that it is poſſible to Demand, in ſo weighty a Concern as that of a right Faith and Belief, in thoſe Perſons themſelves, who have it in Charge, to Guide and Direct the Faith of others. And as to what concerns the real Power of Godlineſs in them, as they loved to call it, the Teſtimonial directed by the Ordinance of the outward Expreſſion of it, in the Honeſty of their Converſations (which, as it is the beſt Proof of the Internal Grace of God, ſo it is in Truth, the only Teſt that humane Laws can Demand, as being the only Object of their Judgment) did not Equal, much leſs exceed that requir'd by the Church: Nor would theſe Enquiries concerning their Converſation, on which the Ordinance, at leaſt, the Commiſſioners, in their Proceedings, laid the main and principal Streſs, by any means Anſwer the Great and Weighty Purpoſes they pretended by them: For not at preſent to examine the falſe Principles in the Matter of Converſion, and thoſe Marks of Grace on which they chiefly Depended; nor to obſerve what a Door this open'd to the wildeſt Enthuſiaſm, let it only be conſider'd, that the Reading the Books of the Times, on theſe Subjects, or the bare attending three or four Examinations; and even the common Cant of the Age would plainly furniſh the moſt arrant Hypocrite with ſuch Anſwers, to the uſual Queſtions that were asked, as none but God only, who knew the Heart, could poſſibly Diſprove. I take it for Granted, that the Uſurper, Cromwell, as much as he was once Thought to have the Power of Godlineſs in him, is, at this time of Day, allow'd by every Body, to have been a conſummate Hypocrite, as well in the Religious, as the Civil Senſe of that Word; and yet I Appeal to any one, whether he could not have Anſwer'd theſe Queſtions, and have talked to theſe Commiſſioners in their own Language, as well as any the moſt Godly Divine among them: In a Word, the only Security they had, of a Man's Honeſty, from this Method, was no other, than that moſt ridiculous one of taking a Man's own Word for it, that he was moſt certainly a very Godly Perſon.

Nor muſt I omit to mention the intolerable Burden of this Commiſſion, even to their own Miniſters, whilſt they were oblig'd to go to London, from the moſt remote and diſtant Parts of the Kingdom; (tho' for the ſmalleſt Livings of Lectures) and what was ſtill worſe, to attend there, as * Mr. Goodwin juſtly obſerves, 'the 'Leiſure of the Underlings, Clerks, or Regiſters,' who were not, it ſeems, very forward to Diſpatch them, without Seeing (or rather Feeling) ſome very good Reaſon for their ſo doing; for, as † Mr. Goodwin further affirms, 'Let the 'Clerk or Regiſter be but a little over conſider'd, 'the Dedimus Poteſtatem will be given with the 'heaped Meaſure of Expedition.' See an Inſtance of one from York-ſhire, who was not approved till the End of Three Weeks, waited down Works after for his Inſtrument, and was at laſt fain to away without it, becauſe, as Mr. Nye told him, his Certificate was not Subſcribed by Hands they knew. Inquiſ. Anglic. p. 6.

Ner in Truth, could it well be otherwiſe, where a ſingle Commiſion was to fill all the Vacancies in the Kingdom, as they happen'd; and perſonally to examine every ſingle Candidate before he could be admitted. However, it muſt be own'd, they did in ſome Caſes Redreſs both the one and the other of theſe Grievances, by appointing a Sort of Sub-Commiſſioners in the Country; but by what Authority I know not: For the Grand Ordinance did not expreſly furniſh them with any Power, either to delegate their Authority, or appoint ſuch Sub-Commiſſioners; nor have I met with any Subſequent Ordinance for that Purpoſe. See the Example of Tilenus before the Tryers, &c. See Abridg. p. 69

I have already ſaid, that the Perſons entruſted with theſe Powers, were, in point of Condition, partly Laymen, and partly of their Clergy. I muſt now add, that, with Relation to their Opinions, they were partly Preſbyterians, (interſpers'd with ſome Anabaptiſt) but chiefly, and for the moſt Part, * Independents; and among them, † Stephen Marſhall, Nicholas Lockier, Peter Sterry, Philip Nye, and Hugh Peters; which Two laſt, as hath been already ſuggeſted, were, if I miſtake not, the moſt active and buſie of all the Commiſſioners. About a Fortnight after the Paſſing

Baxt. Ref. Bench. 155. Abridg. p. 60.
† See Sub Celtic Rem. II. p. 279

Digitized by Google

See Whitl. Mem. p. 568

See the Title Page of Inquisit. Anglican.

Where most of them (except one for the Year 1646) are, if I mistake not, preserved.

Passing of the Ordinance, they began to Sit (at Whitehall as I think.) And the Ordinance for their Appointment being Recogniz'd in 1656, (as is already said) they continu'd their Sessions until the Beginning of 1659, as Appears by some of their Books, which I have seen in the Custody of his Grace the Archbishop's Secretary at Lambeth: Nor do I remember to have met with any other Dissolution of them, than by the Restoration of his Majesty, when all the Bonds of Iniquity were broken, and the whole Nation set at Liberty.

What Numbers they Ejected, by virtue of the Power given them over those, who had been admitted for the Twelve Months which preceded their being Erected, or in what Numbers they Rejected such of the Royalists, as submitted to present themselves before them for Approbation, in the Course of their Sitting, I do not find; but that they exercised their Tyranny on several; (and probably on far the greater Part of them) that the same Spirit of Oppression, which was predominant in the Committees, overrul'd the Proceedings of these Commissioners likewise; that they practised many Corruptions, rejected Men of Worth and Learning, whilst they approved some of the vilest and most worthless Wretches, seems sufficiently plain, from the following Testimonies, and the Instances here subjoyned, out of those few Notices that I have receiv'd concerning them.

P. 69. The Abridgment indeed (tho' it otherwise speaks with Disregard enough of them) affirms, that 'with all their Faults thus much must be 'said, ——That they did a great deal of good to 'the Church; they saved many a Congregation 'from Ignorant, Ungodly, Drunken Teachers; 'that Sort of Ministers that either preach'd a-'gainst an Holy Life, or preach'd as Men that 'never were acquainted with it; all those that 'used the Ministry but as a common Trade, to 'live by, and were never likely to convert a 'Soul: All these they usually Rejected, and in 'their Stead admitted of any that were Able, 'Serious Preachers, and lived a Godly Life, of 'what Opinion so ever they were, that was To-'lerable." Who those are, to whom this Character is in other Places affix'd, hath been already Hinted; and if what is here affirm'd, be true, it is sure, that Loyalty and Affection to the Church, were Two of those intolerable Opinions: For it is undeniable both from the Sub∫idiary Ordinance before mention'd, and from the whole Course of the Proceedings of these Commissioners, that the old Loyalists were excluded from the Benefit of Approbation: Nor can I readily think what other Opinions; besides these, were Thought the intolerable ones: For, not to Mention the Medley of Opinions among these Judges themselves, it is well known, that if they pas'd some 'Able 'and Serious Preachers,' they approved, together with them, many of that Rabble of wild Enthusiasts, which invaded the Pulpits in those Days, made up of Soldiers, Pedlars, Bankrupt-Tradesmen and Mechanicks: Some of this last Sort approved by them, have been already mention'd by Name, in the Account of the Propagation of the Gospel in Wales.

But let the Disagreement betwixt what I have hitherto affirmed of these Commissioners, and the Account before given of them by the Abridgment, be determin'd by the Testimonies and Instances proposed to be alledged. The Author of
P. 152. the Third Volume of the Compleat History of England, assures us, That 'this Holy Inquisition 'was turned into a Snare, to catch the Men of 'Probity and Sense, and Sound Divinity; and 'to let none Escape, but the Ignorant, Bold, 'Canting Fellows: For these Triers ask'd few or 'no Questions in Knowledge and Learning, but 'only about Conversion and Grace in the Heart; 'to which the readieft Answers would arise from 'Infatuation in some, and the Trade of Hypo-'crisie in others: By which Means the Right of 'Patronage was at their Pleasure, and the Cha-'racter and Ability of Divines was whatever 'they pleased to make them; and Churches were 'filled all with little Creatures of the State.' And Dr. Bates, who lived thro' the Times of their Tyranny, and probably was personally acquainted with several of the Commissioners, as well as their Proceedings, gives this Account of them. 'Hisce licitum erat, aut admittere ad 'curam animarum, aut arcere, nullo prorsus Or-dinationis habito respectu: Non referam quantum pro unius cujusque Ingenio, in hoc genere Officii, Prensationibus, pretio, politicitationibus, præmiis, Simoniace transferant; etiam & 'Laici, militibus, Propolis, Propudiis, Decoctionibus permissum Sacra politiis munus contrectare.' Add to this, that the learned Mr. Gafford, the Sequester'd Rector of Dennington in Suffolk (who had, as it is said, been himself before them) affirms, that 'Notorious Hereticks, 'close Romanists, and mad Mechanicks,' might get Admission to Livings, if they had 'but so 'much Impudency and Hypocrisie as to tell Two 'or Three Holy Lies of the 'same, and manner 'of their Conversion; (tho' they † never were 'so wicked then, when they so belied God and 'themselves, by feigning themselves to have 'been so converted from their Wickedness) and 'then Whine or Snivel Three or Four Time-Serving Principles, and Answer or Admire at 'Four or Five strange Mungril Questions, which 'some of the Propounders themselves understood not, 'and those that have any Ingenuity amongst them, can scarce forbear Laughing at: And for 'the Palliating their Ignorance, Disclaim human 'Learning, as Savouring too much of the Two 'Universities, Rome and Babylon: And at the last, 'if these Rare Gifts take not with all the Examiners, be but furnished with one good Gift, or Two more in their Hands, to open some of the others 'Mouths, to speak a few good Words in Private 'on their Behalf, and to say how they are affect-'ed, and what Opinion they are of:' And lastly, Mr. (After Dr.) Sadler, who, 'tis certain, suffer'd under them, and therefore had a sensible Knowledge of their Oppressions and Corruptions, hath drawn a Parallel betwixt these English Inquisitors, and those in the Church of Rome. This Gentleman, after he had briefly represented the Methods used by the Romish Triers, declares, That the Proceedings of these Commissioners were 'alike severe to those they Disaffected, 'being very Partial, Close, Dilatory, and Pre-'judicial:' That 'their Questions (be they Idle, 'Solid or Captious) must be answer'd to alike 'Extempore;' that 'they have alike by their In-'formers, Intelligence from all Parts;' that 'they 'are alike Examiners, Witnesses, and Judges in 'their own Case; and that their many Turnings 'to Delay, or Delude any one, were not to be Traced; but Suggests, that among them, these were some: 'If they dislike the Minister, saith 'he (and probably like the Living) then——they 'cannot approve him. Oh, no, by no Means! 'they cannot, because (forsooth) he is Dis-'affected; that is, not of their Opinion; or else 'Secondly, that his Answers are not to their 'Mind, and therefore he is Insufficient; or else, 'Thirdly, That there is a Caution against him, 'tho' he knew not by whom, nor for what; or 'else, Fourthly, That he carrieth his Hand by his 'Side, and his Elbow up, and therefore he is

See him more.

Elench. Motuum Nup. p. 197.

Petit. for the Vindication of the acts of the Common-Prayer, p. 56, 57.

† Time, I suppose it should be.

† Were so wicked as them, &c. as I presume it should have been printed.

Inquisitio Anglicana: (A.D. 1, 2, 3, 4) published in 1654 (immediately on their ill Treatment of him) and dedicated to the Lord Protector and his Parliament.

Digitized by Google

'Proud; or else, Fifthly, that his Certificate is 'not Satisfactory, i. e. they do not know the 'Subscribers, or not believe them to be Godly; 'or else, Sixthly, that he shall not have that 'Living (though some other he may) let him do 'what he will; or else, Seventhly, that his Voice 'and Tone likes them not, and therefore he hath 'not the Gift of Utterance; or else, Eighthly, 'that he speaks too Quaintly, and therefore is he 'a meer Humanist, and one that hath not the 'Spirit; or else, Ninthly, that if he will resign 'his Living quietly, he shall have a round Sum 'of Money so to do.' Uncle, he intimates, were more particularly their Dealings with some Clergymen, whom he there Names: And then adds, that the Pretences they used with himself were, first, To Question the Form of his Certificate; after that, they scrupled the Persons who subscribed it; and at last, being at the End of more than Three Weeks Attendance, called for, and Examin'd, 'they used all the Ways they could 'to baffle him, Two or Three speaking at once to 'confound his Memory, or invalid his Answers; and at last bidding him withdraw, never called for him after.

The Particulars of this Case, which are at large related in the following Pages of that Pamphlet, will very much contribute towards giving the Reader a just Notion of the Proceedings of these Commissioners; and supply the want of other Notices concerning them: However, I am not without some imperfect Accounts, which, tho' of less consideration, than these which Dr. Sadler preferred, relating to himself; yet they plainly enough suggest several Corrupt Practices of this Commission; and serve to confirm many of those Particulars, which the Dr. hath more fully related; to which therefore I shall premise them.

See him there. Mr. Camplin, a Clergyman of Somersetshire; who had been turned out of a Curacy, got afterward a Presentation to the Rectory of Kingston-Seymer, in that County, from the Rightful Patron; and offering himself to the Triers for Approbation, was Delerr'd from Week to Week: Whereupon he apply'd himself by a Friend to Hugh Peters for dispatch; who very Frankly ask'd the Gentleman this plain Question, 'Hath thy 'Friend any Money?' This Quere carried with it a full Answer to the Request made him, and had indeed thus much of Friendship, that it put Mr. Camplin out of all Suspence, and freed him from the Trouble and Vexation, of a further Attendance; for he forthwith Dropt all further Application in pursuit of the Living.

See him likewise in that County. Mr. Broad, who had been Sequester'd from Rendcombe in Gloucestershire; was afterwards by Sir Edmond Bray, presented to the Rectory of Great Rissington; and being obliged to wait on the Triers for his Admission, they Tore his Presentation in Pieces, with Words to this Effect: 'It will be a great Trouble and Vexation to the 'Malignant Party, to put them out of one Hun-'dred Pounds per Annum, and Admit them in 'to Two.'

See him in the Lift. Mr. Tho. Clutterbuck, being by Mr. Duncombe the undoubted Patron, presented to the Rectory of Great-Brickhill in Bucks; was by these Commissioners delay'd from Time to Time, and deny'd an Approbation, in favour to some Pretenfions, which Mr. Math. Mead, had Trumped up against him; and being at last wearied out, Returned his Presentation again, into the Hands of his Patron; who then Bestow'd it on Mr.

See him likewise in the Lift. Robert Hockwell; but neither could he pass thro' the Hands of the Triers, altho' there was neither 'Scandal, Ignorance, nor other Delinquency,' alledged against him; for Mr. Mead, continuing the Pursuit of the Living, the Commissioners likewise, continu'd to favour his Pretensions; and at length giving the Instrument of Approbation to him, instead of Mr. Hockwell, he was, soon after put into Possession of the Living, by a Troop of Horse, under the Directions of Major-General Packer, if I mistake not.

The Title, the Tricks of Mr. Hockwell about Living.

(Quere) and if so, is it plain, that either the Value of the Living, he fought for, or their reserving it for their Friend Mr. Mead, who at former, had a Living to it (and out his being Unqualified) was the True Cause of their Delaying, and at last Refusing to Approve him.

This at least, is certain, that the Major-General (who was himself one of the Commissioners) wrote to the rest in favour of Mr. Mead; and at his Persuasion, Decimated Mr. Duncombe, the Patron, who opposed him, for a Malignant; but he still perisisting to defend his Right of Patronage, Mr. Mead afterwards got the Protellor to take him into Custody of a Messenger, and Threaten him with utter Ruine; and Mr. Duncombe, after all this, continuing Resolute, Hugh Peters takes the Matter in Hand, and having in vain dealt with Mr. Duncombe, himself, afterwards told some of his Friends, 'That the Pro-'tector would have his Heart's Blood out:' Whereupon, Mr. Duncombe, to prevent the Ruine of his Family, was prevailed on to refer the Matter to some Persons, who were at last forc'd to give the Living to a Nephew of Hugh Peters, and obliged Mr. Duncombe to Release Mead from all Actions, &c. but after the Restoration, he revi'v'd his Cause, and got Mr. Hookwell the Possession of the Rectory.

See him in that County. The Reverend Mr. John Treffe, a Clergyman of Devon, attending these Commissioners for the Rectory of Ashcombe, in that County, was put off for several Weeks, and at last dismiss'd with sufficient Reproaches for Delinquency; but not without some Hopes of being Admitted at one Time or other, if he would give them good Cause to think he might be Reformed. And afterwards attending them a Second Time, he was again delay'd from Week to Week, until he had Spent 'Fifty Pounds in Gold, and all the 'Silver he could Shift for;' but being at length call'd for, he 'had Scores of Questions, both Im-'pertinent and Imperious, ask'd him:' And 'they 'requir'd him to tell them very precisely in what 'Year, in what Month, in what Day, and in 'what Hour of the Day, he had the Secret Call, 'or Motion of the Spirit, to Undertake, and 'Labour in the Ministry,' and in conclusion was not Approved.

One Mr. Fr. Duncomb, who prefented himself before them, for the Vicaridge of Great-Gaddesden, in Hertfordshire, did by a Letter to Sir Richard Combes, represent his Usage in the following Words; 'To here an Oration rather than an 'Epistle; I am (by God's Divine Permission) 'Returned Home after some Nine Weeks atten-'ding at Whitehall. If I could Live upon the 'Air, and Cloath my Family with Leaves, I 'would have nothing to do with those Men, with 'whom I late have had so much ado; Animals 'in Nature without Bowels, are Monsters; and 'Christians without Bowels, are Monsters in 'Religion. Sir, to give you a Short Account of 'my Convertence with the Commissioners: This laft 'Time, (it being on Friday last past) Mr. Car-'ter was at it again, Touching an Arminian 'Point (which he told me the First Time, I 'seem'd to Favour.) His Question was, Whether 'Election was, ex præviſa Fide, I told him, 'that that Election was Free and Absolute in God; and nothing so much Manifested the Grace of God, as for him to have respect to our Faith: For the Former part of my Answer, I cleared with this Scripture, 1. Eph. 5. *Having predestinated us unto the Adoption of Children by Jesus Christ to himself, according to the good Pleasure of his Will, to the Praise * and Glory of his Grace.* The Latter Part, I cleared thus, 2. Eph. 8, (Mr Cooper, helped me with the Nomination of the Verse) for by Grace, † we are Saved, through Faith. And then farther, Mr. Carter asked me, touching Perseverance, what I thought; whether a Man might fall away from Grace? my Answer was, if a Man be once ingrafted into Christ, he need not Fear falling away. I Alledged the 11th of the Romans; For by Grace we stand. Mr. Cooper Prested and Urged an Objection, touching David, that he fell away. In answer to that, David, (I Reply'd) Lost only the Sence of God's Favour, but not the Habit of Grace. To prove my Answer satisfactory, I reminded them of this Passage in the Psalms, Cast me not away from thy Presence, and take not thy Holy Spirit from me: He could not then have Pray'd, if he had not had the Spirit. They ask'd me what Acquaintance, I had with Jesus Christ? (and to Speak truly whether it were Mr. Caryl, Carter, Cooper, Manton, Dyke, or Roe, I do not well Remember) that was, as the Scripture Spoke, (I thought) a Captious Question, to Intrap me; but I answer'd as well as I could, on the Sudden, (tho' my Answers all Sunk) that I had Communion with Jesus Christ, by Hearing, Reading, Meditating, and by Prayer, and the like. At length they came to the Work of Grace upon my Heart. What Work of Grace (quoth Mr. Carter,) hath God wrought upon your Soul? I answered, I was Born in Sin, and God had been so Gracious unto me, that he had Discover'd my Sins unto me, in the Glass of the Law, and his own Mercies, and Christ's Merits in the Gospel. Saith Mr. Carter, How can Mercy and Misery stand together? I answer'd, it was Infinite Mercy in God to accept of the Merits of another. How do you know this (quo h Caryl) I answer'd, First, I believe in Jesus Christ. Secondly, I love Believers. Thirdly, I endeavour to approve my Faith by Universal Obedience. The Apostle St. John, hath clear'd in his Epistles, these to be Marks of Regeneration and true Conversion. These are Generals (said they) What Particulars have you of God's dealing with you in this Kind? I know it by the Spiritual Combat, betwixt the Flesh, and the Spirit; and in particular, I * take Notice of it, (as I Remember) when I hear'd Mr. —— upon this Text, 5, Gal. 17, For the Flesh Lusteth against the Spirit, &c. Quoth Cooper, How doth this Spirit differ from a Natural Conscience? A Natural Conscience opposeth Corruptions, but at some Time, out of a Slavish Fear, &c. but the Spirit always out of a Loathing and Detestation to Sin; and this Reluctancy I find in my self. Is that all? quoth Carter. You have a Certificate for the rest, said I. Saith Caryl, but we must not see with other Folks Eyes. Then I said, my own Experiencies of God's Favour, were beyond their Arguments or Expretions.

Digitized by Google

'Sir, I desire upon occasion, you will Communicate thus much to my Loving Cousin, Lieutenant-Colonel Thread, and my Cousin Duncombe, of Brickhill, and others. The Commissioners on Friday last Voted, I should be referr'd to Peters; but after recall'd it, and Voted the Former Vote should Stand, which was, not Satisfied. It may be, the Register may Enter, Not Approved, as well as put down his Father to be present at my First Examination, which Mr. Warren, as well as my self, can Remember, was not so. If it were my Case alone to be Repulsed, I should Blush to my self for Shame, that I could not pass them; and fall out with my self for Anger. A private Information prevails with them, before a publick Certificate. I hear, Lee of Berkhemsted, or Lee of Hatfield, or both, have wrote me Mischief, in Reporting me a Cavalier, and an Enemy to the Parliament; a Thing as far from Truth, as they were near Telling a Lye. Mr. Dyke, took off Mr. Peters, from me, by acquainting him somewhat concerning me; What it was, is a Secret. It should seem, if there be no other Door open, I must expect no Preferment; or if the next succeeding Parliament, do not find out a Way, that Men may be Examined and Approv'd, where they are known in their Countries, sure I am, not only my Condition will be Lamentable, but others also. One Mr. Nash, albeit Twelve Parliament-Men came to the Commissioners in his Behalf, was Rejected, and likewise one Mr. Jacob, together with my self, the same day; only the Commissioners sent Hezekiah the Clerk to me, to let me know (because Mr. Peters, had moved) that I might go down and Preach at Gaddesden, upon Tryal. I asked them, how I should be paid without their Instrument; They told me, the Commissioners below might Pay me, in Regard the Living is Sequester'd. Truly, Sir, I have spent a great deal of Time and Money, in attending: God forgive them for it, &c.

The Particulars of an Examination before these Commissioners, being a Curiosity which will probably be very acceptable to the Reader, I have for that Reason produced the foregoing Letter Verbatim; and the rather, because it is so Authentick; and because I have not met with, nor do I know of any other Thing of the Kind, besides that of Dr. Sadler before mention'd; To which I now come, and which for the same Reasons, I shall likewise Transcribe at large, in the Doctor's own Words.

In May, 1654, the Dr. (being then however, only Mr. Sadler) was presented to the Living of Compton-Haynes, in Dorsetshire, by the Lady Paget, the undoubted Patroness; and Offering himself to the Triers for Approbation, he first tender'd his Certificate, which was, Four Days after, refus'd, as not being agreeable to the Directions of the Ordinance: Whereupon he got another Drawn up, and subscribed, conformable to those Directions. Among the Subscribers were the Lady Lætitia Paget, his Patroness; the Lord William Paget; one Mr. Manley, a Justice of the Peace, and some others, more than the Ordinance requir'd. After the Delivery of this Second Certificate, he attended from Day to Day (for about 9 Days) in Order to come to his Trial, making what Friends and Interest he could in the mean Time, for the same End; but all being to no Purpose, at length he sends a Note to Mr. Nye, and Mr. Peters, requesting to be Dispatch'd; and, in Order to it, waited until Twelve of the Clock; when, being oblig'd to attend the Family of his Patroness, he was no sooner gone, but he was called for; and not being there, Word was immediately brought him, that 'the Hands to his Certificate were not approved of: Whereupon he got further Testimonies, Subscribed by Mr. Lenthall (Speaker to the Long Parliament, but then Master of the Rolls) and Dr. Tho. Temple, and got his old Certificate further Supported by the

Eph. 1. 5. no doubt.

* of the

Eph. 2. 8.

† are ye.

V. 20. And thus stands it by Faith.

* Took Gal. 5. 17.

Mr. Nye, at Ipswich, See Wood Ath. Vol II. p. 370.

See him in Dorsetshire. Inquisit. Anglic. p. 4. See also Wood, Ath. Vol. II. p. 395.

Inquisit. Angl. p. 6.

Ibid. p. 7.

Digitized by Google

the Hands of Two other Persons, who were, as I Guess, acceptable enough to the Commissioners: And Three Days after the Tender of these Additional Securities, he was call'd in, and, Mr. Nye having the Chair, was examin'd in the following Manner:

Ibid. p. 8.

'Nye. Quest. What is Regeneration?
'Sadler. Answ. It is our Incorporation into Christ, by Faith.
'Nye. Quest. What, Body into Body?
'Sad. A. No. Christ's Body is Mystical.

Both of them speaking at once.

'Commissioner. Q. What is Regeneration?
'Commiss. Q. What is Regeneration?
'Sad. A. Regeneration is our New Birth in Christ.
'Commiss. Q. Explain your Meaning; that is, put the Word in the plain Sense of it.
Sad. A Regeneration is distinguish'd from Sanctification, saith Wilson.
'Nye. Q. What, Wilson his Dictionary, speaking Ironically?
'Sad. A. If you take Regeneration and Sanctification both as one, then Regeneration is a Work of God's Spirit, to bring the Will of Man unto the Will of God.
'Commiss. Q. That is something indeed.
'Sad. A. The Definition is a learned Author's.
'Commiss. You may alledge Popish Books.
'Nye. Q. What is the Will only Regenerated, and not the Understanding?
'Sad. A. The whole Man, both outward and inward.
'Nye. Q. Is Regeneration a Substance, or an Accident?
'Sad. A. I do not well understand your Meaning.
'Nye. It is Plain. Answer.——
'Here I made a Pause, as being much troubled in Mind at so Captious (if not Ridiculous) a Question. And being Silent —— Mr. Nye said again.
'Nye. Q. In what Predicament?
'Sad. A. In the Predicament of Quality.
'Commiss. Q. But are you Regenerated?
'Sad. A. Yes.

Ibid. p. 9.

'Nye. Make that out.
'Sad. A. I conceive you mean the Work of Grace in me.
'Commiss. Q. Well, and when was that?
'Sad. A. About Thirty Years ago (how Old were you then said Mr. Nye?) I was in my Secret Devotion (he means Private, said Mr. Nye, both interrupting and deriding me) I was Kneeling and Praying, that God would give a certain Evidence of his Spirit, and shew some good Token upon me for Good. Whereupon, I heard, as it were, a Voice, saying, I have a Blessing for thee: I will not fail thee, nor forsake thee.
'Nye. Q. What, was it a Voice? Was it audible?
'Sad. A. No, not in a Vocal Way, it was a Motion.
'Nye. Q. Was it not a Delusion, as Eve's Voice to Adam?
'Sad. A No; I know it was no Delusion, but a good Motion; I know it was, because a good Motion is always in express Words of Scripture, or consonant to it: A Delusion may have some Part of Truth, but not all, as the Devil's was, when he tempted our Saviour with a Piece of Scripture.
'Commiss. Q. And you are sure you have the Grace of God in you?
'Sad. A. Yes; I am sure I have a Life of Grace in me, as I have a Life of Nature.
'Commiss. Make that out.
'Sad. A. As I have Breath, Heat, Sense, and Action in my Body; so have I in my Soul.
'Commiss. Q. What is the Breath of the Soul?
'Sad. A. My Longing and Thirsting after God.
'Commiss. Q. What is the Heat?
'Sad. A. A Zeal for God's Glory, and my Affection to him. (Then Spake Two more of them; but what, I minded not, being intent upon the Allegory.)
'Commiss. Q. What is the Sense of the Soul?
'Sad. A. An Apprehension of my Indispositeness, and my Sense of Sin.
'Commiss. Q. What is the Action of the Soul?
'Sad. A. The Good Works I do, as Works of Piety and Charity. Ibid p. 10.
'Nye. This is all one, a Thing Studied.——
'Nye. Q. What is Faith?
'Sad. A. It is a Knowing, a Believing, and a Depending upon Christ, faith one; or, as faith another, it is the Believing, not only of God's Word to be True, but a firm Perswasion that the Truth and Promises of that Word belong to me.
——'Here (they not Hearing, or not Regarding what I said, nor Suffering me to speak a Word more) I was frowned upon, and commanded to withdraw.'

Which, accordingly he did; and being after told by Mr. Nye, that the Commissioners did not Approve, and that Nothing could be further done, till Nine Commissioners came together; he was the Afternoon of the same Day had in again (Nine Commissioners being then Present, who teas but Five were present in the Morning) and Mr. Tombs then having the Chair, he was thus further Question'd: For the Clause in the Ordinance before mention'd, relating to the Number of Commissioners who were to Act.

'Mr. Tombs. Quest. What is Original Sin? Ibid. p. 12.
'Sad. A. It is the Corruption of our Nature thro' Adam's Fall.
'Commiss. Q. Is Actual or Original Sin greater?
'Sad. A. Actual.
'Commiss. Q. Is Pride or Murther a greater Sin than Original?
'Commiss. Q. Is the Branch (said another) greater than the Root?
'—— That is well put said a Third.
'Sad. A. Yes: Original Sin is less than Actual; for Actual Sin is the Aggravation of Original: There be Degrees of Sin.
'Commiss. Q. Did Adam Sin willingly, or unwillingly?
'Sad. A. Willingly, for his Will was Free.
'Commiss. Q. Was God willing or unwilling of it?
'Sad. A. It is a Dark Question. I conceive, with Submission to your Judgment, that there was a willing Unwillingness.
'Nye. Q. Where do you find that in Scripture?
'Sad. A. The Question is as Dark, as the Answer.
Commiss. Q. What think you of Indeliberate Motions?
'Sad. A. I don't well Understand you.
'Commiss. Q. Motions to Sin before Consent, are they Sinful?
'Sad. A. Not Sinful, if not Consented to.
'Commiss. Q. How so?
'Sad. A. Because they be the Devil's Suggestions, and are laid to his Charge.

'Commiss.

Digitized by Google

'Commiss. Q. VVhy, what are the Motions in our Sleep? when we Dream of killing, or doing any other Wickedness?

'Sad. A. These Nocturnals are not Sinful neither, if when we do Awake, we do not remember them, or relate them with Delight, or any Yielding to them.

Ibid. p. 12. 'Commiss. You told us in the Morning, that you were sure of the Grace of God in you.

'Sad. A. I did.

'Commiss. Q. How have you that Assurance?

'Sad. A. By Faith.

'Commiss. Q. Is Faith mediate, or immediate?

'Sad. A. It is immediate, as God's Gift; but ordinarily it is mediate, by the Word, and otherwise.

'Nye, Q. Do you believe Christ, before you knew him; or know Christ, before you do believe him?

'Nye, Q. How do you Extricate your self?

'Sad. A. I know whom I have Believed.

'Commiss. Q. What Evidence have you, that you believe in Christ?

'Sad. A. Because I have a Zeal for his Glory, a Sorrow for Sin, a Reluctancy against Sin, and I Apply the Merits of my Saviour to my self; saying, as Thomas did, my Lord, and my God!

'Commiss. Q. Is he your Lord and your God only? Christ Died for all, and shall not all have the Benefit of his Death?

'Sad. A. No, I know Christ's Death is Sufficient for as many Worlds of Men, as there be Men in the World; but surely it is not Effectual to all. It's to all sorts of People, but not to all People.

'Commiss. Q. Why not to all, as well as to you?

'Sad. A. Because God will have Mercy, on whom he will have Mercy; yea, said Mr. Tombes, and whom he will he Hardeneth.

'Commiss. Q. Doth God Harden any ones Heart?

'Sad. A. Yes.

'Commiss. Q. How can God harden the Heart, and not be the Author of Sin?

'Sad. A. God is said to harden the Heart, when he withdraws his Grace.

'Commiss. Q. If God withdraw his Grace, when he might hinder Sin, is he not the Author of Sin?

'Sad. A. God hath a threefold Precept, a Precept of Tryal, a Precept of Obedience, and a Precept of Conviction.

'Commiss. Q. Give Examples of each of them.

Ibid. p. 13. 'What is the Precept of Tryal?

'Sad. A. That, by which God Tempted Abraham.

Commiss. Q. What is the Precept of Obedience?

'Sad. A. That which God giveth to his Elect, when he giveth them a Command, and Grace therewith to perform the Command.

'Commiss. Q. What is the Precept of Conviction?

'Sad. A. That, under which, the *Wicked*ly; which, tho' they cannot perform, yet God is not the Author of Sin.

'Commiss. Q. What is the chief Point in all the Scripture?

'Sad. A. Christ, and him Crucified.

'Commiss. Q. Are you justified by Faith?

'Sad. A. Faith is my Righteousness, and Faith is my Justification.

'There is a Justification before God, and a Justification before Men.

'There is Actus unus, and Actus successivus.

'I am justified by Faith, as Faith is the Instrument, or Hand, whereby I lay hold upon, and apply the Merits of my Saviour to my poor Soul; and Faith is my Righteousness, as it is Correlative in Reference to Christ's Merits.

'Commiss. Q. But all this while here is no mention made of Love to the Brethren.

'Sad. A. I could not Love God, if I did not Love the Brethren. All my Delight, saith David, is upon the Saints.

'Commiss. Q. How long have you been at Westminster?

'Sad. A. These Seven Years.

'Nye, Q. Do you know no Minister but Mr. Vyner.

'Sad. A. Yes; I know your self, and many others.

'Nye, Q. Do not you know Mr. Roode?

Sad. A. Yes; but I have no Acquaintance with him.

'Commiss. Q. How came you to know Dr. Temple?

'Sad. A. I have seen him several Times at my Lady's; and I have been with him at Batterſey.

'Nye, Q. Had you never any Living or Cure? P. 14.

'Sad. A. I never had any Living absolutely. I had a Cure at Bishopstoke, which after the Living was Sequester'd, I had 20 l. a Year allowed me by the Committee of Southampton, as Mr. Mayor can affirm. My greatest time I Lived, was with Esq; Sadler, in Hertfordshire: I was his Chaplain Eleven Years —— Sir, were it not that I have a Zeal to advance God's Glory, I would not take this Preferment; I thank God I can live as I am.

'Commiss. Q. What do you say of the Church of Rome? Is it a True Church or no? Bishop Hall saith, it is a True Church; and the Priests and Jesuits; and He that was Executed the other Day, said, it was a True Church: What say You?

'Sad. A. It's no True Church. I think the Church of Rome, is as a Virgin Deflower'd; she was pure; but she is defiled.

After this, being order'd to withdraw, he waited to be called for in again, according to their Custom; but was called for no more; and therefore when they rose, he followed Mr. Nye, to know the Result; who told him, that 'The 'Commissioners did not Approve;' but desiring to know the Reasons, Mr. Nye, seem'd to slight him, and went away without saying any thing more to him: Whereupon he apply'd himself to H. Peters; who told him, 'that the Commissioners had not yet concluded any thing.' About a Fortnight after, meeting with Mr. Lockier, he requested, that they would come to a Determination of his Case, one way or other; in return to which, Mr. Lockier told him 'there was a Vote;' and referr'd him to the Clerk; whom he soon after attended; and on Examination of the Books, found it only Enter'd, 'that such an one was 'Examined,' and nothing more; nor do I find that Dr. Sadler, had at last any other Satisfaction, than that of Expostulating with Mr. Nye, about his Usage, by a long Letter, which his Worship never vouchsafed to Answer, unless by his Son Mr. John Nye, (Clerk to the Commission) who was generally reported to be the Author of a Pamphlet, Entituled, Sadler Examined; or, his Disguise discover'd: shewing the gross Mistakes, and most notorious Falshoods, in his Dealing with the Commissioners for Approbation of publick Preachers, in his Inquisitio Anglicana, &c. in which it was thought, he was assisted by his Father. This Pamphlet was Publish'd in the same Year with the Inquisitio it self; but being never able to get a Sight of it, I must leave it to those, who have, to determine whether Mr. Nye made good the Title, and disproved all, or any Thing of what the Dr. affirm'd, and is here repeated in his own Words.

P. 15, 17. See Wood's Ath. Vol. II. p. 370.

I have been inform'd, that the Lord William Paget, upon the Commissioners refusing thus to approve the Clerk prefented by his Majesty, went (as he declared himself) to Mr. Nye, and desired him to recommend a very Godly Man to a Parsonage in his Dispofal, in a cheap Country; and Mr. Nye asking the Value of the Living, his Lordship told him it was between 60*l.* and 80*l. per Ann.* To which Mr. Nye reply'd, he was afraid he could not help him to a very Godly Man, for such a Place.

After what hath been now said of those Commissioners, I believe, I may safely Appeal to any body, whether their many Delays, their Oppressions, and Arbitrary Proceedings, can be paralel'd in the Accounts of any of the Prelates: And it is easie to observe, from the Tenour of their Examinations, that no Enquiries were made in any Parts of real and useful Learning; that the great Points of Christian Doctrine, the Trinity, Incarnation, and Satisfaction of our Blessed Lord, were wholly overlookt; that no Heresies or Errors (but what they then called Arminianism) were provided against, or taken into any manner of Consideration; that a few Jejune, and for the most part, Useless Questions only, were ask'd (not to take Notice at present of such as were plainly Ridiculous) and these too, for the most Part, relating (as hath been before observ'd) to the then Discriminating Points of Election and Reprobation; and that therefore, any the best, and most useful Divine (such as did not Preach against an Holy Life, nor Preach as tho' they were wholly unacquainted with it) would, generally speaking, have been rejected: If, instead of believing in Jesus Christ, he did not testifie Faith towards John Calvin, and Repentance (or Obedience) to the Lord Protector Oliver Cromwell.

I have only to add, before I dismiss this Head, that the many Stories which are to be met with at this Day, of the Triers, abundantly shew the Opinion that was then had, of the Ridiculousness of their Questions, the Partiality of their Proceedings, and the Hypocrisie, and sometimes the Ignorance of the Commissioners, when they had to do with any Person of more than common Worth and Learning: But this last I chiefly understand of the Sub-Commissioners in the Country.

I have already more than once observ'd, that the Diligence of the Presbyterians, had left but little for the Independents to do (at least, in England) in the plain way of Sequestration, when they came to the Administration, about 1648; and that therefore they were forced to turn their Eyes upon the remoter Country of Wales, and even there to set on Foot a new Project of rooting out, together with the Ministers, the very Ministry it self; and as a natural Consequence of that, to plunder into their own Pockets the then useless Revenues, allotted for the Support and Maintenance of it: And had they been able to enlarge this Design (as they intended, and endeavoured) to an equal Extent with that of the whole Kingdom, they would have found Work enough, in which to have employ'd themselves: But that Attempt being frustrated, and the Malice of the Undertakers being no Ways fated with the Persecutions that the Clergy had hitherto undergone; and more especially, there being now † no Authority in † force for the running of those whom they

The Commissioners for Ejecting Scandalous, Ignorant, and Insufficient Ministers and Schoolmasters.

See what hath been already said of the Qualifications, in the Assessment of the Propagation Scheme in Wales, and in the Act of Union.

* See the Preamble to the Ordinance for the Sequestrating

Parliament it self; and the Committees in the Country here, as I suppose, by some means or other, in the foremost Classes of Government, which were taken by the Ruling Party, tho' I do not remember to have met with any Order or Ordinance for that End, and it by the very Nature of the Thing it self, very disagreeable to Courtie with that Parliament.

called Scandalous, Ignorant and Insufficient Ministers; that there might not be wanting a standing Tribunal for that Purpole, it was thought fit to direct the Commissions I am now going to speak of; altho' the most they could then do, was, only to glean after those Industrious Labourers, that had already reaped to plentiful an Harvest, and to take that After-Crop which might likewise be Sprung up, since the first Occupiers had been turned out of Possession. And in this Undertaking (both as soon now running very high, and the very Calling of the Ministry it self being deemed Antichristian) some of those very Persons, who had at first helped to dispossess their Brethren at least, some of those, who by their Silence gave but even too much Countenance and Content to it) became (if I mistake not) a Prey to those Pitiful rers for whose mercil is Paws they had left so very little behide their own selves, to raven and destroy.

See Mr Gataker's Petition, in Vindication of the Clergy's Constancy and Faithfulness, p. 62.

To these Ends then they set on Foot an Ordinance, for the † Ejecting Scandalous, Ignorant, † and Insufficient Ministers, and Schoolmasters, which was debated June 29 1654, and past'd by the Authority of the Protector and his Council, August 28, following. The passing of this Ordinance, after the Clergy had now lain under such great Variety of Trials, from the main Ordinances, Committees, &c. of which I have been historo Speaking, for the better Part of Twenty Years, render'd their Condition truly Miserable. The Tenour of the Ordinance was, that the Persons after named (which were at least 18 or 20, and often more for every County in England and * Wales, or any Five, or more of them, for the respective Counties, should be thereby † 'author zed and impower'd to call before them' any Publick Preachers, Lecturers, Parsons, Vicars, Curates, or Schoolmasters, 'who are, or shall be 'Ignorant, Scandalous, Insufficient, or Negligent'; and to 'receive all Articles, or Charges, which 'shall be Exhibited against them, on these Accounts; and 'to proceed to Examination, and 'Determination of such Offence,' according to the following Rules; namely, 'such Ministers 'and Schoolmasters shall be deemed and accounted Scandalous in their Lives and Conversations, as shall be proved guilty of holding or 'maintaining such Blasphemous and Atheistical 'Opinions, as are punish'd by an Act entituled 'an Act against several Atheistical, &c. —— or 'guilty of prophane Cursing or Swearing, Perjury, Subornation of Perjury; such as shall 'hold, teach, or maintain any of those Popish 'Opinions, requir'd in the Oath of Abjuration (mention'd in an Ordinance, &c.) to be abjur'd, 'or be Guilty of Adultery, Fornication, Drunkenness, common haunting of Taverns, or Ale-Houses; frequent Quarrelling, or Fighting; 'frequent Playing at Cards or Dice, prophaning 'of the Sabbath Day, and such as do, or shall 'allow the same in their Families, or countenance 'the same in their Parishioners, or Scholars; 'such as have publickly and frequently read, or 'used the Common-Prayer Book, since the first 'of January last, or shall at any Time hereafter 'do the same; such as do publickly and prophanely Scoff at, or revile the strict Profession 'or Professors of Religion, or Godliness; or do 'Encourage, or Countenance, by VVord, or 'Practice, any Whitsun-Ales, Wakes, Morrice-Dances, May Poles, Stage-Plays, or such like 'Licentious Practices.——Such as have declar'd, 'or shall declare, by VVriting, Preaching, or 'otherwise Committees of Parliament in the Time of the Usurpation.

Whitl. Mem. p. 525.

Scob. Coll. Part 2 p. 111. and continued to 1656 Lond. p. 180. See also p. 354.

See their Names in the Ordinance. Scob. Ibid. p. 135. 116, 117, 118, 119.

* In Wales the Commissioners were not nominated for each County, but for many together in South and North Wales. Scob. Ibid. p. 135. 140.

Ibid. p. 124.

Ibid. Part 3. p. 49. 50.

Digitized by Google

'otherwise Publishing their Diſaffection to the 'preſent Government: Such Miniſters ſhall be 'accounted Negligent, as omit the publick Exer-'cities of Preaching and Praying upon the Lord's 'Day (not being hinder'd by neceſſary Abſence, 'or Infirmity of Body) or that are, or ſhall be 'Non-reſident: Such Schoolmaſters ſhall be ac-'counted Negligent, as abſent themſelves from 'their Schools, as do wilfully neglect their Duties 'in Teaching their Scholars: And ſuch Miniſter 'or Schoolmaſter ſhall be accounted Ignorant 'and Inſufficient, AS SHALL BE SO DE-'CLARED AND ADJUDGED BY THE 'COMMISSIONERS in every County, or 'any Five of them together, with any Five or 'more of the Miniſters hereafter nominated,' (which were from about Ten to Twenty for each County, according to the greater or leſs Extent of it) 'to be aſſiſtant to the ſaid Com-'miſſioners.' Theſe Commiſſioners were alſo by another Clauſe of this Ordinance, authoriz'd and requir'd to make Enquiries, what Miniſters within their reſpective Counties had not been approved by the Triers (laſt mention'd) and to certifie their Names to thoſe Inquiſitors, to diſpoſſeſs the Old Sequeſter'd Loyaliſts, if any of them had again gotten Poſſeſſions of their Places.

See their Names in the Ordinance it ſelf. Scob. Hiſt. P. 140, 141, 142, 143.

In the Queſtion of Scandal, the Lay-Commiſſioners only were to Act, and proceed on Oath, as well for, as againſt the Perſon accuſed ('if the 'Caſe did ſo require') of which themſelves were ſole Judges; but the Oath 'of one Witneſs, 'with other concurrent Evidence,' was declared ſufficient: And in the Caſe of Ignorance or Inſufficiency, the Five Lay-Commiſſioners were to be joyned by as many of the Aſſiſtant Clergy: And the Miniſter or Schoolmaſter reſpectively, which ſhould in this way of Proceeding be adjudged Scandalous, Ignorant, or Inſufficient, was forthwith to be Ejected by them. They were, however, to allow him a competent Time for his Removal; and the Fifths likewiſe for the Support of his Family, in ſuch a Manner, and under ſuch Reſtrictions, as I have already ſaid in another Place. Into the Vacancies which they ſhould thus make, the rightful Patron was to Preſent; and in Caſe the Clerk met with any Reſiſtance, the Commiſſioners were to iſſue their Orders to the Sheriff, or ſuch Juſtices of the Peace as they ſaw fit, who were requir'd to give him forcible Poſſeſſion: And on any Vacancy (whether made by thus Ejecting the Miniſter, or otherwiſe) the Commiſſioners had Authority to Order the Profits into the Hands of ſuch Perſons as they thought fit, to be preſerved for the Benefit of the Succeſſor only; deducting 'all neceſſary 'Charges incident to the Ejecting, Sequeſtring, 'or Removing of the former Miniſter and Schol-'maſter, and placing of another there,' and for ſome other Purpoſes ſpecify'd in the Ordinance.

That this Ordinance might be effectually executed, there was Care taken, by an expreſs Clauſe in it, that the reſpective Commiſſioners ſhould meet, and enter upon Buſineſs 'with all Dili-'gence,' in Twenty Days after the Publication of it; ſo little was the rage of the Government againſt the Clergy abated, after ſuch a Train of Perſecutions, if perhaps the Malice of ſome particular Perſons might be almoſt tired, and worn out in the Execution of it.

Where ſee them.

See the Title Page of it.

The very Excellent Mr. Garford, the Sequeſter'd Rector of Dennington in Suffolk, drew up, and publiſh'd his Obſervations on this Ordinance (the very Year that it paſs'd) in a Paper, which he Intituled, 'A Petition for the Vindication of two Publick Tye of two Common-Prayer, &c. occaſion'd by the late Ordinance for the Ejecting of Scandalous, &c. Miniſters, &c. as alſo 37 Queries, &c.' This Paper he Dedicated to the then Parliament, who, it ſeems, 'Reviewing this Ordinance,

The Protection in his Letters to the Judges of the Aſſizes, had, about that Time diredted that the Juſtices ſhou'd be excuſed to be particular's carefal to ſuppreſs Ale Houſes, and the Back of Common Prayer & and in this Ordinance the publick Uſe of it was ranked with Adultery, &c. See Sir Gaſcoigne's Petition, &c. to the Parliament.

* See that Dedication

There need no other Reflections on it, than thoſe made by that learned Perſon, in the Paper now mention'd; the Sum of which I ſhall therefore produce, and the rather, becauſe a great Part of them hold equally good againſt moſt of the other Methods, which they had all along Practiſed in the Diſpoſſeſſing of the Regular Clergy. As to this Ordinance therefore, he obſerves in the firſt Place, 'That being paſſed by 'no other Authority than that of the Protector and 'his Council, (and not by the Supream Governour, 'and the People Repreſentative) it was therefore 'contrary to Magna Charta: Or, if † this ſhould 'be allow'd for a Law, his late Majeſty and his 'Council muſt be abundantly juſtified againſt 'the Complaints (which yet were very Loud, 'and made by theſe very People themſelves) 'of pretended Illegalities in their Proceedings in 'this ſame Manner, only in Caſes of much leſs 'Moment and Concern; and that by the ſame 'Authority (or by a ſucceeding Governour and Councel) another Ordinance might as well be 'made to Eject the Commiſſioners themſelves 'who acted in this Ordinance, from their Eſ-'tates, and that too for the very Crime of acting 'in this Ordinance, or for ſuch other reputed 'Crimes as they ſhould think fit.

Petition, P. 11.

Of which there needs no other Proof than the ſtrict Obſervation of the Preamble to their own Act of 1656 (the Baſeneſs of which was given them, and many other Ordinances of the like Kind the Aſs to pity of Laws) in theſe Words: 'Whereas diverſe 'Acts and 'Ordinances 'have been made, without the Conſent of the People, &c. which is not according both Fundamental Laws of the Nation, and the Rights of the People— 'Be it enacted,' &c. Scob. Collect. Part 2. p. 339. See alſo the Dedication of Bushrell's Narrative. † p. 12.

'Nor would they be able in ſuch a Caſe to 'open their Lips, or object againſt it, without 'condemning their own Proceedings in acting by 'this Ordinance; That it would be at leaſt, equi-'table (if a real Hatred for Sin was the true 'Cauſe of their Proceedings) to paſs another Or-'dinance, to Eject others from their Eſtates for 'the ſame Crimes (eſpecially for greater ones) 'as well as the Clergy; or (if Faults in Clergymen are more heinous) that it would be 'reaſonable at leaſt to puniſh others in a propor-'tionable Degree: That the Power hereby lodg'd 'in Five Commiſſioners, being final, and with-'out any Appeal, was Extravagant, and might 'be of ill Conſequence, even to the Protector 'himſelf; That this Law did in Effect puniſh for 'Crimes committed, antecedent to the Law '(which is moſt abhorrent to all natural Ju-'ſtice) whilſt it ought firſt to have declared, that 'for the future ſuch and ſuch Offences ſhould 'have been puniſhed with Deprivation, &c. 'whereas on the contrary, it declar'd, that thoſe 'who had done ſo and ſo, ſhould be Ejected. 'Nor was this Ordinance the Reinforcement of 'any Law before in Being: For there were no 'Laws in Being, by which thoſe Crimes (I mean 'many of them) had been declared puniſhable 'with the Loſs of any Man's Freehold; and that 'under ſuch a Method of Proceeding, no Subject 'can be Secure in his Liberty, Eſtate, or even 'his Life its ſelf, is undeniable; That the Commiſſioners

P. 31.

P. 34.

P. 35, 36

P. 36, 37. Commissioners appointed by the Ordinance, were Lyman, and not a few among them of Inferiour Characters (the Ministers being only Assistant in some Cases;) whereas the Clergy of these Nations have in their peculiar Cases had the Privilege of Ecclesiastical Judges; and in Civil Matters, the Judges have been of the *Grav*ſt and most Learned Person in the Nation; That many of the Commissioners were declared Enemies to the Clergy, and some of them to the Ministry it self; That those among them of better Rank, were (as it was to be feared) put in only to Countenance the Reſt with their Names; being very unlikely to do it with their Preſence or Concurrence, (that too many of them might have Relations and Dependants, who wanted Livings, and that the Crimes (ſpecified by the Ordinance, were ſuch, as exceeded the abilities of many of them to Determine, having been matter of Diſpute, among Men of the greateſt Capacity, and of the Firſt Rank for Knowledge and Learning; as namely, what Degree of Drunking comes within the Bounds of Drunkenneſs, and what not; whether ſeveral Expreſſions (tho' Accounted by ſome for Oath-) may juſtly fall within the compaſs of Prophane Swearing; what is precisely a Breach of the Sabbath, and what not (ſome accounting Dreſſing Meat on that Day for ſuch;) who are the Profeſſors of ſtrict Religion and Godineſs (whilſt all the wild Sects pretend to it) and whether Reproving ſome of theſe, may not be Interpreted Scoffing at, and Reviling them; and what other Practices (beſides Weſtſon-Ales, &c.) are ſo Licentious, as to Encourage a Looſe Life, which by Five Commiſſioners may be made the allowing Youth in any Sports and Paſtimes; That the Miniſters Aſſiſtants were only for Colour, having no Power, only to Judge of Ignorance and Inſufficiency, and even in thoſe Caſes Counterbalanced with an equal Number of Laymen, that the Sufficiency of one Witneſs (tho' Back'd with the additional Clauſe of other concurrent Evidence, that is, in a manner what the Commiſſ. would call lo) was contrary both to the Laws of God and Man, and lay the Miniſter, his whole Livelihood, and Family at the Mercy of every the wildeſt Enthuſiaſt, or meaneſt and moſt proſligate Wretch in his Pariſh; and what Pariſh was there, that had not ſome of each ſort in it, eſpecially of the former Sort, at a Time, when a Regular Miniſtry had been ſo long declared to be Anti-chriſtian, and their Authority to be Tyranny and Uſurpation? And this by the way, render'd the beſt Miniſters moſt Obnoxious, and liable to their Accuſations, becauſe the moſt likely to provoke them, by Reprehending their Lives, or Preaching againſt their Errors; That the Clauſe of proceeding on Oath, if the Caſe did ſo Require (of which the Commiſſioners were ſole Judges) left them an Unlimited Power, to proceed without any Oath at all; which was a piece of Inhumane Oppreſſion, peculiar to thoſe Times only; That the Clauſe of allowing the Charges, &c. for Ejecting the Miniſter, was ſuch an Encouragement and Temptation to Informers, as made another Peculiarity of thoſe Times, and would probably make many Hundreds, yea, Thouſands of perjur'd Perſons, or Subornations of Perjury, before it puniſh'd one Miniſter for thoſe Crimes, which it muſt be remember'd, were two of thoſe Specified in the Ordinance; That ſome of the ſuppoſed Crimes of the Ordinance were in Truth none at all; ſuch as the Temperate Uſe of Cards; or, that the Uſe of the Common-Prayer-Book at leaſt, was not of that kind; That Adultery was ſufficiently Puniſh'd before by Death; and if a Miniſter found Guilty of this Crime by the Commiſſioners (tho' but by one Witneſs, and concurrent Evidence) were to be Ejected, he ought to be Hanged alſo; for if Guilty, why no Hanged? If not Guilty, why Ejected? That if a Perſon had been really Guilty ſome Years before, and had after Repented (y a, and Amended too) never ſo Deeply and Heartily, yet by this Ordinance he muſt be Puniſhed; That the being Guilty of any one of theſe Crimes, utterly deprived a Miniſter, both of his Livelihood, and the Exercife of his Functi-on (and yet ſurely neither one, nor many of ſuch Crimes, as ſome of thoſe were, that the Ordinance ſpecified, could invalidate his Function, or wholly diveſt him of it;) and let any one judge, if the Crime, and the Puniſhment be in this Caſe Proportioned; That here is no room for Admonition, and Tryal of Amendment; That the Ordinance might have thought of other Crimes, equally Heinous, as Pride, Covetouſneſs, Malice, Falſe Accuſation of the Brethren, Apoſtacy, Hereſie, Inſtability of Doctrine, Turning of Opinions with the Times, Running after the Errors of Balaam for Reward, and partaking in the Gainſaying of Core, *Prophe*ſying Lies, Neglect of Catechiſing, Contempt of God's Ordinances, particularly the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper, Violation of Oaths, Covenants, &c. That the Ordinance not having preciſely Determin'd, how often any Clergyman's omitting to Pray or Preach (which were declared to be Capital Crimes) ſhould render him Guilty, and bring him within the Laſh, nor what ſhould be deem'd Non-Reſidence, and what not, a ſtrange Latitude was thereby left to Five Commiſſioners, and every Clergyman in ſome meaſure brought in Danger; That the Proceedings of this Commiſſion in each County, would juſtifie all the Proceedings of the High-Commiſſion Court, &c. to much complained of ſome Years before; and that theſe Proceedings tended plainly to Root out all the Old Miniſters of Worth and Note, to Diſcourage Perſons of any Credit and Reputation, from Breeding up their Children for a Succeſſion, and (by that means) to make way for an Illiterate and Mechanical Miniſtry; and from thence by an eaſie Step, for the Increaſe (if it were poſſible) of thoſe Numberleſs Errors, Hereſies, and Blaſphemies, which had ſo manifeſtly Sprung up, on the firſt Ejections of the Regular Clergy; and in concluſion, to bring a much greater Scandal on the Proteſtant Religion, than the keeping in thoſe Miniſters (had they really been as bad, as they were Repreſented) could poſſible have done; and both to ſerve and gratifie in the moſt effectual Manner thoſe very Papiſts, which they had with ſo much Noiſe and Clamour pretended to Decry.

P. 38, 39.

P. 39, 40.

P. 41.

P. 42, 43.

P. 44, 45, 46, 47.

P. 48

P. 49, 50.

P. 50, 51.

But to come to the Execution of this Ordinance; concerning which, tho' I have received very few Notices, yet I could wanton them with leſs inconvenience in this Caſe, than in moſt others; becauſe Mr. Buſſnell, the Vicar of Box, in Wiltſhire (who was Ejected by them in 1656) hath left a very particular Narrative of the Dealings of theſe Commiſſioners with himſelf: And if a Judgment of their Proceedings in the other parts of the Kingdom may be made from this Inſtance, it will appear, that the Spirit of Injuſtice and Oppreſſion, which ſo plainly actuated the many

P. 52.

P. 53, 54.

P. 58.

See also the Admiſſion to the Benefice, preſcribed in Bathnole's Narrative.

See him in that County.

Printed in July 1660. Tranſcribed verbatim from the Copy written by his own Clerk, and Dedicated to the then Knights of the Shire for that County. See the Title Page, and Dedication of the Narrative.

it, which concerns the Accidentals from the Copy written by his own

Com-

Digitized by Google

Committees already Accounted for, was not after the course of so many Years abated; but continued still Vigorous and Unwearied, in the Persons Nominated to Execute the Commission I am now speaking of; or to express this Matter more particularly, in ' Mr. Bustnell's own Words, that tho' they Proceeded wholly by a Tyrannical Power, (even in their own Sense) yet 'their Actings by that Power, were far more Vile 'and Odious, than their Ordinance gave them Li- 'cence to:' forasmuch as 'the Ministers (saith he) were ever meddling with that, which they 'had nothing to do with at:' the Commissioners (as is now said) not only Violated that Ordinance, by which they Sate, and according to which they were to Act; but did it 'in many Particulars, 'as in Admitting and Countenancing such to 'Swear (if they appear'd against me) which 'their Ordinance excepted against; in excluding 'such Witnesses, if they appear'd for me (yea, after they had been Sworn) which by their Ordi- 'nance they were to admit of, and at last ma- 'king a peremptory Order, that such as would, 'might appear against me, but no more in my 'behalf; in endeavouring to Suppress many In- 'formations, which were taken upon Oath, and 'Discountenancing, Interrupting, and Thwarting 'with many Witnesses, who would have Depos- 'ed to the Infamy of their Witnesses:' and their Honest Clerk (Son to one of the Commissioners) 'Int'rd many Depositions by Halves; confoun- 'ded the Order in which they were taken, 'Shuffl'd up two Depositions into one, left out 'very material Clauses, which might have been 'to my Behoof; endeavour'd to infert such 'Words, which the Deponent never Spoke, 'which might have been to my Prejudice; left 'out, in his Copy deliver'd to me, a whole, 'yea, a very material Deposition, notwithstand- 'ing, he had formerly taken it, together with 'the Subscription of the Deponent: And I charge 'them all (saith he further) Commissioners, Mini- 'sters, Clerk, for Countenancing, and Encouraging, 'Infamous Persons, such who had Forsworn 'themselves; and touching some of themselves in 'their Hearing such, as appeared out of Malice 'by their own Confession, and were proved Guil- 'ty of Suborning, and of being Suborned to 'their Faces, yea, and such as we should have 'proved Guilty of Forgery likewise, had not 'these Commissioners and Ministers, by a Notorious 'Piece of Injustice, prevented it.'

See the Publication, and the Admonition to the Reader.

The Head of these Oppressions in Mr. Bustnell's Representation of them, is as followeth; By a Warrant grounded on the Ordinance, and Dated January 21, 1655, he was Summon'd to appear before the Commissioners at Marlborough, February 14, following, which he accordingly did; and waiting till Eight of the Clock at Night, had then a Copy of the Articles against him, which were to this Effect:

Narrative of the Proceedings of the Commissioners for Ejecting Scand. and Ign. Min. in the Case of Wak. Bustnell, Vic. of Bux, in Wiltshire, &c. p. 1, 2, 3.

' 1. That he was Guilty of Prophaning the 'Sabbath.

' 2. Of frequenting Inns and Ale-houses, and 'Drinking to Excess.

' 3. Of Using the Common-Prayer, and Bapti- 'zing with the Sign of the Cross.

' 4. Of Playing at Cards and Dice.

' 5. Of attempting the Chastity of his Servant- 'Maid.

' 6. Of being Disaffected to the Present Go- 'vernment.

These Articles had been preferred against him by one John Travers (commonly called Captain Travers) a Person that made a Trade of Informing, and got no small part of his Livelihood by it; being either Bribed by such Old Ministers, as he Threatned, or Rewarded by such New Ones, as he Assisted to get into Places made vacant by the Ejectment.

Narrative, p. 4, 5, 7, 8, 9.

Dr Chambers (which will be after mention'd) to an Answer to this Narrative of Mr. Bustnell, faith, that the Commissioners did not proceed on these Articles, given in by Travers (whom both the Doctor, and the Commissioners do in a full sense of it, an Infamous Fellow) but on some exhibited afterwards by another hand; But Mr. Bustnell in his Narrative, takes no Notice of any other Articles: On the Contrary, he often refers to these, and the Depositions of them, who Swore against him, as Articles grounded on them, but as it is likely, that these other Articles, mentioned by Dr. Chambers, were of the same Tenour, with those delivered in by Travers (and the Accuser, only for more Shame, and not the Accusations changed) so 'tis not likely there was any need of accounting Mr. Bustnell with it, and the Witnesses prepared before on Travers's Articles, served as well for those New Ones, or rather the Old Ones Transcribed, and given in by a New Person, for Form sake.

And Mr. Bustnell himself, had good Reason to think, that if he would have dealt with his Accuser in the same manner, his Prosecution might have drop't; but knowing his own Innocence, apprehending that Tampering would have been a sort of Pleading Guilty, and expecting common Justice (tho' to his cost, he afterwards found himself much mistaken in that Point) he determin'd to take a publick Trial; and the rather, that his Acquittance might thereby become the more Publick. Nor was Dr. Chambers (the First of the Assistant Ministers Nominated by the Ordinance, for this County) Unadvised of the Scandalous Character of this Promoter; and therefore took (as it was said) the Articles from him, with a Design to have Torn them in Pieces, because brought by such an infamous Hand; but finding at the Bottom of them the Names of some of his Godly Friends, he forbore to Tear them, and was afterwards content to Countenance the Information; notwithstanding he could not forbear to take Notice (as it was further said) that these Names were all written in the same Hand; from whence it must undeniably follow (as it after in Fact appeared) that it was a Forgery: Insomuch, that some of those, whose Names had been thus made use of, desiring at one of the Meetings of the Commissioners, a Sight of the Paper, were Deny'd it; and what is more, many of them afterwards certified to the Commissioners under their Hands, the quite Contrary to what had been advanced in these Articles; and some among them on their Oaths Depos'd in Mr. Bustnell's Favour; but it seems Dr. Chambers had this Salvo, when he first alter'd his Mind, that these Names might be wrote only as Memorandums, that such and such Persons, could speak to the Truth of what was contained in them.

Mr. Bustnell's next Summons, was to appear at Market-Lavington, April 28, 1656; and provided he had thoughts of making any Defence, he was Order'd at that Time, to bring his Witnesses with him; if at least, such a thing was possible; for as yet none had Sworn against him: Nor could he be sure, who would, or what they would Depose: And it is observable, that afterwards, when he knew his Accusers, and the Particulars alledged to support the Accusation, they then Rejected whom they pleas'd of his Witnesses, and at last made a peremptory Order, to admit no more in his Favour. But to proceed; Mr. Bustnell, purfuant to the Summons, resorts to Lavington; where there appeared against him Will. Pinchin, Pet. Webb, Tho. Powell, Mary (Wife of Henry) Workman, Jane Hendie, and Obadiah Cheltenham; who being Sworn, the First of them Deposed, that Mr. Bustnell, having ' Feasted his

P. 10, 11, 12.

P. 13.

Digitized by Google

'Friends on the Lord's Day; and the Company 'having Drank Liberally, one Thrift (who was 'one of them) was that Day killed in the 'Tower; that Mr. Buſhnell Frequented Ale-'Houſes in Pariſh Buſineſs, till within theſe Two 'Years; but that he never ſaw him Drunk; and 'that he Baptized by the Common-Prayer, but 'without the Sign of the Croſs.' And (probably
P. 12. to give this Depoſition the greater Weight) the Fellow, tho' known to have a chief Hand in the Proſecution, ſhewed a ſeeming Unwillingneſs to be produced as an Evidence againſt his Miniſter.

But as to the Depoſition it ſelf, it muſt be known, that Will. Pinching, who made it, that
P. 14. very Day to which he Swore, was not at Box, but at Broughton, about Four or Five Miles off (and that too, probably prophaning the Sabbath at a Revel; for it was then the Revel-Day at Broughton) and thus much the Fellow himſelf then owned on Oath, before the Commiſſioners: And therefore the whole of his Evidence could amount to no more than Heaſay or Conjecture: Beſides that, he was manifeſtly Perjured, in Swearing directly to what he neither ſaw nor heard. And whether ſuch a Circumſtance was not of it ſelf enough to ſet aſide this, and all the reſt that he Swore, let any one judge. At the ſame Time he depoſed alſo, that it was then the Mid-lent-Sunday, and that Mr. Buſhnell did not Preach in the Afternoon; Imputing it to his exceſſive Drinking: But it muſt be known, that this latter part of his Depoſition was not in the Copy, which the honeſt Clerk delivered out; and that it was either omitted to be entred; or what is more probable, expunged afterwards, for Reaſons which will appear by and by.

P. 14, 15. Whilſt this Fellow's Affidavit was in taking, Mr. Byfield was obſerved to be very buſie, as well with the Evidence, as the Clerk, directing one how to Swear, and the other how to Enter; alledging to the Clerk, that ſuch and ſuch Things would not amount to a Charge; and that to Enter ſo and ſo, would make the latter Part of the Depoſition contradict the Former. And it muſt be noted by the Way, that tho' the Miniſters were by the Ordinance appointed Aſſiſtants only to the Commiſſioners, and that too in no other Caſes than thoſe of Ignorance and Inſufficiency; yet Mr. Byfield (who was never Abſent at either of Mr. Buſhnell's 9 Appearances) See alſo P. 216. intermeddled more in the Matter of the Scandal, than all the other Commiſſioners beſides; it being Cuſtomary with him to encourage ſome Witneſſes, Thwart, Threaten and turn back others; forbid the Clerk to give Copies of the Depoſitions, &c. altho' in that which was his own proper Buſineſs, Mr. Buſhnell did not Remember that he ever asked ſo much as one ſingle Queſtion. See alſo P. 321.

But to Return to Pinchin, the Evidence, tho'
P. 18,19,20. he now depos'd, that it was Mid-lent-Sunday when Thrift was kill'd; yet afterwards, at another Appearance at Marlborough, he could only Swear, that it was 'betwixt Candlemas and 'Eaſter:' Whereas, on Search of the Regiſter, it appear'd to have been on the 13th of September, which Mr. Byfield himſelf, who examin'd the Matter, could not forbear ſaying, was 'nothing 'near it.' However, the honeſt Clerk, to help him out, was pleas'd to obſerve, that this was only a 'Miſtake in a Circumſtance.' It muſt now be further noted alſo, that this ſame Fellow had Sworn, as a further Charge on Mr. Buſhnell, that he had taken 6 s. and 8 d. for 'Preaching 'a Funeral-Sermon, on a Sunday in the Afternoon, 'for one Hodges of his Pariſh;' but as ill-Luck would have it, the Pariſh-Regiſter, which was on this Occaſion likewiſe produced and examin'd, made it appear, that Hodges was buried (and the Funeral-Sermon was known to be preach'd at the ſame Time) the very Afternoon when Thrift was killed; and yet Pinchin had before depos'd, that Mr. Buſhnell did not Preach that Afternoon, becauſe (as he conceiv'd) he had render'd himſelf unfit by Drinking.

As to the Remainder of this Affidavit, Mr. P. 11, 16.
Buſhnell cou'd not avoid being at Ale Houſes, on 'Pariſh Buſineſs,' when the Pariſh Meetings were appointed there; and at Box, a Room was reſerved in the Pariſh Houſe, on Purpoſe. They might, as Mr. Buſhnell well obſerves in another Place (but on a like Occaſion) have as well ac- P. 26 cuſed him of frequenting Inns and Ale-houſes, in attending theſe Commiſſioners, who alway ſat at a Publick Houſe: And in which Attendance he Taking in his other Charges alſo.
ſpent more Money (ten Times told) than ever he had in all the Ale-Houſes beſides, ſince he was Vicar of Box. The Fellow in his Depoſi- P. 21, 22, 24.
tion, likewiſe mention'd two of thoſe Gentlemen, with whom Mr. Buſhnell (till within two Years paſt) uſed to ſit and Drink; one of whom was known to be a very temperate Man, and at that Time ſo Infirm, that he could not have Drank hard, altho' he had been never ſo much inclin'd to it; and the other, (as was certified to the Commiſſioners, from the Regiſter-Book of the Pariſh) had been Dead and Buried for about Two Years of that Time, in which the Affidavit plainly implied Mr. Buſhnell's Tipling with him.

As to that Part of the Oath, which concern'd P. 15.
his Baptizing by the Common-Prayer, it muſt be known, that this Will. Pinchin very ſeldom came to Church; and when he did, hardly ever above once ſtaid till the Time, in which the Children uſed to be Baptized.

After this, another Perſon was Sworn, but his P. 15, 16.
Oath is of no Conſideration as yet; and therefore the next Evidence I muſt take Notice of, is Obadiah Cheltenham; who depos'd, 'that he had 'ſeen Mr. Buſhnell in Two Ale Houſes ſeveral 'Times (from five Years paſt, till within two 'Years) but never ſaw him drink to Exceſs:' Nor, it ſeems, ever ſaw him drink at all, at leaſt, ſome of thoſe Times: For at one of them (as himſelf owned) he only look'd into the Room where Mr. Buſhnell was, and that too (as I underſtand it) at a Viſitation Dinner; but it ſeems, that he Swore ſomething more (tho' the Clerk did not think fit to put into Mr. Buſhnell's Copy) which was, that Mr. Buſhnell had 'uſed the 'Prayer before Sermon ſo often, that the Boys 'had learned it, and laught at it;' as doubtleſs the Reader will likewiſe at this Acculation. Nor P. 21, 22.
was he contented with what he had depoſed himſelf; and therefore prompted another to Swear, that Mr. Buſhnell preach'd 'unprofitable Doc-'trine:' And himſelf and his Brother Evidence Pinchin, did earneſtly beſeech Mr. Hern (who at laſt ſucceeded on the Ejectment of M. Buſhnell) to come and Preach Chriſt among them; whilſt, as Mr. Hern himſelf after told Mr. Buſhnell, they did this only to ſerve ſome Intereſt of their own: For Pinchin ſeldom came to Church, and Cheltenham (as it was ſaid) frequented the Meetings of the Anabaptiſts.

The next Witneſs produced, was, The. Powell; P. 29, 4 who depos'd, 'That ſometimes, till within Four 'Years paſt, he had ſeen Mr. Buſhnell at Raynold's 'and Bavij's Ale-houſes in Box, but never ſaw 'him drink to Exceſs; that till within the ſame 'Compaſs of Time he had Baptized by the 'Common-Prayer; and that about Two Years be-'fore, Preaching againſt Malice, he had ſaid, 'that malicious Perſons were the Devil's Nymphs, 'and wiſhed them with him for their Wages.'

Now

Digitized by Google

Now this Fellow had not been at the former of these Houses for Six Years before this Time of his Swearing: And whereas, he added, that he knew not 'what Business might draw Mr. 'Busbnell' to these Places: he might, it seems, have remember'd, that Mr. Busbnell was once drawn to the other of these Houses, to compose a Difference betwixt this very Powell and a Neighbour, whom he had maliciously Prosecuted: And at another Time he was oblig'd to go thither, to Collect Charity for a Fire at Marlborough, when they found this very Fellow there, tho' on a Sunday, with a Pot of Ale before him; and besides these Times, Mr. Busbnell could not readily Remember that he ever saw him there in all his Life: And (to observe that by the Way) tho' he was particularly Diligent in Collecting that Charity, and gave more himself, and his Family towards it, than all the Twenty Two Witnesses, which were at several Times produced against him; yet, in Return, among those Commissioners, who were most active and busie to turn Mr. Busbnell out of Doors, were some of the very Men whose Houses (and that too the same in which at that Time they laid their own Heads, and were sheltered from the Weather) had been rebuilt with that Charity. But to go on with the rest of this Deposition, Powell as seldom came to Church, as Pinchin did, and never, to Mr. Busbnell's Remembrance, stay'd till the Sacrament of Baptism was administer'd. And for the last Clause of this Deposition, Mr. Busbnell never made Use of that Expression, 'the Devil's 'Nymphs;' (nor will any one, who hath read his Narrative, believe he could be Guilty of such a piece of Nonience) but probably Will. Pinchin, who instructed Powell, had told him the Devil's Imps, which he mistook for Nymphs, and so deposed it. Nor could Mr. Busbnell, after the utmost Recollection, and Search among his Notes, think of any Thing that should yield the least Shadow or Surmize for this Accusation; but that some Years before, Preaching a Sermon on the Sin against the Holy Ghost, he exhorted his Parishioners, not only to avoid the plain Commission of it, but even the Approaches towards it; one of which he told them was Malice; adding withal, to this Effect, 'That as such Men did the Devil's 'Work, so it was great Mercy in God, that they 'were not with him for their Wages.' Now, about this Time, as well as Mr. Busbnell could remember, Powell had maliciously Prosecuted Reynolds for Selling Ale on the Sabbath Day, and had carried on the Suit (in the same manner as they did now against Mr. Busbnell) by Swearing at Hearings; and probably Powell's Conscience then finding him out, he might apprehend himself to be aimed at; and therefore in Return, now hoped to make a Charge of it.

At this Meeting of the Commissioners also, was carefully taken the Deposition of Mary Workman, but wholly left out of the Copy, given to Mr. Busbnell by the Clerk, of which there will not be any need to Affirm a Reader, when it is known, Cheltenham had Sworn, 'That Mr. Busbnell had, 'within a Quarter of a Year, signed Two Children 'with the Sign of the Cross;' which this Woman (who was a Midwife, and from whom, in Relation to the Charge of that Kind, they promised themselves many Discoveries) as he affirm'd, 'then held at the Font; and these Chil- 'dren he said, were Mr. Speke's, and Mr. Snell's; whereas the former of them had been Baptized almost a Year, before the Ordinance, by which the Commissioners then Sat, was pass'd, and published. It must be further added, that whilst one of the Witnesses was Deposing to the Charge of using the Common-Prayer, and Baptizing, &c. Mr. Byfield asked, whether he used 'Glory be to the 'Father,' and in the Baptism, Seeing 'this Child 'is Regenerate;' which doubtless therefore, he thought would make a good Article against him.

About Eleven of the Clock, this Night, Mr. Busbnell was dismiss'd for that Time, but after Summon'd to make his Third Appearance, May 8, following, at Marlborough; and thither, when the Day came, he betakes himself; where he then finds the Number of Witnesses against him now increased to Eleven; which being Sworn, Mr. Byfield moves, that Mr. Busbnell's Witnesses, (for he had then brought many) should be turned out of the Room, alledging, 'that it was not meet that 'they should hear what the other Witnesses testified:' Nor was it in his Opinion meet, that Mr. Busbnell himself should be informed of it in such a manner as he ought: for he had likewise given Order before, that he should not (as yet) 'have 'a Copy of their Depositions;' but when Mr. Busbnell's Witnesses were at last called for, all the other Witnesses were not only allowed to be present, but permitted, yea, and encouraged to 'contradict, controul, except against, and turn back 'whom they pleased of them.

The chief of those who now appeared against him, were his old Friends, Pinchin, and Powell; who anew Depose, 'that about Seven Years since' (observe how far back they went for Scandal) 'Mr. Busbnell drank so hard on the Lord's Day '(as they then conceived) that he could not read 'Plain:' Now one of these Fellows, at the former meeting of the Commissioners, depos'd, 'That 'he could not say he ever saw him Drunk;' and the other, 'That he never saw him drink to Ex- 'cess;' and yet now both joyn in Swearing, that he had 'drank so hard' as they conceived, that he could not 'read plain.' But it may be, they perceived the former Affidavits did not come up to the matter, and therefore they now found themselves under a Necessity of rising a Step higher. Add to this, that neither of these Fellows then saw him drink one Drop; for he came from his own House, where neither of them were present, nor did any one Person in the Congregation take Notice, it seems, of Mr. Busbnell's Faltering. Besides these Two attentive Hearers. How diligent the former of them used to be, may be judged by this Instance; that at this same Time Deposing, that Mr. Busbnell had, at the Churching of his (Pinchin's) Wife, used some of the Common Prayer, and being ask'd what it was, answer'd, he had prayed 'that the Moon should not 'burn her by Day, nor the Sun by Night:' And how Zealous he was against prophaning the Lord's Day, by Drinking, will be likewise guessed at, when it is further said, that he hath been known to sit up at his own House with Company Drinking, Singing, Dancing, and Quarrelling, all Saturday Night, until Sunday Morning.

To give a Countenance to this Accusation of their Deposition, they added, that Two Persons (whom they named) came from his House with him; and these you are to suppose, were his Fellow-Companions; but the one of them was Mr. Busbnell's Uncle, and the other his Brother-in-Law, Two Sober and Civil Persons; and they might still have past'd for such, had they not then (as it was further depos'd) gotten High Colours; but the Misfortune was, that being of a Ruddy Complexion, they were seldom seen otherwise, than with such a Colour: Besides, if every one that hath an High Colour after Dinner, must have drank hard, the Commissioners themselves that very Day had plied the Bottle pretty warmly; for some of them lookt very Rosie after Dinner: But in Truth, this Part of the Deposition

P. 31, 32.

P. 30, 31 P. 49.

P. 42, 43.

P. 48.

P. 49, 50

P. 30, 31, 32

P. 51, 52

Digitized by Google

positions was in their own fence so very Trifling, that either it was not taken by the Clerk, or if taken, was expunged, being wholly omitted in the Copy which was order'd to be delivered to Mr. Busbnell.

P. 55,56,57. After this Will. Pinchin Deposeth separately, 'That Mr Busbnell, Five or Six Years since' (so far back are they ſtill forced to go, and if allowed to be a real matter of Scandal, did however imply, that he was at leaſt, amended ſince) 'had been at a Stabball-Match with Mr. Ed Long 'and others, and that they after went to an 'Ale-houſe (this Depon nt being one of the 'Company) where they Drank very Hard, and 'Healths were put Round, which Mr. Busbnell 'Drank with his Hat off, and did then Drink 'exceſſively, as this Deponent conceives.' As a Former Appearance he had Sworn, he could not Remember, that ever he ſaw Mr. Busbnell Drunk; but now he Depoſes, he was in the Company when Mr. Busbnell Drank exceſſively: It muſt ſurely be a pretty nice Caſuiſt, that can Diſtinguiſh (eſpecially upon Oath) be'wixt being Drunk, and Drinking exceſſively; but poſſibly, as Second Thoughts are Beſt, to his Memory had been now Refreſh'd. It uſed to be ſo with him; for in the Year 1646, he Swore, he had heard, that one Mr. Speke 'Rode in Arms in 'the King's Quarters;' but in the Year 1656, he Swore, that he 'ſaw him Ride Armed in a 'Troop of the King's Part;' altho' that Gentleman, to his Dying Day, ſolemnly called God to Witneſs, the Fellow 'had Sworn Falſly againſt 'him.' Nor was this all; for at another meeting of the Commiſſioners afterwards, he would have perſuaded them, that his Depoſition againſt Mr. Buſbnell amounted ſtill higher, in that the Clerk had not done him Juſtice in the Entry; nor had the Clerk any other way of Vindicating himſelf, than by making this Shameful Diſcovery, that he was ſo far from giving this Witneſs any ſuch Diſcouragement, that he had in private given him the Liberty of Reviewing his Depoſitions, 'with a Power to add, alter, or amend, what he 'pleaſed,' and that he after Enter'd them exactly, as they were thus left him.

P. 58.

P. 61, 62. It muſt be further known, that when Mr. Buſbnell, came to Croſs-Examine Pinchin, on this Depoſition, and deſired him to be particular, as to the Perſons in Company, when they 'Drank 'ſo hard;' he Named Mr. Long, Mr. Dackes, and Mr. Buſbnell's Brother: This Mr. Buſbnell deſired might be Noted down, and Dr. Chambers, who was near the Clerk, told him, it was accordingly done; but when the Clerk gave out the Copy, it was only ſaid thus; Mr. Long, &c. —— the Reaſon of which was plainly this; Mr. Long was then Dead, and &c. —— could not be produced, as an Evidence; but Mr. Dackes, and Mr. Buſbnell's Brother might, had they been mention'd; for they were both Alive, and being ſhortly afterwards before the Commiſſioners, were ready to Vindicate both themſelves, and Mr. Buſbnell.

But as to the Subſtance of the Affidavit, what if Mr. Buſbnell was at a Stabball-Match? He was there only a Spectator; the Perſons who Play'd, were Gentlemen of as good Rank and Repute, as moſt in the Neighbourhood; and had been his Schoolfellows, and Acquaintance in the Univerſity: And was this a Crime ſufficient to make him a Scandalous Miniſter, P. 63,64,65. and to Diſpoſſeſs him of his Freehold? And as for their Drinking, Mr. Buſbnell, did probably go with the Gentlemen to the Ale-houſe, where they uſed to Dine; but had he been never ſo much Diſpoſ'd to Drink to Excels, he would certainly have forborn it in Pinchin's Company, who was a Fellow, that of all others, he Shunned and Avoided, on account of his Infamous Character. In the mean time, the Malice of the Fellow is very obſervable on this Occaſion; that in order to Frame an Accuſation again Mr. Buſbnell, he is willing to appear Guilty himſelf; for he confeſſeth himſelf to have been one of the Company, when they 'drank to Excels.' Nor is this the worſt of it; for he Belyd, as well as Bedpauter'd himſelf, by that Accuſation; there having been in Truth no ſuch thing, as Hard Drinking there.

P. 66, 67. After Will. Pinchin, one Nichol. Spencer, is produced in Evidence, who Swears 'That he 'hath been of with Mr Buſbnell at Ale-houſes, 'IN PARISH BUSINESS, and 'NOT AT OTHER TIMES; 'nor did he EVER SEE HIM DRINK 'EXCESSIVELY; but ſaith, that there 'was met by accident, and then Diſcourſed of 'Pariſh Buſineſs:' This is the Whole of his Evidence Verbatim; but after we have the Accuſation, we are ſtill at a loſs, where to find the Crime, unleſs it be, that they met there by accident; nor will Mr. Buſbnell's being met there, Reflect any Scandal upon him, when it is further ſaid, that it muſt be known, the Fellow who kept the Houſe, was the Clerk of the Pariſh; and ſurely the Miniſter might have many Innocent Occaſions of going to him: They were doubtleſs hard put to it for Real Scandal, when they are forced to take up with ſuch Accuſations, as theſe are; and if there were nothing elſe to prove Mr. Buſbnell's Innocence, this Single Depoſition is enough to do it.

And this was the Houſe, to which moſt of them Swore, in order to prove him an Ale-houſe Haunter.

P. 67, 68. But how Venial ſoever this Crime might be, there is a Mortal One behind (which, no doubt, Diffas'd the Poyſon on all the Reſt) and now ready to be produced, in the Evidence of the next Deponent; who was one Will Clement, who Swears 'That in the Time of the Wars' (poſſibly 'Eight or Ten Years before) he found Mr. Buſbnell at * Reynolds's Ale-houſe; and Reynolds telling him, the King had loſt a Garriſon, Mr. 'Buſbnell Struck his Breaſt, and ſaid, he was 'Sorry for it.' Now this Clement, was Will. Pinchin's Father-in-Law; and was poſſibly, by his Influence brought to appear againſt Mr. Buſbnell: And that it may further appear, how ready he was to come into any methods, to Ruine Mr. Buſbnell, it muſt be known, that meeting with one Morley, and Saluting him with many Careſſes, contrary to his uſual Behaviour, and then entring into Diſcourſe with him, he told him, that the Miniſter of Box, was not Right (which plainly ſhews, what was at the Bottom of the Proſecution) and they were 'Reſolved to 'Oust him;' but ſaith he, the chief Witneſs we have againſt him is one Saunders, who hath 'Done you an Injury' (a ſmall one indeed: For he had only Broken Open, and Rifled his Houſe) and would not 'appear againſt 'him,' left it ſhould 'take off the Credit' of his Teſtimony; and therefore had Clement's own Teſtimony been never ſo True (as perhaps it was) and that Truth never ſo Criminal (as it is ſure it was not) yet certainly a Fellow under ſuch Circumſtances, and who had ſhewn ſo good an Inclination for Miſchief, ought to have had little or no Credit given to him.

* The Pariſh-Clerk, as is poſſeſſion ſaid.

Of whom more hereafter.

There are no leſs than Seven Witneſſes of P. 69, 70. this Day's appearance ſtill behind; but they will not much enlarge the Account of this preſent Seſſion: For being all 'Sworn, and Exa'mined upon the ſeveral Articles, they had not 'one Word to ſay to either:' At which the Commiſſioners wondring (as well they might) aſked, why ſo many of them were Summoned; but

Digitized by Google

but they might have anſwer'd themſelves: For doubtleſs it was to raiſe an Odium, and have it given out, that no leſs than Eleven of his Pariſhioners appear'd, to Witneſs againſt him; and I make no Queſtion, but in this ſame manner it was, that many of thoſe mention'd in Mr. Wood's Century, were Condemn'd (as he affirms in the Preface) by the Teſtimony of at leaſt Six, or Seven Witneſſes.

But to proceed with Mr. Buſhnell; It was now expect'd by ſome then preſent, that this Seſſion would have put an End to his Affair; conſidering, that the utmoſt produced againſt him was of ſo little conſideration; and that ſo much Malice plainly appeared to have been at the Bottom; of which Dr. Chambers himſelf was ſo Senſible, that he could not forbear to own as much in Private, notwithſtanding Openly and Publickly he Countenanc'd the Proceedings: In that Regard going, as Mr. Buſhnell obſerves, beyond Pilate himſelf, who, when he ſaw that the Jews for Envy had delivered our Bleſſed Saviour into his Hands, fought for that very Reaſon to acquit him.

P. 70,71,72, 73,74,75. At this Time Mr. Buſhnell Requeſted, that he might have the Liberty to invalidate Will. Pinchin's Evidence (becauſe that Fellow was at the Head of his Proſecutors) by ſhewing upon Oath 'what a manner of Man he had formerly 'been towards Grandfather-in-Law, and Grand-'mother, Father and Mother, Father-in-Law 'and Mother-in-Law, Uncle and Aunt, Bro-'ther and Siſter; that he had Barbarouſly Us'd 'him (Mr. Buſhnel) and Threaten'd him further 'Miſchief, for no other Cauſe, as Mr. Buſhnell 'could imagine, than Entertaining, Lodging, 'Relieving, Clothing, Furniſhing with Money, 'his Father, Mother and Brother, when he had 'Beaten them out of Doors; —— and that he 'had been ſeveral times Complain'd of, and 'Convicted, before ſeveral Juſtices of the Peace, 'of ſuch Horrid and Barbarous Crimes, as 'have ſcarce been Acted ſince Cain, Ham and Abſalom.' But Dr. Chambers, (tho' he knew moſt of it to be True, or rather perhaps for that Reaſon) was amongſt the moſt forward to oppoſe it; Alledging, that there had indeed been ſome 'ſmall Differences,' but they were 'now Com-'poſed:' Nor was Pinchin's own Guilty Conſcience wanting, to give him warning of it; and therefore he had got in readineſs a long Paper, which being deliver'd in to the Clerk, was then formally Read, and was to the ſame Effect with the Apology which Dr. Chambers had before made for him: This Paper was written by Pinchin himſelf; nor was it Supported or Atteſted (as I rightly apprehend) by the Hand or Teſtimony of any one Perſon whatſoever; and it was ſurely the firſt Time, that ever an Accuſed Perſon was allowed to be his own Compurgator: But ſuch was the Juſtice of thoſe Times, an Innocent Clergyman muſt be Pronounced Guilty, and his Criminal Accuſer ſhall be adjudged Innocent, each reſpectively, not only without, but contrary to Unconteſtable Evidence: However, both Dr. Chambers, and Pinchin, affirm, that the ſmall Differences, which had been in the Family, were now Compoſed: How ſmall theſe Differences were, may be gueſs'd at from what hath been already ſaid: And as to what concerns the Compoſing of them, he had indeed by 'Friglits, Threats, Curſes, Blows, Gripings 'by the Throat, Drawing Knives, and conti-'nual Horrid Vexations,' helped to give his Father his Quietus about Three Years before; but the Children and Servants could Witnes, that after the giving in of this Teſtimony, there were ſtill bitter Heart-burnings, Quarrellings, and ſometimes Blows and Kicks in the Family; only when theſe fell upon the Mother, ſhe was forced to be more private, than formerly, in her Complaints; and at laſt, Pinchin uſed a means not only to force her out of her Houſe, but out of the Country likewiſe.

At this Time another Paper was alſo produc'd (as the Complaint of an Honeſt (at leaſt, if not a Godly) Man, 'that he had Lived ſo long un-'der Mr. Buſhnell's Miniſtry, and was not Pro-'fited:' This Honeſt Godly Man was one William Sergeant, who had (by Report) run thro' all Opinions, and being then Settled in that of a Quaker, Dy'd at laſt in the Jail at Ilcheſter, having been thrown into it, for Refuſing to pay his Tithes: And (to obſerve that by the way) this was the Perſon, who had wrote over thoſe Articles againſt Mr. Buſhnell, which were preſented by J. Travers, to whom he was Brother-in-Law: And now Mr. Buſhnell expected his Doom ſhould have been pronounced; but poſſibly they were willing to do it with ſome better ſhew of Juſtice, than the Evidence, which had been hitherto Produced, would give them (nor is it improbable, that Will. Pinchin, had promiſed ſtill to mend his Hand the next time) and therefore all the further concern he had in the remainder of this Day's Proceedings, was, to pay an expenſive Reckoning, and to expect a further Summons. P. 71, 76

Which was accordingly ſent him demanding his Appearance at Cain, June 4, 1656; and thither alſo he Reſorts at the Time preſcribed him, where Will. Pinchin (who had hitherto ſerved in the Double Capacity of both Evidence and Solliciter, but was now content to Act in the Former of thoſe Stations only) had gotten together no leſs than Sixteen Witneſſes. It is not improbable, the Commiſſioners had Suggeſted to him, that the Evidence which had as yet been produced, fell much ſhort of their Expectations; and that therefore he muſt try to make ſomething more of it againſt the next Seſſion: In order to which, he had raked ſeveral Pariſhes, and ſome Counties, for ſuch as ſhould Swear more to the Purpoſe; ſome of which (as it was offer'd to be prov'd to the Commiſſioners) he had Suborn'd, and others he had been Tampering with: However, they were all Sworn; and that their Teſtimonies might not be Diſproved, Mr. Buſhnell's Witneſſes are once more Turned, and Kept out of the Room, at the Motion of Mr. Byfield; tho' it muſt be owned, they turned out two of the Witneſſes which came againſt him alſo: For it comes now to be obſerved, that there were among the reſt of the Forces, which Pinchin had muſter'd up a couple of Quakers, (one of them, Will. Sergeant juſt now mention'd) who refuſing to pay the Commiſſioners the Worſhip of their Hats, and to be put to their Oaths, they could not paſs muſters; and therefore were not allowed to tarry in the Room; which occaſion'd, as it ſeems, ſome Tumult: But tho' meer Shame would not permit them to make uſe of ſuch Evidence; tho' Sergeant came thither (as it was reported) to have ſpoken againſt the Calling of the Miniſtry it ſelf, and had nothing elſe to ſay; and tho' he ſcatter'd ſome Printed Papers at that time, which gave great Offence to the Commiſſioners; yet the Articles againſt Mr Buſhnell, wrote over by this Fellow, and the Teſtimony given in under his Hand, that he could not Proſic by him, were Receiv'd, Hugg'd up, and Filed againſt him. P. 79,80,81; 82,83.

Digitized by Google

P. 84,85,86, 87. But to come to those; whose Depositions were accepted: The first of them was John Travers, who Swears, 'That about Four Years since, 'having by Order taken up some Malignants 'Horses at Box, several Addresses were made to 'him by Mr. Bushnell, Major Hunt, and others, 'who came all together from Mr. Bushnell's 'House, having there drank very hard, being 'high in Beer, as this Deponent conceiv'd; 'where, in the first Place, we have another Con-'ceit: For he did not see either of them drink one Drop: But to pass by that, this Four Years past was Eight Years before (namely, in the Year 1648,) and so the whole of the Accusation amounts to this, that about Eight Years before, Mr. Bushnell was conceived to be in Drink: Besides, the Order he pretended to, ran in the Name of Mr. Edward Stokes, but was utterly disowned by that Gentleman, whose Name had been thus abused: So that the Witness now before us, was guilty of Forgery and Horse-Stealing, and on these Accounts a very credible one: But the whole Truth of the formal Story here put forth, was this; Travers (who was at that Time a Soldier) and some others, had seized the Horses of one Mr. Collier (Brother-in-Law to Major Hunt) who applied to Col. Eyre, for his Assistance in getting them again; and for this end, came with Major Hunt and his Lady, and Two of her Sisters, to Mr. Bushnell's House, where they expected to have found Col. Eyre at that Time; but missing of him there, 'they did not tarry so much as to sit down, or 'drink (as it was offered to have been deposed 'by Two Witnesses, but they could not be 'heard;) and taking Mr. Bushnell with them, went directly to another House, where they found the Colonel, and Travers with him: Nor was there the least Appearance of any one's having drank hard, save that Mr. Collier was in a violent Passion, for having his Horses Stolen; and would most certainly have given the Thief his due, had he met him in another Place. I must add, concerning this Deponent, that he had been a P. 88 Soldier, a Contribution-Gatherer, a Plunderer, an Informer, and a kind of Agent for the Sequestrators (all gainful Trades in those Times) notwithstanding which, he dy'd (as it was said) miserably poor: And to much for this Deponent.

P. 89, 90. The next is the Mother of Will. Pinchin; and she depoteth, 'That about Two Years and a 'Half since, Jane Hendy told her, that Mr. Bush-'nell had attempted to lie with her; and withal 'said, she did think, that most of your Parsons 'were filthily given: And that about Two Years 'since Mr. Bushnell Baptized Mr. Speke's Child 'by the Book of Common-Prayer, and signed it 'with the Sign of the Cross.' Not to observe how well the Two Parts of this Deposition are suited; namely, Fornication, and Baptizing by the Common-Prayer-Book, it must be own'd, that the Former of these was more to the Purpose than any Thing that had been hitherto Sworn, had it amounted to more than a bare Hearsay. But it must now be known, that in Hopes to have made something of this Story, this very Jane Hendy, on whom the wicked Attempt was said to be made, had been Summon'd as 'a Witness 'for the Common-wealth' the first Day of Mr. Bushnell's Appearance; and instead of Swearing any Thing of what they hoped for; on the contrary, she then depos'd, 'That she never heard of 'any lascivious Talk from Mr. Bushnell, nor did 'he ever attempt to lie with her; nor did she 'Remember that she ever spoke of any such 'Thing to Jane Pinchin, or to any other Per-'son; to the Truth of which her old and furrow'd Face did at the same Time give in no small Additional Testimony: But Dr. Chambers being told, that the Report of Mr. Bushnell's Attempt on this Woman came from Goody Pinchin, did not stick at that Time to declare, in Opposition both to the Oath, and Countenance of the Woman, that if Goody Pinchin had affirm'd it, 'he 'was bound in Conscience to believe her.' And it is not improbable, that this Declaration of the Doctor's, was no small Encouragement to Will. Pinchin, to bring in his Mother, to make the Deposition now mention'd, al tho' it had been utterly confuted before ever it was thus made.

There was one Circumstance particularly Grie- P. 89. 90 vous, in this Goody Pinchin's appearing against P. 97.
Mr. Bushnell; for both herself and Husband had been turned out of Doors by this wicked Son of theirs, and they were received and relieved by Mr. Bushnell: And this Charity of his was the chief Occasion of Will. Pinchin (the Son's) malice against him, and of the very Prosecution under which he now Laboured, and in which this ungrateful Woman now appear'd as his Accuser; tho' he could not indeed well expect other; for the had refused to acknowledge the Receipt of Several and some of them) considerable Sums of Money, which Mr. Bushnell had formerly furnish'd her with. Nor must it be omitted, that being ask'd, if the did herself believe, that Mr. Bushnell had attempted that Wickedness, which her Deposition accused him of, she, (after some Boggling) answer'd, 'She could not Judge; al-'tho' not long before in Discourse, where this Matter was mention'd, she had frankly declar'd to this Effect, that 'she believ'd he was wrong'd,' as he declares most soberly in the Presence of P. 97,98,99.
God, he was: And the only Ground (if it may deserve that Name) for such a foul Accusation, was, probably either this which followeth, or none at all. Jane Hendy (the Woman with whom it is said Mr. Bushnell would have committed this Wickedness) had been his Servant; and during the Time she lived with him, there came a Person to his House, who at least, pretended himself to be a Clergyman come from Ireland, where he had suffer'd great Losses: Whereupon Mr. Bushnell allow'd him to preach in his Church, and to make a Collection there to support him, and withal lodged him in his House that Night; but rifling several Trunks and Boxes that were in the Chamber, and being gone very early in the Morning, a few Days after, they found the Things wanting, and among them some that belonged to this Servant of Mr. Bushnell; who speaking of her Loss to some of the Neighbours, one of them said, he afterwards saw this Fellow sleeping under an Hedge, with a couple of strouling Wenches; and Jane Hendy then Hearing of it, told the Story to Joan Pinchin; who saying, that she could not 'believe such a 'Thing of one of his Profession,' the Wench replying with some warmth about this Fellow, by whom she had thus suffer'd, added, among other Things, 'Why, your Parsons' (but naming Mr. Bushnell in particular, no more than she did Dr. Chambers, or Mr. Byfield) 'may be fleshly given 'as well as other Men.'

The next Deposition in Order is, that of one P. 101, 102.
Will. Cottle, to this Effect, 'That when Thrift 104, 105
'was killed, he conceiv'd from the manner of his 'Ringing, that he was in Drink, but knew not 'where he had it; and that about Two Years 'since he saw Mr. Bushnell coming from Corsham; and observing that he bended to and fro upon his 'Horse, he after asked Brewer the Inn-keeper (from whose House Mr. Bushnell then came) 'what he had done to him; who reply'd, That 'Mr. Bushnell was well enough then, when he went 'from him; but that he used to fuddle a Cup there 'now and then.' In Return to the former Part of this

Digitized by Google

this Affidavit, R. Cottle (Brother to this very Witness, and brought thither as an Evidence against Mr. Bushnell, d. prov'd, that being Torys ringing two or three Pulls, he 'did not conceive 'he was in Drink,' and that but the very Week then last past, he met the Person, who delivered over the Rope to him, and asked him about it, and that Person also declared himself of the 'same 'Opinion.' Add to this, that Mr. Bushnell could have made it appear (but the Commissioners would not suffer it) that this Will. Cottle was not in the Belfr. (but up in the Tower) whilst Torys was Ringing: And as to what concerns the other Part of this Deposition, Brewer, the Inn Keeper appeared (at a subsequent Meeting) in Person before the Commissioners; and deposid, 'That he never told Cottle, that Mr. Bush- 'nell did use to come to his House and fuddle a 'Cup; that Mr. Bushnell was not distempered with 'Drink at the Time Cottle mention'd; that he 'had known Mr. Bushnell for Ten Years, and 'never saw him drink to Excess; and that tho' 'Mr. Bushnell was often at his House, yet it was 'seldom but on Business for Children, to whom 'he was a Guardian, or at the Lecture, or the 'like; and when there Three or Four Hours at 'a Time with the Tenants, yet he did not drink 'above a Jugg of Beer, or a Pint of Wine.'

P. 105, to P. 110. At the same Time Mr. Bushnell exhibited Articles of Exception against this Cottle, Namely, 'That he was a Drunkard, that he had Prophaned the Lord's Day, and the Time of Service in 'Drinking; that he was a Thief, and had Stolen 'in Concert with the Common Hangman; that 'he had been sent to the House of Correction 'by the Justices; that he was a Cheat, and 'look'd on as a Fellow, who had no Regard to 'his Word or Oath, and that he was a Slande-'rer of the Ministers.' Each of those Particulars Mr. Bushnell was ready to have made Good on Oath; but his Council chose to insist on the Last of them only as probably Thinking, it might render him in an Special manner, Unfit to appear in Evidence against a Minister, that it might have the greater Weight with those of the Clergy, who were Assistants to the Commissioners: And this likewise, as I presume, the rather, because the Evidence they had gotten on this Head, concerned his having spoke abusively of Dr. Chambers in particular; and accordingly Will. Rawlins Deposeth, that William Cottle had said Naming punctually both the Time and Place) 'that your Parsons were Greedy, 'that he would Trust none of them all: No not 'Mr. Chambers; for he had left Claverton, 'and was gone to Pewsie.' This Cottle, when he first heard it mentioned, did utterly Deny, and that too whilst yet on his Oath; but when Rawlins had Deposed it with such Circumstances, he then (as it were in the same Breath) confessed it before the Commissioners, and added, 'What if I did (say to?' This Horrid Perjury of the Fellow, in the Face of the Commissioners, is so very manifest, that nothing more need be said of it: But I must observe, that the Singling out, and Insisting on this, among all the other Exceptions, had an Effect quite contrary to what the Council seemed to expect from it; for Mr. Bysield (who had gone thro' many Removes from Enford to Collingbourn) Laboured all he could, to Stifle this Counter Deposition; and when the Copy of the Depositions was after given out to Mr. Bushnell to be Pleaded to, this whole Deposition was omitted, and Dr. Chambers (who, as the Report went, had better'd himself 300 l. per Annum, by his Remove from Claverton to Pewsie) did not, as it seems, appear very easie, all the while the Deposition was in taking; and as Mr Bushnell frequently Intimates, was not, as he conjectures, forgetful of it, during the whole Course of the following Sessions.

The next Deponent was one Lawrence Cottle, P. 110, 111. (a Boy as it seems) who Swore to this Effect, 'that about a Year and half before, he, and 'some other of Mr. Bushnell's Scholars, Playing 'at Cards in Mr. Bushnell's House, Mr. Bush- 'nell took up one of their Games and lay'd it 'off; and after, some Quarrelling happening 'betwixt the Boys, Mr. Bushnell took the Cards 'and Burn't them;' and surely nothing need be said of this Deposition, save, that Mr. Bysield Gravely observed upon it, that 'Mr. Bushnell ought to have burnt the Cards at first.'

Of the same Sort likewise, were two other P. 112, 113; Depositions, viz. This of J. Gibbons and P. 114. Weeb; the Former Swearing, 'that Mr. Bushnell had Play'd Twice at Tables with him (the Deponent) but at the Desire of the Deponent, 'and for nothing;' and the other Deposed 'that 'sometimes he had Play'd at Tables with Mr. 'Bushnell, but not for Money;' only it must be observed, that to the Former of these Depositions the Clerk (probably perceiving, the Deposition would be very Empty without it) out of his own good Will, had added, that 'it was on a Sunday;' and in that manner offered it to the Deponent to Sign; who being so careful as to Read it over, before he Set his Hand to it, discovered the Iniquity, and refused to Subcribe it, until it was alter'd.

After these, Two others Swear; the One, P. 114, 115; 'that Mr. Bushnell had used that Year some of 'the Common-Prayer at a Funeral,' which deserves no Answer: The Other, 'that there had 'oft times that Year been sporting in the Parish 'on the Lord's Day, and that Mr.* Bushnell having 'been told of it, Reply'd, it was the Officers Business, but that however, Mr. Bushnell had often 'Reproved and Rebuked the Parishioners for it in 'his Sermons.' It seems to have been a peculiar Happiness to Mr. Bushnell, and a Fate upon his Accusers, that their Affidavits usually carried (as this plainly doth) their Antidotes with them; and in Truth he had not only Inveighed against these Liberties, in his Sermons; but had Read the Acts and Ordinances against them, in his Church, oftner than the Law required him: And to mention one thing more by the way, there were no Persons in the Parish, so Notoriously Guilty of Prophaning the Sabbath, as those very Witnesses, which they produced against him, during the Trial.

And thus ended the Business of this Day; P. 117, 119, The next Morning Mr. Bushnell Requesting, that 121. he might have Time to bring in his Counter-Evidence, and Exceptions, it was granted him; and July the First at Marlborough, were the Time and Place appointed for that Purpose; whereon his Appearance, he found some more Witnesses ready, on the part of the Common-Wealth, who must first be heard, before there could be Room for his Defence. In the Front of these, was Nich. Spencer, who Deposeth 'that being at Church P. 121, 124 'when Thrift was killed, he observed by his Coun- 'tenance and Alsurd Carriage, that he was over- 'taken in Beer:' But the Reader is to be Informed, that this Spencer had been 'Thrice Sworn and 'Examined to all the Articles' before, at Two of the preceding Sittings of the Commissioners; and then 'could not Remember any such thing;' but now it seems, his Memory is Refreshed (by what means it might be, is another Question,) and the honest Clerk, who was probably aware of this, or for some other like Reason, in the Copy which he gave out to Mr. Bushnell, had given this this the First Place in Spencer's Depositions, and had not Set it down as a Distinct Deposition, at a several Meeting of the Commissioners (much lefs, as taken at the last Time of his appearance) but as the Beginning of what he had Deposed

Digitized by Google

P. 28, 29 at Marlborough, when he was first Sworn. Add to this, that it did not perhaps Contribute a little towards the Refreshing of his Memory, that there began now to be a more than common Intimacy betwixt Will. Pinchin, and Nich. Spencer; that being Fellow-Tenants to a Young and Distant Landlord, whom, as it was said, they had both of them Injured not a little in his Timber, Spencer might probably fear, that Pinchin (whom he could not but know, ready for any thing) would be First in the Accusation, and make his own Peace by accusing his Fellow-Thief; and what is still more, this Nich. Spencer, was after the Sequestrator of the Living, and probably might now have a Promise made him of that gainful Office, if he would speak to the Purpose.

But to come to the Deposition it self; there were many who thought they could be very positive, that Spencer was not in the Church, when Thrift was Killed: But be that as it will; John Jones Deposed, 'that he Dined at Mr. Bushnell's 'the Day Thrift was Killed; that Thrift came 'thither by Accident, and Drank no more than 'might do him good; that he was not Distemper'd 'with Beer; and that Mr. Bushnell went forth 'from Dinner to his Study, as that Deponent con-'ceived'. Richard Pinchin (even the Brother of Will. Pinchin, the chief Prosecutor, who Dined at Mr. Bushnell's at the same Time) Deposed fully to the same Effect, and added, 'there was no
P. 30. 'Drinking after Dinner:' And now let any one Judge, who were most to be Believed, W. Pinchin, W. Cottle, and N. Spencer (the two Former of whom, 'tis well known, were not in the Place, when the Unfortunate Man lost his Life, and it is doubted, whether the Other was or not: Nor did either of them See him Drink one Drop) or Will. Lane and Richard Cottle, who were both there, and Sware (in some of the former Sessions) that they believed, 'he was not in Drink;' and John Jones, and Richard Pinchin, who both Dined with him that very Day, and Sware the same.
P. 125, 126. This Story of Thrift hath been often mentioned; and therefore it now seems Necessary to give a short Account of it. He was a near Relation of Mr. Bushnell, and came with his Wife and some other Friends (altogether without Mr Bushnell's knowledge) to Dine with him that Sunday. After Dinner Mr. Bushnell went to his Study, and they parted from his House to go to a Funeral; but understanding that the Company were not yet come, they turned aside into the Church, where Thrift took one of the Bells, and Ringing some few Pulls, delivered over the Rope again, and going higher up into the Tower, by a Ladder fell down (whether by a Blow from the Trap-Door, or from the Wheel, or the Bell, or by what other Accident, was never known) and was taken up Dead.
P. 132, 133, 134. After Spencer now mention'd, came Nich. Nowell, and his Wife; who Depose, that 'Mr. 'Bushnell, Colonel Eyre, and his Servant, came 'to their House, and there remained about an 'Hour and half, where they Drank Nine Juggs 'of Beer, for which Mr. Bushnell, paid 18 d. 'but that the Servant Drank one of the Juggs, 'and themselves Drank a Glass now and then.' It must be known, that Mr. Bushnell had now several Witnesses ready to be produced in his Vindication; but some of them were wholly Rejected; the Depositions of others were never Entered; or those Depositions which were taken down, some were left out of the Copy, delivered by the Clerk to Mr Bushnell, and other some Enter'd by Halves. However, with much ado, Mr. Bushnell got one Hen. Snyder Sworn, who Deposeth, 'that Nowell but the Saturday before, had told 'him, that J. Travers had been with him, and 'offer'd to take off his Bonds, that he might Sell 'Ale again, if he would appear and Swear against 'Mr. Bushnell; and that he had laid the Day 'before, that if Mr Bushnell had not told Colonel Eyre, of his Gun, and that he used to Shoot 'Hares, and Pidgeons with it, he would not 'have appeared and Sworn against him: He Deposed likewise, that Will. Pinchin, was at the same Time with Travers, and made Nowell the same Promises; but the Clerk thought not fit to inter that in the Copy. Or this Deposition of Hen. Snyder, Nowel's Wife, who was at the Window, came towards Dr. Chambers; and addressing herself to him, with her best Courtesie, told him ''Tis True, if Mr. Bushnell had not told 'Colonel Eyre of her Husband's Gun, they should 'not have been there that Day, to Swear against 'him.' Mr. Bushnell observing, that the Silly Woman had thus Marr'd her Evidence, and in Effect undone all that she had just then Sworn, could not forbear Smiling: At which Mr. Byfield told him with some Warmth, (perhaps not so much at the supposed Rudeness of the Smile, as at the Discovery which the Woman had made) 'that he should find it no laughing Matter:' But to proceed with their Witnesses; the Bonds which P. 117, 118, Nowell was under, not to sell Ale, were, as it 119. is probable, suspected both by Nowell and his Wife, to have been occasioned by Mr. Bushnell, and indeed with good Reason; for their House (lying obscure and remote) had been a very disorderly one: And complaint having been made to Mr. Bushnell, by the Wife of one Pitcher, 'that her Husband used to spend whole Days and 'Nights at it, to the ruine of her self and many 'small Children, who wanted Necessaries, and 'to the perpetual Disturbances of the Family, 'and most unnatural Abuses and Outrages against 'her self and the Children, when he came Home '(whereas otherwise he was a kind Husband 'enough, except when set on by this Jean Nowell) 'and further, that her Husband was then going 'to make over his Sheep to Nowell for an Ale-'Score; which if done, her self and Children must 'be Naked, and that he came Home but that 'Morning (which was Sunday Morning) from the 'House, and was then at Home asleep.' These Complaints, I say, being made to Mr. Bushnell, by the poor distressed Woman, he took her in, relieved her, and sent some Victuals by her to her Children, promising withal to take a Course with Nowell: Soon after which the Fellow's Licence was taken off, and he was forced to enter into the Bonds now mention'd; after which it might have been left to any one to judge, whether there was not a Tincture of Malice in this Deposition, on the account now mention'd; and that there was on another Account, the Woman herself freely (tho' unwittingly) own'd, in the Face of the Commissioners, not to repeat what hath been just now said of the Reward likewise which they were to expect: And to complear the Characters of those Deponents, Nowell P. 180, 181 himself was some time after this Deposition, prosecuted for attempting a Rape; and his Wife was such a Slut, that the hath been forced to be helped Home, and fell into a Pool, where she was like to have been Stifled.

But to leave the Deponents, and come to the P. 119, 140 Deposition it self; it was about Seven Years before, that the Thing which they now mention pass'd at their House (nor was Mr. Bushnell ever there, tho' in his own Parish, but that Time, and once

Digitized by Google

once to Collect a Charity for some of the Commissioners, that were then Sitting, to Ruine him) the Truth of which was this; Mr. Busbnell coming one Evening from Bath, with Colonel Eyre, in the Depth of Winter, the Colonel complained, that he was Cold; and alighting at this House, got a good Fire, and some of their Beer; and asking for their Reckoning when they were going to take Horse again, they were told it was 18 d. which, the Colonel having no Silver, desired Mr. Busbnell to pay, as he did; looking on it not as all for Beer, but for the Fire and for leading of their Horses: Nor did they make any Words of it; because the People were Poor. At this same Time it was, that Mr. Busbnell told Colonel Eyre of the Fellow's Gun; but the Complaint he made, was not only, that he Kill'd Hares and Pidgeons with it, but that he used to do it on Sundays; which was a Practice to Familiar with him, that being met by one who was going to Church, and advised to put away his Gun, and come to Church, he Reply'd, that 'he got 'not his Living by going to Church:' A very proper Witness against Mr. Busbnell, one of the principal Articles charged upon whom, was Prophaning the Sabbath.

P. 142, 143. Before I leave this Deposition, I must fur her take Notice, that Colonel Eyre, had been produced at one of the former Sessions, by Mr. Busbnell, in discharge of the Allegation of Drunkenness; and then Deposed, 'that he had known 'Mr. Busbnell Thirty Years, had been frequently 'in his Company, and never saw him Drink to Ex-'cess; which is abundantly sufficient to clear him from any thing Criminal in that kind, at the Time mentioned in this Deposition of Nowell and his Wife: But the Colonel's Name being by this subsequent Deposition brought in Question, the Colonel was ready to have attended again, and to have Deposed to the Particulars of this New Story; but the Commissioners took effectual Care to prevent it, and that too, on purpose, as it was thought, to leave them both under the Supposed Infamy of the Affidavit.

P. 143, 144, 145. But the principal Evidence is yet behind, which was one William Saunders, a Shoemaker (some time since mentioned;) and who Swore, 'that a-'bout Four Years since, he saw Mr. Busbnell come 'from the Bell in Bow, Reeling to and fro, three 'or four Foot at a Time; and that he believes 'he was then Drunk; for that he fell down, ha-'ving been at the Bell four or five Hours 'in the Company of Mr. Cannings, and Mr. Ed-ward Long of the Moor; and that after he 'fell in the Street, he rose again, and so Reeled 'Home. Now in the first Place, it must be known, that the Wife of one Rawlings was said to have been this, as well as Saunders; this Woman therefore was Summon'd at a former Meeting of the Commissioners; and when she 'came 'to Depose, she could Testifie no such Thing, but 'all on the contrary, and to Mr. Busbnell's Vindi-'cation; for which Reason, her Name was left out of the Depositions: And how well the Single Testimony of Saunders was able to Support this Charge (especially in opposition to the Testimony of another Person, who was affirmed by themselves to have been an Eye-Witness of it, as well at this Fellow) will be judged, when it is further

P. 145, 147. said, that he Saunders had been Arraigned at the 'Assizes for divers Robberies; that he had 'been guilty of Sacrilege, in Stealing the Lead 'off a Church; that under the Pretence of his 'being a Soldier, he had Broken Open an House, 'and Stolen Goods to a considerable Value; and 'that he had Beaten his own Father, and said, 'he would make an End of the Old Rogue. Thus much was Deposed upon Oath before the Commissioners according to the Clerk's own Copy; and in Truth a great deal more of the same Kind was Deposed by his wife; but the Clerk had taken the Liberty, Familiar with him in such Cases, to Retrench and Prune off 'very many 'remarkable Circumstances' of these Depositions. It must be owned, that this was abundantly sufficient to Invalidate his Testimony; and therefore there was no need of producing any more; but Mr. Byfield and several of the Commissioners, on quite another View, 'Thwarted with, Inter-'rupted and Turned back,' Mr. Busbnell's Wit-'nesses, that they might not inform, how Infamous this Fellow had been: And had they given them leave to Speak, it would have been further Testified, 'that he was always look'd upon as a 'Suspected Fellow; that when any ones Sheep or 'Goods were missing, the House where this Fellow 'Harbour'd, was always the First, that was Search-'ed; and that he Knocked down, Wounded, and 'Robbed one Stockman: But Stockman being now turned Quaker, would neither Prosecute Saunders, nor appear to Swear in Mr. Busbnell's Behalf. In short, the Fellow was so notoriously Infamous, that one of Dr. Chambers's own Friends afterwards said, 'Why, they would not take the 'Testimony of such a Rogue as Saunders, would 'they? And one of the Worst of Mr. Busbnell's Prosecutors, whilst Saunders was making his Affidavit, said, to this Purpose; 'There's a Rogue 'to Swear: I could not keep him Sober a Day toge-'ther, but he would be Drunk.' And to compleat his Infamy, he would have been Convicted of Perjury before the Commissioners (had Mr. Busbnell's Witnesses been suffer'd to Speak) in what he had then Deposed: For he laid on his Oath, that 'the 'Wounds he had Received, were in the Service of the 'State; whereas, it was well known, that they had been Received in the Service of his Majesty, which he did indeed afterwards Desert (for fear, it may be, of being Hanged for his Robberies) and betook himself to that of the Parliament, and now commits the Horrid Sin of Perjury, to set off the good Services he performed, whilst both a Traytor and a Rebel.

P. 138

Of all this Saunders himself was very Conscious; P. 147, 154, and therefore (as his Predecessor, W. Pinchin, 155, 157. had done before him,) provides a Certificate of his good Behaviour. This however, was but for 'Half a Year last Past,' and was Surreptitiously obtained, after he had given in his Deposition, upon Pretence, that he was to go as an Evidence, at the Assizes in Salisbury. Nor durst the Fellow now appear himself, to give it in for his Deposition was taken at one of the Former Meetings) for Fear (as 'twas Thought) that if he came a Second Time before the Commissioners, and People knew where to find him, he P. 140. should have been Apprehended for some of his For-'mer Felonies,' to which he was still Liable; and therefore he made choice of W. Pinchin, (who had himself stood in need of such a Paper) to Convey it to the Commissioners; which was accordingly done, and Handed to the Clerk to be Read by Dr. Chambers, after he had Beckon'd to Pinchin to produce it, as Fearing possibly, that he had forgot himself. This was done before the Depositions against Saunders had been taken; and when his Infamies, were at last Deposed on Oath, it was offer'd by one of the Commissioners, 'that these Things had been done long ago, and he 'might be a New Man since:' which tho' in itself false (for he continued the same Infamous Fellow, he had ever been) yet cannot but give occasion of observing that most of the supposed Crimes, of which Mr. Bustnell was accused (and among them, the very Fact, to which Saunders now Deposed, as will be laid by and by) were of Five, Six and Seven Years Standing, and for these he was still to be deemed a Scandalous Minister, and Punished accordingly; but it seems, the same Distance of Time had obliterated all the Real and Conjectu Infamies of the Witness; and he was Regenerated, and made to perfectly New, as if 'his Flesh had come again, like 'unto the Flesh of a little Child.

P. 163, 164, 165, 166.

And as the Infamies of this Witness equall'd (or rather exceeded) those of the other Informers, so was his Accusation no less Groundless, than those of the rest had been: for that which had call'd Mr. Bushnell to this Publick Houle, at the Time mention'd in Saunders's Affidavit, was the Charitable VVork of composing a Difference betwixt M. Long, mention'd in the Depolition, and his Mother and Brother, who had been for some time in Law; and therefore it was no wonder he ftaid Four Hours: But that Mr. Bushnell was 'not Diltemper'd with Beer,' and that this was the Occasion of his being at the Houle at the same Time, would have been depoted by Mr. Canning (for Mr. Long was then Dead) the other Gentleman mention'd by Saunders; but the Commissioners refuled to admit of his Teltimony, as they did likewise that of many other very material Witnesses: Besides which, the VVidows Reynolds and Baily (whole Houles Mr. Bushnell is to often accused of having frequented, and at the former of which it was, that Saunders depos'd, he had drank to such Excels) did, in Answer to all these Charges in General, and to this in Particular, depole. The one, 'that Mr. Bushnell seldom 'came to her House, but on Parish-business;' and the other, 'that he never came to her House (as 'she Remembers) but on' the same Account: And this much the Clerk himlelf, in his Copy of their Affidavits, was forced to Infer; but in Truth their Depolitions were much larger. Belides, that being each of them afterwards asked, whether they had ever leen Mr. Bushnell 'Dis-'stemper'd with Beer, or drink to Excess,' they answer'd, No. Add to all this, that it was about Six Years before (as hath been already hinted) that Mr. Bushnell met Mr. Long at this Publick Houle, on the Buliness now mention'd, tho' Saunders was purchal in Swearing, that it was only about Four Years th n palt; whereas Mr. Long had been, at the Time of Saunders's Affidavit, dead and buried for Five Years (an Evident Demonstration of the Fellow's Perjury) and a weak infirm Man for more than a Year before his Death; and was on that Account both unlikely and unable to drink to Excess, had he been otherwise inclined to have done lo.

P. 165, 169.

At this Time Mr. Bustnell had Four other Witnesles ready, which would have depos'd, to the Infamy of those that witnelled against him; but they were thrown aside (as many others had been) on Pretence, that 'they were against the 'Common-wealth, and prelent Government; whereas those who had Sworn on the other Side, were for both: Among others, appeared Henry Sheyler (already mention'd on a like Occasion) whom Pinchin also oppoled; alledging, 'that he 'was a Drunkard, and had Two Baltards laid to 'him:' In Return to which, Sheyler charged Pinchin with the Attempt of a Rape, on a Woman, near Briftol, whilit they Two were in Arms together in the King's Army; and had he not been Silenc'd by the Commissioners, would, it seems, have given them such an Account of the Time, Place, Manner, and Brutality of that Fact, as made one of the vilest and blackest Relations that ever was heard; but tho' he was prevented from taking off the Force of Pinchin's former Teltimonies against Mr. Bushnell, by giving this Character of him, yet notwithltanding Pinchin's Exception to him, he was allowed to be Sworn, and to speak to another Point: And accordingly, he depos'd, 'That Will. Cottle's Wife told him, 'her Husband had been three or four Days run-'ning after Will. Pinchin, to Witness against Mr. 'Bustnell: And that Cottle himlelf coming in 'loon after, told him, Pinchin had promised 'him, that if he would Swear he saw Mr. 'Bustnell come Drunk from Corsham, he would 'make him Parish-Clerk, and Register of Box; 'and that whether Mr. Bustnell was Ejected or not, he should be Register: And that Cottle 'at the same Time laid to this Deponent, that 'he could not Swear that he ever saw Mr. Bustnell diltemper'd with Beer, but added, that he 'had now an Opportunity of being even with 'Mr. Bushnell, for permitting Col Eyre to lend 'him to Bath-wall.' At the lame Time another 'Evidence depoled, That Cottle, when he was 'Summon'd, asking Jo Travers, who should pay 'him for his Day's Work?' Travers repli'd, if Mr. Bustnell was Ejected, 'he would see the 'Succeslor should pay him; but if no, he must 'lose his Labour.' And possibly the Clerk perceiving this was but even too plain Encouragement to the Flow, to Swear Home to the Purpole, never took this Depoli tion, or after ltiffled it; for it is lure that Mr. Bustnell could not find it in the Copy which was given out to him.

P. 169, 170, 171.

P. 171, 172.

Which Pinchin he had made drunk before, and which was false.

And now Mr. Bustnell apprehended his Ejectment, would have been declar'd; but Mr. Byfield having formerly got an Order made, that no Copies of the Depolitions should be delivered out, Mr. Bustnell's Counsel took hold of that Occasion, and represented to the Commissioners that it was impolible for them to Plead to the Charge, until they had a Copy of what was Sworn in Maintenance of it: Whereupon the Sen ence was at last Time suspended (and, as I Conjecture, Copies of what had been depoled, then order'd to them) and it was resolved (and accordingly entred) that Mr. Bustnell's next Appearance should be at Sarum: But this Resolution being pals'd, whilit Mr. Byfield was out of the Room, at his Return (with some Resentment of what had been done in his Absence) he got that Order revers'd, and another made, whereby Mr. Bustnell's Doom was to be haltened; and in Order to it, he was forthwith Summon'd to Appear at Lavington, July 14, (which was some time loonet) and was there to have his 'final 'Judgment.' It was also directed by the lame Order, that he should 'bring no more Witnesles 'for himlelf, but that they for the Common-wealth 'might bring in as they pleas'd.'

P. 171, 172.

At the Day appointed, Mr. Bustnell comes to Lavington; but notwithltanding the Encouragement they had given to Witnesles for the Common-wealth, there were but Two who came prepared to Swear: The one of whom was a new Evidence; his Name was Brewer, and he depos'd, 'That there was an Health Drank at Col. Eyre's 'Houle, and Mr. Bustnell was in the Room, but 'he could not fa. he drank it, and that himlelf 'was then a Servant to the Colonel.' But this Evidence was so trifling and impertinent, that they were alhamed of it: And therefore Ob. Cheltenham (who had, it seems, like Pinchin, turned from Witness to Sollicitor, and been Catechizing this Informer) declar'd, That he had now Sworn quite otherwise, than he had at other Times related the Story: And it was said, that Cheltenham, who was a small Clothier, and Pincham, who had Fulling Mills, had promised this Fellow (who was a Fuller,) to set him to Work for the future at his own Trade, if he would now serve them in that of an Informer. Col. Ey e was present at that Time, and informed the Commissioners that whereas this Fellow had, among other Parts of his Deposition, Sworn, that he was his Servant, yet he had never entertain'd him as such; nor did he happen to be at that Time in his House, on any other Occasion, than having ran a Hunting that Day after the Colonel's Dogs, and to thrust himself in for a Dinner. The Colonel at the same Time acquainted them with the Time, Place, Company and Occasion, of what the Fellow then referr'd to in his Oath, and would have informed them (on Oath, as I understand it) of what had pass'd at Nowell's House, at the Time mention'd formerly in the Joint Affidavit of Nowell and his Wife; but the Order they had before made, not to admit any more Witnesses on Mr. Bushnell's Behalf, effectually suppress'd all he had to Offer of that Kind, and thereby these Fellows (Cottle, whom he had formerly sent to Bridewell, Saunders, whom he had committed to Goal for a Robbery, and Pincham, whom he had Bound over for Bearing his Father and Mother out of Doors) had the Liberty of Befratting him (as well as Mr. Bushnell) without his being allow'd to vindicate his Honour in such a Manner, as he might have well expected.

Times

P. 179, 180, 181.

The other Witness who then appear'd, was Will. Cottle, who offer'd to Swear, that he never spoke those Words to Hen. Sheyler, which had been Sworn against him: But the Commissioners refused at that Time to take his Deposition; and there was good Reason (but whether that was the true Reason of their Refusal, I know not) for their so doing, the Fellow having been heard to say, betwixt his late Affidavit and the Session I am now speaking of, 'That he wished his Tongue 'had been cut out of his Mouth, before he had 'Sworn against' Mr. Bushnell, and shortly after his now tendring himself, he falls Sick of a Sort of Burning in his Lips, as his Wife her self related it, which at length spread it self into his Mouth, insomuch that he was forced continually to cool it with Water: After that, his Tongue (swelled out of his Mouth, and grew Black (as the Person who attended him for a Physician, affired Mr. Bushnell) in which Condition he continued some Days Groaning in such a lamentable Manner, that he was heard in the Streets, and soon after Dyed, leaving behind him a Wife, and many small Children, who were beholden for some Assistance to the Parish: And on this Occasion another Mistery of Iniquity was Discovered; for it seems the miserable Wretch (besides the Clerk's and Register's Places) was moreover to have been Rewarded with Five Pounds, for his good Services against Mr. Bushnell; which his Widow Demanding, and being referr'd to Mr. Storm (who succeeded Mr. Bushnell in the Vicaridge) fly flew into a Passion, and said, 'That had it not been for the Oaths which 'her Husband took against Mr. Bushnell, she believed he would have been alive to that 'Hour.'

P. 181, 182, 183, 184.

P. 184, 185.

And now, because in a bad Cause, all is a Help, Mr. Byfield, in support of the Evidence (which he could not but be sensible was very Short and Defective) and to close up the Accusations, prefents the Commissioners with a Letter from Mr. Long, the 'Godly' (tho' Intruding) Minister of Bath, containing in Substance 'That 'Mr. Bushnell had preached a Funeral-Sermon in 'his Pulpit without Leave; that he did at the 'Grave use some of the Common-Prayer; and 'that he was not well Reported of by the Godly 'at Bath;' heavy Charges indeed! But Mr. Bushnell, it seems, was not the first Clergyman by a great many, whom Godly Mr. Long, had, with much Earnestness, Cost and Pains, in a very Busie, and in a very ill Manner, endeavoured to turn out of his Livelihood: The rest of his Dealings may in some Measure be guess'd at by his Proceeding against Mr. Bushnell in the Matter now mention'd: For when Mr. Bushnell was asked to Preach the Funeral-Sermon, he refused to Engage in it, unless the Gentleman who propoled it to him, would first undertake to make all Easie with Mr. Long, which he promised to do; and accordingly, when Mr. Bushnell came to the Church, he found Mr. Long in the Reading-Desk, who bid him welcome, and after came to some of Mr. Bushnell's Friends, and asked how he did; Requested them in his Name to thank him for his Pains; & dired to be remembred to him; and suggested that he should be glad of his Acquaintance: Nor did Mr. Bushnell hear the least Word of any Dispute or Dislike, until now (Eighteen Months after) when Mr. Long found that he was got into the Hands of the Commissioners.

They had now raked together all the Witnesses and Testimonies they could, and therefore it was time to come to a Sentence: In Order to which, Mr. Byfield had gone as much out of his way that Morning for Votes, as the Promoters and Informers before had for Accusations: And had likewise, as is more than probable, by Methods of another Kind, got together such other Commissioners, as he knew for his Purpose (some of which, voted roundly against Mr. Bushnell, tho' they had not heard one Evidence depose, nor a single Word of the Defence:) Nor was he less Diligent afterwards upon the Debate; for he laid about him with much Application, to aggravate the Charge, and find Salves and Lenitives for the Contradictions and Perjuries of the Witnesses. The Commissioner pitch'd upon to Sum up the Evidence, was one Mr. Jonath. Hill, who expatiated on the Crimes themselves, and the Circumstances of them, and palliated the Falsehoods and Disagreement of the Deponents, with the Consideration of their 'being Witnesses for the 'Common-wealth and prefent Government.' He insisted likewise on the Quality of some of them, and particularly took Notice of that 'Grave 'Old Gentleman, Mr. Nicholas Spencer' (afterwards the Sequestrator) but omitted to say, that he pretended to Cure Mad Folks; sometimes, in Condescension, Hogs, &c. Practising on the latter (for which also it is said, he used to receive his Fee) with the Words Save, Save, Save, and the Reverse Fave, Save, Save, administred in an Apple or a Bit of Cheese, which, as Mr. Bushnell well observes, was either a Charm, or a Cheat, and both of them punishable by the Law. But to come to the Sentence; Mr. Byfield had intended, that it should now have been pronounced. For this Purpose it was, that as he best'rd himself in an elpecial Manner this Morning, so he had got the Order (before mention'd) for Mr. Bushnell's Appearing at Sarum, reversed; being heard to say, he doubted 'Mr. 'Bushnell would have made such Friends there, 'as would have got him off. Nor was this Resolution to much a Secret; but that one, who saw Mr. Bushnell appear that Day, with some of Credit, to Testifie in his Behalf, declared (at it was was faid) ' that it was to no Purpofe, for the Place ' was appointed for another Man:' However, the Evidence being Summ'd up (as is juft now mention'd) Mr. Buftnell's Counfel having pleaded, and all being Order'd to withdraw, the Damnatory Commiffioners met with greater Oppofition than was expected: And therefore, tho' the Ejectments was at this Time refolved on, yet it was to be kept Do mant; and not to be Pronounced, until after the Vacation of another Attendance; to which End, as likewife for Form fake, he was ' order'd to appear at Sarum, ' July 23, fl Homing, to be then examin'd touching ' his Sufficiency:' Nor did they then acquaint him with any other Determination of the Commiffioners.

P. 197, 198, 203, 204, 206, 207, 208, 209.

See also p. 228.

Digitized by Google

P. 223. See alfo P. 218.

The Commiffioners had then done with Mr. Buftnell, but fo it was, that now he had not done with them; for tho' the Declaration of November the 4th 1655 (of which I fhall next fpeak) had cut the Sequeftr'd Clergy off from all hopes of getting a Livelihood by any other means, than that of Digging; and the Ordinances had hitherto allowed the Fifths to none, but the Wives and Children, of fuch as were Ejected; yet about this Time the Parliament having (as hath been faid in another place) render'd Unmarry'd Clergymen capable of receiving them, and not only allowed, but required the Application of them, by the Commiffioners. Mr. Buftnell Sets himfelf to obtain that fmall Pittance, the better to fupport him; and in Order to it, applies himfelf to the Commiffioners then Sitting at Sarum; D manding that piece of Juftice from them; and being Deferred to another Sitting, he fail not to attend in purfuit of his Right; as did likewife in Succeffion Mr. Stern, and his old Friend Will. Pinchin, and fome others, in hopes to Defeat him of it, on Pre ence that when he left the Vicarfidge ' he had carried away fome ' of the Deeds; that he had difobey'd ' Orders, ' and what was more material, that he was ' Worth 500 l.;' which laft Allegation would have been indeed a Juft Bar to him; but thefe Objections being foon got over, the main Queftion turned on the Value of the Living. Mr Buftnell. had one with him, at the firft Time of his appearing on this Errand, who offer'd a Hundred a Year for it, (with good Security for the Payment) and Pinchin himfelf had Formerly Taxed it at 86 l; tho' now he was not afhamed to affirm, it was not 'Worth fo much: But perhaps his Malice to Mr. Buftnell, was not the only Thing, he had in View: For He and N. Spencer after Rented the Living; and it was not their Buftnefs to fet it up at too High a Rate at that time. However, the Commiffioners Favouring thofe, who Laboured to Beat down the Value of the Livings, the Fifths were at laft Settled at Twelve Pounds a Year (which, all Things conftdered, was hardly a Tenth) and thefe (to keep him ftill Dependant) Payable only till further Order; whereas they were Intended to appoint them during Life; nor was there a Farthing order'd for the Arrears of two Years, that had then elapfed, and which the Act alfo Improwered him to Claim. For this Order the Clerk Demanded Two Shillings and Six Pence, but Mr. Buftnell Frankly told him, it was ' more than he fhould make of it,' the Charge and Trouble of getting them being as much, as the Allowance it felf Amounted to.

P. 221, 222. 224. Being come thither, he finds himfelf in the midft of a Crowd of the Sons in-Law, Brothers-in-Law, and other Relatives and Dependants of the Commiffioners, who were attending there, for Augmentations, Removes, or Sequeftr'd Livings. Befides which, there were others and, who would have been as glad to ftay away as Mr Buftnell himfelf, having been fetch'd up on Attacht and Summons; but Contributions of Hafe, or Hay, or Mony, or the Homage of the Clergy and Heir, to fome of the Commiffioners, or Affiftants Minifters which they had formerly Paid, or were now come to Renew, had put a ftop to military Execution: Otherwife the Articles againft them had been as clear, and as well fupported as thefe againft the Vicar of Bee; to whom it had been alfo intimated, that he would have Addreffed himfelf with the like Applications, he might have been as Innocent as any of the Reft; but he was determin'd never to fubmit to fuch bafe Methods of making his Peace.

P. 221, 222. See alfo P. 226.

P. 221, 222. 224. At length comes on the Trial of his Sufficiency, which he was Content fhould have been Publick, but the Commiffioners would allow of none to be prefent at it: And the worft of his Enemies having never (as far as he had then heard) alleged Ignorance as the Reafon of his Ejectment, he gives no Account of what paffed at his Examination; but being withdrawn, the honeft Clerk comes to him, and under the Pretence of Friendfhip, Advifes him to Refign; alledging, that then he would be ' capable of ' another Place;' and why then was he turned out of this as unfit for the Miniftry?) but Mr. Buftnell rejected this Propofal likewife with Scorn; well knowing, that they did it only to bring as little Odium on themfelves as might be; and were willing to have paffed a fhameful and plainly Oppreffive Ejectment into a Voluntary Refignation. Nor was he unhappy (as the Event after fhewed) in this Refolution; for had he complied with the Propofal, he had been debarred of his Title to the Fifths, and excluded from Returning to his Living (as he after did) at the Reftoration. Soon after this Refufal, he was called on to receive his Doom. Dr. Chambers, (who it was pronounced, Delivering an Act of Retentment, and Mr. Byfield (playing with his Tobacco-Pipe) a different one of Satisfaction. In his Room was after Subftituted one Mr. Stern (as hath been more than once already intimated) who had been formerly at the Sequeftr'd Living of Chimark in Wiltfhire, and was there, as Mr. Buftnell feems to Conjecture, in Quality of a Curate to Mr. Sangar, Brother-in-Law to Dr. Chambers, and at the Time of Mr. Buftnell's Trial, Deftitute of any Living.

P. 230. P. 231, 232. P. 240, 241, 244. Relating to Bequeathing the Living.

P. 247, 248.

P. 243, 244.

P. 228.

I had

' had it too; and thereupon (to uſe Mr. Buſh-
' nell's own Words) amongſt an Heap of Acts,
' Ordinances, Orders, Depoſitions, Charges, a ' great Tobacco-Box, Pipes, Candles and Candle-
' ſticks, finds it out, and Reads it; tho' had not Mr. Buſhnell brought it with him, it might perhaps have been the next Sitting at leaſt, before it would have been found.

It muſt be alſo known, in the laſt Place, that when Mr. Buſhnell ſent to Demand his firſt Payment, as it became Due, Mr. Stern would have Deducted; for a Fifth Part of what the Commiſſioners Demanded of him for Incident Charges, which, as Mr. Buſſnell obſerves, would have made his Caſe like that of Phocion, who being Unjuſtly Condemned to Death, was afterwards enforced to Buy his own Poſſon alſo: But if I gueſs right, Mr. Stern could by no means carry that Point; as neither could he another, that he had taken in Hand; Namely, a Suit againſt Mr. * Buſſnell for Dilapidations; being not long after forced to Drop it, on a Proſpect of the Reſtoration. In a Word, by what Time ‖ Mr. Stern, had Paid Mr. Bliſſet († the Honeſt Clerk) Twenty Pounds, the Commiſſioners ‡ Fifteen Pounds for Incident Charges, conſiderable Sums on the like Article to the Witneſſes, and had Compoſed the reſt of his Expences, he Declared to Mr. Buſſnell himſelf, that he was Five Hundred Pounds the worſe for Suing after, and Accepting of the Living; which, as he Reckon'd it, was a Hundred Pounds more than Mr. Bushnell Loſt, by being Turned out of it.

P. 249.

P. 251, 252.

* Who had however, loſt not his Life then too; for the Houſe, would be no Vice-Judge. P. 249, 250, 254.

† See a Word from the Clerk to the End of Dr. Chambers's Vindication of himſelf from this Narrative.

‡ Ten Pounds, ſay the Commiſſioners. See Vindic. of the Marlborough-Commiſſioners, at the End of the ſame Piece of Dr. Chambers.

I have already Intimated, that many of the Clergy, who continued in their Livings, were obliged to be in Fee with the Commiſſioners. It may not be amiſs to take Notice in this Place, of ſome few other things of this kind, ſuggeſted by Mr. Buſſnell; becauſe they ſerve further to Illuſtrate the Miſeries and Oppreſſions of the Clergy, under this Commiſſion. He Intimates, that ſuch of them, as had Maliticous, or Indigent Fellows in their Pariſh, would be forced to Humour their Inſolencies, to ſupply their Neceſſities, and ſo help to maintain their Vices, or elſe they would be in continual Danger of Articles, Summons's, and all the other Miſchief, that Malice and Perjury could bring upon them; that if at any time, they had been called before the Commiſſioners, the Agent and the Clerk muſt be well Fee'd and ſometimes kept in a Quarterly Penſion, with a great deal of Thanks for often Viſits, and good Advice, how to avoid the Storm, which was of their own raiſing: And as to the Commiſſioners themſelves, they were to be Worſhipped with a Diſtinguiſh'd Reverence, wherever they ſhould be met; they Diſmiſſed ſuch of the Clergy, as they did not Eje&, only till further Order, to ſignifie to them, that they were only Tenants at Will; and this kept them in continual Fears, and at continual Expences: Nor was any thing to be thought too Good, either for thoſe Landlords, or their Wives: But Horſes, Hay, Money, (* even Yearly Penſions, if I miſtake not) or Place, were, every now and then, to be pretended to them, or elſe they were not to promiſe themſelves long, or quiet Enjoyment of their Benefices.

P. 221, 226, 227.

P. 227, 229, 231.

ib. 229.

The Outrages and Oppreſſions thus Acted upon Mr. Buſſnell, are ſo plain, to many, and (on the laſt of theſe Accounts) have run out in ſo great a Length, that I ſhall not ſtay to ſum them up, or make any other Obſervation upon them, than this one, that it will be eaſily thought, that of Wilts was not the only County, in which the Clergy were Treated after this manner, by the Commiſſioners of this Ordinance.

But I muſt take Notice, before I diſmiſs this Narrative, that the ſame Year, in which it was Publiſhed, Dr. Chambers followed it, with an Anſwer to thoſe parts of it, wherein himſelf was concerned; but doth not attempt to Vindicate Mr. Buſſnell's Ejectment, to confirm the Charge of Scandal upon him, or to Diſprove the many, and Barbarous Oppreſſions, of which he complains: On the Contrary, both by his Silence, and by ſome Incidental Circumſtances, he plainly gives in an Additional Teſtimony to ſome of the greateſt of thoſe Outrages; nor doth Dr. Chambers ſeem to have Propoſed any other End, in that Anſwer, than barely to Clear himſelf only, from the * Perſonal Reflections, and Suggeſtions, which Mr. Buſſnell had made on him; tho' I think, the Doctor performs this in many Caſes, but very Lamely. To this Anſwer is ſubjoyned a Vindication of the Marlborough-Commiſſioners, by the Commiſſioners themſelves; which is ſtill more Lame and Imperfect than Dr. Chambers his Performance. They Return no Anſwer to the main and principal Parts of Mr. Buſſnell's Charge; they do not ſo much as attempt to Vindicate his Ejectment, much leſs, their own Oppreſſive Manner of Proceeding in it; and ſpend the greateſt Part of their ſhort Paper, in Returning ſome Broken and Looſe Anſwers to thoſe things, which Mr. Buſſnell had Charged on † themſelves in particular. To this Trifling Paper, is farther added a more Trifling One, called, a Word from the Clerk to the Vicar of Box; who Denies in the Groſs, the Imputation of Partial Entries, which Mr. Buſſnell had ſo often Accuſed him of; adds, that it was himſelf (and not his Father) who received the Twenty Pounds from Mr. Stern; and that the Money was given him, in Conſideration of the good Services, he had done Mr. Stern, with Sir Hugh Speak (the Patron of Box, if I miſtake not) who had Reſented Mr. Stern's applying to the Protector, and not to himſelf, in order to obtain the Nomination to the Living.

* Which as the Reader perceives, do but little affect the main parts of Mr. Buſhnell's Narrative.

† The Two or Three Commiſſioners, that Deputs as Marlboro'.

I have not met with any Informations, relating to theſe Commiſſioners, which enable me ſo much as to Conjecture, at any particular Numbers of the Clergy, that might be Diſpoſſeſs'd by them. The Act concerned the whole Kingdom, and Commiſſioners were appointed for every County, even thoſe in Wales, which had been before ſo clean Swept by the Propagation, not excepted; and ſuch a peculiar Care was taken for the Speedy and Effectual Execution of it, as I do not remember to have met with in any other Act, or Ordinance. For there was a Clauſe in it (as hath been already remember'd) which required the Commiſſioners in every County to meet and enter upon the Buſineſs 'with all Diligence,' within Twenty Days after the Publication of it. Purſuant to theſe Inſtructions, I find them Sitting in ſeveral Counties (nor Durſt they, as I preſume, omit Doing ſo in any) and therefore, if a Judgment may be made, from the Extent of the Commiſſion, and the particular Care, wherewith the Execution of it was recommended, it may Queſtionleſs, be ſafely affirmed in general, that they muſt have Diſpoſſeſs'd conſiderable Numbers of the Clergy. This at leaſt, is ſure, that great Expectations were had from them; and some who waited for the Livings, made their Boasts, that they should 'e're long have five or six a Piece.' Nor can I think of any Thing which may detract from this Conjecture, unless it be, that there were very few Loyalists then left in Possession of any of the Livings. How long they continu'd to Exercise their Tyranny, I know not. The Act was, as I have before said, renewed in 1656; they were sitting in 1658/59, * April 28, 1658. Mr. † Bulstrode mentions the Rumour of a Design amongst some of the Members of Richard's Parliament, to have called their Commissioners to Account, 'both 'Touching their Power, and their Actings;' which seems to look as tho' the Death of Cromwell, in the latter End of the Year last mention'd, had, in some measure, occasion'd the Suspending at least, of their Proceedings; but whether it was that happy Event, or the more happy one of the Restoration (that followed on the Heels of it) which finally dispersed these Plunderers, I cannot determine.

Digitized by Google

Gaffard's Petition for the Vindication of the Use of the Common-Prayer, &c. p. 16.

* Bath. Ker. p. 249.

† Ibid. p. 249, 250.

Cromwell's Declaration of November 24, 1655.

Effectual Care had been now taken to turn the few Remaining Loyalists out of their Livings, and to prevent their getting into any others for the Future: The former of these, by appointing the Commissioners last accounted for; and the other, by Erecting those 'for the Approbation of Publick Preachers.' But the good Providence of God, having directed many of them to other means of getting a small Subsistence for themselves and their Families, an inhumane Declaration of the Protector and his Council was issued, November * 24, 1655, to deprive them in some Sort, of all possible means whereby they might be enabled to get a Livelihood. The Declaration, as far as it concern'd the Clergy, was in these Words:

* 4th, saith Mr. Bohun. (Narrative, p. 231.) but what I judge was Mistake's and Wood (Ath. Vol. II. p. 208) calls it the Declaration of the fifth of January, but for no other Reason, as I presume, than because that Part of it, which chiefly concerned the Clergy, &c. was then to Commence, and take Effect.

'And his Highness, by the Advice of his 'Council, doth also Publish, Declare and Order, 'that no Person, or Persons aforesaid, do, from, 'and after the first Day of January, 1655, keep 'in their Houses or Families, as Chaplains, or 'School-masters, for the Education of their 'Children, any Sequester'd or Ejected Minister, 'Fellow of a College, or School-master; nor 'PERMIT any of their Children to be 'Taught by such, upon Pain of being proceeded 'against in such Sort as the said * Orders do 'Direct in such Cases. And that no Person 'who hath been Sequester'd, or Ejected out of 'any Benefice, College, or School, for Delinquency, or Scandal, shall, from, and after the 'said first Day of January, keep any School, 'either Publick or Private; nor any Person, 'who, after that Time shall be Ejected, for the 'Causes aforesaid.'

* 'Orders 'of his 'Highness, 'and the 'Council, 'for Secu'ring the 'Peace of the 'Commonwealth,' mention'd before, &c. (but not recited) in this Declaration.

'And that no Person, who for Delinquency 'or Scandal, hath been Sequester'd, or Ejected, 'shall, from, and after the first Day of January, 'aforesaid, preach in any publick Place, or at 'any private Meeting of any other Persons than 'those of his own Family: Nor shall Administer 'Baptism, or the Lord's-Supper, or Marry any 'Persons, or use the Book of Common Prayer, or 'the Forms of Prayer therein contain'd, upon 'Pain that every Person so offending, in any 'the Premises, shall be proceeded against as by 'the said Orders is provided and directed.'

The Severities of this Declaration seem to have compleated the Miseries of the Loyal Clergy; and were on this Account more the Effect of pure and unmix'd Cruelty, than any of the former Ordinances: For almuch as the poor Livelihoods, now taken from the Royalists, were of such a Nature, that they could not be distributed (as the rich Livings had been) among their own Clergy: Nor were they of so much Consideration, as to move either their Envy, or their Covetousness. Several of the Former Ordinances had indeed Ejected them from the Schools, as well as the Livings, and taken Care that they should not be employ'd again in either of them. But this Declaration shut hunted them out of the private Families of such as were willing to entertain them for Chaplains or Tutors. And tho' the Peace of the Kingdom was made the Pretence, the plain Effect was, the Starving both of themselves and their Famili's, as far as the Directions and Orders of this Declaration could do it. Mr. Pryn himself, could not but observe on it, that Cromwell thereby took Care the Loyalists 'should have no Employment, neither at Home 'nor Abroad;' which, saith Mr. * Bustwell, was, 'to 'put them and their Families upon a Necessity of 'Starving:' After which, he adds, (from Mr. † Pryn, if I understand him Right) that Cromwell, 'not only Enakl'd, that they should have nothing 'to fulfill by; but also made it Penal, after the 'most Ignominious manner, if they were about to 'BEG.' Whether this latter Clause be any other than a warm Construction of the Severities of the Declaration now mention'd; or whether this Declaration was followed by any other Orders, &c. that I have not yet met with, and which fully amounted to such a Prohibition, as is here mention'd, I know not. But be that as it will, Mr. Pryn goes on to call this Proceeding, 'such a ‡ transcendent Barbarism, Impiety, and High way, 'to Extirpate Religion, as the Pope and Jesuits 'themselves could not have invented the like; and 'exceeded all Foreign Perfections against Protestant Admisters in* Piedmont, Bohemia and Silesia, by Popish Princes: 'And declares, that he therein speaks only the Sence of Archbishop Usher, who said as much to him with his own Mouth.

See the Preambles to Declaration.

Narrative, p. 16. 17. as cited by Mr. Bohun in his own Narrative. p. 231. 232.

* Ibid.

† Ibid.

‡ Bohun. Ker. Ibid.

For it must be further known, that these last Degrees of Extremity to which the Injunctions of this Declaration now reduced the Loyal Clergy, had compelled some of their Brethren to venture themselves before the Tyrant, in behalf of those miserable Sufferers; particularly, Dr. Gauden, with 'a Petitionary Remonstrance, presented to Oliver, Feb. 4, 1655, (but whether by the Dr. himself, I cannot tell) and the most learned Primate of Ireland, now mention'd, who not only attended at the same Time that Dr. Gauden's Remonstrance was deliver'd, but 'took also the fairest Opportunities for mediating for them, for the Space of more than a Month; but was forced at last to retreat to his Country; 'Retirement (and so to his Grave) with little Success, and less Hope, to his great Grief and Sorrow, using this Expression to — Dr. Gauden, that he saw 'SOME MEN HAD ONLY EARS, AND NO 'EGG-BELLS;' all'o' the Author of the Comformist's * Plea for the Nonconformists, saith, That 'by the Intercession of that excellent Man, — they 'had their Liberty again, and practised, and enjoyed 'their Places all the Time of the Usurpation.' But surely this was more than that excellent Prelate himself apprehended, or could foresee; since he not only complained of his Repulse to several of his Friends 'with Tears,' but the Thoughts of Wood, Ath. Vol. II. p. 208. See also the Bishop of Bath and Wells's Letter to Dr. Walker, Sufferings of the Clergy, &c. Part II. p. 103.

* Ibid.

† See also Bohun. Ker. Ibid.

‡ This very Thought was in his Heart, saith Bohun. Ibid.

* Printed, anno 1680. See Continuation of the Account of the Ministry's Defence. p. 147. 148. and the Postscript to the First Part. p. 4. 5.

Digitized by Google

Bohn Nar. p. 234.

of it (as is already said) contributed to the hastening of his Death.

Narrative, p. 115. * I presume, because, among the many Acts, Ordinances, &c. chiefly (if not wholly) of the Assembly of Cromwell, and not Council, which were confirmed by the then Parliament in 1656. See Scob. Collect. Part 2 p. 380. † Which for the two first, viz. in the Church of Windsor, the latter, in the County new named, unless perhaps the Lieutenancy Mr Farrington met with, was confirmed by some other Declaration, which was peculiar to them and about London.

Mr. Bushrell indeed affirms, that those, who sat as a Parliament (in 1656, as I Guess) nor * confirming this Declaration, did, thereby, in Effect, null it. Whether from that Time forward it might for the short Remainder of the Usurper's Life, wholly cease to be executed, or might not perhaps be put in Execution with so much Rigor as before, I cannot tell: But that it did on its first Publication give a great deal of Disturbance to the poor Remains of the Sequester'd Clergy, is evident, from the Case of Mr. * Hales, Mr. Farrington, Mr. Blake of Barnstable, in the County of Devon, and some others, who will be mention'd in the List. But how many they were who suffer'd under it, or to what Degrees of Extremity they were reduced by it, I am not able particularly to say.

Several Proceedings of less Note.

I have now accounted for the principal Methods of Tyranny and Oppression, under which the Regular Clergy laboured, for the whole Course of the Rebellion and Usurpation: And these appear to have been so many, that their Case might well be exprest in that heavy Denunciation, 1 Kings, Chap. 19, 17. Him that escapeth the Sword of Hazael, shall Jehu slay; and him that escapeth from the Sword of Jehu, shall Elisha slay: Or, in the Words of the Prophet Joel, (Chap. 1. v. 4.) That which the Palmer-Worm hath left, hath the Locust eaten; and that which the Locust hath left, hath the Canker-Worm eaten; and that which the Canker-Worm hath left, hath the Caterpillar eaten. But notwithstanding this (so exquisite were the Arts of these Times, and to various the Shapes in which Oppression appeared) there were many other Ways whereby they harrassed and perplexed the miserable Clergy of the Establishment; and these tho' of no less Note and Consideration, tho' several of them such, as did not concern the whole Body in general: And some of them not so directly relating to the Sequestration of them, must not however be altogether unmention'd.

Call former Sequestrations confirm'd, &c.

After this Declaration, Persecution it self was in a manner exhausted; and there seem'd to be nothing further left for their Malice to Enterprize upon the Livelihoods of the Sequester'd Clergy. Their Condition being now plainly such, that it might well be said of them, Etiam periere ruinæ. However, their Enemies (to shew, they were not glutted after Six ecu continued Years of Persecution; and that after so much Time to consider, they had not any Remorse for what they had done) proceeded yet one Step further; and for want of something new to undertake, their exquisite and finish'd Wickedness suggested to them, the Pleasure of Acting, as it were, the whole over again, by Recognizing and Confirming all that had yet been done (or should be further done for several Months then to come) in the Ruin of the Clergy. Pursuant to which it was enacted (in 1656) by his Highness, and the then Parliament, 'that every Scob. Collect. Part 2 p. 330. 'Person, who hath been, or shall before the first 'Day of July One Thousand Six Hundred 'Fifty Seven, be settled by the Parliament, or 'any Authority derived from them, or by his 'Highness the Lord Protector, or the Lords 'Commissioners of the Great Seal, in any Parsonage or Vicaridge, Prebendative or Donative, or 'Hospital within this Common wealth, heretofore Sequester'd by Parliament, or any Authority 'deriv'd from them, and shall on the first Day of 'July aforesaid, be in Possession thereof, the Sequestred or Ejected Minister being then living, 'such, and no other Person, shall be, and is hereby adjudged and deemed the Lawful Incumbent to all Intents and Purposes; and shall, 'and may have, retain, and Possess, Sue for, and 'recover all Tithes, and other Profits and Advantages whatsoever thereunto belonging, as if he 'had been legally Instituted and Inducted, any 'Law or Statute to the contrary in any wise 'notwithstanding.'

This Act compleated their Designs upon the Clergy, and did in some measure resemble the Dealing of the Jews with our Blessed Saviour; who, after they had killed the Lord of Life, not thinking themselves yet secure enough, proceeded to the Sealing of the Stone, and setting a Watch; but as he that sitteth in the Heavens, had them in Derision, and set his King upon his Holy Hill of Sion, so was the same Almighty Deliverer (who in the unsearchable Depths of his Wisdom, had suffered His Church to be thus brought low even to the Grave) now pleased to make perfect his Strength in Weakness; and having abundantly shewn that there was none other to help, He began soon after to bring up again those who had been so long humbled in the Dust; and (by Removing the Usurper, by Infatuating the Counsels of his Successor, and by calming the Minds of the deluded People of these Nations, within the Compass of a few Years) to open first some Rays of Light to them, and afterwards to Restore his Majesty to his Throne, and his long afflicted Church to her former Peace and Lustre.

Some Proceedings of the Houses of the last mentioned Kind,

To this Purpose, therefore, it must be further known, that the Houses (more particularly, that of the Commons) from Time to Time, undertook many Things (wherein the Clergy were concern'd) that fall not under any of the Heads already mention'd; such as Usurping the Presentations of those they were pleased to call Malignants (which Practice was begun about the latter End of 1642) as likewise Ordering (Jan. 5, 1645) '† That no more of the Scots Ministers 'shall put out there should be preferred in England or 'Ireland;' Drawing up, and * Passing a Bill against Pluralities and Non-Residence, which they tender'd to his Majesty for the Royal Assent in the Treaty at Oxford; Erecting a Committee in Kent, about 1647, for Sequestring Ministers, as well as others, after an Insurrection there: Ordering († Decemb. 24, 1647) 'That the Militia 'should take strict Course to put out of the late 'Lines of Communication all Delinquent Ministers.'

See Whitl. Mem. p. 323; 325, 326, &c. which, if I mistake Right, belong to those Matters.

† Half Coll. Vol. I. p. 381. See it, Husb. Coll. p. 140. See also Clarend. Hist. Vol. II. p. 176.

* I find many turned into Pluralities; and I have sometimes used this Expression on the Act, or Ordinance against Pluralities: But if they ever passed the Master of this Bill, (as they did that of them recorded by his Majesty) into Ordinance, &c. or made any Orders of that Nature, both the one and the other of them have as yet escaped my Enquiries; and therefore I must own, I know not by what Authority those turned out Livings for Pluralities, were disenjoyed.

† Comp. Hist. of Engl. Vol III. p. 168.

Ibid.

And the Day following (the Houses then Sitting) on a Complaint, 'That some Malignant 'Ministers had preach'd that Morning in Honour 'of the Day,' the Commons further Order'd, 'That the Committee for Plunder'd Ministers 'have Power given them to examine and 'punish Churchwardens, Sequestrators, and o-'thers, that do countenance Delinquent Ministers to Preach; and to commit them, if they see Cause;

Digitized by Google

'Cauſe. Upon which, ſome were taken into Cuſtody; and not being Content with bare Orders, May 23. 1648, the Y paſſed an Ordinance, for putting Papiſts and Delinquents not only out of the Limes of Communication, but alſo for Removing them Twenty Miles Diſtance; after which, they alſo brought in an Additional Ordinance to
* June 16. 1648. when it paſſed. the ſame Purpoſe, and at the * laſt Reading of it, declared, that both theſe Ordinances 'are intended to extend to all Sequeſter'd Miniſters, 'that are Sequeſter'd for Delinquency.' July 9. the Year following, they likewiſe paſſed ſeveral Votes (afterwards Publiſhed) 'againſt Miniſters
Whitl Mem. P. 398. 'Preaching and Praying Seditiouſly, and againſt 'the preſent Authority, and to promote the In-'tereſt of the Children of the late King, or that 'Diſobey the Orders of Parliament, that 'they ſhall be Sequeſter'd.' Some of theſe Orders (the Diſobeying of which, was thus made Penal to the Clergy) as I find from other Notices, concerned their 'not obſerving the Parliament-'Faſts, and Thankſgivings, and their Reſting 'to Publiſh the Acts of Parliament.'

The Houſes likewiſe at various Times made ſeveral Orders, &c. Relating to Preaching Miniſters, which Created (as it cannot be doubted) no ſmall Trouble to the Clergy; particularly October 1643. the Commons Ordered, 'that for the Future there ſhould be no Preaching Miniſters in Lancaſhire, but ſuch as were appointed by a Commiſſion, which was Named.' March 28,
Bid. p. 305. 1646, the Houſe had under conſideration the ſending down of Six Preaching Miniſters to ſeveral Pl,
Bid. p. 306. with a Salary of 150*l. per Annum* each. The 7th of the following Month, a Committee was 'Named to Conſider of Settling a Preaching Miniſtry in all Places, and about Preſentations belonging to Delinquents, Biſhops, Deans and Chapters.' November 1, the ſame Year, an Ordinance was Ibid. p. 351. 'Committed, to appoint Three Miniſters to Preach 'at Cirencester, and another for Maintenance for 'all the Preaching Miniſters in the Kingdom.' I have in another Place mentioned, ſome Preaching Miniſters ſent to Wales, in the beginning of the Rebellion, and others ſent to Oxon, on a particular Occaſion. I have likewiſe in ſome ſcattered Notices, met with an Intimation of a Set of Preachers of this Sort, ſent to Cumberland, with a Power, if I miſtake no, to Preach in any Pulpits within that County, as they ſaw Fit; and therefore it ſeems probable to me, that they, had Emiſſaries of the like kind, in ſeveral other parts of the Kingdom. October 16, 1648, on a Petition of the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Common Council, of London; the Commons appointed a Committee, for Settling a Maintenance for a Preaching Miniſtry in London, and in all other Cities in the Kingdom. There are in Mr. Scobell's Collection, ſeveral Ordinances (ſome of which, have been Hinted at already, on other Occaſions) which concern theſe matters, and many more Entries in Mr. Whitlock's Memoirs, of a like Kind; but it would be endleſs to Trace all of them; and much more ſo, to take Notice of all the Votes, Reſolves, Orders, Ordinances, and Directions, that Occur on the Journal of the Houſe, and in other Notices and Papers of thoſe Times, that do ſome way or other relate to the Clergy. It may with ſafety be ſaid, that they were in ſome Senſe Numberleſs; and the Reader will from thence eaſily gueſs, that ſuch likewiſe muſt the Sufferings of the Clergy have been under them.

Some Appli-cations to the Parliament relating to the Clergy.

I muſt however, before I leave this Head of the more immediate Proceedings of the Houſe, take Notice of ſome particular Addreſſes made to them. About the beginning of March, 1647, the Godly Party in Buckinghamſhire, tendring their Thanks to the Parliament for Voting no more Addreſſes to his Majeſty, ſubjoyned among the reſt of their Deſires, that they would 'give 'due Encouragement to all Godly and Able Miniſters,' and 'caſt out ſuch, as were Scandalous 'and Unfit for the Miniſtry.' March 12, 1648, Whitl. Mem. divers well affected in Norfolk, preſent a Petition P. 339. to his Excellency, Sir Thomas Fairfax (to be, as I preſume, the Foundation, on which, he was to Treat with the Parliament) wherein among other of their Requeſts, they Deſire, 'that no longer 'the Scandalous, Ignorant, and Malignant Clergy 'may take the Word of God into their Mouths; 'but a Godly and Painful Miniſtry to be Placed 'throughout the Kingdom; that for their Maintenance, all Rectories may be Reſtored, 'Thoſe in the Hands of well affected Men, to 'have a valuable Recompence out of the Biſhops 'Lands; thoſe in Delinquents Hands to be 'taken away.' Auguſt 12, 1652, the Officers Ibid. p. 616. of the Army (having often ſought the Lord) preferred the like Requeſt, but with a different Concluſion; Namely, 'that ſpeedy and effectu-'al Means may be uſed for promoting the Goſpel, 'Prophane and Scandalous Miniſters may be 'Outed, good Preachers Encouraged, and maintenance for them provided;' but that the 'Tithes might be taken away.' And I have already in another Place mentioned, from this ſame Author, the Letter of Advice ſent the Parliament (whilſt Sitting on Chriſtmas-Day) P. 414. the Year foregoing, Namely, that 'all thoſe 'Drunken, Malignant, Scandalous, Delinquent, 'Ignorant, Whoring, and Prophane Ones, that 'go under the Name of Miniſters,' may be put 'to Work for their Living.'

Nor are all the Miſeries of the Clergy yet Recounted, for in thoſe Times of Liberty and Property; Several Private Perſons, who depended on their Intereſt and Vogue with the Party; but eſpecially thoſe, who were in any Publick Office (particularly in the Army) would often take upon them, by their own Single Authority, to Harraſs and Perplex, and ſometimes to Diſpoſſeſs, the Regular Clergy. The Author of Perſer. Undec obſerves, that 'ſome Members 'of their Private Authority, forbid the Priests to 'Read Divine Service; and that 'others in 'Contempt thereof, put on their Hats during 'the Reading of Prayers:' But moſt obſervable in this kind, was the Behaviour of ſuch of their Clergy, as had gotten an Aſcendant in the Country where they Lived: The Reader will find many Inſtances of their Imperious, and Arbitrary Behaviour, ſcatter'd up and down in the Liſt; and particularly Mr. Holmes (the Bartholomew-Sufferer at Winchcombe in Glouceſterſhire) of his own mere Authority (as far as I can perceive) placed in Two or Three of his Creatures, on ſome of the Neighbouring Livings, and turned no leſs than Two or Three worthy Loyaliſts ſucceſſively from another; of which at length he took Poſſeſſion himſelf.

Private Perſons, and others publick Perſons, in their own Single Authority, Harraſſers of the Clergy.

P. 19.

Calamy I. 117.

See Mr. Barkſdale, in Glouceſterſhire.

Nor can it be Thought, that the Soldiers, who had more Power, were leſs forward to make uſe of it to the ſame Purpoſes, eſpecially, (as may well be preſumed) under the Government of Cromwell's Major-Generals. I need only refer the Reader to the Caſe of Mr. Tho. Canen, in Northamptonſhire, and the many other Inſtances in the Liſt of thoſe, who were compelled by the Rebel-Armies and Garriſons, to Quit their Livings

The Soldiers more eſpecially to the ſame.

See more to the Liſt.

Digitized by Google

vings, in order to give him a Notion of what the Clergy Suffered from that Quarter: Only I muſt not Omit in this Place, the expreſs Teſtimony of Wood, with Regard to the Proceedings of Nath. Fiennes at Briſtol, who, that Author acquaints us, 'Diſcountenanced, and 'drove away the Orthodox Miniſters, and Sub-'ſtituted in their Places the moſt Infamous, and 'Notorious Schiſmaticks, he could pick out of 'Briſtol, and other Places;' of which Sort he there Names no leſs than half a Dozen.

Ath. Vol. II. p. 447.

The bare Mention of the Army, readily ſuggeſts the Numbetleſs Outrages, committed upon the Clergy in the Method of Rapine and Plunder; but this is to well known, that I forbear to mention it; eſpecially conſidering, the Liſt will be interſperſed with ſo many Exemplifications of it; and that as it is impoſſible to obtain an Account of all of them, ſo it is endleſs to recite all thoſe that may be met with. The Reader may Frame to himſelf ſome Notion of them, from this Truth (and I am fully perſuaded, it is a very great One) that many Volumes, would not be able to contain a juſt Account of one half of them; ſince Imagination it ſelf can hardly reach them. Let this one Inſtance ſerve to Illuſtrate, what is now laid; Namely, that 'Brown, Waller, and 'others, in their March from Alisbury to Win-'ſor, Plundered every Miniſter within Five Miles 'of the Road, without Diſtinction of Friend or 'Foe.'

Protect. Apol. Reſpondent. p. 6.

To this muſt be added another Method of oppreſſing Thoſe, whom they had not as yet diſpoſſeſſed; which was that of Quartering the Soldiers upon them. How Burthenſome this was, will be eaſily ſeen, from the Caſes of Mr. Newte and Mr. Faucette, (for the Former of which, they pick'd out the worſt Fellows in the Regiment; and ſure they had bad enough among them) and how general this Miſery muſt have been, will be no leſs eaſie to perceive, when it is conſider'd, that their Armies at laſt, had got the full Poſſeſſion of all his Majeſty's Forts and Garriſons throughout the whole Kingdom.

Quartering of Soldiers upon the Clergy.

See the Case in Dennis, and that of them in Herefordshire.

I need not take Notice, that when ſome of the Loyaliſts had in the Intervals of Perſecution gotten Congregations, whom they Preached to in Private Houſes, in, and about London; they were ſometimes Harraſſed and Diſturbed; particularly, Dr. Gunning, and ſome others, fell under the Diſpleaſure of Cromwell in 1657, for holding their Aſſemblies on Chriſtmas-Day that Year, and Celebrating that Feſtival.

Congregations of the Loyaliſts Diſturbed.

Compl. Hiſt. of Engl. Vol. III. p. 208. See alſo Whitl. Mem. p. 286. and Wood, Ath. Vol. II. p. 423.

It will be more to the Purpoſe, to obſerve in the laſt Place, the diſtinguiſhed Oppreſſion exerciſed upon ſuch of the Clergy, as came to Compound for their Temporal Eſtates, at Goldſmiths, or Haberdaſhers Hall; where (ſaith the Author of Perſecutio Undecima) they 'were ever moſt 'Spightfully Uſed by thoſe Cruel Committees; 'the Laity Compounding for Two Years Va-'lue; but the Clergy ſeldom came off, without 'Four or Five Years Purchaſe of th ir own 'Lands, and Eſtates.' The ſame Author goes on to Particularize the Oppreſſion, Exerciſed by thoſe Committees, upon one of the Clergy, 'to 'whom, a Ticket was ſent, for 240 l. as the 'Twentieth part of his Eſtate: He coming with-'in the Ten Days Limited in their Tickets, to the Committee, for Mitigation, preferring his Oath, 'that all his Eſtate, Real and Perſonal, was not 'worth Two Hundred Pounds, could not be 'admitted to his Proteſtation, but was referred 'to the Committee of Lords and Commons, for 'Advance of Monies; whither applying himſelf, 'the Door-keeper told him, he muſt not Enter 'in, till he was call'd: Thus attending de Die 'in Diem, the Ten Days were expired without 'his being call'd, or his obtaining Leave to paſs 'the firſt or ſecond Doors, which were duly 'Locked by their Officers: Hereupon, according 'to the great Juſtice of Committee-Orders, and Parliament-Ordinances, he Fell by Courſe into 'their Meſſenger's Hands, as their Priſoner, '(tho' at large) for not making an End, within 'the Ten Days. After ſome Weeks Dancing 'Attendance, and Feeing a Lawyer, his Petition 'was Read, to which was affixed an Affidavit, 'that his whole Eſtate, was not worth One Hun-'dred Pounds. The Anſwer of the Committee 'was, that until he ſhould bring in the one 'Moiety of his Aſſeſſment, viz. One Hundred and 'Twenty Pounds, according to the Cuſtom of that 'Committee, he ſhould not be heard; which he 'not being able to Perform, was ſent for by 'their Purſevants; and upon his Petition was 'order'd to bring in Fifty Pounds, and then to 'be further Heard: After ſome Delay, he Moved again, and was order'd to give preſent Se-'curity, to bring in Twenty Pound the next 'Committee-Day, or elſe to Priſon he muſt go 'preſently; which to prevent, he was forced to 'Borrow Twenty Pounds, and accordingly Depoſi-'ted it, Petitioning to be admitted to his Pro-'teſtation; but the Committee told him, they 'muſt obſerve Rules, and order'd him to give 'Security for the other Thirty Pounds, to be 'brought the next Sitting, or elſe he muſt go to 'Priſon; telling him, if he were not worth ſo 'much, when he came to Hearing, the Money 'ſhould be returned to him again: Whereupon 'he was again forced to Borrow Thirty Pounds 'more, which he brought in accordingly; but 'upon hearing, was told, that tho' the Ordinance 'did admit all Men, yet the Cuſtom of that Com-'mittee did not admit of Malignants to their 'Proteſtation; and ſo took all the Borrowed 'Fifty Pounds, as the Twentieth Part of his 'Eſtate, which by Affidavit gave in to them, 'was not worth One Hundred Pounds; having 'been long Sequeſter'd and Plundered of his 'Goods, and by Impriſonment, and Ægyptian 'Years of Famine, forced to ſpend his long pro-'vided Store.'

The Reader will now think it high Time to have done with the many Ways and Methods, taken to Oppreſs the Clergy; and I promiſe my ſelf, that inſtead of expecting a y more, he will rather wonder at thoſe exquiſite Arts of Malice and Wickedneſs, which could invent ſo great a Variety of New Ones, Unpractiſed ſurely, and even Unheard of before in any Kingdom. However, I muſt yet, before I leave this Subject, obſerve in the laſt Place, that the Head of Miſeries now Accounted for, were the Diſtinct and Separate Sufferings, and the Peculiar Lot and Portion of the Clergy in thoſe Times: Foraſmuch as, with regard to their Temporal Capacities, they Suffered in Common with the Laity (only, as might well be gueſſed, and in Fact it appears, by the * Caſe laſt mention'd, in a Diſtinguiſh'd Manner) under the Numberleſs Orders, Ordinances, Acts, Reſolves, Taxes, Decimations, Fifths, and Twentieth Parts, Impoſitions, Exactions, Declarations, Proclamations, and I know not how many other Oppreſſions of the Rebellion: And if thoſe have been juſtly Eſteemed the greateſt Burthen, that ever any Subjects were (as the Lord Clarendon expreſſes himſelf on another Occaſion) Curſed with, or under; what muſt the Miſeries of the Loyal Clergy have been, who had ſuch an Additional Load, heaped upon their Shoulders?

See what is likewiſe ſaid of this Kind, at Dr. Mat-thew, Maſter of Queen's-College in Cambridge.

* And I am aſſured likewiſe, that the Clergy of the Diocels of Carliſle in particular, Suffered in an eſpecial Manner, and much beyond the Laity, under the Exactions and Impoſitions for maintaining the Scots Army.

Digitized by Google

A General Computation of the Number of the Suffering Clergy.

Before I proceed to shew (as far as I am yet informed) who in particular they were among the Clergy, that suffer'd in the manner now spoken of, I muſt, as I at firſt propoſed, make a General, but ſhort Enquiry into their Numbers, in Order to ſupply the neceſſary and unavoidable Defect of the Liſt, with Regard to that Point. That their Numbers were very great, appears from what hath been already ſaid of ſome of the Committees; and it might otherwiſe have been gueſs'd, from the great multitude and variety of the Methods which were taken to diſpoſſeſs them, and from the Continuance of thoſe Proſecutions, for the ſpace of well near Twenty Years: And that the whole of the Cathedral Clergy (a very conſiderable Body of Men ſurely, as well for their Numbers, as for their Eminence and Learning) together with thoſe in the Collegiate Churches, &c. was at once taken away, is to well known, that it is altogether needleſs to mention it. As to what chiefly concerns the Parochial Clergy, therefore, Dr. Heylin (a ſad Witneſs of the Truth of what he delivered) ſpeaking of the Beginnings of the Sequeſtrations, affirms, That 'more Men 'were ouſed of their Livings by the Preſbyterians, in the ſpace of Three Years, than were 'depriv'd by the Papiſts in th' Reign of Queen 'Mary; or had been ſilenc'd, ſuſpended, or de- 'priv'd by ALL the BISHOPS, from the firſt 'Year of Queen Eliſabeth, to thoſe very Times.' And yet this Account of the Sequeſtrations, is of more uſe to ſhew how little Reaſon the Party have to make ſuch terrible Outcries of Perſecution in the Biſhops Days, than to give the Reader any juſt Notion of the Numbers which were Ejected, during the Courſe of the Rebellion, of which it falls very ſhort: And therefore, the ſame Author, in another Place, pronounces at once, that 'they purged the Church of almoſt all Canoni- 'cal and Orthodox Men.' To the like Purpoſe the Author of the Friendly Debate, ſaith, he had 'read of a thouſand Impriſon'd and Sequeſter'd, 'for refuſing the Covenant;' and that 'an 'hundred Fellows of Colleges were turned out 'in one Week,' on the ſame Score, at Cambridge. The Writer of Perſecutio Undecima obſerves alſo, that 'Armed Fury had forced Twoſands of the 'Clergy from their Flocks. And the Petition preſented to his Majeſty, and General Fairfax, in July, 1647, (when there were yet Twelve Years of their Perſecution to come) ran in the Name of 'MANY Thouſands of the poor Sequeſter'd 'Clergy' of England and Wales: And Dr. Nichols hath theſe Words, to the ſame Purpoſe, 'Omnes 'fere Epiſcoporii miniſteriis ſuis abrogati (viz in 'Lond.) in exteris civitatibus provinciiſque aliquot 'militia.' An Ancient Gentleman informed me, that he hath heard it ſaid, all the Clergy of the Eſtabliſhment were turned out, 'except Four 'Hundred and Fifty Compliers,' which, he adds, was obſerved to have been exactly the Number of Baal's Prophets. And tho' it was, perhaps, this Obſervation, that occaſioned the Remainder to be preciſely fixt at that Number, yet thus much may be gather'd from it, that thoſe who kept their Places, were proportionably very few: Nor will that particular Number be deemed ſo very Scanty, when it is conſider'd, that in ſome Places (as well Counties as Cities) there was made almoſt a clear Riddance of all the Clergy. The Havock of this kind made in Wales, hath been already particularly mention'd (as that of the Two Univerſities will be hereafter in the Life) and as for London, it is well known, that 'ſcarce 'any * Parſons or Vicars in that City were left 'Unſequeſter'd:' To which I muſt add, that, according to the beſt Information I could hitherto get, either Fear, Death, or Sequeſtration, during one Part, or other of the Rebellion and Uſurpation, left but one ſingle Perſon of the Old City (and he compliſt with the Times) on any of the 25 Pariſh-Churches in the City and Suburbs of Exeter; and from ſome of them, no leſs than Two or Three Sets of Loyaliſts had been driven ſucceſſively. And I am not without ſome Intimations, that the like was practiſed in other Cities: Nor were theſe Deſolations peculiar to the Cities and great Towns; for I have been informed, from an Ancient Perſon who ſpake in good Part on his own Knowledge, that near 'Two Thirds' of the Clergy of the County of Hertford were turn'd out: And I have been likewiſe aſſur'd from another Hand, that in ſome Parts of Suffolk, ſcarce 'One in Ten' of them was ſpared: And to the ſame Purpoſe the very Learned and Excellent Dr. Todd hath informed me, That 'all the Clergy of the Diocels of Car-liſle (* about an Hundred in Number) were 'Ejected out of their Livings.'

In a former Letter to Smith, 2d Part, p. 10.

Hiſt. Preſbyt. (2d. Edit.) p. 450.

' Diocels were Ejected, except a very few.'

* This Diocels conſiſting in all of 93 Parſhes. See the Introduction to the 1st Edit. of the Life of Dr. Sanderſon, p. 170, alibi, in that, and the following Part. 'Diocels is ſaid to be made up only of 'parts of Cumberland and Weſtmorland, 'and the whole Parſhes of thoſe Two Counties, as number'd, p. 837, and p. 1101, of the Britannia is but ſeaſing to ten Addition by the Note in the laſt mentioned Page) will ſcarce amount to the firſt Number of 93, but then there are in each of the Counties ſeveral Chapels, &c.

It muſt not be Thought, however, that this was the Caſe of many of the Counties. Others of them, from which I apprehend my Informations to have been fulleſt, did not loſe the * one half of their Clergy, which tho' (proportionably) much ſhort of the Numbers Ejected in the Diocels of Carliſle, is, however, of uſe to help the Reader, in forming a Judgment of the Multitudes that fell by the Hands of the Sequeſtrators. I have been informed therefore, that the Ejected Clergy in Cornwall were computed at about † Seventy; and in that County there are, according to ‡ Camden, 160 Livings. The Liſt of Hampſhire (in which County there are, ‖ according to the ſame Author, 253 Pariſhes) Accounts about an (a) Hundred of th' (b) Parochial Clergy: And the Manuſcript Papers of the Learned Mr. Jer. Stephens, inform us, that there are in Northamptonſhire about 150 Rectories, of which about 100 were under Sequeſtrations, (c) in 1646, or 1647. And that ſeveral of the Remainder were afterwards put under Sequeſtration likewiſe, will be readily allowed, when it is conſider'd, that there was yet more than another Seven Years of Perſecution ſtill to follow. And if this (which is ſomething more than Two Thirds, as may be admitted, as a Proportion for the Sequeſter'd Rectories, throughout the Kingdom, it will appear, that they were betwixt Three and Four Thouſand: For, as far as I can judge, by Examining Two or Three Diſtinct Counties in the Valor Beneficiorum, more than the one Half (and not much leſs than Two Thirds) of the Livings in the Kingdom (which are upwards of 9000) are Rectories; and by Conſequence they muſt be betwixt 5 (a) and 6000: Two Thirds of which therefore will be more than Three, and not much ſhort of Four Thouſand. And if it may be Thought reaſonable to Demand One Third, as a Proportion for the Sequeſter'd Vicarages (tho' I muſt own I have no * particular Information to on which to found a Calculation of this Kind) the whole Vicarages of the Kingdom amounting to betwixt 3 and 4000; the One Third of them will be upward of 1000, which added to the Rectories ſuppoſed to be Sequeſter'd as before, will give a Total of about 5000.

* Vicars in the County of Devon (after the beſt Enquiries I have been able to make) that do not, as far as I can perceive, exceed a third Part.

† Including in this, and the other Counties, ſeveral of the Diſſenting Clergy, who were thereby Ejected.

‡ Brittain, p. 158.

‖ Ibid. p. 227.

Def. Eccl. Angl. p. 40.

a Kings, 18, 19.

b Prince, Under 2122 Titles, (including however, Curates, if I miſtake not) being turned out of the 229 Pariſhes. See Perſec. Undec. p. 40. and Sir Hen. Vaughan's Anſ. Ep. before Dr. Mont. Treat. of Epiſcopacy, p. 49.

Vol. I. p. 198.

c Mention'd in the Preface, the Publiſher calls it a perfect Liſt, &c. and in a Note at the ſame Place ſeems to ſuggeſt, that it is not yet publiſh'd, but I am indeed a great Stranger to the Reaſons why ſuch Papers have been ſuppreſſed, and ſhall be glad to ſee them.

Sir Geo. Sandys, the Surveyor, in his Account of the Eſtate of the Biſhoprick of Durham, ſaith, that the Number of Parſonages and Vicarages in that County, amounted to 'many Hundreds.' Lond. 1636. p. 198.

The Number of Sequeſtrated Livings in the Diocels of Norwich, is ſaid to be 'above 200.' Life of Dr. Sanderſon, p. 170.

*From what hath been already ſaid, it is unſupportable to ſuppoſe, that the Number of Sequeſtrations in the Diocels of Carliſle, is, however, of uſe to help the Reader, in forming a Judgment of the Multitudes that fell by the Hands of the Sequeſtrators. I have been informed therefore, that the Ejected Clergy in Cornwall were computed at about † Seventy; and in that County there are, according to ‡ Camden, 160 Livings. The Liſt of Hampſhire (in which County there are, ‖ according to the ſame Author, 253 Pariſhes) Accounts about an (a) Hundred of th' (b) Parochial Clergy: And the Manuſcript Papers of the Learned Mr. Jer. Stephens, inform us, that there are in Northamptonſhire about 150 Rectories, of which about 100 were under Sequeſtrations, (c) in 1646, or 1647. And that ſeveral of the Remainder were afterwards put under Sequeſtration likewiſe, will be readily allowed, when it is conſider'd, that there was yet more than another Seven Years of Perſecution ſtill to follow. And if this (which is ſomething more than Two Thirds, as may be admitted, as a Proportion for the Sequeſter'd Rectories, throughout the Kingdom, it will appear, that they were betwixt Three and Four Thouſand: For, as far as I can judge, by Examining Two or Three Diſtinct Counties in the Valor Beneficiorum, more than the one Half (and not much leſs than Two Thirds) of the Livings in the Kingdom (which are upwards of 9000) are Rectories; and by Conſequence they muſt be betwixt 5 (a) and 6000: Two Thirds of which therefore will be more than Three, and not much ſhort of Four Thouſand. And if it may be Thought reaſonable to Demand One Third, as a Proportion for the Sequeſter'd Vicarages (tho' I muſt own I have no * particular Information to on which to found a Calculation of this Kind) the whole Vicarages of the Kingdom amounting to betwixt 3 and 4000; the One Third of them will be upward of 1000, which added to the Rectories ſuppoſed to be Sequeſter'd as before, will give a Total of about 5000.*

a *1

But I muſt confeſs, this Calculation (tho' the beſt my Informations enable me to make) is very uncertain; particularly, for this Reaſon, among others, becauſe no one County can be reaſonably pretended to be an Exact Standard for any other; the Goodneſs of the Livings, the ſpecial Ordinances paſſed, or Committees Erected; the Zeal and Activity of the ſeveral Members, and many other Incidents on one Hand; as likewiſe the Smallneſs of the Livings; the Diſtance of the Counties, and as many Incidents of a differing Kind on the other Hand, reſpectively increaſing or leſſening the Sequeſtrations, in the ſeveral, and diſtinct Counties: And it is ſure, in the Inſtances of the other Counties now mention'd (from which my Informations are the moſt Compleat) that the Numbers Sequeſter'd in them do not ariſe to that Proportion, which the preſent Calculation would produce, in the County of Northampton; altho' 'tis plain from what was firſt ſaid of the Diocеſs of Carliſle, &c. (and will be ſtill plainer from what I muſt further ſay, in the next Place) that in other ſome of the Counties the Proportions of the Ejected Clergy much exceeded the utmoſt Extent of what is demanded in this Computation.

For I muſt now add, that ſetting aſide the Uncertainty of theſe Gueſſes, there are expreſs Teſtimonies of the vaſt Numbers of the Regular Clergy, that were Sequeſter'd in theſe Times of Miſery and Diſolation. The Mſ. Papers of the learned Mr. Jer. Stephens, juſt now mention'd, affirm (and often repeat it) that there had been about * 8000 of the Clergy '† SEQUESTER'D AND CAST OUT:' And ſpeaking of Mr. Y. White's Speech in Parliament, againſt the Clergy, wherein he had affirmed, that 5000 of them 'were Unworthy and Scandalous,' and deſerved to be caſt out; they add, 'And he, and 'his Committee have come little ſhort of 'that Number:' And in another Place (advancing the Numbers yet higher) 'they Deſtroy all 'the principal Miniſters throughout the King-'dom, and of TEN THOUSAND, ſcarce leave 'ONE THOUSAND of the OLD CLERGY.' To the ſame Purpoſe Dr. Pierce (in his Anſwer to Mr. Baxter's Grotian Religion) aſſures us, he had been told, that 'White boaſted, he and his, had EJECTED EIGHT THOUSANDS.' To which muſt likewiſe be ſubjoined the Teſtimony of the very learned Sir Henry Wotton, who in his Apologetical Epiſtle preſix'd to Biſhop Morton's Treatiſe of Epiſcopacy, thus delivers himſelf; 'If 'I miſtake not, there were 8000 forlook all for 'the Covenant.'

I muſt own, when I met with the firſt of theſe Teſtimonies, I apprehend'd, it might have been a Miſtake, occaſion'd poſſibly by that Part of Mr. White's Speech, juſt now mention'd: Namely, that '5000 were Unworthy and Scandalous,' and deſerved to be caſt out: And I was the rather inclined to think thus, becauſe Mr. White died in 1644, too early, as I ſhould Gueſs, for being able to ſee and promote the Ruin of ſuch a prodigious Number of the Clergy: But conſidering that theſe Papers were drawn up by a * Perſon who lived in thoſe Times: That the very learned Mr. Stephens (himſelf a Sufferer) did in ſome Meaſure make them his own, by his Copying of them; and finding afterwards, that the Aſſertion received ſo much Countenance from the Two great and learned Men now mention'd (one of whom was himſelf likewiſe a Sufferer, and the other lived thro' the whole Times of the Rebellion and Uſurpation;) I could not but think, the Teſtimony deſerved more Credit, than I was at firſt diſpoſed to allow it; and therefore I now leave it with the Reader, for his further Conſideration: Nor can I think how the force of it may be Evaded by any other Way, than ſaying, that Mr. White, like many other Preſbyters, boaſted of more Wickedneſs than he had ever Practiſed. I muſt add likewiſe, that by the Expreſſions Sequeſter'd, Caſt out, and Ejected, (if they are exact) it looks as tho' this was meant of Rectors and Vicars only, and did not include the Curates, &c. which will ſtill add to the Numbers of the Suffering Clergy; and it is ſure, the Computation takes in the five or ſix firſt Years only of the Sequeſtrations (or indeed hardly ſo much;) and indeed it is well known, that Multitudes of the Clergy were diſpoſſeſſed in the enſuing Times of the Confuſions.

The Coveni indeed mentioned in Sir Hen. Yelverton's Teſtimony (if at leaſt that be not a Miſtake for the ſame Report mention'd by the Two others, which I am apt to believe) continued to be urged till 1650: But the Clergy lay under no leſs than ſeven or eight Years of Perſecution, even after that.

But the moſt perfect and unqueſtionable Account of the Numbers of the Sequeſter'd Clergy, I have yet met with, ſeems to be that of Dr. Gaudon, in his Petitionary Remonſtrance lately mention'd: This Remonſtrance was, as I have before ſaid, occaſion'd by the Protector's Declaration of 1655, at which Time the Sufferings of the Clergy began to draw towards their Period. The Dr. was a Perſon of Learning and Eminence, had been an Eye Witneſs of many of their Miſeries, thro' every ſingle Year of their Perſecution; and cou'd not want the beſt Opportunities of Informing himſelf from many of the Sufferers themſelves, concerning the Reſt. The End indeed which he propoſed by that Petition in Favour of the Clergy, would not allow him to make the leaſt of their Numbers: Nor, on the other Hand, would the Hazard of ſpeaking even the Truth in ſuch a Cauſe permit him to exceed in his Account; eſpecially when he had to deal with a Perſon that had himſelf acted ſo great a Part in theſe Miſeries of the Clergy, and could by ſo many other Ways inform himſelf of the Facts thus laid before him.

That Learned Perſon therefore acquaints the Protector, that 'above half of the Mini-'ſters and Scholars of England and Wales had 'been, upon one Account or other, SEQUE-'STER'D from their Livings (which are above '9000) beſides Fellowſhips or Free-Schools:' And that 'many other alſo had been wholly 'deprived of their Prebendaries, Deanries, Biſh-'opricks, and higheſt Dignities in the Church; 'who, upon the firſt Figure or Head, could not 'be leſs than * SIX or SEVEN THOUSAND Perſons"

Patr. Remon. p. 12.

 It muſt be obſerved, that ſeveral of theſe being (as it cannot be doubted) Pluraliſts, the Number of the Sequeſter'd Livings muſt ſtill have been greater than that of the Perſons exiled from them.*

And after entring into a Computation of the whole Number of themſelves and their Families jointly, on Suppoſition that each (one with another) had Four Perſons belonging to him, which (ſaith he) is but a ſmall Family or Retinue; he concludes, that all together could not amount to leſs than TWENTY or THIRTY THOUSAND SOULS: Or, rather, as he ſaith, they muſt have exceeded this Number: And, 'tis Plain, according to that Concluſion, they muſt have fallen but little ſhort of FORTY THOUSAND.

And it muſt be further obſerved, that by the Expreſſion ('I have been Sequeſter'd from their 'Livings,') the Dr. ſeems to take into the Account the Rectors and Vicars only (as is before obſerved of the other Teſtimonies) excluſive, I

Allow the Title runs thus, 'Miſ-'nifters and 'other good Scholars, deprived of Employments?' Now have I the Remonſtrance by me at preſent to examine, whether in other Parts of it he ſufficiently explains himſelf to his Purpoſe mean

* If I do not miſtake, theſe Papers form to ground this Aſſertion, on what it was affirmed Mr. White reported of himſelf, which will be next mention'd.

† Juſt after, he calls it deſtroy'd & undone.

P. 140.

P. 19.

* One Mr. J. Sandford ſays many Parts of the Papers are only a Duplicate made by Mr. Stephens.

mean, of the Curates, Private Chaplains, &c. And if this be allowed, then Including theie, together with such others in Orders (and not yet Fixed on Places) who were SILENCED by the Ordinances of the Times, as likewise such Scholars, as were prepared, and intended for the Ministry, tho' not then in any Orders (and of such as * Thefe, it I guefs right, is more than the one half of the Sufferers in the Abridgment made up:) And laftly, if we should further add, such as would have Suffered, had not Death prevented (for which the Abridgment likewife would afford us Precedents:) I fay, fhould all theie be taken into the Reckoning, it would not only bring up the Numb rs to the EIGHT or NINE THOUSAND before mentioned; but in all probability, make the Total nothing fhort of TEN THOUSAND.

* i.e. Curates, Chaplains, Perfons not Fixed, and Perfons not in any Orders.

The Diffi ulty in this Undertaking, defective in point of Numbers.

That the Reader however, is not to expect this laft mentioned Number in the Lift, (nor indeed the one half of them, as I Judge; for I have not exactly counted the Sufferers of it;) is fufficiently Suggested to him, by the Computation it felf now made, which (as hath been alfo expreffly Noted) was undertaken, on purpofe to fupply the Defect of more particular Informations; and the Reafons are Obvious: For I was to far from taking any Notice at all of fome of theie Letters of Preffions, that I did not fo much as make any direct Inquiry after the Curates themfelves; tho' I could not Omit throwing fuch of them as I Occafionally met with, into an Appendix. And as to thofe other Sorts, which were the more immediate Subject of my Enquiries, it will not be imagined, that a Compleat Account of them could (by the Firft Attempt, at leaft, if ever hereafter) be Recovered: But tho' I promife my felf, this will be the Senfe of every Body at the Firft Hearing; it may not however, be improper, for the more immediate Introduction of the Lift, to allege in this Place, fome particular Reafons of it.

Among which, it cannot fail of being readily obferved in the firft Place, that the Pains I have Taken, the Care I have Ufed, and the Undertaking in a Manner it felf, Now and Unattempted: Of which Account, the Affiftance (Comparatively fpeaking) was to be expected from any Thing, tha had been hitherto Publifhed. There were indeed fome general Computations, made of the Numbers Ejected from the Cathedrals; but no Lift of their Names, was ever Printed. An Imperf ft Lift of fuch as were Dispoffeff'd of their Fellowfhips, in the Univerfity of Oxford, was alfo Publifhed, under the Title of Oxonii Lachrymæ; as was that likewife, for the other Univerfity, at the End of Querela Cantabrigienfis; but without the Names of the Ejected Scholars of Houfes. And as to what concerns the Parochial Clergy, I never yet heard of any thing attempted in that kind, befide the * General Bill of Mortality, &c. for the City of London, and the Lift of the Sequeftred Clergy of Hampfhire, Publifhed in 1652. The Mercurius Ruftieus, and indeed perfect Account of fome few of the more early Sufferers; and Mr. Lloyd hath intermixed his Memoirs, with fhort and unfatisfactory Notices of fome Sufferers. The Principal Clergy, he ends up in one Rank with thofe of the Loyal Gentry and Nobility, who Suffered for his Majefty's Caufe under the Rebellion: But fuch Accounts, I do not at prefent remember, that any one hath profeffedly ftooken of any Number of them, fave that Mr. White hath (on a nother Head) Tranfmitted to Pofterity an Account of † One Hundred; and the Indefatigable Induftry of Anthony Wood hath preferved the Memory of as many among them, as were either Writers, or otherwife of Diftinguifhed Eminence, and had their Education, or any Degrees conferr'd upon them, in the Univerfity of Oxford. All the other printed Notices relating to theie Matters, are (as far as I can at prefent remember, or am informed) difperfed up and down in the Single Lives of fuch of the Sufferers, as have been recommended to Poftority in that Way, or in fuch Books and Pamphlets, as do Occafionally mention any of them. And it would take in a greater Compafs of Reading, than I can Boaft of to Collect all the Scatter'd Memoirs of this kind: Nor have I been able to Procure fome of the Papers, where, it is probable, I might have met with fevcral of them; particularly, the Diurnals, and other Weekly Scribbles of thofe Times (in which, it feems, fome of the Principal of the Sequeftr'd Clergy had an Additional Load of Infamy and Slander laid upon them) as likewife fome of thofe Articles and Accufations, which were Printed and Publifhed againft others among them, as hath been already Hinted at in another Place. And it is probable, that as fome Papers of this kind have efcaped my Endeavours after them; fo others have even my Knowledge and Information.

The only remaining Hopes therefore of compleating the Numbers of the Sequeftr'd Clergy, muft have been in fuch Notices, as might be gathered either from the Publick Regifters, or the Private Collections of fome Learned Men, or from the Memoirs of fuch Ancient Perfons, as had been Witneffes of the Inhumanities, Exercifed under the Rebellion; each of which, will likewife appear to have fallen very Short of what might at firft Sight be expected (or rather indeed Wifh'd and Defired) from them: For with relation to the Firft, it is Evident (as hath been already Suggefted, on another Occafion) that thofe Committees of Parliament, who did in the Beginning make fuch Havock among the Clergy, kept no Regifter (or at leaft, no Papers that Del ved that Name) of their Proceedings: This was fo Notorious, that the many Thoufands of the Clergy, who Petitioned his Majefty and General Fairfax, in 1647, took expreis Notice, and Complained of it in thofe Petitions; fetting forth among other Things, that moft of them had been Sequeftr'd, by the refpective Committees for Scandalous and Plunder'd Miniiters; ' of whofe Crimes (in ' Orders (fay they) no Record is kept, nor fcarce any ' Notes, or Memorials, whereby it may appear ' when, by whom, or for what, your Petitioners (ang'a to the ' were Removed.' † The Journal of the Houfe of Commons may perhaps be thought fufficiently to Supply this Defect (and there are great Numbers of the Sequeftr'd Clergy appear on it;) but 'tis ture, it do h not by any means Anfwer that End, or come any thing near to the full Numbers of the Sequeftr'd Clergy, as appears by comparing it with the other Notices of the Sequeftrations; of which, there is among others, this obvious Reafon, that with the Bufinefs of that kind Incread upon their Hands, the Committees had † probably full Power of Displacing the Clergy, without Reporting to the Houfe. Add to this, that altho' the Sequeftration of each Single Clergyman, fhould have been Enter'd in the Journal; yet I had not Time, and Opportunity to Examine more, than the Two or Three firft Years of it; much leis could I fearch the Journal of the Houfe of Lords.

* Printed fold by a Single Sheet 1647. and of it re-printed in Pofthumus Ufher. alſo in Dugdale as likewiſe in Dr Heylin's H. of Presbyt.

† And One hundred of the Clergy was not given to the Houſe of Commons.

Publifhed entirely by Mr White, or from this Perſon, and I have Seen no Account of it as made up by the Authority of the Sequeſtrators.

I know ſome Gentlemen to be poſſeſſed of this Information, but they are very ſhort and imperfect.

† I know not that any Inſtruction, whatever it may be neceſſary to give the Perſons employed in the Houſe, but preſumed it is; and if ſuch great Numbers do attend to the Commons on and the Clergy, were known, they will yield abundant matter of Information to this Head, but I muſt own, I omitted to enquire for them.

† Twenty Lawyers to aſſiſtant. See what is ſaid of this matter, before the Account of theſe Committees.

As

Digitized by Google

As to the Committees in the Country (which together with thefe now mention'd, * Dilpatch'd far the greater Part of the Clergy) after the beft Enquiries I could make, I have not been able to difcover any more of their Proceedings, than thofe for about one Year in Herefordfhire; the * Accufations and Anfwers of fome of the Clergy of Leicefterfhire; and fome Papers of a mixed Nature, for the County of Cornwall; tho' I have been informed, that a Gentleman of that County, hath a more perfect Account of their Ravages in thofe Parts; which however, my utmoft Endeavours have not yet been able to Procure me a Sight of: Nor can I fo much as fay, whether they are the Original Proceedings of the Committees, or not; but am inclined to think the Contrary; becaufe an Ancient Gentleman hath aflured me, there was a Report, that Mr. Rule (the Clerk if I miftake not, to the Committee there) 'Burnt all his 'Papers on the Reftoration:' And it feems highly probable to me, that this was the Method taken by the reft of the Brethren likewife; without which, it will, I Believe, be difficult to fay, how they came to be mifling in almoft every County: For I cannot think, that their Defcendants have been able to preferve them with fo much Secrefie, and Security, as that the Alterations in Families, and other Accidents, fhould not have been able to Difcover confiderable Numbers of them; or to have made it known at leaft, that fuch Paper were in Being; unlefs it may be faid, that many of the Committees in the Country were as negligent in this Matter, as thofe at London appear to have been. This in the mean time, I am fure of, that when I went in Perfon to the Family of the Clerk to the Committee for the County of Devon, they Declared, there were no fuch Papers in their Cuftody, nor did they know any thing of them. So that on the whole, I have now fome † few Loofe and Scatter'd Orders, only of thofe Committees (a id thofe chiefly relating to the County laft mentioned) which prove but a very poor Supply of the Original Papers, and Proceedings themfelves.

It is true, the Proteo dings againft the Clergy of the Affociated Counties under the Earl of Manchefter, were (purfuant to an expreis Clauſe in the Ordinance) taken and preferved, and are by a good Providence, to be produced at this very Day; Thofe, I mean, for five of the feven Counties, and for the Year 1644. But the Proceedings of a Single Year, can never be thought to compleat the Account of thofe Sequeftrators themfelves, much lefs of the † whole Sequeftrations in thefe Counties, under the ‡ Committees in Parliament, which preceded, and the other Commiffions, which Succeeded the Ejectment of that Earl until the Reftoration. Befides that, two of the Counties of that Affociation are (as is juft now Suggefted) wholly wanting in thofe Papers.

Nor would even the * Papers at Lambeth, before fpecified (tho' the moft perfect poffibly of any of the kind) and thefe too, joyned with the Accompts of the Sequeftrators themfelves, give the full Livings Sequeftr'd in that part of the Country, as I have already fhewn, on another Occafion.

The only publick Papers of any Conſideration, which remain, are fome Admiſſion-Books of thofe Times, and the Books of the Commiſſioners for the Approbation of Publick Preachers; in the Entries of which, are often occafionally mentioned the * Sequeſtrations of many of the Livings; but thefe Beginning with the latter End of 1654, and being concern'd with fuch Sequeſter'd Livings only, as happen'd to Change (whether by Death, or otherwiſe) their Uſurping Intruders, or ſuch, as had already ſucceeded them, for others perhaps as bad, or worſe, cannot be thought to contribute very much towards compleating the Account of the Sequeſter'd Clergy. Beſides that, the Entries do not in all Cafes take Notice, that the Living had been formerly Sequeſter'd; as I find by comparing them with ſome other Informations.

Next to the Commiſſioners for Approbation of Publick Preachers, Succeed'd thoſe for Ejecting Ignorant, Scandalous, and Inſufficient Miniſters and School-maſters; but I have not been able to Diſcover, or ſo much as Hear of a Single Sheet of their Proceedings.

The Petitions of the ruined Widows, and Families of the Sequeſter'd Clergy (preſented to the Corporation for Miniſters Widows, and Lodg'd with the then Mr. Tyliot of the Commons, Clerk to that Corporation) Supply'd me with the Names of ſome Scores of theſe Sufferers; but that likewiſe proved a ſmall Recruit out of the vaſt Body of them, which had been thus Undone.

I muſt add on this Occaſion alſo, what I juſt now obſerved, with Regard to the printed Books and Pamphlets, that it is no leſs (or rather more) Probable, there may be ſeveral Mſ. Papers relating to theſe Matters, yet preſerved, of which, I have not hitherto Receiv'd any Account; altho' I was not wanting to be in Perſon at all the more Publick Offices in London, in ſearch for Materials of this Nature, (not knowing, but by ſome Accident or other, ſuch Papers might be Lodged in thoſe Offices, to which however, they did not Properly belong) and to Trouble with the ſame Enquiries moſt of the Learned Men of the Kingdom, who had a more than Common Reputation for Antiquities, and whoſe Searches therefore among Papers and Records, might be moſt likely to Diſcover to them, ſuch as thoſe I am now ſpeaking of, whether preſerved in Publick Offices, or in the Cuſtody of Private and Particular Perſons.

Nor were there any Collections made, either by the learned Perſons laſt mention'd, or by others, which might in any Sort ſupply this great Defect of Publick Records. The Nonconformiſts, indeed, immediately after their being reſpectively Silenc'd or Diſpoſſeſs'd, began to preſerve the Memory of their Sufferings, without Regard to thoſe Barbarities which themſelves had then ſo lately exerciſed on their Church, Publiſhed the very next Year an imperfect Catalogue of ſome of their Sufferers: So true is it, that they are thoſe who do the Injury, that cannot forgive: But the Sequeſter'd Clergy of the Eſtabliſhment, to their Honour be it ſpoken, had learn'd to forget, as well as to forgive: Nor would any Thing, in all probability, but a Provocation, like

* Some in ſome few Counties, where more Special Commiſſions Executed, as the Aſſociated Counties &c. as alſo in Wales.

* Lately Communicated to me.

† Beſides the Papers of this kind, ſeveral more mentioned.

See what is meant by the Papers in the Cuſtody of the Regiſtrars of the Univerſities of Cambridge, and of the Sequeſtrations under the Earl now mentioned.

Scarce there, from any other Information than from Suffolk in particular (viz. for many Reaſons, which will be and to be eaſily ſuppoſed, they cannot be ſuppoſed compleat) and as many more Sequeſtrations again, to thoſe mentioned in the Committee-Books.

‡ Under which thoſe Counties (with Suſſex, that lies within Twenty Miles of London, which in fact all of the Aſſociated Counties as

My Exemplar is at large, &c.

See what is ſaid of this Matter in a Marginal Note at the Middleton of Art. 5. in College at Oxford.

The Regiſter of the Viſitors at Oxford, is likewiſe preſerved; and tho' full in point of Number, is yet ſo confuſed, and indiſtinct, in Noting the Qualities of thoſe Ejected; and it is ſo Difficult to determine, who afterwards Submitted and made their Peace, that the Liſt of that Univerſity can by no means be compleated from it.

Both the Old and the Other of which are preſerved at Lambeth.

† Conſiſtent in great Meaſure with Others Nouſeen (as are likewiſe thoſe of the Papers, as will be next mentioned) and ſo of leſs Uſe, than may at firſt be thought, towards Compleating the Liſt.

Thoſe of the Tower, only Recorded, where the Rt Reverend Father in God the preſent Biſhop of Lincoln (who had juſt before run over all thoſe Papers) aſſured me, there was nothing of the Kind I Enquired after.

1663.

Digitized by Google

that in Cap. 9. of the Abridgment, ever have reviv'd the Memory of thefe Perfecutions. And therefore the Publication of this imperfect Catalogue of the Nonconformifts, produced no other Effect than that of the Oppofite one (lately mention'd) of the Clergy Sequefter'd in Hampfhire. And the Party then contenting themfelves with that Lift, the Church likewife drops their Defigns of any further Enquiries after the Sequeftrations.

See the Pref. to that Lift of Hamph. alone: the Dates of thofe Two Lifts compared together, make this of Hampfhire previous to that of the Nonconformifts now mention'd, which I know not how to account for, unlefs in one of them the Year may be Reckon'd from Chriftmas, and in the other from Lady-day. Quere.

But tho' the Nonconformifts deferr'd for the prefent to make any Thing more of that Kind publick, they privately continued their Project of perfecting the Catalogue, and took Care to do it out of Hand, whilft the Memory of their being Silenc'd or Ejected, was yet freth, and the Sufferers themfelves alive, to give the Information, altho' they waited for the more favourable Opportunity of publifhing it, when the Remembrance of the Sequefter'd Clergy was almoft worn out, and it was morally impoffible to recover the Names, much lefs the Sufferings of all of them: So that Dr. Calamy, when he came to compleat their Numbers in the Abridgment, was, as himfelf informs us, furnifhed with no lefs than Four leveral Lifts of this Kind: But this is what neither the Sequefter'd Clergy themfelves, nor any of their Friends or Succeffors ever attempted, as far as I could yet learn; and therefore nothing hath been put into my Hands, which may deferve the Name of a Lift, fave one for the County of Cornwall (extracted perhaps Originally from the Papers already mention'd) fome things of the like Kind from * Lincolnfhire and Durham, and the Notices of feveral of the Clergy of Northamptonfhire, in the Mf. Papers of Mr. Jer. Stephens, fo often mention'd: For as to thofe Collections, that were the Refult of the Enquiries made fince this Undertaking was fet on Foot, they do not fall under this Conſideration: Nor have any, even of thefe (I mean, from any fingle Perfon) amounted to fuch a Number, as to be called a Lift, fince they feldom compleated, and very rarely exceeded the Number of Five or Six Sequefter'd Clergymen.

See the Pref. to the Abridgment.

Nor am I fure, whether theſe had been prepared before, or were drawn on Notice of this Undertaking.

* Taken paſſibly from the Papers before mentioned, relating to this County; for I have not compared them.

And this fufficiently intimates the Difappointment likewife, that I met with in the laft Method; whereby it was (as I faid) poffible to compleat the Numbers of the Suffering Clergy: Namely, the Memories of thofe Ancient People who had been fad Witneffes of their Miferies; or of thofe Relations and Defcendants, who do in fome Meafure, at this very Day feel the Smart of them. The late Dr. Goodall of the Charter-Houſe (who enter'd upon the Undertaking much about the fame time with my felf, and not long after gave up all his Papers into my Hands) did, by an Advertiſement in the Gazette, requeſt the Enquiries and Informations of the Clergy, and others, in theſe Matters: And not being content with that general Application, I attempted a more particular one to each of the Parochial Clergy, by a printed Paper, to be diſtributed by the Reverend the Arch-deacons, at their reſpective Viſitations; but the Succeſs did, by no means Anſwer the Hopes one might have been apt to conceive from that method of Enquiry: For, in the firſt Place, I have ſome Reaſon to think, that ſeveral of the Paquets fail'd of coming to the Hands of the Arch-deacons; and that others of them were not diſpers'd with ſo much Care as was to have been wiſh'd, either by themſelves or their Regiſters and Surrogates: Nor was this all; for it is probable that ſome of the Clergy (tho' I hope but few, becauſe a very few of ſuch are too many) when they had received the Paper, did not reliſh the Undertaking, and therefore wholly omitted to comply with the Requeſts of it: And others of them who were willing to make the Enquiries, ſoon found by Experience (what was indeed before obvious enough to them, and generally complained of) that the Attempt was begun too late; thoſe in their ſeveral Pariſhes who could beſt Inform them of thoſe Matters, having been ſome time before Dead. Add to this, that ſome of them had Intermarry'd, or were otherwiſe related to ſome of the Unfortunate Families which had been concern'd in the Rebellion (and perhaps more immediately ſo, in the Sufferings of the Sequeſter'd Loyaliſts;) and other ſome had at leaſt, thoſe Families in their Neighbourhoods, or Pariſhes, if not their Pariſhes themſelves, from them: The one of which were unwilling to uncover the Nakedneſs of their own Friends, and the other to create themſelves ſuch powerful Enemies. There were others among them likewiſe, Diſcouraged from ſending in their Accounts, by cauſe they were not ſo perfect as they might Apprehend would be expected (whereas the bare Name of a Sequeſter'd Perſon or Place would have been highly acceptable;) and ſome again, imagining that the Informations would have been inſerted Verbatim (and their Names be ſubjoyned at the Bottom of them) would not be at the trouble of drawing up any Thing fit for publick View. Further yet, ſome out of Negligence altogether unaccountable, omitted to make any Enquiries at all in their Pariſhes: Which I am the more ſenſible, becauſe after Perſonal and repeated Applications to ſome Clergymen, who were both my Friends and Acquaintance, whoſe own Fathers and Grandfathers were Sequeſter'd; and who highly approved and wiſhed well to the Undertaking, I have not at laſt been able to obtain from them any Account at all in Writing: And laſtly, It is probable, that many who might have been forward enough to ſend in their Informations, to a Perſon of Note and Character, were, however, unwilling to tranſmit them to one, who was in a manner unknown, beyond the Bounds of his own Pariſh.

I muſt add, that in the Cities and Great Towns, where both the Clergy and the Sequeſtrations were moſt Numerous, there was indeed a Difficulty of Recovering the Names of the Sufferers; the more frequent Change of Miniſters, and the continual Flux of Inhabitants in thoſe Places, making it difficult on the Hand, to find a Perſon that had lived in one of thoſe Pariſhes, thro' the Times of the Rebellion: And on the other Hand, rend'ring ſuch a Perſon (where he could be found) unable to give a ready and certain Account of the Clergyman that Suffer'd. Nor muſt it be omitted, that perhaps ſome Accounts, which were ſent from the more diſtant and remote Parts, might miſcarry, and be loſt.

For theſe Reaſons therefore (and ſeveral others) the Returns from the Parochial Clergy fell much ſhort of what was to be wiſhed, as will yet more particularly appear in theſe Two or Three Inſtances: Namely, the Right Reverend Father in God, the then Lord Biſhop of Cheſter, did me the Honour to acquaint me by a Letter, that tho' he had himſelf diſpers'd my Papers of Enquiry to the Clergy; yet he received but * Seven Returns in the Compaſs of a full Year. The Regiſter of the Reverend the Arch-deacon of Lincoln records but Three. There were few or no Anſwers return'd in the Archdeaconry of Huntington, until the Reverend Dr. Kennet reminded the Clergy of it, in one Part of his

* Tis remarkable to this Purpoſe, that the Reverend the Arch-deacon of Lincoln records but Three.

Digitized by Google

his Charge to them; which, tho' it had then indeed a good Effect, yet shews how little Regard was had to theſe Enquiries in thoſe Archdeaconries (and they will eaſily be Thought to have been a great many) where there was not the ſame Method taken, as that Reverend Perſon was pleated to purſue: Nor would even this Method always ſucceed: For the Right Reverend Father in God, the late Lord Biſhop of Ely affirm'd me, 'That tho' he prov'd his Clergy at his 'Viſitation, to bring in thoſe Accounts, yet 'he 'had not had an Account from one Man:' And I muſt add, that at ſome Viſitations, where I attended in Perſon, I not only found (as might indeed be well expected) ſeveral of the Clergy abſent; but, what was more unfortunate, others, who had not given themſelves the trouble to make the Enquiries.

What I have here ſaid, is abundantly ſufficient to ſhew the Reader why the Liſt of the Suffering Clergy cou'd not be compleated: But I think my ſelf obliged to ſubjoyn, before I proceed, that altho' it is plain, many of the Parochial Clergy were, on one or other of theſe Accounts, prevented from ſending in their Informations; yet this is not to be underſtood of thoſe Reverend and Learned Perſons, as a Body, in which Capacity, as it is well known, they have of late had but even too many Occaſions of diſtinguiſhing their Zeal and Affection for the eſtabliſh'd Church: And I am ſatisfy'd, that far the greater Part of thoſe among them, who receiv'd the Papers, ſet themſelves moſt willingly and readily to make the Enquiries, without which the Liſt muſt have fallen, much ſhort of the Numbers, which it doth at preſent contain, and which, perhaps, are even now by that very means much greater, than any one under ſo many Diſadvantages, could, at firſt ſetting out, have reaſonably aſſured himſelf.

But to Return, and proceed, with ſhewing, that it is, notwithſtanding, as I ſaid, far from being Compleat; I ſhall, to thoſe many Reaſons, now produced, add ſome Facts likewiſe, which will put the Matter out of all Queſtion. In Order to which, let it be known, in the firſt Place, that the Account of the Cathedral Clergy (which may perhaps in Point of Numbers, be the moſt perfect Part of the Liſt) is, in ſeveral Reſpects, however, plainly defective. I do not at preſent mean, that ſeveral of the Preferments in them are, without the Names of the Sufferers (becauſe the Cathedrals being utterly put down, the bare Preferment it ſelf ſerves, as well to ſhew there was one Sequeſtration on it, as if the Name of the Incumbent could have been produced;) but that ſeveral Perſons ſuffer'd in the Cathedrals, whoſe Numbers are not ſufficiently ſuggeſted by thus ſetting down the blank Prebends, &c. nor ſufficiently accounted for in the Notices I have receiv'd: For there is no Queſtion to be made, but that many of thoſe Preferments were Vacated by Death, from the Year 1641, to 1646; (until which laſt Year the Biſhops, as it is probable, did, in all the Cathedrals; it is certainly in Fact, they did at ſome of them, continue to collate on theſe Vacancies;) and on that Account there muſt have been Two (or ſometimes it may be, more) Sufferers, on no ſmall Number of the Dignities, Prebends, &c. ſince the Conſuſions were ſuch, that the Members of thoſe venerable Bodies were in great meaſure diſpriv'd of their Incomes, before they were at laſt formally taken away, by the Authority of an Ordinance. There are indeed ſome of theſe Duplicates mention'd; but they are to few, that they rather ſerve to confirm the Obſervation now made, and to ſhew the want of the reſt, than to Anſwer thoſe Numbers, which on a moderate Computation muſt be ſuppos'd to have ſuffer'd in the manner I have now ſpoken of. Add to this, that in ſeveral of the Cathedrals there were probably, ſome Perſons in Orders, that at that Time (and I preſume, it feldom happens otherwiſe at any Time) poſſeſſed ſome of thoſe Places, which do not neceſſarily require a Clerk Incumbent, but may be indifferently held either by a Layman or a Clergyman; and I do not remember, that I have in the Liſt, the Account of any ſingle Perſon of this Kind.

Of Kin to the Cathedrals are the Collegiate-Churches, and the many Prebends (which are now Sine Cures, and belong'd formerly to Collegiate-Churches, or Chapels, which in ſome Sort reſembl'd them) diſperſed up and down in the ſeveral Parts of the Kingdom. Now it appears by the * Ordinance it ſelf, that the former of theſe were involved in the ſame common Ruin with the Cathedrals: And yet for want of more compleat Notices, the very Names of ſeveral of them are not ſo much as mention'd in the Liſt: Nor am I informed of their Conſtitution, or the Number of their reſpective Members. And as to the ſeatter'd Prebends, I know not whether I have the Sufferer on any one of them, at leaſt, as mention'd in that Capacity. The ſame muſt be obſerv'd of ſeveral Charities (which by their very Conſtitution are under the Direction of a Clergyman) with Salaries for the Governours and Inſpectors; as likewiſe of ſeveral other Sine Cures, Donatives, &c. beſides the Prebends laſt mention'd. And yet the Reader will hardly find in the Liſt any of either Sort (tho' it cannot be doubted, but the Clergy were * turned out of theſe likewiſe) the Hoſpital of St. Croſs, at Winchester; Wigſton's Hoſpital in Leiceſter, Gretham-Hoſpital, and One or Two more only excepted, which were too conſiderable to be miſſing. Add to this alſo, that the Piety and Charity of our Forefathers, endowed many Schools in the Cities, Great Towns, and other Places of the Kingdom, with large and conſiderable Revenues. And tho' the Acts and Ordinances of the Times expreſſly provided for diveſting ſuch, as they were pleaſed to call Malignants, of theſe likewiſe; yet the Reader will ſoon perceive very few of the Sufferers in them have come to my Knowledge.

That all the Ejected Scholars of Houſes in Cambridge are wanting, hath been already ſaid in another Place: And as for the Parochial Clergy, there is a much greater Deficiency among them, which will appear Undeniable from the following Inſtances: The Cathedral-Clergy, I take it for granted, had for the moſt part, * Parochial Cures likewiſe; and yet whoever compares thoſe Two Liſts, will find but few of them (comparatively Speaking) mentioned in the latter Capacity: A plain Evidence, how defective my Accounts from the Country were. I have in another Place ſaid, that in moſt Cities, and great Towns, there was generally a clear Riddance made of the Clergy; but very little of that kind will appear from the Liſt: Nor did my Ordinary Informations by Letters, &c. bring in a Tenth Part of the London-Clergy: And had not the General Bill of Mortality, &c. before mentioned, ſupply'd that Defect, the other Nine Parts of thoſe great Men muſt have been forgotten; than which nothing more need be produc'd, to ſhew, how imperfect the Accounts of thoſe other

* As former-ly recited.

Mentioned I mean (as is before ſaid) in theſe Capacities.

* As alſo appears by Fact from what is here immediately ſubjoyned.

See alſo the Computation at the end of the University.

* And it cannot be doubted but that they were generally diſpoſſeſſed of them.

Digitized by Google

A LIST

Of ſome of the Loyal and Epiſcopal CLERGY:

As likewiſe of the Heads of HOUSES, Fellows, Scholars, &c. in the Two Univerſities:

WHO

Were Sequeſtred, Harraſs'd, and by other Methods of Perſecution Kept out, or Diſpoſſeſs'd of, or forc'd to Relinquiſh, their Several Preferments, and Freeholds, in the late Times of the GREAT REBELLION.

Together with an ACCOUNT of Their Other Sufferings, by Impriſonments, Plunderings, &c.

The CATHEDRALS.

St. ASAPH.

JOHN OWEN, D. D. Biſhoprick. He was the Son of the Worthy and Grave Mr. John Owen, ſometime Rector of Burton-Latimer in Northamptonſhire; had been Fellow of Jeſus-College in Cambridge, and Chaplain to Prince Charles; by whom, after his Acceſſion to the Throne, he was in the Year 1629. promoted to this Biſhoprick, at the Inſtance of Dr. Laud, then Biſhop of London. When the Tumults began, he was one of the Protelling Biſhops, was Impriſoned with the reſt of them in the Tower, and forced to Compound for his Temporals at the Price of 500 Pounds. He dy'd at Perthkinſey October the 16*th*. 1651. and was, ſaith Wood, a great Loyaliſt, a True Son of the Church of England, and had been much reſpected by Laud, Archbiſhop of Canterbury. To which muſt be added what Lloyd ſaith of him, viz. That he was of a Sweet and Modeſt nature; and that, as he was related to, ſo he was much belov'd by, moſt of the Gentry of North-Wales.

Lloyd, Memo. P. 180. Wood, Ath. Vol. I. p. 623. Where alſo ſee what he wrote. We have I find him Tutor in the Year 1608*

DAVID LLOYD, L.L.D. † Deanery.
And
†† The Wardenſhip of Ruthen in Denbighſhire.

† If I be not miſtake. Wood, Ath. Ox. Vol. I. p. 460.

†† If I rightly apprehend what Mr. Lloyd ſaith of him Mem. p. 613.

He had been of All-Souls College in Oxford, and Chaplain to the Earl of Derby; was promoted to a Prebend in the Church of Chester (which poſſibly he reſign'd upon his being advanc'd to this Deanery) and dy'd in the Year 1662. He was, ſaith his Nameſake Mr. Lloyd, an ingenious Man, and of great Spirit, and well belov'd of the Gentry; and a great Agent and Sufferer for his Majeſty.

Ibid.

GEORGE GRIFFITH, D.D.* Canonry.
Archdeaconry of St. Aſaph. . . . .
Llanchinio, }
And } in Montgomeryſh.
Llandyſſilio, }

* How many other Canonries there are in this Church I know not.

Wood, Ath. Vol. II. p. 370.

He was Educated in Weſtminſter-School, Elected Student of Chriſt-Church in 1619. where he became an Eminent Tutor and Preacher, and was afterwards Chaplain to the above-mention'd who it was poſſeſſed of as to his being then poſſeſs'd of the Archdeaconry; therefore quere further. But he thinks that he was permitted to keep the Living of Llanymynech during the whole time of the Rebellion.

Digitized by Google

Dr Owen, Bishop of this Church. About the Year 1635. he proceeded D. D. and was then Canon (if not also Archdeacon) of this Church. After the Breaking out of the Rebellion, he left the above-nam'd Preferments, but continued successfully to Assert the Truth and Cause of the Church of England in Wales, by Disputing with Itinerants; keeping up the Offices and Ceremonials of the Church, &c. for which, and other good Services to it, as also to his Majesty, he was made Bishop of this See in 1660. He died November the 28th. 1666. in the 65th. Year of his Age.

See in Wood what he hath wrote.

I shall only here take notice, that he is thought by some to have Composed The Form of Baptizing those of Riper Years.

* Those are the Titles of the Prebends of this Church as I find them in the Valor Beneficiorum. Whether they bear the same Names at present, or were only so called from the Names of the then Incumbents, at the time when the Valor was taken, I know not.

The Reader will here observe once for all, that seeing the Cathedrals were utterly Dissolved, and consequently All who belonged to them Dispossessed of their Preferments: Therefore in such Churches wherein I want the Names of any of the Dignitaries or Prebendaries, I set down the Dignity or Prebend it self; because it is Certain that some one or other must have been Turned out of it, unless it happened to be Void when the Cathedrals were put down, or when the several Members of them were otherwise Disposed.

——	——	Preb. of * John Ap Howell.
——	——	Preb. of Rob. Standish.
——	——	Prb. of John Crayford.
——	——	Preb. of Christopher Wellisford.
——	——	Preb. of Rich. Harrison.
——	——	Preb. of Arthur Bulkley.
——	——	Preb. of Arthur Bekingsall.
——	——	Preb. of Geoffrey Ruthin.
——	——	Preb. of Ralph Brickned.
——	——	Preb. of John Griffith.
——	——	Preb. of David Owen.
——	——	Preb. of David Ap Howell.
——	——	Minor-Canonry Or what ever other Title they
——	——	Minor-Canonry bear in this Church.

Those are all the Dignitaries and Prebends which I find in the Valor Beneficiorum, belonging to this Church. Whether there are any others besides those which are there mentioned, I am not informed.

The Reader will take notice, that here are none of the Names of those in Orders for the Common Service of the Church (whether they are called Minor-Canons, Conducts, &c.) mentioned in this Cathedral; because I could not obtain them; Nor am I informed how many they are. I have presumed they may be at least Two, and have left Blanks for them accordingly. I shall also beg the Reader to observe, that I take notice of All such in the several Cathedrals, where I can get an Account of them; not only because they are as much in Holy Orders as the Highest Dignitary of the Church; but because in several Cathedrals they are Graduates, and Beneficed, and their Places Valuable; and in All or Most of them, Freeholds. Add to this, that the meaneſt of them is much Preferable to very many of those Recited by Mr. Calamy in his List.

BANGOR.

WILLIAM ROBERTS, D. D. Bishoprick.

Wood, Ath. Vol. I. p. 632. Lloyd Mem. p. 599.

He was Bred at Queen's College in Cambridge, of which he had been Fellow, as also Proctor of that University. He was Promoted to this Bishoprick in 1637, by the Interest of Arch-Bishop Laud, for discovering Church-Goods to the value of One The Estate of one Dr. Will. Roberts was declared Forfeited for Thousand Pounds. At the time of his Promotion Treason, by he was Sub-Dean of Wells, and Arch-Deacon of an Act of Anglesey; which Latter Preferment he was per- October 18. 1652. Scrib. Collect. Part. II. p. 216. I take him to have been the same Person with this Prelate; if not, he ought to be Entered in a Distinct Article for its probable that being D. D. he had some Preferment, and not being declared a Traytor, he was Turned out of it.

mitted to keep in † Commendam with his Bishoprick, October 12th, 1642. He was Ordered by the Commons to be sent for as a Delinquent; and in 1649. his Temporal Estate was put under Sequestration. He Lived to be Restored, and Died in 1665, saith Wood; but according to Lloyd, in the foregoing Year.

† Saith Wood; but it must be a Mistake, or being unduly Commended with what he hath wrote.

Vol. II. p. 181. of Dr. Walker's Sufferings.

Hanc, who immediately succeeded

GRIFFITH WILLIAMS, D.D. Deanery. And Arch-Deaconry of Anglesey.

New. Papers, Relig. Vol. I. p. 914. Wood, Ath. Vol. II. p. 313. Where also he is mentioned as a Writer. Fleetwood, in his Account of his Sufferings during the Rebellion, is often quoted by Wood, as a Author of good Credit.

He was Born about the Year 1589, of an Eminent Family at Lanrust, in Carnarvonshire; spent sometime at Christ's-Church in Oxford; but Removed thence to Cambridge, at the Perswasion of Dr. Williams (afterwards Arch-Bishop of York) who Patronized him there. After that he was Rector of St. Benner-Sbearbeg, London; and during his ſtay on that Place, became Chaplain to Philip, Earl of Montgomery: Sometime after he was Presented to the Rectory of Lanthechid in Wales, and was highly Admir'd for his Excellent Preaching and Religious Life. After this he was made D. D. and Chaplain to King Charles I. as also Prebendary of Westminster, and in 1633. Dean of this Church, and Arch-Deacon of Anglesey. In 1641. he was made Bishop of Ossery in Ireland, but held his Deanery and Arch-Deaconry in Commendam with that See. He was Barbarously used in the time of the Rebellion, being Fetched away from his House at Apethorpe in Northamptonshire; by a Troop of Soldiers (for Writing his Vindicia Regum) and carried Prisoner to Northampton; where the Committee, before which he was Summoned, had the said Book in their Hands. After this he Retired to *Oxford, when the Soldiers from Northampton went and Plunder'd his House, and all his Houshold-ſtuff at Apethorpe, where his Wife and Children then Reſided, and ſequeſtred his Lands for the Uſe of the Parliament. Upon the declining of he the King's Cauſe, he was brought very Low, and though he had Offers made him of very conſiderable Preferment, if he would but have ſubmitted to the Parliament, yet he utterly Refuſed them. Soon after he Retired into Wales, where for Twelve Years together he had not 20 l. per Annum in all of his Living in the World, to maintain himſelf and his Servants, and was forced to live on a little Tenement of 2 l. or 3 l. a Year, and 4 l. Land of his own; ſo that he lived worſe than a poor Curate, with Oaten Bread, Barley-Bread, Butter-Milk, and ſometimes Water; being not able to keep one drop of Ale or Beer during Ten Years together. He went alſo Attired in very mean Cloaths, and was forced to do many ſervile Works himſelf about his Houſe, Garden and Caſtle. However he ſurvived all his Troubles, was Reſtored to all his Preferments, and Returning into Ireland, died there in † 1672; having beſtowed much Money in the Repairing of his Cathedral, and Erected Eight Almſ-Houſes, which he endowed with 40 l. per Annum for the uſe of as many Poor Widows.

* Wood adds, That he had in Wales, in the Counties of Merioneth, Carnarvon and Anglesey, by Gift, Purchase, and Lease, to the value of 100. a Year.

† Saith Wood, but it must be a Miſtake, or Sacheverel being unduly Commended with what he hath wrote.

ſaith the Continuation of Ward's Hiſtory of Ireland: Where ſee more of Acts of Piety and Charity. Continual p. 110 —— —— Arch-Deaconry of Bangor.

—— —— † Arch-Deaconry of Merioneth.
—— —— Treaſurerſhip.

† See Dr. Morgan in Cheſter-Cathedral.

Whether there are any Canons Reſidentiary in this Church, or not, I am not informed.

—— —— Pre-

Digitized by Google

——— ——— Prebend of Lanvair.
——— ——— Prebend of ‖Hugh Robert.
——— ——— Prebend of John Robins.
——— ——— Prebend of ‡John Hughes.
——— ——— Prebend of David Lloyd.
†† Petty Canonry.
——— ——— Petty Canonry.

‡ Sector Nov. at the Treb. of John Ap Howell, in the Church of St. Asaph.

†† I presume there are some Land therefore Two at least in this Church, Ordained for the Common Service of it. But whether they bear this Title, or not, I cannot tell.

These I take to be All the Dignities, Prebends, &c. in this Church; for I am not fully Informed concerning the Conſtitution of it.

BRISTOL.

Wood, Ath. Vol. I. p. 812. Lloyd, Mem. p. 500. Ther-ſby, under. p. 44. Newc. Rep. Eccleſ. Vol. I. p. 95. 296.

THO. WESTFIELD, D. D. Biſhoprick.
Archdeaconry of St. Alban's } in the Church
And } of St. Paul.
Prebend of Cadington-Major
And
St. Bartholomew the Great, R. London.

He was Born in the Pariſh of St. Mary's, in the City of Ely, Educated at Jeſus-College in Cambridge, and was ſucceſſively Scholar and Fellow of that Houſe. Afterwards he became Rector of † Wood ſaith St. Mary Le Bow; but that is a Miſtake, which probably he was led into by a Corſory View of the Marginal Note in Lloyd, p. 500. For he was only Aſſiſtant for ſome time to Biſhop Felton, at that Living. Vid. loc.

Hornſey near London, Rector of St. † Bartholomew the Great in that City: (To which if Mr. Newcourt be not miſtaken, he was Preſented December 12. 1605. and Admitted December 12. 1607.) and Archdeacon of St. Albans, November 14. 1631. by the Collation of the Biſhop of London. In 1641. he was advanced to this &c. and allowed to keep the Archdeaconry. He accepted of the Biſhoprick in the worſt of Times, as hoping to do ſome Service to the Church, tho' he had Reſus'd the Offer of it which was made him above 20 Years before. In the Beginning of the Rebellion he was Abuſed in the Streets, ſequeſtred from St. Bartholomew, and forced to fly. He died June 25. 1644. which tho' it was before the Actual Diſſolution of the Cathedrals, yet had the Members of very many of them Suffered much at that time; And this Excellent Biſhop having been one of them, I make no Scruple to ſet him down here as a Sufferer in this See (as well as in his other Preferments) becauſe tho' he was not Formally diſpoſſeſt of his Biſhoprick, yet he was ſo (for ſome time at leaſt) in effect: For (beſides that Wood ſaith expreſly, he was a Sufferer for his own, and his Majeſty's Cauſe) it appears that the Profits of his Biſhoprick were, for ſome time, unjuſtly detained from him (tho' afterwards by a Committee of the Rebel-Parliament, ordered to be Reſtored;) and when he came to make his Will, it ran thus: As for my Worldly Goods, which (as the Times now are) I know not well where they be, or what they are; I give and bequeath, &c. In ſo much that he ordered this, as one part of his Epitaph (which he compoſed himſelf before his Death)

Ath. Vol. II. p. 724.

Lloyd, Mem. p. 501.

Senio & Marore confectus.

He was a Perſon of ſuch an unexceptionable Character, that when the Rebel Committee ordered the Profits of his Biſhoprick to be Reſtored, and gave him a Paſs to go to Briſtol, they added in the Latter Part of it, That he was a Perſon of Great Learning and Merit. And indeed he was ſuch an Excellent Preacher, that Biſhop King ſaid, he was born an Orator. He was alſo a Perſon of ſuch admirable Modeſty, that it is ſaid, he never aſcended the Pulpit (even after he had been almoſt 50 Years a Preacher) but he Trembled:

Lloyd, Mem. p. 505. He was nominated one of the Aſſembly of Divines. Scobel, Coll. Pars I. p. 43.

And being Once to Preach before the King at Oxford, he Fainted quite away; when that Excellent Prince was contented patiently to wait till he had Recovered himſelf, and then had from him a Sermon which abundantly Rewarded ſuch a Royal and Chriſtian Condeſcenſion. To which let me add, that another Line of his Epitaph (compoſed, as is before ſaid, by himſelf) was this,

Epiſcoporum Infimus, Peccatorum Primus.

On his Death, his Majeſty was pleaſed to Nominate

See in Wood what it was.

THOMAS HOWELL, D. D. to this Biſhoprick.
* Canonry of Windſor.
St. Stephen's Wallbrook, R. in London,
And Weſt-Horſley, R. in Surrey.

* Which he was allowed to keep in commendam

He was Born in Caermarthenſhire, Educated at Jeſus-College in Oxford, of which he became ſucceſſively Scholar and Fellow: after that, he was made Chaplain to King Charles the Firſt, and Obtained the Preferments above-named: That of St. Stephen's particularly, April 30. 1635. In the Beginning of the Troubles he was firſt Perſecuted from the Living laſt mentioned, and then * Sequeſter'd for his Aſſence, ſaith Mr. Lloyd; which though a moſt unjuſt, was however no Uncommon Practice in thoſe days; after that he was driven by Perſecution out of Weſt-Horſley: Whereupon his Majeſty Nominated him to this Biſhoprick; in which he met with Barbarous Uſage from the Hands of the Rebels. His Palace, which was then covered with Lead, they uncaſed, and ſold the Lead; ſo that he was Expoſed to the Weather by Day and by Night. His Lady they knew to be then in Child-Bed, in which condition it Rained freely upon her. After many other Indignities, they Pulled and Halled him violently out of the Palace, of which they made a Mault-Houſe, and a Mill; for there they Ground, as well as Made, great quantities of Mault for ſeveral Years, as is well Remembred by many yet Living in Briſtol. And ſuitably to this, a Gentleman (who gives me this Information) thinks he hath heard, that they intended to put up a Furnace for Brewing, at the Eaſt-End of the Choire, in the Place of the Altar. In a word, their Uſage towards him was ſuch, that he did not long ſurvive their Cruelty; but being a Perſon of a mild and tender Spirit, died ſoon after. He was accounted, ſaith Wood, a Meek Man, and a Good Preacher, and had in his younger days been a very Painful one. Lloyd adds, That he was a Perſon of great Clearneſs, Candor, Solidneſs, Sweetneſs, and Eloquence; That he had an Inſight into State-Affairs, as well as the more peculiar concerns of his own Function; That though he found Few Well Affected in his Dioceſs at his coming thither, yet he left few Ill Affected in it at his Death; and That he was ſo well Beloved at Briſtol, that 'tis ſaid, after his Deceaſe (which happen'd in 1646,) the City took upon them the Care of his Childrens Education, in Gratitude to the Memory of their moſt Worthy Father.

In Brecknockſhire. Fuller's Worthies, in that County. Wood, Ath. Vol. II. p. 636 Newc. Rep. Eccl. Vol. I. p. 540. Perſec. unſanct. p. 44. Hiſt. Rebell. p. 122.

* It appears by Mr. Newcourt, p. 541. that he Reſigned this Living. Moſt probably 'tis Reſignation. But how this agrees with what Lloyd ſaith of his Sequeſtration, which ſeems to imply a Formal one, I do not ſee.

MATTHEW NICHOLAS, LL. D. Deanery.
Canonry Reſid. of Sarum.
Preb. of the 9th Stall in Weſtminſter.
Preb. of Gillingham Minor in the Church of Sarum.
Dean, R. in Wiltſhire.
Olverton, V. in Glouceſterſhire.
And
St. Nicholas Hoſpital near Sarum.

See alſo one Dr. Nicholas in Hampſhire, and Quære if he be the ſame with this Dean.

This

Digitized by Google

Wood Ath. Vol. I. p. 851.

This Excellent Person was of an Ancient Family in Wiltshire, and Younger Brother to Sir Edward Nicholas; Secretary of State to King Charles I. He was Bred at New-College in Oxford; made Dean of this Church in 1639, on the Death of Dr. Chetwynd; and Prebendary of Westminster in 1642. In the time of the Rebellion He lost all the above-named Preferments; but living to the Restoration, was by his then Majesty, Rewarded with the Deanery of St. Paul's; which high Dignity he Enjoyed but a little while; for he Died the 14th or 15th of August 1661. Besides the Loss of his Spiritual, he was forced to Compound also for his Temporal Estate, and at his Living of Deane, had his Books and Papers Plundered. His Successor there was one Newham, who constantly paid him the Fifths (a thing very Rare in those Times) and therefore in return, Dr. Nicholas made him the same Alowance after he was Re-possessed of the Rectory on the Restoration of his Majesty. I have nothing more to add of him, but that at the time of his Sequestration, he had a Wife and Five Children, one of which was the Excellent Dr. Nicholas the Present Warden of St. Mary's College near Winchester; whose Name I beg leave to mention here with Honour, on account of that great Readiness and Candor, wherewith he Assisted me in this Undertaking.

To which he was Elected July 10. 1660, on a New Grant from his Majesty, and, of consequence, right, to his Books and Papers Plundered. After the Death of Dr. Stuart in 1661, he ought to be look'd on as Equity as the Succeeding Dean of St. Paul's. See what is said about Dr. Stuart in that Church. See also Newcourt Eccles. Vol. I. p. 52. Ao. 1661. He was Collated also to the Prebend of Cadington-Major in St. Paul's. Id. Ibid.

He was permitted to keep (tho' not enjoy) the Parish of Cuckington in Somerset, where he was continually Harrassed with Plunderings and Confinements.

RICHARD FITZHERBERT, B. D. Archdeaconry of Dorset. Chesselbourn, R. in Dorsetshire. And Stock-Trusser, R. in Somersetshire.

He was also several times Imprison'd and Plunder'd; once more particularly by one Colonel Fry, whose Sister the Arch-Deacon's Eldest Son (then a Major in the King's Service) had Married; and she Interceding with her Brother to Spare her Father-in-Law's House, he was so far from having any Regard to her, that instead of it he told her, If he could Catch her own Husband, he would make him an Example to his Brethren the Cavaliers.

Wood Ath. Vol. I. p. 843. Quere if this be the same Dr. Green, who was the Sequestred Minister of Stockton in Wiltshire.

CHRISTOPHER GREEN, D. D. 1st Prebend.

He was, saith Wood, A Learned and Godly Man. He Died in 1658, in the 79th Year of his Age.

There was one Robert Markes of Merton-College, who was Created D. D. at Oxford, among other Suffering Loyalists, in the Year 1642. Probably he was the same Person with this Dr. Markes. If not, 'tis likely he was a Sufferer, and found to be Interred in a Diffinct Article, Wood. Ath. Vol. II. p. 715.

ROBERT MARKES, D. D. 2d Prebend. South Petherton, V. And Merriot, V. } in Somersetshire.

He was likewise Imprisoned, and his Estate, Personal and Real, (as well as Spiritual) was also Sequestred. He was moreover in danger of his Life at Bristol, when Yeoman and Boucher were put to Death there; but it pleased God that he happily made his Escape. The Place of his Imprisonment was the City of Wells, whither he was Carried, being Seized as he came out of Merriot-Church; and though he was under Confinement there but Eleven Days, yet were his Expences, during that time, very Extraordinary; nor was he Released at last on any other Condition, than giving a Bond of 1000 Pounds to Appear before the Parliament. He had a Wife and thirteen Children, and had no Fifths paid him to Support them. His whole Losses, not including his Spirituals, were Computed at 5000 Pounds. He Died before the Restoration; and is said to have been a Person Eminent for his Learning, a most admirable Preacher, and to have born his Sufferings with great Patience.

* I have been otherwise Informed, That he Lived to see the Restoration, and that one Blake, (who had Succeeded in one of his Livings) surrender'd it to him again; but I doubt that is a Mistake.

THOMAS TUCKER, 3d Prebend. He was the Last that appears by the Register to have been Possest of this Prebend before the Confusions; which is my only Authority for setting him down here.

See the Church of Wells, and Quare. Pope's Life of Bishop Ward. p. 19.

JOHN WEEKS, D. D. 4th Prebend. And Deanery of St. Buryan, in Cornwall.

Wood Ath. Vol. II. p. 921.

He had been sometime Chaplain to Arch-Bishop Laud, suffered much for the Royal Cause, survived the Rebellion, and enjoyed his Deanery of St. Buryan again; which after his Death was Annexed for ever to the Bishoprick of Exeter. See something more of him at that Deanery.

GEORGE WILLIAMSON, 5th Prebend. And All-Saints, V. in Bristol.

Wood, Ath. Vol. II. p. 409.

He was Turned out of his Vicaridge by Nath. Fiennes, and succeeded in it by the Famous Mr. Tombs. He lived to be Restored; and was, as is said, A Reverend and Pious Man.

RICHARD TOWGOOD, B. D. 6th Prebend. And St. Nicholas, V. in this City.

Wood, Ath. Vol. II. p. 548. Where also see what he Wrote.

This Excellent Person was Born near Bruton in Somersetshire, and Educated at Oriel-College in Oxford. He was sometime Master of the School in the College-Green at Bristol, and thence removed to the Vicaridge of All-Saints: After that he had the Grant of this Prebend; but the Confusions permitted him not be Actually Installed until the Restoration. He was Sequestered from his Vicaridge of St. Nicholas, for his Loyalty and Firm Adherence to the Royal Cause, Feb. 20th 1645, by the standing Committee in that City. The Order for his Sequestration was in these Words: For his great Disaffection to the Parliament of England and their Proceedings, which in his Printing, Preaching and Praying, he hath Expressed; as by Examination and Oath is proved against him. Nor were they content to Dispossess him of his Living only, but several times committed him to Prison also. Once more particularly his Confinement was more than usually severe, there being above Fifty Prisoners in the same Room, Fettered in Couples like so many Dogs, and forced to discharge the Necessities of Nature all in a Corner of the same dismal Apartment. Nor did their Malice stop even here; for he was Condemned to be shot to Death; and it was not without some Difficulty that the Order for it was Reversed. At another time, when he was Imprisoned in the Castle of Bristol, his Sentence was, To Remain there Without Fire or Light, or the Allowance of any Friend to Visit him. And to Compleat his Sufferings, All these Hardships, and many more, were Inflicted on him by those very Persons, who not long before had frequently made large Protestations of extraordinary Love and Kindness to him. When he Obtained his Liberty, he Retired to Wotton-Underedge in Gloucestershire, and there, after several Years Silence, at the Perswasion on of Arch-Bishop Usher, Re-assumed the Exercise of his Ministerial Office; which he continued at King's-Wood Chappel in that Parish; sometime after which he was Presented to the Living of Torsworth in the same County, where he continued till the Restauration; and then, being earnestly Invited by a Letter from the Parishioners of St. Nicholas, Subscribed by above One Hundred Hands, he was content to Re-possess himself of that Living, without seeking for any other Preferment; though he could never Boast afterwards of a suitable Return from his Parishioners. At the same time also he was Confirmed in his Prebend, and in 1667, was made Dean of this Church, on the Promotion of Dr. Glenham to the See of St. Asaph, being then Chaplain to King Charles II, in which Capacity he had also served his Royal Father. On the Death of Dr. Ironside in 1671, he had a Tender made him of the Bishoprick; but he Refused it, and Died April the 21st, 1683, in the 85th Year of his Age; having been Sixty Years a Preacher in Bristol. He was a very Learned Person, generally Esteemed both for That, and his Extraordinary Piety. He had also a good Memory, and great solidity and strength of Judgment; and Recommended the Doctrine which he Preached, as well by the Admirable Example of a Holy and Religious Life, as by Learned and Cogent Arguments. He hath a Worthy Son of Both his Names, now Prebendary of this Church; to whom I owe not only Those, but also several other Notices relating to this Work.

Digitized by Google

There is a Person of both those Names, who is one of the Sufferers; Vicars of Hereford-Cathedral. Quære if he was the same Person with this Mr. Read.

JAMES READ, Minor Canonry. And Little St. Austin's, R. in this City.

He was an Honest, Good Man, but never bred a Scholar, and so was only a Reading Minister. He had been Minor Canon Fifty Years, and was near an Hundred Years Old.

* ——— ——— Minor Canonry.

* I am not Informed of the Number of the Minor Canons in this Church, but I presume I may take it for Granted, that they were Two as the last, if not more. Thus, I suppose, is the whole Number of Dignities, &c. in this Church; and if I mistake not, there is no Chanter, Chancellor of the Church, Treasurer, or such like Dignity belongs to it.

CANTERBURY.

WILLIAM LAUD, D. D. Archbishoprick. The Blessed Martyr. He was Revised, Calumniated, Imprisoned in the Tower four Years, put under Sequestration, both for his Temporals and Spirituals, most Unjustly Accused, and contrary to all Law, at last Sentenced even to the Halter: But on his Repeated Petitions (at first Rejected) he had the Favour of the Axe granted him by his Bloody Murtherers. He witnessed with his Blood to the Truth of the Church's and his Majesty's Cause, on Tower-Hill, Jan. 10, 1644.

I chuse rather to refer the Reader to the well-known Volumes of his Life and Diary, for an Account of him, than to Interrupt this List by entring upon the Subject of his Wonderful Parts, Learning, Piety, Government, Noble Designs, for the Church and Clergy, Publick Spirit, Benefactions, and most cursed Oppressions, Sufferings and Barbarous Murther, (Unparallel'd in any part of the Christian World) in which 'tis impossible to be short. Only I cannot forbear to subjoin his Character, as given by the Noble Lord Clarendon in his incomparable History.

Vol. I. p. 69

